Genuine Scranton COAL
The Standard Anthracite.
SOLD BY THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office Bridge St. Tel. 293 & 693

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 1, 1905. NO. 256

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL LEAVENS

You can try it. FREE.

Every mother who sends us her address on a post card will receive a generous free sample—enough for eight meals—of

Nestlé's Food

LEEMING, MILES & CO.,
MONTREAL.

Will Build Into Canada.

Albany, N. Y., March 1.—An agreement of consolidation of the New York and Albany Railroad Company, capital $5,000,000, with the Schenectady and Albany Railroad Company, capital $150,000, and the New York Northern Railroad Company, capital $5,000,000, forming the New York Canadian Pacific Railway Company, was filed with the Secretary of State here yesterday. These companies hold franchises to construct a line of railroad from New York City to Canada, passing through Albany and the Adirondack region.

Fruit From South Africa.

Ottawa, March 1.—The peaches and plums served at Earl Grey's Paardeberg dinner Monday night came from South Africa. They were sent by Mr. Alfred Beit, the well-known millionaire, especially for the occasion.

Sidetracks Fiscal Plans.

London, March 1.—The political situation is undergoing some rather interesting developments, and there are several indications of the intention of the Government to sidetrack the fiscal controversy.

Emigrants Booking Rapidly.

London, March 1.—(C. A. P.)—Advance booking of emigrants for Canada is already very large. Two Canadian liners are fully booked up till May for second-class passengers.

DON'T MISS THIS!
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

Mr. Sifton is Dissatisfied.

Resignation is Now Likely in the Premier's Hands.

Reason for His Action is that He is Not Favorable to the Education Clause in the Autonomy Bills—Sir Wilfred Laurier Would Neither Affirm Nor Deny the Report Last Night.

Ottawa, March 1.—The resignation of Hon. Clifford Sifton will be in the Premier's hands to-day, if indeed it is not there already. That is the direction in which matters were shaping last night. The reason for Mr. Sifton's action is that he is dissatisfied with the education clause in the autonomy bills.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when seen at 6 o'clock, would neither affirm nor deny the report. "If Mr. Sifton had resigned I should have to make a statement to the House," was all the Prime Minister would say.

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

Peter White of Renfrew Makes an Accusation—Mr. Fisher's Seed Bill Stands for Third Reading.

Ottawa, March 1.—Four petitions against the Separate Schools clause in the bills erecting the new Provinces were presented in the House yesterday. Two were presented by Dr. Sproule, one by Mr. Bennett and one by Dr. Barr.

The following bills were introduced and read a first time:

Respecting the Albert Railway and Navigation Company.—Mr. Turriff.

Respecting the Huron and Erie Loan and Savings Company.—Mr. Calvert.

Respecting the Bay of Quinte Railway Company.—Mr. Harty.

Mr. Fisher's Seed Bill.

The House then went into committee on Mr. Fisher's seed bill. In the course of the discussion Mr. Fisher said that the Seed Commissioner of the Agricultural Department is a director in the Canadian Seed Growers' Association—a fact which was severely commented upon by Mr. [illegible]kshutt and other members. The bill finally was put through committee, and stands for a third reading.

The bill to legalize the transfer of Mr. Justice Killam from the Supreme Court to the Railway Commission was put through after an amendment by Mr. Lennox to strike out the retiring allowance clause had been defeated by 93 to 17.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's bill to compel all public works costing over $5,000 to be let by public tender after approval by the Governor-in-Council, was read a third time and passed.

Franking Privilege Abused.

Mr. Ames of Montreal brought up a grievance in the shape of a gross abuse of the members' franking privilege, by which dental supply circulars were being sent out without payment of postage.

Sir William Mulock, in the course of a lengthy reply, attributed the trouble to ignorance of new members and suggested the abolition of the rubber stamp so that members would be compelled to write their frank.

Mr. White of Renfrew observed that the franking privilege had been abused since last session by being used to distribute free through the mails party campaign literature.

Sir William Mulock hotly challenged the accuracy of this allegation, declaring that no literature had been sent out with a Minister's frank since the session.

Mr. White replied that had he expected this denial of his statement, he would have been prepared to produce copies of campaign literature which he had in his possession bearing the frank of the Postmaster-General. If it had been put there by an unauthorized person, the act was tantamount to perjury.

The discussion on the franking abuse lasted until 6 o'clock, and the evening sitting was spent in Committee of Supply.

Will Pass the Senate.

Ottawa, March 1.—The bill to legalize the Union Labor Label will go up to the Senate with the amendment that the privileges of the act shall apply only to incorporated trades unions. In this shape it is altogether likely that the measure will pass the Upper House.

W. F. MACLEAN SCORES.

Gets Traffic Interchange Clause Inserted in a Telephone Bill.

Ottawa, March 1.—When the Commons Railway Committee met yesterday morning, the bill for the incorporation of the Northwest Telephone Company came up. Mr. Maclean of Toronto moved for an insertion of a clause providing that the Company be compelled to give telephonic connection with any other Telephone Company or individual user of a telephone. He desired to provide for an interchange of telephonic traffic. The amendment he moved to insert contained a penalty clause providing for a fine of $100 for violation of this agreement. Mr. Turriff, who had charge of the bill, said it would not be fair to impose such restriction on an individual company when there was not a general law imposing like restrictions on other companies. After a desultory discussion, Mr. Maclean's motion was carried. The bill itself was reported with this amendment.

Canada Atlantic Absorption.

What appeared to be an innocent pair of bills, authorizing the absorption of the Canada Atlantic Railway by the Grand Trunk, developed a good deal of criticism and opposition in the Railway Committee of the House yesterday morning. Representatives of bondholders of two small branches, and of the City of Ottawa, presented amendments requiring the new owners to live up to certain obligations of the old company. The bill finally stood until March 16.

Fire at Aurora.

Aurora, March 1.—Shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday morning fire was discovered in the moulding shop of J. Fleury's Sons' Agricultural Works here, and for a time it looked as if the entire works would be destroyed. The fire was confined to the moulding shop, and the loss will be in the neighborhood of $3,000 or $4,000.

Protest From Western Baptists.

Winnipeg, March 1.—The Baptists of the west, through A. P. McDiarmid, president of the convention, and J. F. McIntyre, secretary, have formulated a strong protest to the Dominion against the Separate Schools clause in the autonomy bills, because:

1. Invasion of Provincial rights, as every Province should be free to legislate for itself on educational matters.
2. It violates the principles conscientiously entertained by Baptists, equal rights and separation of church and state.
3. It is a scheme that will provoke discord and tend to prevent the union of all classes under the Public School system, and concludes: "The Confederation cannot be sound in which the elements lack the first essential of harmony."

Monument to Shakespeare.

London, March 1.—A large and representative gathering at the Mansion House yesterday, under the presidency of Lord Mayor Pound, appointed a committee to organize a scheme for an international monument to Shakespeare, to be erected in London, the London County Council having agreed to provide a suitable site. The committee is headed by the Princess Louise (Duchess of Argyll).

Ship on Fire.

Crescent City, Cal., March 1.—The steel ship Oregon, running between Portland and San Francisco, is on fire off Crescent City harbor, and her passengers have been landed here by the steamer Delnorte. The Oregon, which was loaded with a cargo of miscellaneous freight, caught fire Monday afternoon. The cargo has been badly damaged.

Harper Surprises Surgeons.

Chicago, Ill., March 1.—President W. R. Harper of the University of Chicago, who recently underwent an operation that revealed cancer of the colon, yesterday sat up in bed at the Presbyterian Hospital, dictating letters and disposing of considerable business. The surgeons and hospital authorities are surprised by Dr. Harper's display of will power.

Hit by a Train.

Cumberland, Md., March 1.—A Baltimore and Ohio train last night struck four Wabash employes near Evitt's Creek, instantly killing three and slightly injuring the fourth.

Hauls Down the Flag.

Victoria, B. C., March 1.—Esquimalt Naval Station was formally abandoned yesterday when Commodore Goodrich hauled down his flag.

Student Strike Ends.

Berlin, March 1.—The student strike at the Hanover Technical Institute has ended.

Invalid Son Burned.

Peterboro, March 1.—About half past 1 yesterday afternoon fire destroyed the residence of County Councillor Dennis Maloney, near Warsaw, in Douro Township. Mr. Maloney's only son, an invalid, lost his life in the flames. Little furniture was saved. Mrs. Maloney, her son and a nephew were the only ones at home when the fire broke out. It originated from a chimney.

3 Days
Whitewear Sale
Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

We have just purchased from one of the largest and best manufacturers of Ladies' Whitewear in Canada their entire range of WHITEWEAR SAMPLES.

The range of several hundred pieces will include:—

Gowns, Skirts, Drawers, Corset Covers and Chemise.

These were bought at a price that will enable us to offer them to you at a saving of 1/3 less than regular values.

We Invite Comparison.

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

OUR Whitewear Sale
COMMENCES
Wednesday, March 1st.

On this date and continuing until the 15th we place on sale our annual display of ladies' Whitewear.

Once more we have achieved a triumph over our previous efforts and our sale will open on Wednesday with BETTER VALUES, DAINTIER STYLES and WIDER PRICE RANGE than ever before.

Abundance of dainty Laces, Embroideries, Insertions, Fine Soft Cambrics Nainsooks and Lawns have combined to make garments beautiful to a degree you would not believe possible without evident proof.

With all their beauty each garment is coupled with a price which is moderate indeed for the value represented.

A complete page would not suffice to describe each individual style. We have chosen a few to give you some idea of the savings possible.

Read the list and come when the garments are freshest and the assortment most complete—on Wednesday.

CORSET COVERS

—Lonsdale Corset Cover, neatly made with plain back and full front—buttoned—sizes 32 to 40. Sale price 9c
—Lonsdale Cambric Corset Cover—full front—neck trimmed with val lace. Sale price 14c
—Fine Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and armholes, trimmed with cotton, torchon lace and baby ribbon. Sale price 19c
—Extra quality Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and sleeves trimmed with wide Torchon Lace. Sale price 25c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Cover with skirt—front trimmed with two rows wide Torchon Insertion, neck and sleeves trimmed with wide lace, beading and silk baby ribbon. Sale price 35c
—Fine Lonsdale Cover, full front—shaped skirt—trimmed with three horizontal rows of wide val insertion—neck and sleeves trimmed with wide val lace, beading and silk baby ribbon, pearl buttons. Sale price 58c

12 1-2c LAWN 8 1-2c

In connection with our Whitewear Sale we offer :—
—300 yards of Fine Soft Lawn—free from dressing, 40 inches wide—note the width—an excellent 12½c quality. Sale price 8½c
—We also offer the balance of our Sheeting and Pillow Cotton Remnants—some slightly soiled—at 10% off Remnant prices.

DRAWERS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Drawers with deep hem. Sale price 19c
—Lonsdale Finished Umbrella Drawers with 8 inch Lawn frill, trimmed with hemstitched tucks. Sale price 25c
—Fine White Cotton Umbrella Drawers with 7 inch Lawn Frill, trimmed with wide Torchon Lace and Insertion, very dainty. Sale price 35c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with 7 inch flounce of Lawn, embroidery and rows of fagot stitching. Sale price 48c
—Extra Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with wide flounce of alternate rows of wide Torchon Insertion and Lawn, edged with val lace. Sale price 59c. Others up to $2.00.

SKIRTS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Skirt with 9 inch flounce of Lonsdale Cambric trimmed with narrow tucks. Sale price 45c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with wide tucked Lawn Flounce, edged with 4 inch frill of fine Torchon Lace. Sale price 65c
—Fine Cambric Skirt with 18 inch Lawn, frill trimmed with 3 rows of wide Torchon Insertion, edged with 4 inch Lace Frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with 18 inch flounce of alternate rows of Lawn and Torchon Insertion, 2 inches wide—all edged with wide lace frill—Lawn dust frill. Sale price $1.75

NIGHT GOWNS

—Gown of good quality Cotton, trimmed round sleeves and neck with lawn frills. Sale price 39c
—Fine Lonsdale Gown with yoke of narrow hemstitched tucks, edged with embroidery—neck and sleeves trimmed with embroidery frill. Sale price 68c
—Lonsdale Cambric Gown with deep yoke of narrow tucks and wide embroidery frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Gown with narrow yoke of fagot stitching and lawn—half sleeves trimmed with fagotting, beading and baby ribbon—new and dainty. Sale price $1.25

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

NEW DRESS GOODS

To appreciate the new Spring Dress Materials we are showing, they must be seen.

A cordial invitation is extended you to come in and see the very latest coloring and materials to be worn during the coming season. No trouble to show. No trouble to learn prices, because every piece is marked in plain figures.

Black and Colored, all Silk, Silk and Wool and All Wool Fabrics in great variety.

All Wool Mohair Sicilians

In pretty Fine Stripes and Checks for Shirt Waist Suits.

Silk Warp Crepes and Eoliennes

French Venetians and Broadcloths

in all the new shadings.

Cashmeres. - - - - Canvas Voiles.

Fine Check Silk and Wool Suitings.

Goods representing the best, from the leading makers of the world.

Butterick's Early Spring Patterns

are now in stock, showing many new styles in Shirt Waist Suits and separate Skirts.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Look at Your Boots--Then Look at Gorman's.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK

$5.00 Values For $3.50

Just now we are clearing out several broken lots in Men's Fine Boots—Here is what they are:

They are made of Fine Vici Kid and Valour Calf—lace and Blucher cut.

CORRECT in style—great COMFORT GIVERS—EXCELLENT WEARERS.

The regular price is

$5.00 now $3.50

SEE WINDOW DISPLAY.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

FREE TRADE DYING.

The report made some time ago by the Chamberlain Tariff Commission on the iron and steel trade is shortly to be followed by a report dealing with another branch of British industry, which has had to encounter conditions somewhat similar to those met by the iron and steel industry both at home and abroad. The textile trade has not prospered in recent years If the report of the commission dealing with this industry is as complete as that in which the iron industry was discussed the reasons will be made plainly apparent. The commission does not pretend to be a protectionist body, yet it appears to be fairly well imbued with protectionist ideas. In its report on the iron industry it found that it was the high tariff system of foreign countries, combined with the British policy of free imports which supplies the principal strength of the export organizations of the rivals of the British iron industry. It therein recognized the existence of the exporting power of protected industries. Furthermore it demonstrated that the process of dumping was not merely a temporary expedient, unprofitable to those countries practicing it, and therefore certain to be abandoned. On the contrary, it maintained and proved that in these days full occupation is so important a factor in economical production that the sale of the surplus over and above local requirements at or below cost may increase the profits derivable from the home market. Thus the position of one British firm is given. "In 1902 that firm produced 114,000 tons, at a cost per ton of £4 15s. This was sold at an average price of £5 per ton, netting a profit of £28,500. The full capacity of these works is 152,000 tons, and had the firm been enabled to manufacture this amount it would have reduced the cost of manufacture by 5s, or to £4 10s per ton. The extra production of 38,000 tons could have been sold at cost price, and yet, on account of the all-round reduction in the cost of production the firm's profit would have been £57,000, instead of £28,500. With home competition keen is it not likely that a good proportion of that £57,000 would have found its way into the pockets of the consumers? How much would that extra production of 38,000 tons have meant to British labor? Only that this one firm would have paid out in wages £150,000 more than it did pay. In the United States and Germany this condition of affairs is realized and encouraged. The British system of free imports enables the iron manufacturers of these two countries to take advantage of the handiest and best market, the market which, under normal conditions, should be impossible to them, but which they are enabled to enter because their sales are made at cost, or even under cost. It gives Great Britain cheap iron — when the foreigners are willing to sell, but it would be strange if, on the whole, it did not increase the cost because of the unsettling effect upon the home industry.

The commission goes further, however, than this in combatting the theories of the free importers. On the effect of a tariff on prices its views are sound. The general view of those consulted was that prices would certainly not rise to the full level of the duties imposed, and that such rise as was experienced would not be permanent, because the shutting off of the importation of dumped goods would result in British works producing to their full capacity and the establishment of new works. Prices might then be brought down below their present level.

Most keen observers, we believe, will agree with the Montreal Gazette when it says: "That the day will come when Great Britain will embrace a protective policy is much more certain than it is that we shall see the time when the fiscal policies of the world's great industrial nations will be placed upon a free trade basis. Yet it was prophesied that the adoption of free trade by Great Britain would mean its general acceptance. A more melancholy failure has never been recorded."

CLEARING OF FURS.

Quick & Robertson are offering the balance of their fur coat stock at greatly reduced prices. Here's a fur coat opportunity, that you should not let get away from you, with at least two-thirds of the winter weather staring you in the face. Take a look

The road to failure is the one that is full of ants.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Beware the Ides of March. Also the winds.

• • •

Spring makes its official appearance to-day, but it may be as well to keep the snow shovel handy for a few days yet.

• • •

Soon St. Patrick's day will be here
When we'll all wear the Irishman's token,
And we hope then to whistle and sing with good cheer
'Cause the backbone of winter is broken.

• • •

A Calgary minister has placed a large receiver in front of his pulpit, so that members of his congregation who do not attend church can listen to him by telephone. The idea seems to have its good points. At all events a man on the end of a telephone could go to sleep without the preacher seeing him.

• • •

They had a million and a half fire at Hot Springs, which must have made the springs hotter than ever.

• • •

Hicks, the weather sharp, says we will have a tremendous blizzard on the 21st of March. I have arrived at the conclusion that all weather prophets are falsifiers by the watch, and old man Hicks is no more reliable than the rest of 'em.

• • •

Experts said that it was the snow last winter which caused the high water in the lake and bay last summer. If the same rule applies this winter we may as well be getting ready to have the band concerts somewhere else other than Queen Victoria Park.

• • •

They are still objecting to vertical writing in the Hamilton schools. It takes a long time to kill a fad in some places. In Belleville, now, that form of silliness was stamped out long ago.

• • •

Quite a little breeze has been raised in Hamilton over the question of cement. It seems that the City Council wanted a large quantity of it and advertised for tenders. The lowest tenderer was a U. S. firm, who agreed to deliver it at 2 1-2 cents a barrel less than a Canadian firm. Now the question arises, should the Council give the contract to the lowest tenderer, or should they, as patriotic Canadians, pay 2 1-2 cents a barrel more and hand over the contract to one of their own countrymen. It's none of our business, of course, but it strikes me that a man who, for the sake of 2 1-2 cents, turns down his own countryman, in favor of a foreigner, can hardly claim that his patriotism is up to specifications.

• • •

It is to be hoped that there will be a representative meeting of our citizens in the Council chamber tonight, to look after the Old Boys' reunion. Don't leave all the work for a few people to do. Get in the game and help make the occasion one of the best and most enjoyable in the history of Belleville. There's plenty of time to do it, plenty of opportunity to do it, and plenty of people to do it if they will only take a live interest and push the thing along.

• • •

Some surprise is excited over the time it takes Admiral Rojestvensky to make the trip from the Baltic to the Far East. He was scheduled to be there weeks ago. Admiral Togo has got tired of waiting for him and has started out to hunt him up. If he succeeds in finding him he will courteously escort him to Tokio or else drive him into some neutral port where he can remain in safety until the war ends.

• • •

The most startling effect of the present abnormal conditions in the butter market of Montreal is the prospect of an importation of New Zealand butter from Liverpool. It is said that at present Montreal prices the goods can pay freight and six cents per pound duty and still leave a slight margin of profit.

• • •

City Assessor Reeves' exposition of the New Assessment Act, in another column, can be read with profit by everybody. Mr. Reeves is to be commended for thus endeavoring to clearly place the matter before our citizens.

• • •

The Burk's Falls Arrow comes near hitting the bull's-eye when it discourses thus: "One fault of the excellent public school system is the introduction of too many branches of knowledge for the limited time that most of the scholars can attend school. One of the studies that might be blotted off this schedule without detriment is drawing. If a boy or girl has a natural taste for it they are sure to become proficient without the branch of initiation in the public school. The young man that gained the gold medal offered by the Lieutenant-Governor for skill in drawing was Roy Cockburn of Beaverton, who was self taught and never acquired a knowledge of art in the public school. Men skilled in the business like Bengough and McConnell never gained their taste for their skill in any public school. So far as the vast majority of pupils are concerned the drawing lessons are a waste of time which might be profitably occupied in some branch of knowledge more essential for every day life."

• • •

We are requested to publish the text of the petition presented to the Board of Education by the pupils of Mr. Luton's class in the High School on Monday night, and do so with pleasure. Here it is:

"We the undersigned wish the Board of Education of the City of Belleville to retain Mr. Luton as a teacher in the Belleville High School by any means they deem advisable. We feel that Mr. Luton's place would be very hard to fill. We would regret very much to see the Board let him go."

The Intelligencer's comments, be it understood, had no reference to the petition presented to the Board, but to the one which was at one time on the tapis, according to Mr. Hudson, and which contemplated asking the Board to depose the present Head Master. We thought at the time, and still think, that that was a serious breach of discipline, which should be condemned.

• • •

That little boy who was killed in London was not the victim of a hockey stick. The hockey stick does not kill all the boys and young men.

• • •

Hon. Clif. Sifton has resigned. There's a merry old time coming for Sir Wilfrid.

• • •

Kuropatkin claims to have gotten the beat of the Japs, but he's going to retreat, anyhow. Force of habit, perhaps.

• • •

Kingston people, once upon a time, were rather gay on the subject of Belleville's street railway. The smile seems to be on our side now.

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCausland Bros.

Bakers and Confectioners.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Rev. A. M. Hubly is confined to the house by illness.

Miss Frankie Wilson, who has been very ill, is able to be out again.

Mrs. Meudell has gone to Preston Springs for a few weeks.

Miss Celina Frechette is suffering from an attack of la grippe.

Miss Emma De Mille has returned, after spending two weeks in Trenton.

Mr. Thos. Ritchie has returned home from a trip to the Old Country.

Miss Helen Butler, who has been visiting at Lacombe, has returned to the city.

Miss Jewel O'Keefe entertained a number of friends at her home last evening.

Rev. Mr. R. Wallace, of the Marchmont Home, will leave for England via Halifax on Saturday next.

The condition of Mrs. Jos. Parker, who has been seriously ill for some time, shows a slight improvement.

Mr. R. McTaggart, who has been visiting relatives in the city and vicinity for some time, returned to-day to his home in Idaho.

At the Quinte: J. Bronsden, F. E. Dodd, A. McArthur, A. J. Watson, H. Leach, W. McDonald, J. M. Green, E. Phillips, B. Budd, F. Northcote, C. A. Archer, G. Booth, Toronto; A. E. Perry, R. McKenzie, G. Mitchell, A. Robertson, R. R. Chamberlain, G. Pinkey, Montreal; J. Roberts, Port Hope; J. Siff, Chicago; A. Flostroy, F. Conklin, J. S. Williams, New York; A. Turner, A. E. Pond, Boston; W. B. Irwin, Peterboro; A. Moffatt, Weston; T. J. Naylor, Deseronto; J. A. Luton, Campbellford; Rev. T. Dowdell, Selby; C. McRae, Hamilton.

The breath of suspicion is often flavored with cloves.

With "G" Company.

EVERYDAY LIFE OF THE R.C.R. —GRAPHIC STORY OF SCENES AND INCIDENTS WITH THE FIRST CONTINGENT.

The fact that the anniversary of Paardeberg fell on Monday last makes it timely to note that one of the best histories of the doings of the First Contingent in South Africa was written by the son of a minister now resident in this city—Rev. A. M. Hubly. The author of the little book was Russell C. Hubly, who, being Principal of Hampton, N. B., Superior School when the war broke out, resigned his position and enlisted in "G" Company of the R.C.R. Like many others, the young patriot went through the campaign against Cronje unscathed, only to be overtaken at Bloemfontein with illness which necessitated his being invalided to England. whence he was sent home to Canada. Mr. Hubly's illness too the shape of a severe form of bronchitis, which settled in his right lung. Nothing that medical aid could do was of any avail, and the young soldier died, a martyr to his love for the Union Jack and what it stands for. During his illness, at the solicitation of friends, Mr. Hubly wrote the little book of which this article treats, namely, "G" Company; Everyday Life of the R.C.R." The book is written from the view point of a man in the ranks, and is a graphic account of what the author saw with his own eyes and heard with his own ears from Quebec to Bloemfontein. The battle of Paardeberg is described in a highly realistic way, and one feels inclined to drop a tear to the memory of poor "Pat" McCreary, stretcher bearer of "G" Company, who, after the fight was over, insisted on going out into the darkness to make sure that none of the wounded had been overlooked. He wandered into a Boer trench and was shot to death. "Greater love hath no man than this." People who were interested in the South African war —and what Canadian was not — will find both pleasure and profit in reading this little book, written by the son of a clergyman, the principal of a High School, and — a private in Canada's First Contingent. No more interesting chapter will be found in the book than that which describes the Royal Canadians' officers; there is a beautiful pen picture of the Colonel and his second in command. "Good Old Larry." The closing words of the book may well close this notice of it, and on reading them one can understand the feelings which prompted the young New Brunswicker to leave home comforts and his profession to go to the war as a private soldier in defence of the Union Jack:

"And you know all the rest. But after this don't say that loyalty is dead in Canada. I tell you that the Anglo-Boer war called forth the latent fire and crystallized the love which Canada bears to "Old England." If you doubt it, you are no Briton, and you have no part in Canada.

"Loyalty has been taught in our schools during the past year in a most gratifying manner. I know of no school house where the Union Jack does not float from its staff on the grounds. But I do know of many and many a one where the room is bright with bunting, and eager faces and sparkling eyes attest to love of country. Never was such a wave of patriotism felt in our land as stirs our hearts to-day. And never shall a stain be placed upon the Good Old Flag, which in South Africa was dyed a deeper hue by the mingled blood of England's offspring, so long as there be men in Canada or mothers to rear them."

Married in Sidney.

A very quiet home wedding occurred to-day at the residence of Mr. John H. Murdoff, 3rd concession of Sidney, when his only daughter, Miss Cora, was married to Mr. Luther A. Townsend, of Thurlow. Rev. R. M. Pope, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony. The bride was very prettily attired in a travelling suit of navy blue cloth. After partaking of a wedding breakfast, the happy couple took the train for Montreal. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Townsend will reside on the Townsend homestead in the 7th concession of Thurlow.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure E. W. Grove's signature is on each box 25c.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fine and cold to-day, and on Thursday.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m.	3
.2 m.	24
2 p.m.	26
3 p.m.	26

BANANAS
PINEAPPLES
BITTER ORANGES
VALENCIA ORANGES
NAVEL ORANGES
MESSINA LEMONS

Jas. Wallace & Co.

The One "Sense"

That we all most desire to carry to the end of life is "eyesight."

Be wise, therefore—husband it now for "the evening of life."

We most confidently recommend our expert optician to those requiring any "eye help."

The very latest approved appliances for testing, in the hands of one having many years of daily practical experience, together with reasonable charges are inducements which you will find well worthy consideration.

An examination by our optician is NOT FREE, but being thorough, is absolutely reliable.

Angus McFee

'Phone 128.

The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139

Schlitz Milwaukee Lager....

The Famous Lager Beer. In pt. bottles $1.60 per dz.

• • •

WHITE ROCK LITHIA WATER

In pint bottles.

• • •

VIN ST. MICHEL

A Superior Tonic Wine.

• • •

Reliable Wines and Liquors For Medicinal Purposes.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Fine Teas—packed in lead packets at 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c and 60c lb. Fragrant and Delicious.

Extra value at 30c lb.—4 lbs. for $1.00.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
General Insurance Agent,
Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

Celery contains sulphur and helps to ward off rheumatism.

• • •

Success always stands for itself. Failure needs no explanation.

—TO MAKE ROOM FOR—

SPRING - STOCK

We have reduced the prices on all odd lines of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, Trunks and Valises.

VERMILYEA & SON

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Canadians in London will find the Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 15 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Young man eighteen to twenty that has some knowledge of hats. Apply to S. A. HYMAN & CO. 27-3td

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

Residence for sale. — Brick dwelling, most desirable situation, on Charles St. Eight rooms, including bath-room, twelve fruit trees, good barn, well, cistern, gas, waterworks, connection with Charles St. sewer. Apply D. V. SINCLAIR. 1,2&1tw

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course —Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

Tucker Balm

Just received a big shipment of this old and tried household remedy.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS' Hair Grower

Grew this Hair

Before Using

After Using

The late Rev. Fletcher Sutherland, father of the Seven Sutherland Sisters, who at one time was entirely bald, after using his discovery, the SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS HAIR GROWER, had a beautiful growth of hair.

Pictures showing the correct representation before and after using

For Sale at all Druggists, two sizes, 50c and $1.00 per bottle

Seven Sutherland Sisters, Sole Proprietors
Canadian Office, 256 Yonge Street, Toronto
J. H. BAILEY, Foreign Manager

Recommended and Sold by "

D. M. Waters, Belleville.

PIES.

Fresh Pies out in time for your dinner, made on large 9 inch heavy paper plates, so there will be no charge for plates.

Lemon 20c, Mince 20c, Pumpkin 15c, Apple 15c, Meat Pies 5c each ICE CREAM EVERY DAY.

Ed. F. Dickens.
—CATERER

AN HEIRESS SHOT DEAD.

SHE HAD REFUSED TO MARRY A CHICAGO POLICEMAN.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 28. — Miss Mary Catherine Mulveli, an heiress, was murdered yesterday by Daniel Herman, policeman, whose love she had refused The crime was committed in the most fashionable part of Michigan boulevard at a time when the thoroughfare was crowded.

Herman escaped and to-night committed suicide by shooting himself through the brain with the same revolver with which he had killed Miss Mulvell.

The young woman was returning from St. James' Parochial School, where frequently she acted as a sub-teacher, when she met Herman, who evidently had been waiting for her. After a few words Herman suddenly drew the girl close to him and fired three times. One bullet passed through her brain, another tore off a finger on her right hand, while the third missed the girl altogether.

Herman became infatuated with Miss Mulville through hearing her play at St. James' Catholic Church, where she was organist, and he had for a long time urged her to marry him. Miss Mulvilie had refused him repeatedly, and had told several of her friends a short time ago that he had threatened to kill her unless she married him. She said she feared that she might meet Herman, who followed her wherever she went.

Herman has been a policeman for several years.

Herman is supposed to be a member of a Toronto family of the same name. Last night before his suicide was known the police there received a description of Herman with a request to be on the lookout for him, as it was thought he would make for Toronto.

Fodder Cheese.

The Montreal Produce Merchants' Association sends the following open letter to the dairymen of Canada:

"Gentlemen,—The Montreal Produce Merchants' Association being solicitous to promote the interests of all engaged in the dairy industry in Canada, whether as producer or merchant, desires to repeat and emphasize the objections expressed in former circulars, viz.:—That the manufacture of fodder cheese is detrimental to the interests of all and should be discontinued.

"The experience of the past has shown that for the most part cheese made from fodder milk is not of a quality good enough to enhance the reputation of Canadian cheese or increase its consumption by the British public. Further, it has been found that on the average the quality of cheese produced during our grass season is about as much as can be consumed at prices profitable to the producer.

"The Association appreciates the fact that the disposal of milk produced before the opening and after the close of the cheese season is an important question, but in view of the improved methods introduced in the manufacture of butter in recent years, and the superior quality now produced from fodder milk with increased demand at remunerative prices, the Association confidently recommends that wherever possible butter should be manufactured instead of cheese during the winter season, or say from the 15th November to the 1st of May."

The Production and Care of Milk in Winter.

Canadian dairymen appear to have lessened their efforts in the production of winter milk; consequently we have a shortage and a period of high prices. Not many are in a position to avail themselves of the good prices now offered for dairy products of all kinds, and especially for fine butter.

ESSENTIALS FOR ECONOMICAL PRODUCTION.

(1) Fresh cows. It is unsatisfactory trying to produce milk with a herd of cows most of which have been milking during the past summer. At least one-half the cows should freshen between the first of November and the last day of February.

(2) A moderately warm, clean, light, well-ventilated stable is a great aid in the economical production of winter milk. Cold and badly ventilated stables mean added cost for feed.

(3) Cheap, succulent feed is needed. This is best got by providing corn silage, mangels, clover hay and suitable meal. A very good ration for a cow giving 40 pounds of milk daily or making 1 1-2 to 2 pounds of butter per day is 30 to 40 pounds corn silage, 30 pounds mangels, 8 to 10 pounds clover hay, 4 pounds bran, 3 pounds ground oats, and 1 pound oil-cake. If possible cut the hay, pulp the roots and mix the bulky feed together for a few hours before feeding. Add the meal to the bulky part at the time of feeding. The foregoing amounts may be divided into two portions and one-half be given to each cow night and morning. The cows should be fed regularly and each animal should be under close observation by the feeder in order to note her appetite, response in milk flow, and other conditions. If the feeder finds that the cow can profitably consume more than eight pounds of meal daily, then extra meal may be given. Careful feeders who weigh the milk from each cow will soon learn the limit of profitable feeding for each animal.

CARE OF THE MILK.

If the cow be kept clean and the milk be drawn in a cleanly manner and be removed shortly after straining from the barn, there is no reason why winter milk should have a 'cowy odor.' This 'cowy odor' is usually caused by filth which drops into the milk during the milking, or is absorbed by the milk from the foul air in the stable.

Milk should be removed from the stable before it cools to the temperature of the stable air; otherwise it will absorb taints rapidly.

After straining the milk does not usually require any special cooling other than that which takes place from the cold air. If it be stirred occasionally to prevent the cream rising and to insure uniform cooling throughout the whole mass of milk. It is also necessary to prevent the milk freezing in order to obtain the best results.

If sent to a winter creamery, it should be delivered at least three times a week. If manufactured on the farm, it should be made into butter as soon as possible after it is drawn from the cow. The longer that milk is kept before being made into butter, the poorer will be the product.

—PROF. H. H. DEAN.

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

Snow at the Institute.

Canadian Mute: Very seldom have we been so badly blocked up with snow as lately. Storm has followed storm in quick succession and it was impossible to keep the sidewalk to the city open, pedestrians having to take to the roads. During the worst part of the weather the heads of our Industrial Departments, who have to be at work early in the morning, remained over night in the Institute for several nights instead of going home. Our snow shovel boys worked unavailingly to keep the sidewalk to the front gate open but it filled up as fast as they got it open. Everything went on as usual and we lived through it all and are now looking forward to warmer weather.

Mrs. Anderson's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wm. Anderson, of Ameliasburg township, took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Services were held in the Methodist Church, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Barnes, who was assisted by the Rev. Mr. Johnson. They were exceedingly impressive and Mr. Barnes spoke in eulogistic terms of the deceased. The bearers were three sons, Willoughby, Alexander and George; a son-in-law, Rev. Mr. Steel, and two nephews, Howard and James Anderson.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

The Debating Club held their weekly meeting last night, and discussed in a masterly way the pros and cons of the dog tax. The judges were oracles of wisdom. Both Mr. Will Read and Mr. McClatchie fully demonstrated a wonderful grasp of the question, and satisfied all by their decision.

Rev. G. A. Lowes, of Kingston, will speak at the men's meeting on Sunday afternoon. His topic, "Superb Manhood," should attract a large number of young men.

At the meeting of the Physical Committee of the Y.M.C.A. on Monday night, the gymnasium class night was changed from Wednesday to Tuesday. It was decided to set the basket-ball league in motion once more. Teams are expected from the Lock Factory, Marsh & Henthorn's, the O.B.C., B.B.C. and Albert College. A schedule, finishing about the end of April, will be drawn up. The new American game, Ring Hockey, will be put on the floor for the first time on Tuesday night; it should be a winner with the lovers of the ice game. Dr. Clarke was again appointed the chairman for the coming year.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

Twenty-five per cent. Discount Sale at the Syndicate Store — one-fifth off all purchases, except grey cottons, steamlooms and spool cottons. This is a great opportunity for your spring goods. It lasts for 3 days' of this week, and the first 3 days of next week. Don't neglect this Sale. —The Paterson Syndicate Store, Front St., Belleville. m1,4,6

The vital statistics of the city for the month of February, as per register of the City Clerk, showed 16 births, 6 marriages and 10 deaths.

St. Patrick's day will be joyously celebrated this year by a concert in the Opera House, in which the best local talent will take part. The chief event, of course, will be the lecture on St. Patrick, to be delivered by that eloquent son of Erin, Rev. Father Twomey, Parish Priest of St. Michael's.

From the Mission report was omitted the name of Wallbridge & Clarke, who sent candies and nuts for the Christmas tree.

The handsomest and most artistic calendar we have seen for many moons is that sent us recently by the Toronto Lithographing Co., of Toronto. It is a large panel in the soft brown and creamy tones of burnt wood, with the effect made perfect by the aid of embossing which brings out the design in deep relief. A knight of old in armour, mounted on a prancing cream-colored charger, are the central figures in this beautiful production.

Ontario S. S. Association.

Our London exchanges state that "Mr. T. Yellowlees, of Toronto, one of the three Secretaries of the Ontario Sunday School Association, was present by invitation last night at a meeting held in St. Andrew's church parlors, when the matter of taking a church census was discussed. As a result of much deliberation it was decided to call a meeting of pastors of all London churches, Protestant and Catholic, as well as all superintendents and assistant superintendents of Sunday schools, to be held in St. Andrew's Church, March 7 at 8 p.m., for the purpose of deciding when to take the census. The opinion was expressed that the census will probably be taken early in April. At least 550 enumerators will be required." We understand that Mr. Yellowlees is to visit this city on Thursday, the 9th inst., and on that evening will address a public meeting, at which he will explain the advantages to the churches of having a census taken, by a house to house visitation by representatives of the churches who will co-operate.

VERY FEW PEOPLE

ARE FREE FROM SOME FORM OF INDIGESTION.

Very few people are free from some form of indigestion, but scarcely two will have the same symptoms.

Some suffer most directly after eating, bloating from gas in stomach and bowels, others have heartburn or sour risings, still others have palpitation of heart, headaches, sleeplessness, pains in chest and under shoulder blades, some have extreme nervousness, as in nervous dyspepsia.

But whatever the symptoms may be, the cause in all cases of indigestion is the same, that is the stomach for some reason fails to properly and promptly digest what is eaten.

This is the whole story of stomach troubles in a nutshell. The stomach must have rest and assistance, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give it both by supplying those natural digestives which every weak stomach lacks, owing to the failure of the peptic glands in the stomach to secrete sufficient acid and pepsin to thoroughly digest and assimilate the food eaten.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other wholesome food, and this claim has been proven by actual experiment, which anyone can perform for himself in the following manner: Cut a hard boiled egg into very small pieces, as it would be if masticated; place the egg and two or three of the tablets in a bottle or jar containing warm water heated to 98 degrees (the temperature of the body) and keep it at this temperature for three and one-half hours, at the end of which time the egg will be as completely digested as it would have been in the healthy stomach of a hungry boy.

The point of this experiment is that what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do to the egg in the bottle they will do to the egg or meat in the stomach and nothing else will rest and invigorate the stomach so safely and effectually. Even a little child can take Stuart's Tablets with safety and benefit if its digestion is weak and the thousands of cures accomplished by their regular daily use are easily explained when it is understood that they are composed of vegetable essences, aseptic, pepsin, diastase and Golden Seal, which mingle with the food and digest it thoroughly, giving the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate.

Dieting never cures dyspepsia, neither do pills and cathartic medicines, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines.

When enough food is eaten and promptly digested there will be no constipation, nor in fact will there be disease of any kind, because good digestion means good health in every organ.

The merit and success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are world-wide and they are sold at the moderate price of 50 cents for full sized package in every drug store in the United States and Canada, as well as in Europe.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont. f18,25,m4,11,18,25,a1

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HEARTS OF OAK."

James A. Herne's two famous domestic plays, "Hearts of Oak" and "Shore Acres," are being presented this season with their usual remarkable success. To the present generation these plays are practically new, while to those who saw them some years ago they appeal with strong sentiment, like the return of dear old friends. "Hearts of Oak" was the first drama written by James A. Herne, in which the character of a villain is eliminated. It was the play that created a sensation by the introduction of a real live baby instead of the "property" article which had previously done duty in the theatres. It will be interesting news to the play-goers of this city to learn that "Hearts of Oak," with a specially selected cast of players and a magnificent display of scenery is to be seen at the Carman on Monday, 6th inst.

LOW ROUND TRIP RATES.

Hundreds of thousands of acres of valuable lands in the west and northwest are open to settlement. This vast region offers endless advantages for investors as well as settlers. Numberless new farms, countless new homes, are the attainments of Western colonist industry in 1904. To fully realize the possibilities of these growing districts you should visit them in person.

The Union Pacific affords you the opportunity to do so at smallest expense. On every first and third Tuesday of March and April, homeseekers' low round trip tickets will be sold to Western Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Montana and points in Idaho; and from February to June inclusive to Oregon, Washington and Northern Idaho.

Very low one way colonist rates to the Northwest and to California via the Union Pacific from March 1 to May 15.

From Chicago and St. Louis proportionately low rates are in effect by lines connecting with the Union Pacific to all above points.

Inquire of J. O. Goodsell, T.P.A., 14 Janes Building, Toronto, Canada; F. B. Choate, G.A., 126 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

CRAIGMONT.

The neighbors are making good use of the fine days here by hauling logs to the mill. Mr. John Kelly has recently drawn one monster pine that will make about 1000 feet of lumber without a knot in it.

Thos. Kelly, jr., was glad for once that he "hadn't the price" with him, when Rowdy fell through the ice on the way home from Bell's Rapids the other day.

La Grippe is making his unwelcome rounds now. He has smitten Dr. Mackechnie and Miss Mackellican, both in the same house. The doctor says he has six cases in another house. We hope for a speedy recovery.

We had a very interesting debate here on Tuesday evening on the subject, "Resolved, that war is a greater evil than intemperance." The affirmative was taken by Messrs. J. A. Anderson, Oram, John Kelly and Miss Phoebe Kelly; the negative by Messrs. Grimmon, Clock, Jas. Kelly and Miss Gladys Kelly. The leaders held the floor for 35 minutes each. Mr. Grummon certainly excelled himself and all the rest in his eloquent speech, showing the tremendous cost of men and waste of money in the liquor traffic. Mr. Anderson dealt with the religious and moral aspect of war. The judges, Rev. Topping, Mr. D. Sutherland and Mr. W. Kelly, could not agree as to the result, but finally gave the result as two against one in favor of the affirmative.

Mr. Robt. McKay found a very fine specimen of garnet in the rock-cut the other day. It measures about an inch and a half through and has 24 faces. He found it embedded in the rock. It is wonderful how the perfect work of Nature is revealed in the treasures of the earth.

Mrs. Richard James has taken charge of the organ now for our church service.

Miss Reid, of Bancroft, is making a short stay at Mr. Sutherland's.

Mr. Martin Daley, who will be leaving the mine soon, will be missed very much. He has been employed in the mill now for about three years.

Messrs. John and Archie Campbell, from Fort Stewart, were here on Saturday in the interest of the school section. They hope that the perplexed question over the school debentures is settled now.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago, during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,
STOCK BROKER,
Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.
Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.
Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March 1

STOCK.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	89	89½
do. pref	102¼	102½
St. Paul	177⅞	178⅛
Mo. P	108⅛	109
Union Pac	133	134½
C.P.R.	137	138
Sou Pac	70⅞	71
R. I	35	35⅜
Ills. C	158⅞	159½
Sou. Ry	35	35⅞
Texas	37¼	37⅜
B. & O	107½	109⅜
N. Y. C.	151½	157⅞
Penn	142⅞	143½
Soo	112	113½
Erie	45½	47⅞
do. pref	81¼	82
Reading	95	95¼
C. O.	50⅞	51⅜
O. & W	54¼	54⅞
W.C	21	....
L. & N	138½	141½
A.F	35	35
Nor	83½	84⅜
Wab	22⅞	....
do. pref	46¼	46⅛
W. U.	93⅞	93⅛
C. G. W	23	23⅛
T. C. I.	91½	93½
U.S. Stl	34⅞	35⅞
do. pref	94¼	95¼
Sugar	144½	146½
B. R. T	65¼	65⅞
P. O	108¼	108¾
A.C.P	76⅞	77¼
Met	121	121½
Alo	41¾	42¾

May wheat opened at $1.13⅞; closed at $1.15
July wheat opened at 98⅞; closed at 98⅞
May corn opened at 47⅞; closed at 47⅞
July corn opened at 47⅞; closed at 47½
May pork opened at $12.50; closed at $12.55

THEY MEAN IT.

No one should suffer a moment longer with Piles, for Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid will cure any case.

A guarantee of $1,000.00 goes with every package of the Hem-Roid.

No matter what kind you have, blind, bleeding, internal, external, itching or suppurating Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid will cure you.

This is a strong statement, but it is supported by a thousand testimonials from those who have been permanently cured by Hem-Roid.

If you are not cured you get your money back. $1.00 at druggists, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. 8 ada 108..

Recommended and sold by J. S. McKeown.

When your appetite TAKES A VACATION, bring it back with a morning glass of

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

Meals seem too far apart after the gentle, relieving effects of Abbey's Effervescent Salt.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS, 25c AND 60c A BOTTLE

- For - Saturday

1 Stodart Square Piano $10.00

1 Dunham & Sons Piano $75.00

1 New Full Size Upright Piano with all the latest improvements $190.00

J. A. Goodsell & Co.
436 Front Street.

$50,000

Winnipeg Loan Co.'s Stock
For Sale at Par.
Empire Loan Company
(Incorporated 1897.)
Head Office, - Winnipeg.

This stock earns from 8 to 10 per cent. per annum, 6 per cent. guaranteed, payable half yearly; profits in excess of this amount being credited to the shareholders at the annual meeting, actual dividends paid during past six years being 9 per cent. per annum.

$ 100 invested yields $ 9.00 yearly
500 invested yields 45.00 yearly
1000 invested yields 90.00 yearly

This Company having its Head Office on the ground, have a great advantage over those doing business at a distance.

We have this limited block of stock which we offer for sale in lots of one share or more.

Shares may be paid for in full or in four equal quarterly payments at $25.00 each, PER SHARE.

For particulars and copy of annual statement address.

PARKER & CO.,
Stock and Share Brokers,
61 Victoria Street, Toronto.

Worth its Weight in Gold
BABY'S OWN SOAP

BABY'S OWN SOAP
keeps the most tender skin, soft, smooth, and free from chaps.
No Other is just as Good.
ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. Montreal. 032

TUFTSVILLE.

Miss Beatrice Harris, of the O.B.C. spent a few days the guest of Mrs. A. W. Andrews.

We are sorry to relate that Mr. Jeremiah Bird lost a fine horse a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Searles spent Sunday in our midst.

Mrs. George Clarke is on the sick list.

Mrs. E. Bennett left on Thursday last to visit her son, Rev. T. P. Bennett, at Crystal Valley, Mich; also Charlie at Buffalo.

Miss Carrie Juby is visiting at Mr. Rupert's.

Miss Minnie Garrison, of Belleville, is the guest of Miss Pearl Bennett.

THE MILDEST AND SUREST RELIEF.

For constipated bowels and piles is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, which cause no griping pain and act promptly. Well known to all doctors. Use only Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Price 25c.

Big Bargains

....AT OUR...

AFTER STOCK-TAKING SALE

—OF—

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, And Shoe Polishes.

Now the severe storm is passed and the snow blockade is off, our country customers will have an opportunity to share in the being offered. Don't be short-sighted and miss this money saving chance.

Bargains

THIS SALE CLOSES SATURDAY, MARCH 4th

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

Struck Ore

In our big Tunnel. Mining Experts say it will grow richer and better. Many large gold veins are just ahead and will be cut in rapid succession. We own the 200 acres.

WITHOUT DEBT.

AT GOLDFIELD

The camp of Quick Fortunes. We own 100 acres, with rich Gold Strikes all around. Gold Veins Discovered. JOIN NOW and

Help Us Dig

Every Share of Golden Sun Stock gives ownership in the Goldfield 100 acres and Colorado 200—total 300 acres. Dividends declared on both would be

TWO DIVIDENDS FROM ONE INVESTMENT.

$15 Buys 1000 Shares

$45 buys 3,300 shares. $90 buys 6,600 shares.
Full paid, Non-assessable.

BUY BEFORE THE PRICE ADVANCES

500 - PER - CENT.

ORDER AT ONCE

the cheapest and best, with ore in the mines and cash in the treasury. If over-subscribed your money will be returned. Highest Commercial and Bank References.

MAKE ALL REMITTANCES PAYABLE TO

The Golden Sun Mining & Milling Co

204 KITTREDGE BUILDING: DENVER, COLO.

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00

—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand."

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

March came in on skates, but will probably go out in rubber boots.

• • •

The backbone of winter appears to be a good deal more solid than the footbridge at present.

• • •

Lent begins a week from to-day. Every properly constituted married lady is now puzzling her brains trying to find something for her husband to give up.

• • •

The select few in this city who were anxious that the Council should take over and run the street railway when the troubles of that institution began a few years ago, can now moralize a bit on the case of the Kingston street railway, which, after a brief spell of unprofitable service, has gone back into the hands of the bondholders. This causes the Montreal Gazette to remark that "Kingston has a municipalized electric light service, but there does not appear to be any demand for a municipalized street railway. The advocates of municipalization are generally willing to allow private capital to reap losses; it is only occasional profits that produce jealousy."

• • •

A correspondent asks us what moral can be pointed from the case of a party who, on Sunday last, enclosed in his church envelope a Yankee half dollar with a hole in it, the same being worthless. We don't know that the case in point shows anything much except that the half-dollar, like the party who put it in the envelope, was more holey than righteous.

• • •

EASILY ANSWERED.
(Washington Post.)

"My chums call me Willie. How can I stop it?" writes a high school boy. Quit smoking cigarettes and buy a pipe. Then they'll call you 'Bill.'

• • •

Many rumors are abroad these days as to the manner in which Hon. Mr. Whitney's Government will handle the license question. The Kingston Whig thus adds to the crop of rumors: "A county applicant for the liquor license inspectorship was told that Mr. Whitney purposed removing all inspectors and giving license commissioners full control, dividing the pay. Each riding will be divided and will be under the conduct of one commissioner, thus creating a rivalry as to which shall conduct his section most efficiently. This plan will not apply to cities."

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free Prices 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Religious Awakening in England.

There are not wanting signs that we in England are on the eve of a great religious awakening, as the result of a profound revulsion of feeling against the worldliness and materialism that have for so long held baneful sway. A most remarkable wave of religious emotion is passing over Wales. The public houses are losing their trade, football clubs are experiencing a depression as profound as it is unwonted and meetings for prayer and praise are carried on by night as well as day.

Already the movement seems spreading to England, and there is much to confirm the views of those who for a long time past have been asserting that the train was laid, and that the spark alone was now needed to set the kingdom in a blaze. Nay! is it not even possible that we are on the verge of a world-wide revival? Such an event, at any rate, would only be in keeping with the teaching of history, which shows very plainly that it is just when materialism seems to be marching to its Austerlitz that it meets instead with its Sedan.—From The Church Eclectic.

WHY BRAIN WORKERS BREAK DOWN.

Man is not a machine that keeps going as long as the steam is applied. He is a creature of blood, nerves and delicately balanced organism. Many don't realize this, but overwork their brains and break down. Brain workers need a strong, bracing tonic like Ferrozone to fortify their nerves and keep the blood pure and rich. Take Ferrozone and you'll do more work. You will have the strength, the ambition and the desire for work because your system will be in first-class order. For your health and strength take Ferrozone regularly. Price 50c. at druggists.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat Closes Lower at Both Liverpool and Chicago—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, Feb. 28.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ⅛d to ⅜d lower than yesterday and corn futures ⅛d to ⅜d lower.

At Chicago May wheat closed 2⅛c lower than yesterday; May corn 1c lower and May oats ⅛c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, Feb. 28.—Closing—Wheat—On passage, buyers indifferent operators.

Paris—Close — Wheat—Tone quiet; Feb. 22f 70c, May and Aug. 23f 40c. Flour—Tone dull; Feb. 28f 50c, May and Aug. 29f 85c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	113⅜	102⅝
Detroit	117	101
Toledo....	113⅜	99⅞
St. Louis	112	94½
Duluth	110¼	110⅝
Minneapolis..	111⅜	109½

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush........	$1 07 to	$1 09
Wheat, goose, bush....	0 91	0 93
Barley, bush	0 51	0 52
Oats, bush	0 44½	0 45½
Wheat, white, bush....	$1 07 to	$1 09
Wheat, spring, bush ...	1 02	....
Beans, bush	1 00	1 10
Rye, bush	0 73	....
Peas, bush	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, Feb. 28.—Wheat—Spot nominal; futures steady; March, 7s; May, 7s; July, 7s 8⅛d. Corn—Spot steady; American mixed, new, 4s 2d; American mixed, old, 4s 11d; futures quiet; March, 4s 1⅜d; May, 4s 3⅜d. Hams—Short cut easy, 30s 6d. Bacon—Short ribs steady, 35s 6d; long clear middles, light steady, 36s 6d; long clear middles, heavy steady, 36s. Lard—Prime western in tierces, steady, 35s 3d; American refined, in pails, firm, 35s.

Receipts of wheat during the past three days, 236,000 centals, including 97,000 American.

Receipts of American corn during the past three days, 113,300 centals.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, Feb. 28.—Butter—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 9365.

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 1203.

Eggs—Firm; receipts, 3046; state Penn. and near-by fancy selected white, 33c; do. choice, 31c to 32c; do. mixed extra, 32c; western firsts, 30c to 31c; no. seconds, 28c to 29c; southern, 27 to 31c; refrigerators, 20c to 26c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Little Change in Quotations on the U. S. Markets.

London, Feb. 28.—Live cattle are quoted at 10½c to 11¼c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 7⅝c to 7½c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per pound.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts at the city cattle market were 73 cars, composed of 1295 cattle, 635 sheep, 700 hogs and 110 calves.

Considering the large number offered at the end of last week and then again today the market for butchers' cattle was fair, altho prices for the lower grades were easier. Picked lots sold at $4 to $4.35; loads of good at $3.75 to $4; medium at $3.50 to $3.75; common, $3.25 to $3.50; inferior, $2.50 to $3; canners, at $1.50 to $2.

The demand for feeders and stockers was greater than for some weeks, many leading farmers and cattlemen from Western Ontario being on the market to get a supply. Several of them bought some light exporters as short keepers at prices ranging from $4 to $4.25 and even $4.35 was paid in one or two instances. Feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, sold at $3.25 to $3.75 per cwt., according to quality.

About 30 milch cows and springers sold at $30 to $60 each. There was a good demand, especially for good to choice quality cows, which were readily picked up.

The offerings of calves are becoming larger as the season advances, but prices held up fairly well at $3.50 to $6.25 per cwt.; extra choice new milk fed calves would bring from $6.50 to $6.75 per cwt.

The run of sheep and lambs was light, about 600. Sheep sold at $4.50 to $5 per cwt. for ewes and $3.50 to $4.25 for bucks, and $6.50 to $6.85 per cwt. for grain-fed lambs, while rough common barnyard lambs sold at $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt.

About 700 hogs were offered and bought by Mr. Harris at an advance of 10c per cwt. Selects sold at $5.60 and lights and fats at $5.45.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Feb. 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 250 head; slow, barely steady; prime steers, $5.35 to $5.65; shipping, $4.60 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $4.85; heifers, $3.25 to $4.65; cows, $2.50 to $4.25; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.15.

Veals—Receipts, 100 head; slow; 50 cents lower; $4.50 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 6800; active, 5 cents higher; heavy and mixed, $5.25 to $5.30; Yorkers, $5.15 to $5.30; pigs, $4.85 to $5.00; roughs, $4.50 to $4.75; stags, $3 to $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 6400 head; steady; native lambs, $6.50 to $8.50; western lambs, $8 to $8.25; yearlings, $7 to $7.25; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $5.75 to $6; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $6.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Feb. 28.—Beeves—Receipts, 1049; nothing doing of importance; feeling steady; exports, 950 cattle, 1020 sheep and 4500 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 420; quiet; veals, $4 to $8.50; tops, $8.75; no barnyard calves.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1215; sheep steady; lambs slow and weak; sheep, $4.50 to $6.40; culls, $4; lambs, $7.50 to $8.60.

Hogs—Receipts, 5610; feeling weak; Penn. and state hogs, $5.10 to $5.45.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Cattle — Receipts, 5500; good to prime steers, $5.85 to $6.40; poor to medium, $3.90 to $5.75; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.40.

Hogs—Receipts, 22,000; mixed and butchers', $4.80 to $5.05; good to choice, heavy $5 to $5.12½; rough heavy, $4.85 to $4.95; bulk of sales, $4.90 to $5.

Sheep—Receipts, 18,000; good to choice wethers, $5.80 to $6.25; fair to choice mixed, $4.65 to $5.50; native lambs, $5.75 to $7.75.

Evidence Against Hunter.

London, March 1. — (C. A. P.) —Graeme Hunter and Gavin Cowper appeared for trial in the Glasgow High Court yesterday to answer the charge of fraud in connection with the Canadian Immigration Society. David Power said that on Hunter's promise of a year's engagement, he went to Montreal, but failed to obtain the promised work or employment on his own account. He afterwards ran out of money and had to seek refuge in the "home for stranded Scotchmen," otherwise St. Andrew's Home, where he met several others of Hunter's party. A score of witnesses for the prosecution gave similar evidence, and the case was adjourned.

Arrested for Bigamy.

Toronto, March 1.—John Edgar, aged 26, of 229½ George Street, did not consider one wife enough for whom to buy sealskin sacques and meal tickets, and he took unto himself a second helpmeet. He has been arrested on a charge of bigamy.

Discretion.

Mrs. Younghusband—Why can't you stay at home this evening, George? Your employer can get along without you. George—I know it, but I don't want him to find it out.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

It is the part of wisdom to make as many friends as you can, and to ask them as few favors as you can.

A Clear, Healthy Skin.—Eruptions of the skin and the blotches which blemish beauty are the result of impure blood caused by unhealthy action of the liver and kidneys. In correcting this unhealthy action and restoring the organs to their normal condition, Parmalee's Vegetable Pills will at the same time cleanse the blood, and the blotches and eruptions will disappear without leaving any trace.

A good leaven raises much dough for its alma mater.

Be There a Will Wisdom Points the Way.—The sick man pines for relief, but he dislikes sending for the doctor, which means bottles of drugs never consumed. He has not the resolution to load his stomach with compounds which smell villainously and taste worse. But if he have the will to deal himself with his ailment, wisdom will direct his attention to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which, as a specific for indigestion and disorders of the digestive organs, have no equal.

A penny saved by a miser means a dollar earned by his heirs later on.

The efficacy of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup in curing coughs and colds and arresting inflammation of the lungs, can be established by hundreds of testimonials from all sorts and conditions of men. It is a standard remedy in these ailments and all affections of the throat and lungs. It is highly recommended by medicine vendors, because they know and appreciate its value as a curative. Try it.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

The superiority of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is shown by its good effects on the children. Purchase a bottle and give it a trial.

Our best opportunities are of the home-made varieties.

Corns cause intolerable pain. Holloway's Corn Cure removes the trouble. Try it and see what amount of pain is saved.

When a man is weighed by others he is usually found wanting to dispute the figures.

It Retains Old and Makes New Friends.—Time was when Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil had but a small field of distribution, but now its territory is widespread. Those who first recognized its curative qualities still value it as a specific, and while it retains its old friends it is ever making new. It is certain that whoever once uses it will not be without it.

The juice of a lemon is excellent as a gargle for sore throat, but should not be swallowed.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.
No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L'vo Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

Local Reading Advertisements.

Twenty-five words or less 25 cts., over twenty-five words 1 cents per word first insertion, 1 cent per word subsequent consecutive insertions, Headlines count as 12 words.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To Billings, Mont....................	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points.

Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & HUDSON RIVER R. R

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

Daily except Sunday

L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)......	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C. ...	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C. ...	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.

A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.

G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

600 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

The great trouble with the fellow who knows it all is that he doesn't.

The woman who drives a man to drink has no need of a whip.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.

Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

JOSEPH CALDWELL

Dentist, Belleville Ont.

Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.

Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT
J. FRANKLIN WILLS

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for City of Belleville.

Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 67.

E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.

Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.

Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security. Charges moderate.

INSURANCE:

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.

THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.

Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.

Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.

INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.

Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insur. Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.

Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.

Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuations and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.

Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter, Joiner, Builder

Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave. (next McCrodan's grocery.)

Estimates furnished.

Work promptly and carefully } executed PRICES MODERATE

—SPECIALIST ON—

Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

The Yellow Holly

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Etc.

Copyright, 1903, by G. W. Dillingham Company ever to Dorothy. "My darling, I must go and do some shopping. No; you can stay here. I will call again in an hour."

CHAPTER XXIV.

IT was the next day that George went to see Ireland. At the door he was informed that Ireland had been very ill with his heart and that the doctor had been called in. Nevertheless Ireland would not obey the advice of his physician and stay in bed. He was up and dressed as usual and in his study.

George entered the large room and saw his former guardian seated at his desk as usual. The man looked very ill. His large, placid face was extremely pale, there were dark circles under his eyes, and he even seemed to have grown lean. His clothes hung loosely on him, and he did not rise when George entered.

"Excuse me, George," he said, with an attempt at cheerfulness, "but I am not so well as I might be."

"You are looking ill—very ill," said George, taking his seat.

Ireland nodded. "I can't live long," he remarked in his heavy voice. "So the doctor informs me. My heart is extremely weak. It's as bad as it well can be. For the last few days I have deviated sadly from my usual habits. I have not taken a walk, and my system of life is quite upset. It's the beginning of the end." He paused and sighed. "You are looking well, George."

"I have every reason to. Mrs. Ward has consented to my marriage."

"With her daughter? How is that?"

"Well, the church where my parents were married has been discovered. The marriage has been proved beyond a doubt. My grandfather has seen the copy of the certificate and now holds it."

"Is he pleased?"

"Very pleased. He is now as friendly toward me as he has been hitherto hostile."

Ireland nodded, breathing heavily. "I thought he would be. He and I had a long talk about you on the day I called. That was when I saw Mrs. Ward and"—

"You can go on," said George, seeing his hesitation. "I know the whole story."

"What story?" asked Ireland suspiciously.

"The story of what happened at San Remo. Mrs. Ward I know was Violet Howard, and her sister Jenny is Miss Bull."

"Yes. Poor Jenny, she was the better of the two, and now she drags out a miserable life in a London lodging house. While Violet, who is a bad woman"—

"And the mother of Dorothy," interrupted George imperiously. "Say no more, sir."

"You are quite right. As I can't say good of the woman, let me say no bad. Well, you know how she loved your father."

"I think she flirted with him, but it was Jenny who really loved."

"And look at her reward!" said Ireland, with a deep sigh. "Those who try to do their best always come off worst. I loved your mother, George, and I have been a lonely man all my life."

It was a sad case. George wished to get at the truth, but he was so sorry for Ireland, who had passed so many miserable years, that he did not like to inflict more pain. Nevertheless it was necessary to learn if Ireland had really visited Mrs. Jersey on that night so as to set Bawdsey's mind at rest. If George did not learn the truth Bawdsey might attempt the discovery, and he would handle the old man in a much worse manner than George was likely to do. While pondering how he could set about his unpleasant task George was saved from making the first step, always the most difficult, by an observation from Ireland, which paved the way to an explanation.

"How did you discover the church?" he asked idly.

"In rather a queer way. Lola Velez"—

Ireland opened his eyes, which had been closed, and looked up. "Who is Lola Velez?" he asked anxiously.

"She is a dancer whom I helped—oh, quite in a proper way, Mr. Ireland. You know the name?"

Ireland, contrary to George's expectation, nodded. "There was a woman in San Remo about the time of your father's death. She was called Velez and was in love with him."

"He seems to have been a fascinating man," said George, smiling, to set Ireland at his ease. "But this Lola is the daughter of the woman you mention. It was she who found the church."

By this time Ireland was quite awake and keenly anxious for details. "How did she learn its name?" he demanded quickly.

"She found it in the confession of Mrs. Jersey."

Ireland snapped the paper cutter he was holding, and, leaning back in his chair, looked anxiously at George. "What do you mean?"

"Well," replied the young man, keeping his eyes fixed on Ireland's face, "it seems that Mrs. Jersey left a confession behind her as to what took place at San Remo."

"Who has that confession?"

"I have! I got it from Lola!"

"And how did she manage to obtain it?"

For answer George related how Lola had called to see Mrs. Jersey, and how she had managed to steal the confession. "It was from reading it," finished George, "that she learned of the church in which my parents were married. Desiring that I should marry her, and thinking I would not do so were my birth proved, she went to the church to destroy the registers. She was caught with torn leaves and arrested."

"Arrested?"

"Yes. I wonder you did not see the case reported in the papers."

"I have been too ill to read the papers lately," said Ireland, looking round the room in rather a helpless way, "and none of my servants told me. What happened?"

"Oh, Lola was let off with a small fine. She is now back dancing at her music hall. She gave the confession to me."

"Did any one else see it—the authorities?"

"No. You can set your mind at rest, Mr. Ireland. I got it from Lola before she was taken to prison. No one had seen it but myself and Lord Derrington."

Ireland drew a long breath of relief. "You made a strange remark just now, George," he said, not looking at the young man. "You told me to set my mind at rest. Why did you say that?"

"I have read the confession," said George quietly.

"Then you know?"

"I know that my father's death was due to an accident."

"What! Did that wretched woman tell the truth?"

"She told the truth."

"And she did not accuse me of having murdered your father?"

"No. She did not. I suppose she thought it was as well to go to her long home with as few sins as possible on her conscience."

"Thank God for that," said Ireland. "George," he said in faltering tones, "I have suffered greatly on account of that most unhappy accident. Your father and I were not very good friends, as I found it difficult to forgive him for having taken from me the woman I loved. But at San Remo we got on better together. I stifled my resentment so that I might see as much of you as possible, George. Knowing that I was not on good terms with Vane, I thought that Mrs. Jersey might have accused me of the crime. She did try to get money out of me."

"So Bawdsey told me."

"Bawdsey. Who is he?"

"I forgot you don't know. He is a detective who has been looking after the case on behalf of Lord Derrington. I learn from the confession of Mrs. Jersey that he is her husband."

"George Rates. I remember. She told me she married him and went to America. It was after her return from America that she tried to get money out of me. I refused. Not that I did not realize the danger to which she could expose me, but I knew that if I once yielded I would be in her power. Besides, I had a defense, as she got the stiletto from the woman Velez."

"And it was with that same stiletto that Mrs. Jersey was killed."

"By whom?" asked Ireland. "Did her husband"—

"No. We do not know who killed her. Perhaps you may know?"

"I!" Ireland looked genuinely surprised. "No. How should I know?"

"Well," said George, rather awkwardly, "it seems that Bawdsey has got it into his head that you knew about this confession. That you were afraid it would be published after her death and that you went to the house on that night to get it. He doesn't exactly accuse you of the murder, but"—

"I don't know what else you would call his statements but accusations," retorted Ireland, with some heat, "but I never was near the house. I certainly thought that Mrs. Jersey might leave some such confession, but I never asked her about it."

"Then you cannot guess who killed her?"

"No. I was never near the house. I was in bed and asleep. My servants will tell you so."

"I need not ask them," said George quickly. "I never thought you were guilty, and I only came to receive your assurance so that I might tell Bawdsey and prevent him troubling you."

"If Bawdsey comes here I'll soon make short work of him," said Ireland sharply. "I am not afraid."

"You need not be. Mrs. Jersey's own confession exonerates you."

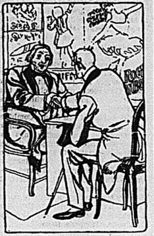
"I don't mind even that. I would have faced the worst had it to be faced. I never was a coward except in one thing." He paused and looked timidly at George. "I shrank from telling you how I was the unhappy cause of your father's death."

"You were not the cause, in my opinion. Mrs. Jersey was the cause."

"Well, I thought you would shrink from me did you know all."

"I do know all, and I do not shrink from you," replied George, leaning across the desk to shake Ireland's hand. "It was a pure accident and has been related by your enemy."

"I am so glad the truth is known to you at last," faltered the old man, "and that you see how unconsciously I caused the death. I shall lie down forever. But I am glad you know. I am glad you are not angered."



"I do know all, and I do not shrink from you."

"We are the best of friends, Mr. Ireland. You have always been kind to me. I am afraid my visit has been too much for you."

"No. I am glad you came. I am glad you spoke out. I always intended to do so, but I feared lest you should blame me."

By this time they were ascending the stairs. George conducted the old man to his room and sent for the doctor. Ireland undressed and got to bed. Then he insisted on George leaving him.

"But you are ill," protested the young man.

"I am dying. But what of that? I am glad to die. I shall meet Rosina again after long, long years of sorrow. Go, George. We understand one another, and you have forgiven me. There is no more to be said."

"There is nothing to forgive," replied George softly. Then, to humor his old guardian, he departed. A strong grip of the hand was exchanged between them. George left the room and saw Ireland lying as still as any corpse. Only his lips moved, and they murmured continuously, "Rosina, Rosina!" He was true to the woman he loved to the very end.

George left the house, as there was nothing he could do, but he intended to call in again. Meanwhile he repaired to Amelia square to see Bawdsey. Derrington wished him to tell the detective to stop looking after the case and discharge him from his employment. In his pocket George had a check for £1,000, and when this was paid the whole case was to be relegated to obscurity. The sooner Bawdsey married Lola and went to America the better, Derrington thought. And for his own sake Bawdsey would hold his tongue, seeing what a close connection he was of the dead woman.

Bawdsey was at home and saw George at once. He looked rather excited and could hardly keep his seat. "Well, Mr. Brendon," he asked, "what is it?"

"I should rather ask you that," said George. "You seem excited."

"Not very. Only I have been fortunate in some business, and"—

"What is the business?"

"I'll tell you that later. What is yours?"

"A pleasant one," rejoined George. "Here is the check for £1,000 which my grandfather promised you. Marry Lola and go to the States and stop searching for the assassin of Mrs. Jersey."

"Thank you," replied Bawdsey, taking the check eagerly; "your grandfather is a prince, Mr. Brendon. As to the case, why should I stop searching?"

"You will never find the assassin."

"Pardon me," said Bawdsey in high glee. "I have found the assassin. Miss Bull killed Mrs. Jersey."

CHAPTER XXV.

GEORGE stared at the triumphant detective in surprise. It seemed impossible that what he stated could be true. Miss Bull was the very last person whom Brendon would have accused.

"You must mean Margery," said George after a time.

"No, I don't," replied Bawdsey in a determined voice. "I mean Miss Bull, or, as you know her, Miss Jenny Howard."

"But what reason"—

"Ah, that's a long story! She shall tell you herself."

"Have you had her arrested?"

"Not yet. But she will be arrested before the end of the day. I have already communicated with Scotland Yard. It was your idea about Margery that put me on the scent," Bawdsey said, with great complacency, "though, to be sure, I had my suspicions before. It was to watch Miss Bull that I came here."

"What made you think that she was guilty?"

"Well, it seemed to me that she was the only person who could have killed Eliza. She and Eliza hated one another because of their mutual love for your father."

George groaned. What a lot of trouble his father had caused with his handsome looks and charming manners! Even after his death the fatal attraction he exercised seemed to bring about disaster. "She did not kill Mrs. Jersey on that account," he said.

"Wait till you hear. She will tell you. In fact, she asked me to send for you, as she wishes to speak."

"Let me hear how you came to learn that this poor creature struck the blow. You say that it was some remark I made which"—

"Yes, it was," said Bawdsey eagerly, throwing himself into a seat. "Your remark that Margery might be guilty"—

"One moment," interrupted George in his turn. "I may tell you that I have seen Mr. Ireland, and he declares that he never was near the house on that night, that he knew nothing of the confession, and that he had no latchkey. He is innocent."

"Now that I have heard Miss Bull I know that, sir. She's the one."

"Well, and how did you find out?"

Bawdsey cleared his throat and began, with a most important air: "I rather agreed with your idea that Margery might be guilty," he said, "and when I turned it over in my own mind I thought it more and more probable. I therefore determined to get Margery alone and work on her fears. Well, it was this morning in the sitting room. Miss Bull had gone out and had left Margery to make up some accounts. The girl was laboring away at them and getting into a hopeless mess. I came to speak with her and offered to do them. I soon put the accounts to rights and then began to talk of Miss Bull."

"Why of Miss Bull?"

"Why"—Bawdsey pinched his lip—"I thought at the time that Margery was guilty, and that if in talking to her I laid the blame on Miss Bull the girl would speak out."

"Well, you accused Miss Bull of the crime?"

"In a way I did. Margery denied it."

"What did you say?"

"That she might as well confess. I declared that I had evidence to prove Miss Bull's guilt, and that she would be arrested when she came back. I declare, Mr. Vane, I thought the girl would strike me. She was like a wildcat."

"I wish she had," growled George.

"She said if I arrested Miss Bull she would kill me. I said, 'As you killed your aunt.' She up and said: 'Yes, I did kill her. Miss Bull is innocent, and you know she is.' Of course, when she admitted the fact, I at once began to suspect Miss Bull."

"Why did you do that?"

"Because if Margery had been guilty she would not have owned up. But if Miss Bull was guilty, Margery would certainly take the guilt on herself. While Margery was threatening me and taking the guilt on herself, Miss Bull came in. That stupid girl ran to her and fell at her feet, crying that I knew all, but that she would die for her dear Miss Bull."

"And what did the woman say?"

"She asked me if I knew. I said I did. She demanded how I found out. I told her that that was my business. She began to smell a rat and suspected that I was bluffing. She would have held her tongue, but Margery was in such terror for her friend that she came out with the whole story."

"The girl is half witted. All this may not be true."

"Oh, yes, it is. When Miss Bull saw that the game was up she sat down and admitted that she had killed Mrs. Jersey. She also said that she was glad the truth had come to light."

"She was raving," said George incredulously.

"No; she wasn't. She told me the whole story in the calmest manner, just as though she were asking me to have a cup of tea. Then she asked me to send for you and sat down to play patience. She is desperately anxious to see you."

George shuddered and followed Bawdsey down the stairs. It seemed terrible to him that such a fragile little creature as Miss Bull should be subjected to this disgrace. He did not condone her crime. She had acted wrongly and must take the consequences. But he could not forget that she was Dorothy's aunt, and he wished he could see some way of rescuing her from this dreadful position.

Miss Bull was, as Bawdsey had stated, playing patience. Seated at the very table where her victim had sat, she dealt the cards and seemed quite interested in the game. Margery was seated in a chair near at hand, looking with tearful eyes into the face of her friend. Beyond the fact that Miss Bull was whiter than usual she showed no signs of emotion.

"You have come, George," she said, addressing him by his name. "I am glad to see you. Mr. Bawdsey, you may go."

Bawdsey shrugged his shoulders and, with a glance at George, went out. After all, he had heard the story before and did not particularly care to hear it again. Besides, Bawdsey was a kindly man, and he felt sorry that he had proceeded to such extremities.

Miss Bull shuffled her pack of cards and laid them away in a box. "I shall play that game no more. I have been playing patience all my life, but the end has come, and I am glad it has come. I suppose you were astonished when Mr. Bawdsey told you?" said she, looking with piercing eyes at Brendon.

"I was. I never thought that you—you"—

"That I would kill Mrs. Jersey," finished the woman quietly. "Why not? She was a bad, wicked creature, and caused the death of your father. She boasted of it."

"Where? When?" asked the astonished young man.

"In this very room, in my presence. But to make you understand I had better tell you all."

"One moment, Miss Bull. When you told the fortunes on that night did you intend to kill Mrs. Jersey?"

"No. The death card did turn up. That was a strange coincidence, George. When I came down the stairs I had no more idea than you of killing the wretched woman."

"What made you do it?"

"I am telling you," replied Miss Bull, folding her hands on her lap. "Wait and hear. Mrs. Jersey was very rude to me on that night. I intended to remonstrate with her. She added insult to injury by locking Margery in her bedroom, so as to keep her from me. I heard her scolding Margery in the passage, and when all was quiet and Mrs. Jersey had gone down the stairs I went up to Margery's room and unlocked the door. Mrs. Jersey had struck the poor child, and she was sobbing on her bed. I then determined to go down for the second time and see Mrs. Jersey."

"For the second time? Were you down before?"

"I was," replied Miss Bull calmly. "I wondered who Mrs. Jersey had coming to see her, particularly after she had lost her courage when she saw a yellow holly in your coat."

"You noticed that?"

"Yes, and I noticed the holly also. I wondered why you wore it. The sight of it put into my mind that fatal night when he"—Miss Bull brushed aside her thoughts—"but no matter. I thought I would see if Mrs. Jersey was seeing any one, and also I wished to talk about the yellow holly."

"But why should you trouble about seeing any one?"

Miss Bull looked down and then looked up abruptly. "Mrs. Jersey would have sent me back to the asylum if she could, and I was always afraid lest she should see some one secretly about the matter. I crept down the stairs, leaving Margery in my room playing at patience. Mrs. Jersey's door was closed. I heard the murmur of voices, and I put my ear to the keyhole. I heard that dancer—afterward I learned that it was the dancer—I heard her accuse Mrs. Jersey of having killed Percy Vane."

To be continued.

ARMOUR'S EXTRACT OF BEEF ARMOUR & CO CHICAGO U.S.A.

The Best Protection Against Cold.

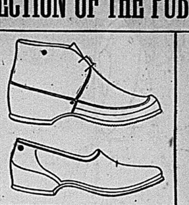
¼ teaspoonful of Armour's Extract of Beef, in a cup of hot water, makes delicious beef tea which fortifies the whole system against colds, la grippe, and influenza. It gives a grateful feeling of warmth and relieves fatigue.

Insist on having ARMOUR'S Extract of Beef. It has that rich beefy flavor. At all Grocers and Druggists.

ARMOUR LIMITED, TORONTO.
Sole packers and shippers for Canada.

FOR THE
PROTECTION OF THE PUBLIC

PUNCHED RUBBERS



A hole PUNCHED in a Rubber indicates that it is a Factory Imperfect or Out of Style or in some way inferior and liable to prove unsatisfactory.

In order that these may be distinguished from perfect goods they are PUNCHED as indicated in illustration shown herewith.

Purchasers of Rubber Footwear should see that goods represented to them as perfect, and up-to-date, are Not Punched.

PUNCHED RUBBERS

KEEP IT HANDY.
If there are children in the house, there's a need for Menthol Worm Remover
It cleanses the system of worms—regulates the bowels—cures constipation — prevents diarrhoea and stomach troubles—brings babies safely through teething. 25c. a box—at druggists
The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

There is no Salt for table use that can compare with WINDSOR SALT.
It is absolutely pure, never cakes, and is always the same perfect quality.

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer MADAME Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer

One Year's Subscription Free of Cost

to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to March 1, 1906, or later.

MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.

Sign and Send This Coupon
TO-DAY
Daily By Mail . $3.00
Weekly By Mail . $1.00

To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited, Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $............

Name.................................. P. O.............................
Address.................................. ....

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON

Remember: Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to March 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME for Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.

SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels, free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEAWOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address.

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1

Name

Street No.

Town ____ State ____

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2

Name

Street No.

Town ____ State ____

Please also send Book No ____ to

Name

Street No.

Town ____ State ____

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number

(NOW READY.)

Contains 20 Prominent Features. A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

from the stand point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

A typical Southerner writes this article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands 15 cents per copy.

EXAMS. IN FOXBORO SCHOOL FOR FEBRUARY.

Foxboro, Feb. 24, '05.

The following is the result of examinations in our Public School for present month. The names in various classes are arranged in order of merit:

Class 1., No. 2 — Gerald Root, Eugene Lake.

Class 1., No. 1—Roy Bartlett.

Jr. Part II. — Kathleen Peck, Pearl Palmer, Estella Lowery, Norman Curlett, Clara Gay, Bert Sills, Harry Potter, Glen Marigold.

Jr. II. — Hazel Wooton, Arthur Bryan.

Sr. II. — Tommy Bartlett, Hazel Gardner, Gerald Wickett, Kenneth Prentice, Ernest Barragar, Harold Gardner, Lillie Wickett.

—B. H. Frost, teacher.

Jr. III. — Clarence Lang, Fred Burd, Clayton Potter, Earl Rombough, Willie Bryan.

Int. III. — Johnny Logue, Grace Barragar, Arthur Clarke, Willie Burd, Almon Wickett, Cleborn Gay.

Sr. III. — Lulu Lowery, Floral Wooton, Tommy McEwen, Gerrance Jose, Clarence Eggleton, Hubert Gay.

Jr. IV. — Earl Prentice, Willie Thompson, Hattie Ward, Harry Carter.

Sr. IV. — Cora Sills, George Palmer, Roy Ward, Willie Cruse, Earl Simmons, John Gowsell, Ollie Lowery, Frank Cruse.

V. — Florence Wickett, Annie Gay, Fred Wooton, Everett Ward.

—M. W. Mott, teacher.

BRONCHITIC ASTHMA A HEAVY BURDEN.

Asthma is bad enough, but when bronchial symptoms are added the poor sufferer has almost an intolerable existence. An absolute specific is found in fragrant healing Catarrhozone which cures chronic cases that other remedies won't even relieve. "For years," writes Capt. MacDonald, of Montreal, "I battled with the agonies of bronchitic asthma. Often I couldn't sleep for nights at a time. I spent thousands on doctors and medicines without relief, but one dollar's worth of Catarrhozone cured me." Catarrhozone can't fail; it's guaranteed. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c.

Novel Fishermen.

The boys who live near a body of water containing perch, bullheads or catfish can make large catches by means of simple devices.

An old jug, well stoppered, makes an excellent assistant. After emptying the jug and corking it securely take it to the place where you want to fish and, making a line fast, bait your hook and carefully lower the jug in the water.

A tempting worm on a hook below a jug is liable to result in a bite, and then the jug commences to bob about in an amazing manner. If the fish is large it may tow the jug around the water for awhile, but a heavy jug will soon tire out even a big fish, and then you can haul in the captive.

If jugs are not obtainable, large bottles are effective, although they do not offer the resistance the heavy jug does and, unless dark colored, are hard to see on the water.

To Extract Flower Essence.

Any little girl may make perfumery in the following manner: Place a layer of the flowers in a clean earthen pot and over them a layer of fine salt. Repeat the process until the pot is filled, cover closely and place in the cellar. Forty days afterward strain the essence from the whole through a crape by pressure. Put the essence thus expressed in a clear bottle and expose for six weeks in the rays of the sun and evening dew to purify. One drop of this essence will communicate its odor to a pint of water.

Wanted the Trousers.

Little Antony, aged three, was at Sunday school in his first pair of trousers. A picture of several little angels was before the class.

"Antony, would you like to be a little angel?" asked the teacher.

"No, ma'am," replied Antony after a careful inspection of the picture.

"Not like to be an angel, Antony! Why not?"

"'Cause, ma'am, I'd have to give up my trousers."—Little Chronicle.

Cleaning House.

Dolly's clothes are on the line,
Dolly's dishes fairly shine,
Dolly's home is swept all through,
Chairs and tables look like new,
Dolly's little mother, May,
Has been cleaning house today.

—Sunbeam.

TO CURE FEVER CHILLS

And such complaints as "shivers" and ague we recommend Nerviline very highly. Twenty drops of Nerviline taken in hot water with a little sugar three times daily not only stops the chills, but knocks out the disease completely. Nerviline has a direct action on fever chills and removes the conditions causing them. In stomach and bowel troubles Nerviline never fails. It's pleasant to the taste, quick to relieve and always cures permanently. Get a 25c bottle to-day.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403. Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

25c. BIRD BOOK FREE

Thousands sold. Eat this book free by sending us 3 bird keepers' addresses and 3 Bird Bread yellow wrappers. Bird Bread in 10c yellow pkts. (2 tins) of any grocer or druggist. If dealer has none send his address to us and cash or stamps for pkts. wanted.

BIRD BREAD [Avoid imitations! Pats. 1891-99-96] cures birds' ills and makes them sing. Free tin in 2 lb. Cottam Bird Seed pkts., the standard bird food, sold everywhere. Expert help in bird troubles free for reply stamp. Address exactly COTTAM BIRD SEED, 23 St, London, Ont.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MISS LUCY DOGGETT.

Food Chemist of the Illinois State Food Commission.

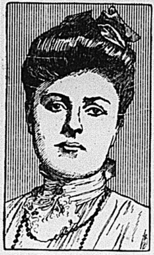
In Chicago there is a pretty young woman who by pluck and spunk has won the proud title of the only feminine food chemist in the world.

Her name is Lucy Doggett, and she has come to be the principal reliance of the Illinois state food commission.

Miss Doggett is slender and youthful, with a girlish trick of blushing at slightest complimentary mention of her distinctive abilities and attainments.

"Food chemistry" the pretty pioneer regards as opening the gate of a new, attractive and ever widening field of feminine effort. Her own triumphant entry into this field came about through a combination of wise forethought, careful preparation and happy chance.

A little more than five years ago Miss Doggett, whose home is in McKinney, Tex., concluded her high school course and carefully scanned the mental horizon for a suitable profession. Always interested and gifted in scientific directions, she chose the work of a dispensing chemist as the best fitted for future endeavors.



MISS LUCY DOGGETT.

After looking into this line of work more fully, however, she decided against it; but, as chemical work still appealed to her, she cast about for another opening. The Illinois food commission having been established and in need of trained chemical assistants, it occurred to Miss Doggett that here was her opportunity. The novelty of a woman seeking the work in hand was so out of the ordinary that the gentlemen at the head of the commission were at first inclined to turn the fair chemical expert down, but as she had strong letters of recommendation they concluded to "let her try." That was several years ago, and Miss Doggett is still a highly valued member of the staff of the Illinois state food commission.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Restful Home.

As a matter of fact, the average woman pays very little attention to the subject of color in her home, yet it is the most important factor in its general makeup and makes for beauty or ugliness according to the way the color is used.

When a house gives you a feeling of indescribable charm and tranquillity as you enter it you may be sure this effect is due to the choice of color. The mysterious something that gives an air of individuality to the home is from the same cause—the right distribution of color and its powerful mental influence on the inmates and friends of the household.

The word home suggests a retreat—a safe place where one may shut out the world and its cares. But if the home is so arranged that naught but a disturbing element is the result the home defeats its own object.

The interior of one's home, be it flat, apartment, house or room, should be such that tired nerves may be rested within its walls, the mind and body refreshed and invigorated and the whole being cheered and at the same time rendered peaceful by its influence.

The Woman of About Thirty.

When one knows the age of a woman one knows the woman. The very fact that she permits you to know her age exposes her character. She no longer masquerades. She has lost a certain uncertainty, an evanescent delicacy, that was an irresistible charm. Women, like philosophy, are divided into two classes, the knowable and the unknowable. Also like philosophy, it is the unknowable woman who is the speculable. Therefore to get her at her highest capacity she must be unmarried and about thirty.

The married woman presents certain inescapable telltale data. She has children, and those children have apparent ages, two facts which go far in determining her annals. If she is unmarried and is not "about thirty" she is under thirty, again a definite fact. Being "about thirty" is indefinite. She may be more or less. No one hazards a guess. There is a delightful vagueness in being "about thirty." It has nothing to do with dates, and many of us who from our youth up have felt no attachment for dates can forgive the unattacked their confessed indifference.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Made Over Batteries.

Dry batteries used for ringing doorbells last but a few months, the zinc outer casing becoming eaten through by the chemicals within. The holes thus formed allow the moisture to escape, and, as this moisture is what keeps the battery at work, its escape means the death, as it were, of the battery. But they are still useful. It is only necessary to take a glass or porcelain jar (quart fruit jar) and set the battery in it after having filled it about half full of water in which a tablespoonful of sal ammoniac has been dissolved. The moisture will then be again supplied, and the sal ammoniac will replenish what has been used up in the use of the battery. If the holes eaten in the zinc are small or few in number, punch a few with a nail. I have run the bell in our house for more than a year with two batteries which had been thrown away as useless, and they seem to be in as workable condition now as ever. Ten cents or less and a little work saved at least a dollar.—Good Housekeeping.

Dining Room Bric-a-brac.

In the dining room nothing is more beautiful for the plate rail and sideboard than pieces of old china in blue and white and green and white. Most interesting color effects can be obtained with friezes of this kind. Combined with collections of pewter porringers and tankards, brass coffee jugs and pitcher, the effect is extremely decorative if care is taken in the selection of the background color. Other inexpensive but effective pieces of purely decorative bric-a-brac are plaster casts. If well made, exact reproductions, they are very satisfactory in soft ivory tints. There is a great difference in them, and the cheap, poorly made cast is worse than none.—Harper's Bazar.

Managing Candles.

When candles begin to flare high and flicker on the dinner table, the hostess, intent on preserving the life of her set of dainty candle shades, keeps an anxious eye on these frail bits of lace or paper. To instantly extinguish the blaze dip a bit of bread in water and apply it to the wick. This will prevent the smoke that comes from blowing it out. The candlestick can then be removed from the table for the waitress to lower the holder, and so set the candle sufficiently above the lower edge of the frame that when the candle is relit it may not ignite the pretty and perishable shade.

Polish For Woodwork.

To one pint of linseed oil take the same quantity of cold strong tea, the whites of two eggs and two ounces of spirits of salt to make a polish for the woodwork. Mix all well together, then pour into a bottle, which must be well shaken before the polish is used. Make a pad of soft linen, pour a few drops of the polish on to it and rub the article to be polished well with it, finishing off with an old silk handkerchief. The above is a Japanese recipe, and in Japan fine paper is used instead of the linen and silk.

Delicious Luncheon Dish.

A delicious luncheon dish that can be easily and quickly prepared is shirred eggs with cheese. Have twelve eggs, one pound of grated cheese, one-quarter teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, two tablespoonfuls of butter and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Put a tablespoonful of cheese in the bottom of each individual dish and break two eggs into every one, cover with cheese and butter and bake a few minutes. When unexpected guests come in at lunchtime this quick and palatable dish will be found a boon.

Anaemic Girls.

Paleness of the complexion is often one of the signs of anaemia, a complaint from which young girls very often suffer nowadays. For these an indoor life is exceedingly undesirable, and they should be out in the fresh air as much as possible. A course of cod liver oil and iron is beneficial, and the diet should consist of milk, farinaceous foods, etc., and a cold or tepid morning bath is excellent as causing better circulation of the blood.

Pillow and Mattress.

Two articles of bedclothing call for special criticism—the mattress and the pillow. The mattress should be well ventilated, not of feathers. The pillow should be the coolest part of the bed. Generally, owing to its feathers, it is the warmest. Why it is no one knows except that custom is our king. The pillow is also far too high. A low and cool pillow is by far the most restful and beneficial.

To Glaze Linen.

To glaze linen add to every pound of starch a piece of white wax about the size of a walnut. When ready for ironing, the linen should be laid upon the table, slightly moistened, and first ironed with a box iron. After this an iron rounded at the bottom, very heavy and very bright, is used for the glossing process.

Parsley.

It seems a pity to throw away a good part of a bunch of parsley, yet in small families it is often hard to use it all before it withers and turns yellow. It is said that the sprays will keep perfectly if put in a fruit jar with layers of salt.

One prominent decorator says that every room to be successful must have a feature—that is, a special decoration that gives character to the whole room.

To make a low room look higher let the curtains hang to the floor. Short curtains make a room look lower than it is.

Burn pine tar occasionally in a sickroom. It is an excellent disinfectant, and it also induces sleep.

For comfort a bed should never be placed facing a window.

Sunlight Soap makes homes bright.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

should be used to clean your house as well as wash your clothes. It does twice the work of a common soap in half the time and with less labor. Don't take our word for it, but try it for yourself.

ASK FOR THE OCTAGON BAR

Sunlight Soap Washes the Clothes White and won't Hurt the Hands.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO 6a

THE NEW STORE.

Special Bargains!

—25 pieces Wraperette, regular price 12½c, on sale at .... 9c a yd.
—Ladies' Top Skirts, nicely tailored, at $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and up to .... $10.00 ea.
—5 doz. Corsets well worth 75c, on sale at .... 50c pr.
—5 doz. Tape Girdle Corsets, regular price 40c, on sale at ..35c pr.

Table Linens

—50 ends Table Linen, direct from Belfast and the best value that ever left Ireland, lengths 2½ and 3 yds., regular price $1.00, go on sale at .... 69c yd.
—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen 60 inches wide, regular price 45c, on sale at .... 35c yd.
—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen, 72 inches wide, regular price 65c, on sale at .... 45c yd

NEW GOODS ARRIVING DAILY.

Wims & Co

PAY $1.00

a pound for tea—and we doubt if you will be any better satisfied than with the tea we can sell you for because it's the best all round value—quality, strength and flavor, all you could ask for—and the price is reasonable. Try it—for your next tea.

40c Per Pound

STROUD'S Tea and China Stores Opp. Anglo-American Front Street, Bellevil

| STROUD'S 'PHONE 301. |

K&K NOT A DOLLAR NEED BE PAID K&K

ESTABLISHED 25 YEARS.

UNLESS CURED

THE MASTER SPECIALISTS OF AMERICA

We know the diseases and weaknesses of men like an open book. We have been curing them for 30 years. We have given our lives to it, and thousands upon thousands of men restored to Vigorous Vitality are today living monuments to the skill, knowledge and success of Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. We never hold out false hopes, we never undertake a case we cannot cure. We have made so thorough a study of all the diseases of men—of Varicocele, Stricture, Blood Poisons, Hydrocele, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Bladder, Urinary and Kidney Diseases, General Weakness, Loss of Vitality, and have cured so many thousands of cases that if there is a cure for YOUR disease you will find it here. When we undertake a case there is no such thing as failure. We charge nothing for consultation and our knowledge, skill and experience are at your service. We will explain to you How and Why We Can Cure You; why the diseases of men require the knowledge and skill of Master Specialists. We do not require to experiment with your case as we know from experience in treating thousands of cases exactly what to prescribe for your symptoms. Don't be discouraged if you have treated without success with Quacks, Fakirs, Electric Belts, Free Trials, etc. You must get cured—and Doctors alone can cure you. Our New Method System of treatment has stood the test for 25 years—why should it fail in your case. Should your case prove incurable you need not pay us a dollar. We refer you to any Bank in this city as to our financial standing. If you cannot call write for a Question Blank for Home Treatment. Consultation Free. Booklets sent Free.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN

148 SHELBY STREET, DETROIT, MICH.

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Preliminary Showing of NEW SPRING CLOTHES

We take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to-date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

SPRING SHIRTS

A GOOD JUDGE will appreciate the many points that can be seen in our shirts.

COLORED OR WHITE.

PLAITED OR HARD BOSOM.

FANCY NEGLIGEE.

They are perfect fitting and styles are absolutely correct.

Chas. J. Symons,
successor to W. B. Deacon.
Shirts Made to Order. 298 Front St.

$1 Bottles for 50 cts

Orange Quinine Wine

Each wine glass contains ORANGE WINE and 2 gr. of the purest QUININE.

A splendid appetizer and tonic.

WATERS

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anlgo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.

For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.

As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.
Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER. Belleville

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
J. E. Carman, Manager.

MONDAY, MARCH 6th

MR. WM. H. O'NEILL PRESENTS:

MR JAMES HORNE

—IN—

Hearts of Oak

By James A. Herene, Author of "Shore Acres," "Sag Harbor" and other Plays, Management of N. J. Lawler. Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c. Plan open Saturday morning.

PUBLIC MEETING

—FOR—

Old Boys' Reunion.

All citizens that are interested in Belleville having an Old Boys' Reunion this summer, are requested to meet in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening, March 1st, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing and making necessary arrangements for the proper carrying out of the Reunion. CHAS. N. SULMAN, Mayor.
27,28,1

To be Tried on Friday.

The man Sylvanus Burnham, who is accused of obtaining $10 in money and an overcoat from Bigelow Bros. of Trenton, under false pretences, was yesterday afternoon brought up before Judge Lazier for election. He elected to be tried before His Honor and the trial was fixed for Friday next.

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all druggists.

BIRTH.

SILLS. — In Belleville, on Tuesday, Feb. 28, to Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sills, a daughter.

DEATHS

STEWART. — Died at the residence of her son, D. E. K. Stewart, Madoc, on the 28th February, 1905, Caroline Kinnear Stewart, aged 93 years and 11 months, relict of the late John Stewart, barrister, Stratford, Ontario.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

DISTRICT DEPUTY'S VISIT.

A. O. U. W. SPENT A PLEASANT TIME LAST NIGHT.

Dr. Simmons, of Frankford, who is the District Deputy in connection with the Ancient Order of United Workmen, last evening paid an official visit to the local lodge. A number of the members of Frankford Lodge accompanied the Deputy, and visitors were also present from other lodges in the vicinity. The attendance at the meeting was large and addresses relative to the Order were given by the District Deputy and others. At the conclusion of the lodge meeting the brethren adjourned to Mr. Jas. Wallace's restaurant and partook of an oyster supper. This part of the proceedings was presided over by Bro. W. J. McCamen, Master Workman of the Belleville Lodge. A number of toasts were proposed and responded to. These were interspersed with songs. At a seasonable hour the pleasant gathering broke up, after singing the National Anthem.

THE VINEGAR FACTORY.

BUILDING NEEDS MANY REPAIRS —MANUFACTURE WILL NOT BEGIN BEFORE NEXT FALL.

In conversation with a representative of The Intelligencer, ex-Mayor Graham stated that as soon as possible work would be commenced in making necessary repairs to the Severn brewery property and preparing it for a vinegar factory. Owing to the fact that the building has been idle for some years it will not only take considerable time, but considerable money, to place the interior of the structure in a proper state of repair.

Asked as to when he expected to have the factory in operation, Mr. Graham said it would be in the fall, namely, the latter part of September or the first of October.

Gone to Gananoque.

Prof. Willmott, for the past seven years organist of Christ Church, this city, left at noon to-day for Gananoque, where he has secured the position of organist and choirmaster of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. On Monday evening the Professor was presented, by the congregation of Christ Church, with a purse of gold in token of appreciation of his past services as organist, the Rector, Rev. W. B. Heeney, Mr. Parker, and others making some very appreciative remarks, and wishing him success in his new sphere of labor. Mrs. (Col.) Campbell will be the next organist of Christ Church.

"SWISS FOOD" FACT.

Many people would as soon do without breakfast as take it without "SWISS FOOD." 15c packages.

A BEAUTIFUL WHITE DISPLAY

A most pleasant prospect awaits visitors to the The Ritchie Co.'s establishment. Decorated throughout in spotless white the whole is most inviting and in keeping with their whitewear sale which commenced today.

The Mantle department is filled to overflowing with the daintiest white creations covered with the finest laces and embroideries which are at such moderate prices as to be almost irresistible.

Judging from the crowds that visited this department to-day and the complimentary remarks heard on all sides, this sale will be all that this firm expects it to be—their best ever.

CHEERFUL MR. HICKS.

PROPHECIES A BIG BLIZZARD FOR MARCH 21ST. — IT WILL BE A STORMY MONTH, HE SAYS.

Irl R. Hicks has issued his weather forecast for March. It says: The first marked disturbances for March will be central on the 3rd, 4th and 5th. These reactionary storms will culminate in high temperature, low barometer, with rain and high winds on and touching the 5th, ending in snow storms over much of the country to the northward. The Mercury disturbance being central on the 7th, the probabilities are that continued cloudy, threatening, sleety conditions will continue into the regular storm period following:

A sudden high barometer with quick and severe change to boreal winds and blizzardous conditions may result in the northern sections on and about the 5th, but a rapid reaction to warmer will set in about the 7th, followed by falling barometer from western extremes, ending in general storms of rain, sleet and snow during the Vulcan storm period extending from the 7th to the 12th. Careful students of our forecasts will not forget that the little globe passes a magneto-electric crisis on and about March the 11th each year. This fact always increases the probabilities of storms, tidal waves and seismic perturbations about this time. Several boreal storms with a March cold wave need not surprise anyone from about the 11th to the 14th.

It must be remembered that the vernal equinoctial period extends over all this month, and that storm conditions may arise at almost any time, even outside of the regular storm periods. But the most pronounced and general disturbances will arise, and reach their culminating climaxes, during these regular periods. The 15th to the 17th will bring a marked storm period, culminating in low barometer, rising temperature and general storm conditions ending in wide areas of rain and snow. Another high barometer and March cold wave may suddenly slip in from the northwest from about the 17th to the 19th, but it will give way as suddenly as it came and the most general and violent storm conditions of the month will appear during the storm period immediately following.

This storm period is from the 19th to the 21st being at its centre on the 21st the central day of Earth's vernal equinoctial period, with the moon at the full, on the celestial equator and in perigee. This is a storm period that every student reasonably familiar with our forecasts will watch with much interest. The Indications are that tropical storms and hurricanes will reach the extreme parts of our south country about the 19th to 22nd, notably on and touching the 21st, and, that rain and high wind, turning to snow and very cold for the season, will meet the tropical equatorial storms from the northwest. A severe March blizzard over much of the country northward, is among the probabilities at this period. Exposed regions along the south and gulf coast will do well to watch barometric and other storm indications at this time. Volcanic and seismic disturbances will reach a maximum state of excitation over the globe generally within sixty hours of six p. m. on the 20th. Watch for such reports in the world's telegraphic news covering this period. The month will not bring a maximum of cold, but much precipitation in the form of rain, sleet or snow will occur, with disagreeable fluctuations of temperature, an unsteady state of the barometer, and some furious storms. A Venus period centering near the time of the vernal equinox is always an admonition that disagreeable weather and many severe to dangerous storms and other perturbations are to be expected.

Died at Great Age.

Mrs. Caroline K. Stewart, widow of the late Mr. John Stewart, barrister, died yesterday at the residence of her son, Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, of Madoc Village. Deceased was in her 94th year, having been born in the year 1811. For some years Mrs. Stewart was a resident of this city, where she was well-known. She was an estimable lady, esteemed by all who knew her, and was a member of the Anglican Church. For a number of years she had been a resident of Madoc Village. Mr. Stewart preceded her to the tomb many years ago. Mrs. John Bell, who resides on Queen street, this city, is a niece of the deceased.

Parsnips possess the same virtues as sarsaparilla.

Sports and Pastimes

HOCKEY.

Printers and Sinclairs Tie.

The Typos and Sinclair & Co.'s hockey teams last evening, from 7 to 8 o'clock, battled for supremacy, but the match resulted in a draw, each team scoring 4 goals. When the hour was up the score was a tie, and play was resumed for ten minutes longer, but neither side was able to score. The game was somewhat rough and during its progress W. Bawden was struck over the right eye with the puck, which not only discolored the optic, but necessitated two stitches being taken in the cut made. Mr. W. Pepper was referee and performed his duties satisfactorily to both teams. The line-up was as follows:

Printers.		Sinclair Co.
Blaind	Goal	Thompson
Reeves	Point	Morey
Thomas	Cover	Wallace
Embury	Rover	Burns
Bawden	Centre	Moore
Sharpe	Right Wing	Simmons
Bergoyne	Left Wing	Dulmage

A Severe Indictment.

Says the Montreal Sunday Sun:—"Four men are now dead as the result of reckless play, reckless use of the hockey stick as an offensive weapon; reckless behavior in general.

"Remember this, if you do not want to become a victim yourself, if you do not want to be haunted for the remainder of your days by the spectre of the opponent you have killed, unintentionally no doubt, but effectually, just the same.

"On the 22nd of last month the Sun warned players against the reckless play that has been so indiscriminately indulged in this season, and expressed the opinion that this sort of work would doubtless result in murder, or manslaughter, but certainly in death.

"Less than two weeks afterwards, Chester Bullard, of Brookline, Mass., was hit with a stick by an opponent and died, the opponent being arrested for manslaughter, but afterwards released. This was on February 4th.

On February 10th, Robert Fraser, of Pembroke, was killed

"On February 22nd Hanford McLean, of Woodstock, N.B., was killed.

"On Friday night Alcide Laurin, of Alexandria, was killed at Maxville.

"A gruesome record for a space of time embracing less than three weeks.

"There is one remedy.

"Adherence to the rules.

"In the laws of hockey it is stated distinctly that a hockey stick shall not be lifted above the shoulder. If this law were attended to and were observed, the awful massacre, which if it continues, will soon put the casualty list of football in the shade, would not be heard of any more."

SPORTING NOTES.

Toronto Star: It is common talk in the East that Alf. Smith, of the Ottawa team, receives $20 a week for coaching the Smith's Falls team. He has evidently taught them some of his methods on the ice.

Stratford juniors beat St. Andrew's College 10-3 last night, and now look like sure winners of the junior O.H.A. championship. The second and deciding game will be played in Toronto to-morrow night.

Tom Phillips' Rat Portage team will play the Ottawas for the Stanley Cup next week, and have, judging by their record, an elegant fighting chance of lifting the silverware. The expression, "fighting chance," is, of course, used advisedly

Cobourg put Peterboro T.A.S. out of the Trent Valley League championship race last night, and Berlin will probably do as much for Peterboro's O.H.A. intermediate team tonight.

There will be a big excursion from Toronto to see the Marlboros and Smith's Falls play next Tuesday in Peterboro. Will it be a love feast or Donnybrook Fair?

A thousand pounds was paid in England for the release and transfer of a football player, which shows that, with an admission fee of sixpense, there must still be big money in the game.

Young Corbett was easy game for Battling Nelson last night. Dissipation and success never did go hand in hand.

Ireland defeated England, at Rugby, by 17 to 3.

There was a panic at the big exhibition match played in Rat Portage last night between Rat Portage and an All-Winnipeg team. During half-time an alarm of fire was raised and the crowd of three thousand people swarmed on to the ice towards the exits. There was no fire and quiet was soon restored, although many received bruises. The game was won by Rat Portage by 15 to 4.

The Smith's Falls hockey team will be on the ice at Peterboro next Tuesday night to do battle for the O.H.A. championship. While the team think they have not been fairly treated, they are nothing loth to try conclusions again with the champions and all they ask is a fair field and an honest referee.

FAMILY LOVE.

All the family love Clark's Corned Beef — it contains no fat, gristle or bone. W. Clark, Mfr., Montreal.

The New Assessment.

CITY ASSESSOR REEVES WRITES ON A VERY TIMELY SUBJECT —A CLEAR EXPOSITION OF THE NEW MEASURE.

To The Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear, Sir, — As a large number of the ratepayers of the city are daily enquiring of me what the new Assessment Act is, I therefore make the following explanation.

First, I will deal with Real Estate. The definition of "real property" and "real estate" is much broader than in the old Act and is contained in sub-section 7 of section 2, and reads as follows: Land, Real Estate and Real Property shall include: Land covered with water; all trees and underwood growing upon land; all mines, minerals, gas, oil, salt, quarries, and fossils in and under land; all structures and fixtures erected or placed upon, in, over, under or affixed to any highway, road, street, lane or public place or water; but not the rolling stock of any railway, electric railway, tramway or street railway. In assessing land having any buildings erected thereon the value of the land and the buildings shall be ascertained separately and shall be set down in separate columns, and the assessment shall be the value of the two added together, and the Act also provides that the value of the buildings shall be the amount by which the land is thereby increased.

The following illustration will show what is meant by the above:

Let us assume that a $10,000 building is erected upon a lot valued at $1000, on the west side of Front St., between Bridge St. and Victoria Ave., the probability is that the value would be in the neighborhood of $11,000, but if the same $10,000 building were placed on land valued at $1000 on the outskirts of the city, it is likely that the actual value of the whole would be much less than the aggregate of the two sums, therefore the amount to be placed in the column headed "Value of Buildings" would not be $10,000 but whatever amount in the opinion of the assessor would represent the difference between the value of the whole parcel.

There are a number of exemptions from assessment of land; these are contained in section 5 of the new Act, and are practically the same as the old Act, with the exceptions of those contained in clause 16 of section 5, which provides for the exemption of all machinery used for manufacturing or farming purposes, but this shall not apply to fixed machinery used by a railway company, electric light company or gas company.

The loss to this municipality by the exemption of machinery, will have the effect of reducing the assessment by about $90,000, but this will be partly made up by the "business assessment" on manufacturers of 60 per cent. on the assessed value of the premises occupied by them, but there will still be a large deficit which will have to come from some other source; there is also a clause in the new Act that exempts every college from taxation; this will also be a loss to this municipality, as the two business colleges in our city were formerly assessed the same as other property.

As there are not many persons interested in the details of the mode of assessing railways, telephone, telegraph and electric light companies, I will not deal with them for the present, but will pass on to a consideration of what is known as the "Business Assessment." Section 10 of the new Act reads as follows:

"Irrespective of any assessment of land under this Act, every person occupying or using land in the municipality for the purpose of any business mentioned or described in this section, shall be assessed for a sum to be called "Business Assessment," to be computed by reference to the assessed value of the land so occupied by him as follows:

"'Distillers for a sum equal to 150 per cent. of the assessed value. Brewers 75 per cent., but this shall not include a malting house, which shall be assessed for 60 per cent. A wholesale merchant, insurance, loan or trust company, as defined by the Act, express or land company, or a bank or banker or any other financial business for a sum equal to 75 per cent. of the said assessed value.

A coal or wood or lumber dealer, lithographer, printer or publisher, or a club in which fermented liquors are sold, and any premises in respect of which a shop license has been granted, for 50 per cent. of the assessed value.

Professional men of all classes and every person carrying on a financial or commercial business as agent only, for a sum equal to 50 per cent. of the said assessed value. Any person mentioned in this clause using land partly for the purpose of a business and partly as a residence, 50 per cent. of the total assessed value shall be construed to be the full assessed value of the land so occupied or used for business purposes. Perhaps the following example will make this section more clear: A doctor having a residence and office combined (and nearly all doctors have their office in the same premises as their residence) being assessed for $4,000, his business assessment would be calculated upon 50 per cent. of the above, which would make it $2,000, and as he is to pay a business tax of 50 per cent. of the assessed value for business purposes his business assessment would be $1,000.

Every person carrying on the business of a retail merchant in cities having a population of less than 10,000 shall pay a business assessment of 35 per cent.

Every person carrying on the business of a photographer, theatre, concert hall, skating rink, boarding stable, livery, restaurant, hotel, or any trade or commercial business not before mentioned, for a sum equal to 25 per cent. of the said assessed value. Where the amount of the assessment of any person under the above section would be less than $250 he shall be assessed for the sum of $250.

The old assessment on "personal property" is now abolished and the business assessment has taken its place, and is a great improvement over the "personal assessment," as the assessor has not got to enquire into the financial standing of a business man, as his business assessment is rated according to the value of land he occupies for the purpose of his business.

INCOME.

There is a great change here and it should be the means of increasing the revenue considerably, as the annual income from personal earnings are only exempt in this municipality, to the extent of $700, and where a person is not a householder only to the extent of $400. (This will hit the bachelors who are earning over $400 per year salary.) Income derived from rents of real estate is exempt, but income derived wheresoever from interest on mortgages, bonds, stocks, debentures, personal securities and from money lent or invested on any other securities, or on bank deposit, or without security, are all assessable for the full amount, as there are no exemptions allowed on the above.

As I fear I have already taken up too much space, in conclusion, I may state that in order to facilitate the work of the assessor very much increased power has been conferred upon him, and all persons liable to assessment are required to furnish under oath such information as he may require.

Respectfully yours,
W. F. REEVES,
City Assessor.

Mrs. Diamond's Fatal Mistake.

QUEENSBORO LADY TOOK POISON YESTERDAY IN MISTAKE FOR SALTS, AND DIED IN SPITE OF MEDICAL AID — SAD ENDING TO A SHORT MARRIED LIFE.

A sad story comes from Queensboro, a village about 35 miles from this city, which shows that people cannot be too careful in the matter of having deadly poisons around their houses.

The victim in this case was Mrs. Harry Diamond, a young married lady, 25 years of age, who, yesterday morning, took a dose of poison, supposing the same to be salts.

Medical aid was hastily summoned, as it became apparent at once that a terrible mistake had been made. Dr. Harrison, of Madoc, arrived on the scene as soon as possible, but too late to be of any use, and the unfortunate victim of an awful mistake died about noon, after pitiful sufferings.

Dr. Harrison took the bottle of poison away with him to be analyzed.

An inquest will be held this afternoon, presided over by Dr. Sutton, coroner, of Madoc.

The greatest sympathy is expressed for the stricken relatives in the terrible misfortune which has befallen them.

BRIDEGROOM SAW HIS BRIDE-TO BE IN A DREAM

A PSYCHOLOGICAL PROBLEM WHICH SCIENTISTS MAY STUDY OVER — McTAGGART — CLAPP NUPTIALS.

"Edwin McTaggart
Edith A. Clapp
Married
Wednesday, February the twenty-second,
Nineteen hundred and five,
Vancouver, B.C.
At Home
After March fifteenth,
Halzie, B.C."

A number of friends in this city and county have received the above announcements of the marriage of Miss Edith A. Clapp, formerly of this city. Mr. McTaggart is certainly to be congratulated on winning the affections of so estimable a young lady. Mr. McTaggart was a former resident of this city.

Somewhat of a romance attaches to this wedding. It is stated that early in the past year Mr. McTaggart dreamt that he was being married to a certain lady. He was fascinated with his bride and the dream left such an impression on him that he decided that if ever he met a person looking like the one he saw in his dream he would marry her if he could. A few months afterwards he met Miss Clapp at the home of a mutual friend in Vancouver, and the moment he saw her he recognized her as the lady he had been married to in his dream. A further acquaintance convinced him that he had "met his fate," and that she was willing to be linked to him for life.

Smokers Cancer

Numerous cases of this kind of Cancer have been cured by our Scientific Constitutional Remedy. Cancer of the lip has popularly become known by the name of "Smokers Cancer" on account of so many cases occuring as a result of the continued irritation of a hot short pipe or nicotine. If your lips crack easily and form lumps, you are in danger. Send us 6 cents for our booklet "Cancer, its Cause and Cure." Mention this paper.

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

Daily Intelligencer.

Something really new and delightful in Chocolate Confectionery.

Milk Chocolate Peanut Nougat

Our own make. 60c a lb. Try some.

Chas. S. Clapp

WESTERN BEEF.

Try Green's All-pork Sausages. 10c pound. Mixed Sausages at 3 pounds cents.

CHAS. GREEN.

67 Front St. Phone 109.

Chaps Vanish

If you have not tried our Winter Cream now is the time to begin. It is a dainty, healing preparation, that cures chapped and roughened skin as few things can. Starts healing at once, because it is all absorbed. Nicely perfumed and not greasy or sticky.

Sold only at—

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,

Sole Agent for Belleville.

Tel. 38. Front St.

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S

Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.

Picture Framing done correctly.

KILLED HIS PLAYMATE

Charlie Burridge, Aged 13 Struck Down With An Axe.

Injured Boy Lingered Unconscious for Nine Hours Before Death Came—The Lads Were Playing Snow Fort at London, an Axe Slipped From George Fox's Hand, Striking Down Young Burridge to the Ground.

London, March 1.—The neighborhood of Mr. Joseph T. Burridge's home, Riverview Avenue, South London, was the scene of a sad accident Monday evening, resulting in the death of Charles Burridge, a bright boy of 13 years, who received a fatal blow from an axe in the hands of a playmate named George Fox. Four boys—Charlie Burridge, George Fox, Allison Lewis and Robert Watt—all good friends, were playing together after school. They built a small snow fort on the bank near the river, and were pretending to have a fight, when George Fox, who was defending the fort, picked up an old axe and shouted to the attacking party to "Come on!" Young Burridge was stooping down making a snowball, when the axe slipped from Fox's hand, striking Charlie a terrible blow on the head, the boy sinking to the ground in an unconscious condition. The other boys gave the alarm, and Mrs. Burridge hurried to the scene. She carried her insensible son into the house and medical help was quickly secured, but of no avail. The lad lingered about nine hours, and died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

Coroner Ferguson found that the fatal blow had been struck by the blunt side of the axe, just over the right ear. Death was due to concussion of the brain. He decided that death was caused by accident, and that no inquest was necessary.

Mr. Burridge has seven children remaining. He is employed as a machinist in the stamping department of the McClary Company. George Fox is about 14 years of age, and his father is in business on York Street.

FELIX DOYLE HELD.

Arrested by Detective Greer and Charged With the Murder of His Mother—Case Remanded.

Brantford, March 1.—A few minutes before the close of the inquest into the death of Mrs. Margaret Doyle at Burford yesterday, the son, Felix Doyle, was arrested by Detective Greer, charged with the crime. The arrest did not come as a surprise. Few, if any, had any doubt about the son's connection with the terrible affair, his story Monday night before the coroner's jury being a mass of contradictions and complete repudiation of his previous statements.

All yesterday he was an interested spectator of the proceedings, but he was not called upon again. He displayed considerable nervousness, and had frequent suggestions to make to his lawyer, Mr. Baird of Brantford. Felix saw the humorous side of any evidence, and frequently smiled at things that appeared humorous to nobody else. He did not appear surprised when taken into custody, and made no protestations.

Remanded a Week.

The prisoner was taken before Squire Cox, who remanded him till next Tuesday. It is hardly likely anything will be done then, as the probability is the case will not be ready. It will be at least a week from Thursday before the preliminary hearing is in full swing.

Felix was brought to this city last night in charge of two county constables and lodged in the County Jail. He walked briskly from the train.

Said She Wouldn't Live Long.

Considerable important evidence was brought out yesterday. Many of the neighbors swore that Felix had expressed his opinion that his mother would not live very long, saying that she was very feeble. He also said he was afraid to leave her alone lest she fall and hurt herself. One witness said he had heard Felix had purchased quite a few implements lately and had not informed his mother of the fact. He had also borrowed some money with his mother's name attached to the note without her knowledge.

Most of the witnesses testified that Felix was always a good neighbor, but somewhat eccentric at times. He had no very great reputation for telling the truth, and frequently lied without any apparent motive. The club episode was dwelt upon at considerable length. Witnesses told how Felix had showed them the blood-stained club with the remark, "That killed mother."

Defence Is Insanity.

The jury were not very long in bringing the verdict which was in effect that death was due to violence, and that grave suspicion was attached to the son, Felix. It is probable that the defence will put up the plea of insanity, as most of the witnesses stated Felix was somewhat queer.

SCEPTICS TURN BELIEVERS AND ARE CURED

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder a Great Blessing

"When I read that Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder could relieve Catarrh in 10 minutes I was far from being convinced. I tried it—a single puff through the blower afforded instant relief, stopped pain over the eyes and cleansed the nasal passages. To-day I am free from Catarrh." B. L. Egan's (Easton, Pa.,) experience has been that of thousands of others and may be yours. 57

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

RHEUMATISM

Price 25c

GET IT TO-DAY

Cures Rheumatism Sciatica Lumbago Stiff an' Swollen Joints

I WILL REFUND YOUR MONEY IF IT FAILS.

MUNYON, Philadelphia

CAMP AND GUN RANGE.

Minister of Militia Announces That New Sites Will Be Ready for Use This Year.

Ottawa, March 1.—The Minister of Militia, yesterday morning, addressing the Dominion Artillery Association, expressed the hope that he would be able this year to provide a military camp and artillery range, and also alluded to the Government's determination to take over the fortifications at Halifax and Esquimalt. "We have in view two or three camp grounds," said the Minister, "which I believe the military authorities of my department think would do very well, and as soon as the snow disappears several officers—General Lake has kindly offered to go, and others also—will go and look over this ground once more and make a selection, so I think I am right in saying that this year you may count upon having a suitable camp ground and a suitable range."

Halifax and Esquimalt.

"I must not forget to mention one of the most important events that have occurred since the last meeting, namely, the offer on the part of the Government to take over the garrisoning of Halifax and Esquimalt. Nothing could be of greater interest to the artillery of Canada than that fact. The British Government has graciously accepted our offer, and in doing that, I think, has shown a degree of confidence in Canada which we ought to thoroughly appreciate. We will not be able to immediately find all the engineers and all the artillery necessary to replace those technical corps at Halifax and Esquimalt, but we can take over the full responsibility of command, of control, of payment, over everything connected with those two garrisons on the first day of July." (Applause.)

Two Fine New Guns.

Sir Frederick described the constitution of the new Militia Council, and paid a high compliment to General Lake, Chief of Staff. The latter spoke of his recent observations of modern guns, and said the progress in artillery of recent years had been something wonderful. The two things that had struck him most was the five-inch heavy gun and the 12-pounder anti-torpedo work at night. The new five-inch gun was remarkable for its heaviness, its extraordinary evenness of shooting and the ease with which it was kept on the target.

TO BREAK UP ONTARIO.

Agitation in Lake Superior Districts for Annexation to Manitoba.

Winnipeg, March 1.—A correspondent of The Free Press, wiring from Port Arthur, says that an agitation has begun there for the secession of the districts of Thunder Bay and Rainy River from the Province of Ontario, and their annexation to Manitoba. Some of the most influential Conservatives and Liberals, he goes on to say, are in favor of the scheme, and the latter especially since the defeat of their party in Ontario have come to see the advantages of such a course.

Take No Stock in It.

Toronto, March 1.—The disposition at the Parliament Buildings is to treat the story from Winnipeg regarding the alleged agitation for the secession of the Thunder Bay and Rainy River Districts of Ontario, and their annexation to Manitoba, in the nature of a joke. Premier Whitney had not read the despatch, and, therefore, expressed no opinion.

Hon. Mr. Matheson smilingly declared: "I don't think Manitoba will get the districts. There is nothing in the story."

Hon. Mr. Hanna also treated the matter jocularly. "There might have been some reason for the agitation before the 25th of January (the date of the Provincial elections)," he said, "but there is none now."

Mr. Southworth, Director of Colonization, said if there were any such agitation it originated in Manitoba. His large correspondence with people of the district had never contained any intimation of such a desire.

STILL HOLD THEIR OWN

Japanese Attack All Along the Line But Beaten Back.

Kuropatkin Assumed Aggressive After Jap Initiative, and Seized Bridge Across Shakhe—Ten Determined Jap Assaults Repulsed—Russians Threw Hand Grenades Into Japanese Trenches—Russians Lose 2,000—Kuropatkin to Retreat.

London, March 1.—Fighting on a large scale is in progress between the Russian and Japanese armies in Manchuria. Gen. Kuropatkin, after meeting the initiative of the Japanese in the eastern part of the Shakhe Valley, assumed the aggressive in the western portion yesterday, and under cover of a heavy artillery fire from Putiloff Hill and Novgorod Hill, succeeded in driving the Japanese from a position in the outskirts of Sandiapu. Simultaneously the Russians attacked the bridge on the Japanese centre. Much more serious are the Japanese operations against the Russian left wing, which threaten unless quickly checked, to oblige General Kuropatkin to abandon the positions on the Hun River, which he has occupied and fortified during the winter. There is no confirmation of the report that the Russian Commander-in-Chief has notified the Emperor that retreat northward has become imperative.

Japs Beaten Back.

Mukden, March 1.—Fighting was in progress yesterday along the whole line, the Japanese attacking everywhere. All attacks in the morning were beaten back, and the Russians made counter-attacks at many places.

On the right flank the Russians occupied Baotatzsi, close to Sandiapu, and from that position hurled hand grenades across the intervening ravine into the Japanese trenches in Sandiapu, causing heavy loss and great disorder.

The Russians have seized the head of the bridge across the Shakhe River in the centre of the Japanese lines, assisted by artillery firing of particular energy from Putiloff Hill and Novgorod Hill. Ten determined attacks opposite Yansintung and west of Vanupudzi were all repulsed with heavy loss.

The situation on the Rusisan left flank is unchanged as compared with Monday evening.

Russians Left 150 Dead.

Washington, March 1.—The Japanese Legation yesterday received the following official advices: "Our detachment on Feb. 23 attacked the enemy at Chighocheng, 30 miles east of Pensiho. Strong snowstorms and the steep nature of the ground and the melting ice of Latsuho greatly hindered our movements, but by noon our first line managed to press closely to the enemy's position and deliver fierce attacks. The enemy, consisting of sixteen battalions, with twenty guns, and holding strong positions with several rods of defensive works, offered stout resistance. At daybreak of Feb. 24 we renewed the attack, followed by grenade fighting, and in the evening Chinghocheng fell into our hands. The enemy who routed northward, burning Chinghocheng, leaving on the field 150 dead. We captured three machine guns, a number of rifles and ammunition. The enemy's loss is believed to be considerable. No case of frostbite in our army."

KUROPATKIN TO RETREAT.

So Russian General in Manchuria Informs Czar Nicholas.

St. Petersburg, March 1.—The Associated Press hears from a high source that Gen. Kuropatkin considers his position on the Shakhe River to be menaced to such an extent by Gen. Kuroki's success on the left flank as to necessitate the immediate withdrawal of his army to Tie Pass, and has so advised Emperor Nicholas.

No confirmation of this is obtainable in military circles here, where it is pointed out that with the Japanese pressing the whole Russian line, such an operation must almost inevitably end in disaster of the greatest magnitude.

It is semi-officially announced that in view of the appearance of Japanese troops in the rear of the Russian army west of the railway, Russia will address a circular to the powers, protesting against Japan's violation of Chinese neutrality.

Russian Casualties 2,000.

Gen. Kuroki's Headquarters, Feb. 26.—(Via Fusan, March 1.)—The Japanese yesterday achieved a signal victory over the forces commanded by Lieut.-General Rennenkampf. Gen. Kuroki's infantry again displayed remarkable qualities as hill fighters and proved their superiority to the famous cavalry of the Russians.

The Japanese now hold a strong line extending from southwest to northeast and partly eastward to the Taitse River, threatening the Russian flank. The principal engagement was northeast of Tsinkhetchen, where the Russians held strongly defended entrenchments.

The Russians left 203 dead on the field there and lost several machine guns. Their casualties are estimated at over 2,000.

Da Pass Captured.

Russian Headquarters, Huan Mountain, Manchuria, March 1.—The Japanese attack was renewed at dawn Monday along the whole eastern front, and Da Pass was taken after fighting of the most stubborn character. The capture of Da Pass opens the road to Fushan east of Mukden and Tie Pass, but the Russians are gathering a strong force to meet the threatened attack on their line of communications.

Russia Orders Ships.

Seattle, March 1.—A. A. Delakoff, a special agent of the Russian Bureau of Finance, is here. He says that Russia is to construct a battleship, two cruisers and several torpedo boats in the United States within the next year, for delivery after the war in the Orient.

SMITH'S BUCHU LITHIA PILLS.

SICK KIDNEYS,

The Bladder, Rheumatism and the Blood—all these diseases yield at once and are quickly and fully cured. Price only 25 cents a box.

A CURE at the PEOPLE'S PRICE.

My Kidney book and a Sample Package sent Free to any address.

W. F. SMITH CO.

185 St. James St., Montreal

Great Good in Bad Cases.

Fitchburg, Mass.

"I should have answered your letter sooner, but I wanted to see how your Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills worked. I can say they did all I expected of them. I have not had rheumatism since. I gave some of them to a young man here and he took them, he could not walk with any ease, for he had rheumatism in both feet, and was greatly benefited. There are a great many using Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills. I know the great good of Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills in bad cases of rheumatism."

E. FOSTER.

To cure Constipation, Sick Headache and Biliousness in one night, use Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. Only 25 cents at dealers.

ALL GENUINE SIGNED. W. F. Smith

RUSSIA'S FATEFUL DAY.

Anniversary of Emancipation of Serfs Selected for Notable Events.

St. Petersburg, March 1.—Next Saturday being the anniversary of the emancipation of the serfs, rumors have been in circulation that the day has been selected for notable events. According to some of these rumors, the workmen are planning an immense revolutionary demonstration, while, according to other reports, the Government intends commemorating the anniversary by issuing a manifesto establishing some form of representative legislative body.

Police Are Powerless.

The utter impotency of the police in the face of the terrorist organization is shown by the increasing boldness of the latter all over St. Petersburg. Even on the steps of public buildings simple notices of Grand Duke Sergius' death were found. They read: "The sentence of death passed upon Sergius-Alexandrovitch was executed Feb. 17. (Signed.) The Fighting Organization of the Social Democratic Party."

Strike Situation Bad.

Warsaw, March 1.—The strike situation in Poland is not encouraging. A general strike of shop assistants here is expected to-day unless their demands are conceded. Seventy-five per cent. of the employers are willing to give in, but the remainder refuse to do so. The domestic servants also threaten to strike to-day.

Secret Store of Bombs.

Moscow, March 1.—A secret store of bombs, dynamite and revolvers has been discovered at the Margina Slobotka suburb of Moscow. It is now believed that the assassin of Grand Duke Sergius came from Paris, and that by trade he is an artificer. His name is still unknown.

Gorky Resides at Riga.

St. Petersburg, March 1.—Maxim Gorky, who was released from the fortress Monday on $2,500 bail, was banished late the same night to Riga, after he had been informed of the decision of Governor-General Trepoff that he could not reside in St. Petersburg.

SENATOR CHOQUETTE SUED.

Faces a Suit for $17,000 Penalties for Infringing Law.

Ottawa, March 1.—Hon. Phillipe Auguste Choquette, the gentleman who resigned his judgeship in order to become a member of the Senate, will probably have to face a suit for $17,000 penalties. A writ for that amount was issued against him yesterday for infringing the laws relating to the independence of Parliament. A further penalty of $200 per day is also asked so long as he remains a member of the Senate.

The action is based on a contract made by him to sell to the Dominion Government a certain property in Quebec City for $20,436. The contract is dated Dec. 6, 1904. The land is on the south side of Grande Allee, in Quebec, and it, together with the building thereon, was bought in order to enlarge the Drill Hall. The Order-in-Council by which the purchase was authorized is dated Oct. 3, but the actual transfer did not take place until Dec. 6.

In the deed the vendor is styled "a member of the Senate of Canada."

Trolley Ruins a Shop.

Toronto, March 1.—One of the oddest of trolley accidents and one of the most remarkable, so far as the safety of persons is concerned, took place about 6.40 a.m. yesterday, when Dundas car 742 jumped the track at Queen and McCaul Streets, and bumping over the ice and snow, crashed into the two-storey frame building on the western corner. The building was badly wrecked, and so was the car vestibule, but although a woman and child were asleep in the upper room, which suffered demolishment, and there were some ten people in the car, only one, Ernest Howe, a passenger, 8½ Shuter Street, was hurt. His back is wrenched. The motorman, Edward Lee, has been on the job a week. The conductor was Arch. Rankin. The monetary damage to Allan Graham's gents' furnishing store and contents is about $2,000.

Ten Killed, Fifty Injured.

New York, March 1.—A searching investigation was begun yesterday by the county and borough authorities and the police of Brooklyn to ascertain the cause of the collapse of the floor of the Fleet Street African Methodist Episcopal Church of Zion Monday night, when ten persons were killed and more than fifty injured. Statements disagree on the point as to whether the supports of the floor of the church were so rotten as to convict someone of criminal negligence in permitting an assemblage of 500 persons within the building.

Worried, He Suicides.

Collingwood, March 1. — Robert Thompson hanged himself in his father's stable on the mountain side on Saturday. Last summer one of the young man's legs was amputated, as a result of an accident in Charlton's mill, and for a long time his life was despaired of. He survived the misfortune, however, but fearing he would eventually become deranged, he fretted continually.

New Settlers Coming In.

Calgary, March 1.—New settlers are coming into the district in large numbers, mostly from the States.

Took Carbolic Acid.

Berlin, March 1.—After writing a note to his parents, saying he had made a fight against heavy odds in life, and had failed, Stanley Eby took carbolic acid Monday night, and died shortly after. He was 21 years of age, highly esteemed, and a promising young man.

GILLETT'S GOODS ARE STANDARD ARTICLES

IT IS TO THE ADVANTAGE OF EVERY HOUSEKEEPER IN CANADA TO USE THEM

Magic Baking Powder.
Gillett's Perfumed Lye.
Imperial Baking Powder.
Gillett's Cream Tartar.
Royal Yeast Cakes.
Gillett's Mammoth Blue.
Magic Baking Soda.
Gillett's Washing Crystal.

MADE FOR OVER 50 YEARS. (ESTABLISHED 1852)

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED TORONTO, ONT.

Hang It

It's the better for it.

Our shelves are loaded with the finest selection of Wall Papers, domestic and imported, which would look much better on your walls than on our shelves.

No trouble to show them.
Prices right.
We do the hanging.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

Phone. 214. Grocers.

Standard Telephone Sets... For Sale.

$5.00 Per Set

Slightly used, but in good order.

Apply to

SALES DEPARTMENT,
178 Mountain Street,
Montreal, Que.

—OR—

To any local manager of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

You must understand before you are understood.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

It Will Pay.

To look over our stock of furniture and note the values we offer this month.

Some are taking advantage and buying now.

UPHOLSTERING. — Mr. Sills is a practical upholsterer and gives personal attention to all work.

UNDERTAKING. — Mr. Sills having had 15 years experience in this branch of the business is thoroughly qualified to give personal service as undertaker and Funeral Director.

Store 'Phone 40

Residence, cor. Queen and John Sts.

B. E. SILLS,

Successor to Reed & Sills

Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

Arthur McGie

MERCHANT TAILOR.

Our stock of Overcoatings, Scotch Tweeds, Worsted Serges and Cheviots is still large and well assorted.

A number of Tweed Suitings and Trousers at greatly reduced prices.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)

$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$6,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.

PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand

Market Square.

FLORAL Decorations of all kinds on shortest notice : :

J. D. COLLIP.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

SPECTACLES STRAIGHTENED FREE.

Misshapen Spectacles are not only a disfigurement but often destroy the beneficial effect of the lense.

It is a pleasure for us to straighten your glasses and we make no charge.

EYES EXAMINED FREE

and glasses recommended only when they are needed and will be a benefit to you.

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. OPTICIAN

Specials For This Week

....AT....

McINTOSH'S

—102 pieces Fast Color Prints, regular price 12½ for 10c

—20 pieces Plain and Twill Flannel, good value at 20c, to clear at 12½c

—Odd sizes in Erect Form Ladies' Corsets, was 75c, to clear at pair 35c

Sizes 18, 19, 26, 27, 29, 30.

Lace Curtain Bargains

We have still left over a few good pairs of Lace Curtains and will offer them at greatly reduced prices. Come and see the goods if you are in need of any of the above lines.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE BEST
MUNICIPAL BONDS.
JOHN MACKAY & CO.
Canadian Bank of Commerce Building,
Toronto

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 2, 1905. NO. 257

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD
ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens
THE VERY BEST
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL
LEAVENS

Worry wont cure a cough. When you find a cough holding on—when everything else has failed—try

Shiloh's Consumption Cure The Lung Tonic

It is guaranteed to cure. If it doesn't, we'll refund your money.

Prices: 25c. 50c. $1. S. C. WELLS & Co. 304 LeRoy, N.Y., Toronto, Can.

Changes Considered Essential.

London, March 2.—The conference of the Associations of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, now sitting in London yesterday discussed fiscal reform, and ultimately decided by the vote of forty-two chambers against twenty-one that "changes in the fiscal system are essential to provide against unfair competition, and an Imperial conference should be called to discuss the question."

Stabbed at Chatham.

Chatham, March 2.—During a brawl on Sixth Street Tuesday night, Fred Herbert, a colored drayman, stabbed Richard Skirving, a white man, in the left breast with a cheese knife, inflicting an ugly wound. Eye-witnesses claim that Skirving provoked the quarrel, which was the result of a barroom fracas earlier in the evening. No arrests have yet been made.

In the Police Court.

Toronto, March 2.—John Edgar, charged with bigamy, pleaded not guilty, and the case was adjourned until to-day. Mr. Robinette, who was retained by Edgar, remarked that divorce was too expensive a process for a poor man, and it is probable that the defence will be based upon the fact of the two years' separation of husband and wife.

DON'T MISS THIS !
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

Have Beaten Russians Back.

Japanese Win an All-Night Battle on the Shakhe

Desperate Battle at Bridge Spells Success for the Mikado—Gen. Oku Tells the Story of the Driving Back of the Russian Outposts—Put Three Squadrons of Cavalry to Rout—Terrific Bombardment.

Gen. Oku's Headquarters, Feb. 28.—(Via Fusan, March 2.)—The Japanese left wing is driving back the Russian outposts.

The Japanese have occupied a line from Shatzemun, two miles west of the Hun River, in a northwest direction to Kalita, on the east bank of the Liao River. A heavy bombardment along the entire line west of the railroad is in progress night and day

The Russians are firing blindly with field and heavy guns.

The Japanese remain in their position and make no serious response to the Russian fire.

The entire operation by Gen. Nogi's command has been successful. When the engagement ended yesterday the Russian divisions were driven in three miles north of their positions before they attacked the bridge at Wenpaotsio in the morning.

After Gen. Oku's command had retaken Baopatzsi and driven the Russian detachment from the hills near Sandiapu, a forward movement was begun on the centre of the Japanese left army against the Village of Hopungpu, and westerly towards Tiusaitai. The Russians stubbornly defended all the hills and the little Liao Valley within the range of their artillery. The Japanese command drove them northwest toward Tungshan.

Three squadrons of cavalry, which attempted to turn the flank of Gen. Oku's command, were met by four battalions of infantry and put to rout. The Russians are moving up their forces on the centre and right, evidently to prevent any turning movement on their right flank that would assist Kuroki's operations against their left Russians Retire.

Russian Army Headquarters, Huan Mountain, March 2.—After an all-night battle, the Rusisan forces which seized the railroad bridge across the Shakhe River retired after having destroyed the Japanese fortifications at the further end of the bridge and thrown the Japanese forces into consternation. The Japanese losses were heavy. The attack on the bridge began at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Terrific Bombardment.

Mukden, March 2.—For three days Putiloff Hill and Novgorod Hills have been subjected to a terrific bombardment with 11-inch shells, charged with shimose powder. From a distance the hills look like volcanoes, spouting flame and great clouds of smoke, a hail of earth and stones falling far beyond their bases. The Rusisan siege batteries are answering energetically, but their fire is comparatively ineffectual.

Brakeman Loses an Arm.

Sarnia, March 2—Wellington Hartley, aged 22 years, of Port Huron, a Grand Trunk brakeman, yesterday morning was going up the steps of a big mogul engine when his foot slipped and he was thrown to the ground. His head struck the wall side of the tunnel, and he was knocked unconscious. His arm, falling across the track, was horribly crushed. It was amputated at the Sarnia Hospital.

SINCLAIR'S

Great Whitewear Sale

Will Continue For a Few Days Longer.

BEAUTIFUL WHITE GARMENTS

Daintiness, refinement, Ample Proportions, Good Materials, Neat Sewing—all the merits of home-made clothing. These and many other charms you will at once recognize in the mountains of garments that have turned this into a—

Store of White

Yet not a single garment has been put into stock until we are sure it will add to the "Sinclair" prestige sure that if you buy it here you cannot buy a similar article elsewhere for less, so we've made our prices mean :—

EXTRA GOOD VALUES.

We Invite Inspection and Comparison.

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

POUNDS HAGGART & CO

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Tells the Tale of the 1896 Bolt.

Charges Messrs. Foster and Haggart With Having Falsified Record of Memorable Political Quarrel—Differences, He Says, Were Not of Policy, But of Character—Calls Mr. Taylor and Praises Sir Charles Tupper.

Ottawa, March 2.—While the resignation of Hon. Clifford Sifton from the Laurier Government was interesting the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, and Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. John Haggart were discussing the situation from their places, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, in the Senate, was giving his side of the story of the remedial bill, the crisis of 1896, and charging these two Hon. members with having falsified the record of those memorable occurrences

Sir Mackenzie drew attention to the debate in the House of Commons on Feb. 10, when the resignations of Ministers were discussed by Sir William Mulock, Hon. John Haggart and Hon. George E. Foster. The statements made by the latter two, he would show, were untrue, and he could not understand why they were made after this length of time. Sir Mackenzie referred to the absence of the reasons given in Parliament nine years ago, showing that the questions leading to the differences were not of policy, but of character. He then, at great length, told the story of the bolt, stating that Mr. Foster was the chief of the conspirators.

Regarding George Taylor's statement that an agreement was made for Sir Charles Tupper to lead the Commons during the session, and then succeed him, Sir Mackenzie denied this utterly.

Praises Sir Charles.

He would not be doing justice to Sir Charles Tupper did he not bear testimony to his courteous treatment whilst he was a member of his Cabinet Sir Mackenzie would not have made such a long defence, but that he could not allow a long public life to be "besmirched by men of such character politically and otherwise as John Haggart and Company." He left the country to judge, he said, with no fear of the result.

CAN'T FIGHT FRUIT PESTS.

Niagara District Growers Ask Assistance From the Government.

Toronto, March 2.—Niagara District fruit growers, represented by Dr. Jessop, M. P. P.-elect; Major Hiscott, ex-M. P. P.; A. C. Pettit, Murray Pettit, C. M. Honsberger, G. B. McCalia and W. H. Bunting, held a conference with the Minister of Agriculture yesterday, when the question of applying science to the eradication of the fruit pests was fully discussed. They asked that the Government continue the work of assisting the growers in the spraying operations for the San Jose scale, and to undertake new work to prevent the spread of the black knot in grapes.

The grape industry is worth about a million dollars a year, and last year there was a loss of from 5 to 10 per cent. through the ravages of the black rot in the Niagara District. General remedies have been tried, and growers, being discouraged with the results, ask the Government to use the staff of the Agricultural College in bringing science to bear on the eradication of the pest.

MILNER HAS RESIGNED.

Lord Selborne Takes His Place in South Africa.

London, March 2.—Premier Balfour informed the House of Commons yesterday that Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, had, to his regret, announced long ago that he would not remain in South Africa, thus confirming his resignation, announced months ago.

The Colonial Office announcement says Lord Milner resigned "for reasons connected with the state of his health," and adds that he will leave South Africa at the end of March.

It is officially announced that the Earl of Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, succeeds Lord Milner as British High Commissioner in South Africa Lord Selborne was Under Secretary for the Colonies from 1895 to 1900.

Locked Up in Jail.

Alexandria, March 2.—Early yesterday morning A. Loney of Maxville, the hockey player who struck the blow that killed Alcide Laurin of this place in a match at Maxville on Friday last, was arrested at Maxville by a constable from Alexandria and taken direct to the jail at Cornwall, on the advice of Crown Attorney Dingwall.

Penitentiary Suspensions.

Kingston, March 2.—Penitentiary Inspector Dawson has suspended two guards and an instructor for receiving money from outside friends for carrying tobacco, letters, papers, etc., to convicts. Secret service men worked up the evidence. It is said the offenders will be brought before the Police Magistrate for trial.

Mexico to Be Represented.

Montreal, March 2.—Counsel-General Ansell, who arrived yesterday from Mexico, says that as soon as the Atlantic Coast Steamship Line is established the Mexican Government will appoint Vice-Consuls at St. John and Halifax, and also several at western points.

Our Whitewear Sale

Good weather and values have combined to start our Whitewear selling rapidly.

From opening time till closing time our Mantle Department was filled with Ladies anxious to see and purchase the beautiful garments we have gathered together.

The quantity of Whitewear that has left us in one days selling is of convincing evidence that our values are best obtainable.

Our sale continues for two weeks. Make your visit as early as possible—when the assortment is at its best.

CORSET COVERS

—Lonsdale Corset Cover, neatly made with plain back and full front—buttoned—sizes 32 to 40. Sale price 9c
—Lonsdale Cambric Corset Cover—full front—neck trimmed with val lace. Sale price 14c
—Fine Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and armholes, trimmed with cotton, torchon lace and baby ribbon. Sale price 19c
—Extra quality Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and sleeves trimmed with wide Torchon Lace. Sale price 25c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Cover with skirt—front trimmed with two rows wide Torchon Insertion, neck and sleeves trimmed with wide lace, beading and silk baby ribbon. Sale price 35c
—Fine Lonsdale Cover, full front—shaped skirt—trimmed with three horizontal rows of wide val insertion—neck and sleeves trimmed with wide val lace, beading and silk baby ribbon, pearl buttons. Sale price 58c

Beautiful New Embroideries.

In conjunction with our Whitewear Sale we are making a big display of New Embroideries.

The patterns are the most attractive and the values the best that we have ever offered. Ask to see them—To introduce our Embroideries we offer 225 yds of Embroidery and Insertion in Remnants, 4½ yds in each and in different widths and patterns each 20c

DRAWERS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Drawers with deep hem. Sale price 19c
—Lonsdale Finished Umbrella Drawers with 8 inch Lawn frill, trimmed with hemstitched tucks. Sale price 25c
—Fine White Cotton Umbrella Drawers with 7 inch Lawn Frill, trimmed with wide Torchon Lace and Insertion, very dainty. Sale price 35c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with 7 inch flounce of Lawn, embroidery and rows of fagot stitching. Sale price 48c
—Extra Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with wide flounce of alternate rows of wide Torchon Insertion and Lawn, edged with val lace. Sale price 59c. Others up to $2.00.

SKIRTS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Skirt with 9 inch flounce of Lonsdale Cambric trimmed with narrow tucks. Sale price 45c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with wide tucked Lawn Flounce, edged with 4 inch frill of fine Torchon Lace. Sale price 65c
—Fine Cambric Skirt with 18 inch Lawn, frill trimmed with 3 rows of wide Torchon Insertion, edged with 4 inch Lace Frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with 18 inch flounce of alternate rows of Lawn and Torchon Insertion, 2 inches wide—all edged with wide lace frill—Lawn dust frill. Sale price $1.75

NIGHT GOWNS

—Gown of good quality Cotton, trimmed round sleeves and neck with lawn frills. Sale price 39c
—Fine Lonsdale Gown with yoke of narrow hemstitched tucks, edged with embroidery—neck and sleeves trimmed with embroidery frill. Sale price 68c
—Lonsdale Cambric Gown with deep yoke of narrow tucks and wide embroidery frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Gown with narrow yoke of fagot stitching and lawn—half sleeves trimmed with fagotting, beading and baby ribbon—new and dainty. Sale price $1.25

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

NEW DRESS GOODS

To appreciate the new Spring Dress Materials we are showing, they must be seen.

A cordial invitation is extended you to come in and see the very latest coloring and materials to be worn during the coming season. No trouble to show. No trouble to learn prices, because every piece is marked in plain figures.

Black and Colored, all Silk, Silk and Wool and All Wool Fabrics in great variety.

All Wool Mohair Sicilians

In pretty Fine Stripes and Checks for Shirt Waist Suits.

Silk Warp Crepes and Eoliennes

French Venetians and Broadcloths

in all the new shadings.

Cashmeres. - - - - - Canvas Voiles.

Fine Check Silk and Wool Suitings.

Goods representing the best, from the leading makers of the world.

Butterick's Early Spring Patterns

are now in stock, showing many new styles in Shirt Waist Suits and separate Skirts.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Look at Your Boots--Then Look at Gorman's

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK

$5.00 Values For $3.50

Just now we are clearing out several broken lots in Men's Fine Boots—Here is what they are:

They are made of Fine Vici Kid and Valour Calf—lace and Blucher cut.

CORRECT in style—great COMFORT GIVERS—EXCELLENT WEARERS.

The regular price is

$5.00 now $3.50

SEE WINDOW DISPLAY.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9 50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

AGRICULTURE IN ONTARIO.

The annual report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries affords some interesting information on the condition of agriculture in this Province. The report is a voluminous affair, and though in many cases the figures may be approximate the conclusions in the main must be fairly accurate.

In the wheat-growing department a considerable falling off is recorded. There were only 665,028 acres sowed in Fall wheat in 1900, against 1,068,640 in 1901 and 748,592 in 1902. In Spring wheat there was a drop from 303,115 in 1902 to 248,518 in 1903. In other grains there have been large increases. Oxford and York were the banner counties for Fall wheat in 1903, as regards yield per acre, each of them producing more than 29 bushels. Simcoe, with a less favorable yield per acre, produced nearly half a million bushels more than Perth, its nearest competitor. In Spring wheat, York has a good lead in the matter of yield per acre, although Renfrew had the largest gross amount. Oxford is the oats champion as regards acre yield, but Huron had the largest crop.

This comparison of the counties in the production of grains and grasses and roots is very complete, and decidedly interesting. Perth gives the largest yield per acre of barley, but York leads in the total yield. Simcoe is the greatest producer of peas while Kent has practically a monopoly of the bean business, although the yield per acre is not large.

Norfolk leads in rye, and Northumberland in buckwheat. Essex is away ahead in corn for husking, while Huron has the largest yield of corn for silo and fodder.

Turning to the roots we find that Simcoe is the potato county, with more than 900,000 bushels. York is second. Simcoe also carries off the prize in carrots, while Wellington has it in both turnips and mangel wurtzels. Grey produces more hay and clover than any other county, while Simcoe is crowned again under the heading "all field crops." Lincoln leads in vineyards and Wentworth in orchard and garden, while Huron is the apple king. York raises the best horses and Simcoe the most. The value of the horses in Ontario sold last year is nearly $6,500,000, the record. Oxford is the county for milch cows, and Huron for other cattle. Grey leads in the number of sheep sold, although Halton has the advantage in quality. Essex and Kent are first and second in the matter of swine, Middlesex for turkeys, Grey for geese, Huron for ducks, and Middlesex for chickens. In the production of wool Grey has an advantage over Simcoe, its nearest competitor, while Middlesex has a long lead in the number of bees kept.

A general summary shows that Middlesex is the wealthiest county in land and live stock, Huron in buildings, and Grey in implements. In total values Middlesex may justly claim the proud distinction of being the banner county of Ontario, with Huron second, each of these counties having an estimated assessment of more than $50,000,000.

Nothing is said about cheese, in which Hastings County could easily and rightfully claim the lead.

TIMELY TOPICS.

All aboard, now, for the Belleville Old Boys' Reunion. It's a sure go this time.

• • •

Hurry up and get the footbridge done, before the old timers come back.

• • •

Ald. Panter's idea of an Old Boys' Reunion fund is all right, but the scheme was worked a little differently in other places. The modus operandi in those places was to print badges or buttons and sell them at $1 each. Those badges were worn as a sign that the wearer was in favor of the scheme and was helping it along, and the fact that he or she wore a token which cost $1 was proof of the same. The money for the badges, of course, went into the general fund.

• • •

It's a little early yet, of course, to talk of cutting down weeds and beautifying the city, but just as quick as the snow goes away we must all begin to clean up and "make the waste places glad."

• • •

It's to be hoped that Zwick's Island business will be finished before the Old Boys drop in on us. Renewing old acquaintances is generally dry work.

• • •

If there are to be any balloon ascensions I move that the Mayor be not allowed to go up. He's so light the balloon would be sure to run away with him.

• • •

Now, cut loose, everybody, use His Majesty's mails and tell all your friends about the Belleville Old Boys' Reunion this summer. Tell 'em they're all invited and the band's engaged, and that they can come home and have the time of their lives for a week or so.

• • •

Our reporter, while not a pessimist, is a little bit dubious about the success of the Reunion. He expects to have no less than thirteen visitors staying at his place during the gala week. He's doing his best to cheer up, but somehow feels that thirteen is an unlucky number.

• • •

Owing to the fact that the Old Boys' and Girls' Reunion is now a settled thing, the idea of holding a Married Man's Zemsky Sobor to protest against the housecleaning festivities is hereby abandoned. It is up to every Benedict to suffer in silence.

• • •

Bellevillians one and all will regret to hear of the death of Mr. N. B. Falkiner, the warm-hearted, impulsive Irishman who, for nearly half a century, has been a well-known figure on our streets. The witty tongue is now silent; the warm heart beats no more; the clever lawyer has thrown up his last brief; the old veteran will no more gaze on the flag he left home, when a boy, to defend. May he rest in peace.

• • •

A Montreal woman found a bomb in her coal bin. An empty coal bin, like mine, is preferable to that.

• • •

A funny thing happened in a New York hospital. A woman was to be operated on for appendicitis, and the attendants were told to chloroform her and prepare her for the operation. Two patients got mixed in the shuffle, the result being that the wrong woman was chloroformed and operated on, the doctors finding, to their surprise, the appendix of the woman they had cut open "in beautiful working order." It was a splendid joke on the doctors, but perhaps the patient did not appreciate it.

• • •

A Hamilton preacher says there is only one spot for ideal womanhood and that is the home, and expresses the belief that without her the churches would be in a very bad way. Solomon in all his wisdom never said anything truer, but he hardly put it strong enough. Nine-tenths of the churches would go out of business if it were not for the women.

• • •

Hon. Clifford Sifton has resigned, and it is not likely that his mouth will be closed quite so tight as was the mouth of Hon. Mr. Blair on a certain occasion, when he resigned and failed to tell the reason why.

• • •

HIS SHAKESPEARE IS RUSTY.

(Toronto News.)

At the last meeting of the City Council, Ald. Lunn compared Controller Spence to Faust.

He did not give the details of Mr. Spence's resemblance to the character.

Seen by a reporter of The News he was reminded that the comparison was not a good one.

"The fact of the matter is," said the alderman, "I am not sufficiently versed in my Shakespeare!"

• • •

Hon. Mr. Tarte refuses to speak on the school question. What does he care about school questions? He's only just married.

• • •

It is said that the Belleville Old Boys' Society of Toronto proposes to instal a Toronto B.O.B. cot in the Belleville hospital. That's a splendid way to show their interest in, and love for, the old town. The Toronto B.O.B.'s are all right.

• • •

Tropical fruit growing seems to be something of a gamble of late years. A bearing Florida orange grove costs $750 to $1,000 per acre. It is liable to be made worthless as the result of a single spell of cold weather. Judging, however, by the present low price of oranges, some of the fruit must have escaped the freeze.

• • •

If the Russians are going to fly they hadn't better wait till the Japs shoot up their wings.

• • •

Hon. Mr. Sifton seems to hint at a breach of faith on the part of Sir Wilfrid. The idea! As Mr. Nathanael Vermilyea would say, "Who ever heard of such a thing!"

• • •

It begins to look as though Laurier's big majority may look a trifle emaciated by the time the present session is at an end.

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCausland Bros.

Bakers and Confectioners.

SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL TALKS OF 1896 AFFAIRS.

ANSWERS FOSTER AND HAGGART FROM HIS SEAT IN THE SENATE—MR. GEORGE TAYLOR'S STATEMENT DENIED.

(Mail and Empire Special.)

Ottawa, March 1.—In the Senate Sir Mackenzie Bowell made a statement in regard to what was said in the House of Commons some weeks ago about the resignation of the members of his Cabinet in January, 1896. He said he had taken the Ministers back to office reluctantly, and had regretted it ever since. Regarding the resignation of Sir Adolphe Caron and Messrs. Ouimet and Angers in 1895, Sir Mackenzie said he was inclined to exhaust every possible means to induce Manitoba to take action in the school matter whilst they were in favor of immediate action. The feeling against remedial legislation in Ontario was as strong as that in favor of it was in Quebec. Upon the promise of remedial legislation failing negotiations, Sir Adolphe Caron and Mr. Ouimet returned to office. Mr. Angers refused, and had his reward from those for whom he had sacrificed himself. Sir Adolphe Caron was left out of the Tupper Cabinet by the machinations of the Foster-Haggart crew.

As to Mr. Haggart's statement, that there was an agreement that Sir Mackenzie Bowell would resign in favor of Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Mackenzie said it was absolutely untrue. When tendering his resignation to Lord Aberdeen he entirely refused to give any advice as to who should be sent for. He had interviews with Sir Charles, it was true, but these interviews were with regard to the return to office of the conspirators. This was made without any stipulation or agreement as to his future conduct.

Sir Mackenzie did not remember applying the words, "Nest of traitors," to the bolters, but he would have been justified in doing so, and should have done so. In order that there would be no doubt he would, after full consideration, use them now. Sir Mackenzie stated that two months before the "bolt" Mr. Foster asked him if he did not think younger blood was wanted at the head of the party, as the Premier was too old. The young blood possibly was Sir Charles Tupper. On Jan. 1st, 1895, Mr. Costigan called at Mr. Foster's and was told that Mr. Foster wanted to see him. Immediately on his entry Mr. Foster met him and asked him to join a movement for forming a new Government under Sir Charles Tupper, and, going to the country with the promise that a Remedial Bill would be introduced immediately on the assemblying of the new Parliament, and also forcing Sir Mackenzie to resign. Mr. Costigan refused. A comparison of notes showed that at that very moment Sir Mackenzie was in the drawing-room of Mr. Foster's house whilst this was going on in the library. The first intimation Sir Mackenzie Bowell had of the plot was from Hon. J. F. Wood, who told him that something serious was on foot, but that he would remain true to him. Mr. Wood joined the traitors, and Sir Mackenzie refused to allow him to make an explanation.

About the same time Mr. Costigan walked into the Minister of Justice's office, where several of the Ministers were, and the conversation turned on the difficulties of the session, but they believed that if Sir Mackenzie and Sir Charles would meet they could arrange matters. Mr. Dickey informed Mr. Costigan that Sir Charles feared calling on Sir Mackenzie, as he had not seen him since his return. Mr. Costigan promised to see Sir Mackenzie on the matter and returned in 15 minutes. He found Sir Mackenzie with Sir Adolphe Caron, and obtained a promise for the desired interview. He found that Mr. Dickey had gone to Mr. Foster's room and followed him. Then, when he was told that it was too late, and that they had signed and sent their resignations to his Excellency, Mr. Dickey added that Sir Mackenzie Bowell would resign the next day. This Mr. Costigan denied, when consternation prevailed. Sir Mackenzie alluded to the picketing which was carried on to prevent eligible gentlemen from accepting office in the place of the bolters. Regarding Mr. George Taylor's statement that an agreement was made for Sir Charles Tupper to lead the Commons during the session, and then succeed him, Sir Mackenzie denied it utterly. He saw little of Mr. Taylor during that time, and was very guarded in dealing with him, as someone had whispered that Mr. Taylor was the emissary of Messrs. Foster and Haggart, and he did not know who was in the conspiracy. There was evidence, said Sir Mackenzie, that the conspiracy was of long standing, and that the gentlemen who resigned had met with their reward, most of them at least, by rejection at the polls. Sir Mackenzie said he had shown that Mr. Foster's claim that the resignations were on account of policy was unfounded; he had shown that Mr. Foster was the chief of the conspirators, that he had tendered his resignation to his Excellency in order to free himself of the traitors by whom he was surrounded; that he had placed his resignation in the hands of Sir John Macdonald, that on account of a difference with John Haggart he had resigned to Sir John Abbott, but on the intervention of Sir John Thompson had withdrawn it. All this was known to John Haggart, yet with consummate cheek and unblushing effrontery he charged him with hanging on to office like a sick girl. He would not be doing justice to Sir Charles Tupper did he not bear testimony to his courteous treatment whilst he was a member of his Cabinet.

Always Remember the Full Name
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove
on every box. 25c

Has your boy plenty of staying power?

Grit, courage, strength, finishing power are essential these days. The reason why doctors so often order Ayer's Sarsaparilla for thin, pale, delicate children is because it supplies these essentials. It makes the blood pure, rich, and red. Sold for 60 years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

The plan for the beautiful pastoral drama "Hearts of Oak," which appears at the opera house on Monday evening, will open at Riggs' music store on Saturday morning. This is a pretty piece that no one should miss. The prices are moderate, too. 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c.

Mr. Joseph James, of Actinolite, has entered an action against the Rathbun Co. for $1,500 damages to dam by logs last spring and loss through consequent closing down of mill. The case is set down for March 15th.

Twenty per cent. Discount Sale at the Syndicate Store — one-fifth off all purchases, except grey cottons, steamlooms and spool cottons. This is a great opportunity for your spring goods. It lasts for 3 days of this week, and the first 3 days of next week. Don't neglect this Sale. —The Paterson Syndicate Store, Front St., Belleville. m1,4,6

Repairs to the footbridge are being made, much to the gratification of those who pass over it.

The Marmora village Council has appointed A. W. Carscallen assessor at a salary of $75.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church intend giving Monthly Afternoon Teas in the lecture room, commencing on Monday, March 6. Tea served from 4 to 6 o'clock. Admission 10 cents. Home-made bread, cakes and candy for sale. Orders taken for all kinds of plain and fancy work. 2-4

Police Court business a blank today.

The flag from the City Building is floating at half-mast, out of respect to the late ex-Ald. Falkiner.

The market to-day was fairly well attended. Prices were good for all products offered for sale.

Miss Helen Graydon, late manager of Sutcliffe & Co., Lindsay, has taken a position in charge of Miss Irwin's workrooms.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont.
f18,25,m4,11,18,25,a1

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fine to-day and on Friday. Friday, milder.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m.	10
12 m.	24
2 p.m.	30
3 p.m.	20

BANANAS
PINEAPPLES
BITTER ORANGES
VALENCIA ORANGES
NAVEL ORANGES
MESSINA LEMONS

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee

'Phone 128.

The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Bridge Street, 'Phone. 1.39

Schlitz Milwaukee Lager....

The Famous Lager Beer. In pt. bottles $1.60 per dz.

• • •

WHITE ROCK LITHIA WATER
In pint bottles.

• • •

VIN ST. MICHEL
A Superior Tonic Wine.

• • •

Reliable Wines and Liquors
For Medicinal Purposes.

Wallbridge & Clarke's Fine Teas—packed in lead packets at 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c and 60c lb. Fragrant and Delicious.
Extra value at 30c lb.—4 lbs. for $1.00.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
General Insurance Agent,
Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

—TO MAKE ROOM FOR—

SPRING - STOCK

We have reduced the prices on all odd lines of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, Trunks and Valises.

VERMILYEA & SON

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Young man eighteen to twenty that has some knowledge of hats. Apply to S. A. HYMAN & CO. 27-3td

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

A splendid brick house, eight rooms, good cellar, hard and soft water. Grier St., College Hill. Apply to J. T. Osborne, Moira St. Box 655. m2-6t

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course—Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 483. Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

When a man is weighed by others he is usually found wanting to dispute the figures.

GRIP'S GREATEST FOE.

A Scientific Method of Mastering The Grip.

MAKE A MEMO.

Make a memo of the fact that there is only one safe and certain way to deal with Mr. Grip.

Soak him.

Do it with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

You say, "What has Catarrh to do with Grip?"

Why, Grip is Catarrh, nothing else.

Catarrh attacks in numberless different forms.

One of its worse forms is Grip.

Grip's greatest for is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because Stuart's Catarrh Tablets can be relied upon to do Grip the greatest damage of any remedy or medicine you can take.

They are much superior to quinine or any of the old unscientific methods of dealing with the disease, because quinine is quackery, and Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are a pure and simple scientific combination of germicidal and tonic ingredients, which have a positive specific effect upon every form of Catarrhal inflammation in the body—including Grip.

Grip is a fearful disease.

Not so much in its own particular symptoms, though these are bad enough, but because of the fact that the after-effects are so lingering and dangerous.

Grip pulls you down, so you feel weak and miserable for months.

The only tonic that will built you up is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Grip weakens the heart, kidneys and lungs. Thousands of deaths from Heart Disease, Bright's Disease, Pneumonia, Consumption, are directly due to the weakening results of the Grip.

The only medicine that will prevent the Grip from developing into these direful diseases is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Better take them.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets succeed in curing, and in preventing the dangerous after-effects of the Grip, for one great and sufficient reason: They are not a general tonic remedy.

They are a scientific specific for just this one form of disease, Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membranes.

They are a curative, not a palliative.

Beware of the deadly grip of the Grip.

Fight it off with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Sold at all druggists at 50 cents a box.

The Minuet.

Grandma told me all about it,
Told me so I could not doubt it,
How she danced, my grandma danced
Long ago:
How she held her pretty head,
How her dainty hands she spread,
How she turned her little toes—
Smiling little human rose—!
Grandma's hair was bright and shining;
Dimpled cheeks, too! oh, how funny,
Bless me! now she wears a cap,
My grandma does, and takes a nap
Every single day.
Yet she danced the minuet,
Long ago.
So they moved with stately grace,
Everything in proper place,
Gliding slowly forward, then
Slowly curtseying back again;
Modern ways are quite alarming,
Grandma says.
But boys are charming—
Girls and boys, I mean, of course—
Long ago.
Sweetly, modest, bravely shy—
What if all of us should try just to feel Like those who met in the stately minuet—
Long ago.

Wedding Presents.

As soon as May had named the day
She issued invitations
To all the crew our mothers knew
(Including poor relations),
We were aware they all would swear
In language, far from pleasant,
"Confound it! I shall have to buy
The blessed pair a present."

Then boy and man in cart and van
And motor-car came driving,
With gifts galore, and more and more,
And still they kept arriving;
And housemaids flew, and postmen, too,
Till all the terrace wondered,
And night and day they rang away—
Lord! how the knocker thundered!

We worked in shifts upon the gifts;
And when we had unstrung them.
We'd twenty score of forks and more,
But not a knife among them;
And as we two had scarce a sou,
There seemed to be a caret
When silly mugs gave claret jugs,
But not a drop of claret.

We'd endless gongs, and sugar-tongs
Of every shape and fashion,
As if sweet tea was bound to be
Henceforth our ruling passion;
We'd sachets, too, of pink and blue,
With sickly perfume scented,
And oh! the show of art nouveau
With which we were presented!

And, now we've got the little lot,
We're under obligation
To every guest we most detest,
And every poor relation;
And by the time the church bells chime,
And Hymen ties the true knot,
We find—too late—we've all we hate,
And nothing that we do not.
—Punch.

It is the part of wisdom to make as many friends as you can, and to ask them as few favors as you can.

A good 'leven raises much dough for its alma mater.

A penny saved by a miser means a dollar earned by his heirs later on.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

Our best opportunities are of the home-made varieties.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc; Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mrs. W. Wilkins is confined in the house by illness.

Miss Irwin has returned from a visit to Toronto and New York.

Miss Hockridge has returned from a visit to Toronto and Cobourg.

Mrs. (Dr.) Mather, of Tweed, is in town visiting her aunt, Mrs. Chas. Hudson.

Mr. James Thompson, son of Mr. Geo. F. Thompson, is home from San Francisco and will remain here.

Miss Trenna Wilkins, who has been confined to the house with an injured foot, is not doing as well as expected.

At the Quinte: A. Mitchell, Bowmanville; J. M. Hughes, Kingston; J. Knoxton, J. W. Shouldice, H. B. Taylor, H. Edwards, A. Ferguson, F. Williamson and wife, J. Anderson, J. Thompson, R. Smith, W. A. Verner, S. Mason, T. Marshall, Toronto; C. Woodley, W. O'Hearn, R. McLaren, F. Greig, J. Tillier, Montreal; F. G. Geiger, Guelph; J. M. Egan, H. O. Ramsay, Bradford; W. S. Stewart, Brockville; J. Bowbanks, Halifax.

THE OFFICIAL FIGURES.

GENERAL ELECTION OF NOVEMBER, 1904 — TOTAL VOTE BY PROVINCES.

Ontario	441,277
Quebec	256,282
Nova Scotia	103,651
New Brunswick	72,959
Prince Edward Island	29,427
Manitoba	48,122
Northwest Territories	46,676
British Columbia	25,184
Grand total	1,026,578

Yukon to come.

WHY BRAIN WORKERS BREAK DOWN.

Man is not a machine that keeps going as long as the steam is applied. He is a creature of blood, nerves and delicately balanced organism. Many don't realize this, but overwork their brains and break down. Brain workers need a strong, bracing tonic like Ferrozone to fortify their nerves and keep the blood pure and rich. Take Ferrozone and you'll do more work. You will have the strength, the ambition and the desire for work because your system will be in first-class order. For your health and strength take Ferrozone regularly. Price 50c. at druggists.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,

STOCK BROKER,

Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.

Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.
Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March 2

Stock.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	89¾	[illegible]
do. pref	102⅞	102¾
St. Paul	179⅞	[illegible]
Mo. P	109⅛	109½
Union Pac	134¼	133⅞
C.P.R.	139	140½
Sou Pac	71½	70⅞
R. I.	35⅞	35½
Ills. C	159⅞	159½
Sou. Ry	36⅛	36½
Texas	37⅛	38¼
B. & O	110⅛	110⅛
N. Y. C.	158⅛	157½
Penn	142⅛	143⅛
Soo	113	[illegible]
T. W	108	109
Erie	48	48⅛
do. pref	82⅞	82⅛
Reading	95⅞	95⅞
C. O.	51⅝	51¼
O. & W	55⅛	55¼
Manhattan	171	171¼
W.C	24⅞	24½
L. & N	142	[illegible]
A.F	35½	[illegible]
Nor.	84⅞	84
Wab	22⅛	....
do. pref	46⅛	46½
W. U.	93⅞	93¼
C. G. W	23⅛	23¼
T. C. I.	93⅞	93½
U.S. Stl	35⅞	35⅞
do. pref	95⅞	95⅞
Sugar	147⅛	149⅞
B. R. T	66	67
P O.	109⅛	110⅛
A.C.P	77⅛	78⅛
Met.	121⅞	123½
Alo	43¼	43⅜

May wheat opened at $1.14⅞, closed at $1.15⅞
July wheat opened at 98⅞; closed at 99
May corn opened at 47⅞; closed at 48
July corn opened at 48⅛; closed at 48⅛
May pork opened at $12.52; closed at $12.52

BRONCHITIC ASTHMA A HEAVY BURDEN.

Asthma is bad enough, but when bronchial symptoms are added the poor sufferer has almost an intolerable existence. An absolute specific is found in fragrant healing Catarrhozone which cures chronic cases that other remedies won't even relieve. "For years," writes Capt. MacDonald, of Montreal, "I battled with the agonies of bronchitic asthma. Often I couldn't sleep for nights at a time. I spent thousands on doctors and medicines without relief, but one dollar's worth of Catarrhozone cured me." Catarrhozone can't fail; it's guaranteed. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c.

SHE GAINED Fifteen Pounds

A young woman in New York wrote us that she had lost twenty-five pounds in four months and her lungs were seriously affected. She had to give up her position as a stenographer. Someone told her to try Scott's Emulsion. She took three bottles and gained fifteen pounds. Her general health was so improved that she resumed her work. Such cases are not the exception, but the rule. We have known persons to gain an average of a pound a day by taking an ounce of

Scott's Emulsion

It seems hardly possible, yet we have received thousands of letters telling of almost similar results. It's not so strange when one is familiar with Scott's Emulsion. It sets the digestion right and furnishes rich nourishment that is easily absorbed by the system. Good food does good when it can be digested. Scott's Emulsion is a food itself, but it helps other food do good and so the gains in flesh are made quickly and easily.

Scott & Bowne, 122 Wellington St., West
TORONTO, ONT.

Bench and Bar

(The Globe.)

Apropos of the discussion touching the report of proceedings before the Supreme Court, there is an interesting reference in the Canadian Law Times for January. Col. W. N. Ponton, of Belleville, comments on the printed return of the arguments before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in the case of the Lord's Day Act, and suggests it as a text for the discussion of the subject of the interruptions of counsel by Judges during argument. This is represented as being "a subject of moment to Bench and Bar." In the case before the Judicial Committee it is stated that:—

"During Mr. O'Meara's statement of his case before that august tribunal (which, I suppose, should be approached with bated breath) no less than 147 interjections of the most versatile description made 'a thing of shreds and patches'—a sort of forensic fricassee—of what may have been originally intended for a lucid, fluent stream of reasoning. He was not the only one selected for the punctures of controversy, as a perusal of the report will show that Mr. Aylesworth and Mr. Paterson had both to run the gauntlet of what many would consider a galling fire; some of the shots taking fore and aft, some well aimed, and some clearly mental ricochets."

Mr. Ponton questions whether the keen contemporaneous and unrestrainable interest displayed by some Judges has the effect of stimulating the mental secretions of counsel, urging them to abler efforts, or whether the interests of justice (and of clients) do not suffer through a practice which is not confined to the Privy Council. But this is no new complaint. Lord Bacon had occasion to remark that "a much-speaking Judge is a no well-tuned cymbal." In his "Lives of the Chief Justices," John Low Campbell says:—

"The celebrated lawyer when placed on the Bench embraces the side of the plaintiff or defendant, and, unconscious of partiality or injustice, in his eagerness for victory becomes unfit fairly to appreciate conflicting evidence, arguments, or authorities. The barrister who constantly complained of the interruptions of Judges, when raised to the Bench, forgets his duty to listen and be instructed, and himself becomes a byword for impatience and loquacity."

Indeed, this would seem to be so common a fault that the same authority, impressed by it on all hands, repeats his observation, and in his "Life of Chief Justice Hale" says:—

"It is a curious fact in the annals of our profession that those men who, when at the Bar, complained most bitterly of judicial impatience and loquacity, becoming Judges themselves, have been most noted for being impatient and loquacious. But Hale strictly and uniformly observed all the rules he had laid down for himself, and might be considered the perfect model of a great Magistrate."

If members of the Canadian Bar fret themselves because of "the interruptions of counsel by Judges" during argument they have this consolation, that they are walking in the way of the great and the dead. They may also cherish the hope of some day being raised to the Bench themselves and setting an example of personal restraint on judicial impatience and loquacity.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy.

The great success of this preparation in the relief and cure of bowel complaints has brought it into almost universal use. It never fails, and when reduced with water and sweetened is pleasant to take. It is equally valuable for children and adults. For sale by all druggists.

Success always stands for itself. Failure needs no explanation.

Honor Roll For February.

GRIER ST. SCHOOL.

First Div.—Lizzie Rathman, Ethel Luscombe, Fred Finkle, Harry Tenny, Daisy Tenny, Frank Fitzgerald, Herbert Chown, Eva Holley, Parker Phillips, Albert Elvins; Nellie Barriage, Albert Moore, Kathleen Johns, Maud Jenkin, Arthur McCoy, Howard Aselstine, Willie Wonnacott, Bennie Brecker, Flora Bennett.

S. F. Armistead, teacher.

Second Div.—Harold Hicks, May Snider, Russell McCreary, Ellwood Phillips, Lelia Wedden, Karl Wilson, Harry Scantlebury, Harry Wedden, Cecil Thompson, Fred Elvins, Milton Green, Myrtle Snider, Melburn Sprague, Gordon Hicks, George Cook.

Luella Boselly, teacher.

Third Div.—Hazel Boyd, Aileen Scantlebury, Archie Cook, John Mather, Fred Scott, Jack Clark, Hilda Fitzgerald, Tommy Simpson, Pearl Barriage, Ray Matthews, Teddy Dyer, Mildred Shane, Earl Snider, Norma Wedden, Lettie Johns, Austin Green, Amy Phillips.

Mary Frost, teacher.

CANIFTON ROAD SCHOOL.

First Class.—Ruth Beaumont, Jimmie Bowler, Alice Bulpit, Willie Muir, Gerald Vance, Rosa Hill, Chas. Caverly, Geo. Bowler.

Jr. Part II.—Manson Monro, Gladys Williamson, Florence Fitzgerald, Lillie Monro, Mabel Henderson.

Sr. Part II.—Lillie Ayers, Melbourne Emsley, Frank Hill, Grace Green, Frank Kiser, Glenn Chesney, Carl Clark, Stanley Belch, Bert Stapley, Alta Dennis, Geo. Wall.

II.—Minnie Simmons, Edith Bulpit, Pearl Henderson, Ruth Stapley, Elsie Stapley, Edna Bowen, Wilfred Ruttan, Grace Gurney, Nora Case, Vera Clarke, Will Simmons, Jas. Alexander, Wallace Greatrix, Chas. Green.

Miss Campbell, teacher.

Jr. III.—Grace Clarke, Lizzie Morton, Will Storms, Jas. Thrasher, Frank Williamson, Pearl Storms.

Sr. III.—Stella Ayers, Clark Taylor, Ethel Ayers, Fax Baker.

Jr. IV. — Marjorie Taylor, Roy Henderson, Wyona Green, Harold Chesney.

Sr. IV.—Laura Fitzgerald, Grace Hough, Pearl Ruttan, Ralph Wilson, Aimie Boyce.

FEBRUARY REPORT S. S. NO. 10, SIDNEY.

V.—Ezra Mallory, Pearl Rose.

IV.—Earl Bonesteel, Eva Bush, Geo. Nicholson, Bert Bush, Harry Bush, Elsie Wannamaker.

III.—Ralph Coon, Clayton Rose, Ethel Bush, Lawrence Mallory, Chas. Brown, Gerald Bush, Ross Nicholson, Rhoda Byers.

II.—Eula Rose, Mary Dafoe, Alice Dafoe, Myrtle Brown, Emma Hawkins, Ezra Nicholson, Teddy Byers, Cecil Brown, Alice Wannamaker.

Part II.—Lloyd Dafoe, Ross Brown, Willie Hawkins, Alice VanMeer, Hattie Archer, Nora Wannamaker, Annie Foshay, Addie Wannamaker.

I.—Earl Bush.

Average attendance, 24.

E. L. Rush, teacher.

PINNACLE ST. SCHOOL.

Second Book—Joseph Smith, David Babcock, Samuel Smith, Mary Fry.

Sr. Part II.—Melville Clarke, Myrtle Moxam, Charlie Duesberry.

Jr. Part II.—Jennie Wilson, Gracie Moxam, Emmie Hutchinson, Madeline McElrath, Charlie McConnell.

Sr. Part I.—Laura Duesberry, Mattie Coleman, Alan Foster, Aggie Carter.

No. 2, Part I.—Gracie Wilson, Jessie Kiser, Stella Hutchinson, George Clapper.

No. 1, Part I.—Sadie Kaitting, Mabel L. Kaitting, Pearl Sanford, Orvel Herrington.

A. M. MacKay, teacher.

Many a woman, confronted with sudden reverses of fortune, has "baffled the wolf" by securing private pupils in music or drawing. Here again the "wolf" might have the best of it if it were not for the help of the want ads.

There are times when the mysteries of life seem greater than the mystery of death.

CHRISTAIN GUARDIAN ON THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

ORGAN OF METHODIST CHURCH DENOUNCES THE MEASURE IN UNMEASURED TERMS.

The Christian Guardian, in an editorial this week, strongly assails the Separate School clauses of the Northwest Autonomy Act. The article is in part as follows:

"This drastic proposal comes as a bolt from the blue. The worst that was expected was that the Separate School provisions of the Northwest Territories Act would be incorporated in the draft Act of Autonomy. And the people of the Territories themselves do not appear to have anticipated even that. But no one dreamt that Separate Schools as a state institution. Separate schools with the same privileges as Public Schools, and receiving the same money grants from Government, would be riveted upon the new provinces for ever. Who could dream that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was swept triumphantly into power less than nine years ago as the chivalrous champion of the opponents of coercion in Manitoba, would to-day seek to force upon the wrists and ankles of Saskatchewan and Alberta chains that, as compared with those with which Manitoba was threatened, are as the girth of a man's loins to the thickness of his little finger?

"It is the question as to whether mediaevalism is to triumph over modernity, and narrow and arbitrary ecclesiasticism over personal liberty and popular Government. It is the question as to whether we are to have in this free and democratic country a state church, and that church the Church of Rome. It is the question whether public funds are to be administered for the propagation of sectarian dogmas, and public men to become the puppets of an arrogant and aggressive hierarchy.

"Let the free and independent electors of this country deluge their representatives with letters at once, and warn them to vote down the educational clauses in this bill. Let the wily and persistent hierarchy, periodical disturbers of our country's peace, and consistent enemies of our country's freedom, find that their machinations have been thwarted. Sir Wilfrid Laurier may go to Canossa if he will. But we take it that Canada will not follow him."

Signs Of Spring.

New York Sun: Candlemas Day, the 2nd of February, is usually considered to be mid-winter day in the Province of Quebec. They say that if the weather is bright then the heaviest part of the winter has still to be looked forward to. If it is overcast and stormy, as it was this year, then the worst of the cold weather has gone.

Hunters and trappers are also accustomed at this season to forecast the coming of spring. The logic of their reasoning is not always easily followed, but they argue shrewdly enough from such signs as their woodland experiences have shown to be reliable.

The swelling of the buds on some of the hard wood or deciduous leaved trees, the tightness of the bark to the wood, the loosening of the needles of the pine, the beginning of the springing of sap in the birch, the brightness of the wild sarsaparilla roots—all these standard signs are derived from an ancient belief that spring begins underground.

According to this idea the warmth of the interior of the earth, in obedience to some great law, advances toward the surface from winter to summer and recedes in a similar manner toward winter. Believers in the notion usually refer to the pull of the moon upon the water of the earth, as seen in the tides, to illustrate the influence exercised by the sun upon the latent heat of the earth.

The roots and sap of trees are therefore more to be relied on as giving an inkling of the real advance of the seasons than are things directly influenced by prevalent winds and frosts. Springs of water are supposed to be especially susceptible to the action of the approaching heat, and when chopping water holes or fishing places in the lakes from this time of year on the woodsman has a keen eye for signs of wear and incipient honeycombing on the under side from the warmth of the water.

Red squirrels are of assistance to the seers who adopt the internal heat theory. When one of these restless little creatures is seen lying flat along a slender branch, with his nose close to the bark, the observer judges that its sharp teeth have made a cut into the sapwood of the tree, and that it is sucking out the slightly sweet sap which has sprung from the roots. It is not improbable that the aborigines learned that the maple sap contained sugar from this rodent habit.

The same sharp-eyed foresters may be trusted also to detect the symptoms of the swelling of the terminal buds before anyone else and the fragments scattered by them on the snow, as they seek out the embryonic vegetable life just developing are joyfully noted by the men who are anxious to see the last of the winter.

Birch partridges are also very clever in noticing the beginnings of the quickening of the twigs. One of the first of the reliable signals of the approach of the warm season is the big bird swinging up aloft, plucking the buds off the white birch tree.

The trapper can usually give one a good idea of the probable length of the winter, taking his information from the hair upon his pelts. If the inside of the skin is pimply and rough to the touch, showing that the roots of the hair are almost protruding through the hide, warm weather is near, and he will soon have to take up his traps. The presence of beavers and muskrats upon the mounds of their houses, or playing about near by in the day time, is indicative also of an early spring.

But all woodsmen put most confidence in the 'saw whet' as the harbinger of a chance of season. To the majority it consists of sound and nothing more. Heard in the evening it is a doleful reiterated combination of two unmelodious notes. One note corresponds to the downward pull of a big file across a tooth of a cross-cut saw. The saw whetting goes on for hours at a time with maddening persistency.

Many old hunters persist in believing that it is the song of some particular hare. Others think it is the ticking of some gigantic beetle. Very few are to be met with who ever saw the sound produced, so it is perhaps not to be wondered at that superstition has laid hold upon it and declared it to bring bad luck upon anyone rash enough to attempt to probe the mystery.

The fact is that it is a tiny owl, a pretty little thing, not as big as a man's fist, that lets it be known to all within reach of his unmelodious voice that winter is passing and the warm weather near.

Baby's Supper

Mooney's Crackers are as easy to digest as pure milk, and as nutritious as home-made bread. Let the little folk's supper be and see how sound they sleep and how plump and rosy they grow.

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

Air-tight packages bring them to your table as crisp and inviting as if fresh from the ovens.

At your grocer.

- For - Saturday

1 Stodart Square Piano	$10.00
1 Dunham & Sons Piano	$75.00
1 New Full Size Upright Piano with all the latest improvements	$190.00

J. A. Goodsell & Co.

436 Front Street.

HOW TO KEEP WELL.

Strengthen the Stomach With Mi-o-na and Get Perfect Health.

The source of health is the stomach and the digestive system. When acting as Nature designed they should, the organs of digestion do their work regularly and unconsciously, like a perfect machine.

Those who use Mi-o-na do not have a sallow complexion, sunken cheeks, nor flabby flesh. Their skin has a ruddy glow, the eyes are bright, the breath sweet and the step elastic. In short, the users of Mi-o-na have the maximum of good health and are plump, rosy and robust.

Nine-tenths of all sickness comes from a weak stomach, causing loss of flesh, shattered nerves, flatulency, heartburn, sick headaches, backaches, spots before the eyes, rheumatic troubles and general weakness and debility. Take a Mi-o-na tablet before each meal, and all irritation, congestion and inflammation in the stomach or bowels will be immediately soothed and relieved. In fact, the stomach will become well and strong and the whole system filled with strength and vitality.

Even if a weakened stomach has brought you to a chronic stage of ill health, where life is one long drawn out pain, do not despair. Mi-o-na will effect a cure if the simple directions in each 50c box are faithfully followed.

Read the guarantee given by J. S. McKeown with every package of Mi-o-na he sells. He pledges himself in this guarantee to refund the money, should Mi-o-na fail to help.

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

Big Bargains

....AT OUR....

AFTER STOCK-TAKING SALE

—OF—

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, And Shoe Polishes.

Now the severe storm is passed and the snow blockade is off, our country customers will have an opportunity to share in the being offered. Don't be short-sighted and miss this money saving chance.

Bargains

THIS SALE CLOSES SATURDAY, MARCH 4th

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

Struck Ore

In our big Tunnel. Mining Experts say it will grow richer and better. Many large gold veins are just ahead and will be cut in rapid succession. We own the 200 acres.

WITHOUT DEBT.

AT GOLDFIELD

The camp of Quick Fortunes. We own 100 acres, with rich Gold Strikes all around. Gold Veins Discovered. JOIN NOW and

Help Us Dig

Every Share of Golden Sun Stock gives ownership in the Goldfield 100 acres and Colorado 200—total 300 acres. Dividends declared on both would be

TWO DIVIDENDS FROM ONE INVESTMENT.

$15 Buys 1000 Shares

$45 buys 3,300 shares. $90 buys 6,600 shares.
Full paid, Non-assessable.

BUY BEFORE THE PRICE ADVANCES

500 - PER - CENT.

ORDER AT ONCE

the cheapest and best, with ore in the mines and cash in the treasury. If over-subscribed your money will be returned. Highest Commercial and Bank References.

MAKE ALL REMITTANCES PAYABLE TO

The Golden Sun Mining & Milling Co.

204 KITTREDGE BUILDING: DENVER, COLO.

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00

—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand."

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The March lion is lying low.

• • •

A scheme is on foot for loyal men all over the Empire to subscribe a shilling each, buy the big diamond lately found and present it to King Edward. My shilling is ready, but it strikes me that the shillings could be put to better use in feeding London's poor. The King has diamonds enough, and as for his wife, well, she's queen of hearts.

• • •

Preaching in Boston, a clergyman described many occupants of church pews as "sermon-saturated pagans." That is probably true, judging by the way some sermon-hearers act on week days.

• • •

It is proposed to present the Man from Manitoulin, Mr. Gamey, with a sum of money as a testimonial, and already subscriptions are being taken up with that end in view. The idea is a good one. There is no doubt that Mr. Gamey's story, and the fearless way in which he told it, did more than anything else to bring about the downfall of the Ross Government. The testimonial should, and no doubt will, be a fitting one, even though Stratton's name does not appear in the list of subscribers.

• • •

The Russian Grand Duke Paul has been recalled from banishment. The Czar probably wants to hand him something he's taken from Peter, the serf.

• • •

If the vinegar factory doesn't get going till next fall it may find the field already occupied by many estimable housewives, whose products, labelled "home - made wines," have already flooded the market.

• • •

It will be noticed that present peace talk never touches on what Russia will do with Tokio and other Japanese towns.

• • •

EXPLAINED.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

The secret is out. Dr. Osler was speaking at a banquet when he alluded to the incapacity of men over forty, and it was during the early morning hours. Discharged.

• • •

One very pathetic feature of the recent mine disaster in Alabama in which more than a hundred miners lost their lives was that many of the bodies found in the distant recesses of the mine were in a kneeling posture, as though they had spent their last moments in prayer for deliverance.

• • •

The Methodist organ, The Christian Guardian has, this week, the picture of a hand upholding a torch on its front page, and, in a strong article, the editor tells Sir Wilfrid Laurier a few things which are apt to jar his sunny smile a trifle. Listen to this:

"The question is whether mediaevalism is to triumph over modernity, and narrow and arbitrary ecclesiasticism over personal liberty and popular government; whether we are to have in this free and democratic country a state church, and that church the church of Rome, whether public funds are to be administered for the propagation of sectarian dogmas, and public men to become the puppets of an arrogant and aggressive hierarchy. That is the issue, and that alone."

MRS. STANFORD DEAD

Widow of the Late Leland Stanford Poisoned in Honolulu.

San Francisco, March 2.—A cable despatch from Honolulu states that Mrs. Jane Stanford, widow of the late Leland Stanford, died in Honolulu last night. She was poisoned. The doctors say death was caused by strychnine. She was worth many millions.

Boy's Neck Broken.

Toronto, March 2.—Without uttering even one last cry, Arthur Hughes, aged 16, 244 St. Patrick Street, was killed by an elevator in the W. R. Brock Company's warehouse yesterday morning. The boy was employed by W. P. Rodger, and had been on business to the third floor of the Brock warehouse. He had evidently leaned over the guard-railing to see if the hoist was descending, and it struck him, wedging him between the elevator floor and the cross-bar of the door, breaking his neck. The elevator cable was jarred off the wheel, and a saw had to be used to cut away the bar before the body could be removed. The boy was a son of Thomas R. Hughes.

To Resign on Saturday.

Montreal, March 2.—A special from Quebec says: Hon. S. N. Parent will resign the Premiership on Saturday. Hon. Lomer Gouin will immediately be summoned by the Lieutenant-Governor and entrusted with the task of forming a new administration

The unspoken word never does harm. —Kossuth.

HUGE STATUE OF BUDDHA.

The Mammoth Reclining Figure at Rangun, Burma.

To the eastern traveler the statue of Buddha is a familiar sight. From Colombo, in Ceylon, to Kobe, in Japan, he is everywhere greeted by the same calm, impassive and mysterious face of the eastern preceptor of perfection. But in no city in the orient do the form and face of Buddha constitute so frequent or so essential a part of the city's decoration as in Rangun, Burma, starting place of Mr. Kipling's famous "Road to Mandalay," the stronghold of Buddhists. Notable even among the countless statues of Rangun is the mammoth Buddha, representing the strange teacher not standing or sitting crosslegged, as in the majority of statues, but reclining on a huge raised couch, his mighty form stretched out for 200 feet, while his shoulders rival the width of that wonder of the ancient world, the Colossus of Rhodes, their titanic breadth reaching fifty feet.

But one among the wonders of Rangun, this mighty figure rests near the famous Shoay Dagon, the center of the Burmese Buddhist world, crowned by the golden pagoda, which rises 300 feet above it, its walls covered with pure gold, the gift of a prince who contributed his weight in gold to the pagoda. In the Shoay Dagon there are countless other statues of Buddha, as well as relics of Gautama, the last Buddha. All, equally with the huge reclining Buddha, form a part of the religious rites of the Buddhists, for the essence of Buddhism consists in the struggle to become like Buddha, to attain his perfection by obedience to his precepts. To do this it is necessary always to have Buddha in mind, and it is for this reason that every city in the Buddhist world is literally crowded with his images. Buddha himself is not deified. Potentially every Buddhist may attain his perfection, but only by the eternal imitation of his practice.

But, while statues such as Rangun's huge colossus are important in Buddhist worship, of even more importance are the relics of Buddha.

It was about the Shoay Dagon that the Burmese made their last fierce fight when the British came to Rangun. A Venetian traveler of 300 years ago visiting the Shoay Dagon has left a description of this famous temple, conceding its claim to rivalry with his own Venice, that would serve as a contemporaneous description, and today, as in untold centuries past, the Burmese still bring their offerings of flowers and fruit, candles and paper flags, to lay before the huge reclining Buddha, whose hands would afford comfortable standing room for four of the worshipers and whose gigantic face wears the strange, inscrutable expression of calm which is the outward mark of spiritual Buddhism.

The Turkey's Real Name.

The original name of the turkey was oocoocoo, by which it was known by the native Cherokee Indians. It is supposed that our pilgrim fathers, roaming through the woods in search of game for their first Thanksgiving spread, heard the oocoocoo calling in the familiar tones of our domesticated fowl, "Turk, turk, turk." These first Yankee huntsmen, mistaking this frightened cry of the bird for its real song, immediately labeled it "turkey," and turkey it is to this day. Much more beautiful and musical was the Indian name oocoocoo, the notes peculiar to the flock when sunning themselves in perfect content on the river beaches.

He Told the Truth.

An Irish gentleman had a splendid looking cow, but she kicked so much that it took a very long time and it was almost impossible to milk her, so he sent her to a fair to be sold and told his herdsman to be sure not to sell her without letting the buyer know her faults. He brought home a large price which he had got for it. His master was surprised and said, "Are you sure you told all about her?" "Bedad, I did, sir," said the herdsman. "He asked me whether she was a good milker. 'Begorra, sir,' says I, 'it's you'd be tired milking her.' "—"Seventy Years of Irish Life."

The Dragon Tree.

The dragon tree (Dracaena draco), which yields the astringent gum resin called dragon's blood, is an old settler of the Canary islands. A veritable colossus of this family once grew in the town of Orotava, Tenerife, which was eighty feet in circumference at the base, hollow inside, with a staircase for visitors to ascend to the branching top of the trunk. Humboldt remarks that its antiquity must have been greater than that of the pyramids. This giant went down in a hurricane in 1867.

He Sold and Left.

A lawyer had a horse that always stopped and refused to cross a certain bridge leading out of the city. No whipping, no urging, would induce him to cross it, so he advertised him, "To be sold for no other reason than that the owner wants to get out of town."

A Strong Part.

Soubrette—Yes, the understudy says he used to have a very strong part on the stage. Comedian—So he did. He used to be a scene shifter and lift the mountains and castles.

Home Traits.

"Isn't your husband dyspeptic?"
"I rather think he is. I know he always disagrees with his meals."

True diplomacy is to get all you can with as much courtesy as you can.—Rev. Boyd Carpenter.

Parents buy Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because they know it is a safe medicine for their children and an effectual expeller of worms.

Probably egg coal is so called because of its close resemblance in price to hen fruit.

Where can I get some of Holloway's Corn Cure? I was entirely cured of my corns by this remedy and I wish some more of it for my friends. So writes Mr. J. W. Brown, Chicago.

Kuropatkin would doubtless rather be recalled at this stage of the game than captured by the Japs later.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

However, no hard feelings will be occasioned if we fail to retain the low temperature prize.

Prevent Disorder.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventative of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

Gen. Stoessel explains that the Japs won because they drill better. The supposition was that they shoot better and more often.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

A man's capacity for work often depends upon whether he is working for himself or others.

A Wide Sphere of Usefulness.—The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market for over thirty-one years, its prosperity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.
No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points.
Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

	Daily except Sunday
L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)......	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C. ...	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C. ...	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

The great trouble with the fellow who knows it all is that he doesn't.

The woman who drives a man to drink has no need of a whip.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

JOSEPH CALDWELL
Dentist, Belleville Ont.
Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
Malcolm Wright J. Franklin Wills
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. G. Porter. Wm. Carnew.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor Su... and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security. Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.

THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.
INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter, Joiner, Builder
Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave.
(next McCrodan's grocery.)
Estimates furnished.
Work promptly and carefully } executed Prices Moderate
—SPECIALIST ON—
Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.
G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

The Yellow Holly

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by G. W. Dillingham Company

"On what grounds did Lola base that accusation?"

"She said her mother told her."

"And what did Mrs. Jersey say?" asked George.

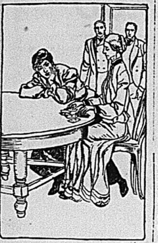
"She denied it and made some sort of excuse. I remained to hear no more. I knew then that Mrs. Jersey had killed my Percy."

"But she did not. It was an accident."

"I know. She explained. But she was the cause. I was right to kill her. But for her Percy would have been alive, I would have been his wife, and you, George, would have been my stepson."

"What did you do next?"

"I went up to my room and resumed my game of patience. I intended to have a talk with Mrs. Jersey the next morning, but when I found that she had struck Margery I came down at once"—



Seated at the very table where her victim had sat.

"That was after 11?"

"About a quarter past. Mrs. Jersey was in her room. We talked, and I told her what I had heard. She denied it. I pointed to the stiletto which was on the table as a proof that the girl had been here. Mrs. Jersey said that it was the same stiletto with which Percy had been killed, as Lola had received it from her mother. That put the thought into my head that God intended Mrs. Jersey should be slain with the same weapon with which my darling had been stabbed.

"I accused Mrs. Jersey of having killed Percy. She gloried in the fact that it was through her he had died. She declared that if Ireland had not held her hand she would have laid him dead at her feet. She exulted that the accident had fulfilled her intention and taunted me with the fact that I never became his wife. I was very quiet," added Miss Bull, her eyes glittering, "but my blood was boiling. Mrs. Jersey turned her back on me, with an insolent laugh, and sat down. The stiletto was on the table. Her head was turned away. I softly took the dagger and"— Miss Bull rose. "George, you now know all. Go! No, do not shake hands. I have avenged your father, and I expect I will be hanged."

Margery burst out into renewed weeping, and Miss Bull soothed her, talking to George the while. "Tell my sister," she said, "that the name of Howard will not be mentioned. I will die under my false name. No disgrace will be brought on her. As to Dorothy"—here Miss Bull's eyes grew tender—"no disgrace will befall her. Marry her, George; love her, make her a good husband and take this kiss to her from a sorely tried woman."

Before the astonished George knew what she was about he felt a pair of cold lips pressed to his own. The next moment she had pushed him out of the room and had locked the door. That was the last George saw of her.

Whether Margery had agreed to die with her or whether Miss Bull, knowing what a miserable life the girl would lead after her death, compelled her to take the poison will never be known, but when the door was burst open the two women were found on the floor in one another's arms. On the table was an empty glass, and it was ascertained that Miss Bull and Margery had taken prussic acid. Bawdsey entered the room an hour after the death, alarmed by the silence. He found that his prey had escaped. Miss Bull was buried under her false name, and Margery was buried with her. Nothing of Miss Bull's sad past or of her killing of Mrs. Jersey came to light.

Six months later George Vane was seated in the library of the mansion in St. Giles square. It was after dinner, and Lord Derrington occupied his usual chair. The old man looked brighter and happier than he had looked for many years. Daily George grew a greater favorite with him, and on the morrow George was to be married. Lord Derrington had insisted that as it was his last night as a bachelor George should dine alone with him and would not admit even Walter. "It's the last time I'll have you all to myself, George," said the old man piteously. "After tomorrow Dorothy will possess you."

"Not at all," replied George, "you will have us both. We will come back from the honeymoon in a month, and then we will live here. A lady in the house will make a lot of difference. You won't know this place when Dorothy is flitting about."

"Don't! Her mother is the kind of woman who flits."

"Oh, I don't think we'll be troubled much with Mrs. Ward. Since the shock inflicted by her sister's sad death she has become religious."

"Bah! That's only a phrase. Poor Miss Bull!" said Derrington. "I like to think of her under that name. She had a sad life. I don't wonder she killed herself. Do you think she was mad, George?"

"No. But I think the memory of her wrongs, which were all caused by Mrs. Jersey, was too much for her. She was mad for the moment, but she told me the terrible story in the calmest manner."

"And who came in at the front door that night?" asked Derrington.

"No one. After the murder Miss Bull opened it to fly—panic struck, I expect—but Margery came downstairs and stopped her. Miss Bull closed the door and remained to face the worst."

"Well, she is dead and buried, and the scandal is laid at rest, unless that Bawdsey revives it."

"Oh, you can trust Bawdsey," said George, smiling. "He and Lola are quite happy, and she has almost forgotten me. I got a letter from Bawdsey the other day. He is acting as his wife's agent, and they are making a lot of money."

"All the better. He won't talk about that business. By the way, I forgot to ask you about Ireland's money?"

"The money he left to me? I have settled that on Dorothy. How suddenly he died," said George reflectively; "just an hour after I left the house."

"Well, five thousand a year is not to be despised. Have you settled it all on Dorothy?"

"Every penny. Don't you approve?"

"Oh, yes, so long as Mrs. Ward doesn't get it."

"You can depend upon that, sir. But Dorothy will have it—Dorothy, whom I shall see tomorrow crowned with orange blossoms, and"— Derrington laughed, but not unkindly. "Well, well. Better orange blossoms than yellow holly."

George nodded. "I hope never to see yellow holly again," he said, and Derrington agreed. So their conversation ended on the threshold of George's new life with that last reference to the old.

THE END.

THE GIRAFFE.

Hard For It to Browse on the Ground, So It Lives High.

"You can always tell giraffe country at a glance," said Captain Manel, the big game hunter. "A place of low bushes or no bushes or trees at all is sure not to have any giraffes in it. Always look for low trees with abundant leafage before you look for the giraffes. No matter how fertile the ground may be or how full it may be of fine juicy grasses and other vegetation that would furnish abundant food for the giraffes, you won't be likely to find them unless there are trees. The reason for this is that it is very nearly as hard for a giraffe to browse on the ground as it would be for a man to stoop over without getting on hands and knees and pick something up from the ground with his mouth. There is no more awkward and painful sight than to see one of these beautiful beasts feeding from the ground. It straddles its immense forelegs out sideways till they look as if they were being stretched like india rubber. Then it slowly and clumsily lowers its body, jerking its forelegs spasmodically to keep its balance. That is why a giraffe is not eager to browse on low growing vegetation."

A Tree on Stilts.

In Lake county, Cal., to the north of San Francisco, is a tree on stilts. It is an oak tree growing near the edge of the lake. The waters of the lake have washed away the soil from the roots of the tree and, receding, have left the tree supported by the uncovered mass of roots.

Only a Little Cold often Develops into Catarrh.

Colds are dangerous things to trifle with. They hang on and on, and people keep putting off curing them, until that stuffy feeling in the nose proclaims that catarrh has developed. Stop the cold while it is only a cold. Japanese Catarrh Cure instantly relieves "cold in the head." The balmy, aromatic pomade soothes and heals the inflammed surfaces, clears the air passages, and arrests the development of the trouble. The treatment is so pleasant and so simple, that Japanese Catarrh Cure holds first place in thousands of homes throughout the Dominion.

Mr. Alex. McRea of New Westminster, B.C., writes:—"I was for some weeks suffering from a cold in the head, which was apparently developing into Catarrh. I purchased a box of Japanese Catarrh Cure and in less than two days, the trouble entirely disappeared. I can highly recommend it: the first application relieves."

All druggists sell it at 50c. a box or six for $2.50.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Limited.
Toronto, Canada.

SOLDIERS' ANECDOTES.

From Mr. Settle's New Book, Just Published by Methuen & Co.—Determination of Edward the Crusader.

When he became King of England, on the death of his father, Edward I., the greatest warrior Sovereign who has ever ruled over these fortunate isles was away in the Holy Land conducting a crusade.

Though beset with many difficulties and though his small force of soldiers seemed to melt away through disease and desertion, Edward still marched on against the Saracens. When his nobles wished him to turn back, he airily said, "I will go on, if I go on with no other follower than my servant!"

Oldest Regiment.

"Pontius Pilate's Body Guard" used to be the extraordinary nickname given to the 1st Foot—now the Royal Scots—which has the distinction of being the oldest regiment in the Army. The name originated during a dispute between the regiment (then known as the "Regiment de Douglas," or "Douglas Ecossais"), when in the French service in 1637, and the Picardy Regiment, as to the antiquity of the two corps.

The Picardy Regiment laid claim to having been on duty on the night after the Crucifixion. To this the 1st Foot wittily rejoined, "Had we been on duty, we should not have slept at our post!"

A Better Joke.

When General Oglethrope was in Holland in his youthful days serving with the army of Prince Eugene, a prince of Wurtemburg, at an entertment, filliped some wine into Oglethrope's face.

The latter turned his eye on him and remarked, "That was a good joke, but we do it better in England," and thereupon threw a glassful of wine into the face of the prince!

Witty Reply.

In the days of Marlborough, one of his generals, on a short holiday in England, was dining at the Mansion House one day, when an alderman sitting next to him remarked, "Yours, sir, must be a very laborious profession?"

"Oh, no," replied the warrior, airily; "we fight for four hours in the morning and two or three hours after dinner, and then we have the rest of the day to ourselves!"

Badajos Stories.

At the siege of Badajos a cannonshot, fired by the French, struck the ground first, and then hit one of the British artillerymen on the back, felling him to the ground. He was thought to have been killed on the spot, but in a moment, to the surprise of his comrades, he jumped up unhurt, the shot having glanced off his knapsack. It is recorded that the fortunate soldier was afterwards known as "the bomb-proof man."

In the same engagement a British soldier, having fired at one of the enemy without orders, was reprimanded by his colonel, who asked the man why he had so offended. "Why, zur," replied the soldier, scratching his head at the same time, "I arn't nought to eat this 'ere two days, and I thought as how I might find summat in his knapsack!"

Puzzled Russians.

In connection with the 93rd Regiment at Balaclava a rather amusing story is recorded. The odd appearance of the Highlanders in their national kilt attracted the attention of the Russians who came into the camp under a flag of truce.

After discussing the matter among themselves for a little time, one of the Russian officers asked, "What sort of soldiers are those in the petticoats?"

"These," replied a waggish British officer, "are the wives of the soldiers who ride on the grey horse!"

The allusion, of course, was to the Scots Greys, who were in the vicinity.

Useful Bullet.

There is an admixture of comedy and tragedy in the following incident which took place at Elandslaagte: Major W. Sampson, of the Imperial Light Horse, observed a man lying down, and ordered him to go on. The poor fellow retorted that he was perfectly willing to go on, but at that moment was too paralysed with fear.

Major Sampson galloped on, but shortly afterwards was surprised to see the trooper charging past him. "What's the matter?" shouted the major. The trooper showed that his moustache and part of his upper lip had been carried away by a Boer bullet, and yelled fiercely, "Where are the devils? Let me get at them!" With that he galloped on, and was in the front of the charge the whole way.

One Dickens Used to Tell.

Charles Dickens used to tell this story about a clergyman: "This preacher had been called to officiate at the funeral of a relative of a Conservative editor, and as the preacher himself aimed to be a Liberal leader in the district he and the editor had often crossed swords. This time the chance came to deliver a home thrust without a chance for either parry or reply. At the coffin of the deceased, beside which the editor and other mourners knelt together, the preacher made this appeal: 'Lord, overrule this affliction to the welfare of all assembled, including the reptile now sprawling in Thy presence, who has frequently abused Thy servant in the columns of his beastly publication.'"

CURIOUS SCRAPS.

Like Old Times.

"Afternoon tea" is not quite such a modern institution as people generally suppose. Dr. Alexander Carlyle, the eminent Presbyterian divine of the 18th century, in describing in his autobiography the fashionable mode of living at Harrogate in 1763, says: "The ladies gave afternoon tea in their turns, which coming but once in four or five weeks, amounted to a trifle."

An Improvement on Nature.

Nature gives us fruit to keep us healthy. But fruit can't bring back health after we lose it. It take something more effective than fresh fruit to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney Diseases.

Fruit-a-tives
or Fruit Liver Tablets

are fruit juices in tablet form. We improve on nature by our secret process. By it, we so change the medicinal action of the fruit, that "Fruit-a-tives" are rendered effective enough to cure Constipation, Biliousness, Torpid Liver, Indigestion and Sick Kidneys.

If you want to be rid of these troubles, ask your druggist for a box of "Fruit-a-tives." They never fail. 50c. a box.

FRUITATIVES, Limited, OTTAWA.

Beaten in Her Ambition.

In the Copyright Register of Stationers' Hall is the entry: "Edward White, entered for his copie, etc., a ballade, showing how a fond woman falsely accused her selfe to be ye Kinge of Spaine's daughter, and beinge founde a lyer, was for the same whipped through London the xiii. jve day of December, 1592, beinge knowen to be a butcher's daughter of London, vjd."

Queer Use for a Royal Tomb.

In the Right Hon. William Windham's diary, under date July, 1785, is the entry: "Rode in the morning to Peterborough to see the Cathedral . . . tomb of Mary Queen of Scots removed to the dean's garden, and used as a summerhouse."

The Sign of a Deadly Crime.

According to local tradition the sign of The Sturdy's Castle, on the road between Woodstock and Banbury, has a very quaint origin. The story goes that in the long, long ago, while the house was being built, and approaching completion, a resident of the district named Sturdy was murdered by another whose name was Castle. The hanging of the latter on a gibbet near by and the opening of the hostelry coming near together, one of the earliest customers of the house flippantly called it Sturdy's Castle, and it has been known by that sign ever since.

Good Buzziness.

In Grantham there is a tavern called The Living Sign. Before the house is a small tree, in the branches of which is established a well-populated bee-hive, and over the entrance to the hostelry is inscribed the couplet:

"Two wonders, Grantham, now are thine—
A lofty steeple and a Living Sign."

A DICKENS BALL.

Descendants of the Novelist Will Appear in Costume.

A group of descendants of Charles Dickens will represent some of the famous novelist's characters at a remarkable Dickens ball, which will be held at the Royal Palace Hotel, Kensington, under the patronage of Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein.

Every one who attends the ball will represent some character from the pages of the famous novels, but chief interest will naturally centre in the party that will be headed by Mrs. Henry Dickens, wife of the eminent K. C., who is the novelist's son.

The party includes nearly a dozen bearers of the famous name, and it is the intention of the novelist's descendants to give the public a realistic portrayal of the chosen characters.

The novelist's grandchildren will represent the chief characters in "The Old Curiosity Shop," and they will include Little Nell, Mrs. Jarley, and the Little Marchioness.

The Dickens family group will dance a Sir Roger de Coverley together.

"One lady, for instance, is bringing a large party to represent the principal characters in 'A Tale of Two Cities.'

"Another party, numbering about thirty, will appear as the chief characters in 'Nicholas Nickleby,' and a third party is taking its costumes from 'Martin Chuzzlewit.'

"The most peculiar character so far is the Fat Boy from 'Pickwick.' There are at least half a dozen Mrs. Gamps, several Sam Wellers and Dolly Vardens, a Mrs. Bardell, and a Micawber.

"One lady will wear the costume of Little Dorrit, the original of whom, by the way, is still alive, and is an old lady of ninety."

Old prints and drawings are serving as fashion plates, and every effort is being made to obtain accurate designs.

West Ham Hospital is to benefit by the Dickens ball.

She Was Great.

"Say, Dusty, I've just been readin' about Charlotte Corday. She was a great woman all right."

"Wot did she do?"

"Killed a feller that was takin' a bath."

Art is the work of man under the guidance and inspiration of a mightier power.—Hare

Do you Stand on your Feet Much?

Or would you like to if it were not for the discomfort of tired, aching feet? Put FOOT ELM in your shoes and you can stand or walk all day without discomfort. Prevents chafing and blistering, incidental to breaking in new shoes. Great for chillblains. 25 cents at all druggists or postpaid from

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

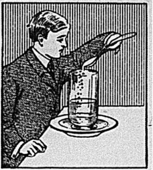
THE MAGIC BOTTLE.

A Trick That Will Teach a Little Lesson In Physics.

Here is a trick that will prove a puzzle to those who are not pretty well up in physics.

Take an ordinary dinner plate and fill it with water, then a small empty bottle, and assure the spectators that you are wizard enough to pour water through the solid bottom of the latter.

Pass the bottle around that all may see it perfectly empty and dry; then, having thrust a stick into it and held it to the fire until it is very hot—too hot to hold in the bare hands—stand it, mouth downward, in the plate of water. At the same time pour a tablespoonful of water on the upturned bottom, as if you were beginning to fill it in that way.



THE WATER RISING IN THE BOTTLE.

Each time you do this the bottle will be seen to retain more water, and as a corresponding amount will have disappeared from the plateful from which you are dipping it, it will easily appear as though the water had passed through the bottom of the bottle.

Of course the fact is that the water really rises from the plate with the contraction of the air as the bottle cools.

Bedsteads.

"Among all the useless things that afflict society," said the housekeeper, "it would perhaps be impossible to find anything more entirely absurd than the high headboards and footboards with which beds are still made. A bed needs only a footboard and headboard high enough to support the pillows and keep the coverings where they belong, and the superfluous materials now put into such projections not only make the bed clumsy and hard to move, but necessitate its being placed not where one wants it, but with the high headboard against the wall."

One Trial to Please Us
will ensure your using it ever after to please yourself.

"SALADA"

CEYLON NATURAL GREEN tea is healthful and delicious as well as being absolutely "PURE." It is as far ahead of Japan tea as "SALADA" Black is ahead of all other black teas. Sold only in sealed lead packets. By all grocers.

Given the Highest Award and Gold Medal at St. Louis Exposition, 1904

Are Your Trousers Stamped?

Very few wholesale tailoring houses are willing to put their names on the garments they manufacture—have no confidence in their own goods.

Every pair of trousers from our factory bears our trade mark on the curtain.

Thus, our reputation is at stake, and you know what that means—we've got to put our very best workmanship and intelligence into every pair.

If our name is on your trousers you can depend the quality and style are right.

If your dealer does not keep them send us a postal card and we will tell you where you can get them.

English Woolen Mills Company,
"TROUSER KINGS"
LONDON - - CANADA

PIES.

Fresh Pies out in time for your dinner, made on large 9 inch heavy paper plates, so there will be no charge for plates.

Lemon 20c, Mince 20c, Pumpkin 15c, Apple 15c, Meat Pies 5c each ICE CREAM EVERY DAY.

Ed. F. Dickens.
—CATERER

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

MADAME

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer

One Year's Subscription Free of Cost

to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to March 1, 1906, or later.

MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.

Sign and Send This Coupon
TO-DAY

Daily By Mail - $3.00
Weekly By Mail - $1.00

To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited,
Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $............

Name.............................. P. O.............................
Address.............................. ....

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON.

Remember: Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to March 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME or Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.

SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels, free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEAWOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address:

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1

Name ____

Street No. ____

Town ____ State ____

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2

Name ____

Street No. ____

Town ____ State ____

Please also send Book No ____ to

Name ____

Street No. ____

Town ____ State ____

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number

(NOW READY.)

Contains 20 Prominent Features. A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

from the stand point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

A typical Southerner writes this article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands 15 cents per copy.

Resignation Is Announced.

(Concluded from page 8)

other day to be his organ, Le Soleil. The way little Manitoba was treated was then touched upon by the speaker, and he passed on to say that Mr. Sifton, by his resignation, had justified his mission into Ontario some years ago, asking Ontario's sympathy and aid to prevent his own Province of Manitoba from having educational shackles put upon it. He claimed that Sir Wilfrid stands to-day discredited in both House and country.

Separate Church and State.

Mr. Maclean concluded: "What the people of Canada believe in is separation of state and church. With regard to what is embodied in the constitution, so far as Ontario and Quebec are concerned, we say all right, we accept the situation."

A Voice: "Thank you."

"Nay, more, I go further and say I for one would not lift my hand to interfere with the people of these western Provinces to prevent them having Separate Schools if they desire them; but my plea is that the question must be left to them, that we must not impose these schools upon them. I am ready to declare here or anywhere else—shall I say as a Radical or a Democrat?—for the principle of the entire separation of church and state, so far as our constitution will permit."

Leighton McCarthy Opposed.

Leighton G. McCarthy, North Simcoe: "I simply rise to announce to this House, as I have previously announced to individual members of this House, that I am, like the late Minister of the Interior, absolutely opposed to the clauses submitted in this bill, that I will oppose it and oppose it unalterably."

His Position Known.

Dr. Sproule said he thought his position on this bill is pretty well known, but he rose to ask if the Prime Minister could not supplement the information given of Mr. Sifton's resignation by saying who the new incumbent of the Cabinet office made vacant would be. Also, if he did not think it would be well to tell the House that he was prepared to drop that clause of the bill? He congratulated the member for Brandon, and would like to know if it would not be possible to have more copies of the bill printed. He had been asked for a hundred, he could supply only five.

After speeches from Col. Hughes, George Taylor, Hugh Guthrie (who declared himself in favor of the bills), and Hon. John Haggart

Sir Wilfrid Hedges

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was received with loud cheers, then made the following reply:

"I have no observation of any kind to offer to the House on this occasion, because the occasion does not call for any observations beyond the statement that has been made by myself and by my late colleague, the present member for Brandon. The Hon. member for South York knows better than anybody that on such an occasion Ministerial explanations are to be given when a gentleman withdraws from the administration, and it is left for the Prime Minister and for the Minister withdrawing to make such explanations as they deem fit. I rise simply to answer one question, though it is not at all pertinent to the issue, because everything that has been said here on this occasion beyond that which refers to the withdrawal from the Cabinet, is aside altogether from the issue. But the Hon. gentleman has questioned me with regard to a pamphlet which has been issued purporting to be certain collations from the debates of this House on a former occasion on the question of Separate Schools. I was not aware until this moment that this pamphlet had been distributed, and I shall make enquiry and ascertain who is responsible for it. Beyond that I have no information and no answers to make. I do not mean any discourtesy to the House; on the contrary, the House is entitled to the amplest information, and that it shall have at all times, and I hope before this matter is settled. But many of the matters which have been introduced to-day are absolutely foreign to the question which I was forced to bring before the House, that is to say, the resignation of my Hon. friend from Brandon. The other questions will come up at a later date."

Sir Wilfrid, in closing, referred to the insinuation made in the course of the debate, that in bringing forward this measure, there was an intention on his part in some way to get rid of the Minister of the Interior. He simply noticed the statement to give it the most emphatic denial he could.

The motion to adjourn was negatived, and the matter then dropped.

Opinions of the West.

Winnipeg, March 2.—The resignation of Mr. Sifton has created a profound impression in the west, but it is generally regarded as serving to clear the air. All sections and shades of opinion unite in giving credit to the late Minister of the Interior for honesty and courage, but the precise effect of his resignation is difficult to judge at present.

The Anglican Church, usually reluctant to mix in political strife, placed itself definitely on record yesterday afternoon, when the House of Bishops for Rupert's Land passed resolutions protesting against the perpetuation of Separate Schools.

All non-Catholic religious bodies are, therefore, now solid in the west in opposition to the education clauses of the autonomy bills.

Among all forms of mistakes prophecy is the most gratuitous.—Eliot.

TO CURE FEVER CHILLS

And such complaints as "shivers" and ague we recommend Nerviline very highly. Twenty drops of Nerviline taken in hot water with a little sugar three times daily not only stops the chills, but knocks out the disease completely. Nerviline has a direct action on fever chills and removes the conditions causing them. In stomach and bowel troubles Nerviline never fails. It's pleasant to the taste, quick to relieve and always cures permanently. Get a 25c bottle to-day.

SELECTIONS

DEATH MASK STAMPS.

The Servian Issue Which Is In Demand Among Collectors.

According to a Belgrade correspondent, the publication of the story of Queen Natalie's intrigue to revenge herself on Servia, followed by the sudden withdrawal by the postal authorities of all the new coronation stamps, is the sole topic of conversation throughout the Balkan states.

In order to celebrate King Peter's coronation the Servian government decided to issue a series of large postal labels bearing the new monarch's portrait beside that of his ancestor Karageorge.

The engraving was unfortunately intrusted to a Frenchman named Mouchon, a person, it is alleged, very friendly toward Queen Natalie, and he very skillfully introduced into the design for the new postage stamps the ghastly features of the queen's murdered son, King Alexander.

A vast number of the coronation stamps were issued to the public before it became known to the authorities that the new issue was regarded by many of King Peter's superstitious subjects as a "heavenly sign" that the new monarch's reign was to be "brief and bloody."

If one of the new stamps be held upside down the unmistakable death mask of King Alexander may be seen, formed by a portion of King Peter's head with that of his ancestor, Karageorge. The nostrils of the two heads together form the eyes of the murdered monarch, the mustaches make the eyebrows, and the eyebrow and eye of Karageorge form King Alexander's nose and mouth.

The "death mask stamps," as the new issue has become known, have undoubtedly made a great impression in the army and among the uneducated classes.

"I learn on the best authority," concludes the correspondent, "that the government is making desperate efforts to buy up as many of the dangerous labels as possible and is even sending agents abroad to France, Germany and England to secure them at any cost from speculators and foreign stamp dealers."—London News.

The Earth's Internal Heat.

Whether the internal heat of the earth was in the first place due to the presence of radio active matter or to other causes is a very debatable question, for the answer involves considerations of the origin of the earth as a member of the solar system. Whatever view may be taken of this problem, there can be no doubt that the discovery of the distribution of radio active matter in the earth throws grave doubt on the validity of those calculations of the age of the earth which are based on the assumption that it is a simple cooling body and tends to show that the present internal heat will be maintained for a much longer interval than was at first supposed.

On this theory of the maintenance of the internal heat no definite limit can be set for the age of the earth, but some deductions can be made of the probable variation of the internal heat within time.—Professor Ernest Rutherford in Harper's Magazine.

A Story of Tom Watson.

Before Thomas E. Watson attained to his present confidence while addressing audiences he had several misadventures on the platform. On one occasion he was speaking to a mixed crowd not far from his home and was blazing away in good style when a singularly beautiful young woman entered the hall. The orator, impressed with the girl's loveliness, lost the thread of his discourse, hesitated and finally stopped. The audience, not understanding his embarrassment, encouraged him with cries of "Go on," but Watson knew he could not respond with good effect. His quick wit came to his rescue, however. Stepping to the front of the platform, he said in a low voice, "Ladies and gentlemen, I should be glad to continue, but the lady who has just come in fairly took my breath away." Then he sat down amid a hearty round of applause.

Why All the Pearl Streets?

Can you tell me why it is that in nearly every town of any size you are sure to find a Pearl street? There is reason in plenty for Main street, State, Front, River, Water, Church, Chapel, High, etc., but this so often repeated Pearl street is too much for me. If it were only here and there it might pass for a coincidence, but it is so general that I am inclined to think there must be some reason for it, though for the life of me I can't imagine what the reason may be. Though it may seem queer to you, I have special ground for wondering about this thing. I am not jealous of the man or woman or thing that may be the cause of it all, but whoever or whatever he, she or it may be I am anxious to find out. —Margaret Thompson in New York Times.

Collapsible Theater Hat.

A collapsible theater hat which may be folded into a minute space and when necessary will resume its former symmetry has been invented by a London milliner for the benefit of her sex. The hat, which has been patented, is made on an ingenious framework, which can be covered with pliable straw, chiffon, lace or cloth—indeed any material save velvet, which would crush too much to be of service. It can also be modeled in any shape to suit any style of beauty.

A FAMILY CREST.

Procure One at Once if You Want to Be in the Swim.

Any man or woman who pretends to be anything in society now sports a family crest. One may or may not have had forbears, but the crest is no longer an insignia of blue blood. It can be secured for a price, and as the American usually carries any fad to excess he now outcrests the titled families of the old world.

He has it stamped on his cigarette paper as well as his stationery. His wife has it woven into her table linen. The head of his stable orders it in metal on the harness as well as in the lacquer on the carriage door. It stares at the general public from his lap robe. His son has it stamped on his seal ring, and his daughter, if she takes up the craze for tattooing, has it indelibly marked on her anatomy. But the crowning inconsistency of the modern use of a crest is the distribution of dinner favors bearing the crest not of the recipient, but of the hostess.

A man of millions who recently refurnished his library had the crest hammered into the brass frieze of the fireplace, and a wholly improbable pair of animals copied from this same crest furnished the supports for the andirons. Little Master Millions is sent forth for his daily walk with the family crest embroidered on his sleeve, where the child of the common people has some small navy or army design on his $4.98 reefer. Crests on handkerchiefs are by no means uncommon, and here the work is done in the most exquisite of convent embroidery. My lady's writing desk is equipped with brass or copper furnishings hammered in the pattern of her crest.

Entire sets of tableware, including gold and silver plate and the most beautiful of glazed china, are done to order that their owner may exploit the family crest. Just at present there seems absolutely no limit to the methods for flashing one's crests on less fortunate fellow men.

One well known bachelor who is extremely proud of his crest has a novel pipe rack. The background is a whole calfskin, in the center of which is burned his crest, and this is surrounded by pipe racks holding smoking equipment from every corner of the globe.

He who has not a family crest or the price thereof may employ a substitute if he happens to be in college. Here an insignia of his chosen fraternity takes the place of his family crest, adorning the furnishings of his room, his stationery and his cigarette paper, to say nothing of his jewelry.

His Troublesome Tool Chest.

When the journeyman plumber went to a Harlem apartment house to fix a broken steam pipe his tool chest attracted attention. It was an army knapsack that had seen service in the Philippines.

"Yes," said the plumber in response to a question by the woman who lived in the apartment, "that is an army knapsack. My son brought it home with him from the Philippines. When I asked him to give it to me to improvise into a tool chest he did so. I did not want it simply because it was an army knapsack or because it had been with my son in the Philippines. I wanted it because it was light, strong and useful. After I had fixed it up it exactly filled the idea of a tool chest I had carried in my mind for a long, long time. But," with a sigh, "I shall have to give it up."

"Why?" inquired the woman of the house.

"Because," replied the plumber, "it takes half my time answering questions about the blamed thing."

A New Roosevelt Anecdote.

A personal sketch of Governor La Follette contributed to Harper's Weekly by Earle Hooker Eaton contains a new and entertaining anecdote of President Roosevelt which Mr. Eaton quotes in the president's own words. Mr. Roosevelt, it seems, was present at a reception attended by Governor and Mrs. La Follette. The president and Mrs. La Follette were standing in one corner engaged in conversation and eating ice cream. He was doing the bulk of the talking, and she was an attentive and unwavering listener.

"Suddenly I discovered," says the president, "that for at least five minutes I had been pouring ice cream down the front of her handsome evening gown. She had known it all the time, but had not indicated it by even the quiver of an eyelash or by the slightest change in the smiling, interested expression upon her face. She had simply been too polite to interrupt me by word or look or move, no matter what happened to the gown."

A Record Saw.

What is declared by the Philadelphia Record to be the largest and heaviest cold rolled steel band saw ever made has just been turned out at the Disston works, Tacony. It is 20 feet long, 15 inches wide, .134 of an inch thick and weighs 1,474 pounds. By repeated rolling the thickness of the band was reduced from .270 to .134 of an inch. The saw is perfectly straight and is a marvel for uniformity of thickness. Bands up to 50 feet long and 14 inches wide are regularly made at the Tacony plant, but it is said that never before has a band of such length and weight been cold rolled at any shop in the world.

Paper From Peat.

The latest novelty in stationery is postal cards made from peat. They are made in the mills of Celbridge, County Kildare, Ireland, where an American has established paper making from the peat of the famous bog of Allen.

THE NEW STORE.

Special Bargains!

—25 pieces Wraperette, regular price 12½c, on sale at .... 9c a yd.

—Ladies' Top Skirts, nicely tailored, at $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and up to .... $10.00 ea.

—5 doz. Corsets well worth 75c, on sale at .... 50c pr.

—5 doz. Tape Girdle Corsets, regular price 40c, on sale at .. 35c pr.

Table Linens

—50 ends Table Linen, direct from Belfast and the best value that ever left Ireland, lengths 2½ and 3 yds., regular price $1.00, go on sale at .... 69c yd.

—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen 60 inches wide, regular price 45c, on sale at .... 35c yd.

—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen, 72 inches wide, regular price 65c, on sale at .... 45c yd

NEW GOODS ARRIVING DAILY.

Wims & Co

PAY $1.00

a pound for tea—and we doubt if you will be any better satisfied than with the tea we can sell you for

40c Per Pound

because it's the best all round value—quality, strength and flavor, all you could ask for—and the price is reasonable. Try it—for your next tea.

STROUD'S Tea and China Stores Opp. Anglo-American Front Street, Bellevil

| STROUD'S 'PHONE 301. |

Archbishop Matheson.

Winnipeg, March 2.—At a meeting of the House of Bishops of Rupert's Land, held here yesterday afternoon, Bishop Matheson was unanimously elected to the position of Bishop of the Dioceses of Rupert's Land and Metropolitan of the Province, with the title of Archbishop.

The breath of suspicion is often flavored with cloves.

A Woman's Headache

generally comes because of troubles peculiar to women; these troubles come from a cause simple in itself, but which Beecham's Pills will quickly remove. There are many ways in which women suffer and is another most serious and painful experience of many women. Thousands of women are taking Beecham's Pills periodically and find them wonderful in relieving the suffering. Every woman should acquaint herself with the good these Pills can do, as

A Woman's Backache

A Woman's Suffering

can be avoided by using

BEECHAM'S PILLS

See special instructions to women with each box.

Prepared only by Thomas Beecham, St. Helens, England.
Sold everywhere in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes, 25 cents.

Seven Sutherland Sisters'

Hair Grower

GREW THIS HAIR

Toronto, Sept. 16, 1904.
Seven Sutherland Sisters:
Dear Ladies,—

I take pleasure to acknowledge the great benefits which I have derived from the use of your Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner. Ten years ago my hair, which was of an ordinary length, started to fall out so badly that I was in despair. A friend advised the use of your preparations, and after a couple of weeks, my hair stopped falling out and started to grow so beautifully that I have kept on using your preparation with the result that to-day my hair as my photograph will show, is six and one-half feet long, thick and glossy, in a word beautiful. I gladly say your preparations are wonderful.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. L. HUTCHENS,
342 Victoria St.,
Toronto, Ont.

Home Address: 59 Rue de Paris,
Bagnelet (Seine),
France.

For sale at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS
SOLE PROPRIETORS
CANADIAN OFFICE, 256 YONGE ST., TORONTO
J. H. BAILEY, Foreign Manager.

Recommended and sold by 14
D. M. Waters, Belleville.

Application to Parliament.

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made on behalf of the Corporation of the City of Belleville at the next session of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario for an Act to validate and confirm the tax sales held in and for the City of Belleville in the years 1898 and 1902, and all proceedings incident thereto and all certificates or conveyances given pursuant thereto and to validly vest all property bought in at such sales by the Municipality of the City of Belleville in the said Municipality and validly vest in purchasers other than the Municipality any lands purchased by them at or pursuant to such sales, notwithstanding the omission or neglect of any duty by any Official of the Corporation of the City of Belleville directory or imperative or otherwise, and to authorize the Municipality to sell any of such lands so bought in at any time, whether within, or after Seven years from the date of said tax sales, and to validate and confirm all Assessments, Assessment Rolls and Collector's Rolls for the City of Belleville for the years 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904, and to declare that all sums or amounts appearing upon any of said Collector's Rolls as unpaid upon or as returned against any lands described therein are validly charged thereon as Taxes, under the Assessment Act, and the said lands are or will be liable to be sold for arrears of Taxes in respect thereof under the provisions of said Act, whenever and so soon as any part of such sum or amount is, or will be unpaid according to said Collector's Rolls for three years from the First of January of the year in which said Collector's Rolls or any of them were given to the Tax Collector for collection, notwithstanding any non-compliance of any Official of any duty, directly or imperative, and may be sold upon the issue of a warrant by the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, as provided by said Assessment Act, as validly and effectively as if all provisions of the Assessment Act, directory or imperative prior to the issuing of the Mayor's Warrant had been complied with.

Dated at Belleville, January 26th, 1905.

W. C. MIKEL,
Solicitor for the Applicant.
f16-23m2

Tucker Balm

Just received a big shipment of this old and tried household remedy.

DON. G. BLEECKER.

Phone 11.

Local Reading Advertisements.

Twenty-five words or less 50 cts., over twenty-five words 2 cents per word first insertion, 1 cent per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words.

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

Preliminary Showing of NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to-date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.
All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.
Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson
BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

SPRING SHIRTS

A GOOD JUDGE will appreciate the many points that can be seen in our shirts.

COLORED OR WHITE.
PLAITED OR HARD BOSOM.
FANCY NEGLIGEE.

They are perfect fitting and styles are absolutely correct.

Chas. J. Symons,
successor to W. B. Deacon.
Shirts Made to Order. 298 Front St.

$1 Bottles for 50 cts

Orange Quinine Wine

Each wine glass contains ORANGE WINE and 2 gr. of the purest QUININE.
A splendid appetizer and tonic.

WATERS

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anlgo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.
For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.
As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.
Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER. Belleville.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
J. E. Carman, Manager.
MONDAY, MARCH 6th
MR. WM. H. O'NEILL PRESENTS:
MR JAMES HORNE
—IN—
Hearts of Oak
By James A. Herene, Author of "Shore Acres," "Sag Harbor" and other Plays, Management of N. J. Lawler. Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c. Plan open Saturday morning.

Christ Church Concert.

The concert given in the Oddfellows' Hall, Front St., last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Christ Church, was well attended, and the programme was much enjoyed. It consisted of songs by Mrs. Parker, Miss Vandewater, Mr. E. Henthorn and Master Horace Carroll, a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Parker, a quartette by Mrs. Parker, Miss Ockerman, Messrs. Parker and Henthorn, a chorus by the boys of Miss Donnelly's Sunday school class, a reading by Rev. Mr. Heeney, a piano duet by Misses Donnelly and Henthorn, and two numbers by Mrs. MacColl's orchestra. At the close of the programme refreshments were served.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by all druggists.

Mr. Dingle Goes to Toronto.

St. Thomas, Ont., March 1.—W. H. Dingle, organist and choirmaster of the First Methodist Church of this city, resigned to-day to accept a position as organist in Parkdale Presbyterian Church, Toronto. Mr. Dingle leaves for Toronto about the 20th of March.

THINK OF US.

We want you to think of us whenever you think of clothes. Our whole energy is concentrated on securing good things for you to wear. This is true of Clothing, Headwear and Furnishings. Our spring styles are now making a strong appeal to your eye, while our reasonable prices make an equally strong appeal to your purse. —QUICK & ROBERTSON.

Japs Will Squeeze Gen. Pat in a Vise

RUSSIAN LINE OF COMMUNICATION THREATENED BY GEN. OKU — OYAMA SCORES FAST.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Tokio, March 2. — A despatch from Gen. Oku states that the Japanese, by recent successes, are now in a position which bids fair to threaten Gen. Kuropatkin's line of communication.

The Japanese left is now in a position to swing northwestward while the right swings northeastward, thus squeezing Gen. Kuropatkin at Mukden in a vise.

THE HOTEL QUINTE MAY SOON BE SOLD.

MR. HENRY HOPP, OF THE RUSSELL HOUSE, OTTAWA, IN NEGOTIATION FOR ITS PURCHASE.

Montreal Gazette: Mr. H. Hopp, who was manager of the Russell House, Ottawa, for 20 years, is now in negotiation for the purchase of the Hotel Quinte at Belleville.

This is one of the finest hotels between Toronto and Montreal, and Mr. Hopp, being well acquainted with the travelling public, the reputation of this hotel will be maintained and enhanced should the deal go through.

Mr. Hopp contemplates enlarging the hotel, as the present capacity is not sufficient to meet the demands.

The Intelligencer this morning saw Mr. H. Corby, ex-M. P., and asked him if he had seen the above item.

Mr. Corby said he had not, but said that it was true, and Mr. Hopp would be here to-day to look over the property and confer with the stockholders of the Hotel Quinte Company. Further than that he did not care to talk on the subject.

Mr. H. Hopp, the prospective purchaser of the Quinte, is known to several in this city, who speak of him in the highest terms.

THE MILDEST AND SUREST RELIEF.

For constipated bowels and piles is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, which cause no griping pain and act promptly. Well known to all doctors. Use only Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Price 25c.

The juice of a lemon is excellent as a gargle for sore throat, but should not be swallowed.

OLD BOYS AND GIRLS ARE COMING HOME.

Good Meeting Last Night to Discuss Question of Reunion This Summer—The Idea Enthusiastically Endorsed—Representative Special Committee Appointed—Fund Started to Further the Scheme—Council is Expected to Find Much of the Money Needed—Seems No Doubt Now That Old Boys' Reunion Will be Held and Will be a Great Success.

The Belleville Old Boys' Reunion is off at last to a good start, and there is every prospect that it will not only be held but that it will be in every particular a grand success.

In response to the call of the Mayor, a large number of citizens assembled in the Council Chamber last evening to discuss the matter, and all present unanimously voted to hold the reunion and the various speakers were enthusiastic in their remarks concerning the project. Amongst those in attendance were the following: Mayor Sulman, Messrs. C. Bogart, W. B. Walker, J. B. Eagle, W. Fanning, J. Templeton, T. J. Blackburn, F. Deacon, F. Slater, H. Anderson, J. A. Tousaw, A. Pierson, W. N. Ponton, S. G. Retallack, F. Osborne, W. B. Deacon, C. C. Leavens, W. R. Adams, H. McGinnis, H. Allen, G. Frost, J. Weir, A. Cartwright, Dr. Yeomans, Wm. Johnson, T. Stewart, Ald. Panter, D. J. Fairfield, C. Clapp, P. C. Jones, F. C. Clarke, J. D. Clarke, R. H. Ketcheson, Ald. Paterson, A. McGinnis, T. P. Brown, Ald. Knox, J. F. Wills, and ex-Mayor Graham.

THE MAYOR WILL DO ALL IN HIS POWER.

Mayor Sulman was voted to the chair, and stated the object of the meeting, namely, that of discussing arrangements in reference to an Old Boys' Reunion, if it was decided to have one. He said that the feeling throughout the city was in favor of the movement, and as far as he was concerned he would do all in his power to further the project.

COL. PONTON IS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Col. Ponton said he was enthusiastic in this matter, and all parents should be who had children away from the city. The welcome should be spontaneous; all should participate in the reunion, and the City Council should do its part, especially in the matter of finances. We require printers' ink and entertainment in this matter. We want not only to get the boys and girls home from the centres of Canada but from the neighboring country to the south of us. He had no doubt that the ladies would assist, and they should be invited to participate in the arrangements.

The Mayor said he had no doubt that the Council would help financially when the time came.

MR. JOHNSON WANTS THE LADIES.

Mr. Wm. Johnson wanted the reunion to be a success. In his travels about he met many Belleville boys and girls and they were anxious to come back to the city for a visit. They were all waiting for this opportunity. There was material in the present meeting to make a good start, and it would grow in numbers and interest. All should unite in this movement, and the ladies should be asked to co-operate and invited to the next meeting when it is held.

PEOPLE WANT IT, SAYS DR. YEOMANS.

Dr. Yeomans concurred in the remarks of the previous speakers. The feeling throughout the city was in favor of having a reunion. If we have this reunion it should be such as would not only be successful, but would prove a pleasure to all who came here.

MR. BOGART THINKS COUNCIL SHOULD PAY.

Mr. Bogart spoke strongly in favor of having a reunion. The City Council should bear the financial burden of such a movement. The Council should join hands with the citizens, for it will take money to further the matter. He would do all he could to make the reunion a success, if it was decided to have one.

Mr. C. C. Leavens said the City Council should be approached and ascertained what grant they would be willing to give.

OLD BOYS WILL COME, SAYS MR. F. DEACON.

Mr. F. Deacon said that in New York, whilst he was there, some of the Belleville boys would get together and they often spoke of their home, and the pleasure it gave them to return even for a short visit. He was in favor of having a reunion, and he had no doubt that the old boys would come home from all parts of Canada and the United States. He would do all he could to assist in making the reunion one to be remembered.

ALD. PANTER IS PRACTICAL.

Ald. Panter stated that two years ago ex-Ald. McFee, when in the Council, brought this matter up. He (the speaker) was in favor of establishing an Old Boys' Reunion fund and limiting the contribution to $1. This would demonstrate to the Council that the citizens were in earnest.

DISCUSSING THE MATTER.

Mr. W. N. Ponton—"What would the City Council do if this fund was established?"

Ald. Panter — "I think the Council would supplement the fund."

Mr. Wm. Johnson moved that an organization be formed for the purpose of having an Old Boys' and Girls' Reunion this summer.

Mr. Bogart seconded the resolution, which was unanimously carried.

On motion Mr. F. Deacon was selected as secretary pro tem.

On motion Mr. R. W. Adams was appointed treasurer.

Mr. Johnson moved, seconded by Mr. R. W. Adams, that Mayor Sulman be the general chairman of the Reunion.

Mr. A. McGinnis suggested that a standing committee be appointed and that this committee draft sub-committees and report at a subsequent meeting to be held at an early day. The Mayor should not be placed in the position of chairman, as he would have to receive the visitors and would have all he could possibly do.

Ald. Panter thought that a small committee could be appointed with power to add to their number. This General Committee could strike other committees. He moved that a committee be appointed composed of Messrs. A. McGinnis, W. N. Ponton, Wm. Johnson, C. C. Leavens, J. F. Wills, C. Bogart, R. J. Graham, H. Corby, Col. Lazier, Dr. Yeomans, C. M. Stork, T. Ritchie, A. McFee, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, E. G. Porter, M.P., W. B. Northrup, M.P., and T. S. Carman, with power to add to their numbers.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

Ald. Panter moved that an Old Boys' Reunion fund be established, fixing the amount of subscription at $1 or more.

Mr. J. A. Tousaw seconded the motion.

Mr. W. N. Ponton thought that the City Council should first start in this matter and give a grant, then all citizens would be participating in it.

The Mayor said that a committee might wait upon the Executive Committee of the Council on Friday evening and the matter be discussed.

COMING IN HUNDREDS FROM TORONTO.

Mr. W. B. Deacon spoke in support of a fund being started. He was in favor of the Reunion. Whilst in Toronto last week he saw a number of the Belleville boys who are in that city, amongst them Mr. C. Resevear, who is Secretary of the Belleville Old Boys' organization, the membership of which at present was 468, and all were enthusiastic over the matter of a reunion. They propose to come home in a body and with friends would probably make up 1,000 or more. They also propose to have the Forty-eighth Highlanders' band accompany them.

The motion of Ald. Panter was voted upon and adopted.

At this stage of the proceedings the fund was started and nearly all present subscribed to it.

Mr. R. J. Graham, who came late, was called upon and stated that he was in accord with the idea of having a reunion, and would do all he could to make it a success.

Ald. Panter suggested that the city papers be requested to acknowledge the subscriptions to the fund. A motion to this effect was adopted.

This was all the business transacted at the general meeting, and an adjournment took place.

Those present who were named on the special committee met for a few minutes to discuss matters and decide when and where they would meet to draft the various special committees.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HEARTS OF OAK."

The record of long runs in the theatrical history of New York city was first held by James A. Herne's "Hearts of Oak" and "Shore Acres," which have been revived this season with considerable success. Some years ago a play that could run for twenty-five nights in New York city was considered to be a banner attraction. "Hearts of Oak" and "Shore Acres," however, astonished everyone by attracting the public for as many weeks in the great City of Manhattan. Although these Herne plays have been presented for many seasons they are as attractive as ever. The gentle realism displayed in the characters of the dramas and the truthful manner in which they are portrayed on the stage appeal irresistibly to old and young alike. One must be the most hardened cynic to witness either "Hearts of Oak" or "Shore Acres" and not feel that the human emotions are stirred. With a splendidly selected company, including a splendid male quartette, and equipped with magnificent scenery and effects, "Hearts of Oak" will be seen at the Carman next Monday night.

Sports and Pastimes

HOCKEY.

Lock Factory Team Dined.

A very pleasant gathering last evening was that which met under the roof of Mr. James Wallace, the occasion being a banquet tendered to the hockey team of the Belleville Hardware Company by a large number of the employees of that firm. The team had been very successful during the season and this tribute to their energy, skill and zeal was fully appreciated by them.

Mr. Weeks was elected chairman, and did full honors to the occasion. Impromptu speeches were indulged in and a classical song by Mr. Jack Murphy added to the enjoyment of all.

At a seasonable hour the gathering broke up after singing the National Anthem, and Mr. Harry Clarke, the indefatigable secretary, felt, with all interested, that a successful and enjoyable evening, which would not soon be forgotten, had been spent.

Fast Game Last Night.

A hockey match was played last evening last evening between the Greys and the Lock Factory team, which resulted in a victory for the former aggregation. The score was 6 to 4. It was a hard fought match, one of the best of the season, and during its progress two of the Lock Factory boys, namely, Bone and Robinson, were temporarily laid off, the former receiving a cut on the cheek and the latter had his ear cut. Mr. S. Burrows was referee and he penalized a number of the players. A goodly number of spectators were present during the match. The line-up was as follows.

Greys		Lock Factory.
	Goal
E. O'Flynn		Phillips
	Point
Donald		Lee
	Cover
Robb		Saunders
	Rover
Burke		Rowe
	Centre
Allen		Bone
	Right Wing
Spangenberg		McGuire
	Left Wing
Moore		Robinson

SPORTING NOTES.

Will another Angus Pointer be found among the three or four sensational green pacers that were blown up during the Canadian ice meeting? asks the Buffalo Horse World. According to those who saw the best of the ice races, some of the green ones look like pretty fair grand circuit prospects.

The employees of Quick & Robertson challenge the Printers to play hockey. They will be accommodated.

The Boer taught the Englishman various things about the art of war a few years ago, and now a South African Dutchman is going to the headquarters of England's chief excellence in time of peace, Lord's cricket ground, to give instruction in what the Englishman is supposed to be able to teach the world. Ernst Vogeler, of Pretoria, has been engaged on Lord's ground staff for the coming season.

The Marlboro team for next Tuesday night will be the same as met Smith's Falls in the other games.

Ottawa may be without Billy Gilmour and Frank McGee in their games against Rat Portage for the Stanley Cup next week.

Frank J. Marshall, of Brooklyn, and D. Janowski of Paris, played a draw in the fifteenth game of their chess match leaving the score, Marshall, 7; Janowski, 4; drawn, 4.

Montreal, March 1 — Keraronarie, the famous Indian long distance runner, who outstripped Deerfoot in a memorable race in 1868, died yesterday at the Caughnawaga reserve, aged 62 years. He was also a noted lacrosse player and snowshoer. He played with the great Indian team from Caughnawaga that defeated Toronto in the days of Toby Butler, and twice toured Europe with the ones who went there to illustrate the national game of Canada.

Tonkaway, a famous steeplechaser of two decades ago, is dead at Baltimore. On May 10, 1884, Tonkaway, 140 pounds, won the great Long Island Stake, a steeplechase, at the May meeting of the Rockaway Hunt, held at Cedarhurst. There were 18 starters. Tonkaway, owned by the late T. Swann Latrobe, was ridden by Harry Harwood, the most accomplished gentleman rider of that period. Mr. Harwood died not long afterward as the result of a fall.

Peterboro Easy for the Dutchmen.

Berlin, March 1.— Berlin Hockey Club had it all its own way this evening with the Peterboro Club in the first game of the semi-finals. The slowest game of the season was much too fast for the boys from Strattonville, whose only goal was a palpable off-side. Berlin gathered in nine counters, and had they not been a little raw in their shooting they might have easily had 12 or 15. They had over 40 shots, and Wasson, between the nets, handled many dangerous drives. He was easily the best man, and played the most consistent game on the visitors' line-up. The ice was hard and keen and suited the homesters, whose combination when they played it was very pretty and effective. When they had gauged their opponents' strength they let up in the second half, which was the slowest seen here this year. The visitors hadn't the staying powers, and were all in at the call of time. Berlin's close checking and fast back-checking had the visitors beat a block, and when they did get away Gross and Forest made them look like selling platers. Mighty few rushes passed them. Bricker stopped every fair shot he had to go up against. Some 3,000 spectators saw the game, which was refereed by Edmund B. (Chaucer) Elliott. He is a great favorite with Berlin spectators, but this evening let more offsides than usual go. The game was quite a gentlemanly exhibition, only Gross being off for Berlin and Crowley and Graham for Peterboro. They were all for minor offences, and only one-minute penalties were imposed. With a clear lead of eight goals, Berlin is pretty certain to land the round.

Mr. N. B. Falkiner Died This Morning.

ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA CARRIED OFF A WARM-HEARTED AND WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN.

When, a week ago to-day, Mr. Nathanael B. Falkiner was taken ill, little did the family and friends think that it would end fatally, but such proved to be the case. At 9 o'clock this morning Mr. Falkiner's spirit took its flight. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. No person was much better known in this city than the deceased. He was a whole-souled Irishman, friendly to all. Mr. Falkiner, who was in his 67th year, was born in Ballyrickard, Borriskane, North Tipperary, Ireland, being a son of Mr. Nathanael Falkiner, of Mount Falcon. When a young man he came to this country, and selected Belleville as his home. For nearly half a century he had resided here, having first come to Belleville in December, 1855. He selected law as his profession, and when he had passed his examination entered into partnership with the late Mr. W. H. Ponton. He was also, during the practice of his profession, in partnership with the late Mr. S. B. Burdett, M. P., Messrs. J. P. Thomas and S. Denmark. Of late years he had not been in partnership with any person. The deceased took considerable interest in municipal matters, and in the year 1886 was elected as a representative of Murney Ward in the Council. He continued to be an alderman for some years. In secret societies he was a Mason and a Knight Templar, although he took no active part in lodge work for some years of late.

Mr. Falkiner was married in 1863 to Miss A. E. M. Murney, a daughter of the late Hon. Edmund Murney. The widow and one daughter, Miss Mary, survive.

In politics the deceased was a staunch supporter of the Conservative party and for years held office in the West Riding of Hastings Association. He was in religion an adherent of St. John's Anglican church. In many quarters Mr. Falkiner will be missed. He was generous and kind-hearted, speaking kindly of all. To the bereaved family will be extended the sincere sympathy of all classes of citizens in their hour of trial.

Mr. Falkiner was a member of the Veterans' Association, having seen service at the front during the troublous times of 1866.

The Queensboro Poisoning Case.

INQUEST POSTPONED, AS ENOUGH EVIDENCE HAD NOT BEEN GATHERED — VILLAGERS INTENSELY EXCITED.

The inquest which was to have been held yesterday to enquire into the Diamond poisoning case in Queensboro, was postponed, as enough evidence had not been gathered. The people of the village are intensely excited about the case, and many sensational rumors are afloat. The date for the inquest has not been fixed.

CAMERON AND CURRIE HOLD THEIR SEATS.

JUSTICE McLENNAN GIVES JUDGMENT IN APPEALS FOR WEST HURON AND PRINCE EDWARD.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Toronto, March 2. — Justice McLennan to-day gave judgment sustaining Mr. M. G. Cameron and Mr. Currie, both Liberals, in their seats in the Legislature for West Huron and Prince Edward respectively.

In the case of the former the Judge disallowed an initialled Holmes ballot and allowed a Cameron ballot which was torn in two and pinned together, and also one on which the returning officer had written his initials wrongly.

In the Prince Edward case the Judge decided against the contention of the appellant that a poll in Hallowell which gave Currie 69 and Norman, Con., 48 votes should be thrown out because the deputy returning officer had not filled in his statement of the poll.

"SWISS FOOD" HEALTH.

You will be strong, healthy and generally fit for your day's work after a "SWISS FOOD" breakfast. 15c packages.

Daily Intelligencer.

Something really new and delightful in Chocolate Confectionery.

Milk Chocolate Peanut Nougat

Our own make. 60c a lb. Try some.

Chas. S. Clapp

WESTERN BEEF.

Try Green's All-pork Sausages. 10c pound. Mixed Sausages at 3 pounds 25 cents.

CHAS. GREEN.

67 Front St. 'Phone 109.

Chaps Vanish

If you have not tried our Winter Cream now is the time to begin. It is a dainty, healing preparation, that cures chapped and roughened skin as few things can. Starts healing at once, because it is all absorbed. Nicely perfumed and not greasy or sticky.

Sold only at—

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,

Sole Agent for Belleville.

Tel. 38. Front St.

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S

Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.

Picture Framing done correctly.

Royal Baking Powder

45 CENTS a pound can AT ALL GROCERS

25 cents a half pound can

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar; is absolutely pure; has received the highest praise from all authorities on food at home and abroad; is used daily in millions of homes throughout the world.

Royal Baking Powder is the most economical thing in the kitchen.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, March 1.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ¼d to ⅛d lower than yesterday, and corn futures unchanged.

At Chicago May wheat closed 1⅛c higher than yesterday; May corn ⅛c higher and May oats ⅛c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, March 1.—Wheat, on passage, quiet, but steady. Corn, on passage, nothing doing. Flour, spot quotations, Minneapolis patent, 31s.

London—Mark Lane Miller Market—Wheat, foreign quiet, with a small business; English, steady. Corn, American firm, 1s ½d higher; Danubian, nominally unchanged. Flour, American, firm; English, steady.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	$1 14½	$1.03
Detroit	1.20	1.02
St. Louis	1.12½	94½
Toledo	1.14½	93⅝
Duluth	1.11⅝	1.10⅝
Minneapolis	1.12⅜	1.10⅝

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, white, bush	$1 05 to	$1 06
Wheat, red, bush	1 05	1 06
Wheat, spring, bush	1 02	....
Wheat, goose, bush	0 91	0 93
Barley, bush	0 51	0 52
Oats, bush	0 41½	0 45
Beans, bush	1 00	1 10
Rye, bush	0 75	....
Peas, bush	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54	....

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Buffalo Market a Shade Firmer for Hogs.

London, March 1.—Live cattle are quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 7⅜c to 7½c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per pound.

"CURED TO STAY"

Is the universal testimony for South American Nervine, and what it did for Mrs. Armstrong it will do for any woman living.

"For one who has suffered as I have for over six years from nervous prostration, and having spent nearly all I possessed in doctor bills without any permanent relief, you can imagine what a God-sent blessing I feel South American Nervine has been to me. The first few doses gave me great relief. It took six bottles in all to cure me, but I feel I am cured to stay cured."—Mrs. Geo. Armstrong, Orillia, Ont. 58

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

New Fancy Bedroom Clocks.

These clocks are the newest creations in Nickle, Brass and Wood cases, all filled with first-class movements guaranteed to keep good time.

The prices range from the small nickle clock at 85c—to a handsome cherry case with antique copper fittings at $10 00 with and without alarms.

PHONE. 309 T. BLACKBURN. OPTICIAN

Specials For This Week

....AT....

McINTOSH'S

—102 pieces Fast Color Prints, regular price 12½ for 10c

—20 pieces Plain and Twill Flannel, good value at 20c, to clear at 12½c

—Odd sizes in Erect Form Ladies' Corsets, was 75c, to clear at pair .... 3?c

Sizes 18, 19, 26, 27, 29, 30.

Lace Curtain Bargains

We have still left over a few good pairs of Lace Curtains and will offer them at greatly reduced prices. Come and see the goods if you are in need of any of the above lines.

McINTOSH BROS.

RESIGNATION IS ANNOUNCED

Premier Tells of Mr. Sifton's Retirement From Cabinet.

MR. SIFTON GIVES REASONS

The Premier Declares That the Disagreement of the Ex-Minister of the Interior Is Confined Altogether to the Obnoxious Clause, But the Napoleon of the West Hints at Breach of Faith.

Ottawa, March 2.—Just a week after Sir Wilfrid Laurier had made on of the great efforts of his life in introducing his autonomy bills, creating two new Provinces, and imposing Separate Schools upon them, the Premier was forced to announce the resignation of one of his Ministers, Hon. Clifford Sifton, who could not follow him in the principle embodying Separate Schools. Both he and Mr. Sifton stuck to typewritten statements, but everyone in the House hung upon their words as they read them. The debate follows:

The Premier Explains.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: "I have to inform the House that my colleague, Hon Mr. Sifton, has resigned his position in the Government as Minister of the Interior. Mr. Sifton finds himself unable to agree with the terms of the bill which has lately been introduced for the admission into the Dominion of the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, his disagreement being confined altogether to the education clause. After a conference with him, the following correspondence has been exchanged between him and myself:

Ottawa, Feb. 27, 1905.

Dear Sir Wilfrid,—After giving my best consideration to the matters which we discussed last evening, I have arrived at the conclusion that it is impossible for me to continue in office under present circumstances, and that it is better for all concerned that I should act at once. I therefore tender my resignation as a member of the Government. I trust that the unhappy necessity which has arisen will not in the least impair the friendship with which you have been kind enough to honor me.

(Signed) Clifford Sifton.

Sir Wilfrid's Reply.

To this I answered in the following terms:

Ottawa, Feb. 28, 1905

My Dear Sifton,—I received yesterday your letter of same date, whereby you tender me your resignation as a member of the Government. There is no alternative to me but to accept it, and with much regret it will be my duty to place it in the hands of His Excellency. After our conversation of the other day, I had left you with the impression that the differences between us were more of words than of substance, and until I received your letter I had cherished the hope that it would have been possible ere this to find a comparatively easy solution. Whilst I feel more regret than I can express at this termination of our official relations, let me assure you that should our old friendship be ever impaired the fault will not be mine.

(Signed) Wilfrid Laurier.

The resignation has been placed in the hands of His Excellency, who has been pleased to accept it.

Mr. Sifton Explains.

Hon. Clifford Sifton then rose and was heard in silence. He said:

"The statement made by the Right Hon. the Prime Minister (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) necessitates a very short explanation to the House on my part. When it was determined that after the last session of Parliament, legislation should be introduced creating new Provinces out of a portion of the Northwest Territories, I felt called upon in view of the history of the education question in Canada, to give very serious consideration to the position which I should take with regard to the legislative power to be conferred upon the Provinces in regard to the subject of education. It was necessary that conferences should take place with members of Parliament representing the Northwest Territories, and with the representatives of the Territorial Government, upon the subject of education and other subjects involved in the bill. These conferences were unavoidably postponed until after the beginning of the new year by reason of the absense of the Prime Minister, who, after the general election, was compelled to take a short rest, and was therefore absent from the country.

Forced to Go Away.

"Shortly before the time fixed for holding these conferences, I was compelled by my own state of health to leave Ottawa, and was therefore unable to be present at the discussions which took place. Before leaving I discussed with the Prime Minister most of the subjects that necessarily required to be dealt with in the bill which was to be introduced, and so far as I was able to do so at that time I communicated my views to him upon the various subjects. I may say that when I went away I did not anticipate that it would be considered necessary to introduce the bill for creating the new Provinces before I returned. As members of the House are aware, I returned to the capital on Thursday afternoon. I immediately took occasion to read carefully the speech which the Right Hon. the Prime Minister had delivered in introducing the bill. I regretted that in the Right Hon. gentleman's address I found some principles enunciated with which I am unable to agree. On Friday, the next day after I returned, at the earliest possible moment, I procured a copy of the educational clause of the bill my leader had introduced."

Mr. Sifton then read the education clause contained in the autonomy bills, and continued as follows:

Kicks on Educational Clauses.

"That is the clause which is contained in the bill which was introduced by the Government. Between Friday, when I procured a copy of the clause, and Monday morning, I gave the subject my best consideration, and I had the privilege in the meantime of having an interview with the Prime Minister on the subject. As the result of such consideration I determined that I could not endorse or support the principles of the educational clauses. Under these circumstances, Mr. Speaker, my duty became perfectly clear, and on Monday morning I wrote to the Prime Minister, tendering my resignation as a member of the Cabinet. Subsequently, I expressed the desire that my resignation should be acted upon at once, and to that wish the Prime Minister has now assented. In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, not intending and not considering it proper at this time to enter into a discussion of the merits of the matter which has caused the difference between myself and my leader, I have only to add my regret that circumstances have compelled the severance of my official relations with the leader and with my colleagues with whom my relations have always been of the most harmonious and pleasant character, and with whom upon other questions I am in entire accord. The circumstances, however, in my judgment, make my duty perfectly clear, and it does not seem possible for me properly to consider anything except the principles which are involved."

Mr. Foster Speaks.

Hon. George Foster then rose to continue the discussion. He said:

"Mr. Speaker, I quite agree with the Hon. gentleman, the Hon. Minister (Mr. Sifton) that it is not the time to enter upon the discussion of the principles involved in the bill. But, with the two statements which have been read, and with the reading of the statements and the causes which make the reading of the statements necessary this afternoon, we alone have to deal, and with that I shall deal for a moment, with your kindly permission. It did not come as a matter of surprise to this side of the House that the Minister of the Interior should at an early period read his letter of resignation, or give his reasons for resigning to this House, nor do I think it came as a matter of surprise to the Hon. gentlemen who are within the secrets of the party on the other side of the House. We all remember the popular circumstances under which this bill appears to have been framed, and to have been rushed before the House. It did seem an unheard-of thing and an almost unexplainable thing that the bill of such importance should be framed in the absence of two of the most responsible Ministers in the House, regarding the country and the scope of the territory in which that bill was to be operative, and having respect to the declaration of policy which I think a year or two ago was made in this House, when, with some new idea of the division of this Ministerial responsibility, certain Ministers were to be held more or less accountable for the particular Provinces or sections from which they came, as instanced in the case of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture, in his intermeddling with the militia matters of this country. (Laughter.)

During Mr. Sifton's Absence.

During the last few weeks this important bill has been framed and has been laid before the House in the absence of the Hon. Minister of the Interior, who was especially charged with the supervision of and the responsibility for the Northwest Territories, and the west generally. Well, we are told to think that possibly the second chapter of what took place on an almost similar line a year or two ago was being prepared for the House and country, when it is well known that at that time a most important railway bill was conceived or formed and was almost, if not quite, presented to this House behind the back of the responsible Minister of Railways and Canals—(opposition applause)—whose office it should have been to have aided in the consideration and preparation of that bill, and we were of late led still more to suppose that, from a remark which fell casually, but rather acridly, from the lips of the Right Hon. Prime Minister himself, who, not long ago, gave as his answer that it would probably be introduced at a certain time, and when some enquiring mind of the many enquiring minds on this side of the House put the question to the Right Hon. Prime Minister as to whether the Minister of the Interior would be back by that time, the Prime Minister, as I say, rather sharply retorted that he did not know whether he would or not, but that he, the Prime Minister, would be here.

No Surprise Anywhere.

"Taking all this with the history of this bill into consideration, it did not come as a surprise to this part of the House, and I doubt very much if it fell as much of a surprise upon Hon. gentlemen on the other side. But, it is a still stranger thing that the Hon. Minister of the Interior, a most important member of the Cabinet at any time, and especially an important member of the Cabinet as regards the conception and argument of this bill, did not actually know, although it is supposed that telegraph wires stretch from here to almost all parts of the United States of America, in some particular portion of which the Minister of the Interior has been for the past number of weeks, of the educational clauses of this bill until after he had returned to this city and to this House, where he had obtained a copy of the clauses. One would think that on the general theory of responsible government, of a Cabinet acting unitedly, of a Cabinet acting wisely, consulting with every unit of the Cabinet, as I think it is in duty bound to do in order to secure the united wisdom of the whole of the Cabinet, that the Hon. Minister of the Interior would have been considered, but not even by telegraph or letter does it seem that the Hon. Minister of the Interior was apprised of the prominent clause in the bill which was supposed, naturally, that he would be very much interested in. The excuse, the reason is given to-day—and we are bound to take the reason in a Parliamentary sense—that the Hon. gentleman is retiring because he could not find it consistent with his principles to accede to that particular clause in the autonomy bill. But from what I have stated, and from what we have seen, it would be easily inferred, I think, by any member of this House, that there is a resonable doubt as to whether or not that was the cause of the resignation, as to whether the deliberate actions of the Prime Minister and the rest of the Cabinet heretofore have not made it abundantly apparent that it was the intention to get rid of the Hon. gentleman, whether he got out on this particular clause of the bill or some other.

Curiosity Not Satisfied.

"The Prime Minister has not quite satisfied the curiosity of the House. Outside of the information which was conveyed to us by the bulletin boards, there are other rumors which are abroad in the corridors of this House, abroad in the streets of the city, and I dare say, are making tingle the wires which stretch from Ottawa to different parts of this country even now, while we are speaking. And why? It is stated that another important Minister, another important member of the Cabinet, a Right Hon. gentleman, is deliberating as to whether he shall not follow in the tracks—no, I would not put it in that way—but follow at least the example of the Hon. the Minister of the Interior, who has retired, in also expressing his formal and unqualified dissent from this bill. There might be some reasons which would impose on us the idea that there is truth in that. I could hardly reconcile to myself the idea of a Prime Minister and a Cabinet undertaking to frame and put before the country such an important bill as this, involving no trivial and unimportant financial burdens, but involving very onerous and continuous and growing financial burdens upon this country. I cannot, I say, understand how a bill of that kind could be conceived, put into form and be introduced into this House in the absence of the Minister of Finance, who is responsible, if any man in the Cabinet is responsible, for the financial interests of this country.

Was He in the Dark?

"Was he also altogether and entirely in the dark with reference to this bill? Did he know the clauses financial or otherwise before he came back to Ottawa and ascertained what they were by asking for a copy of the bill? At least two or three days could have been given, until both the Minister of the Interior and Minister of Finance should have had an opportunity to meet their colleagues in council, and by word of mouth and interchange of ideas, to see if any amicable and united conclusion could not be had. Now we would be very loth to lose the Minister of Finance. (Hear! Hear!) His pleasant countenance is always an inspiration to us when it is not the opposite—(laughter)—and it is not often that it is the opposite. But we would like to have this set at rest as well if the Prime Minister will do it, as to whether there is any truth in the rumor which is persistent, that the Minister of Finance, not having been consulted, is not altogether at one with the rest of the Cabinet in relation to this bill. We must bid adieu to the Minister of the Interior with varying feelings—(laughter). We do it, some with sympathy; some will say, he fought the fight and finished the course. I am not going to say how good a course it was, and he entered into his reward. Probably he had his reward before; possibly, like the late Minister of Railways and Canals, there is some glorious future awaiting him in some of the large official trusts of the country. Anyway, if he leaves us as Minister of the Interior, he has not stated that he is going to leave us as member, and we will still have him with us to remonstrate with us and to counsel, and as far as we can, to have good will and perfect friendship towards us."

Mr. Maclean Heard.

W. F. Maclean asked the Prime Minister who lives in the ramshackle house now? This autocratic Prime Minister, he said, has been to Three Rivers. He has made the treaty of Three Rivers, and in pursuance of that treaty, he has chosen in his autocratic way to bring down a bill dealing with the great questions that are at issue, without consulting his colleagues. It is said that in the preparation of this bill he consulted only three of his Ministers, of whom two came from his own Province of Quebec

He pointed out that over this bill Sir Wilfrid had lost not only Mr. Sifton, but his panegyrist of The Toronto News, The Toronto Globe, The Montreal Witness, and it looked as if he might repudiate the organ which claimed the

(Continued on page 6.)

Apollinaris

Bottled only at the Spring, Neuenahr, Germany, and only with its own Natural Gas.

The Lancet, Jan. 30, 1904

MAGIC BAKING POWDER
E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
"THE LIGHT OF THE KITCHEN"

THERE ARE MANY BAKING POWDERS

BUT THERE IS ONLY ONE

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

It is Pure, Wholesome and Economical
SOLD IN ALL SIZES.

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Hang It

It's the better for it.

Our shelves are loaded with the finest selection of Wall Papers, domestic and imported, which would look much better on your walls than on our shelves.

No trouble to show them.

Prices right.

We do the hanging.

John Cornelius

Painting, Graining.

ART DECORATING.

397 Front St.

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

Phone. 214. Grocers.

Standard Telephone Sets... For Sale.

$5.00 Per Set

Slightly used, but in good order.

Apply to

SALES DEPARTMENT.
178 Mountain Street,
Montreal, Que.

—OR—

To any local manager of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store

Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

You must understand before you are understood.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

It Will Pay

To look over our stock of furniture and note the values we offer this month.

Some are taking advantage and buying now.

UPHOLSTERING. — Mr. Sills is a practical upholsterer and gives personal attention to all work.

UNDERTAKING. — Mr. Sills having had 15 years experience in this branch of the business is thoroughly qualified to give personal service as undertaker and Funeral Director.

Store 'Phone 40.

Residence, cor. Queen and John Sts.

B. E. SILLS,

Successor to Reed & Sills.

Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

Arthur McGie

MERCHANT TAILOR.

Our stock of Overcoatings, Scotch Tweeds, Worsted Serges and Cheviots is still large and well assorted.

A number of Tweed Suitings and Trousers at greatly reduced prices.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)

$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE—Bridge St., Belleville,
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.

PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand

Market Square.

FLORAL Decorations of all kinds on shortest notice : :

J. D. COLLIP.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

" All Their Own "

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

Genuine Scranton COAL
The Standard Anthracite.
SOLD BY THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office Bridge St. Tel. a93 & b93

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY. MARCH 3, 1905. NO. 258

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD
ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL LEAVENS

SAW MURDER IN DREAM.

Trial of Charles H. King Begins at Edmonton, N. W. T.

Edmonton, N. W. T., March 3.—The trial of Charles H. King, charged with the murder of E. Heyward at Lesser Slave Lake on Sept. 19, began yesterday morning in the Supreme Court here before Judge Harvey. The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The trial is expected to last all week at least. Over 60 witnesses are present from Slave Lake, British Columbia, and from the United States. C. Dew MacDonald is the Crown Prosecutor, and Oliver Mowat Biggar, formerly of Toronto, is acting for the defence. Prof. Dr. Primrose of Toronto is here for expert evidence. It was in connection with this case that a brother of the murdered man came out from England, having seen the crime done in a dream.

TO PREACH ON MOUNT CALVARY.

General Booth Starts on His First Visit to Jerusalem.

London, March 3.—General Booth of the Salvation Army started yesterday on his first visit to Jerusalem, where he will hold an open-air meeting on Mount Calvary. Thence he will go to Australia and New Zealand on a farewell visit. Hundreds of Salvationists gathered at Victoria Railroad Station at the time of the General's departure, and bade him an enthusiastic farewell.

With 30,000 Men in Line.

Washington, D. C., March 3.—The details of the personnel of the great military and civic pageant which is to crown the ceremonies of President Roosevelt's inauguration of March 4, were made public last night by the Inaugural Committee. It gives the order of parade, its organization, movements and dismissal, and shows all of the military and civic bodies which are to participate, as well as the position which they will occupy. It is estimated that approximately 30,000 men will be in line.

DON'T MISS THIS !
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

The Moscow Strike Again.

Anarchy Reigns in Caucasus and St. Petersburg Restless.

Black Clouds Lowering Over Russian Industrial Situation—Government Measures to Quiet Discontent and Restore Good Relations Between Masters and Men Have Failed—Labor Delegates Deliver Ultimatum.

St. Petersburg, March 3.—Black clouds are again lowering over the industrial situation of Russia. The strike at Moscow has resumed on a large scale, anarchy reigns in the Caucasus and at St. Petersburg the measures which the Government advanced to quiet discontent and restore good relations between masters and men appear to have failed, with the probability of causing the storm to break anew.

The labor delegates representing St. Petersburg's industrial population met again yesterday and reaffirmed the resolutions adopted the previous day, which threatened, in case the demands for the release of the imprisoned workmen and freedom from arrest, unhampered speech, full publicity of meetings of commission, the abolition of the censorship, etc., are not granted, not only to refuse to elect labor representatives to the commission, but to resume the general strike. A practical ultimatum was delivered calling for an answer to-day.

According to reports from Moscow, several rioters have been killed in conflicts with workmen of the Orochow Sujewt manufacturing district. It appears that the fighting was between a faction that assaulted the manufacturers and others who intervened for their protection. Troops were despatched to the scene of the disturbance. Ten thousand more men struck to-day in the large factories of the Viborg quarter of St. Petersburg.

Bomb Thrown at Warsaw.

Warsaw, March 3.—A bomb was thrown from a window overlooking the courtyard of the Muranoff District Police Station at 2 p. m. yesterday. It fell among a group of soldiers, but did not explode. Two Jews have been arrested for supposed connection with the affair.

Suspected Assassin Caught.

St. Petersburg, March 3.—The police at Tsarskoe Selo, who, since the assassination of Grand Duke Sergius, have redoubled the ordinary precautions for the protection of the Imperial family, have arrested a suspect, who claimed that he is a nephew of Gen. Fock, but whose papers are irregular and who was found to be armed with a heavy loaded revolver. An investigation is on foot.

SHOT SIXTY FROM ROOF.

Burned to Death With His Family—Teribible Scenes at Baku.

Berlin, March 3.—Vorwaerts has a despatch from Baku stating that the dead in the rioting there now number one thousand. The whole population, says the paper, are in a murderous frenzy.

An Armenian petroleum millionaire named Adamianz, stationed himself on the roof of his house and shot 60 Mohammedans within two hours. The Mohammedans saturated the house with the millionaire's own oil and set fire to it, burning Adamianz, his wife and six children and ten servants to death. Many incidents of similar barbarity are reported.

The unspoken word never does harm.
—Kossuth.

NUMBER OF MEN REDUCED.

But British Fleet Was Never in More Perfect Condition.

London, March 3.—A memorandum of the navy estimates issued last night shows the estimates of 1905-1906 to be $166,945,000, against $184,445,000 for the current year.

The Admiralty proposes to build during the year one battleship, four armored cruisers, five ocean-going torpedo boat destroyers, one ocean-going torpedo boat destroyer of an experimental type, 12 coastal torpedo boat destroyers and 11 submarine boats.

King Edward has approved naming the new battleship Dreadnaught and one of the armored cruisers Invincible.

The number of men asked for is 129,000, a reduction of 2,100.

It has been decided to appoint a Rear-Admiral to take charge of all the torpedo craft in home waters.

The memorandum says that flotillas of submarine boats are in course of organization.

Since the commencement of the year more than 100 vessels have been successfully commissioned in the reserve.

Lord Selborne says the fleet was never in a more perfect state of repair than at present.

Two Classes of Destroyers.

Lord Selborne, in discussing the new construction, says the study of tactical and other questions led the board to conclude that two classes of destroyers are required, one for ocean work and the other for narrow seas.

Between Jan. 1, 1904, and March 31, 1905, the following ships have, or will be, completed: Four battleships, one armored cruiser, four third-class cruisers, twelve submarine boats and a new admiralty yacht. At the present time the following are under construction: Eight battleships, fifteen armored cruisers, one second-class cruiser, one third-class cruiser, eight scouts, eighteen destroyers and eleven submarine boats.

Lord Selborne announces the construction of the Committee on Designs to assist the Admiralty Board, with addition of Sir John A. Fisher as president. He says the work of this committee will enable the board to ensure to the navy the immediate benefit of experiences derived from Russo-Japanese naval warfare. His Lordship asks Parliament for $250,000 for the commencement of a second Royal Yacht. The total amount for the commencement of new ships is a little over $6,250,000.

In conclusion, Lord Selborne says it is now certain that oil has taken a place as a fuel for the navy.

Reduced to Depots.

—London, March 3.—(C. [illegible])—In the course of the naval estimate statement Lord Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, said it has become possible to effect considerable economies in the dockyards outside the United Kingdom. Accordingly, these at Halifax, Esquimalt, Jamaica and Trincemalee will be reduced to depots, on which the expenditure in time of peace will be small, but in time of war will be at once developed according to necessity.

WYNDHAM BITTERLY ATTACKED.

But Irish Members Were Voted Down, and Closure Applied.

London, March 3.—After defeating by a majority of forty-nine an amendment proposed by T. R. Buchanan (Liberal), to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, declaring that the national expenditure is excessive and burdensome, the House of Commons last night debated another Irish amendment proposed by A. J. C. Donelan, regretting that the speech from the throne contained no promise to deal during the present session with the pressing needs for improvement of the condition of laborers in Ireland.

Several speakers bitterly attacked Chief Secretary Wyndham, who was defended by Mr. Atkinson, Attorney-General for Ireland. John Redmond declared that it was a disgrace that the Government could not provide money at a reasonable rate to carry out a much-needed reform.

When the division was called the Ulster Unionists left the House amid Nationalist jeers. Mr. Donelan's amendment was rejected by a vote of 228 to 184.

Premier Balfour then moved the closure, under which the address in reply to the speech from the throne was adopted by 225 to 175.

Balfour's Majority Is 26.

The House of Commons last night in Committee of Supply considered the additional army estimates, and gave the Government a majority of only 26 on a minor amendment.

IN RECOUNT APPEALS.

Justice Maclennan Upholds Decisions of the County Judge.

Toronto, March 3.—M. G. Cameron, Liberal M. P. P., has won, and Dudley Holmes has lost the appeal in the West Huron recount.

Dr. Morley Currie, Liberal M.P.P., has also won, and R. A. Norman has also lost the appeal in the Prince Edward recount.

In brief judgments Justice Maclennan upholds the decisions of the County Judge in each.

But protests are now promised in both.

For Private Legislation.

Toronto, March 3.—The Clerk of the Legislative Assembly has received forty applications for private bills at the coming session, which opens on the 22nd inst. This is an unusual number so far in advance of the opening of the House.

Rider Haggard Arrives.

New York, March 3.—H. Rider Haggard, who comes here as a special commissioner to enquire into the conditions and character of the agricultural and industrial settlements organized in America by the Salvation Army, arrived yesterday.

SPECIAL OFFERINGS
—FOR—
Saturday Night Selling
From 7 Till 9 O'Clock.

SILK COLLARS
10 dz. Ladies' Silk and Fancy Stock Collars this season's styles, all the latest combinations in neat and new designs, regular price 50c. Saturday Night 15c

CEYLON FLANNELS
6 pieces of Ceylon Flannels, regular price 35c. Saturday Night...... 12 1-2c

FLANNELETTE WRAPPERS
15 Ladies' Flannelette Wrappers, assorted patterns and colors, regular price $1.35 to $1.65. Saturday Night at $1.15

FLANNELETTE GOWNS
2 doz. Ladies' Flannelette Gowns in white, pink and blue, good heavy Flannelette, embroidery trimmed, regular price $1.50 and $1.65. Saturday Night at $1.19

WRAPPERETTES
20 pieces of Wrapperette, regular price 12½c. Saturday Night - - 8c

TENNERIFFE DOYLIES
5 doz. Tenneriffe Doylies, pure linen, hand made, 6 Tenneriffe wheels. Saturday Night - - - 7c

Manufacturer's Whitewear Samples.
250 pieces of Sample Whitewear, no two pieces alike, including—Gowns, Skirts, Drawers, Corset Covers and Chemise, these we will place on sale Saturday Night at ⅓ less than regular prices. Don't miss this whitewear opportunity.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

'Our Whitewear Sale
Good weather and values have combined to start our Whitewear selling rapidly.
From opening time till closing time our Mantle Department was filled with Ladies anxious to see and purchase the beautiful garments we have gathered together.
The quantity of Whitewear that has left us in one days selling is of convincing evidence that our values are best obtainable.
Our sale continues for two weeks. Make your visit as early as possible—when the assortment is at its best.

CORSET COVERS
—Lonsdale Corset Cover, neatly made with plain back and full front—buttoned—sizes 32 to 40. Sale price 9c
—Lonsdale Cambric Corset Cover—full front—neck trimmed with val lace. Sale price 14c
—Fine Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and armholes, trimmed with cotton, torchon lace and baby ribbon. Sale price 19c
—Extra quality Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and sleeves trimmed with wide Torchon Lace. Sale price 25c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Cover with skirt—front trimmed with two rows wide Torchon Insertion, neck and sleeves trimmed with wide lace, beading and silk baby ribbon. Sale price 35c
—Fine Lonsdale Cover, full front—shaped skirt—trimmed with three horizontal rows of wide val insertion—neck and sleeves trimmed with wide val lace, beading and silk baby ribbon, pearl buttons. Sale price 58c

Beautiful New Embroideries.
In conjunction with our Whitewear Sale we are making a big display of New Embroideries.
The patterns are the most attractive and the values the best that we have ever offered. Ask to see them—To introduce our Embroideries we offer 225 yds of Embroidery and Insertion in Remnants, 4½ yds in each and in different widths and patterns each 20c

DRAWERS
—Good quality Plain Cotton Drawers with deep hem. Sale price 19c
—Lonsdale Finished Umbrella Drawers with 8 inch Lawn frill, trimmed with hemstitched tucks. Sale price 25c
—Fine White Cotton Umbrella Drawers with 7 inch Lawn Frill, trimmed with wide Torchon Lace and Insertion, very dainty. Sale price 35c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with 7 inch flounce of Lawn, embroidery and rows of fagot stitching. Sale price 48c
—Extra Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with wide flounce of alternate rows of wide Torchon Insertion and Lawn, edged with val lace. Sale price 59c. Others up to $2.00.

SKIRTS
—Good quality Plain Cotton Skirt with 9 inch flounce of Lonsdale Cambric trimmed with narrow tucks. Sale price 45c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with wide tucked Lawn Flounce, edged with 4 inch frill of fine Torchon Lace. Sale price 65c
—Fine Cambric Skirt with 18 inch Lawn, frill trimmed with 3 rows of wide Torchon Insertion, edged with 4 inch Lace Frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with 18 inch flounce of alternate rows of Lawn and Torchon Insertion, 2 inches wide—all edged with wide lace frill—Lawn dust frill. Sale price $1.75

NIGHT GOWNS
—Gown of good quality Cotton, trimmed round sleeves and neck with lawn frills. Sale price 39c
—Fine Lonsdale Gown with yoke of narrow hemstitched tucks, edged with embroidery—neck and sleeves trimmed with embroidery frill. Sale price 68c
—Lonsdale Cambric Gown with deep yoke of narrow tucks and wide embroidery frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Gown with narrow yoke of fagot stitching and lawn—half sleeves trimmed with fagotting, beading and baby ribbon—new and dainty. Sale price $1.25

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

Saturday Night Sale!

AT 7 O'CLOCK SHARP.

WRAPPERETTES

LOT 1.—20 pieces Assorted Light and Dark Patterns, all good colors, all this season's 10 and 12½ cent goods. Your choice Saturday evening while they last

5 Cents Yard.

LOT 2.—27 pieces Fine Cashmere and Ceylon Flannels, in pretty stripes, spots and figures, 32 inches and 1 yard wide, were this season's 12½c and 15c goods. Your choice Saturday Evening

8 Cents Yard.

There are a lot of very choice colorings and designs among both the above lots, many of them being bought for the Christmas trade.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK

SCHOOL SHOES

THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION—Just step in—when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9 50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

A NEW BRUNSWICK VIEW.

The St. John Sin, one of the ablest and best-edited newspapers in the Maritime Provinces, has this to say of the Autonomy Bill introduced in the Commons by Sir Wilfrid Laurier:

"Ten years ago a Conservative Government took measures to give effect to a compact which was intended to guarantee Separate schools to the minority in Quebec. It was the opinion of the Government of that day that the Federal Government and Parliament were required to redress a grievance the existence of which had been affirmed by the Privy Council. But this Federal intervention was condemned by the people of Canada in a general election immediately thereafter when the appeal to the electors was made on the issue. No province was more emphatic in condemning the Tupper Government than Quebec. The same province has subsequently endorsed the course of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in leaving Manitoba free to settle her own educational questions.

"If the case of the new provinces were exactly like that of Manitoba ten years ago no Federal intervention of the kind then proposed would be, or ought to be expected. The policy in such circumstances might be regarded as settled for all time to come. But are the grounds for limiting the powers and privileges of the local Legislatures of Saskatchewan and Alberta in educational policy stronger than the grounds for interference with Manitoba in 1895 and 1896? There is not now a question of making good a compact under which a community entered confederation, but of imposing conditions on which the new communities must enter confederation. There is no appeal from a people who claim to have been deprived of their guaranteed privileges, but there is a proposal to give perpetual provileges. No decision of the Privy Council or any other court calls for this proposed action or for any other Federal legislation concerning the schools of the Northwest.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier now argues that a Separate school system is good, and institutes comparisons suggesting that the Separate school system of Canada makes this country more moral than the United States. As only two provinces of Canada have Separate school systems imposed upon them by the constitution or by statute, Sir Wilfrid, if he were depending upon this argument, should show that the provinces which are left free to work out their own educated policy are more vicious than Quebec and Ontario. It would also be incumbent on him to show that the new provinces if left to themselves would be likely to pursue the educational road to immorality.

"But it is fair to say that Sir Wilfrid does not justify intervention, or 'coercion,' if we use his own expression of ten years ago, by the claim that a Separate school system is the only right policy for a province. The argument of the Premier is that since the Dominion Parliament thirty years ago authorized Separate schools for the few settlements then in the Territories that system cannot be taken away. We do not propose here to discuss the validity of this contention which seems to go to pieces before Mr. Borden's analysis, and is not accepted as sound even by the Government organ in Toronto. It need only be said here that Sir Wilfrid confuses the vested rights established by law and practice in a self-governing province before the union and the conditions established in a Federal district under laws passed by the Dominion. These Northwest laws could have been repealed immediately before the Autonomy Bill was introduced. To say that they have the same sanction as the present school system of Newfoundland would have in case that colony should enter Confederation, is going far.

"But all that the constitution of Canada demands for the minority in the new provinces will remain if the coercion clauses are struck out of the bill now before the House. It is not necessary for the Parliament to legislate the British North America Act into force. If the Union Act forbids the abolition of the Separate school system in the Northwest, it cannot be abolished, if it really exists, which is doubtful. all the rights which the Union Act confers will remain if they are not mentioned in the Autonomy Bill. Why not, therefore, leave the new provinces free to deal with the problem as they will, subject as they must be to the British North America Act,

"The reason must be that it is proposed to take away from the new provinces some powers that the Act of Confederation does not take away. For this reason the school question seems to be dragged into a measure where it does not belong. It can hardly be that Sir Wilfrid Laurier believes that the new constitution not only imposes Separate schools upon the Northwest for all time to come, but imposes upon the Federal Parliament the legal obligation of imposing this system upon the provinces. If he has that singular impression, and that is the sole cause of the course that he has taken, he should go no farther in this direction until he has verified his constitutional position. If the course which the Government proposes were taken only upon constitutional compulsion Sir Wilfrid should at this stage make sure that he is compelled to take it.

"He cannot establish this compulsion and will not try to do so. And if he cannot show compulsion he can only defend the proposed coercion as a matter of policy. But it is certainly bad policy to impose upon these great provinces such limitations of their freedom. If Separate schools are good for them they may be trusted to find it out and act upon the knowledge. But it will never do for the Parliament at Ottawa to say that a Separate school system should prevail over these 550,000 square miles as long as the world stands, against the wish of nearly the whole population, while provinces on each side of these two are free to adopt their own educational policy."

TIMELY TOPICS.

The poet's line, slightly altered, would seem to about fit this winter: "Into each day some snow must fall."

• • •

Everybody will be badly disappointed if the coming summer is not one of the briskest ever seen in this city. And, if you ask me, I don't think a few brisk summers would be at all objectionable to the good people of Belleville.

• • •

Only four more days before Lent. I don't think I'll give up anything except the price of another ton of coal.

• • •

I don't like these encores to the coal dealers; they're more disheartening than those at an amateur concert, when there are nineteen numbers on the programme, and every one of 'em encored.

• • •

The footbridge has been repaired, and I move that anyone caught rocking it in future be chloroformed, whether's he's over 60 or not.

• • •

If Hon. Mr. Sifton does not soon begin to feel as though he had been sand-papered it won't be the fault of the Laurier organs in Quebec, which are handing him some left-handed compliments. Le Canada says:

"Mr. Sifton represented in the Cabinet the sectarian elements who robbed our compatriots in Manitoba of the rights they held most dear and who undertook the same work in the provinces in the process of formation. His retirement was foreseen. It was only the natural consequences of his previous conduct placed in the face of the events of to-day and of the demands of the representatives from the west who were his sole support. Only the honest union of the best elements in the House can prevent the display of sectarian passions which will shake the foundation."

• • •

Poor Stoessel! When he reached St. Petersburg but few military men and only one naval officer came to greet him. It will require more than a liberal allowance of popular applause to heal a cut like this.

• • •

A correspondent sneers at the idea of a testimonial to Mr. R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., and draws a rather invidious comparison between his case and that of Mr. Geo. W. Ross, who is also threatened with a testimonial. As our correspondent instituted the comparison himself we will only ask him one question: Who best deserves a testimonial, the man who did his best to have a corrupt Government kept in power, or the man who did his best to have it turned out?

• • •

The Grit papers are pointing out that the differences between Laurier and Sifton may still be patched up, by a compromise. But it will not be a compromise; it will have to be a clean backdown on the part of Sir Wilfrid, a confession that his eloquence and sunny ways have failed. Will Sir Wilfrid eat crow? We shall see.

• • •

Another old man, this time in St. Louis, has committed suicide after reading Dr. Osler's speech about chloroforming men over 60. This kind of thing may get on Osler's conscience and cause him to chloroform himself one of these days.

• • •

March may have come in like a lamb, but it has, so far, proved sufficiently lion-like for Laurier.

• • •

A Strasberg man fell off a load of coal and broke his neck. Coal is bound to break us all, it seems.

• • •

The despatch which says: "The British fleet was never in more perfect condition" makes pleasant reading for Britons inasmuch as it makes unpleasant reading for Britain's enemies.

• • •

Judge Winchester says in effect that G. T. P. officials discriminated against Canadians in favor of Yankees. Now that the Government has an official opinion on the matter, what do they propose to do about it?

• • •

That unfortunate monarch, the Czar of Russia, has had many bumps in his time, but the cruellest blow of all has just come to light. There seems to be nothing left for Nick now but the tall timbers. As though that gentle body, the "Terrorists" of Russia, were not making it sufficiently unpleasant for the little man with the hay-colored beard and the weak chin, the Trades and Labor Council of Toronto must needs butt in. The fall of Port Arthur; the assassination of his uncle, were enough, but the last blow has been struck. The council discussed with closed doors the present crisis in Russia, and a resolution was passed strongly condemning the oppression of the peasant class of that country. it will be forwarded to the Czar possibly along with similar resolutions passed by the various trade organizations of this continent. The motion was brought forward by the Carpenters' Union, and, after citing their belief in the equality and brotherhood of man, it said that it was the antagonism of the Russian despotism which forced the Russian patriots to resort to such desperate means which otherwise would excite the indignation of humanity.

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCausland Bros.
Bakers and Confectioners.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such a the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Frank McKeown, of Montreal, is in the city.

Mr. S. W. Vermilyea is in Quebec City on business.

Mr. J. McConnell, of Springbrook, was in the city to-day.

Mr. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., of Marmora, was in the city to-day.

Walter Hutchison, of Brockville, has taken a position in this city.

Mr. John W. London is confined to the house with an attack of la grippe.

Mrs. Chauncey Sills, Foxboro, is visiting Mrs. H. F. Mitchell, Hillside St.

Mrs. S. Eustace and her daughter, Miss May, have returned home from a visit to Toronto.

Mr. "Bert" Ketcheson, Henry St., is nursing an injured foot, the same having been caused by a block of ice falling on it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Woodley, Sinclair St., last night entertained a few friends, the occasion being the 29th anniversary of their wedding. A very pleasant evening was spent with games, music, etc.

At the Quinte: H. Gurney, W. J. Hinds, W. Home, G. Watson, E. H. Bennett, J. Everett, B. Budd, A. Ansley. G. Patterson, D. Forbes, Toronto: H. Hopp, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Miller, Frankford; N. Nealy, Smith's Falls; J. E. Halliwell, Stirling; D. Briggs, Quebec; T. S. Gilroy, Buffalo; J. W. Pearce, Marmora; J. A. Vandervoort, N. A. Stewart, H. Maxwell, Kingston; B. Colljrick, R. Carrigman, O. O. Sheets, C. E. Getz, C. B. Chandler, Montreal; C. L. McCrae, Hamilton; R. Walker, Windsor; R. Ferguson, Pittsburg, Pa.

STOP THAT COUGH.

Griffiths' Manthol Liniment

is just as effective in curing coughs, colds, sore throat and croup as in rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Used internally and externally. Takes away all pain. Reduces all swellings. At druggists. 25c. a bottle.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

MARCH WEATHER IN PROVERB FORM.

THE WEATHER WISDOM OF CENTURIES CRYSTALLIZED INTO SUCCINCT SAWS.

As this is the beginning of a new month we present to our readers a number of old saws relating to March. These proverbs have been gathered from various sources:

"If the cat is basking in the sun in February, it must go again to the stove in March."—German.

"Dust in March brings grass and foliage."

"Snow in March is bad for the grape-vine and fruit."

"When March comes in like a lamb, it goes out like a lion," and vice versa.

"March in January, January in March."

"When March has April weather, April will have March weather."

"On St. Patrick's Day, the warm side of a stone turns up, and the broad-back goose begins to lay."

"Is't on St. Joseph's Day (March 19) clear,
So follows a fertile year."

"Is't on St. Mary's Day (March 25) bright and clear, Fertile is said to be the year."

"Thunder in March, poor sugar (maple) year."

"As it rains in March so it rains in June."

"A dry and cold March never begs its bread."

"March damp and warm will do the farmer much harm."

"A late spring a great blessing."

"A late spring never deceives."

"If the spring is cold and wet, then the autumn will be cold and dry."

"A dry spring, rainy summer."

"Early thunder, early spring."

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box 25c

A Lively Runaway.

A horse attached to a cutter at 2.30 this afternoon ran away, but, although it traversed considerable ground, no damage resulted. The animal came down Murney's Hill, over the lower bridge, down Front street around the market and from Pinnacle street, where it was stopped. The horse from appearance had ran for a considerable distance.

Macaulay vs. Osler.

It is the law of our nature that the mind shall attain its full power by slow degrees, and this is especially true of the most vigorous minds. Young men, no doubt, have often produced works of great merit; but it would be impossible to name any writer of the first order whose juvenile performances were his best. That all the most valuable books of history, of philology, of physical and metaphysical science, of divinity, of political economy, have been produced by men of mature years will hardly be disputed. The case may not be quite as clear as respect works of the imagination. And yet I know no work of the imagination of the very highest class that was ever, in any age or country, produced by a man under thirty-five. Whatever powers a youth may have received from nature, it is impossible that his taste and judgment can be ripe, that his mind can be richly stored with images, that he can have observed the vicissitudes of life, that he can have studied the nicer shades of character. How, as Marmontel very sensibly said, is a person to paint portraits who has never seen faces? On the whole I believe that I may, without fear of contradiction, affirm this, that of the good books now extant in the world, more than nineteen-twentieths were published after the writers had attained the age of forty. — Thomas Babington Macaulay, in the British House of Commons.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fair and milder. Saturday, fair and mild.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m. 26
12 m. 34
2 p.m. 35
3 p.m. 34

BANANAS
PINEAPPLES
BITTER ORANGES
VALENCIA ORANGES
NAVEL ORANGES
MESSINA LEMONS

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee

'Phone 128.

The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Bridge Street, 'Phone. 1.39

Schlitz Milwaukee Lager....

The Famous Lager Beer.
In pt. bottles $1.60 per dz.

• • •

WHITE ROCK LITHIA WATER
In pint bottles.

• • •

VIN ST. MICHEL
A Superior Tonic Wine.

• • •

Reliable Wines and Liquors
For Medicinal Purposes.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE'S FINE TEAS—packed in lead packets at 25c, 30c, 40c, 50c and 60c lb. Fragrant and Delicious.
Extra value at 30c lb.—4 lbs. for $1.00.

Woman's love is a paradoxical compound of self-sacrifice and selfishness.

—TO MAKE ROOM FOR—

SPRING - STOCK

We have reduced the prices on all odd lines of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, Trunks and Valises.

VERMILYEA & SON

PIES.

Fresh Pies out in time for your dinner, made on large 9 inch heavy paper plates, so there will be no charge for plates.

Lemon 20c, Mince 20c, Pumpkin 15c, Apple 15c, Meat Pies 5c each ICE CREAM EVERY DAY.

Ed. F. Dickens.
—CATERER.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below:

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send s. p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

Arthur McGie

MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—

—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor
300 Front Street.

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course—Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

STORIES FOR THE LADIES

WHY MARRIED LIFE IS DULL.

(Dorothy Dix.)

Married life is dull because to live happy and cheerfully together requires that a man and woman should be diplomats, whereas we are mostly clumsy bunglers.

It is the one situation on earth that calls for the most tact, and we meet it with a brutality that we show nowhere else.

It is the one place alone where we call a spade a spade, and it is the place of all others where there is most need of us to refer to that useful article as an agricultural implement.

There are two great and insoluble mysteries connected with matrimony.

The first is that people should universally believe, in spite of all evidence to the contrary, that marriage changes the nature, disposition and habits of the individual.

A man picks out a silly, ignorant and flighty girl for a wife, and expects that the minute she is married to him she will become an intelligent, industrious, economical, companionable helpmate to him.

A girl deliberately marries a drunken, worthless rounder, believing that as soon as he is married to her he will give up his dissipated ways and become a domestic and home-loving man.

Nothing of the kind happens. The man finds that his little goose of a wife bores him, and runs him into debt and drives him to boarding as a refuge from her housekeeping, and he complains that married life is a failure.

The woman discovers that marriage hasn't changed her husband's interest in seeing the ponies run, or quenched his thirst for a high ball, and because she is left alone of an evening while he amuses himself, she wails that married life is dull.

Both are bad losers. Neither one has a right to have grievances, because they had no right to suppose that the day of miracles was going to be inaugurated again for their benefit and that marriage would change the character of the person married.

The other great surprise of matrimony is that the belief is generally held that marriage makes a man or woman willing to stand for any kind of treatment from each other.

Husbands and wives habitually treat each other with a discourtesy, brusqueness and utter lack of tact that they would not dream of showing, even to a servant.

In reality, nothing adds to the dulness of domestic life like the lack of good manners in it.

Politeness, regard for the feelings of others—diplomacy—oils the wheels of society, but we apparently esteem them too valuable for use on the family wagon.

If we told our friends as plainly of their faults as we do the partners of our bosom we wouldn't have an acquaintance left who would speak to us.

If, when we are invited out to dinner, we criticized the cooking as freely as we do the home table, we should never be asked a second time.

If, when we go out to other people's houses, we made as little effort to be agreeable and entertaining as we do in our own, our invitations would be as scarce as hen's teeth.

It is because we use tact, discretion and consideration in dealing with other people that we make society interesting, and the same tactics applied to married life will make it interesting. Everybody can see this; yet, in spite of using their best efforts to try to avoid hurting each other's susceptibilities, most married couples spend their time in treading intentionally on each other's corns.

Every married woman knows that there are certain subjects that have the same effect on her husband as waving a red flag at a mad bull, but does this prevent her from mentioning them? Not in the least. She simply delights in dragging in the forbidden topic, though she knows it is as good for a family ruction as a nickel is for a ginger cake.

Every married man knows the things that his wife is sensitive about—the jokes that make her weep, the mistakes she has made that it mortifies her to have made public, the religious beliefs she holds that it wounds her to have ridiculed — but does he skilfully avoid these subjects? Far from it. No weak regard for her feelings keeps him from making her the butt of his domestic criticism when they are out in company.

It is a superstition of matrimony that you do not mind being aggravated by your wife or ridiculed by your husband and that you are willing to kiss the lips that wound you, but there never was a more unfounded theory advanced. We resent criticism from those of our own household more than from any one else, and one of the reasons there is so little conversation between husbands and wives is because both man and woman are afraid of what the other is going to say. A few tart remarks are an effectual discourager of a companionable evening together.

Diplomacy is expedient with everybody, but in dealing with your own husband or wife it is an absolute necessity.

Married life would never be dull if husbands and wives would treat each other half as politely and considerately as they treat other people.

Corn Cushions Free

These corn cushions will remove all pressure and make the process of removing corns an easy one. Carples Corn Cream removes corns in three days or your money back. Send 15 cents and the name of your druggist if he does not keep it and we will send you a full sized box of Carples Corn Cream and two corn cushions free.

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE ONT.

Maxim Gorky, Novelist.

(Bailey Millard, in San Francisco Examiner.)

"Who is Maxim Gorky?"

"A Russian writer."

"What has he written?"

"The most terrible stories in all the world."

These have been the questions asked of me half a dozen times during the past few days, and these have been my replies.

It is not strange that American readers should know so little of the really famous Russian author, or, in fact, of any of the wonderful Slav writers. Russian literature, even when well translated, which it rarely is, presents great difficulties to the average American reader. If there is one quality more than another that is needed in the study of this strange, half uncouth and altogether foreign writer, it is—patience. Russian writers, including the best of them, show great crudity in their fiction, which is the work by which they are best known. This crudity is evinced in a negligence, a diffuseness and a trick of repetition which is pervasive of the whole cult. Whatever other faults English literature has, it is clean cut, and, in the work of its best authors, it is finished perfect. Accustomed as we are to this sort of writing, we find Tolstoi, Turgeney and Gorky very hard to break into. But those who have had sufficient patience to tackle the job systematically and peg away at it, have not gone unrewarded. It was harder for me to interest myself in Tolstoi's "Karenina" than it was in Milton's "Areopagitica."

But of all Russian writers of fiction, Gorky is perhaps the clearest. If you have never read his work it is safe to say you will not like it, for, as I said in the first place, his are the most terrible stories in all the world. Zola himself uttered nothing more revolting than "Orloff and His Wife," the tale of a sodden drunkard and his patient helpmeet. The manner in which Orloff beat his wife and the unspeakable results of his beatings, together with their after history in a hospital where grim disease threatens them at every step, make pictures before which the brain reels. Verestchagin himself (whose awfully brutal paintings were sickening in their vivid realism) did not present to my mind pictures more brutally haunting than those of this gruesome Gorky, who knocked me in the head with his stunning effects and dragged me out limp and unprotesting at the end of the chapter.

You see in all of his wild-eyed work, however, a strong compassion for the under dog, and the under dog with him is generally the poor peasant whom he has presented to our sympathies in a manner that is not very pretty, to say the least. Like Tolstoi, he has managed to steer clear of the actual fact of sedition. He has not in his stories said such bitterly revolutionary things as Turgeney, who had to flee before the enraged aristocrats. Another thing, he has had, like Tolstoi, a large following, and that following has been feared by the Tory element. Yet, while not so outspoken as Turgeney, the subtle Gorky has managed by indirection to point out the very evils of which Turgeney complained, and, to my way of thinking, even more effectively. He has been known to be in close communion with the most radical socialists of Russia, and until now he has managed to maintain a front that was not insufferably offensive to the nobles. Now, to be sure, with Russia in a state of widespread revolt, he is able to come out and vent his democratic rage and impatience at the rule of autocracy. Needless to say, he has rejoiced the heart of socialism the world over.

Those who wish to study Gorky in his simplest work would better begin with his short stories. They are as terrible as any of his writings, but—and for this the American reader will thank me when I suggest them—they are the easiest of all. To one who regards intellectual and spiritual growth, as the essential facts of the literary life, Gorky will perhaps be found disappointing. He sacrifices everything to his artistic conscience—to the desire to present life as he really finds it. The color of the soil in his pages and the blood and bone and viscera of humanity—all painted with the most painstaking fidelity and with crude, startling effects such as I have already hinted at. I remember one sketch that will haunt me forever—that which I think he calls "Expiation," or some such title. It presents the fire-limned picture of a finely formed young peasant woman who had committed the unpardonable sin, and who is hitched naked, beside a horse and driven along a country road while her husband sits up in a cart and lashes her from head to foot with a heavy whip, while the peasantry gather along the way and hoot and jeer the poor woman. In another story we have the repellant picture of a cholera plague, and are made to see the victims writhe and turn color before our eyes. Poe never wrote anything half so gruesome.

But while no American magazine would dare to print Gorky at his strongest, it is necessary to the student of world literature that he know Gorky, and that he have acquaintance with Turgenev and Tolstoi. Nor until our own literature has been imbued with something of the freedom of these intense, earth-gripping European models shall we recognize in it the saliency, the color, the virility of human life. Not until then shall we escape from the just criticism aimed at us by that acute and liberated mind among us which declared in public print not long ago that American literature was of bourgeois origin and written to fit the bourgeois intelligence.

THE RETIRED FARMER.

WELCOMED IN BEAVERTON, CANNINGTON AND WOODVILLE.

The Beaverton Express says: A strange feature of the present day is the general migration of the farmer to the towns and villages. The retired farmer has lately become a very distinct and in too many cases an undesirable element of town and village life. This leaving the farm at a time when the farmer is by long odds the most prosperous man in the country is a curious instance of the unrest which appears to form a part of the atmosphere of the American continent. Small properties in Beaverton, Cannington and Woodville, have the past few years been much sought for by this class of citizens, and those who have settled in these towns have not so far shown themselves the unprogressive and penurious class they are credited with being elsewhere, seeking to block every effort to advance which means a cent of increased taxation, yet demanding all the conveniences and comforts that are going. We welcome good citizens with the heartiest good will, but have no glad hand for such as are causing so much disgust in Western towns with their cheap, penurious meanness and lack of public spirit.

A Warning to "Jokers."

London Free Press: Tuesday morning of this week two women called at the Free Press office and requested the insertion of a paragraph stating that Mr. John H. Ward, of Alvinston, and wife, nee Miss Lena Hillman, who had been guests at the Collins House, had left to visit elsewhere. The circumstances pointed to the paragraph being a harmless bit of personal news, when handed in by apparently responsible persons, and was inserted.

Yesterday Mr. John H. Ward, the gentleman referred to, was also a caller at this office, and stated that the paragraph had been inserted with a view to injuring the character of both himself and the young lady mentioned, who is his first cousin, and not his wife, he being already a married man. He said it was a fact that they had registered at the Collins House, but not as man and wife, as the paragraph would infer, and they were accompanied by other friends.

The Free Press ascertained that Mr. Ward's statements were correct, and succeeded in discovering the two women who were evidently responsible for the most unjust position in which the paragraph in question placed Miss Hillman, who is a respectable young woman, whose mother resides in Alvinston, and who has been employed here. One of the women resides on Kent street, and another in West London. Evidence was secured in the matter, and steps will be taken to make an example of people who lack judgment to the extent that they think the columns of a newspaper are thus to be trifled with.

The Dissatisfied Reader.

Stephen Leacock in Life:

From the books that appear
In the course of a year
I turn with decided ennui,
And a feeling of strain
At the back of the brain,
Is it something in them or in me?

Thos historical tales
Of Old France and Old Wales,
In days when there never was peace,
With terrific attacks
Made by Otto the Axe
On Guido the Gimlet of Nice—
I read that collection
With just one reflection—
Than heaven we have the police!

Nor can I endorse
The remarkable course
Of some recent narratives rude,
Where the writer takes aunts
To the animals' haunts
And shows us their life in the nude
Such as Traps I Have Set,
Or Beasts I Have Tried to Elude.

There's a nautical tale,
Where they keep "making sail" —
A ludicrous statement if true,
Implying that sailors
Are amateur tailors,
With no occupation in view.
Then in dangerous cases,
They just "shift their braces,"
It's called "a tight squeeze" when they do.

They've a skipper who rages
Through two hundred pages,
Profanely abusing the crew;
He won't give them enough
Of the poorest plum-duff—
A mutiny's bound to ensue.
But the skipper stays drunk
In his eighteen-inch bunk,
Just letting the mutiny "brew."

More than all I do watch
For the novel in Scotch:
Its merit I freely admit,
It only needs telling
With rational spelling
To make a miraculous hit;
But when I see "braw,"
"Unco guid," "hoot, awa,"
I get indigestion and quit.

I think if we saw
A new criminal law,
That if anyone enters the ranks
Of those who write fiction,
And perpetuate diction,
Apparently Gaelic or Manx,
The offence every time
Is a capital crime,
The law would be greeted with thanks.

THE MILDEST AND SUREST RELIEF.

For constipated bowels and piles is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, which cause no griping pain and act promptly. Well known to all doctors. Use only Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Price 25c.

WILL MOVE EARTH'S ORBIT.

SOUTH AMERICAN LADY ASKS BRITAIN TO PREVENT ACT OF DARING SCIENTISTS — WOULD DESTROY THE WORLD.

London, Jan. 21. — Perhaps the strangest appeal that has ever found its way into the office of the Daily Mail is the letter printed below. It seems that a daring astronomer in Argentina wishes to change the orbit of the earth, and as the Government of the country shows no inclination to interfere with his plans, the ingenuous correspondent, whose letter is appended, calls for British intervention to avert a catastrophe.

The following is the text of the letter as received:

To the Editor of the Daily Mail, London,—

Buenos Aires, Dec. 28, 1904.

Sir,—I have no doubt this letter will cause great stupor in England, where it will find all the attention that it deserves. A review of Buenos Aires was publishing a fiction by Mr. Adolfo Enrique Antognini, which was, in brief, the following

"Some astronomers, seeing the poor progress of astronomic science, due to the great distance that separates the nearest heavenly bodies from the earth, which renders null all the improvements that can be made on telescopic apparatus, determine—taking advantage of the discovery of a company—to divert the earth from its normal path with the purpose of exploring the heavens as far as possible."

This work would have nothing of particular interest had it not been accompanied by a really wonderful rumor, which is that the project of removing the earth from its orbit is a true one, the so-called fiction being but a manner of preparing the people's minds to the thing.

The learned English people can imagine what would be the consequences of such a thing. In the opinion of well-known astronomers a little deviation of the earth from its regular orbit would be fatal to humanity; if it be removed within its orbit it would precipitate into the sun; and if without it, it would attract the planet Mars or be attracted by Jupiter, with results that everyone can imagine.

As it is an affair that concerns the whole world, I am sure that the English Government, after being made aware of this, will hasten an energetic intervention to prevent a sure disaster, as the Argentine authorities seem so indifferent about a thing of so much importance. For, however great for humanity the value of a better knowledge of Mars or Venus may be, it appears to me that to put, without their consent, the human destruction is too much audacity on the part of these men, for whose degenerate and insatiable curiosity the whole world does not suffice, would dare to oppose God's will. It would be shameful if the end of the earth and its inhabitants should be due to the recklessness of some crazy fellows.

Those who wish to obtain more information can do so from No. 890 Almirante Brown street, where Mr. Antognini and his companions hold their councils against human well-being.

I hope that my call to the English people will be successful, and that with the help of your important publication it may save humanity from an immeasureable peril. I am, sir, your most obedient servant,

LOUISA BELLO.

"SWISS FOOD" POPULARITY.

"Swiss Food" would be just as popular under any other name. There's merit behind it. 15c packages.

Two Views.

"A man's vote is too precious to be sold," said the patriot.

"Perhaps," answered Senator Sorghum, "although a number of people of my acquaintance regard it as too valuable to be given away."

A Secret Society.

Carrie—I've got a dandy idea for a girls' secret society. Belle—A secret society! Do you think it would be practical? Carrie—Surely. We wouldn't keep secrets; we'd swap them.

Beyond Reason.

There be two individuals who cannot be reasoned with—a girl in love and a man who is determined to run for an office

Love is never afraid of overwork.—Chicago Tribune.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free Prices 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont.

f18,25,m4,11,18,25,a1

VERY FEW PEOPLE

ARE FREE FROM SOME FORM OF INDIGESTION.

Very few people are free from some form of indigestion, but scarcely two will have the same symptoms.

Some suffer most directly after eating, bloating from gas in stomach and bowels, others have heartburn or sour risings, still others have palpitation of heart, headaches, sleeplessness, pains in chest and under shoulder blades, some have extreme nervousness, as in nervous dyspepsia.

But whatever the symptoms may be, the cause in all cases of indigestion is the same; that is the stomach for some reason fails to properly and promptly digest what is eaten.

This is the whole story of stomach troubles in a nutshell. The stomach must have rest and assistance, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give it both by supplying those natural digestives which every weak stomach lacks, owing to the failure of the peptic glands in the stomach to secrete sufficient acid and pepsin to thoroughly digest and assimilate the food eaten.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other wholesome food, and this claim has been proven by actual experiment, which anyone can perform for himself in the following manner: Cut a hard boiled egg into very small pieces, as it would be if masticated; place the egg and two or three of the tablets in a bottle or jar containing warm water heated to 98 degrees (the temperature of the body) and keep it at this temperature for three and one-half hours, at the end of which time the egg will be as completely digested as it would have been in the healthy stomach of a hungry boy.

The point of this experiment is that what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do to the egg in the bottle they will do to the egg or meat in the stomach and nothing else will rest and invigorate the stomach so safely and effectually. Even a little child can take Stuart's Tablets with safety and benefit if its digestion is weak and the thousands of cures accomplished by their regular daily use are easily explained when it is understood that they are composed of vegetable essences, aseptic, pepsin, diastase and Golden Seal, which mingle with the food and digest it thoroughly, giving the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate.

Dieting never cures dyspepsia, neither do pills and cathartic medicines, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines.

When enough food is eaten and promptly digested there will be no constipation, nor in fact will there be disease of any kind, because good digestion means good health in every organ.

The merit and success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are world-wide and they are sold at the moderate price of 50 cents for full sized package in every drug store in the United States and Canada, as well as in Europe.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,
STOCK BROKER,
Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.
Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.
Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March. 3

Stock.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	89½	89½
do. pref	102⅜	102⅜
St. Paul	178½	177½
Mo. P	109½	105½
Union Pac	132⅝	132½
C.P.R.	140½	140⅜
Sou Pac	69⅞	69½
R. I.	35½	35
Ills. C	159	158⅜
Sou. Ry	35⅞	36½
Texas	38	38¾
B. & O	109½	109
N. Y. C.	150½	155⅞
Penn	143	142⅞
Soo	115	114⅞
T. W	109½	109⅞
Erie	47⅞	47⅞
do. pref	82	82
Reading	95½	94⅞
C. O.	51⅛	50⅞
O. & W	54½	54½
Manhattan	171½	170⅞
W.C	24⅞	24½
L. & N	143	142⅞
A.F	36	35½
Nor.	83⅛	83½
Wab	23	22⅞
do. pref	40⅞	46
W. U.	93⅞	94
C. G. W.	23⅛	22⅞
T. C. I.	93⅛	88½
U.S. Stl	36	35⅜
do. pref	95⅞	95½
Sugar	148⅞	147⅜
B. R. T	67½	66⅛
P. O.	110⅛	109⅞
A.C.P	78	77⅞
Met.	123½	123¼
Alo	43⅞	43
A. R.	90	91⅞

May wheat opened at $1.15½, closed at $1.15½
July wheat opened at 98⅞; closed at 98¾
May corn opened at 48; closed at 48⅛
July corn opened at 48⅛; closed at 48⅞
May pork opened at $12 57; closed at $12.52

THERE'S A GREAT TREAT

In store for those who have never tried Clark's Lunch Tongues. They are delicately seasoned—good to use.

FEBRUARY REPORT, S. S. NO. 12, SIDNEY.

V Class. — Edna Ketcheson, Everitte Ketcheson.

IV. Class. — Eddie Ketcheson, Blanche Appleby.

Sr. III. Class. — Addie Acker, Charlie Badgley, Gordon Frost.

Jr. III. Class. — Alma Ketcheson, Gladys Hogg, Tommy Frost.

II. Class. — George Acker, Walter Badgley.

Part II. — Ross Dafoe, Clayton Appleby, Olive Evans.

Part I.—Essie Frost, Clifford Acker.

—M. McKenna, teacher.

BULGING GUN BARRELS.

The Ruin That Is Wrought by Careless Handling.

I have sold guns for ten years, and in that time four of them have had their barrels bulged, one by snow, one by dirt, one by sand and one by something else getting into it. One man crawling through a fence got a little snow in the muzzle. He could not remove it with his finger, so concluded to wait and shoot it out, which he did, but he found a bulge like a pullet's egg on the end of the barrel. Another got some earth in the muzzle and shot it out, and he, too, found the same kind of a bulge on the end of his gun. Another fired his gun at ducks, which knocked him over on his back and fairly got away from him. When he picked up the gun he found a narrow raised band around the barrel fourteen inches from the muzzle. In this case a wad had probably lodged there. This customer thinks the manufacturers ought to give him a new set of barrels. I tell him if the barrels had not been good ones it would have been a burst instead of a bulge, which might have maimed or killed him. Another man lying on a point brought down a duck with a broken wing which scurried for the water. The man ran and struck the duck with the muzzle of the gun and in so doing got sand in it. He blew most of it out and shot out the rest of it. Well, after that shot he found a little blister two inches from the muzzle about the size of a man's little finger.

Moral.—Do not shoot obstructions of any kind out of your gun if you value your life or gun.—Uncle Dan in Amateur Sportsman.

Something Wanted.

A bachelor, old and cranky, was sitting alone in his room. His toes with the gout were aching, and his face was o'erspread with gloom, no little ones' shouts to disturb him—from noises the house was free. In fact, from cellar to attic 'twas as still as still could be. No medical aid was lacking; his servants answered his ring, respectfully answered his orders and supplied him with everything. But still there was something wanted, which he could not command—the kindly words of compassion, the touch of a gentle hand. And he said, as his brow grew darker and he rang for the hireling nurse, "Well, marriage may be a failure, but this is a jolly sight worse."

A Water Candlestick.

A glass of water makes a fine emergency candlestick. Weight one end of the candle with a nail just large enough to hold the candle in the water so that the water touches its top edge, but does not touch the wick, and then light the candle. It will burn until the last vestige of wick is gone and the flame will not flicker. The melted tallow that runs down but serves to hold the candle more stationary.

- For - Saturday

1 Stodart Square Piano $10.00

1 Dunham & Sons Piano $75.00

1 New Full Size Upright Piano with all the latest improvements $190.00

J. A. Goodsell & Co.
436 Front Street.

$50,000

Winnipeg Loan Co.'s Stock
For Sale at Par.
Empire Loan Company
(Incorporated 1897.)
Head Office, - Winnipeg

This stock earns from 8 to 10 per cent. per annum, 6 per cent. guaranteed, payable half yearly; profits in excess of this amount being credited to the shareholders at the annual meeting, actual dividends paid during past six years being 9 per cent. per annum.

$ 100 invested yields $ 9.00 yearly
500 invested yields 45.00 yearly
1000 invested yields 90.00 yearly

This Company having its Head Office on the ground, have a great advantage over those doing business at a distance.

We have this limited block of stock which we offer for sale in lots of one share or more.

Shares may be paid for in full or in four equal quarterly payments at $25.00 each, PER SHARE.

For particulars and copy of annual statement address.

PARKER & CO.,
Stock and Share Brokers,
61 Victoria Street, Toronto.

Big Bargains

....AT OUR....

AFTER STOCK-TAKING SALE

—OF—

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, And Shoe Polishes.

Now the severe storm is passed and the snow blockade is off, our country customers will have an opportunity to share in the Bargains being offered. Don't be short-sighted and miss this money saving chance.

THIS SALE CLOSES SATURDAY, MARCH 4th

The J. J. Haines
SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

Struck Ore

In our big Tunnel. Mining Experts say it will grow richer and better. Many large gold veins are just ahead and will be cut in rapid succession. We own the 200 acres.

WITHOUT DEBT.

AT GOLDFIELD

The camp of Quick Fortunes. We own 100 acres, with rich Gold Strikes all around. Gold Veins Discovered. JOIN NOW and

Help Us Dig

Every Share of Golden Sun Stock gives ownership in the Goldfield 100 acres and Colorado 200—total 300 acres. Dividends declared on both would be

TWO DIVIDENDS FROM ONE INVESTMENT.

$15 Buys 1000 Shares

$45 buys 3,300 shares. $90 buys 6,600 shares.
Full paid, Non-assessable.

BUY BEFORE THE PRICE ADVANCES

500 - PER - CENT.

ORDER AT ONCE

the cheapest and best, with ore in the mines and cash in the treasury. If over-subscribed your money will be returned. Highest Commercial and Bank References.

MAKE ALL REMITTANCES PAYABLE TO
The Golden Sun Mining & Milling Co
204 KITTREDGE BUILDING: DENVER, COLO.

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00

—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11 , 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand."

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Mr. William Thomson, manager of the Gas works, showed us a gas light which burns hanging down, thus doing away with the shadow. Now if somebody will invent one which will do away with the bills everybody will be happy.

• • •

Yes, the snow is going away gradually. Too gradually to suit me. I'd be happy if my coal went away as slowly as the snow does.

• • •

Many people tell us they are getting enquiries every day from absent relatives as to the Old Boys' Reunion. They are all anxious to come back home and enjoy themselves and are asking for information. Get your date fixed and advertising matter out as soon as possible, gentlemen of the committee.

• • •

One splendid attraction, if we could arrange it, would be for ex-Ald. McFee to put on "Hamlet" with the same cast that executed it years and years ago. Most of the old boys could be secured. There were no old girls in the cast.

Perhaps Hon. Mr. Sifton resigned because he felt that, at the age of 44, his usefulness was gone.

• • •

Harbingers of spring are appearing. One of the most frequent is the ash pile which shows up through the snow.

• • •

Residents of Alexander St. complain that a milkman, who owns two cows, comes with two barrels and empties their well every day, and they have not enough water left for domestic purposes. A barrel of water for each cow looks like extravagance, but then perhaps the man uses the water for other purposes than feeding it to the gentle bovines. Anyhow the Alick St. people want an injunction issued.

• • •

The conundrum at present is, will the first robin be here in time to sing at St. Patrick's concert?

• • •

They already have warm weather in the West, but of course the feeling over Laurier's School bill is hurrying matters up quite a lot.

• • •

A Yankee paper points out that Japan has made one blunder since the war began. If she had not given out the news of the fall of Port Arthur, but withdrawn its blockading fleet, they could have drawn a good many blockade runners into the net.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Sheaick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago, during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Stuffed Eggs.

Stuffed eggs for luncheon or supper are always good. Boil the eggs hard and after they have cooled cut in two crosswise. Mash the yolks and mix with bloater or anchovy paste, minced parsley, salt and pepper. Minced ham or chicken may be substituted for the fish paste, and chopped sardines are sometimes liked. A little lemon juice is a necessity when fish is used. Fill the white cups neatly and place on ice to chill. If the dish is to present an appearance, serve the eggs in aspic with lettuce leaves underneath. Mayonnaise accompanies the eggs.

WHY BRAIN WORKERS BREAK DOWN.

Man is not a machine that keeps going as long as the steam is applied. He is a creature of blood, nerves and delicately balanced organism. Many don't realize this, but overwork their brains and break down. Brain workers need a strong, bracing tonic like Ferrozone to fortify their nerves and keep the blood pure and rich. Take Ferrozone and you'll do more work. You will have the strength, the ambition and the desire for work because your system will be in first-class order. For your health and strength take Ferrozone regularly. Price 50c. at druggists.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

Time changes all things—with the exception of comic opera jokes.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Unchanged and Chicago Higher—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Thursday Evening, March 2.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day unchanged from yesterday and corn futures ¼d to ½d higher.

At Chicago May wheat closed ½c higher than yesterday; May corn ⅝c higher and May oats ⅛c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, March 2.—Closing—London—Wheat on passage, very inactive. Corn on passage, firm, but not active.

Paris—Close—Wheat—Tone easy; March 23f; July and August, 23f 35c. Flour—Tone easy; March 28f 95c, July and August 30f 35c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	114⅝	108⅛
Detroit	120	102
Duluth..	111⅛	110⅝
St. Louis..	112⅝	94⅛
Toledo..	115	100
Minneapolis..	112¾	110⅛

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, white, bush....	$1 06	to	$1 08
Wheat, red, bush	1 06		1 08
Wheat, spring, bush.....	1 02		....
Wheat, goose, bush....	0 90		0 93
Barley, bush	0 52		....
Oats, bush	0 44½		0 45
Beans, bush	1 00		1 10
Rye, bush	0 75		....
Peas, bush	0 70		....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54		....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 2.—Wheat—Spot nominal; futures steady; March, 6s 11⅝d; May, 6s 11¼d; July, 6s 11⅛d.

Corn—Spot steady; American mixed, new, 4s 2d; American mixed, old, 4s 11d; futures steady; March, 4s 1⅛d; May, 4s 3⅝d.

Ham—Short cut easy, 39s. Bacon—Cumberland cut quiet, 35s 6d.

Cheese—American finest white steady, 52s 6d.

Turpentine—Spirits steady, 38s 6d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, March 2.—Butter—Irregular; receipts, 7048; street price extra creamery, 31c to 31½c; official prices, creamery, common to extra, 25c to 31c; do. held, 25c to 31c; state dairy, common to extra, 24c to 29c; renovated, common to extra, 20c to 27c; western factory, common to extra, 20c to 27c; western imitation creamery, 24c to 29c.

Cheese—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 2784.

Eggs—Firm; receipts, 2342; state Pennsylvania and nearby fancy selected white, 39c to 40c; do. choice, 38c; do. mixed, extra, 37c to 38c; westerns, 35c to 36c; southerns, 34c to 35c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables are Firmer—Buffalo Higher—Chicago Lower for Hogs.

London, March 2.—Live cattle are quoted at 10½c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¼c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per pound.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market since Tuesday, as reported by the G.T.R. and C.P.R., were 97 car loads, composed of 1211 cattle, 3122 hogs, 420 sheep and lambs, with about 104 calves. Trade, taken all round, in all the different classes of live stock, considering the heavy receipts and the quality of the bulk of fat cattle, was generally good and in many classes it was brisk. The quality of fat cattle, with a few exceptions, was not good. Too many half fat cattle are being marketed and not enough finished to supply the demand.

There was not a single straight load of good export cattle on the market, and not more than three loads all told. These three loads were made up of a few lots picked out of loads of butchers, and sold all the way from $4.25 to $4.80 per cwt. Expert bulls sold at $3.40 to $3.70 and export cows at $3.40 per cwt. Even at these low quotations export dealers claim that they are losing money owing to the bad state of trade on the British markets.

There was a large number of butchers' cattle offered. Choice picked lots, of which there was not enough to supply the demand, sold from $4.15 to $4.30, and one lot of extra choice bought by the Harris Abattoir Company, brought $4.65 per cwt., but they were equal to the best exporters in quality. Straight loads of good at $3.80 to $4.10; fair to good, $3.60 to $3.80; medium, $3.25 to $3.60; cows, $3 to $3.25; common cows, at $2.75 to $3; inferior rough lots, at $2.50; canners, at $1 to $1.60 per cwt.

There is a good demand for feeders and stockers of the right kind. Farmers seem to have faith in the trade, judging from the large number looking for the right kinds of feed for the spring and summer trade. A large number of short keeps changed hands at $4 to $4.35 for those weighing 1100 to 1200 lbs. each; feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, sold at $3.25 to $3.75; 700 to 850 lbs. each, at $3.12½ to $3.50; stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $2.75 to $3; bulls, 1250 to 1400 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.25 per cwt.

There is an excellent demand and a good trade being done in milch cows and springers, of which there must have been about 60 changed hands on Wednesday and Thursday. Prices ranged from $30 to $62 each.

Deliveries of veal calves have been more liberal during the past two weeks, which has caused an easier feeling on the market. Prices are a trifle easier at $2 to $10 each or $3.50 to $6 per cwt. There are too many of the skinny skim milk kind being offered, and too few of the real choice new milk fed, the latter of which are picked up at as good prices as ever.

The run of sheep and lambs was light, not 400 since Tuesday and not enough to supply the demand. Prices are still advancing. Export ewes sold at $4.50 to $5 12½; bucks, at $3.50 to $4.25; mixed lots of ewes and bucks at $3.50 to $4.50. Grain fed lambs sold at $6.50 to $7 per cwt; barnyard lambs sold at $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt.; spring lambs sold at $4 to $8 each.

Deliveries were large, 3122 being bought by Mr. Harris at unchanged quotations. Selects, $5.60; lights and fats, $5.45, fed and watered.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 2.—Cattle—Receipts, light; prime steers, $5.35 to $5.65; shipping, $4.60 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $5.85; heifers, $3.25 to $4.65; cows, $2.50 to $4.25; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.15.

Hogs—Receipts, 3400 head; active; pigs, 5c to 10c higher; others steady; heavy, $5.30; mixed, $5.30 to $5.35; Yorkers, $5.15 to $5.35; pigs, $5 to $5.10 roughs, $4.50 to $4.75; stags, $3 to $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 8000 head; native lambs active; western dull, 15 cents lower; sheep slow; native lambs, $6.50 to $8.50; western lambs, $7.75 to $8.10; yearlings, $6.75 to $7; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $5.75 to $6; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $6.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, March 2.—Beeves—Receipts, 41, consigned direct; no trading, feeling steady.

Veals—$4 to $8.50; choice, $8.75; no barnyard calves. Dressed calves—Steady; city dressed veals, 7c to 13c lb.; country dressed, 7c to 11c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1400; sheep in limited supply and steady; medium grades slow to a shade lower; sheep, $5.50 to $5.80; no prime sheep here; lambs, $7.40 to $8.00.

Hogs—Receipts, 2276; market slow; good state hogs, $5.50.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, March 2.—Cattle—Receipts, 10,000; good to prime steers, $5.75 to $6.30; poor to medium, $1.50 to $5; stockers and feeders, $3.40 to $4.50.

Calves—Receipts, 132; about steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 38,000; mixed and butchers', $4.70 to $4.95; good to choice heavy, $4.90 to $5; rough heavy, $4.60 to $4.70; light, $4.70 to $4.80; bulk of sales at $4.80 to $4.95.

Sheep—Receipts, 14,000; lambs firm; good to choice wethers, $5.80 to $6.25; fair to choice mixed, $5.50 to $5.80; native lambs, $6.50 to $7.80.

Parents buy Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because they know it is a safe medicine for their children and an effectual expeller of worms.

Probably egg coal is so called because of its close resemblance in price to hen fruit.

Where can I get some of Holloway's Corn Cure? I was entirely cured of my corns by this remedy and I wish some more of it for my friends. So writes Mr. J. W. Brown, Chicago.

Kuropatkin would doubtless rather be recalled at this stage of the game than captured by the Japs later.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

However, no hard feelings will be occasioned if we fail to retain the low temperature prize.

Prevent Disorder.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventative of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

Gen. Stoessel explains that the Japs won because they drill better. The supposition was that they shoot better and more often.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

A man's capacity for work often depends upon whether he is working for himself or others.

A Wide Sphere of Usefulness.—The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market for over thirty-one years, its prosperity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.
No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To Billings, Mont..............	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points. Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

	Daily except Sunday
L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)......	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C. ...	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C. ...	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. . GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
GENERAL INSURANCE AGENT,
Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

Local Reading Advertisements.

Twenty-five words or less 50 cts., over twenty-five words 2 cents per word first insertion, 1 cent per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words.

The great trouble with the fellow who knows it all is that he doesn't.

The woman who drives a man to drink has no need of a whip.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R C.S., England.
Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.
Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.
m3-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL
Dentist, Belleville. Ont.
Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT J. FRANKLIN WILLS
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor for Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.

THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.
INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insur. Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 163.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter, Joiner, Builder
Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave.
(next McCrodan's grocery.)
Estimates furnished.
Work promptly and carefully executed PRICES MODERATE
—SPECIALIST ON—
Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.
G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

"GREAT AWAKENINGS"

Which Are Now Stirring Churches In Various Parts of the World.

GOD IS VISITING HIS PEOPLE

Rev. Dr. Talmage Contrasts Them With Other Famous Revivals, and Points Out the Lessons it Teaches—When God's People Plead With Him for a Blessing They Put Their Trust in One Who Never Fails.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by Frederick Diver, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—In this sermon the preacher gives a vivid description of the "great awakening" which is just now stirring the Pacific coast, contrasting it with other famous revivals and pointing out the lesson it teaches to the nation. The text is Revelation xiv., 15, "The time has come for thee to reap."

"Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision," rescued by surrendering their hearts to Christ. Oh, what glorious news it is that reaches us from all lands, telling of old-fashioned revivals! As in bygone days, God is visiting his people. On every hand the Holy Spirit is moving on the dull and lifeless churches, rousing apathetic Christians and bringing thousands of sinners to the foot of the cross. Australia has her Pentecosts, England her Pentecosts, rock-ribbed Scotland her Pentecosts. Christmas Eyans' beloved Welsh hills have witnessed such an outpouring of the Holy Spirit as no living man has ever seen before. Rough miners and cultured scholars, old men and children have been stirred by a mysterious power and have turned to the Lord.

Our own land is sharing in the blessing. Great tidal waves of revival power have rolled up from Georgia. Great tidal waves of revival power have rolled forth from Pennsylvania and New York and Colorado. Great tidal waves of revival power are now rolling forth from California to the far east. Conquering revivalists everywhere. God has harnessed to his gospel chariots of revival fire an Evan Roberts, a Chapman, an Ostrom, a Torrey, a Biederwolf and a Shaeffer, the soul winner of little children, and scores of other mighty gospel chargers in this modern work of grace. Truly God has poured out His Spirit upon all flesh. Our sons and our daughters are prophesying. Our young men are seeing visions. Our old men are dreaming dreams. Oh, Spirit that inspired the Wesleys and Whitefield and Finney and Baker and Cartwright and Moody, lead thou us on in this widening gospel movement for the redemption of a sinful world for Christ!

What is the meaning of all this wonderful manifestation of the Spirit's power? Is there any law not yet discovered that governs such movements? Is it possible that in the spiritual world there is a close connection between cause and effect? Is there anything that we as individuals Christians can do to bring into operation these lifegiving showers of divine grace? Is it possible that if we as Christian people continue to obey God's law we can have a perpetual revival of divine grace in our churches and homes every morning, every noon and every night?

These wonderful manifestations are not the work of any human agency, but of God. Those were the results of faith—the faith that moves mountains. When God's people pleaded with him for this blessing they put their trust in one who never fails. The preparation in the heart of man is with the Lord, and when these believing men and women begged him to touch the hearts of the people he heard and answered them. If we want a revival to move a city we must get that revival by the "golden tongue" of earnest prayer. We shall never get it simply by the "silver tongue" of brilliant prayer. Prayer, prayer, agonizing prayer, prayer which came from hundreds and thousands of anxious fathers and mothers and brothers and sisters, and husbands and wives was the cause.

The same lesson was taught us by the movement led by Campbell Morgan a year ago. After the great English preacher had left the Pacific Coast the Ministerial Union of this city met to discuss the results of those meetings. One clergyman after another discussed the causes of that awakening, but no solution was found. I confessed my own inability to understand it, for I had heard Campbell Morgan in the east when he did not seem to have any such influence over men. Yet the sermons which were powerless there were practically the same sermons that were fruitful here. With that the Nestor of the congregational ministers arose, good old loving Dr. Warren F. Day. He said: "Brethren, you have omitted to state the chief reason of Campbell Morgan's success in Los Angeles. It was due to the fact that hundreds and thousands of Christians paved the way for his success by weeks of earnest prayer. The Christians prayed in their churches; they prayed in their cottage prayer meetings; they prayed everywhere!" "Amen," said I. "Dr. Day is right." Campbell Morgan's revival was due chiefly to the fact that those meetings were lifted up to heaven by thousands of pleading, praying Christians. J. Wilbur Chapman, when he reaches heaven, will see there many saved during these revivals. But the old mother in Israel, the old Christian elder and deacon, the old Christian church member, will rejoice with him in this harvest. Christ from his throne will recognize their services. "You wondered," he will say to the evangelists, "why it was that your words so moved the sinner to seek salvation. It was in answer to the prayers of these humble Christians that the Holy Spirit touched the hearts of your hearers so that the good seed fell into good ground." Let us thank God for such prayers.

These revivals teach another great lesson. The vast number of people do not have to be taught who Christ is. They know enough about the gospel of salvation to be saved if they will. They must be led by the power of the Holy Spirit simply to make a stand, to come to a decision to do what they know they ought to do. They do not need to hear sermons on the authenticity of the Scriptures, the divinity of Christ or the doctrine of original sin. They are for the greater part believers in Christianity. It is the personal appropriation of these truths that they lack. They love sin so much that they will not come to the desired decision. In other words, they believe, but they do not wish to give up sin. It is not information about Christ, nor explanation of the truths of Christianity that men need. They understand these things already. It is the will that must be captured. They do not realize their danger, nor that they must themselves seek salvation through Christ. The sermons preached by the evangelists proved that fact.

But another weighty lesson is pressed upon our hearts by these meetings. That is this: The Lord's work is a business. It is not a hysteria. It is not a few holy ejaculations. It is not lifting your head above the clouds so that the mists blind your eyes and chill your enthusiasm for practical duty on earth. It is not a few spasms and a few temporary gospel gymnastics. It is a business—a business which which we should study carefully and plan systematically and press strenuously with all our faith and energy.

When these evangelists began their work, as far as human agency was concerned, they had almost a perfect system of machinery. First, the meetings were systematically and completely advertised; second, all the workers of a district were gathered together under one head. Some went into the choruses. Then other workers were detailed to certain sittings. Every three or four pews had their overseers or gospel sentinels. No sooner was a hand raised for prayer than a Christian worker was by that person's side to lead him or her to Christ.

Then, not satisfied with all this, one night General J. Wilbur Chapman—for he is a general of men—marshaled all his forces for a grand charge upon the citadels of sin. That night the Christian evangelists and their followers came from all over the city. Down into the saloons and the places of evil resorts they went. Everywhere the right hand of a Christian brother or sister was extended. Everywhere a pleading voice said to sinners: "Come, we want you for Christ." These valiant soldiers of the cross did not wait for sinners to come to the gospel banquet. They literally followed out the command of Jesus, which said: "Go ye out into the highways and the hedges and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled." And come they did. They came by the hundreds and the thousands. The drunkards, the libertines, the outcasts—they came. Oh, how they longed to come! Can anyone who witnessed that wonderful and inspiring meeting in the Grand Opera House of Los Angeles Feb. 3, 1905, ever forget the revelation?

The elements seemed to conspire against the effort. When the hours drew toward the evening of that wonderful night, we said to ourselves, "Can we go out into this storm, even to bring sinners to Christ?" The rain then was falling in torrents. All the batteries of the elements were unlimbered. "Crash! Crash!" went the booming of the thunder. "Zigzag!" went the lightning. An electric thunderbolt struck the North Methodist Church of Pasadena and set it on fire. The cars were blocked. Freshets were everywhere. After the theatres and places of amusements were emptied, long after most of the great city was asleep, hundreds of men and women marched throught the flooded streets, sometimes wading above their ankles in water. They marched singing and praising God. They marched down to the haunts of sin. Then, after they had collected the Magdalenes and the human prodigals who had been wallowing in the swine troughs of "the far country," they started back to one of the largest theatres in the city. There, in that theatre were crowded at least 4,000 men and women. Many were in rags. Many faces were scarred and seared with the awful marks of sin. All, whether outcasts or rescuers, were anxious about souls—anxious about their own souls or about the souls of others. Some curiosity seekers may have come to that meeting to scoff, but nearly all, before they left, prayed as the poor publican prayed. There were tears—penitent tears—which welled up from breaking hearts. Yes, those tears were glorious tears, flowing unbidden and unchecked. Four thousand men and women, many of them criminals, gathered together in the midnight hour during the tempest to seek Christ. Did you ever see or hear the like of it? Can anyone who witnessed that wonderful and transporting meeting in the Grand Opera House of Los Angeles ever forget the revelation? Were we not then taught how Christ wants us to go forth into the highways and the hedges, seeking sinful men and women wherever they may be found?

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, tolled the city bells. The evangelists and their followers worked on. Nine, ten, half past ten—the Christian disciples worked on. Eleven, twelve, went the clock. What! Is anyone out to-night? Oh, yes; the messengers of sin are out to-night. This is the harvest hour for the demons of death. But to-night—aye, to-night—the angels of mercy are calling and pleading. Mothers and fathers in heaven, wives and children in heaven, over the embattlements did ye not see the prayers being answered in the midnight hour? Oh, God, teach us, as these evangelists have taught us, that the mission of a Christian church is not alone to care for a few people who are our social equals, and who happen to come to our churches! The greatest mission of Christian churches is to go after men and women—to go after them in haunts of sin, in gambling dens, everywhere and anywhere—to go after them in the morning, at noon and at midnight.

But, lastly, I learn from the work of these evangelists a lesson which ought to make us, one and all, ashamed of ourselves. If the churches of the Lord Jesus Christ would join together their forces to make a conquest for Christ they could win the same triumphs for the Master year in and year out. The mightiest mission of J. Wilbur Chapman and his associates is to unite Christ's forces. They have given us an object lesson of the victory that may be won by the united effort of all the denominations.

Supposing every fall the Congregational ministers, and the Baptist ministers, and the Methodist ministers, and the Campbellite ministers, and the Presbyterian ministers, and the Lutheran ministers, and the Reformed ministers would all get together. Then supposing they should say: "Let us join in sections. We will exchange pulpits. We will preach for souls, no matter in what church we preach. We will have our cottage prayer meetings and our noonday prayer meetings. We will send our best men down into the slums." What would happen? Not only would they break down sectarian lines, but they would teach congregations that the mightiest business on earth is not to build up a denomination, but to save immortal souls. They would do just what Dr. Chapman and his associates have done. They would shake the cities and the states from centre to circumference.

One of the most farseeing acts Dr. Chapman ever did for the advancement of a gospel movement was to combine evangelists of different ecclesiastical denominations into a unit for the spreading of the gospel. Dr. Chapman is a Presbyterian, and is laboring under the orders of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Henry Ostrum, his associate, is a Methodist. Tilman Hobson is a Quaker, Rev. R. W. Stough is a Congregationalist, R. A. Walton belongs to the Southern Presbyterian Church—here there were no northern and southern churches—John K. Elliott is a Dutch Reformed minister. All sectarian fences have been burned in these evangelistic meetings. Why cannot we do the same every year as gospel ministers? Let us have a forward movement. Yes, but also a united movement for Christ.

Every sectarian minister wants to hoe in his own ecclesiastical row, whereas, in fact and in truth, there is but little difference in these rows. They all end in having their sheaves of wheat deposited at the foot of the cross. Why cannot we work hand in hand with other Christian denominations? Are we not all servants of Christ? The Presbyterian differs in doctrine from the Methodist, the Congregationalist differs in church government from the Episcopalian, but all give the same answer to the question, "What must I do to be saved?" Every evangelical denomination points the sinner to Christ as the one and only source of salvation. Love, gospel love, ought to make us all one. Oh, for gospel forces united and welded together! Oh, that the churches of all the Protestant denominations might enter into a concerted and single purposed movement for Christ, as was done in this great gospel campaign on the Pacific Coast, which has won thousands of souls for the Master!

I cannot close without an expression of gratitude to the evangelists who have aided us. I honor all evangelists. Do we realize how much these evangelists give up for their work? All the joys of home life, all the sweet fellowship with their people that the regular minister enjoys—these must all be surrendered by the evangelist who goes from city to city to arouse and stimulate the churches. Dr. Walton told me that for ten years the only home he had was a trunk. Let us honor such men, who devote themselves to the public service. The church of Christ benefits by their labors, and too often it forgets the hardships they undergo.

I want you to pray for God's evangelists. Pray for them when, tired and fatigued, they go to their lonely rooms in an hotel. Pray for Dr. R. A. Torrey and Mr. Alexander, far far away from home. Pray for these friends, Dr. Chapman and his associates, who are now going up and down the land, who have lately been among us. May their joy be the peace that passeth all understanding. May their happiness be gained from the fact that they are winning many, many souls for Christ. God bless the gospel evangelists, that they may teach us gladly to do the Father's will, whether it be like Paul in far-off Macedonia, or in our home Tarsus, "which is no mean city."

The Cinque Ports.

What are known as the cinque ports of England (cinque being the French for five) are Sandwich, Dover, Hythe, Romney and Hastings. It is said that these five ports were enfranchised in the time of the Saxon King Edward the Confessor; but it was subsequent to the battle of Hastings, 1066, that William the Conqueror, in order that he might wield the resources of the seaports with greater vigor, constituted this whole line of coast into a jurisdiction entirely separate from the Counties of Kent and Sussex, and erected it into a sort of county palatine, under a warden or guardian, the seat of whose administration was in Dover Castle. The warden, whose office corresponded to that of the ancient count of the Saxon coast, exercised jurisdiction, civil, military and naval, uniting in his single person the functions of sheriff, custos rotulorum, Lord-Lieutenant and Admiral. Privileges equal to those originally bestowed on the cinque ports were subsequently extended to the so-called ancient towns of Winchelsea and Rye; and most of the municipal towns had subordinate ports and towns attached to them, which were called members.

Jiu Jitsu.

The jiu jitsu trick recently imported afresh from Japan is not exactly a style of wrestling.

There are holds that make the opponent suddenly and utterly helpless. There are grips which, however, lightly taken, make the victim wince. There are pinches that paralyze nerves and cause agony for the second before the victim is released. Then there are deft and sudden ways of breaking bones and of dislocating joints, of giving a slight but vanquishing tilt to an opponent who is off his centre of gravity and tricks that make the victim's brain whirl.

A woman equipped with the jiu jitsu can throw a strong man down and then proceed to tie his hands.

Mark Twain to His Daughter.

Mark Twain has placed the following over the grave of his daughter:

> Warm summer sun,
>   Shine kindly here.
> Warm southern wind,
>   Blow softly here.
> Green sod above,
>   Lie light, lie light.
> Good night, dear heart.
>   Good night, good night.

After this let him be anathema who says that he never saw a good epitaph.

A FROLIC IN MEXICO

BREAKING THE PINATA DURING THE CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

This Mirth Provoking Pastime Is the Great Social and Fun Making Feature of the Season—Dressing and Filling the Olla.

Christmas in Mexico is not the typical Christmas of cold and snow and ice, but one of bright, warm sunshine, cloudless blue skies, flowers in profusion, trees in full foliage and a life of out of doors.

At least a week before Christmas in the principal streets of Mexico arches are erected from sidewalk to sidewalk, festooned with wreaths of flowers and bunting in the national colors—red, white and green. Under the arches booths are erected, and every toy manufactured in Mexico is on sale.

In every Mexican house great preparations are made for what is called the "pinata." Every child begs and scrapes and saves the centavos for weeks and months ahead. All kinds of articles are made especially for this ceremony, and every family vies with its friends and neighbors to have its pinata more beautiful and fanciful than any one else's.

The pinata is really an earthenware utensil which is in general use for cooking. It is called in common parlance an olla and is of brown pottery something like the old fashioned earthenware crocks used in the north before enamel ware became the fad.

The pinatas are large or small, as the purse of the purchaser permits. They are round, pot bellied and very large at the top. They are sold from door to door on the streets and in the markets. They cost only 10, 15 or 20 centavos, but the olla is the least expensive part of the game.

The body of the olla for a woman is covered with tissue paper; then a crinkled paper dress is fashioned; then a bodice is built up draped to represent a loose white waist, and above this is placed a false face. The hair is made with black paper, braided into one long plait at the back, as the women wear their hair in Mexico. Sometimes a white tehuana headdress is made of the lace paper used by bakers and confectioners.

A flower pinata is decorated with large paper flowers in every color of the rainbow. Red, white and green ribbons, forming long streamers, and silver and gold tinsel, glass balls and colored lights all help to make the flower pinata very beautiful. The possibilities for dressing these pinatas are endless. In a large family the mother and daughters have their own pinatas, and great secrecy is maintained in the decoration of the olla. It is the aim of each to devise as original a dressing for the pinata as possible, and it can be made a very extravagant ornament. In the families of wealthy Mexicans the luxury of the pinata often mounts into thousands.

After the olla is decorated to the taste it is filled. The filling consists of peanuts, hazel nuts, hard candies, like marbles, and all kinds of Mexican dulces. These dulces are candied fruits, nut paste, etc.

Christmas night the pinatas are carried in great state into the sala and suspended from the ceiling one at a time. All the relatives of the family are present, and as cousins of the fifth and sixth degree are recognized and children are very numerous there is generally a large gathering. They all sit very demurely on chairs ranged in row around the walls of the room.

One person is constituted master of ceremonies, the eldest son or daughter of the house. He or she stands in the middle of the room. Near by is a jar or umbrella stand filled with apisaco canes or sticks. When everything is ready a child or grown person is selected and called by name. She comes forward and is blindfolded.

Then the fun begins. The person blindfolded is turned round and round until she loses all knowledge of where the pinata hangs. A cane is put in her hands, and she is told to hit the pinata and try to break it. She is given three chances. If she fails to hit it she sits down amid laughter and ridicule. If she hits it without breaking it she is entitled to a small prize.

And so it goes on, one after another being called up, blindfolded and given a cane and three chances to break the pinata. Finally one more fortunate than the rest succeeds in giving a hard enough blow, and, crash, the pinata falls to the grounds in hundreds of bits, and its contents are scattered far and wide.

A wild scramble ensues. Everybody rushes forward to gather as much of the spilled contents as possible.

The fortunate breaker of the pinata gets a handsome prize and is awarded the seat of honor. He or she sits down and is debarred from another trial at breaking another pinata. As soon as the confusion dies down and order is somewhat restored another olla is hung up and the same routine gone through. So the fun continues until the last pinata is broken, and then the prizes are awarded.

The pinata party is the great social and fun making feature of the Christmas season. After the pinatas have been broken and a supper has been served there follows dancing, or a traveling company of Indians from the mountains is brought in to sing and dance in native costume.

These traveling Indians are somewhat like the singing bands which go around at Christmas time from house to house in England, Germany, France and Italy. They have been known and popular in Mexico from time immemorial. The are much in demand during the Christmas holiday season.—Kansas City Star.

Ask your Grocer for Windsor Salt
The Perfect Table Salt.

A young man was fined the other day in a London police court for striking his sweetheart. His defense was that she had asked him to suspend their engagement a month in order to give another admirer a trial.

Drugs and Lunacy.

Of the patients in the lunatic asylum at Lahore, India, 33 per cent are believed to have been habitual hemp drug takers.

Australia's Great Desert.

The region between Lake Eyre and the boundary of Queensland is said to be one of the worst deserts in the world.

Duelist Killed by Accident.

A German student while fighting a duel at Riga was killed in a singular manner. His bullet struck his adversary in the leg, breaking the bone. As the wounded man fell his pistol was discharged, and the shot entered his opponent's heart.

Eggs.

Eggs should never be eaten the same day as laid, for they have not become solidified, but are at their best the second day.

Dog Tongs.

Preserved in the cathedral of Bangor, Wales, is a pair of old "dog tongs" which were used for ejecting quarrelsome dogs from church during service. A similar pair is preserved at Llaynynys, Wales, and bears numerous tooth marks.

Hair Fashion In Siam.

Wives of Siamese noblemen cut their hair so that it sticks straight up from their heads. The average length of it is about one and a half inches.

Little Fighting Whales.

The "little fighting whales," fierce nomads of the deep sea, apparently roam in organized bands, savagely attacking the ordinary large whale and fighting him to the death.

Swords In Japan.

Although wearing swords has entirely ceased for years in Japan, the old esteem and reverence for the weapon and its use still exist among the gentlemen of the country, and many of the nobility have at their houses regular establishments where fencing is practiced.

Tyrol Mail Carriers.

Many of the rural letter carriers in the Tyrol are women.

THE NEW STORE.

Special Bargains !

—25 pieces Wraperette, regular price 12½c, on sale at .... 9c a yd.
—Ladies' Top Skirts, nicely tailored, at $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and up to .... $10.00 ea.
—5 doz. Corsets well worth 75c, on sale at .... 50c pr.
—5 doz. Tape Girdle Corsets, regular price 40c, on sale at ..35c pr.

Table Linens

—50 ends Table Linen, direct from Belfast and the best value that ever left Ireland, lengths 2½ and 3 yds., regular price $1.00, go on sale at .... 69c yd.
—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen 60 inches wide, regular price 45c, on sale at .... 35c yd.
—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen, 72 inches wide, regular price 65c, on sale at .... 45c yd

NEW GOODS ARRIVING DAILY.

Wims & Co

PAY $1.00

a pound for tea—and we doubt if you will be any better satisfied than with the tea we can sell you for

40c Per Pound

because it's the best all round value—quality, strength and flavor, all you could ask for—and the price is reasonable. Try it—for your next tea.

STROUD'S
Tea and China Stores
Opp. Anglo-American
Front Street, Bellevil

| STROUD'S 'PHONE 301. |

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

MADAME

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer

One Year's Subscription Free of Cost

to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to March 1, 1906, or later.

MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.

Sign and Send This Coupon

TO-DAY

Daily By Mail . $3.00
Weekly By Mail . $1.00

To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited, Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $............

Name.............................. P. O..............................
Address.............................. ....

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON.

Remember : Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to March 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME for Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.

SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEAWOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address:

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1

Name

Street No.

Town State

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2

Name

Street No.

Town State

Please also send Book No to

Name

Street No.

Town State

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number

(NOW READY.)

Contains 20 Prominent Features A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

from the stand point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

A typical Southerner writes this article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands 15 cents per copy.

SPARTAN VIRTUE.

It Is a Fine Thing if It Is Not Advertised Too Much.

A Spartan virtue seems to have the inherent quality of making its possessor a 44 caliber bore of the worst sort. Take the man whose supreme if not only virtue lies in the fact that he takes a cold water bath every morning the whole year round. You meet him in the car, in the street, in the course of business anywhere, and no matter what the topic may be at the start the conversation is bound to include an account—quite incidental, of course—of how on the frostiest of mornings he frolics in the ice cold water just as it comes from the hydrant.

Then there's the man who walks down to his office every morning, rain or snow, in sunshine and in storm. The more distant his home from his office the more he will talk about it, and he will tell you that he has become so accustomed to it that the only time he can get an extra thrill out of it is when the streets are deep with snow and the wind is blowing a hurricane.

Heaven may forgive the man who rises at 5 summer and winter, spring and fall. We never can. The early riser is not a criminal simply because the law does not designate his offense as a crime. But it is admitted that the law has its defects. Nothing can approach the look of superiority on the face of the early riser. He has found the only road to health or wealth. The books he has read before breakfast would if collected in a heap make the Congressional library look small.

There are some who would place in the first rank of this group that rugged, hardy, vigorous, full blooded gentleman who can't breathe in a room unless all the windows and doors are open. The lower the pressure of steam in the radiator, the lower the mercury in its tube and the wilder the play of the winds over the roofs and around the corners the more insistent is he that you are imperiling your very life by not occupying an office wide open to every wind that blows.

Oh, Spartan virtue is a fine thing, but it would be simply sublime if its modern exponents and inculcators would just keep still about it.

BITS FROM THE WRITERS.

Marriage was invented, like trustees, to save lovers from beggaring themselves.—Alfred Austin.

Of all slaveries this sad world knows there is no slavery so terrible as the slavery of a sensitive man to a hysterical, selfish woman.—T. P. O'Connor.

A popular novel is a compound of amusement and admonition, and the most popular are those in which clowning is sandwiched with preaching.—George Moore.

That we have a knocker on our doors means that we are not boors and barbarians, that we do not call on a man by climbing into a window or dropping down a chimney.—G. K. Chesterton.

A woman will self deny herself off the face of the earth to save a few pence, which a man will have the good sense to spend on himself to keep up his strength, for work, of course.

Scotch Stories.

It was late in the afternoon when the Scotch minister arrived at the farmhouse. The housewife suggested that perhaps he would like a cup of tea before engaging in "exercises." "Na, na," said he, "I aye tak' my tea better when my work is done. I'll just be gaun on. Ye can hing the pan on and leave the door ajar, an' I'll draw to a close in the prayer when I hear the haam fizzin'."

Another woman of Scotland when asked if she had understood the sermon to which she had just been listening replied, "Wad I hae the presumption?"

Liberty Halls.

"This is Liberty hall, and you may smoke in the garden," is a maxim which has become typical of one sort of hospitality. Another version has just been perpetrated by a member of the early rising fraternity.

"I wish," said the host, "every one to do as he likes in my house."

It sounded very friendly, but on going to his bedroom the guest found a little card stating the times of meals, "Breakfast at 7:30," and in an N. B. was added, "It will be cleared away at 8:30."

The Golden Mean.

The motto of the Greeks was "Nothing too much."

An excess of courage is brutality.

An excess of economy is penuriousness.

An excess of taste is precocity.

An excess of gentleness is timidity.

An excess of confidence is egotism.

Who will show us where to draw the line?—Ernest N. Lyon in Everybody's Magazine.

A Happy Pair.

Sylla—How is it that you and your husband agree so well? Mrs. Ray—Well, you see, he has given up his club. Sylla—And you? Mrs. Ray—I have given up amateur cookery. With those two destroyers of domestic felicity gone, why should we not be happy?

His Title.

"If it were customary in this country to confer titles upon men who go in for literature, what should I be?" asked a conceited journalist of his editor.

"Baron of Ideas," was the terse reply.

Filial Piety.

Mother—Do you like my new gown, Millicent? Millicent (aged five, with conviction)—If there is a lady god, you look just like her in those clothes.—Life.

FISH FOR LENT.

HOW THE PISCATORIAL TRADE MAY LOOM LARGE FOR THE GROCER.

The wide-awake grocer on the lookout for practical suggestions which will enable him to infuse new life into trade during the quiet season between late winter and the opening of spring, during the Lenten season presents an opportunity of which he cannot afford to lose sight. For forty days beginning March 8, good churchmen will be substituing fish for meat, and when it is remembered what a large percentage of the population of Canada falls within this class, and what a large number will be influenced to follow their example, the possibilities of the Lenten fish trade cannot but loom up big in the eyes of the grocer. No one in the trade needs to be told of the advantage of handling fresh, frozen, salt and dried fish in season, and nothing more than the suggestion ought to be necessary to induce him to make extensive preparations for capturing his share of what is bound to be a big item of trade within the next few weeks.

For the benefit of intending buyers the 'Canadian Grocer' offers the following suggestions as well as a prospective report on the fish situation, which is likely to rule until the end of Lent.

Oysters are high at the present time on account of a freeze up on the Atlantic coast, Baltimore's bringing $1.50 per gal. As soon as the weather moderates, supplies will become more plentiful, and it is not thought the trade will experience difficulty in obtaining supplies at about the present level prices. For the country trade an excellent line to stock is Labrador herrings in 1-2 barrels, costing $2.90 per one hundred lbs., and retailing at 25 cents per dozen. Frozen trout from Georgian Bay will also be in great demand, and are to be had at 7 1-2 cents, to retail at from 10 to 12 cents per lb. It is not out of place to comment here upon the wide swath frozen fish are cutting in the Canadian fish trade as a whole. During the past two years a large number of freezers have been built in proximity to the Upper Lakes for this trade exclusively, and during the present winter another extensive one has been erected on Lake Superior.

Supplies of white fish are diminishing, and will be so low within a fortnight that prices will have to be advanced appreciably. By that time it is thought that the only kind of white fish available will be winter-caught, fancy stock, which will bring a fancy price. Frozen sea herring are also scarce and high in price, on account of the fishing vessels having been caught in the ice; the last car from Halifax is due to arrive in Western markets this week. Frozen B. C. halibut and salmon may be had for the Lenten trade at 9c and 10c per lb. Steak cod and haddock are in good supply and cheap, selling to the trade at 6 1-2 and 4 1-2 respectively. Digby smoked herring are also available at from 50c to 60c per bundle (5 boxes in a bundle). Tullibees are in good supply, and on account of their similarity to whitefish will largely take their place owing to the scarcity of the latter.

The trade is recommended to feature shrimps, which have proved so successful in the American markets. Supplies may be had at $1.15 per gal. American wine measure, in 1 and 2 gal. cans to retail at 66c per quart. One advantage in handling shrimps is their excellent keeping qualities. Finnan haddie is fairly plentiful, and present prices may be expected to continue for some time. Ciscoes are scarce on account of the unfavorable weather conditions, and frozen smelts are higher this season than they have been for years as a result of the light catch and excessive demand for the American markets.

A lively trade in Atlantic cod may be expected; dried cod, especially skin less cod in 100-lb. cases, being particularly suited to the country trade.

BRONCHITIC ASTHMA A HEAVY BURDEN

Asthma is bad enough, but when bronchial symptoms are added the poor sufferer has almost an intolerable existence. An absolute specific is found in fragrant healing Catarrhozone which cures chronic cases that other remedies won't even relieve. "For years," writes Capt. MacDonald, of Montreal, "I battled with the agonies of bronchitic asthma. Often I couldn't sleep for nights at a time. I spent thousands on doctors and medicines without relief, but one dollar's worth of Catarrhozone cured me." Catarrhozone can't fail; it's guaranteed. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c.

Literary Notes.

The cover of The Designer for April shows a pretty girl holding converse with a pert Easter rabbit. Three handsome full pages in color are given, and the fashions and millinery are in perfect accord with the spring season. A special article is on seashore costumes for ladies and young folks. "The Millinery Lesson" tells how to make the new and picturesque "Envelope Hat." A picture story of "Dorothy and the Easter Chickens" will please the tots, and the fancy-worker will find lace-work, embroidery, ribbon-work and crochet to test her skill.

Many a woman, confronted with sudden reverses of fortune, has 'baffled the wolf" by securing private pupils in music or drawing. Here again the "wolf" might have the best of it if it were not for the help of the want ads.

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

Death and Hockey.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The hockey fatality at Maxville has been a climax to a steady course of degradation of the game by dirty and cowardly play to which the attention of the leading hockey leagues has been called in vain time and time again, and for which, by their inattention, the officers and executives of the leagues are themselves responsible. We use the word cowardly with deliberation. In the estimation of some people there is thought to be pluck or manliness in entering into some athletic contest with the intention of roughing it with the other side, ready to take the worst they can do in return. There isn't a trace of decent pluck in it. Decent pluck means standing up to an opponent squarely and fairly. Hockey rough-house means hunting for chances to hurt an opponent by foul tactics, and usually when he is least in position to defend himself—pure cowardice, except to the degree that it is excused by malignant temper. But if our games are not conducive to generous ideas, to manliness and to self-discipline, they are worse than nothing.

Time and time again it has been represented to the hockey leagues that it should be obligatory on a referee to rule out of a match for good any player guilty of what looks like a deliberate foul. The reply has been that referees have that power. This is no answer, in view of the manner in which things have been going from bad to worse for years. The average referee will not take the whole responsibility of such drastic penalizing. He has a hard enough time of it, anyway, for the home team's crowd can always be relied on to roast him, right or wrong. The referee should have no option except the option of deciding that a foul has been committed. That is enough of a problem for him. Let the rules do the rest.

It is necessary now to go even a step further. The referee should be required to report to his league executive every case of a player ruled off for foul play, and two such reports should put a player out of the game for the season. With such regulations, hockey, one of the most splendid games on earth, would have a chance of becoming in a season or two what it ought to be, a decent and square game instead of one in which English-speaking people are expected to tolerate tactics with sticks and skates almost as treacherous and cowardly as those that are told of the Sicilian stiletto or the Borgian poison.

Pruning Shade Trees.

The Country Life is the American authority on such subjects as the pruning of shade trees, and the following which appeared in the last number of that excellent journal may be of some importance to readers of The Intelligencer:

"An ideal shade tree should be symmetrical, free from dead or diseased parts, vigorous, bearing on a strong framework of trunk and limbs an ample but not crowded canopy of leaves. It has, moreover, the distinctive character of its race, as the fan top of an elm, with its outer branches pendant, or the upright oval of the hard maple.

"It is customary to let shade trees alone until their condition becomes critically bad. Then some hired man is delegated to trim them, and he is instructed to make a 'thorough job' of it. The result is generally deplorable. Well-meaning, conscientious ignorance can do far more harm with axe and saw than the same ignorance with chronic disposition to shirk.

"If a tree is worth pruning at all the owner should get some idea as to how it ought to be pruned, and then at least stand by to see that these are carried out.

"All dead and broken limbs are worse than useless. They menace the tree's life. Long limbs, as of silver maple, become so heavy that they are in danger of breaking in wind storms and damaging neighboring windows. Such limbs must be cut back. Thinning of branches is next to be attended to. Interference chafes the bark and the nutritions of the limbs involved is disturbed. Which ones show sickly foilage and enfeebled growth? Those should be taken out, giving the advantage of more sun and air to the strongest limbs. These trimmings need not destroy the character of the tree. They put new life into it. A season's growth will take away the stubby appearance.

"Use a saw—never an axe. Saw as close as possible to the main branch. Have no protruding stub to be swallowed by the healing tissues that rolls in and covers the wound. Leave no ragged edges. Do not tear the bark. Finish the job with a knife, rather, after the saw reached the bark.

"Any break in the bark admits of tree diseases that float in the air. Every tree is rooted in the pith of a larger one. Its wound is a porous mass of fibres with starchy contents that drink in the rain. This forms a soil in which wood-destroying fungi thrives. Every rotten tree in the neighborhood casts its spores on the air.

"For this reason it is essential to cover wounds with extreme care. Some waterproof substance is demanded. White lead and linseed oil forms a paint that is efficacious. It must be carefully and conscientiously applied. One dressing rarely lasts as long as there is need. The larger the limb amputated the larger the wound, and two or three years is not long for the healing process. The wound will need repainting, else danger of inoculation will threaten the heart of the tree."

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

Rich Man, Poor Man! *

By KEITH GORDON

Copyright, 1904, by Frances Wilson

Before they reached the first ledge overlooking Sausalito a mist like floating globules of crushed pearl rolled noiselessly through the fissures of the hills and blotted out the village, the bay and the towers and chimneys of San Francisco—in other words, the world. In the damp air the girl's hair curled more distractingly than ever. Never had he seen it when it framed the low forehead in so bewildering an arabesque of rings and curves and waves.

"You look rather swell yourself," she laughed in response to his eloquent glance of approval. "Knickers and a Norfolk cap and the jacket aren't half bad on you. Taken in connection with your cleft chin," she went on, throwing her head back and screwing up her eyes critically, "they make you a very presentable youth indeed."

"We won't talk about that," was the terse reply. "This walk to Point Bonita has an object."

She opened her eyes wide.

"Certainly," she assented politely. "Point Bonita, for instance. If it has any other object," she went on sternly, "if you're going back to that old subject, I won't go a step farther."

By this time they were moving in the midst of a cloud.

It was his turn to be innocent.

"You mean—oh," with a fine imitation of impatience, "doesn't a girl ever forget it if a fellow has once happened to fancy himself in love with her and said so?"

The pink of the girl's cheeks—it had the soft, furred look that is responsible for the slang adjective "peachy"—deepened suddenly, unaccountably. Out of the tail of his eye the youth observed this interesting fact with cruel glee, reflecting with a pang that he should have chosen diplomacy as a vocation instead of engineering.

"You should forgive and forget the sins of my youth," he resumed. "You know you insisted that you would always be the best of friends, and that's what I need now!"

"You change quickly enough, I must say!" she remarked with some heat. "It isn't six months since"—

"Since what?" he challenged. But she turned away and did not reply, while the walls of mist lazily closed in nearer and nearer.

"What do you want to tell me?" she questioned at last in an oddly subdued manner. He did not answer immediately, but swung on ahead of her in the narrow path as if he were making a way for her through the mist. So he had got over his love for her. She felt a shuddering sense of desolation. Still, she argued, she could scarcely have supposed he would go on caring, especially since she had explained to him with judicial carefulness that she must marry a man with money on account of her mother and the younger girls.

Strangely enough, though she had pictured herself as married to another, there had always been a somber, interesting figure hovering in the background of that picture, one to whom she meant to be so kind, so gentle, so all sweet, that his regret should become like a beautiful, sad song—to be wept over and enjoyed. And now the brute was asking her to "forgive and forget" that he had ever told her that he loved her!

They had reached the summit of a hill, and he proposed that they sit down upon a convenient bowlder to rest before attempting the next one. Apparently her silence was unnoticed.

"You see, fate's been telling off my buttons lately," he began in a businesslike tone, "and the decree is that it has got to be money!"

"What do you mean?"

"Rich woman, poor woman, beggar woman, squaw," he elucidated, touching the buttons on his jacket, "and the lot falls to rich woman every time. It seems a beastly thing to think of—marrying for money. I would be a cad enough to do it, but the thing is that there's a girl—a mighty fine girl—and I really—I—hang it, I like her! But how am I to tell whether it's the real thing or whether her money has something to do with it? You see, there are reasons why I should have money right away, long before I can hope to gain it by my own efforts. The governor is breaking down, and his affairs are in bad shape, and there are the two kids and mother to provide for."

The girl's heart was sinking as the mercury does in a falling temperature. All the joy of living seemed to be oozing away through her finger tips, leaving her cold and inert. He turned toward her curiously.

"Of course you don't think I'd consider such a thing if I were not forced to it by duty!" he went on fervently. "And I came to you because I thought you'd understand, because circumstances are forcing you into the same thing. They say you're going to marry Bradshaw. You'll be a rich woman and a happy one, I hope; but, whether you are or not, you will have done your duty by the family. That will be your consolation, and that's why I come to you in my difficulty. What do you think—can I decently ask the girl to marry me? Remember, I like her, but I'm not sure I love her!"

The fog, which had seemed about to crush them softly a few moments before, was now falling back, but they were still in a remote world. With the very sight of habitations cut off from their view it was hard to believe in the reality of purple and fine linen, horses and carriages and gold. Suddenly the scales fell from the girl's eyes, though she realized with a pang that it was too late. She had put the only thing that mattered out of her life as thoughtlessly and carelessly as she would toss a pebble from her path. She had not even realized what she was doing. Down below, where the Bradshaw fortune cast its glamour, everything had looked different. She had thought that with money all things else must fall into place. But here, cut off from the world, the Bradshaw wealth seemed less than nothing and love the only thing.

Farther and farther the fog receded, showing thin in spots, but still concealing the valley beneath them. But she was very sure now. Even when the world assumed its old proportions it would be the same. She had had her lesson. The peachblow tint was gone from her cheeks, and her eyes were grave and ungirlish as she spoke.

"I'm not going to marry Grant Bradshaw," she said steadily, "nor any other man whom I don't love. So you see I can't help you after all! I don't think I could ever really have meant to do such a thing"—

Her voice broke, and the eyes that had been looking into his with a pleading stronger than any words suddenly filled with tears.

"I'm such a silly," she explained rather unevenly, "but I hate to be accused of such a thing. And I think you ought to be ashamed, Jack! You're a man and you can make money for yourself and"—

But he seemed to be paying no attention to her words. With deep absorption he was naming the buttons of her coat as if he were consulting an oracle.

"Rich man, poor man, beggar man, chief," he chanted. "Doctor, lawyer, merchant, thief. Rich man, poor man!" he stopped, looking anxiously for another button, but there was none there.

"You see!" she gibed triumphantly. "Perhaps you've made a mistake in your own case too." And, with a demure face, she counted the buttons. "Poor woman!" she announced, and then something in his glance brought the bloom back to her face and her head went down upon his shoulder.

The thin places in the fog gave way, leaving two jagged spaces that framed a beautiful picture. Down below the sun was shining on the blue waters of the bay, on the trees and hedges, among which nestled the houses of the town. The girl caught her breath. She felt as if it were a benediction, a revelation of the peace of the years to come.

"But what about our families?" she asked in a troubled voice when the mist had blotted out the pictures once more. He laughed joyously.

"See that?" he said, holding out a brawny right arm.

Fact and Fiction.

When the celebrated John Timbs of anecdote fame was subeditor of a London newspaper he one day commissioned one of the staff to accompany the hop pickers in Kent and to write for the journal an absolutely veracious account of his experiences.

The faithful scribe to whom the task was intrusted performed his job with scrupulous care, and, attired as a hop picker, he spent a whole week among his temporary comrades.

In due course he returned to the editorial office and produced his copy. Timbs read a portion of it and then burst into a great rage.

"This won't do at all, Mr. Smith," he exclaimed furiously. "Surely you must know this is far too coarse for insertion in our paper."

"I was afraid that might be the case," calmly replied the reporter. "Do you think this is better?" Saying this, he handed Timbs another manuscript.

Timbs perused it and was delighted.

"The very thing; charming!" he exclaimed.

"Ah, I thought you would like that!" said Smith. "That is what I wrote before I set out."—London Standard.

"Burning the Water."

Some readers will remember the spirited account given by Scott in "Guy Mannering" of the form of salmon fishing that used to be known as "burning the water." It was a favorite amusement in England, Scotland and Wales. The practice is no longer legal and can be indulged in only at the risk of penalties, with the disgrace which attaches to things denounced as unsportsmanlike. Torches were used, and the salmon were speared by the thrust of a weapon having barbed prongs, called a leister. Scott again may be quoted for his description of the spearing of salmon from horseback in the Solway. The Tweed, which was the river of his lifelong affections, was one of the worst sufferers from "burning the water" in the days when it was permitted, and it was computed that thousands of salmon were annually taken by this form of capture. The water may be "burned" even now here and there, and in Wales a few years ago there was a short lived revival of the practice.

Milo of Creton.

Of the wonderful athletes of all ages Milo of Creton is perhaps the most known. He once ran a mile with an ox on his shoulders, then with a blow of his fist killed the beast and ate it in one day. The strongest man could not take from Milo a pomegranate which he held between his two fingers. He could break by contracting his veins and muscles a cord tied around his forearm. One day, being in a house with some pupils of Pythagoras, the ceiling threatened to fall in, but Milo supported the column on which it rested, thus giving his friends time to escape. His death is well known. He tried to tear asunder the trunk of a tree, but his hands got pinched in the wood, and, being unable to disengage them, he perished, devoured by wild beasts.

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

Glove Sale

Don't think for a moment that winter has deserted us—and Gloves are still as necessary as they are fashionable.

$1.50 Gloves for -	$1.15
1.25 Gloves for -	1.00
1.00 Gloves for -	.79
.75 Gloves for -	.59
.50 Gloves for -	.39

Chas. J. Symons,
successor to W. B. Deacon.
Shirts Made to Order. 208 Front St.

$1 Bottles for 50 cts

Orange Quinine Wine

Each wine glass contains ORANGE WINE and 2 gr. of the purest QUININE.

A splendid appetizer and tonic.

WATERS

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anlgo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.

For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.

As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.
Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER. Belleville

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

When a man is weighed by others he is usually found wanting to dispute the figures.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
J. B. Carman, Manager.

MONDAY, MARCH 6th

MR. WM. H. O'NEILL PRESENTS:

MR JAMES HERNE
—IN—
Hearts of Oak

By James A. Herne, Author of "Shore Acres," "Sag Harbor" and other Plays, Management of N. J. Lawler. Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c. Plan open Saturday morning.

THE NEW STORE.

Groceries
—AND—
Provisions

FREDERICK'S OLD STAND, FRONT ST.

Groceries All New

PROMPT DELIVERY.

New arrival of Fresh Dairy Butter at 22 cents
Fresh Eggs at 20 cents.

Special attention to telephone calls.

W. R. CARNRITE.
Telephone 312

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance
—AT—
COLLIP'S.

The breath of suspicion is often flavored with cloves.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

VISITED BY THE D. D. G. M.

THE BELLEVILLE LODGE, A. F. & A. M., ENTERTAINED ITS FRIENDS LAST NIGHT.

Col. Halliwell, of Stirling, who is D.D.G.M. of the Masonic Order for Prince Edward District No. 13, last evening officially visited the Belleville lodge of this city. In addition to the members of this lodge and many of the brethren from the other city lodges, there were visitors from lodges in the immediate vicinity. After the business of the lodge had been finished, the banquetting hall was invaded and refreshments partaken of. The usual toast list was proposed and responses made by many of the brethren present. The speeches were interspersed with vocal selections. The pleasing function was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HEARTS OF OAK."

Some people seem to think that the life of a child upon the stage is a hard one. Those who have the opportunity of going behind the scenes and watching the little ones who appear in James A. Herne's domestic plays "Hearts of Oak" and "Shore Acres" tell a far different story. The stage babies not only make a comfortable living for themselves, but they also help deserving little brothers and sisters. The children are treated with the greatest kindness by all who come in contact with them and as they are accompanied by their mothers it is needless to say that they get the very best of attention. And the babies are important people in the Herne companies. They are very particular that they get the right kind of dressing rooms, or there will be trouble with the stage manager. And if the applause does not come in the right place, why the children are quick to realize that there must be some good reason for it. In the many years that have elapsed since "Hearts of Oak" and "Shore Acres" were first produced, the Herne management has spared no expense to get "just the right kind" of stage children. The career of the little ones in the Herne plays does not last long, for as soon as they grow too old to assume the characters assigned them why they must be replaced by others. "Hearts of Oak," presented by a specially selected company and equipped with realistic scenery and effects, is to be produced at the Carman on Monday evening next, March 6.

DEATHS

FALKINER. — At Belleville, on Thursday, March 2nd, 1905, Nathaniel Baldwin Falkiner, in his 67th year.

Funeral private. Please omit flowers.

Sports and Pastimes

HOCKEY.

Ottawa is Dubious—Are not Too Confident of Success Against the Strong Rat Portage Team.

Ottawa, March 1. —The Ottawa Hockey Club must defend the Stanley Cup against the challenging Rat Portage team, on Tuesday and Thursday, March 7 and 9, with a third game, if necessary, on Saturday, the 11th. These are the dates finally fixed after a conference with the trustees, at which the defending club endeavored to have the 9th, 11th, and, if necessary, the 13th, named as the dates. Trustee Ross would not agree to having these series go over into the third week in March, and suggested that the teams might agree to play on the 9th and 11th, the majority of goals to count. This was, however, not suitable to Ottawa, and the club will bow to the inevitable and meet Rat Portage on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

While Rat Portage is reputed to be the strongest team yet sent out of the West in request of the trophy, and practically outclassing the best team that could be selected from the various Winnipeg clubs, all is uncertainty in the camp of the Ottawas. The match with Wanderers, in Montreal, has in all probability robbed the club of the services for the coming series, at least, of Frank McGee, one of the mainstays of the team. McGee's injured wrist is still in bad shape, and unless it recovers with unexpected rapidity, it is unlikely that he will be able to help defend the trophy, which he so nobly assisted in winning.

McGee's absence will be a heavy blow to the efficiency of the seven. Then, to make matters worse, from present indications, it does not appear at all likely that Billy Gilmour can be counted upon. He does not seem desirous of getting out for the series of hard games ahead, and even if he were prevailed upon to get into the game at the last moment he would very probably be out of condition, not having done any work since the game against Wanderers in Montreal on February 11. Even the best of men cannot do themselves justice after being a month away from the game. To fill these vacancies Shore, who has already been tried out and made good in pretty fast company, and Gaul, of the Emmets, of the City League, are the men most available. Both are game to the core and clever stick handlers, but they lack the experience necessary against such a team of veterans as Tom Phillips' bunch and cannot be expected to fill the positions with the effectiveness of the regular men. It is doubtful if, since coming into possession of the trophy, the club has been in greater need of a tried seven than on this occasion, and at the present time prospects for such are not of the brightest order. But the old reliables have a faculty of pulling together at the last moment and handing out a happy surprise to their friends and it is expected they will do so in the present emergency. But judging from reports of some of those who have seen the Rats go this season the moorings of the old bone of contention will have to withstand the most serious wrench they have experienced in the past two years.

Loney Charged With Homicide.

Alexandria, March 3. —(Special).—After being out for more than an hour the jury this morning returned a verdict in the Laurin case, that Alcide Laurin came to his death by a blow on the head from a hockey stick in the hands of A. Loney during the hockey match at Maxville, and that the blow was a heavy one and was not given in self-defence.

SPORTING NOTES.

St. Andrew's College beat Stratford 7-2 on the Mutual St. rink last night, but lost the round by two goals, and the Classic City lads are now Junior O.H.A. champions. It would appear, judging by last night's game, that they were lucky to win.

The Berlin Dutchmen and Peterboro will fight it out for the intermediate O.H.A. championship in Peterboro tonight, and Chris Graham's bunch have about as much chance of gathering in the honors as John L. Sullivan has of becoming lightweight champion pugilist. Hockey in Strattonville is not what it used to be.

The fact that baseball talk is bobbing up in the papers reminds us that the gentle hockey player, with his meat-axe, must soon vacate the centre of the stage. The same meat-axe has made quite a record for itself this season.

Stratford won 13 games and lost 2 during the season, and scored 146 goals, as against 50 for their opponents.

Junior O.H.A. Honor Roll.

1893 Kingston Limestones—Galt	12-1
1894 Peterboro—Toronto Granites	14-0
1895 Peterboro—Toronto Granites	7-6
1896 Toronto Granites—Peterboro	7-3
1397 Wellingtons—Guelph Victorias	10-8
1898 U.C.C.—Stratford Juniors	8-2
1899 St. Georges—U.C.C.	7-2
1900 Stratford—Peterboro	12-9
1901 Peterboro—Stratford	12-7
1902 U.C.C.—Stratford	11-10
1903 Marlboros—Beechgroves	11-10
1904 Beechgroves—Listowel	9-5
1905 Stratford—St. Andrew's College	12-10

Utica, N.Y., March 2.—Fifteen hundred persons saw Jim Parr, of Buffalo, defeat Carl Pons, of Montreal, in a wrestling match at the State Armory to-night. Parr won the first fall in 10 minutes 30 seconds, and the third fall in 16 minutes 30 seconds, the style in both falls being catch-as-catch-can. Pons secured the second fall, Graeco-Roman, in 15 minutes Parr is to meet Champion Gotch in Utica on March 10.

Cincinnati, O., March 2. — Frank Gotch, of Humboldt, Iowa, champion catch-as-catch-can wrestler of America, easily defeated Chas. Wittmer, of Cincinnati, in a mixed-style match. Gotch won the first bout, catch-as-catch-can style, in 11 minutes, and the second, at Graeco-Roman, in 17 minutes.

WILL UNITE FORCES TO FIGHT THE GREAT ISSUE.

TERRITORIAL AND MANITOBA ORANGEMEN RESENT LAURIER'S BILL, WHICH THEY DESCRIBE AS "TYRANNICAL LEGISLATION."

Winnipeg, Man., March 2. — The Orange Grand Lodge concluded its session to-night, the feature of the gathering being the adoption of a strong resolution opposing the Laurier educational clause in the Autonomy Bills. The Winnipeg Grand Lodge also exchanged telegrams with the Grand Lodge of the Territories now in session at Regina on the same subject and adopted a resolution commending Mr. Sifton's resignation.

There were two resolutions on the school question. The first was:

"Whereas the Parliament is about to create two new provinces in the West, and it is desirable that their constitutions should be upon such terms as will be best in the interest of said provinces and the Dominion as a whole.

"Whereas, the inclusion of the proposed terms would be an infringement of the rights of the provinces, and be a hampering of education, and, in our opinion, defeat the great purposes of Public school education.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we so hereby strenuously and firmly protest against the education proposals in the bills, and call upon the representatives in Parliament to strongly resist the passage of any such legislation, and would ask the citizens of Canada to immediately take action to prevent the fastening for all time upon the people of the Territories the proposed incubus."

The second resolution was in the form of a report from the Resolution Committee and read:

"Your committee would feel that they were remiss in their duty if they did not refer to the noble stand taken by Hon. Mr. Sifton in resigning rather than have the new provinces saddled with such an iniquitous bill; we are satisfied that no one knows better the feeling of the West than the hon. gentleman, he having passed through a similar stage in Manitoba, which he now represents, and as we are of opinion that many others will follow his noble example, and we feel there is a duty incumbent upon every voter of the West to notify his representative in Parliament that we expect him to take a firm stand against that portion of the Autonomy Bill which refer to Separate schools."

The following telegram was received from the Territorial Grand Lodge: "The delegates, representing 52 lodges in the eastern division of the Territories, assembled at Regina, will use every lawful means in their power to frustrate the attempt of the Dominion to interfere in educational matters by fastening on the new provinces Separate schools, and will actively oppose re-election of any member who supports such unwarranted and tyrannical legislation."

A reply was sent from Winnipeg endorsing the Territorial lodges' stand.

James Argue, M.P.P., was re-elected Grand Master for Manitoba, and Thomas Sharpe, Mayor of Winnipeg, Deputy Grand.

A despatch received here to-night says the Territorial gathering passed similar resolutions to those here, and forwarded the same to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Dr. Sproule, and Premier Haultain.

Alleged to be a Beat.

Sylvanus Burnham, who was arrested on a charge of obtaining $10 and an overcoat from Bigelow Bros, of Trenton, was to-day on trial before Judge Lazier. When arraigned he pleaded not guilty. It is alleged that the accused, through misrepresentation, as to being some other party, obtained the cash and goods. Burnham, it is stated, is wanted in this city by a local hotel-keeper, at whose place he remained for some days and, when leaving, neglected to settle his board bill.

Owing to some of the important Crown witnesses not being able to appear to-day, the case was enlarged until Monday next. Mr. Anderson represents the Crown and the accused is defended by Mr. Carnew.

The Old Boys' Reunion.

A meeting of the General Committee of the proposed Old Boys' Reunion is being held in the city buildings this afternoon, convening at 4.30. The object of the meeting is to strike special committees, fix date and transact other business in reference to the Reunion.

THINK OF US.

We want you to think of us whenever you think of clothes. Our whole energy is concentrated on securing good things for you to wear. This is true of Clothing, Headwear and Furnishings. Our spring styles are now making a strong appeal to your eye, while our reasonable prices make an equally strong appeal to your purse. —QUICK & ROBERTSON.

JUSTICE McMAHON WILL TRY BALLOT-BOX CASES.

ASSIZES WHICH BEGIN ON 14TH WILL BE AMONG MOST IMPORTANT IN HISTORY OF COUNTY.

The spring assizes, which open here on Tuesday, 14th inst., will be presided over by Hon. Justice McMahon, in place of Justice Idington who has been transferred to the Supreme Court. Mr. Hellmuth, K. C., of Toronto, will be the prosecuting attorney. The bogus ballot-box cases will be tried and in addition there is one other criminal charge to be investigated, namely, stabbing and threatening to kill. The accused is Onslaugh Wynn, who at present is confined in the County jail.

A number of civil actions will be entered for trial. This will be one of the most important courts which has ever been held in the County.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Mile by mile Marshal Oyama is steadily forcing the Russians backward. The Japanese successes announced yesterday are small, but they show that the general movement is being successfully carried out. The deadlock is apparently around Lone Tree Hill, where the Russians are resisting all the efforts of the Japanese to dislodge them. This hill, Putiloff Hill, was the scene of a former sanguinary encounter. It was formerly known as Lone Tree Hill, and during the fighting in October last the Russians recaptured it after desperate fighting. Gen. Kuropatkin witnessed the final assault by the Second Siberian Rifles, and renamed the hill in honor of the man who led those troops. It was strongly fortified by the Russians and considered almost impregnable to a frontal attack. The Putiloff and Novgorod Hills, the latter hill just east of Putiloff, have been subjected to a continuous three days' bombardment, followed by an infantry attack, the main Russian lines being forced to retire three miles to their shelter trenches. It is not improbable that the Japanese may attempt to take the hills by storm. In the meantime, however, they are gradually working round them, having advanced their positions on both sides. Once they capture these points the Russian right flank will be rolled back towards the centre, and the railway to Mukden probably taken possession of by Oyama's fighters.

There is considerable significance to the announcement that the Japanese cavalry have occupied Sinmintin. This is a town thirty-five miles west of Mukden, and in the rear of it, and the presence of Japanese troops there shows that they are getting round to the rear of the Russian right flank. While that is the condition on the right flank, the position of General Kuropatkin's army is regarded as critical. The real turning movement which General Kuroki is operating in the mountains forty miles eastward of Mukden seems to be making progress. General Kuropatkin is making desperate efforts to check Kuroki, one of whose columns has succeeded in working around the extreme Russian left, and reinforcements have been despatched in a northeasterly direction. General Rennenkampff is slowly retiring fighting, taking advantage of the broken, hilly country and contesting every inch of ground.

Whether General Kuropatkin expects to retire from the position which he has occupied as winter quarters is not known in St. Petersburg. He has wired there a telegram, "expect great things within two weeks," but, according to reports which are current in St. Petersburg, the withdrawal of stores and supplies northward from Mukden, is already well under way. The Russian War Office, however, insists that whatever may be the result of the remainder of the action, the Japanese have again been too slow and that Kuropatkin has made sure of his line of retreat.—The Globe.

A Surprise Party.

A most delightful time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J A. Conger last evening, when their home was invaded by a large number of young ladies of the city—who were all robed in the costumes of the dames of the long past, which were exquisite in taste and fashion, and one does not feel surprised that our grandfathers were captivated by the beauty, dress, and graces of our maternal ancestors, if the company of last evening was an index of the past. The evening was most delightfully spent in recitations, charades, music,—vocal and instrumental, etc.

Last, but not least, the ladies took entire possession of the home, and the tables were ladened with the choicest culinary productions; brought by the ancient damsels, as was produced in "Ye olden time."

In the wee small hours the evening's festivities were brought to a close, by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and a grand promenade. —Com.

TO CURE FEVER CHILLS

And such complaints as "shivers" and ague we recommend Nerviline very highly. Twenty drops of Nerviline taken in hot water with a little sugar three times daily not only stops the chills, but knocks out the disease completely. Nerviline has a direct action on fever chills and removes the conditions causing them. In stomach and bowel troubles Nerviline never fails. It's pleasant to the taste, quick to relieve and always cures permanently. Get a 25c bottle to-day.

CANADIANS WERE ONLY THE SECOND CHOICE.

JUDGE WINCHESTER SAYS THEY WERE DISCRIMINATED AGAINST BY THE G. T. PACIFIC COMPANY.

Ottawa, March 2.—Judge Winchester's report on the alleged employment of aliens in connection with the surveys of the G.T.P. Railway was issued to-day. Judge Winchester sums up his conclusions as follows:

"As the result of the evidence taken before me during the investigation I am of the opinion that there was no earnest endeavor made to obtain Canadian engineers for the location of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway by those having authority to employ such; that had such an effort been made there would have been no difficulty in obtaining a sufficient number, capable not only of locating, but of constructing the whole work. In the word 'engineers' I include all, from the chief engineer and harbor engineer to the transit men, draughtsmen, levelers, and topographers. There was, however, a very earnest desire to obtain American engineers for the work, and in some cases applications were made to the heads of other railway companies to relieve men for the purpose of having them brought to Canada to be employed on this road. I find also from the evidence that the Canadian engineers are not inferior to the American engineers for the work in question, but, having a superior knowledge of the country, they are better qualified for that work. I also desire to state that the Canadian engineers are not asking for protection for themselves, but merely desire that no discrimination be made against them, as, in my opinion there is no doubt has been the case."

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

The Belleville Philharmonic Society will give their annual concert, Thursday, 23rd instant. Further particulars later.

T. Haslip, butcher, has just received a choice carload of Western cattle. m3-6t

The Belleville Philharmonic Society will give their annual concert, Thursday, 23rd instant. Further particulars later.

Complaint is made to the police that some parties are stealing portions of a fence surrounding some vacant property on Ann street.

A door being found unlocked was about the only item upon the police blotter this morning.

Trenton Courier: Mr. Forbes, of the basket factory, is asking the town for a grant of $1000 to rebuild his factory. The matter will be considered at the regular meeting of the Council Monday evening.

A baker's delivery horse had a narrow escape from a runaway on North Front St. to-day. The wagon, in turning, upset on top of the horses, and only the driver's pluck in hanging on to the lines prevented a bad runaway. About $5 worth of damage was done.

Prince Edward Election.

Osgoode Hall, March 3.

Re Prince Edward County Provincial election.—Judgment (G.A.B.) on appeal by R. A. Norman, one of the candidates at the election, from the decision of the Deputy Judge of the County Court of Prince Edward on a re-count of ballots. Held, that a Deputy Judge has jurisdiction to hold a re-count. The principal ground of the appeal was that the Deputy Judge should not have counted the ballots marked at polling sub-division No. 1, Hallowell, because of non-compliance by the deputy returning officer with the statutory directions contained in secs. 112 and 114 of the election act, as to proceedings at the close of the poll. Held, that the Judge rightly decided that the votes polled had been properly counted and ought not to be rejected. Objection was made by the appellant to the Judge's decision with respect to the validity or invalidity of 18 particular ballot lots. Of these 16 were disposed of on the argument, the Judge's decisions being affirmed. No. 5,140 had a well-formed cross in Norman's division, but in Currie's division there was a distinct indication that a cross had been placed there and afterwards erased. Held, that it should have been counted for Norman. No 6,814 was marked for Norman, but not with a cross. Held, that it was well marked and ought not to have been rejected. Appeal allowed as to ballots 5,140 and 6,814, and in all other respects dismissed. Costs to be paid by appellant. E. E. A. DuVernet and D. C. Ross for appellant. C. H. Widdifield (Picton) for Currie.

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children.

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all druggists.

Our best opportunities are of the home-made varieties.

Daily Intelligencer.

SNAPPY GINGER SNAPS

Plenty of these
Popular Snappy
Snaps for Saturday.
10c a lb.

Chas. S. Clapp

Chaps Vanish

If you have not tried our Winter Cream now is the time to begin. It is a dainty, healing preparation, that cures chapped and roughened skin as few things can. Starts healing at once, because it is all absorbed. Nicely perfumed and not greasy, or sticky.

Sold only at—

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,
Sole Agent for Belleville.
Tel. 38. Front St.

ONE YEAR AGO:

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

G. T. P. Did Discriminate.

Ottawa, March 3.—The Labor Department has published the report of Judge Winchester, the Commissioner appointed to enquire into the alleged employment of aliens in connection with the surveys of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. He found that some had been employed, and that as regards Canadian engineers, he says:

"That discrimination has been made against them, in my opinion, there is no doubt."

Enough to Kill 662 Persons.

San Francisco, March 3.—Acting Chief of Police Spillane yesterday received a cablegram from High Sheriff Henry of Honolulu, saying: "The Stanford bottle of bicarbonate of soda contained 43 drams 662 grains of strychnine. An examination of the organs is now under way. A medical expert to-day said: "Six hundred and sixty-two grains of strychnine easily would kill 662 persons.'"

Gallantry Caused Him Injury.

Toronto, March 3.—As an indirect result of his courtesy to two ladies whom he had assisted to alight from a car, H. G. Javan, 402 Crawford Street, sustained a broken leg. A Carlton and College car, west-bound, stopped at Brunswick Avenue. Javan got off to permit the ladies to step off. He was about to get to the platform again when a third lady attempted to get off. Just then the car started. Javan was jolted from the step and his right leg was fractured. He was taken into Dr. Hooper's surgery.

Whole Hotel for Kaiser.

Milan, March 3.—A despatch from Taormina says that all the visitors at the Hotel Taoma, at Taormina, Sicily, left the hotel yesterday, as it is exclusively reserved for the German Emperor, who will arrive on March 26 with his family and a suite of forty persons. Furniture for the chambers reserved for the Emperor and Empress will be sent directly from Berlin. The Emperor has rented the hotel for 100,000 lire ($20,000).

Crushed to Death.

Stratford, March 3.—Robert Thompson, a man about 70 years of age, met a sudden death here yesterday afternoon. While unloading coal at Johnston's yard near the old Port Dover Station, a shunting engine came along and hit the car he was working on, throwing him to the ground between the cars and the shed. He was dragged some distance before the accident was noticed, and was badly cut up.

Germany Rushing Rearmament.

Berlin, March 3.—The Government, instead of rearming the artillery during a period of seven years, as the army appropriation bill indicated, is proceeding to rearm it as fast as guns can be manufactured. The army establishment requires 3,498 guns, with at least 2,000 reserve pieces. The type is a combination of the Krupps' improved gun with the Ehrhardt's model.

Under an Avalanche Kills Six Children.

Innsbruck, Austria, March 3.—Six children were killed yesterday by an avalanche which overwhelmed the house of a peasant near Ausser Villgraten. The other occupants, who were injured, were extricated alive.

Killed by a Train.

Kingston, March 3.—Last evening William Dobbs of Latimer, while driving homeward, was struck by a G.T.R westbound freight train at the Division Street crossing and killed. His span of horses were killed.

EVER FELT THAT DEATH WOULD BE WELCOME?

Mrs. Margaret Smith often did until Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave her a new hope and cured her heart.

"I was for two years a great sufferer from heart trouble. At times I was confined to bed, at times my pain was so intense that I would have welcomed death with joy. I was attracted to Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart by reading of some wonderful cures wrought by it. One dose gave me relief in 30 minutes. After using four bottles I can truly say I never felt better in my life."—Margaret Smith, Brussels, Ont. 59

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

New Fancy Bedroom Clocks.

These clocks are the newest creations in Nickle, Brass and Wood cases, all filled with first-class movements guaranteed to keep good time.

The prices range from the small nickle clock at 85c—to a handsome mahogany case with antique bronze fittings at $10.00 with and without alarms.

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. OPTICIAN

Specials For This Week
....AT....
McINTOSH'S

—102 pieces Fast Color Prints, regular price 12½ for 10c
—20 pieces Plain and Twill Flannel, good value at 20c, to clear at 12½c
—Odd sizes in Erect Form Ladies' Corsets, was 75c, to clear at pair 35c
Sizes 18, 19, 26, 27, 29, 30.

Lace Curtain Bargains

We have still left over a few good pairs of Lace Curtains and will offer them at greatly reduced prices. Come and see the goods if you are in need of any of the above lines.

McINTOSH BROS.

FORCE ADVANCE GUARD

Japs Occupy Central Height Near Cubenepusa.

Gen. Kuropatkin Admits Repulses When Japs Charged With Bayonets—Russians Abandon Two Entrenchments on the Gauto Pass Position—Demolished by Japanese Artillery—Bombardment of Sandepas.

St. Petersburg, March 3.—A despatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, dated March 1, says:

"In a third attack on the Russian detachment near Cubenepusa, the Japanese charged with the bayonet and succeeded in occupying the central height, forcing the Rusisan advance guard to retire to the neighboring crest.

"The Russians at 9 o'clock at night, Feb. 28, were holding a position near Kondiasa against the Japanese attack.

"The Japanese made a fresh attack on the Gauto Pass position at 3 a.m., March 1. After repulsing several assaults the Russians were forced to abandon two entrenchments, which had been demolished by the Japanese artillery."

Gen. Kuropatkin adds that several Japanese attacks on Nanshanpu on the Shakhe River on the morning of March 1 were repulsed, and says the bombardment of Poutiloff and Novgorod Hills and the Russian position at Sandepas was continued through March 1. The losses were insignificant.

JAP ATTACK CONTINUES.

Forcing Russians Back From Shakhe River Positions.

Tokio, March 3.—A despatch from headquarters yesterday says: "Our force in the Singking (Yenden) direction, after occupying Tsinghochong (Tsinketchen), is now pursuing the enemy northward. We captured large quantites of provisions at Tsinghochong.

"Our force at Henshu is gradually dislodging the enemy from his position thirteen miles northeast of Bentziaputze, and from another position seven miles northwest. The first position is four miles west of the second. Our force has pressed the enemy northward of the Shakhe River, and has occupied Sunmupaetzu, Liaochintun and Sunhupoatz, three miles north of Waito Mountain.

"The enemy has many field and heavy siege guns on either side of the railroad, heretofore unused, and is now shelling us."

JAPS WITHIN SINMINTIN.

Four Hundred Cavalry With One Gun Ransack the Town.

Newchwang, March 3.—(Via Tientsin.)—A detachment of 400 Japanese cavalry with one gun raided Sinmintin, about thirty miles west of Mukden, yesterday afternoon. With the gun trained on the main street, the troopers ransacked the railroad station and other buildings. Three Cossacks were discovered. One of them was killed and the others escaped.

The Chinese report that previous to their entry into Sinmintin the Japanese dispersed a small, body of Russian scouts, capturing fifteen of them. On the completion of their examination of Sinmintin, the Japanese withdrew to Pauchiatun. An engagement is expected, as it is known that Cossacks are not far distant. Ten thousand Japanese troops are reported to be three miles south of Pauchiatun and numbers of Japanese in Chinese clothes are along the Koupantse line.

It is possible that the Japanese may seize Sinmintin, as it has long been deneutralized, owing to Russian traffic there. There are large accumulations of stores at Chencow and Koupantse. Sinmintin is now quiet. The Japanese hold all the roads." It is reported here that Gen. Kuropatkin's left has advanced six miles.

HEAVY PROJECTILES RAIN.

Volley at 200 Yards Beats Back the Japanese.

Mukden, March 3.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Yesterday was marked by attacks along the whole front. The fighting in the centre is becoming serious. After an all-night Japanese bombardment of Poutiloff Hill and Novgorod Hill, involving a literal rain of heavy projectiles, the Japanese infantry yesterday morning advanced against the Russian lines from the hills, and drove back advance posts two miles. The advance was unchecked until the Japanese came within 200 yards of the main line of trenches, when they were beaten off by the fire of machine guns and volleys of rifle fire. When they retired the Japanese left many dead and wounded. Sahepu, Shanlandzi, Chzhantan, Chandiopa and other positions of the Russian centre were also subjected to a heavy bombardment of siege guns. The Russian artillery answered the challenge and a vigorous artillery duel was soon in progress. The Russians have abandoned the Shakhe River bridge. The losses on both sides have been heavy. Russian cavalry was despatched northwestward in the direction of Kalama to interpose a barrier against the attack of the Japanese columns advancing from the Liao River Valley.

Kuropatkin's Position Critical.

St. Petersburg, March 3.—The position of Gen. Kuropatkin's army is critical. The real turning movement which Gen. Kuroki is operating in the mountains, forty miles eastward of Mukden, seem to be making progress, and at the same time Field Marshal Oyama is also rolling back the Russian left, while pounding away at the Russian centre with heavy high-power guns.

To Abandon Mukden.

While the Japanese are evidently making progress, there is nothing yet to indicate that Field Marshal Oyama will succeed in inflicting a decisive blow, even if he forces Kuropatkin to abandon Mukden, which seems likely now. According to the reports current, which are not confirmed by the War Office, the withdrawals of stores and supplies northward from Mukden is already well under way.

A special despatch received last night ends with this significant sentence: "Within two weeks you may expect great events."

Force a Decisive Fight.

London, March 3.—A despatch from Tokio to The Daily Telegraph states that the Japanese are endeavoring to force a decisive battle in Manchuria, but that it is feared General Kuropatkin will retreat, fighting a rear guard action. Reports from the Shakhe River indicate, says the same correspondent, that the Rusisan morale is seriously impaired, and that there are numerous voluntary surrenders.

Stoessel Sees the Czar.

St. Petersburg, March 3. — General Stoessel was yesterday received in audience by Emperor Nicholas, who invited him to luncheon.

MARTIN MUST HANG.

Governor-General Decides That Law Must Take Its Course.

Toronto, March 3.—Alexander Martin must hang a week from Friday for murdering his infant child.

The last hope vanished when his counsel, Mr. A. R. Hassard, received the following telegram from Joseph Pope, Under Secretary of State:

"Governor-General has ordered that law must take its course in the case of Alexander Martin."

Martin Learns His Fate.

The doomed man is in a peaceful state of mind and professes to be ready to meet his Maker. His spiritual adviser, Rev. F. C. Heathcote, has been in daily attendance upon him, and broke the news yesterday morning that the Governor-General had refused to grant clemency.

Mrs. Martin, the condemned man's wife, is wonderfully improved in appearance since her acquittal in the Assizes. She is in good spirits, and carries her infant son in her arms wherever she goes.

Live Stock Starving.

Chatham, March 3.—The question of securing feed for stock is becoming a serious problem with the farmers of Kent County. There are very few farmers in the whole county who have feed for sale, and these can find enough purchasers among their own neighbors. Matters are rapidly assuming a serious aspect. Farmers who are unable to purchase feed are forced to sell their stock, and others have barely sufficient feed to carry them over the remainder of the winter. Baled hay is also being shipped into the city from the east, and is greedily purchased by the farmers. In some instances reports have come in of cattle starving to death.

Bigamist Gets Two Years.

Toronto, March 3.—Magistrate Denison, in the Police Court yesterday morning imposed the heaviest sentence he has passed on a bigamist for years on John Edgar, who was married the second time last week. Crown Attorney said the prisoner represented that he was an unmarried man, which was not true. "This is no child's play," said the Magistrate. "This man has come into her young life and has spoiled it. He will go to the Central for two years, less one day."

Got Indian Horse Thief.

St. Catharines, March 3.—Chief Mains of Niagara Falls and High Constable W. H. Hamilton of Carleton County returned yesterday afternoon after a long chase after a notorious Indian horse thief. The officers brought him back. He is an old Indian named Isaac Lutteridge. He had with him a horse and harness stolen near Napanee last fall and a buggy and harness stolen near Ottawa about the same time.

Broke His Neck.

Berlin, March 3.—An early passerby yesterday morning found the frozen body of Nathan Bartholomew, an unmarried man of 26, within a mile of his home at Strasberg. He was on his way home from Waterloo with a load of coal, and it is supposed he fell off and broke his neck. The accident occurred about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, and the body was not found till 12 hours after.

One Killed, Fifty Hurt.

Alexandria, Va., March 3.—One man was killed and from fifty to sixty people were more or less hurt in a head-on collision between two trains on the Washington, Alexandria & Mount Vernon Railway at Spring Park Station last night.

Apples.

In buying apples always choose according to their weight. Heavy apples are always better, especially when upon being pressed by the thumb they yield with a slight cracking noise.

Snakes.

Of the 165 kinds of snakes found in the United States but twenty are venomous. They are the copperhead and water moccasin, which are closely related; the coral snakes of the southwest, the two species of sistrurus and the fifteen species of rattlesnake. The most dangerous of them, the water moscasin, is not seen north of Tennessee.

An Ancient Custom.

In olden days it was customary to extend the charities of Christmas and New Year to the lower animals.

SMITH'S BUCHU LITHIA PILLS.

SICK KIDNEYS,

The Bladder, Rheumatism and the Blood—all these diseases yield at once and are quickly and fully cured. Price only 25 cents a box.

A CURE at the People's Price.

My Kidney Book and a Sample Package sent Free to any address.

W. F. SMITH CO.
135 St. James St., Montreal

KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

"Since you first advertised your Buchu Lithia Pills I have used them and have found them to have done me more good than anything else I have used before.
Yours truly,
J. H. ROWE, 24 Guild Row, Roxbury, Mass.

P.S.—While writing this a friend of mine is here and he is suffering from the same trouble and I have recommended your pills to him."

To cure Constipation, Sick Headache and Biliousness in one night, use Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. Only 25 cents at dealers.

ALL GENUINE SIGNED W. F. Smith

SUTHERLAND STAYS ON

Sir Wilfrid Denies Story of Minister's Resignation.

Sending Pauper Children to Canada—Mrs. Close's Great Scheme—She Makes Extensive Demands for Land and Free Timber, But the Deputy-Minister Replied in Way Not to Commit the Government.

Ottawa, March 3.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier was given an opportunity in the House yesterday afternoon by W. F. Maclean to test public opinion upon the Separate School clauses of his Northwest autonomy bills.

Mr. Maclean, in moving the adjournment of the House, suggested that the Premier had the resignation of Hon. James Sutherland, a good opportunity thereby being occasioned for Charles Hyman, as prospective Minister, to go back to his constituents and see what Ontario thought of the school issue. Mr. Maclean also credited Sir Wilfrid with "a great change of mind since yesterday."

Sir Wilfrid contented himself with denying the resignation of Mr. Sutherland.

The House then went into Committee of Supply.

Remarkable Statement.

In the course of the discussion of the railway estimates, Mr. Emmerson made the somewhat remarkable statement that two or three corporations were looking with longing eyes on the Intercolonial, and he could understand how it was in the interest of some corporations that Government management should be discredited.

This Closes Great Scheme.

Mr. Wilson of Lennox called attention to the following Canadian Associated Press Cable from London: "Admiral Freemantle presided at a meeting, at which was placed before the Southwark ratepayers Mrs. Close's scheme for the emigration of pauper children to Nova Scotia. It was explained that the Canadian Government, Lord Minto and the Duke of Argyle all favor the scheme, which furthermore would be a great pecuniary saving to the ratepayers."

Mr. Wilson observed that the charitable societies of our cities found their resources already overtaxed in providing for destitute immigrants, and he did not consider the class referred to in the despatch to be desirable persons for Canada. He asked to what extent the Government was committed to the project.

Mrs. Close's Suggestions.

The Prime Minister, by way of reply, sent to Mr. Wilson a copy of Mrs. Close's suggestions to the Department. These were:

(1) A grant of 320 acres of free land in the Northwest Territories for each party of four adults and twenty children, the land to be suitable for mixed farming, with timber, shelter and water, in a section of country within one hour's ride from a railway and in a climate suitable for children.

(2) The Government to provide timber for building suitable houses, farm buildings and sheds for such a party as mentioned above.

(3) A grant of improved and cleared land of eighty acres per party of four adults and twenty children in the district between Montreal and Ottawa, suitable for such children as the poor law guardians might consider unfit by reason of health or tender years for the long journey to the west; also as a training ground from which to prepare children for more advanced farming operations.

(4) The Government to provide such parties with free timber for dwellings and farm stock.

(5) A modification of the settlement regulations to suit the condition of the case.

Canada's Reply.

The reply of the Deputy Minister was that while the Minister was not unfavorably disposed towards the proposals, there were some points in connection with the scheme that could not be entertained. A grant of 640 acres in the Northwest was promised, but no timber could be provided by the Goverment, except the free right to cut it.

As to the proposition of free farms between Ottawa and Montreal, it was pointed out that there are no Dominion lands in the district, and the property desired could only be had by purchase from the present owners.

The House adjourned at 11.

Premier Makes Surrender.

(Toronto World Special.)—There is no doubt now about Sir Wilfrid Laurier having made a surrender of the Separate School feature of the Northwest autonomy bill. But it is still a question whether his capitulation has been complete enough to win back all the recalcitrants. There are those who say that Mr. Fielding, with his solid following of 14 members, demanded such a complete surrender on the Separate School clause that Sir Wilfrid, without an absolute renunciation of his position, could not agree to it. But whatever be the facts of this feature of the situation, the case, as it stands this morning is that the recalcitrant elements are yet to be reckoned with.

The editor of The Globe arrived on the scene during the afternoon, and until a very late hour was in conference with the Ontario Liberals in Room 16. There are stories of such a complete surrender on Sir Wilfrid's part that Mr. Sifton may re-enter the Cabinet as Minister of the Interior, but these not only lack confirmation, but are at complete variance with the position of the ex-Minister as stated by him to personal friends.

Will Stand or Fall.

Montreal, March 3.—"We will stand or fall by the bill," is what Hon. Raymond Prefontaine has to say about the autonomy measure.

Must Build in Five Years.

Ottawa, March 3.—An omnibus bill promoted by the C. P. R., giving an extension of time for five years for the construction of eight branch lines for which the company obtained charters in 1900, met with considerable opposition in the Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph Lines yesterday morning. After considerable discussion the bill was amended to compel the company to commence construction on each branch within two years and complete within five years.

PURE FOOD INSURES GOOD HEALTH
MAGIC BAKING POWDER
INSURES
PURE FOOD.
E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Hang It

It's the better for it.

Our shelves are loaded with the finest selection of Wall Papers, domestic and imported, which would look much better on your walls than on our shelves.

No trouble to show them.
Prices right.
We do the hanging.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c, etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
Phone. 214. Grocers.

Parliamentary Notice

Monday, the Third day of April next, will be the last day for presenting of Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the Tenth day of April next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Monday, the Twenty-fourth day of April next, will be the last day for receiving Reports of Committee on Private Bills.

CHARLES CLARKE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 24th February, 1905.

HOTEL TOURAINE
Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

It Will Pay

To look over our stock of furniture and note the values we offer this month.

Some are taking advantage and buying now.

UPHOLSTERING. — Mr. Sills is a practical upholsterer and gives personal attention to all work.

UNDERTAKING. — Mr. Sills having had 15 years experience in this branch of the business is thoroughly qualified to give personal service as undertaker and Funeral Director.

Store 'Phone 40
Residence, cor. Queen and John Sts.

B. E. SILLS,
Successor to Reed & Sills
Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

Tucker Balm

Just received a big shipment of this old and tried household remedy.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.
PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand.
Market Square.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

BANK OF MONTREAL
ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions).

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario
Incorporated by Act of Parliament.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY
over Lewis' Hardware Store
Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.
Plating done at very low rates

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

You must understand before you are understood.

THE BEST
MUNICIPAL BONDS.
JOHN MACKAY & CO.
Canadian Bank of Commerce Building,
Toronto.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1905. NO. 259

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD
ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens

"Yes, little man, of course your nose is broken; but take this can of Nestlé's Food home to Baby Brother, and you will feel ever so much better."

Nestlé's Food has been the standard infant's diet for forty years. It nourishes the child so that the increase in weight is immediately noted. It contains the right elements of nutrition, so combined that it closely approximates mother's milk. The danger of cow's milk is avoided. It requires the addition of water only (no milk) in preparation, as the basis of Nestlé's Food is the purest cow's milk, properly modified.

A sample of Nestlé's Food, sufficient for eight full meals, will be sent free by addressing

LEEMING MILES & CO.,
Canadian Agents,
MONTREAL.

Child Eats Matches.

Vancouver, B. C., March 4.—The 3-year-old daughter of S. O. Turner of this city got a number of matches and ate their poisonous brimstone ends. Medical assistance was at once called, but was unavailing, and the child died in a short time after great suffering.

Fatal Fall.

Toronto, March 4.—Robert Stein, aged 17, who lives at 57 First Avenue, is dead from the result of falling down the elevator shaft in the Nordheimer Building, 8 Colborne Street. He was employed by the firm as a polisher. No one saw the accident.

ASTHMA

Completely Cured after 35 years of agony.

"For 35 years, I have been a sufferer from Asthma. I have spent thousands of dollars with doctors and remedies. A friend brought me a bottle of Clarke's Kola Compound, and I afterwards bought six bottles of this grand medicine. It has made a new man of me; have gained nearly thirty pounds in weight, and my asthmatic attacks have entirely disappeared. Ten dollars spent on Clarke's Kola Compound did for me whatever two thousand dollars before that failed to do."

H. LECLAIRE, Montreal, P.Q.

Can you doubt the marvelous virtues of Clarke's Kola Compound after such testimony as this? Surely you will at least try to cure yourself. Simply write us, and we will send a free bottle and booklet, with more letters from those who have been permanently cured of Asthma by Clarke's Kola Compound.

The Griffiths & MacPherson Co., Limited,
Toronto, Canada.

House Pays Its Respects.

Commons Adjourns as Tribute to Memory of Late E. F. Clarke.

Mr. Borden and Sir William Mulock Refer in Sympathetic Terms to Mr. Clarke's Demise—Hon Mr. Foster Gets Up Against Governmental Inertia—Taxing Powers re C. P. R.—Mr Maclean's Remedy.

Ottawa, March 4.—There was a comparatively short and somewhat uninteresting session of the House yesterday. An early adjournment was made at the suggestion of the leader of the opposition on account of the death of E. F. Clarke, member for Centre Toronto, the news of which was received during the dinner hour and caused a general feeling of regret and sadness, as the late member was beloved alike by friends and opponents in Parliament.

A number of bills were introduced and read a first time.

The Budget Speech.

Mr. Foster endeavored to ascertain from the Minister of Finance the date on which the budget might be expected. He was unsuccesful, however, as Mr. Fielding would not commit himself further than to say that he would announce the date in a few days.

Mr. Foster was equally unsuccesful in his endeavor to elicit from the Prime Minister the Government's opinion upon the policy of the pamphlet recently issued in support of Separate Schools.

Sir Wilfrid did admit that the pamphlets had been distributed by the Secretary of State, but he was not prepared, he said, to argue with Mr. Foster the question whether they were or were not, what they purported to be, namely a synopsis of speeches delivered upon the subject in the House of Commons.

Those G. T. P. Surveys.

Another subject introduced by Mr. Foster led to a somewhat protracted and at times heated debate. He asked for information in regard to the G. T. P. surveys, as to which Mr. Hays had recently given some information before a private club, particularly in regard to the terms and grades of the new line. Heretofore the answer to this request had been made that this matter fell within the jurisdiction of the Construction Commission, over which, it was contended, Parliament had no control.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that whatever information the G. T. P. Co. had respecting grades and the character of the country through which the surveys ran, the Government were not in possession of it. Later, the Government might have a report for the subject, but at present there was nothing available.

Caused Mock Indignation.

Mr. Boyce of Algoma remarked that although information in respect to the plans for the Port Arthur and Fort William terminals of the G. T. P. had been refused to the House, he had been informed upon reliable authority that the information contained in the plan had been hawked about after having been passed through the back door of the Railways and Canals Department.

At this there was an outburst of what appeared to be mock indignation on the part of several of the Ministers.

Mr. Emmerson declared that when, in August last, the plans for the terminals at Port Arthur and Fort William were brought to him by Mr. Schrieber, the Deputy Minister, he instructed the latter that they should be immediately placed under seal. This he believed had been done, so that if anyone had had access to the plans it was in contravention of those instructions. He suggested that Mr. Bryce should make known the source of his information in order that an investigation might take place.

Want the Information.

In this request the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance also joined with some appearance of warmth. Mr. Boyce, however, contented himself with repeating his statement, for which, he said, he took the entire responsibility. Further than that he did not feel called upon to go.

Mr. Haggart asserted that if upon investigation the Minister of Railways ascertained who the official was who was responsible for the contents of the plans being divulged that official should be dismissed.

"You may depend upon that," replied Mr. Emmerson.

Mr. Maclean took the ground that access to these plans should be had at any time, as it was important that the public should be made aware of all intended locations of railway lines and terminals, in order that any objections to them might be placed before the Government in the public interests.

In this view the Examiner of Railways concurred. The Government, however, took the position that all such plans are tentative and private until such time as they have been examined and approved by the Minister of Railways.

Mr. Emmerson renewed his suggestion to be furnished with the name of Mr. Boyce's informant, remarking that it was not fair to have it insinuated that Mr. Schrieber had given information about these plans.

"Nobody believes that he did," Mr. Foster rejoined. And soon after this the subject was allowed to drop.

Mr. W. F. Maclean, on the motion to go into supply, arose and directed the attention of the Government to the very important judgment delivered recently by the Supreme Court of Canada supporting the contention of the C. P. R. against the claim of the western municipalities that the lands of the C. P. R. were subject to municipal taxation.

Mr. Maclean continued: "The Prime Minister knew of no remedy by which the shackles which had been put upon the people of the west could be removed. I do not agree with the Prime Minister that there is no cure for these evils. For every legal wrong there is a legal remedy."

"What is the remedy?" Sir Wilfrid Laurier enquired.

"There is the remedy already adopted by the Prime Minister in other legislation, that when you are negotiating with the C. P. R. for franchises and other privileges they seek, you can at the same time negotiate with them for the removal of existing abuses," replied Mr. Maclean.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items in Mr. Emmerson's estimates for the Intercolonial Railway.

Adjourns Out of Respect.

By the time the House reassembled at 8 o'clock last night, the sad news of the death of E. F. Clarke, member for Centre Toronto, has been received, and immediately upon the sitting being resumed, R. L. Borden arose and made a brief but touching reference to the decease of the popular member.

Mr. Borden said: "Mr. Speaker, it becomes my very sad and painful duty to announce what is already known, I think, to a great many members of the House, the very sudden and lamented death of our friend, E. F. Clarke, the member for Centre Toronto.

"I understand that an opportunity will be given on Monday to make fitting reference to this very sad event. I rise at the present time to suggest that as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Mr. Clarke, we should adjourn now and not proceed further with the business of the day. I am sure that all of us on both sides of the House feel that we should pay this tribute to the memory of our late confrere."

Sir William Mulock followed. He said: "The House has heard with profound regret the sad information conveyed by the leader of the opposition, of the death of his late colleague, E. F. Clarke. I am sure that the Prime Minister will share with the leader of the opposition, as we all do, in the deepest regret at this unexpected visit of the Angel of Death. It is becoming that we should act on the suggestion of the leader of the opposition. I have no doubt that the sad event will be appropriately spoken of on Monday next, and I beg to move that the House do now adjourn."

The motion carried, and the House adjourned at 8.20 p. m.

DEATH OF E. F. CLARKE, M.P.

Member for Centre Toronto Passes Suddenly From Heart Failure on Friday.

Toronto, March 4.—The City of Toronto lost one of the best-known and most beloved of its residents, and Canada one of its foremost politicians by the sudden death yesterday evening of Mr. Edward F. Clarke, M. P. for Centre Toronto, at the residence, 283 Markham Street. His death, which was due to heart failure, was a cruel blow to the members of his family and a rude shock to an almost numberless circle of friends and acquaintances. Arrangements for the funeral will be made today. It will probably take place on Monday.

Mr. Clarke returned to Toronto from Ottawa on February 9 after having been confined to bed for ten days suffering from congestion of the lungs. He stood the journey very well, and continued to improve until the 20th, when he developed pneumonia. It was a fairly sharp attack and for about five days the patient was very ill, but afterwards his improvement was rapid. His temperature became normal on Tuesday last, and he made such excellent progress that Dr. F. N. G. Starr, his physician for many years, was of opinion that he would be able with safety to go out next week. Yesterday afternoon he was lying in bed and chatting cheerfully with his wife, who sat near him. At about 5.30 he complained of feeling very warm, and Mrs. Clarke noticed that he seemed to have some difficulty in breathing. Dr. Starr was telephoned for, but was absent from his residence, attending other patients in the extreme west end and did not receive the message until after Mr. Clarke's death. Dr. F. A. Clarkson was hurriedly summoned and did all that was possible, but the patient gradually sank, dying at about 6.15. He was conscious to within a few minutes of his death, and he knew that the end was near, his last words being those of affectionate farewell to and an invocation of the Divine blessing upon his wife and family.

Besides his widow, to whom he was married in 1884, six children survive, all of them residing at home, the eldest, Phyllis, being 18 years of age, and the youngest, Evelyn Grace, 4.

Autobiography.

Edward Frederic Clarke was probably Toronto's best-known citizen. His long and official connection with the Orange Order, his career in municipal life of Toronto and his political successes in the Legislature and in Parliament, coupled with business, labor and social connections, brought him for years to the attention of people throughout Canada. He was a native of Bailieboro, County Cavan, Ireland, where he was born on April 24, 1850, and was the third son of Richard Clarke, merchant, of that place. He received his education there and came to Canada in 1864. He was apprenticed to the printing trade and served his time in The Globe office, and in the printers' strike in this city in 1872 he was one of the leaders. In 1877 he became manager and editor of The Orange Sentinel, and his connection with the Orange Order has since then been most prominent. At the time of his death he was Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of Ontario West.

In 1866 he was elected to the Ontario Legislature, and remained there until 1894, when he retired. He was honored by the citizens of Toronto as no other man ever was in his election to the Chief Magistracy for four successive terms, from 1888 to 1891. In 1896 he entered Federal politics and was returned in West Toronto as an Independent Conservative pledged to oppose all efforts of Government to coerce the Province of Manitoba by remedial legislation on the school question. He was re-elected in 1900, and last November undertook the most difficult riding in Toronto, the Centre, where he was returned by a most flattering majority. In 1892 he served as a member of the Royal Commission on the liquor traffic.

Insurgents Capture Towns.

Constantinople, March 4.—The Towns of Aab and Yerim, southward of Sanaa, the capital of the Province of Yemen, Arabia, have fallen into the hands of the insurgents. Ali Riza Pasha, with five battalions of Turkish reinforcements, left Akaba Feb. 28 for Hodeida.

Execution Will Be Private.

Toronto, March 4.—Sheriff Mowat yesterday received official notice from the Secretary of State, Ottawa, that the Minister of Justice had refused to interfere with the sentence of death passed on John Alexander Martin, and that the execution would take place on March 10. The execution will be strictly private; no one will be present except the necessary officials, medical men, clergymen, and one representative from each of the daily papers.

Dairymen Make Request.

Toronto, March 4.—D. Derbyshire, M. P., President of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, headed a deputation yesterday which asked Hon. Mr. Monteith to increase the number of cheese factory inspectors (at present twenty-two), and that the salaries be increased from $700 to $800 a year. More power for the supervisor of the inspectors is also desired. Mr. Monteith said something could probably be done to meet the requests.

Liberal Elected.

London, March 4.—The bye-elections Thursday in the Appleby or North Division of Westmoreland, due to the resignation of Richard Rigg, who seceded from the Liberals on the fiscal question, resulted in the election of Leif Jones, Liberal, by a majority of 220.

WASTING AWAY

It's the small but constant loss of flesh that indicates physical waste—the gradual slipping away of healthy flesh, pound by pound, which no ordinary food seems to restore. Scott's Emulsion will restore it. This Emulsion is the greatest flesh builder obtainable. Scott's Emulsion first stops the wasting—that's one gain. Then when it supplies new flesh and takes one back to normal strength and weight, that's another gain and a big one.

We'll send you a sample, free
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto, Ont.

Cancer—
Its Cause and Cure

If you are afflicted with that dread disease, Cancer, or if you have a friend who is a sufferer from it or tumors, send us six cents for our booklet "Cancer, its Cause and Cure." You will never regret having done so as Cancer can be cured, and this book tells how. No operation or painful plaster, but a pleasant Constitutional Remedy that can be taken in the privacy of one's home and without the knowledge of even your own family. Mention this paper.

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

SPECIAL OFFERINGS
—FOR—
Saturday Night Selling
From 7 Till 9 O'Clock.

SILK COLLARS

10 dz. Ladies' Silk and Fancy Stock Collars this season's styles, all the latest combinations in neat and new designs, regular price 50c. Saturday Night 15c

CEYLON FLANNELS

6 pieces of Ceylon Flannels, regular price 35c. Saturday Night 12 1-2c

FLANNELETTE WRAPPERS

15 Ladies' Flannelette Wrappers, assorted patterns and colors, regular price $1.35 to $1.65. Saturday Night at $1.15

FLANNELETTE GOWNS

2 doz. Ladies' Flannelette Gowns in white, pink and blue, good heavy Flannelette, embroidery trimmed, regular price $1.50 and $1.65. Saturday Night at $1.19

WRAPPERETTES

20 pieces of Wrapperette, regular price 12½c. Saturday Night - - 8c

TENNERIFFE DOYLIES

5 doz. Tenneriffe Doylies, pure linen, hand made, 6 Tenneriffe wheels. Saturday Night - - - 7c

Manufacturer's Whitewear Samples.

0 pieces of Sample Whitewear, no two pieces alike, including—Gowns, Skirts, Drawers, Corset Covers and Chemise, these we will place on sale Saturday Night at ¼ less than regular prices. Don't miss this whitewear opportunity.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

Our Whitewear Sale

Good weather and values have combined to start our Whitewear selling rapidly.

From opening time till closing time our Mantle Department was filled with Ladies anxious to see and purchase the beautiful garments we have gathered together.

The quantity of Whitewear that has left us in one days selling is of convincing evidence that our values are best obtainable.

Our sale continues for two weeks. Make your visit as early as possible—when the assortment is at its best.

CORSET COVERS

—Lonsdale Corset Cover, neatly made with plain back and full front—buttoned—sizes 32 to 40. Sale price 9c
—Lonsdale Cambric Corset Cover—full front—neck trimmed with val lace. Sale price 14c
—Fine Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and armholes, trimmed with cotton, torchon lace and baby ribbon. Sale price 19c
—Extra quality Nainsook Cover—full front—neck and sleeves trimmed with wide Torchon Lace. Sale price 25c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Cover with skirt—front trimmed with two rows wide Torchon Insertion, neck and sleeves trimmed with wide lace, beading and silk baby ribbon. Sale price 35c —Fine Lonsdale Cover, full front—shaped skirt—trimmed with three horizontal [illegible] beading and silk baby ribbon, pearl buttons. Sale price 58c

Beautiful New Embroideries.

In conjunction with our Whitewear Sale we are making a big display of New Embroideries.

The patterns are the most attractive and the values the best that we have ever offered. Ask to see them—To introduce our Embroideries we offer 225 yds of Embroidery and Insertion in Remnants, 4½ yds in each and in different widths and patterns each 20c

DRAWERS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Drawers with deep hem. Sale price 19c
—Lonsdale Finished Umbrella Drawers with 8 inch Lawn frill, trimmed with hemstitched tucks. Sale price 25c
—Fine White Cotton Umbrella Drawers with 7 inch Lawn Frill, trimmed with wide Torchon Lace and Insertion, very dainty. Sale price 35c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with 7 inch flounce of Lawn, embroidery and rows of fagot stitching. Sale price 48c
—Extra Fine Lonsdale Cambric Umbrella Drawers, trimmed with wide flounce of alternate rows of wide Torchon Insertion and Lawn, edged with val lace. Sale price 59c. Others up to $2.00.

SKIRTS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Skirt with 9 inch flounce of Lonsdale Cambric trimmed with narrow tucks. Sale price 45c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with wide tucked Lawn Flounce, edged with 4 inch frill of fine Torchon Lace. Sale price 65c
—Fine Cambric Skirt with 18 inch Lawn, frill trimmed with 3 rows of wide Torchon Insertion, edged with 4 inch Lace Frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with 18 inch flounce of alternate rows of Lawn and Torchon Insertion, 2 inches wide - all edged with wide lace frill—Lawn dust frill. Sale price $1.75

NIGHT GOWNS

—Gown of good quality Cotton, trimmed round sleeves and neck with lawn frills. Sale price 39c
—Fine Lonsdale Gown with yoke of narrow hemstitched tucks, edged with embroidery—neck and sleeves trimmed with embroidery frill. Sale price 68c
—Lonsdale Cambric Gown with deep yoke of narrow tucks and wide embroidery frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Gown with narrow yoke of fagot stitching and lawn—half sleeves trimmed with fagotting, beading and baby ribbon—new and dainty. Sale price $1.25

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

Saturday Night Sale!

AT 7 O'CLOCK SHARP.

WRAPPERETTE

LOT 1.—20 pieces Assorted Light and Dark Patterns, all good colors, all this season's 10 and 12½ cent goods. Your choice Saturday evening while they last

5 Cents Yard.

LOT 2.—27 pieces Fine Cashmere and Ceylon Flannels, in pretty stripes, spots and figures, 32 inches and 1 yard wide, were this season's 12½c and 15c goods. Your choice Saturday Evening

8 Cents Yard.

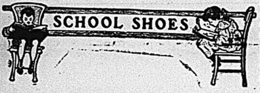
There are a lot of very choice colorings and designs among both the above lots, many of them being bought for the Christmas trade.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION—Just step in—when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9 50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

Literary Notes.

BYGONES.

(March Canadian Magazine.)

"Now tell me, my laddie, just why
Your history lessons you try
To avoid—don't you see
They will help you to be
A very wise man by-and-by?"

"But you told us, sir, not long ago,
We always obey you, and so
I thought I just would
When you said that we should
'Let bygones be bygones,' you know."

Margate Clark Russell.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

Whitney's Good Memory.

Cornwall Standard: The Hon. J. P. Whitney evidently has a good memory. When a youth attending the High School in Cornwall he was accustomed to enter into political discussions with the friends with whom he was living, and on one occasion the lady of the house jokingly remarked: "Oh, you will be Premier some day." "If I do," was the laughing response, "I will buy you a new silk gown." The good lady, who resides in the West End, had the incident pleasantly recalled to her mind a few days ago by receiving a parcel from Toronto containing the material for a handsome silk gown.

THE MILDEST AND SUREST RELIEF.

For constipated bowels and piles is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, which cause no griping pain and act promptly. Well known to all doctors. Use only Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Price 25c.

Cranberries are astringent and correct the liver when it is suffering from inaction caused by over-eating.

Daily Intelligencer.

FOOD ADULTERATION.

On the important subject of food adulteration, the Minister of Inland Revenue, Hon. Mr. Brodeur, comes out strongly, but not one whit too strongly. It must, we think, surprise some people when they read of the frauds which are nowadays practised in the preparation of foodstuffs. Summing up Hon. Mr. Brodeur's attitude towards adulterations of this kind, the Montreal Gazette's Ottawa letter says:

"There are some lines in which adulteration is carried to an extent that merits severe punishment. 'Horrible' was the word used by Mr. Brodeur to describe some ingredients found in the 'spices' of ordinary commerce. There are other articles which are to be condemned mainly because they pretend to be what they are not Among these are jams. There are jam makers and jam makers, of course; and the whole trade should not be condemned for the sins of some of its members. It is likely to suffer, however, from what was said in Parliament on Friday last. When jams are good, their chief ingredient appears to be apple pulp, colored as it may be intended for sale as one fruit or another, with a little of the genuine fruit mixed in the mass. Sugar may or may not be used as the preservative. Glucose is cheaper. When jam is inferior it may consist of carrot or turnip pulp, sweetened with glucose, colored with coal tar dyes, with hayseed sprinkled through it to represent fruit seed, and doctored with salicylic acid to preserve it from corruption. It seems to have been this latter sort of stuff that the soldiers got from Canada in South Africa. It was pointed out that where the material is all wholesome such jam might be sold as a compound. It is a misrepresentation to sell it as fruit jam, which should consist of fruit and sugar; and when it is sold a wrong is done. When the other stuff is put on the market a crime is committed. There were evidences of a strong opinion in the House that effective steps should be taken to check those and all other doubtful and fraudulent practices, which lower the quality of what is sold as foodstuffs.

"This record does not tell much better on the side of honesty than the practices lately revealed in the United States which have excited public disgust and led to an earnest movement for suppression.

The Health Protective Society of New York was recently addressed by R. E. Doolittle, the chief of the New York Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture, and he told them that the country had little protection against adulteration and misbranding, except in the case of foreign products. These, in consequence of recent legislation, are now denied admission to the country if adulterated or of inferior quality, thus placing a premium upon foreign goods. Not all adulteration is prohibited, it is true, but the necessity for calling things just what they are is as effective as actual prohibition.

"Importers say," said Mr. Doolittle, "that to mark their products 'artificially colored' is just the same as to inscribe the word 'poison' upon them."

One resolution which the women present made was to grind their own spices henceforth and forever. It is practically the only way, Mr. Doolittle said, to secure pure coffee and spices, and even then one cannot be absolutely sure that some of the coffee beans are not made out of wheat "middlings."

Mr. Doolittle passed around some specimens of coffee and spices which were made up, according to the analyses pasted on the bottles of almost everything except the substances indicated by the names. Black pepper was composed of ground olive stones, cocoanut shells, wheat middlings and white pepper shells. An anaylsis of ginger brought to light such things as wheat flour, rice bran, mustard hulls, and in one case twenty per cent of plaster. Mustard was colored in one case with tumeris, a harmless vegetable oil, and in another with martius yellow, a poisonous coal-tar dye. It was adulterated with flour and in one case with twenty per cent. of plaster. Coffee was adulterated with chicory and various other things, but here, it appears, the housekeeper is not without protection.

"If you want to test coffee," said Mr. Doolittle, "just put a little of it in water. The coffee will float and the adulterations will sink to the bottom."

Other specimens which the speaker showed were even worse than the spices. A sample of cream of tartar was made up of acid phosphate of lime and seventy per cent. of plaster.

"Just such ingredients as are ordinarily used for fertilizers," commented Mr. Doolittle.

A specimen of currant jelly had been analyzed into starch paste, sweetened with glucose, colored with coal tar, flavored with chemicals and preserved with salicylic acid.

"Jellies and jams are among the most grossly adulterated products on the market, and flavoring extracts, such as vanilla, lemon and orange, are as bad. These vile mixtures have been found to contain as much as ninety per cent. of wood alcohol, an almost deadly poison, which acts upon the eyes and produces blindness.

"The extent to which artificial coloring matter is used in food products is something tremendous," proceeded Mr. Doolittle, "and for this the consumers have themselves to blame to a great extent. They are attracted by brilliancy of color—heaven knows why!—whereas, they ought to regard it as a flag of danger.

"Why can't the use of all artificial coloring be prohibited," asked the president, Mrs. J. Augustine Wilson.

"That is what I should like to see done," returned the speaker. "I don't see why any one wants the color. But as a matter of fact, it would be very difficult to carry out such a measure as long as the consumer demands brightly colored food products. What we need is a better educated public, and that is where organizations like this can do good work."

When you think you have cured a cough or cold, but find a dry, hacking cough remains, there is danger. Take at once. It will strengthen the lungs and stop the cough.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure The Lung Tonic

Prices: 25c 50c $1. S. C. Wells & Co. 305 LeRoy, N.Y., Toronto, Can.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Having already beaten the record, one would think the weather man should be satisfied. But he keeps on sending us more snow.

• • •

The authorities should look after places on Front St. which have roofs from which snow or ice is liable to slide. Yesterday afternoon a lady was passing along, near the corner of Bridge St. when a mass of snow and ice, weighing two or three hundred pounds, fell from a roof and just grazed the lady's shoulder before it struck the sidewalk. It was a narrow escape, but the incident nearly brought on heart failure, and the lady was so much unnerved that she was hardly able to reach her home. The authorities should look after this matter before somebody is killed.

• • •

Many people are talking of the apparently wonderful cures made by a "magnetic healer" who has been in the city during the last few days, and who departed yesterday. It is said that he performed some remarkable cures. One gentleman, who has for many years been afflicted with muscular rheumatism, and has hardly for an hour been free from pain, says that the "healer" relieved him by simply placing his hands on the affected places. The pain went away. The relieved party does not pretend to account for it all. He just knows that his pain is gone. That's enough for him. Other cases are quoted. A little girl, who had a bad case of cross-eyes, was relieved and now has as straight eyes as anybody. A party who was afflicted with varicose veins so badly that walking was almost impossible, was, it is alleged, entirely cured. And there are dozens of other cases, quite as remarkable as the above, which, somehow call to mind the words of Shakespeare, "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in our philosophy."

• • •

The Bancroft Times, with most unfeeling hilarity, this chuckles over the demise of Editor Bremner's paper, the Bancroft Reporter. It is evident that there was little love lost between the two little Bancroft papers:

"The death occurred in Bancroft on Friday last of the North Hastings Reporter, aged two years and one month. The Reporter never was a very healthy youngster, and did not develop in a manner calculated to inspire hope and confidence in the breasts of its parents. Its diet, which consisted principally of political editorials of a rather doubtful quality, may possibly have had a bad effect on its digestive organs. While toddling around last summer it fell over a ballot box and sustained injuries which no doubt hastened the end. The remains were taken to Delta, Leeds county, on Wednesday for interment. Funeral private. No flowers."

• • •

An interesting story sent out from a Pennsylvania town tells of a parasol handle which took root when used as a support for a rose-bush and now bears blossoms and little berries. Why not parasols?

The Oslerian theory is being improved upon. Iowa school authorities are quoted to the effect that women over 30 years old are cranky Now watch all the sour-tempered women become gracious in hopes of being classed on the sunny side of 30!

• • •

A few years ago a Pittsburg millionaire sent his son abroad to prevent him from marrying an actress. Now the father has gone and married an actress. Perhaps it was the same actress. That would account for it all.

• • •

France has politely informed King Leopold that it doesn't care a rap whether or not the Princess Clementine marries Prince Victor Napoleon. Such indifference must be more painful to the official Bonaparte pretender than a genuine spanking would be.

• • •

The Sultan of Morroco sent some high-bred Arabian steeds to President Roosevelt, and when received the animals turned out to be skates which would be dear at $60 each. Evidently there is a shortage of glue factories in Morocco.

• • •

A Pennsylvania man wants redress because another man ran away with his wife. One would have thought he was done with the dress part of it.

• • •

Another old rule contradicted. We have been told from our youth up that it is unwise to read in bed. Yet a woman in Massachusetts, who was reading in bed at 2.30 a.m. discovered and shot a burglar who but for her might have stolen all the money and jewels in the house.

• • •

A correspondent sends a story about a Government official in this city, who, so our correspondent alleges, has not cleaned the snow from his walk this winter and boasts that the authorities cannot compel him to do it. The police should be given the name and address of people who make silly remarks of that kind.

• • •

The Old Boys' Reunion surely has a solid foundation, and the officials all trot in the "Ne Plus Ultra" class. There does not appear to be any good reason why the coming Reunion should not be the biggest and grandest affair ever pulled off in Belleville.

• • •

And now it's up to everybody to push the thing along, and with tongue, pen and influence help to make the occasion one to be remembered for many long years.

• • •

The beginning of the end appears to be in sight in Manchuria. With his flanks turned and his centre being slowly but surely crushed there appears to be little glory ahead for Gen. Pat. Hats off to the Japs. They are the greatest little men that ever came down the military pike.

• • •

Every day the poor Czar's troubles increase. Now a Canadian poet heaves two columns of "original" poetry at him in the Marmora Herald. "Uneasy lies the head," etc.

• • •

The letter by Mr. W. F. Reeves, published in these columns a few days ago, has evidently been carefully read in other places, where the assessors find the new Assessment Act a hard nut to crack. The Peterboro Review prints Mr. Reeves' letter in full, and one of Peterboro's assessors pays Mr. Reeves the compliment of asking his opinion on a certain knotty point. Perhaps one genial assessor would like to answer the query in question. We quote:

"Mr. T. B. McGrath presents a problem for the solution of the Belleville official. For instance he says, here is a building assessed at $5,000 which is made up of the new assessment on the land or ground and the value of the building attached thereto. Over this business on the first floor there is, say a dentist's parlor, subject to business assessment. According to the law, this is reached by a certain percentage on the assessed value of the land occupied by that individual. Now, the question is, has the assessor to bring up a portion of the value of the actual ground—not land as defined in the Act—and add it to the assessment of the dentist? Why should the business man on the first floor be compelled to pay the assessment on the full value of the ground, while there are other men in the same building conducting probably a more profitable business than he is? Does the Act's definition of land and its provision with regard thereto mean that the men doing business in the upper storeys of a building are also to pay a certain percentage of the actual ground value? Mr. McGrath is inclined to think that it does, but he would be pleased to receive the opinion of the Belleville man on the subject."

• • •

In the death of straightforward "Ned" Clarke, Canada loses one of the best and brightest men in her public life. There are many politicians in this fair Dominion who could have been better spared than the warm-hearted Irish-Canadian who has so suddenly passed away. As a man who had "risen from the ranks" the members of the Art Preservative and Fourth Estate were especially proud of him. A clean, bright, brainy man, whose word was as good as his bond, it will be some time before Toronto, the dearly-loved city of his adoption, looks on his like again.

• • •

It is stated, and rightly so, by some people, that the gentlemen at the head of the Old Boys' Reunion should lose no time in fixing the date for the affair, as, in large cities in both Canada and the United States, clerks in large establishments have their holidays fixed a long way ahead, the same being like the laws of the Medes and Persians. If the date of the Reunion were fixed at once, and notice given of it, it might be possible for clerks and employees in the above cities to have their holidays fixed for the dates on which the Reunion will take place.

• • •

In reply to the above, we may say that it is, we are told, the intention of the general committee to have the date fixed as soon as possible, and the same will depend greatly on the recommendations of the Belleville old boys in Toronto, Montreal and other places.

• • •

The Russians are retreating to Tie Pass, but they may get tied up before they get there.

Always Remember the Full Name Laxative Bromo Quinine Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days E. W. Grove on every box. 25c

"OH, THE AGONY OF IT!"

Has been many a poor Rheumatic's wail until he does as Mr. Eades did, gives South American Rheumatic Cure a "faithful trial"—it never fails.

Fred E. Eades, 424 Sully Street, Toronto, says: "I think South American Rheumatic Cure is the greatest God-send that sufferers from rheumatism have ever had put within their reach. I suffered so in my wrists and ankles that in two years I was only able to do three months' work. I took hospital treatment for nine months without relief, but a faithful trial of South American Rheumatic Cure permanently cured me." Relief at once. 60

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

Start Dinner Right

Bouillon, or Beef Soup, made with Armour's Extract of Beef, is a healthful beginning of every dinner.

Armour's Extract of Beef excites the gastric juice—this insures an appetite and good digestion. When the meats, vegetables and dessert follow, this excess of gastric juice aids quick and complete digestion, without overtaxing the system.

Armour's Extract of Beef pleases the palate with its rich flavor of roast beef roasting—tones and stimulates the system in the natural, healthful way

An additional relish to soups, sauces, gravies, and creations of the chafing dish.

THAT'S IT.

Armour's Extract of Beef

ARMOUR LIMITED, Sole Packers and Shippers for Canada, TORONTO.

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCAUSLAND BROS.

Bakers and Confectioners.

The Market.

To-day's market was rather slimly attended, and in consequence nearly all produce offered for sale was soon picked up. There was a slight advance in prices, especially in butter and eggs. Whilst the average price of butter was from 23 to 25c, some sold as high as 28c per pound. Eggs sold as high as 24c per dozen. In the grain market there is scarcely anything doing at present and prices remain unchanged. There are no changes to note in the hide market.

Our quotations are as follows:

Fall Wheat—95c.
Spring Wheat—85c to 90c.
Barley—45c to 46c.
Oats—30 to 31c.
Rye—65c to 70c.
Buckwheat—45c.
Timothy—$1.50.
Clover—$6 to $7.
Alsike—$6 to $7.
Dressed Hogs—$7.00 to $7.50.
Eggs, fresh—22 to 24c.
Butter—23 to 25c.
Live Hogs—$5.50 to $6.00.
Dressed beef, fore—3c to 4c.
Dressed Beef, hind—4c to 5c.
Chickens—65c to $1.00 pair.
Butchers' trimmed hides—7 to 7 1-2c
Rough Hides—6 1-2c to 7c.
Mutton—6c to 7c.
Horse Hides—$2 to $2.50.
Veal Hides—8c lb
Deakins—50c.
Pelts—80c to $1.00.
Tallow, rough—1 1-2c to 2c.
Tallow, rendered—3 1-2c.
Wool—15c to 17c.
Potatoes—60 to 70c per bag.
Apples—60 to 75c per bag.
Hay—$8 to $9 per ton.
Sheep Skins—75c.
Geese—$1 to $1.25.
Turkeys—15c to 16c per lb.
Ducks—$1 to $1.50.

BRONCHITIC ASTHMA A HEAVY BURDEN.

Asthma is bad enough, but when bronchial symptoms are added the poor sufferer has almost an intolerable existence. An absolute specific is found in fragrant healing Catarrhozone which cures chronic cases that other remedies won't even relieve. "For years," writes Capt. MacDonald, of Montreal, "I battled with the agonies of bronchitic asthma. Often I couldn't sleep for nights at a time. I spent thousands on doctors and medicines without relief, but one dollar's worth of Catarrhozone cured me." Catarrhozone can't fail; it's guaranteed. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c.

DEATHS

McCAULEY.—In Belleville, on Saturday, March 4, 1905, Rev. Samuel J. McCauley.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon, March 6, at 2 o'clock, from his late residence, corner Dundas and Ann Sts., to Bridge Street Methodist Church, thence to the Belleville cemetery.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fresh northerly winds, fine and cold. Sunday, fine and cold.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m.	21
12 m.	24
2 p.m.	26
3 p.m.	26

BANANAS
PINEAPPLES
BITTER ORANGES
VALENCIA ORANGES
NAVEL ORANGES
MESSINA LEMONS

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee

'Phone 128.

The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

Coffee

Wallbridge & Clarke will demonstrate Coffee on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 6 to 10th inclusive at their Bridge St. Store. Drop in any time and have a cup of Coffee. Everybody invited—No obligation to buy.

Honey

DELICIOUS WHITE HONEY.

In the comb. In sections.

DON'T MISS THIS!

"JAPANESE" WRITING INK.

Solves the Ink Problem.

—SOLD BY—

C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

—TO MAKE ROOM FOR—

SPRING - STOCK

We have reduced the prices on all odd lines of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers Trunks and Valises.

VERMILYEA & SO

STORIES FOR THE LADIES

THE WOMAN WHO IS FAT, FAIR AND FORTY.

"D'ye notice one curious thing in connection with this fellow Hoch with the marrying bug?" asked the Bookkeeper, "and that is that all of his wives are what the society journals call passe? There isn't a spring chicken in the whole bunch."

"Yep, I did," assented the Stenographer.

"All of the women who hot-footed it up to the altar with him at the first pass he made at 'em were old enough to have cut their wisdom teeth and know better," continued the Bookkeeper.

"That's where the many marrier was the wise guy and showed that he knew his business," remarked the Stenographer.

"How's that?" inquired the Bookkeeper.

"Unsophisticated sixteen is nothing to anxious forty," replied the Stenographer. "A young girl may not look a gift proposal in the mouth because she is too ignorant, but an elderly woman doesn't do it because she is afraid."

"No acid tests of a gold brick matrimonial offer for hers, I suppose," commented the Bookkeeper.

"You are to the good on that," said the Stenographer. "The younger the woman, the harder to win. When a girl has one chin she tilts it scornfully at a proposal. When she has two she looks at it appreciatively, and when she gets three chins she jumps at it gratefully."

"It does take a lot more attention to make you solid with a girl in her first season than it does with one in her 'steenth,' admitted the Bookkeeper.

"That's right!" exclaimed the Stenographer. "Talk about easy things! The easiest thing that walks is an old maid or a widow who is out on a still hunt for a husband. Marrying her is like passing counterfeit money on a blind man. Anybody can do it.

"She's so anxious to be made love to that she never thinks of inquiring what there is behind the soft talk a man is handing her, and when he does pop the question she is in such a panic for fear that he will get out of the notion that she doesn't stop to investigate his past record. She nails him on the spot and sends a hurry call for the preacher.

"I'll bet that there are seven million middle-aged women outside of the lunatic asylums in the United States that would marry any man that would come along and ask 'em—and turn over their bank accounts to him too—without even stopping to find out what his name was in the last place that he lived in."

"And that's no joke," agreed the Bookkeeper. "I've seen landladies who wouldn't trust a fellow without a trunk for his board trust him with their hearts and hands the minute he began making googoo eyes at them.

"None are so easily conned as those that desire to be taken in," returned the Stenographer, "and as soon as a woman builds up a tidy little business for herself it's a cinch that she will annex a husband to support. It looks like a single middle-aged woman can't be happy until she does it."

"What makes 'em do it?" inquired the Bookkeeper.

"After a woman gets to be forty," replied the Stenographer, "a proposal affects her like a cocktail does a W. C.T.U. She's not used to it and it goes to her head and makes her woozy. That's one reason.

"Another one is that she gets a case of stage fright about the time coming when she'll be lonely. That's the bugaboo that scares women into marrying any old thing."

"Well," remarked the Bookkeeper, "if ever I want to marry I'll remember your tip."

"It's a dead straight one," retorted the Stenographer; "you can't lose if you propose to a woman over forty who is getting fat. All that surprises me is that Hoch didn't marry a few more."

Tale of a Russian Shell.

(London Chronicle.)

The offending battery at St. Petersburg which fired case shot at the winter palace by accident or design has recalled an anecdote of another Russian battery. It was at the siege of Warsaw, where a Russian marshal ordered the battery to concentrate its fire on a certain point. Nothing came of this, and the marshal rode up to the artillerymen in great wrath. "What imbecile is in command here?" he demanded. "I am," said an officer calmly. "Consider yourself under arrest. Your shells are no good." "What can you expect?" retorted the officer. "They won't explode. See for yourself." He took up a shell, lighted the match, and held it out, to the marahal, who stood with his hands behind him waiting the result. If the shell had burst both men would have been blown to pieces. But the match went out, and the marshal remarked simply: "You are quite right."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

There are no less than fourteen remedies in this standard family medicine. Among them we might mention sarsaparilla root, yellow dock root, stillingia root, buckthorn bark, senna leaves, burdock root, cimicifuga root, cinchona bark, phytolacca root.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is certainly a medicine, a genuine medicine, a doctor's medicine.

Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
AYER'S HAIR VIGOR—For the hair. AYER'S PILLS—For constipation.
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL—For coughs. AYER'S AGUE CURE—For malaria and ague.

Honor Roll For February.

OCTAVIA ST. SCHOOL.

Part I., Senior Class.—Fred Quincey, Lena Mikel, Willie Green, Teddy Harris, Stanley Nurse, Gladson Wake, Ollie Wessels, May Connors, Llewellyn Waite, Lena Stewart.

Junior Class.—Arthur Brough, Jean Cronk, Rheta Berkley, Marguerite Walmsley, Viola Skinner, Sam Hibbard, Harold Woodley, Lorna Hick, Fred Woodley, Ruth McCoy.

F. Gardner, teacher.

Part II., Senior Class. — Evelyn Cronk, Nita Murphy, Arthur Wessels, Frank Shoner, George Hibbard, Walter Soal, Willie Riggs, Lela Murphy, Reggie Weese, Clayton Kindred.

Junior Class.—Ida Pitman, Russell Woodley, Vernon Doolittle, Marion Vandervoort, Sabra Bonisteel, Grace Panter, Hilda Oliphant, Alfred McCoy, Robbie Canning, Johnny McKnight.

S. Morton, teacher.

Second, Jr. II. — Frances Fraser, Effie Stewart, Emma Rowe, Keitha Woodley, Wilfrid Vandervoort, Lilian Taylor, Strethyl Walton, Archie Bales.

Sr. II.—Percy Clindinin, Arthur Bishop, Pearl Page, Milton Vandervoort, Willie Boyd, Clarence Mikel, Lela Weese, Carl Murphy.

A. L. Bailey, teacher.

Third, Seniors. — Arthur Skinner, Florence Brough, Georgina Hodge, Eva Skinner, Basil Doolittle, Ernest Hagerman, Percy Peck, Ellwood Robinson, Harold Prest, Jack Fleming.

Juniors.—Gladys Weese, Albert Harris, Harry Symons, Percy Hamm, Lilie Zebedee, Norma Westover, Willie Campbell, Hugo Managhan.

Addie Harold, teacher.

Jr. IV.—Harry Green, Irvine Diamond, Clarence Anderson, Jim Ford, Sylvia Inholtz, Alva Dunning, Sarah McPherson, Evelyn Cunningham.

Sr. IV.—Annie Boyd, Flossie Sills, Helen Simpkins, Ruth Robinson, Rosswell Prest, Melville Hagerman, Mabel Rathman.

D. Barragar, teacher.

QUEEN VICTORIA SCHOOL.

Senior Fourth.—Muriel Grills, Lottie Pearson, Eva Marshall, Mary Alexander, Laura Bacon, Arthur Spangenberg, Fanny Strong, Annie Reid, Earl Maidens, Russ Way, James Ridley, Bruce Bottoms, May Lynn, Hyman Klein, Lilbe Mallock, Percy Weeks, Walter Alford, James McCuaig.

S. A. Gardner, teacher.

Intermediate Fourth.—Lily Sharpe, Eva Elliott, Orville Lounsberry, Grace Waterston, Edgar Rutherford, Edna Holmes, Harry Alford, Gladys Grills, Ned Farrow, Grace Handley, Margery McCuaig, Harold Buchanan, Mary Drowley.

C. Urquhart, teacher.

Junior Fourth. — Jessie McKenna, Luther Bacon, Minnie Moore, Alvie Moore, Nellie Knight, Nellie Goudy, Gladys Faulkner, Annie Duesberry, Edgar Vermilyea.

M. Northcott, teacher.

Senior Third. — Josephine Tickell, Bessie Handley, Robina Templeton, Jean Sinclair, Arnold Reid, Aileen Buchanan, Jackie Denmark, Marjorie Jones, Elmer Stanesh, Willie Finkle, Janie Payne, Florence Davis, Edith Fenn, Marjorie Warren.

M. Fleming, teacher.

Junior Third. — Evelyn Thompson, Marjory Waters, Irene McBride, Edgar Wallace, Robert Muir, Harry Hunt, Ethel Mott, Bessie Guenther, James Marshall, Vera Morrison, Nina Yeomans, Katie Dulmadge, Helen Blair, Mac Waters, Letha Herrington, Willie Mills, Russell Renshaw.

L. Craig, teacher.

Senior Second Class—Dorothy Johnson, Kathleen Marshman, Emily Armstrong, Byron McCrodan, Myrtle Davison, Alice Guenther, Ethel Collins, Phyllis Bogart.

Junior Second Class.— Julia Burrell, Harold Reid, Rhoda Watkins, Ned Downey, Willie Boyce.

I. Northcott, teacher.

Senior Second. — Charlie Pearce, George Thorpe, Vernon Clarke, Effie Elliott, Cora Leavens, Myrtle Peck, Harry Howell, Owen O'Brien, Cyril McBride, Marguerite Roberts.

Junior Second.—May Wallace, May Bennett, Rose Skinner, Sydney Newton, Grace Maiden, Aileen Cherry, Grace Serviss, Beverley Gribble, Douglas McCall.

R. Vincent, teacher.

Sr. Part II.—Walter Frost, Elsie Schilroth, Willie Steward, Iva Lambert, Clifford Crooks, Tom Sanford, Arthur Brown.

Jr. Part II.—Wilma Gordon, Marjorie Goudy, George Pearce, Irene Boyle, Maggie Collins, Teddy Yeomans.

I. M. Auil, teacher.

Part I., Senior Class. — Mildred Brown, Willie Chamberlain, Edna Barlow, Helen Thompson, Willie Armstrong, Oriss Foster, Elliss Burrell, Helen Sulman, Harold Reid.

Junior.—Russell Harker, Leo Fenn, Marjory Campbell, Theda McCargar, Willard Davis, Florence McCurdy.

Class II.—Pearl Homan, Harper McElrath, Garnet Skinner, Douglas Frederick, Hilda Ackerill, Ross Armstrong.

Class III.—Norman Phillips, Carman Adams, Harry McCullogh.

May McCaughey, teacher.

Senior Part II.—Marjorie Osborne, Lillian Armstrong, Maggie Soule, Isabel Mott, Mary Lewis, Gladys Littlewood, Albert Taylor, Wilfred Muir, Marson Hitchon, Bessie Bell, Harry Taylor.

Junior Part II.—Ernest Shanklin, Ruth Sinclair, Earle Smith, Lena Yeateman, Gladys Mayo, Helen Renshaw, Myrtle Bird.

Senior Part I.—Marguerite Sharpe, Hattie Stapley, Rusy Arnott.

Junior Part I.—Foy Maiden, Violet Mitchell, Harry Allen, Garfield Arnott.

J. Bruce, teacher.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP

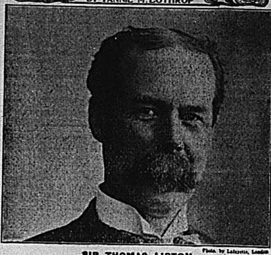

Photo. by Lafayette, London

SIR THOMAS LIPTON
The Merchant Prince of England

The first time that Sir Thomas Lipton came to America was in 1865 as a stowaway in an old-fashioned little tramp steamer, and when the vessel neared port he was busily engaged in shoveling coal into the furnaces. The latest time was in 1903, when a whole nation held him in honor as a valiant and true sportsman, making his third brave but vain attempt to take a silver cup back to England. On this occasion he lived like a prince on his steamer "Erin," surrounded by his fleet of thirty-three boats—steamers, houseboats, barges, tugs, cruisers, steam launches, gigs, jolly boats and dingies—maintained at his expense and manned by over two hundred men.

Sir Thomas was born in Ireland, but spent his early years in Scotland; his education was a hurried, unconventional, picked-up variety, and at fifteen, with rosy dreams, he ran away from home, smuggled himself into a steamer and came to New York. His eight dollars did not last long, and after working in the rice fields of South Carolina, driving a street car in New Orleans, canvassing for a crayon portrait concern, stealing rides on freight cars, and making a day-by-day living as best he could, went back two years later to Glasgow, empty of purse but rich in experience.

The prodigal was received with open arms, and with £100 of his father's savings, he opened a little meat and provision store. He introduced American ideas, worked, as he says, "twenty-five hours a day," and advertised to the limit of his ingenuity. One day, seven of the leanest, gauntest, hungriest men in the kingdom paraded the town in Indian file, bearing on their backs the legend: "We are going to Lipton's." Next day, seven of the fattest men that could be found, walked the streets proclaiming in large letters: "We have been to Lipton's." Meanwhile, the proprietor slept under the counter.

This little shop in High street was the beginning of Lipton's 500 stores throughout England, his fruit farms in Kent, bakeries in Glasgow, the greatest tea plantations in the world in Ceylon, his curing factories in Liverpool, his candy manufactory in London, his fruit trees in Georgia, and his other vast industries, giving employment to ten thousand people, and having made for their owner a fortune of $50,000,000 and an income of $7.50 a minute. He gave £25,000 for the Jubilee Memorial dinner to the poor of London, and his check seemed little to him when his eyes filled with tears at the sight of 310,000 poor people eating as his guests. Not till later did the world learn that it was his gift; for the only thing he never advertises is his charity.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1904, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture.

GRIP'S GREATEST FOE.

A Scientific Method of Mastering The Grip.

MAKE A MEMO.

Make a memo of the fact that there is only one safe and certain way to deal with Mr. Grip.

Soak him.

Do it with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

You say, "What has Catarrh to do with Grip?"

Why, Grip is Catarrh, nothing else.

Catarrh attacks in numberless different forms.

One of its worse forms is Grip.

Grip's greatest for is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because Stuart's Catarrh Tablets can be relied upon to do Grip the greatest damage of any remedy or medicine you can take.

They are much superior to quinine or any of the old unscientific methods of dealing with the disease, because quinine is quackery, and Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are a pure and simple scientific combination of germicidal and tonic ingredients, which have a positive specific effect upon every form of Catarrhal inflammation in the body—including Grip.

Grip is a fearful disease.

Not so much in its own particular symptoms, though these are bad enough, but because of the fact that the after-effects are so lingering and dangerous.

Grip pulls you down, so you feel weak and miserable for months.

The only tonic that will build you up is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Grip weakens the heart, kidneys and lungs. Thousands of deaths from Heart Disease, Bright's Disease, Pneumonia, Consumption, are directly due to the weakening results of the Grip.

The only medicine that will prevent the Grip from developing into these direful diseases is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Better take them.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets succeed in curing, and in preventing the dangerous after-effects of the Grip, for one great and sufficient reason: They are not a general tonic remedy.

They are a scientific specific for just this one form of disease, Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membranes.

They are a curative, not a palliative.

Beware of the deadly grip of the Grip.

Fight it off with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Sold at all druggists at 50 cents a box.

"Meb-be."

(Dr. Drummond, in Canadian Magazine.)

A quiet boy was Joe Bedotte,
An' no sign anyw'ere
Of anything at all he got
Was up to ordinaire,
An' w'en de teacher tell heem go
An' tak' a holiday,
For wake heem up, becas he's slow,
Poor Joe would only say—
"Wal, meb-be."

Don't bodder no wan on de school
Unless dey bodder heem,
But all de scholar t'ink he's fool,
Or walkin' on a dream;
So w'en dey're closin' on de spring,
Of course dey're moche surprise
Dat Joe is takin' ev'ey'ting
Of what you call de prise.

An' den de teacher say, "Jo-seph,
I know you're workin' hard,
Becos w'en I am pass meself
I see you on de yard
A splittin' wood—now you mus' stay
An' study half de night!"
And Joe he spik de sam' old way
So quiet an' pelite—
"Wal, meb-be."

Hees fader an' hees moder die,
An' lef' heem dere alone
With chil'ren small enough to cry
An' farm all rock an' stone.
But Joe is fader, moder too—
An' work bote day an' night
An clear de place, dat's w'at he do,
An' bring dem up all right.

De Cure say, 'Joseph, you know
Le bon Dieu's very good;
He feed de small bird on de snow,
De caribou on de wood;
But you deserve some credit too,
I spik of dis before—"
So Joe he dunno w'at to do
An' only say wance more—
"Wal, meb-be."

An' Joe he leev' for many year,
An' helpin' ev'ry wan
Upon de parish, far an' near,
Till all hees money's gone.
An' den de Cure he come again
Wit' teardrop on hees eye;
He know for sure poor Joe hees frien'
Is well prepare to die.

"Wall, Joe, de work you done will tell
We'en you get up above;
De good God he will treat you well,
An' geev' you all hees love.
De poor an' sick down here below
I'm sure dey'll not forget,—
An' w'at you t'ink he say, poor Joe,
Drawin' his only breat'?
"Wal, meb-be."

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charges as less than twenty-five words

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

A Fire and Water-proof Home Deposit Vault to keep household valuables in, can be had at Perry's; $14 to $35. Call and see them.

Route Kilties Band. — Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, March 6 to 11; South Shields 12, North Shields 13, Blyth 14-15; Sunderland 16-17-18; Seaham Harbor 19, Glasgow, Scotland 20-25.

Twenty per cent. Discount Sale at the Syndicate Store — one-fifth off all purchases, except grey cottons, steamlooms and spool cottons. This is a great opportunity for your spring goods. It lasts for 3 days' of this week, and the first 3 days of next week. Don't neglect this Sale. —The Paterson Syndicate Store, Front St., Belleville. m1,4,6

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church intend giving Monthly Afternoon Teas in the lecture room, commencing on Monday, March 6. Tea served from 4 to 6 o'clock. Admission 10 cents. Home-made bread, cakes and candy for sale. Orders taken for all kinds of plain and fancy work. 2-4

An entertainment of special interest will be given in the Albert College Chapel on the evening of Friday, March 10th. Programme will consist of readings, dialogues, statue posing, physical culture exercises, vocal and instrumental music. Admission 15 cents. Proceeds in aid of athletics. 4,7,9

When travelling by land or sea buy your tickets from S. Burrows, C.P.R. and general ticket agent, Belleville.

T. Haslip, butcher, has just received a choice carload of Western cattle. m3-6t

See auction sale advertisement household goods, R. E. Clarke's, Victoria avenue and Charles street, Wednesday, March 8th. Sale commences 9.30 a.m., sharp. 4-2t

Messrs. Geo. Pattison, M.P.P., of Preston; Geo. D. Forbes, of Hespeler, and J. Ansley, of Toronto, were yesterday visitors at the cement works.

Local Reading Advertisements.

Twenty-five words or less 25 cts., over twenty-five words 2 cents per word first insertion. 1 cent per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 10 words.

The Tools of Genius.

Some of the greatest discoveries in physics and chemistry have been made with the simplest forms of apparatus and under the most modest conditions of laboratory equipment. One need only recall the achievements of the famous John Dalton and in later time of Sir Gabriel Stokes to illustrate the point. As regards the latter, a comment of Lord Rayleigh is of interest. Stokes' experimental work, he says, was executed with the most modest appliances. Many of his discoveries were made in a narrow passage behind the pantry of his house, into the window of which he had a shutter fixed with a slit in it and a bracket on which to place crystals and prisms.—London Telegraph.

A False Report.

"I have been told," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "that your daughter has been doing some wonderful things in pyrography."

"Oh, no," replied her hostess, "she ain't been there at all. The last letter we had from her she was in Pittsburg and thought she'd go right through to Washington."

Both Could Do.

Mrs. Truit—My husband is a sort of jack of all trades; he can do almost anything. Mrs. Gayboy—And mine is a sort of jack of clubs; he belongs to fifteen different societies and can do almost anybody!

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

FEW PEOPLE KNOW HOW USEFUL IT IS IN PRESERVING HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefitted by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

In England and Wales about one in four of the population has an account in the Postoffice Savings bank, in Ireland one in ten and in Scotland one in eleven.

Long Time Widows.

According to an ancient inscription in Camberwell church, England, an old lady named Agnes Skuner died in the year 1499 at the patriarchal age of 119, having survived her husband, Richard Skuner, for ninety-two years. Jean Countess of Roxburgh, who died in 1753, aged ninety-six, was a widow for seventy-two years.

Train Stopped by Butterflies.

A train on the Central Argentine railway has been stopped by the crushed bodies of myriads of white butterflies.

Oldest English Comedy.

The oldest known English comedy is "Ralph Roister Doister." It was modeled on the comedies of Terence, and the exact date of its publication is unknown, although it is thought to have been written prior to 1551. Its author, Nicholas Udall, was one of the masters at Eton college.

Human Bones.

In the bones of the aged is a greater proportion of lime than in the bones of the young. This accounts for the fact that elderly persons are more liable to bone fracture than young people.

The Japanese.

Rheumatism seems to be practically unknown in Japan. A French observer attributes this to the sobriety of the people, their vegetarian diet and their great use of water. They not only drink large quantities of pure water, but take two or three baths daily throughout the year.

Planting Posts.

It has been practically demonstrated that posts planted in the earth, upper end down, last much longer than those planted in the position in which the tree grew.

Quite a Family Man.

On a flat stone in Conway church, Wales, is the following inscription: "Here lyeth the body of Nicholas Hookes of Conway, gent., who was the forty-first child of his father, William Hookes, Esq., by Alice, his wife, and father of twenty-seven children, who died the 20th day of March, 1637."

The Blood Month.

Among the ancient Saxons November was known as wind month, or blood month, because they then slaughtered cattle for winter food.

Serpent Worship.

Serpent worship still survives in India, and a snake shrine is said to be as much an attraction in a house on the Malabar coast as a garden in the case of a country home in the United States. Serpents are, however, most unobtrusive, and unless one walks noiselessly and barefooted in the dark, as Hindoos do, snake bite is an improbable contingency.

The New Way to make Bread

Send for the "Royal Household" Recipes—they cost nothing—and may mean better bread—better pastry—better baking generally for the rest of your life—think of what that would mean to your family. If you have never used the new Royal Household Flour, there is a delightful surprise for you in the first batch of bread you bake with it—just send a postal card for the recipes.

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 25th, 1904.
I have been making bread for nearly twenty-five years, and Royal Household Flour is the best I have had for either Bread or Pastry.
(Signed) MRS. ROBT. ADAM.

THE OGILVIE FLOUR MILLS COMPANY, LTD.
MONTREAL.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Miss Alice Yerex is visiting friends in Picton.

Miss Kincaid, of Hazzard's, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. McMechan, Sinclair St.

Mrs. Bessie Dulloe is confined to her room with a severe attack of la grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kerr have returned to the city from their wedding trip.

Miss Trenna Wilkins, who had an operation performed on her foot yesterday, is doing nicely.

Mrs. Geo. Nicholson, of Wallbridge, and Mrs. John Gray, of Queensboro, are visiting their mother, Mrs. McMechan, Sinclair St.

Mr. Cecil F. Armistead, son of Mr. Mr. F. S. Armistead, who has been in the office of the Dominion Express Co. here, has been promoted to the office of that company in Montreal and leaves to-day.

Goes to Toronto.

After obtaining a successful practice as barrister at Tweed, Mr. Chas. W. Craig has decided to go into partnership with his brother-in-law, Mr. Sidney Moss, in Toronto. The business established by Mr. Moss as the representative of a number of English firms, has so grown that he needed assistance.

Both these gentlemen were former well known residents here, and are brothers-in-law of His Worship Mayor Sulman.

CIRCUS PERFORMERS.

To Them the Circus Is a Very Serious Affair.

To circus people the circus is a very serious thing. When a bareback rider slips to the ground after a somersault or a lofty tumbler misses the shoulder it is his business to land on the audience is all sympathy, as if feeling itself how it is to fall before so many people. Very little the performer cares for all the vast multitude. His mind is on the superintendent, his particular superintendent, who is watching him at the side of the arena, and who, when he goes off, is sure to ask very pointedly how his eye happened to be inaccurate or his muscles infirm. There is no place in the circus for performers who fall.

Even the clowns look a little bit serious behind the scenes. But perhaps that is only because the black lines they paint on their whitened visages are always so glum and solemn. And what a wilderness of fun making people there are in the latter day circus—the Bumpkin, the Loon, the Harlequin, the Grimacer, the Merry Andrew, the Austrian Looby, the Zany, the Pierrot, the Punch, the Motley Fool and finally the German Broad Face, whose name is Paddy Burke! One of the clowns was sitting on his trunk in the dressing room licking a stick of black paint and rubbing it on his cheeks so as to make a most funereal expression. The small boy asked him what kind of a clown he was. He said that he was just "Funny Friskey," and he got his visiting card out of his trunk. It read, "H. Friskey, Clown and Comedian," and it had a heavy gold rim, which made it very imposing. In the four corners it said Europe and Asia and Africa and America, which showed that H. Friskey's fame had reached the four corners of the card. Until you saw his merry capers in the ring you never could believe that a man with such a serious face and such an imposing visiting card could be either funny or frisky.

SMITH'S BUCHU LITHIA PILLS.

SICK KIDNEYS, The Bladder, Rheumatism and the Blood—all these diseases yield at once and are quickly and fully cured. Price only 25 cents a box.

A CURE at the PEOPLE'S PRICE.

My Kidney book and a Sample Package sent Free to any address.
W. F. SMITH CO.
125 St. James St., Montreal

"BOON TO MANKIND."

825 Central Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.
"Enclosed please find stamps for two boxes of Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills. I find they are just commencing to take hold of my case. May the Heavenly Father bless you for your boon to mankind."
F. E. MOREY.

"For this dollar enclosed please send me four boxes Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills. I have received quite a little help from two boxes received from you a short while since. Trusting to hear from you at once, I remain,"
JOHN M. SMITH.
Orleans, Mass.

To cure Constipation, Sick Headache and Biliousness in one night, use Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. Only 25 cents at dealers.

ALL GENUINE SIGNED W F Smith

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Rev. R. S. Laidlaw.
Residence No. 239 John Street.
Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., conducted by the Pastor.
11 a.m.—Communion service.
7 p.m.—"The Storm and the Calm of Life."
Sabbath School and Bible Class at 3 p.m.
Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.
Strangers are always welcome.

"Mysteries Solved"
"What He Lacked."
Will be the subjects of the sermons by the Pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. to-morrow in

BRIDGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH.

Singing led by large choir. Vocal solos by Miss Mabel Vermilyea and Miss Elsie Price.
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School for people of all ages.
Strangers in the city, students at colleges and all other visitors welcome at this church. Open every day in the week.

EMMANUEL REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

(Free Church of England.)
Victoria Avenue, between Church and Pinnacle Streets.
Rev. A. M. Hubly, Rector.
Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Classes.
Monday 8 p.m.—Y. P. meeting.
All seats free.
Strangers and visitors in the city welcome.

CHRIST CHURCH.

(Anglican.)
Coleman St.—Across Footbridge.
Rev. Wm. Bertal Heeney, B.A., Rector.
8 a.m. — Holy Communion at St. George's.
11 a.m.—Choral Celebration, Christ Church.
3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Class.
7 p.m.—Choral evensong and sermon by the Rector.
Wednesday—Ash Wednesday services at 8 a.m., 10 a.m.; 5 p.m., St. George's; 8 p.m., Christ Church.
Seats free. All welcome.

VICTORIA AVE. BAPTIST CHURCH,

Cor. Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St
Rev. O. C. Elliott, Pastor.
Prayer service at 10.30 a.m.
Public worship 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.
Sunday School, 3 o'clock.
The Pastor will preach at the morning service and Rev. Geo. A. Lowes, of Kingston, at the evening service.
Young People's Union Monday evening at 8.
Prayer meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m.
Junior Union Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.
All seats free. Strangers always welcome.

BETHEL HALL, Front St.

Over D. V. Sinclair & Co.'s.
Christians gather to the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.
11 a.m.—Lord's supper.
3 p.m.—S. S. and Bible Class.
7 p.m.—Gospel preaching.
Tuesday evening at 8, prayer and Bible study.

JOHN ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Corner of Victoria Avenue and John Street.
REV. A. H. DRUMM, Pastor.
Residence 15 Alexander St.
Services 11 a.m. and 7 p.m
The Pastor will preach at both services to-morrow.
3 p.m.—Sunday School.
Pastor's Class for men, 3.15 p.m.
Y. P. Guild, Monday, 8 p.m.
Prayer meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m.

HOLLOWAY ST. METH. CHURCH.

Rev. R. H. Leitch, Pastor.
10 a.m.—Monthly Fellowship.
11 a.m.—The Pastor. Topic— "The Great Revival."
2.30.—S. S. session of interest. Orchestra led by Prof. Denmark.
7 p.m.—The Pastor. Topic—"Revival Needed and Near."
Congregational singing. Choral selections from large choir.
Monday evening—League service
Every evening cottage prayer and praise services.
Welcome extended to visitors, students and strangers.

THE TABERNACLE METHODIST CHURCH.

Church St.
Rev. George Brown, Pastor.
Morning service at 11 a.m., conducted by Rev. G. A. Lowes, of Kingston.
Sabbath School, 2.30 p.m.
Evening service at 7 p.m., conducted by the Pastor. Subject, "The Bible."
Special music.
Epworth League, Monday 8 p.m.
Prayer meeting on Wednesday, evening, 8 p.m.
Students and strangers cordially welcome.

The breath of suspicion is often flavored with cloves.

There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

ASK FOR THE OCTAGON BAR.

Sunlight Soap washes the clothes while without injuring the hands.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO. 6a

Big Bargains

....AT OUR....

AFTER STOCK-TAKING SALE

—OF—

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, And Shoe Polishes.

Now the severe storm is passed and the snow blockade is off, our country customers will have an opportunity to share in the

Bargains

being offered. Don't be short-sighted and miss this money saving chance.

THIS SALE CLOSES SATURDAY, MARCH 4th

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

Struck Ore

In our big Tunnel. Mining Experts say it will grow richer and better. Many large gold veins are just ahead and will be cut in rapid succession. We own the 200 acres.

WITHOUT DEBT.

AT GOLDFIELD

The camp of Quick-Fortunes. We own 100 acres, with rich Gold Strikes all around. Gold Veins Discovered. JOIN NOW and

Help Us Dig

Every Share of Golden Sun Stock gives ownership in the Goldfield 100 acres and Colorado 200—total 300 acres. Dividends declared on both would be

TWO DIVIDENDS FROM ONE INVESTMENT.

$15 Buys 1000 Shares

$45 buys 3,300 shares. $90 buys 6,600 shares.
Full paid, Non-assessable.

BUY BEFORE THE PRICE ADVANCES

500 - PER - CENT.

ORDER AT ONCE

the cheapest and best, with ore in the mines and cash in the treasury. If over-subscribed your money will be returned. Highest Commercial and Bank References.

MAKE ALL REMITTANCES PAYABLE TO

The Golden Sun Mining & Milling Co.

204 KITTREDGE BUILDING: DENVER, COLO.

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

After mature deliberation, I have arrived at the conclusion that Dr. Osler, in his now celebrated speech, succeeded in proving one thing, namely, that a man 56 years old, anxious for notoriety, is neither too young nor too old to make an ass of himself.

• • •

It's a good thing the old boys and girls are not coming home just at present. Those dirty-looking piles of snow on Front St. are an awful eyesore.

• • •

This fine warm weather reminds one that the spring poets, like the ice in the river, are liable to break loose at any time now.

• • •

A dispatch from Chicago says that pink stove-pipe hats for women will be a fad this summer. Great Scott! Think of some of Belleville's pretty girls with them on!

A Cleveland hold-up man robbed four women and got eighteen cents. He should work on a salary hereafter.

• • •

The Chinese boil conspirators against the Government. In this country the Government papers 'roast 'em, a la Sifton.

• • •

An Iowa woman got a divorce because her husband made fun of her pancakes. She should have s-l-apped him with one of them.

• • •

Marshal Oyama has succeeded in getting an army of 40,000 men in the rear of the Russians. The Russians may now refer to their "northern front" with some show of justification.

• • •

A Chicago man who finally committed suicide with a revolver had had first tried to accomplish his end by eating buttons and newspapers. He must have been an ostrich when he was on earth before.

• • •

A boarding-house keeper in Paris has made a rule that only one of her guests at dinner shall speak at a time and that all the others must listen. That house would just suit the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

WHAT SULPHUR DOES.

FOR THE HUMAN BODY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

RUSSIA WILL PAY $325,000.

British Bill on Account of the North Sea Incident.

London, March 4.—The British claims as a result of North Sea incident, as finally submitted to Russia, total $325,000. This amount will be paid in a few days without demur.

Manslaughter.

Toronto, March 4.—Chief Coroner Johnson last night concluded his enquiry into the death of Luigi Riamondi, who died from the result of a revolver bullet. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter against Lenardo Montecarlo, who confessed to having fired the fatal shot.

Everyone Exonerated.

Orangeville, March 4.—The inquest into the cause of death of the late Ike Robinson was concluded shortly after midnight yesterday. The verdict was that death was caused by acute pneumonia, aggravated by wounds and exposure. No person was implicated.

RETREAT TO TIE PASS

Kuropatkin Trying to Get Out of the Japanese Net.

Fighting a Desperate Battle in a Swirling Snowstorm—Engagement is Now General, and Characterized With Awful Butchery—Gen. Oku Loses 2,000 Men—Russian Losses About 7,000—Night Attacks by Japs.

Mukden, March 4.—A ceaseless artillery fire is heard ten miles southward. The roar of the guns is becoming more distinct every hour. The Russian losses during the last five days have been heavy.

The wounded are streaming through Mukden northward, the hospital train service being infinitely better than at the time of the battle of the Shakhe River.

Great confusion prevails in the city, every means of transportation out of Mukden being used.

A Frightful Butchery.

Night attacks are again the feature of the Japanese tactics. During Thursday night almost a corps of infantry was hurled against General Bilderling's right flank, and for hours the men fought in the darkness, the Japanese using hand grenades with terrible effect. The butchery on both sides was frightful.

General Rennenkampff's troops acquitted themselves brilliantly, contesting the passes southeast for three days. They fought continuously, the Japanese pressing them on all sides with heavy odds in favor of the Japanese. On Thursday night the corps lost about 1,800 men, of which number fourteen were officers. Over 1,000 wounded men have already arrived here.

Holds Back Kuroki.

The brunt of the fighting fell on Gen. Daniloff's division, and Gen. Lubavin's division, which held the heights of Tomous Mountain. They were attacked Thursday night, and the position twice changed hands, but morning found it still in possession of the Rusisans. Thus far Gen. Rennenkampff has successfully barred the way of General Kuroki's columns.

Kuropatkin is Withdrawing.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—According to the latest information from the front the battle is now general and of the most desperate character. The losses have been exceedingly heavy on both sides during the preliminary fighting.

Although it is not officially admitted, it is regarded as certain that Gen. Kuropatkin is directing all his efforts to the withdrawal of his army to Tie Pass. It is now practically a rear-guard action, but the task of extricating himself is proving very difficult. The Japanese have not only driven in his left, but a column is already reported to have crossed the Hun River east of Fushun.

Losses Seven Thousand.

No official figures regarding losses are obtainable, but, according to unofficial reports, the Russian losses up to last night were nearly seven thousand men.

Gen. Rennenkampff particularly distinguished himself during the fighting in the mountain passes southeast of Mukden.

Japs Eleven Miles From Mukden.

Sakhoton, Manchuria, March 4.—Stubborn fighting was in progress all day long yesterday. Four Japanese divisions are about eleven miles west of Mukden. The Japanese yesterday made two infantry attacks on Poutiloff Hill, but were repulsed. They have resumed the bombardment of the hill. The Japanese attacked the Russian extreme left wing at two points as well as at Gauto Pass, where during the morning the fortifications previously abandoned were recaptured by the Russians.

Japs Lose 2,000.

General Oku's Headquarters in the Field, March 3, noon, via Fusan.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—A Japanese detachment sent to reconnoitre about 550 yards north of Apati this (Thursday) morning attacked the Russians and carried their trenches after a desperate bayonet charge against superior numbers. The casualties suffered by Gen. Oku's army on Wednesday night and this morning were about 2,000, but the Russian losses were greater.

Favors Japs.

General Kuroki's Headquarters, March 4.—(Via Fusan.)—The battle is progressing favorably for the Japanese, although a snowstorm is swirling over the hill tops. The Japanese casualties in the right army have been very few, compared with the results gained. Those regiments camping in the open ground or making night attacks muffled in heavy clothing are put to the hardest tests that soldiers could endure.

Czar Calls Council.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—Confirmation has been obtained of the report that Emperor Nicholas has summoned a Council to discuss the Grippenberg-Kuropatkin incident and the position at the front in general.

NOT IN SELF DEFENCE.

Verdict of Coroner's Jury on Death of Alcide Laurin.

Alexandria, March 4.—The coroner's jury empanelled to enquire into the death of Alcide Laurin, who was killed in a hockey game at Maxville on Friday evening last, reassembled in the Fire Hall Thursday evening before Dr. McMillan. The Crown was repesented by James Dingwall, K. C., Crown Attorney. A. Loney, the accused, was represented by R. A. Pringle, M.P., while the interests of Mr. Laurin's family were looked after by F. T. Costello. Several witnesses were examined, both for the Crown and defence. The evidence adduced varied considerably as to the delivery of the fatal blow.

After readjournment Thursday evening, the jury reassembled yesterday morning, and after being addressed by the Coroner, brought in the verdict that Laurin came to his death by a blow on the head from a hockey stick in the hands of Loney, and that in their opinion the blow was not delivered in self-defence.

The next hearing of this case will be before a Magistrate at Cornwall, probably on Tuesday next, when Loney, who is now in custody, will be given a preliminary hearing.

AFTER TEN YEARS.

Mr. G. L. Stephenson, of Peterborough, says: "For over ten years I suffered constantly with Piles, first Itching, then Bleeding; pain almost unbearable; life a burden. Tried everything in vain till I used Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid.

"I had taken but a few doses when I began to notice an improvement. I decided to keep on, and now after using three boxes I am glad to say I am completely cured. My general health has also greatly improved. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Hem-Roid to all sufferers with Piles, and I feel convinced that what it has done for me it will surely do for them."

A $1,000 guarantee goes with every box of Hem-Roid. Price $1.00, all druggists, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Recommended and sold by G. S. McKeown.

A foaming glass of

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

in the morning drives away the indigestion, biliousness and constipation of yesterday—brings health, strength and energy for the days to come.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS, 25C AND 60C A BOTTLE

Time changes all things—with the exception of comic opera jokes.

Parents buy Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because they know it is a safe medicine for their children and an effectual expeller of worms.

Probably egg coal is so called because of its close resemblance in price to hen fruit.

Where can I get some of Holloway's Corn Cure? I was entirely cured of my corns by this remedy and I wish some more of it for my friends. So writes Mr. J. W. Brown, Chicago.

Kuropatkin would doubtless rather be recalled at this stage of the game than captured by the Japs later.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

However, no hard feelings will be occasioned if we fail to retain the low temperature prize.

Prevent Disorder.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventative of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

Gen. Stoessel explains that the Japs won because they drill better. The supposition was that they shoot better and more often.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

A man's capacity for work often depends upon whether he is working for himself or others.

A Wide Sphere of Usefulness.—The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market for over thirty-one years, its prosperity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower

GREW THIS HAIR

Nelles Corners, Ont., April 16th, 1904.

Seven Sutherland Sisters, Toronto—

Dear Ladies,—I had dandruff and falling hair and through a friend I was persuaded to try your Hair Grower and Hair and Scalp Cleaner. I have used it since last November and immediately found relief, as the Scalp Cleaner removed all the dandruff and together with your Hair Grower, my hair has grown rapidly and it now measures about four feet in length. I have had my photograph taken for you showing my hair and give you the right to use it, also my letter.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. E. BOND.

For sale at all druggists, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS
SOLE PROPRIETORS
CANADIAN OFFICE, 250 YONGE ST., TORONTO 13
J. H. BAILEY, Foreign Manager.
RECOMMENDED AND SOLD BY
D. M. Waters, Belleville.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To	Fare
To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points. Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

	Daily except Sunday
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. .. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
General Insurance Agent,
Opposite Post Office. Belleville.

USE ONLY THE BEST

GILLETT'S PERFUMED LYE

is the STANDARD article

READY FOR USE IN ANY QUANTITY.

For making soap, softening water, removing old paint, disinfecting sinks, closets, drains and for many other purposes. A can equals 20 pounds SAL SODA.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

E.W.GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.

Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.

Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 2.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.

m8-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL

Dentist, Belleville, Ont.

Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.

Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT J. FRANKLIN WILLS

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for City of Belleville.

Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 67.

E. [illegible] PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.

Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor for Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C. Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security. Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire. Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.

THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.

Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.

Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.

INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.

Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.

Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.

Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuations and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

'Phone 163.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.

Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

Arthur McGie

MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—
—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter, Joiner, Builder

Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave.
(next McCrodan's grocery.)

Estimates furnished.

Work promptly and carefully } executed PRICES MODERATE

—SPECIALIST ON—

Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet
Work and Furniture Repairs.

G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria

Local Reading Advertisements

Twenty-five words or less over twenty-five words 2 cents word first insertion, 1 cent word subsequent consecutive insertions, Headlines count as 12 words

One Trial to Please Us
will ensure your using it ever after to please yourself.

"SALADA"

CEYLON NATURAL GREEN tea is healthful and delicious as well as being absolutely "PURE." It is as far ahead of Japan tea as "SALADA" Black is ahead of all other black teas. Sold only in sealed lead packets. By all grocers.

Given the Highest Award and Gold Medal at St. Louis Exposition, 1904

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00
—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand.

9 PER CENT. DIVIDENDS
Paid for the Past SIX YEARS by the
EMPIRE LOAN CO., (Incorporated 1897) HEAD OFFICE, WINNIPEG.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT THAT IS SAFE.

Since the Empire Loan Co. was incorporated it has made the most of the many opportunities afforded by the wonderful development of Western Canada.

But, while the Company's past experience has been entirely encouraging —as its dividends prove—there is unquestionably an infinitely greater prosperity assured for it in the future :—

Why ? Simply because the unlimited possibilities of the Vast West have, so far, scarcely even been tapped : What Western development we have seen is but a faint shadow of the Gigantic Transformation inevitable in the comparatively near future ; in fact, even now Western Canada is on the eve of one of these great movements which, in an incredibly short time built up great and prosperous cities and peopled the lone prairies of the Western States.

Management : Expert Management is the guarantee demanded by the experienced investor, because it is vitally essential to the stability and success of any financial institution : The Empire Loan Company is directed by prominent men of wide business and financial experience; and the success they have achieved for it is the strongest evidence of their ability, for the Company now stands in the front rank of Western financial concerns.

Investments : The Company's funds are entirely invested in the best of all securities—First Mortgages on Improved Real Estate.

Stock : The Company is essentially a Western one. Its shareholders may be found in almost any city, town or village in Western Canada; and its stock is confidently purchased by those seeking a Perfectly Safe Investment for their savings at a High Rate of Interest.

A limited amount of Permanent Stock is still available at the Par Value of $100 Per Share. Shares may be paid for in full, or in four equal quarterly instalments of $25 per share

Earnings : The Company earns from 8 to 10 per cent. per annum; dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. being paid Half-yearly. Profits in excess of this amount are credited to the shareholders at the Annual Meeting the Actual Dividends Paid During the last Six Years being 9 Per Cent. Per Annum.

For particulars and copy of annual statement address

PARKER & CO., Stock and Share Brokers, 61 VICTORIA STREET, TORONTO

ARE YOU STRUGGLING
with the light problem? Let us furnish you estimates on installing the handiest, cheapest and safest light on the market. Light your residence or shop with ELECTRIC LIGHTS.
A fine lot of new patterns in Shades just arrived.
Call and inspect them.

GREENLEAF & SON.

Tucker Balm

Just received a big shipment of this old and tried household remedy.

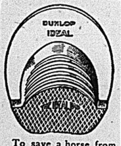
DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.
PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand
Market Square.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario
Incorporated by Act of Parliament.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.
3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.
4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.
Money to Loan upon favorable terms.
OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch

The road to failure is the one that is full of ruts.

BANK OF MONTREAL
ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)
Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch



To save a horse from falling in slippery places, and to keep his hoofs from balling in the loose snow, have your blacksmith put on
DUNLOP IDEAL HORSESHOE PADS
This Mark on Every Genuine Pad
60

Biliousness
is a common complaint, very annoying and often serious if the proper remedy be not administered. The secretive organs must be put in a thorough working condition. If you would like to have a relief act as if from a charm, just use
Beecham's Pills
Sold Everywhere. In boxes 25 cents.

Even the hour of adversity only contains 60 minutes.

The fool never puts off until tomorrow what he shouldn't do at all.

Jim's Mother

By A. M. Davies Ogden

Copyright, 1904, by A. M. Davies Ogden

Miss Turnbull, her arms full of blossoming lilacs, entered the dusty day coach and walked slowly down the aisle. The car was crowded. Passing the seats where men sprawled over the hot looking red plush, she moved forward to halt by the side of an old woman, a gentle faced little creature neatly dressed in a threadbare black barege.

"May I sit here?" asked Miss Turnbull. The old woman, glancing up, moved quickly toward the window.

"Pray do," she urged heartily. As Miss Turnbull settled down, her companion, attracted by the purple flowers, put out a wrinkled hand and stroked the fragrant buds.

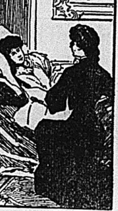
"They remind me of early days when I lived in the country," she volunteered, with a shy smile. "Of course my son Jim gives me a nice house in the city now," with a touch of pride, "but I still love the country."

Miss Turnbull smiled, and insensibly the two drifted into conversation. Yet intelligently as her tongue answered, the girl's mind was absorbed in an undercurrent of its own. She was going home, back to New York; back to him. What good was a vacation? It would be three weeks tomorrow since she had gone away. Had he missed her? Dear Jim! It seemed almost absurd to remember that they had known each other less than a year!

One single dark thread mingled with the happy fabric woven by her thoughts. That was Jim's attitude regarding his mother. She would marry no man whose family did not welcome her, mused the girl, with spirited independence. And Jim knew that. The old woman's somewhat querulous voice brought her back with a start.

"Yes, my boy Jim lives in New York. And he's got engaged down there. I'm going down now to see his girl. 'Pears like as if no one was good enough for Jim. And, besides, this girl"— Then she paused, evidently recollecting that her listener was a stranger.

Miss Turnbull became conscious of a vague suspicion, a strange doubt. Could it be possible? "We must wait until you meet my mother. I am sure things will come right then," Jim had said. Somehow she had always imagined that Jim's mother disapproved of her, and she had resented the fact. She knew nothing of Jim's family save that he came from somewhere up state. And he had written that he was expecting his mother for a visit. The girl's eyes widened. Could it be credible that this woman, ignorant, unlettered, might be Jim's mother? For the moment a quick distaste made her draw back, then a look at the kindly, faded face with the steadfast blue eyes awakened a nobler feeling. After all, what were mere externals worth? Did not beauty of soul count for more than beauty of diction? And Jim loved her! The girl's eyes showed a new sympathy as she turned to her companion.



"OH, MY DEAR, MY DEAR," SHE UTTERED, "FORGIVE ME!"

"Tell me"— she began. But the sentence was never finished. There was a crash, a jar, a sickening suspense, as the car wavered. Another moment and the heavy wood crumpled into cardboard. Flung to one side by the force of the impact, Emily Turnbull struggled to her knees. The car roof above her was split open. She was not badly enough hurt to prevent her crawling through that aperture to safety. All around her rose cries and groans. The girl shuddered. Her lilacs, fallen beside her, filled the air with their crushed sweetness, and a sudden thought made her start. Jim's mother! The old woman lay pinioned under a seat, senseless from a cut on her forehead. Emily hesitated. Could she leave her? Yet what good could she achieve by staying? And it meant death for both! The piteous shrieks for help were increasing. She could hear a crackle of burning wood. The car was on fire. With a tremendous effort Emily attempted to move the heavy seat. Useless. Yet she wrestled with the cruel iron, striving in desperation to lift it even an inch. The noise of the flames came nearer. The heat was becoming intolerable. Making one last despairing effort, the girl sent her voice ringing out in a wild appeal for aid and then, exhausted, sank insensible beside the limp figure that she sought to save.

On opening her eyes Emily Turnbull gazed about her in bewilderment. Was she dead? The room was quite unfamiliar. Bare white walls met her wondering eyes. A woman seated by the bed whereon she lay rose and smiled down on her.

"Do not be frightened," said the woman in a low, reassuring voice. "You are at the Warren House, where they brought you after the accident. A few days' rest will make you quite strong again. Some men found you just at the last moment. They heard your call. We people in the rear cars were not injured," she continued, "and, knowing a little about nursing, I offered my services." She did not think it necessary to add that the attraction of the unconscious girl's face had somewhat prompted her offer. "Now try to sleep." But Emily had turned white.

"Jim's mother—the woman with me!" she gasped.

"Quite safe also. You were found clinging to her dress. You knew her then? She is a relative?" seeing that the girl wished to talk.

"I only met her today," responded Emily. "But she is Jim's mother. Oh, I must telegraph to him!" anxiously. "He will be so worried, for he knew that I was to take that train."

The woman fetched pencil and paper and wrote the message. Then she let her eyes rest thoughtfully upon the girl.

"So you are Emily Turnbull, the actress?" she asked. Miss Turnbull nodded.

"And—and you are sure as to the identity of that woman?" pursued her interlocutor. Her manner conveyed more than her words, and Emily looked troubled.

"Why, she said that her son's name was Jim and that she was going to New York to see his sweetheart, and—and I knew that Jim's mother lived near Albany," she stammered confusedly. "I—I thought so."

"And you risked your life to save her on that chance?" cried the other impetuously, "for the men said that you could have easily escaped." Miss Turnbull lifted her clear, gray eyes.

"I thought that she was Jim's mother," came the simple response. With a smothered exclamation, half laugh, half sob, the woman dropped pad and pencil and sank to her knees by Emily's side.

"Oh, my dear, my dear!" she uttered. "Forgive me. How hateful, how narrow minded, I have been! I am your Jim's mother. I was bound for New York on a similar errand. It was a blow, I confess, when he wrote that he wished to marry an actress. But he was quite right when he said that I had only to see you to understand. Will you marry Jim, dear? I know he loves you." Her flushed, eager face was very close to Emily's, and for answer the girl put up her lips and kissed the delicate cheek.

"Oh," breathed Emily, "what a beautiful world it is! Don't you—don't you think that perhaps we might straighten things out for that other Jim's girl?" she added presently. "I want her to be happy too."

And Jim's mother smiled.

She Spent It.

"Before you go downtown, Cyrus," said his wife, "you must not forget to leave me 50 cents. I've got to buy some things this morning."

"This abominating extravagance of yours, Belinda," replied Mr. Kneer, opening his pocketbook with visible reluctance, "is what keeps us poor. Where, I would like to know," he continued, becoming excited, "is the 50 cents I gave you last week? What have you done with it? Fifty cents in clean, cold cash, madam, gone in less than six days and gone for nothing! What have you got to show for it? Do you think I'm made of money?" demanded Mr. Kneer, taking out a coin and slapping it down on the table. "Do you"—

"Don't say anything more, Cyrus!" exclaimed Mrs. Kneer, with tears in her eyes and putting her hand hurriedly over the money. "I'll not spend any more of it than I am actually obliged to spend, and I thank you ever so much!"

With a mollified grunt Cyrus put his purse back in his pocket, took his hat and went downtown, and in less than half an hour Mrs. Kneer, trembling with eagerness, was on the way to the great dry goods stores.

For Mr. Cyrus Kneer, by the most calamitous and unaccountable blunder of his whole life, had given her a twenty dollar goldpiece instead of 50 cents.

Two Ways of Doing Business.

I have seen in London only one office where there is any real enthusiasm. And the employees seldom have any interest in the business beyond drawing their salaries. In most of the factories, and even in the offices, they are taught a certain round of duties, and they are allowed to do nothing else. They seldom suggest improvements for fear of losing their places, where in America they'd soon lose their places if they didn't make suggestions. Here it's the firm in its private offices and everybody else doing as little as possible and never stepping out of the rut they're put in, and there it's everybody working together, coats off, and the head of the concern glad to listen to the office boy and to do as he says if it means results.

The unspoken word never does harm.
Kossuth.

RUPTURE

Gentlemen :—

Hearing that you would like to know how I get on with the truss I got from you I would say it suits me in every respect, keeping the ruptures in place at all times and in all positions. In my time I have tried many forms of trusses, but none equal yours. I am in my 84th year and been ruptured for over 40 years on the left side and about 10 years on the right side. I would strongly and heartily recommend your means of retaining rupture in preference to any I have ever seen or heard of.

Yours Respectfully,
(Sgd.) Barnard Smith,
Walter Falls, Ont.

AUTHORS & COX.
135 CHURCH ST., TORONTO.
Established 1860.
44 years Practical Experience.

Worth its Weight in Gold
BABY'S OWN SOAP

BABY'S OWN SOAP
keeps the most tender skin, soft, smooth, and free from chaps.
No Other is just as Good.
ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. Montreal.

DESERT SHEEP HERDERS.

Their Lonely, Dreary Life Tends to Drive Them Crazy.

Do you realize what it means to watch 5,000 sheep alone in the desert? You have read weird, grewsome stories of the horror of the solitary lighthouse keeper's life, but compared to the days of the Mexican shepherd those of the average keeper of the light are filled with gayety and noise. Even with their one or two dogs the shepherds often go insane, and were it not for the company of their shaggy collies the lunacy among them would rise to an almost incredible percentage, if we are to believe those who have followed the sheep in the desert and therefore may be supposed to know.

Once in old Santa Fe, N. M., I met a man who for twelve years had followed the sheep. His work was done. All day long he sat in a chair in the rear of a little dobe store, crouched over, gibbering to himself, bleating—an idiot. He still saw his sheep swaying like a great white wave among the sagebrush, and ever in his ears sounded the killing monotone of their bleats. One boy, though fifteen years of age, is mentally no further advanced than the average child of five. His father is a shepherd, his mother died when he was four years old, and his father took him out upon the range. All his life has been spent among the sheep. He is one with them today.

How is it possible, then, you ask, that men are to be found willing to watch them? It is very easy. Sheep herding is a lazy job at best, and the "greaser" is the laziest creature on earth. For $20 a month he is willing to sit in the sand and listen to the never ending bleating until the little mind he has gives way and they fetch him in from the range insane. He is glad to take the chance for $20 a month.

The greaser is not the only shepherd in the west. On the vast ranges of Nevada and Wyoming you may run across an occasional college man tending the sheep. Once, indeed, a college professor, ill of consumption, undertook to follow 5,000 bleaters for the summer. In autumn they found him insane, on his hands and knees among the sheep, bleating with them. Day after day his eyes behold only a brilliant turquoise sky, in which hangs a sun of brass; an ocean sweep of sage flecked sand and a slowly moving, compact mass of sheep. His ears hear no sound save the steady "Baa, baa!" day and night, affecting him as the Chinese criminal of ancient days was affected by the regular tap, tap of a hidden drum.

And yet so long as the desert continues to provide food for the "bleaters" so long will shepherds go mad among the flocks, and for ten years the desert's greatest value to man has been the food it has offered the sheep, nor yet is the store depleted.—Pilgrim.

The Wickedness of Growing Old.

Here are the three deadly symptoms of old age: Selfishness, stagnation, intolerance.

If we find them in ourselves we may know we are growing old, even if we are on the merry side of thirty. But, happily, we have three defenses, which are invulnerable. If we use them we shall die young if we live to be a hundred. They are: Sympathy progress, tolerance.

The first is the hardest to most of us, because our own little prison of the actual is so immensely important to us. There is no denying the fact that when you have a toothache yourself it is hard to have to consider other people's aches. But it can be done, though it generally involves physical effort, for we must bestir ourselves and act. The mere feeling of sympathy expressed by action is a poor, useless thing, but the soul, determined not to grow old, can force the body to such physical effort, though there is no denying that it is hard work.

Toothache.

Toothache is something to be dreaded. Until a dentist can be consulted and the exact cause of the disturbance located and professionally treated it is an excellent thing to moisten the finger and, after dipping it into some bicarbonate of soda, rub it on the gum round the sore tooth. It is also a relief to mix a teaspoonful of this bicarbonate of soda in half a glass of warm water and rinse the mouth with some every little while, holding a little in the mouth for a few seconds so that it penetrates all the crevices. The soda, being an alkali, serves to neutralize the acids in the mouth, which are often the cause of toothache.

Knew the Crowd.

A street preacher in a west of Scotland town called a policeman who was passing and complained about being annoyed by a certain section of the audience and asked him to remove the objectionable ones.

"Weel, ye see," replied the cautious officer, "it would be a hard job for me tae spot them, but I'll tell ye what I'd dae if I were you."

"What would you do?" eagerly inquired the preacher.

"Just gae round wi' the hat!"

His Line.

"Yes," said the lecturer, "I'm dealing in furniture these days."

"How is that?" asked a listener.

"Making one night stands under a lecture bureau, with the help of the time tables."

When to Cut Weeds.

She—When should a young widow discard her weeds? He—Oh, I don't know, but I suppose she should cut them out just as soon as she wants to raise a second crop of orange blossoms.

Decision of character will often give to an inferior mind command over a superior.—Wirt.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

The easier people make money the easier they want to make it.

Among the many mysteries of childhood is why grown people cry when they are glad.

There are some people who think they have discharged their full duty to you by praying for you.

What do you use most during the day? Do you use the little white lie almost as much as your shoes?

When a man makes one mistake he usually follows it up with three or four before he recovers his balance.

Don't be conceited; get any map of the United States, and do you find any mark on it to show that you are on earth?

Every one admits that rich people are not happier than the poor, or as happy, yet every one is striving to become one of the miserable rich.

Biliousness

You can't cure Biliousness with calomel, liver pills, or "purely vegetable" purgatives. They "stir up" the liver, but after their effects are gone, the trouble returns worse than ever.

Fruit-a-tives
or Fruit Liver Tablets

are fruit juices in tablet form. The corrective and curative effects are, however, increased many times by the secret method of making them. They tone up the liver—enable it to give out more bile—and help it to get strong and well. While "Fruit-a-tives" are curing the Biliousness, they set the stomach to rights, prevent Constipation and relieve all Kidney Diseases.

Put up only in 50 cents boxes.
At all druggists.

FRUITATIVES, Limited.
OTTAWA

THE NEW STORE.

Special Bargains !

—25 pieces Wraperette, regular price 12½c, on sale at .... 9c a yd.
—Ladies' Top Skirts, nicely tailored, at $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and up to .... $10.00 ea.
—5 doz. Corsets well worth 75c, on sale at .... 50c pr.
—5 doz. Tape Girdle Corsets, regular price 40c, on sale at ..35c pr.

Table Linens

—50 ends Table Linen, direct from Belfast and the best value that ever left Ireland, lengths 2½ and 3 yds., regular price $1.00, go on sale at .... 69c yd.
—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen 60 inches wide, regular price 45c, on sale at .... 35c yd.
—1 piece Unbleached Table Linen, 72 inches wide, regular price 65c, on sale at .... 45c yd

NEW GOODS ARRIVING DAILY.

Wims & Co

PAY $1.00

a pound for tea—and we doubt if you will be any better satisfied than with the tea we can sell you for—

40c Per Pound

because it's the best all round value—quality, strength and flavor, all you could ask for—and the price is reasonable. Try it—for your next tea.

STROUD'S Tea and China Stores Opp. Anglo-American Front Street, Bellevil

STROUD'S 'PHONE 301.

FOR THE
PROTECTION OF THE PUBLIC
PUNCHED RUBBERS

A hole PUNCHED in a Rubber indicates that it is a Factory Imperfect or Out of Style or in some way inferior and liable to prove unsatisfactory.

In order that these may be distinguished from perfect goods they are PUNCHED as indicated in illustration shown herewith.

Purchasers of Rubber Footwear should see that goods represented to them as perfect, and up-to-date, are Not Punched.

PUNCHED RUBBERS

Free for a Post Card

It costs just one cent for you to get relief from Kidney and Bladder Troubles. A simple request on a post card brings a free sample box of Gin Pills. We don't ask you to buy. Simply try Gin Pills at our expense, and let them prove themselves all that we claim for them. And we know the samples will do you so much good that you will voluntarily buy Gin Pills until a complete cure is effected. We intend to give away

100,000 Boxes Free of Charge in order to show our confidence in this remedy. We know what Gin Pills will do. We have implicit confidence in their power to relieve and cure all Kidney and Bladder Troubles. We know that you have only to try them to believe in them.

Gin Pills Never Fail to Cure.

All over Canada, Gin Pills are known as a certain and speedy cure for Inflammation of the Kidneys; Gout and Rheumatism, caused by uric acid in the blood; Catarrh of the Bladder; Painful and Suppressed Urination; "Burning" Urine; Gravel or Stone in the Bladder; Bed Wetting; Pains in the Back, and all other Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

Each Gin Pill contains all the medicinal properties of one and a half ounces of best Holland gin, without the alcohol, and combined with other curative agents of recognized value.

Don't Delay—Write To-day.

Don't put this off. If you have any of these troubles, don't run the risk of Bright's Disease or Chronic Cystitis. Write for a free sample of Gin Pills, and start yourself along the road to a certain cure.

Use a post card, ask for a free sample of Gin Pills, say in what paper you saw this advertisement, and sign your name and address. Write to-day—now—to BOLE DRUG CO., Dept. B., Winnipeg, Man.

Going Hunting?

Don't forget to take a goodly supply of Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas.

They're breakfast, dinner and supper in themselves. A delicious addition to every meal. Always ready for the table—crisp, inviting, toothsome. Just a little better than any other crackers you ever tasted.

Specially packed for hunting or camping parties in moisture-proof, dust-proof 3 lb. tins. Easy to carry—take up little space—handier in every way than paper bags or pasteboard boxes.

Your grocer has MOONEY'S PERFECTION CREAM SODAS also in 3 pound and 1 pound cartons. Remember to order "Mooney's."

MOONEY BISCUIT & CANDY CO., Limited, STRATFORD, CANADA

THANKS TO THE COB

By Richard B. Shelton

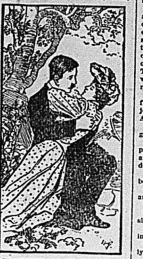
Copyright, 1904, by Richard B. Shelton

They faced each other in a corner of the vine covered veranda, Frost red in the face and thoroughly angry, Miss Sterling with set lips and flashing eyes. Beyond the stretch of well kept lawn the lake shimmered in the July sunshine and the leaves of the poplars drooped dejectedly in the heat, but in that particular corner of the veranda where the two irate young people glared at each other the atmosphere was that of bleak December.

"When I see you again," said Frost curtly over his shoulder as he strode toward the steps, "it will be when you send for me."

"And when I want you," the girl returned in a shaking voice, "I'll come for you; I'll beg you to return; I'll grovel at your feet."

Frost bowed low, so low that the ironic deference made the girl bite her lips. Then he put his hat very firmly on his head and marched down the path between the rows of laurel trees, his broad shoulders stiffly erect, his head very high and his faith in women badly shaken.



TO HIS UNUTTERABLE JOY AND ASTONISHMENT SHE WAS UNHURT.

Before he had reached the street he was telling himself he was many inconceivable kinds of an ass, and a vague desire to go back to her took possession of him, but this course was out of the question, and he strode sullenly up the street, bolstering up his pride with such snatches of the conversation as he could remember.

Miss Sterling, standing, white and shaking, by the veranda rail, watched him go down the path. She was well aware that Frost was the sort of man who lived up to his word. She had a premonition that if he left in this way it would be forever. She gripped the rail, and her breath came fast. Something like a panic must have seized her, for when he was far down the path she called: "Sid! Oh, Sid!" But in such a weak voice, which her pride was striving mightily to suppress altogether, that Frost did not hear it and kept on his way without so much as turning his head.

Even when he reached the street and was lost to sight behind the high hedge she still stood there by the rail. She was angry with Frost for going away and angry with herself for sending him.

She sank into a wicker chair and stared helplessly at the lake, which shimmered in the heat. There was a suspicious blur before her eyes. This would never do, she told herself. What she needed was action. She rose with a view of seeking the links and playing twice around the course. She was halfway down the path when she saw Higgins, the groom, coming up the drive.

"Higgins," she called, "you may put the cob in the trap."

"Beg pardon, mum," Higgins demurred, "but the cob's green and ain't fit for ladies drivin', mum."

Miss Sterling stamped her foot.

"The cob in the trap, Higgins, I said!"

Higgins made his way to the stable, mumbling under his breath, but five minutes later the trap was at the door. Miss Sterling climbed in and took the reins. Higgins let go the cob's head and by dint of a wild scramble managed to land in the trap as the cob bolted for the gate. They tore down the driveway and swung into the street. Higgins, his dignity by this time fully recovered, sat beside Miss Sterling with folded arms and impassive face.

They drove around the lake at a reckless pace. The girl gave the cob his head, and the cob made the most of his opportunity. They bumped over stones that lifted the groom a foot from the seat and swung corners that sent the trap on to one wheel. Higgins covertly watched his young mistress' face and prayed mentally.

On the other side of the lake a cool, wooded road branched from the lake drive. Miss Sterling swung the cob into this, and for the first time in his ten years' service Higgins took the initiative in conversation.

"Beg pardon, mum; the road's not safe, mum. They do be rollin' it with a road roller."

Miss Sterling smiled grimly.

"So much the better," she said and flicked the cob with the whip. The cob responded with a jump that bade fair to dislocate Higgins' neck, and the trap went tearing up the road.

* * * * * * * *

When Frost left the house he walked aimlessly around the upper end of the lake, reviewing mentally every word of the quarrel. On the far side of the lake he paused before the little wooded road that branched off the lake drive, and because the little wooded road seemed to offer the peace and quiet he sought he turned into it and walked leisurely through the mottled shadow cast by the branches above his head.

He had proceeded a mile or so when he came upon the steam roller bumping and scraping over the broken stone with which the roadbed was being repaired. For lack of better occupation he perched on a neighboring wall and watched the roller wending its ponderous way back and forth.

He had been there perhaps an hour when he heard the whir of rapidly moving wheels. He looked up to see a well known trap drawn by a sprightly cob come smartly around the turn of the road. In an instant all was confusion, for the cob at the sight of the roller stood erect on his hind legs. There was a little feminine shriek and a howl of fear from Higgins. The laborers on the road yelled excitedly.

The cob came down on all fours again and plunged madly into the wall close to Frost's perch. The trap reeled crazily. There was a sound of smashing spokes. Miss Sterling was tossed from the driving seat into a clump of bushes, and Higgins sailed over the wall like some ungainly fowl. The cob kicked himself clear of the wreck and galloped snorting up the road.

Frost ran to the girl and lifted her from the bushes. To his unutterable joy and astonishment she was unhurt. All at once he fell to laughing happily.

"See here, you've come to me! You've groveled at my feet!" he cried.

At that moment Higgins crawled painfully over the fence, his hat gone and his tousled hair bristling with burdock burs.

"He ain't no ladies' horse, mum," he began in deprecation.

Miss Sterling, supported by Frost's arm, laughed lightly.

"Higgins, he's a dear," she declared.

Something from Frost's pocket was slid deftly into Higgins' palm.

"The cob, mum?" Higgins inquired ingenuously.

Whereat Frost laughed immoderately, and Miss Sterling flushed.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

The real "stuff" in a man shows when he loses his job. One man is panic-stricken, and regales his friends with his misfortune. Another, through timely advertising, secures a better position before his last day in the old one comes around.

Doesn't it strike you that this winter is what might be described as just a trifle too wide open?

Gifts show which way the wind blows.

Education gives a woman more words to talk with.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

One good gift deserves another.

A fair exchange is no certainty.

They Were Brothers.

The late P. T. Barnum was a keen student of human nature as well as a natural humorist, and nothing which set forth human traits that were odd or amusing escaped his attention. He was very fond of telling stories of incidents that brought out features in human character—one of which, that delighted him immensely, was connected with the Siamese twins.

When he was exhibiting those oriental freaks the press of the country made them widely known, and they became very soon one of his best drawing cards.

One day there came to see them a back country rustic who was perfectly absorbed in them and inquisitive enough in regard to them to require almost a bureau of information to answer his innumerable questions. Mr. Barnum happened to be the one questioned, and he was asked their age, occupation, original home, whether they were single or married, their weight and stature and their religious belief. Nothing, at any rate, was too trivial or irrelevant which the rustic thought of, all of which interested the showman intensely.

Finally the bucolic visitor started slowly but reluctantly to leave, but after walking away a few steps he returned and said, with the most solemn simplicity:

"They are brothers, I presume."—Success Magazine.

Cheerless English Houses.

A writer in Harper's Magazine says: "I doubt if the English live longer than we for living less comfortably. The lower classes seem always to have colds, the middle classes rheumatism and the upper class gout, by what one sees or hears. Rheumatism, one might almost say (or quite if one did not mind what one said) is universal in England, and all ranks of society have the facilities for it in the indoors cold in which they otherwise often undeniably flourish." And a writer in Madame tells of a friend's visiting book, in which against certain names she found a "substantial cross;" against others two. What was the meaning? Not kisses, as you might infer from reading the humorous accounts of breach of promise cases, but curses. One cross against the country house that was cold in its passages and staircases and two crosses against the house with "no fires in the guests' bedrooms."

The Benefit of Fairy Tales.

It is very reasonable to argue that no creation of human fancy could last as fairy tales have lasted through no one knows how many hundreds and thousands of years unless it was very good, for that which is not good and not sound must surely die, and only that which is good and sound shall last through the grinding of the ages. So I believe that parents could fill their children's imaginations full of fairy tales if they would make those imaginations strong and healthy. As for that man or woman who has not these bright and joyous things flying like golden bees through the dim recesses of his memory I can only say that I think his or her parents must have been neglectful of the earlier training of their child and that I am sorry for that poor soul who has lost so much pleasure out of its life.—Howard Pyle in Book News.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by all druggists.

Many a woman, confronted with sudden reverses of fortune, has "baffled the wolf" by securing private pupils in music or drawing. Here again the "wolf" might have the best of it if it were not for the help of the want ads.

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Canadians in London will find the Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count 5 marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Installment Collector for merchandise accounts. Good salary and expenses. Address, Manufacturer, P. O. Box, 1027, Philadelphia, Pa.

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

Residence for sale. — Brick dwelling, most desirable situation, on Charles St. Eight rooms, including bath-room, twelve fruit trees, good barn, well, cistern, gas, waterworks, connection with Charles St. sewer. Apply D. V. SINCLAIR. 1,2&1tw

FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

A splendid brick house, eight rooms, good cellar, hard and soft water. Grier St., College Hill. Apply to J. T. Osborne, Moira St. Box 655. m2-6t

$2.50 CANARY FREE!

Sell Bird Bread and get a lovely singing canary free by sending us as Bird Bread yellow wrappers before Jan. 1st. Bird Bread in 10c packets ... Avoid Imitations.

BIRD BREAD

COTTAM BIRD SEED, 23 St., London, Ont.

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course —Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

It Will Pay

To look over our stock of furniture and note the values we offer this month.

Some are taking advantage and buying now.

UPHOLSTERING. — Mr. Sills is a practical upholsterer and gives personal attention to all work.

UNDERTAKING. — Mr. Sills having had 15 years experience in this branch of the business is thoroughly qualified to give personal service as undertaker and Funeral Director.

Store 'Phone 48.

Residence, cor. Queen and John Sts.

B. E. SILLS,

Successor to Reed & Sills,

Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,

STOCK BROKER,

Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.

Private N. Y. and Chicago wires. Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March. 4

Stock.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	88⅞	89¼
St. Paul	177½	178⅛
Mo. P	109⅛	109⅜
Union Pac	132½	134¼
C.P.R.	140	140⅝
Sou Pac	69	69⅞
[illegible]	35	[illegible]
Ills. C	158½	158⅞
Sou. Ry	35⅞	36⅜
Texas	39½	39⅝
B. & O	109	109⅞
N. Y. C.	156½	157⅝
Penn	142½	142¼
Soo	114½	....
T. W	109⅛	110
Erie	47⅞	47⅞
do. pref	82	82
Reading	94⅞	95⅞
C. O.	51	50⅞
O. & W	54⅛	54⅞
Manhattan	170⅞	....
W.C	23⅞	24⅜
L. & N	143	143⅞
A.F	35½	36
Nor	83¼	83⅝
Wab	22⅞	22⅝
W. U.	93⅞	93¾
C. G. W	22⅞	....
T. C. I.	88	89
U.S. Stl	35⅞	35½
do. pref	95¼	95⅞
Sugar	146⅞	147⅞
B. R. T	66⅞	66⅞
P O.	109⅞	109⅞
A.C.P	77⅞	77⅞
Met	123½	123⅞
Aio	43	43½
A. R.	91¼	91½

Cradle—Altar—Tomb

BIRTH.

In Marmora, Feb. 14th, to Mr. and Mrs. H. Maloney, a son.

In Deseronto, Feb. 18th, to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stewart, a son.

MARRIAGES.

In Bloomfield on Feb. 23rd, Edward B. Potter to Miss Ella Lucas, both of Bloomfield.

In Deseronto on Feb. 15th, Herbert C. Rorke, of Deseronto, to Miss Lillian J. Speck, of Actinolite.

In Ameliasburg on Feb. 23rd, Mr. H. E. Smith, of Ameliasburg, to Miss Mary Corson, of Brighton.

In Stockdale on Feb. 22nd, Charles Badgley, of Frankford, to Miss Sadie Bryant, of Stockdale.

In Hungerford on Feb. 22nd, George H. Stokes, to Florence Craig, both of Hungerford.

DIED.

In Marmora township, on Feb. 28th, Wm. Huffman, aged 17 years.

In Mayo township, Feb. 23rd, David Prichard, sr., aged 73 years.

In Monteagle, on Feb. 22nd, Mrs. W. J. Spence, aged 24 years.

In Deseronto, on Feb. 27th, Alfred A. Taylor, aged 71 years.

In Glen Miller, on Feb. 20th, Edward Rupert, aged 74 years.

In Frankford, on Feb. 15th, Flossie Sine, aged 13 years.

In Burnbrae, on Feb. 17th, Mrs. Wm. Craighead, aged 85 years.

In Marmora, on Feb. 28th, Mrs. Robt. Eastwood, aged 35 years.

The juice of a lemon is excellent as a gargle for sore throat, but should not be swallowed.

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

REASON No 17

WHY YOU SHOULD USE

Red Rose Tea

Because it is composed of both Indian and Ceylon teas.

The tea bush is indigenous to Assam in Northern India; and botanists are of the opinion that it is the parent species of all the cultivated varieties in India, Ceylon, China and elsewhere. In a wild state, it grows to a height of fifteen to twenty feet, but the cultivated shrub is only three to four feet high.

Assam being the natural home of the tea bush, it is not surprising that this and other districts in Northern India produce the richest, most pungent teas grown in the world—teas that command higher prices than even the finest Ceylons; but Ceylon teas are very flavory and fragrant, and seem to be specially made to blend with the richer, more syrupy tea of India. When combined, the Ceylons give point and piquancy to the liquor; the Indians, richness and strength.

The distinctive characteristic of Red Rose Tea, that rich, fruity flavor, is obtained by blending these fine Indians and Ceylons; and another very important feature of Red Rose Tea, viz., its uniformity of flavor all the year round, is secured the same way, something not possible to obtain where Ceylon or Indian teas are used alone.

The Blue Label is recommended, and unless you like very strong tea, use only three-quarters as much for a drawing as you use of other teas.

T. H. ESTABROOKS, St. John, N.B.

BRANCHES: TORONTO, WINNIPEG.

Hang It

It's the better for it.

Our shelves are loaded with the finest selection of Wall Papers, domestic and imported, which would look much better on your walls than on our shelves.

No trouble to show them.

Prices right.

We do the hanging.

John Cornelius

Painting, Graining.

ART DECORATING.

397 Front St.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

Phone. 214. Grocers.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

- For - Saturday

1 Stodart Square Piano $10.00

1 Dunham & Sons Piano $75.00

1 New Full Size Upright Piano with all the latest improvements $190.00

J. A. Goodsell & Co.

436 Front Street.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.
No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store

Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

There are times when the mysteries of life seem greater than the mystery of death.

Success always stands for itself. Failure needs no explanation.

It is the part of wisdom to make as many friends as you can, and ask them as few favors as you can.

A good "leven raises much dough for its alma mater.

A penny saved by a miser may be a dollar earned by his heirs later.

Our best opportunities are of home-made varieties.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

When a man is weighed by others he is usually found wanting to dispute the figures.

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

THE NEW STORE.

Groceries
—AND—Provisions

FREDERICK'S OLD STAND,
FRONT ST.

Groceries All New

PROMPT DELIVERY.

New arrival of Fresh Dairy Butter at 22 cents
Fresh Eggs at 20 cents.

Special attention to telephone calls.

W. R. CARNRITE.
Telephone 312.

Glove Sale

Don't think for a moment that winter has deserted us—and Gloves are still as necessary as they are fashionable.

$1.50 Gloves for -	$1.15
1.25 Gloves for -	1.00
1.00 Gloves for -	.79
.75 Gloves for -	.59
.50 Gloves for -	.39

Chas. J. Symons,
successor to W. B. Deacon.
Shirts Made to Order. 208 Front St.

$1 Bottles for 50 cts

Orange Quinine Wine

Each wine glass contains ORANGE WINE and 2 gr. of the purest QUININE.
A splendid appetizer and tonic.

WATERS

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anglo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.

For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.

As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.
Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance
—AT—
COLLIP'S.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
S. E. Carman, Manager.

MONDAY, MARCH 6th

MR. WM. H. O'NEILL PRESENTS:

MR JAMES HERNE

—IN—

Hearts of Oak

By James A. Herne, Author of "Shore Acres," "Sag Harbor" and other Plays, Management of N. J. Lwier. Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c. Plan open Saturday morning.

Public Notice

Is hereby given that application is made by Thomas Sager for a transfer of the Licence standing in his name, for the International Hotel, to John J. Fitzgerald: the said transfer will be considered on or about the 11th day of March, 1905. All persons who are interested will govern themselves accordingly.

JAMES ST. CHARLES,
Belleville, Feb. 23, '05. Inspector.
f24,27&m4

Auction Sale.

At the residence of R. E. Clarke, corner Victoria avenue and Charles street, General Household Effects, consisting of Heintzman piano, books, pictures, bedroom suites, carpets, curtains, stoves, dining-room furniture and kitchen utensils, a quantity of canned fruit, etc.: also 1 horse, 1 light wagon, 1 sleigh and harness. Horse and rigs will be sold at 3 p.m.

Sale Wednesday, March 8th, 1905, commencing at 9.30 a.m.

J. G. DAVISON,
4-3t Auctioneer.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of Robert Edward Clarke, grocer, Belleville, insolvent.

Notice is hereby given that the above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me, for the benefit of his creditors, under R.S.O. Ch. 124, and amending Acts.

The creditors are notified to meet at the law office of W. Jeffers Diamond, barrister, 338 Front street west, Belleville, on Monday the 13th day of March, 1905, at 2 p.m., for the purpose of receiving a statement of affairs and the appointment of inspectors, and to give directions for the disposal of the estate.

All persons claiming to rank upon the estate of the said Insolvent, must file their claims, proved by affidavit, with me on or before the day of said meeting, with full particulars of claim and the nature of security, if any, held; after which date I will proceed to distribute the assets of said estate, having regard only to those claims of which I have received notice.

SAMUEL MARLATT KENNEY,
by W. Jeffers Diamond, his Solicitor.
Belleville, March 4, 1905. 4,6

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont.
f18,25,m4,11,18,25,a1

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HEARTS OF OAK."

The great success of the domestic plays written by James A. Herne is due chiefly to their remarkable fidelity to life. "Hearts of Oak" and "Shore Acres" have their scenes laid on the rugged coast of the New England shore, and the characters are lifelike delineations of men and women and children who were actually known to the author. Year after year "Hearts of Oak" and "Shore Acres" have done a remarkable business and this season is proving no exception to the rule. Equipped with a wealth of realistic scenery and effects and played by an exceptionally talented company of actors and actresses, "Hearts of Oak" will be seen here at the Carman on Monday, March 6.

A Roast for Hopper.

Toronto Star: Mr. De Wolf Hopper, the actor, arrived in Boston the other day, and at one of the theatres was called before the curtain, just as, on many occasions, he has been called before the curtain at the Princess and the Grand Theatres in Toronto. Every theatre-goer in this city knows how Mr. De Wolf Hopper acts when called before the curtain by the hired applause of the top gallery—how surprised he manages to look, how embarrassed he makes it his duty to appear, and everybody knows what, under the circumstances, he says. In this city a long-suffering public has listened to Hopper recite a very poor piece of verse entitled "Casey at the Bat" about a hundred times. The people have listened to this recitation not because they liked to hear it, but because they thought Hopper liked to recite it. And yet this man goes to Boston and tells his audience that he has been in the wilds of Canada, and is extremely glad to get back to civilization again. De Wolf Hopper, the Casey-bat-man, speaking thus of Toronto, where he draws crowded houses at prices about one-third higher than he is accustomed to in his own country!

How often has he told us of his great love for this city, and its kind audiences that always let him say his recitation! When he comes here again and is called before the curtain the top gallery may ask him to explain his remarks to that Boston audience.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy.

The great success of this preparation in the relief and cure of bowel complaints has brought it into almost universal use. It never fails, and when reduced with water and sweetened is pleasant to take. It is equally valuable for children and adults. For sale by all druggists.

In the Justice Shop.

WAGES CASE.

Thos. Vanwort charged A. Burgoyne with refusing to pay him wages which he alleged was due. It was stated that the plaintiff was a few minutes late at his work on Wednesday last and Burgoyne discharged him and would not pay him for the portion of the week he had worked. The defendant was ordered to pay the plaintiff his claim and also the costs. Mr. Carnew appeared for Vanwort.

TO CURE FEVER CHILLS

And such complaints as "shivers" and ague we recommend Nerviline very highly. Twenty drops of Nerviline taken in hot water with a little sugar three times daily not only stops the chills, but knocks out the disease completely. Nerviline has a direct action on fever chills and removes the conditions causing them. In stomach and bowel troubles Nerviline never fails. It's pleasant to the taste, quick to relieve and always cures permanently. Get a 25c bottle to-day.

Old Boys' Reunion Will Surely Be Grand Success.

Leading Citizens of Belleville Are Behind the Project—Messrs. Corby and Ritchie Make Generous Offers—Strong Officials Appointed—City Council Will Probably Grant $500—Excellent Meeting of Promoters Yesterday Afternoon

There now seems to be no doubt that the proposed Old Boys' Reunion in this city will be a grand success, and a fitting reception will be accorded to those who return to their old home next summer. The work of organizing the various committees is under way, and able and energetic chairmen have been selected. The officers selected are amongst the first citizens of our city. A meeting of the general committee, which was selected at the gathering on Wednesday evening last, was held in the Council Chamber yesterday afternoon, at which the following were in attendance: Mayor Sulman, Messrs. H. Corby, T. Ritchie, A. McGinnis, J. F. Wills, J. A. Tousaw, W. N. Ponton, C. Bogart, W. R. Adams, J. J. B. Flint, Wm. Johnson, F. Deacon and Dr. Yeomans.

The first business considered was the election of officials for the reunion, and those selected were as follows:

Hon. President — Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

Hon. Vice-Presidents. — Messrs. H. Corby, ex-M.P., J. M. Hurley, ex-M. P., T. Ritchie, W. B. Northrup, M.P., E. G. Porter, M.P., C. M. Sterk and Mayor Sulman.

President.—Wm. Johnson.
Hon. Secretary.—A. McGinnis.
Hon. Treasurer—J. W. Johnson.

After some discussion it was decided to select chairmen for the various sub-committees, and these, together with the above officials and Ald. Panter, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the City Council, will constitute the Executive Committee of the Reunion. The various chairmen chosen were as follows:

Reception—Col. Ponton.
Transportation—R. J. Graham.
Entertainment—Dr. Yeomans.
Advertisement—A. McGie.
Decoration—W. B. Deacon.
Information and Accommodation — C. Bogart.
Parade—J. J. B. Flint.

The members to constitute these various committees will be selected from the citizens generally, and the ladies will be asked to assist. A ladies' auxiliary will in all probability be formed.

The question of finance was discussed and the general impression was that the City Council should be waited upon and asked to set aside a certain sum to assist in defraying the expenses. Messrs. Corby and Ritchie offered to contribute $200 and $100 respectively if the Council would make a grant of $500, which was considered the sum they should give.

A motion prevailed that a deputation consisting of Messrs. H. Corby, T. Ritchie, Wm. Johnson, J. J. B. Flint, A. McGinnis, and W. N. Ponton be selected to wait upon the Executive Committee that evening in reference to the matter.

This completed the business and the committee adjourned, to meet next Wednesday afternoon in the Council Chamber.

WAITED ON THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The deputation above named, with the exception of Mr. Corby, waited upon the Executive Committee of the Council in session during the evening and were cordially received.

Ald. Panter, in welcoming the delegation, said he understood that they were present on behalf of the Old Boys' Reunion, and the Committee were prepared to listen to them.

Mr. Wm. Johnson was the first speaker, and stated that he had had the honor of being elected President of the Old Boys' Reunion. This was going to be unlike anything ever held in Belleville before, and every effort would be made to make it a great success. The old boys and girls of Belleville will come back from north, south, east and west, and we want to give them a hearty welcome home. The citizens, he was confident, would be at the back of the Council in whatever they did in the matter. We feel that the Council should give a magnificent grant to assist in making the Reunion such a success as is desired. All citizens would then be assisting in paying for the same.

Col. Ponton said the sinews of peace were necessary in this matter. Much printers' ink would have to be used and a considerable sum of money would have to be expended. A fund of $1,000 was contemplated and the Council was asked to contribute $500. Two prominent citizens had volunteered to give handsome donations if the Council gave this grant. We expect to welcome home some distinguished guests when the Reunion is held, and he considered it would be money well spent. Those who pay the taxes of the city were, he was confident, at the back of the Council in the matter.

Mr. Ritchie endorsed the remarks of the previous speakers, and believed the Council was in accord with them. The citizens would support the Council in giving a substantial grant. The intention of the committee was to get up a souvenir for the visitors to carry away with them when they return. The statute, he stated, clearly gave the Council the right to give a grant for such a purpose. The affair will advertise the city and he believed it would prove beneficial.

Mr. J. J. B. Flint said there were no two opinions in this matter of having a Reunion, and we must be prepared to receive the old boys with open arms. Keen interest is being taken by those who are away, especially the old Belleville boys of Toronto, who have organized and are making preparations to come here. He asked the Council to make as liberal a contribution as could possibly be made. This was a unique occasion, and he asked the Council to deal liberally in the matter. The Council will be justified in making the grant, as the statute allows a corporation to make a grant for entertainment of distinguished guests, and we will have them.

Mr. A. McGinnis said the committee are simply carrying out a scheme which originated in the Council. This was the Council's own project, and the citizens were behind them. He hoped they would deal generously in the matter.

Ald. Panter said he had no doubt that all were pleased at the remarks made. He was also pleased that the statute provided for the Council making such a grant, and he had no doubt that the Council, when in session, would accede to the request made.

The deputation, after thanking the members of the Council for the courtesy extended to them, withdrew, well pleased with the result of their mission.

VETERANS MAY PROTEST.

MANY WHO FILED CLAIMS LATE ARE AFFECTED BY A LAND COMPANY'S POWERS.

On Tuesday the Crown Lands Department announced the details of the agreement entered into by the Ontario Government with the Ontario Land Company, Limited, in regard to the settlement of five townships in New Ontario. The agreement was signed on Dec. 12, 1904. The company was represented in its negotiations by Mr. H. H. Dewart, K. C. The president of the company is Charles Harris, and the secretary, E. A. Francis.

The company claims to represent 300 persons entitled to land grants under the Military Lands Grant Act. The company has assumed their claims, and undertakes to settle five townships. In case those entitled to the lands had made their claims in the ordinary way they would have been allowed only one location in the mile if they did not intend to settle immediately or two locations in the mile if they intended to settle at once. Had the lands been alloted to these 300 in the ordinary way they would have been spread over nine townships.

The company undertakes to put bona-fide settlers in five townships within five years, while the Government on its part agrees to set aside the land for settlement by them on the basis of two free locations to the mile, the company to buy the intervening land at 50 cents an acre the usual selling price to actual settlers.

The townships involved are to be withdrawn from general settlement for a period of six years. The company is to settle one-fifth of the area each year for five years, and in case it does not do so the Government is to throw open to general settlement an area of land proportionate to the failure of the company in filing its obligations. The company is allowed to sell the land at one dollar an acre. The five years are to date from Dec. 12, 1905.

The settlers who are sent in under the terms of this agreement are to fulfil all the settlers' regulations, whether imposed by act or department regulations.

The Government may at any time within three years set aside any lands it deems necessary for town sites or railways without making any compensation. In case the land is used for town sites the settlers are to be given an equal area in adjoining townships.

The agreement is made subject to the rights of all those who have filed claims before September 30, but those who have filed their claims since that time will be displaced, and will have to seek suitable land in other localities. There are a great many affected in this way, and it is expected that they will raise a considerable complaint on account of the treatment of the Government.

SHANNONVILLE MAN'S MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

CORONER WILL INVESTIGATE IT —SEARCHING ENQUIRY TO BE MADE BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Canton, N.Y., March 3 — Henry Graves, aged about fifty-five, said to hail from Shannonville, Ontario, died suddenly about midnight, Tuesday, at the Sterlington House, in this town, kept by Frederick Newrow. Graves had been working in the woods for the Canton Lumber Company as a blacksmith, and came out on Feb. 8th with something like $165 he had earned. He has been at the Sterlington House most of the time since, and drinking hard. A physician was summoned about half-past eight that evening. The generally accepted theory seems to be that acute alcoholism was the cause of death, but Coroner Millar and District Attorney Ferris have been sent for, and a searching investigation into the matter will be made. There have been a good many complaints as to certain happenings at Newrow's place recently.

REV. S. McCAULEY DEAD.

SUPERANNUATED METHODIST DIVINE PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING.

Rev. Samuel McCauley, a Methodist divine, died this morning at the family residence, corner of Ann and Dundas streets. Owing to ill-health the Rev. gentleman was compelled to give up the active work of the ministry and in June last he sought and obtained superannuation. Since then he had been a resident of the city. After completing his studies at college and being ordained, the Rev. gentleman entered the ministry in 1871, his first charge being at Bobcaygeon. Since then he had charges at Coboconk, Omemee, Markham, Newcastle, Manvers, Marmora, Canifton, Cherry Valley, Smithfield, Thomasburgh, Oakwood, Keene and Warkworth. The latter was his last station. Mr. McCauley was well liked wherever his lot was cast.

Deceased was married to Miss Libbie Anderson, eldest daughter of the late Mr. Wm. Anderson, ex-M.P.P. for Prince Edward county. The widow and one son, Dr. McCauley, of the General Hospital, Toronto, and one daughter, Miss McCauley, at home, survive.

The deceased was born near Brampton, Ont, on November 21, 1848.

Looks Very Bad For General Pat.

HIS LEFT WING CUT OFF BY THE JAPS — RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT BELIEVES HE HAS BEEN FULLY BEATEN.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Berlin, March 4. — A despatch to the Tagblatt from St. Petersburg says: "Gen. Kuropatkin, in a telegram which arrived here at 7 o'clock last night, says 260,000 Japanese had broken through the Russian left wing and that this was cut off from the remainder of the army."

At 10 o'clock came another dispatch from Gen. Kuropatkin which reads: "The Japanese are marching on Mukden. My position is extremely dangerous."

In Government circles here to-day there is a conviction that General Kuropatkin has been fully beaten, that part of his army has been dispersed, and that the railway north of Mukden probably will be cut.

NORTH HASTINGS LICENSE COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED

AND 27 CONSTITUENCIES OUT OF 101 HAVE ALREADY RECEIVED THEIR NEW OFFICIALS.

Toronto, March 4 (special). — The Ontario Gazette announces the appointment of License Commissioners for 27 constituencies out of 101. The appointments include the following: North Hastings, Archibald Thompson, Thomas Henry McKee, David H. Fuller.

WILL GRANT $500 TO AID THE OLD BOYS' REUNION.

CIVIC COMMITTEES MET LAST NIGHT — SEVERAL ACCOUNTS PASSED — SETTLEMENT TO BE ASKED FOR IN THE LOT CASE.

At the meeting of the various civic committees last evening a number of matters were considered. In the Executive a motion to grant $500 to entertain guests at the coming Old Boys' Reunion was passed. The only absentees were Ald. Green and Cooper.

WATERWORKS.

Ald. Marsh, chairman, presided over this committee. The accounts passed were:

Pay sheet	$19.16
Bell Telephone Co.	51.15
L. Holley	1.25
E. T. Cherry	5.50
Trenton Electric Co.	153.75

Ald. Knox moved that a flood gate pump be purchased from the Phoenix Engineering Company of England. — Carried.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Ald. Gordon, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were as follows:

Pay sheet	$166.52
E. T. Cherry	5.00

The time for receiving a quantity of hard heads from J. Johns was extended for a month.

A recommendation prevailed that the sewer from the market building to the river be flushed.

LIGHT AND FIRE.

In these committees the only business transacted was the passing of two accounts, namely, Gas works, $24.68, and Trenton Electric Company, $312.04.

MARKET AND CITY PROPERTY.

Ald. Vermilyea presided over this committee in the absence of Ald. Green. An account of $41.25 from the Schuster Company was passed.

A recommendation prevailed that the City Hall be granted free of use to the W.C.A. for an entertainment to be held for the benefit of the hospital; also free of use for the holding of a meeting in connection with the Ontario Sunday School Association.

PARKS.

Ald. Knox, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were as follows:

E. McGrath	$ 8.51
H. Smith	10.50

EXECUTIVE.

Ald. Panter, chairman, presided. The accounts passed were as follows:

C.P.R. Telegraph Co.	$ .81
Canada Oliver Typewriter Co.	6.50
Canada Express Co.	.60

THE LOT CASE.

Moved by Mayor Sulman, that the committee having charge of the action of Phillips vs. Belleville endeavor to effect a settlement, and, if not successful, that they be given power to decide on the course to be taken, whether to appeal to the Court of Appeal or Supreme Court, take a new trial or convey the lots to Mr. Phillips.—Carried.

WILL GRANT $500.

Moved by Ald. Gordon, that $500 be appropriated for the purpose of advertising the city during the summer and for the purpose of receiving distinguished guests.—Carried.

GAS WORKS.

Ald. Sinclair, chairman, presided over this committee. The accounts passed were as follows:

Pay sheet	$207.00
W. P. Hudson, re insurance	180.00
Downey Coal Co.	46.20
W. P. Clarke	35.94
Sun Refining Oil Co.	229.65
W. P. Clarke	6.00
N. Lingham	63.00
Freight on coal	53.02
F. C. Clarke	5.22

It was decided that the manager be authorized to have a telephone put in at the Gas works.

It was decided that the chairman and manager be authorized to place a reasonable order for gas pipes with Mr. J. W. Walker.

WHY BRAIN WORKERS BREAK DOWN.

Man is not a machine that keeps going as long as the steam is applied. He is a creature of blood, nerves and delicately balanced organism. Many don't realize this, but overwork their brains and break down. Brain workers need a strong, bracing tonic like Ferrozone to fortify their nerves and keep the blood pure and rich. Take Ferrozone and you'll do more work. You will have the strength, the ambition and the desire for work because your system will be in first-class order. For your health and strength take Ferrozone regularly. Price 50c. at druggists.

COLD CURE

GET IT TO-DAY

Price 25c

Relieves the head, throat, and lungs almost immediately.

I WILL REFUND YOUR MONEY IF IT FAILS.
MUNYON, Philadelphia.

Sports and Pastimes

HOCKEY.

Kidlets vs. Giants.

One of the West Belleville Giants, who is about as big as a grasshopper, hands in the following:

The return match between the College Hill Kidlets and the West Belleville Giants was played last night from 6 to 7, and resulted in a tie, 3 all.

College Hill Kidlets—Goal, F. Deacon; point, W. Matthews; cover point, F. Finkle; rover, W. Hogan; centre, R. McCreary; right wing, F. Hogan; left wing, H. Weese.

West Belleville Giants — Goal V. Bennett; point, R. Good; cover point, W. Doyle; rover, W. Malyea; centre, T. Dolan; right wing, T. Cox; left wing, G. Wilson.

Referee, Lee Barrett.

Peterboro beat Berlin 5—3 on the former's ice last night, but Berlin gets the round by 12 to 6, and goes into the finals with Victoria Harbor.

Niagara Falls gave Thorold nearly a record beating last night, the score being 23—0.

FARMERS MAY GET HELP.

SALVATION ARMY BRINGING OUT DESIRABLE MEN — THE FORMS OF APPLICATION — STAFF - CAPTAIN PATTERSON TELLS HOW THE WORK IS PROGRESSING.

Staff-Capt. Patterson, of the Salvation Army Immigration Department, Toronto, who is making a tour in the interests of immigration, was a caller at the Intelligencer office today.

The Salvation Army is bringing out a large number of desirable immigrants this spring to work on farms, manufacturing and contract work. These immigrants will be coming at the rate of 100 a week from the latter end of March to the 25th of April. On the latter date the S.S. Vancouver, of the Dominion Line, which has been chartered by the Salvation Army, will bring out about 1,500, which will arrive about the middle of May. The immigrants comprise mechanics and farm hands and are composed of married and single men. A good number of the latter come from the agricultural districts in the Old Country, and should make excellent farm hands for this country.

The reason the Salvation Army is bringing people to this country is owing to the dire distress in the Old Land at the present time, and as there is a great demand for labor, both skilled and unskilled, in Canada, with manufacturers, contract workers and farmers, all those who may want competent help this incoming spring cannot do better than apply to Mr. John A. Consaul, of this city, for particulars and application forms. Will all applicants kindly state on their applications what date they will want the help sent to them. These applications will then be sent promptly to Commissioner Thomas Coombs, Salvation Army, Toronto, and the immigrants sent the date required.

A number of domestic servants will also be brought out by the Army.

This is the application form to be filled out:

The following particulars should be furnished by those desirous of obtaining help through the Salvation Army Immigration Department. The form should be filled in by the applicant, and returned to Commissioner Thomas Coombs, 20 Albert St., Toronto.

This form is prepared for the convenience of parties desiring to employ immigrants. They are requested to fill in the blanks according to their special requirements, giving explicit information in each of the several particulars mentioned. The statement of wages does not constitute a contract, but is required to enable us to judge the current rate of wages in the neighborhood.

We cannot guarantee to supply boys or girls under seventeen.

Kindly fill in the following questions:

1. Do you require man with family? ....
2. What accommodation have you for a married man? ....
3. Can you employ man and wife?
4. How many single men do you require? ....
5. What is the current wages (per month) for experienced help in your locality? ....
6. What is the current wages (per month) for inexperienced help in your locality? ....

Name of applicant in full ....
County and P.O. Address ....
Date of Application ....
Nearest Railway Station ....

Note.—The Salvation Army is working under instructions from the Ontario Government, who will pay railway fares of immigrants to farmers' addresses.

THE "SWISS FOOD" STANDARD.

Only the most nutritious parts of finest wheat are used in "SWISS FOOD." The best for breakfast. 15c packages.

A Small Blaze.

At 7 o'clock last evening the fire brigade had a run to Alexander street, but their services were not required. A curtain at the residence of Rev. A. H. Drumm became ignited, but the blaze was fortunately extinguished before any particular damage was sustained.

THINK OF US.

We want you to think of us whenever you think of clothes. Our whole energy is concentrated on securing good things for you to wear. This is true of Clothing, Headwear and Furnishings. Our spring styles are now making a strong appeal to your eye, while our reasonable prices make an equally strong appeal to your purse. —QUICK & ROBERTSON.

Daily Intelligencer.

SNAPPY GINGER SNAPS

Plenty of these
Popular Snappy
Snaps for Saturday.
10c a lb.

Chas. S. Clapp

Chaps Vanish

If you have not tried our Winter Dream now is the time to begin. It is a dainty, healing preparation, that cures chapped and roughened skin as few things can. Starts healing at once, because it is all absorbed. Nicely perfumed and not greasy or sticky.

Sold only at—

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas. — Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,
Sole Agent for Belleville.
Tel. 38. Front St.

ONE YEAR AGO:

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

SANTAL-MIDY
Standard remedy for Gleet, Gonorrhoea and Runnings IN 48 HOURS. Cures Kidney and Bladder Troubles.
MIDY

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 483. Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Royal Baking Powder

45 CENTS a pound can (AT ALL GROCERS
25 cents a half pound can

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is absolutely pure.

Royal Baking Powder assures wholesome food; it makes the best biscuits, cakes and all hot-breads; it protects the family from the danger of alum and other injurious substitutes.

Royal Baking Powder saves time, saves butter, flour and eggs; saves health.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, March 3.—Beeves—Receipts, 4104; steers, slow and 10c lower; bologna bulls, firm; others, steady; cows, easier; steers, $4.50 to $5.70; bulls, $2.25 to $4.25; cows, $1.90 to $3.70. Exports to-day 560 cattle; to-morrow, 720 cattle and 6700 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 51; steady, veals, $4 to $8.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1153; sheep, quiet and steady; lambs, 10c to 15c off; sheep, $4 to $5.50; no good sheep here; lambs, $7 to $8.37½; yearlings, $7.10.

Hogs—Receipts, 303; none for sale; nominally firm and higher.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, March 3.—Cattle—Receipts, 2500; good to prime steers, $5.50 to $6.50; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.40 to $4.45.

Hogs—Receipts, 24,000; mixed and butchers', $4.75 to $5.05; good to choice heavy, $4.80 to $5.10; rough, heavy, $4.75 to $5; light, $4.70 to $4.95; bulk of sales, $4.50 to $5.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 6000; good to choice wethers, $5.25 to $6; fair to choice, mixed, $5.50 to $5.75; native lambs, $7 to $7.80.

TRUTH OR PARADOX?

Life levels all men; death reveals the eminent.

Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it.

While we have prisons it matters little which of us occupy the cells.

Titles distinguish the mediocre, embarrass the superior and are disgraced by the inferior.

Democracy substitutes election by the incompetent many for appointment by the corrupt few.

Do not do unto others as you would that they should do unto you. Their tastes may not be the same.

Your word can never be as good as your bond, because your memory can never be as trustworthy as your honor.

If you strike a child take care that you strike it in anger, even at the risk of maiming it for life. A blow in cold blood neither can nor should be forgiven.—From George Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman."

SOURCE OF SUPPLY POISONED.

An Alarming Condition Present in Many Places in Canada. How Best to Correct it.

Many people all over the Dominion are being poisoned slowly but surely, and that by their own carelessness.

The food may be pure, but indigestion is not complete, and all that is not digested rots and ferments, giving off the most violent poisons. What was intended to sustain life really turns into that which destroys life.

The temperature of the body is a little over 98 degrees. Every particle of undigested food lies in the stomach and bowels, subject to this temperature, which is as high as in the sun on a hot summer day. It is not necessary to explain how quickly such heat will decompose dead matter, either animal or vegetable.

The stomach and bowels must be set right—Anti-Pill will do it. Dr. Leonhardt made his Anti-Pill specifically to correct these conditions, and it has never failed when given a fair chance.

50 cents. All Druggists, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada. 111

Recommended and sold by J. S. McKeown.

THE PEOPLE OF RUSSIA

Czar Grants Recognition of Their Right to Be Heard.

Nicholas, in a Rescript, Promises Them Voice in Preparation of Laws—Emperor's Manifesto, Pleading. With the People to Rally Round Throne, Looked Upon as Final Card of Autocracy.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—Emperor Nicholas yesterday afternoon signed a rescript promising the people a vote in the preparation of laws.

The signing of the document came at the end of a dramatic scene, the climax of which was an impassioned speech by Emperor Nicholas to his Ministers, in which he declared that he sought only the welfare of his subjects.

"I am willing," the Emperor said, "to shed my blood for the good of my people."

Manifesto Disappointing.

Prior to the issue of this rescript, the Liberals expressed profound disappointment with his manifesto appealing to the Russian people. They declared that the result could not fail to be disastrous. In their opinion, the manifesto could not have come at a more inopportune moment, as the workmen on the eve of the emancipation anniversary are in a state of intense excitement due to the refusal of the Government to meet their ultimatum.

It is not certain, however, that this is the Emperor's last word. It is possibly the last card of autocracy; but the ukase, by turning over the whole question of the future to the Committee of Ministers, leaves the way open to grant a National Assembly if the manifesto fails.

PITY THE POOR CZAR!

Nicholas Pleads with People to Rally Round Throne.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—The text of the Imperial manifesto published by The Official Messenger yesterday, calling on the country to rally round the throne in defence of the Empire from its internal enemies, is as follows:

"An inscrutible Providence has been pleased to visit our Fatherland with heavy trials. A bloody war in the Far East, involving the honor of Russia and command of the waters of the Pacific Ocean, so urgently necessary to the conclusion of the peaceful prosperity not only of our own but of other Christian nations throughout the ages, has imposed a great strain on the strength of our Russian people and has swallowed up many dear victims near to our hearts.

Blinded by Pride.

"While the glorious sons of Russia are fighting with self-sacrificing bravery, risking their lives for their faith, for their Emperor and for their country, disturbances have broken out in our own land to the joy of our enemies and our own deep sorrow. Blinded by pride, the evil-minded leaders of a revolutionary movement make insolent attacks on the Holy Orthodox Church and the lawfully established pillars of the Russian State, thinking that by severing the natural connection with the past they will destroy the existing order of the State and set up in its place a new administration on a foundation unsuitable to our Fatherland.

"The outrage on the Grand Duke Sergius, who ardently loved the first capital of the Empire, and who met his end midst the sacred monuments of the Kremlin, deeply shocks the national feeling of everyone to whom the honor of the Russian name and renown and his home are dear."

Humbly Bears His Trials.

"We humbly bear the trials sent us by Providence and derive strength and consolation from our firm trust in the grace which God has always shown to the Russian powers, and from the immediate devotion which we know our loyal people entertain for the throne.

"With the help of the prayers of the Holy Orthodox Church, and under the banner of the autocratic might of the Emperors, Russia has already frequently passed through great wars and disturbances, always issuing from her troubles and difficulties with fresh and unbending strength.

"Nevertheless, the recent internal disorders and the instability of thought which have favored the spread of revolt and disturbances make it our duty to remind all those in the Government institutions of their service-oath, and to call upon them to display increased solicitude in the safeguarding of law, order, and security, in firm consciousness of their moral responsibility as servants of the throne and of the Fatherland."

Look to God for Victory.

"Thinking unceasingly of the welfare of our people and firmly trusting that God, after He has tried our patience, will give victory to our arms, we appeal to right-minded people of all classes to join us, each in his calling and in his place, in single-minded co-operation by word and deed in the great and sacred task of overcoming the stubborn foreign foe and eradicating the revolt at home, and in wise efforts to check the internal confusion.

"We wish to remind everyone in this connection that only if there is tranquility of mind throughout the whole population is it possible to realize our aims for a renewal of the quiet life of our people, strengthening the prosperity of the State and perfecting its administration.

"Let all those rally around the Throne who, true to Russia's past, consciously bear in accord with ourselves for every affair of State.

"May God send down on the clergy, holiness; on those in authority, justice and truth; on the people, peace; on the laws, power, and on the faith, strength, to the consolidation of the autocracy and the welfare of our dear subjects.

"(Signed.) Nicholas."

DISAPPOINTED WORKMEN.

Decided Negative Given to the Demands of the Strikers.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—As was expected, the answer to most of the political conditions imposed by the workmen who met Thursday at the People's Palace, preliminary to electing fifty of their number to serve on the mixed commission of employers and employes, was a decided negative, and the proposed joint investigation of the grievances of the employes and remedial measures is doomed unless the workmen recede.

Met Men Half Way.

M. Schidlovski, in his reply yesterday, which was printed and placarded on the doors of the various meeting places, drew a sharp distinction between economic and purely political conditions. He met the men half way in regard to the former, and gave a pledge that representatives would be immune from arrest or molestation on account of speeches or demands, so long as they confined themselves to industrial conditions, and continued: "As for the other demands, they go far beyond the competency of the Commission in the task committed to it by His Majesty, and require no answer on my part."

Will Hear Everybody.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—An Imperial decree commands: "In order that it may be possible for our loyal subjects to be heard directly by the Emperor," the Council presided over by the Emperor, shall examine and consider in His Majesty's name all the views and wishes that may be received from private persons and institutions regarding the perfecting the administration of the State, and the improvement of the welfare of the people.

Schools of Baku Closed.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—All the schools in Baku are closed on account of a strike by the pupils.

General Strike Proclaimed.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—A general strike was proclaimed at sectional meetings of workmen here yesterday.

GRAEME HUNTER LET OFF.

Told Court He Was Justified in Guaranteeing Employment in Canada, and it Believed Him.

London, March 4.—(C.A.P.)—At the resumed trial at Glasgow of Graeme Hunter and Gavin Cowper, it was stated that the men were arrested on information from the Chief of Police of Toronto.

Hunter, giving evidence in his own behalf, stated the origin of his association with British Canadians. In February, 1904, he received a license from the Canadian Pacific Railway to book passengers. According to that he was entitled to certain commissions. His commission was £691. He never pretended to anyone that he could compel Canadian employers to employ the men he sent out. He considered himself justified in guaranteeing employment because of information he had received regarding the Canadian labor market. He referred to letters he had received from accredited men in Canada, stating there was a demand for workmen, including the Canada Foundry Company and the Building Trades Exchange, which stated that first-class bricklayers, masons, etc., were wanted, especially owing to the great fire in Toronto. He also received applications from Montreal for domestic servants, which he supplied. In all he had supplied 600 men to the Canada Foundry from this country.

The Workmen's Agreement.

Cross-examined regarding the workmen's agreement, he said it was intended that if after three days' rest a man did not get a situation, he was to be held on their hands at the wages guaranteed. If he got a smaller wage than was guaranteed the deficit was to be made up. If he got more afterwards he was to refund it.

Peter Barren, now a vanman at Bellshill, Scotland, stated that he went to Toronto in charge of a party of workmen. He was put in charge of a house called the Clachan, built by the Canada Foundry Company for the accommodation of emigrant workmen. He knew many men sent out under Mr. Hunter's auspices who were perfectly satisfied with their situations and were doing well.'

Cross-examined, he said he was first employed by Mr. Hunter to take charge of a party of tailors whom he afterwards learned were to take the places of those on strike. The Clachan, whose name attracted the Scotsmen, was built for the accommodation of those taking the places of men on strike, and would accommodate about 100. It was closed in February when the strike ended. He confessed he found a number of Hunter's men out of work in Toronto, and was considerably alarmed at their attitude.

Cowper stated he was a salaried servant of Hunter, and had inserted an advertisement in various papers, written under Hunter's orders.

The prisoners, Hunter and Cowper, were acquitted.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man, but for one man who can stand prosperity there are a hundred who will stand adversity.

New Fancy Bedroom Clocks.

These clocks are the newest creations in Nickle, Brass and Wood cases, all filled with first-class movements guaranteed to keep good time.

The prices range from the small nickle clock at 85c—to a handsome mahogany case with antique bronze fittingsat $10.00 with and without alarms.

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. OPTICIAN

Specials For This Week

....AT....

McINTOSH'S

—102 pieces Fast Color Prints, regular price 12½ for 10c
—20 pieces Plain and Twill Flannel, good value at 20c, to clear at 12½c
—Odd sizes in Erect Form Ladies' Corsets, was 75c, to clear at pair 33c
Sizes 18, 19, 26, 27, 29, 30.

Lace Curtain Bargains

We have still left over a few good pairs of Lace Curtains and will offer them at greatly reduced prices. Come and see the goods if you are in need of any of the above lines.

McINTOSH BROS.

GRAND PRIZE

THE HIGHEST AWARD WAS RECEIVED BY Apollinaris
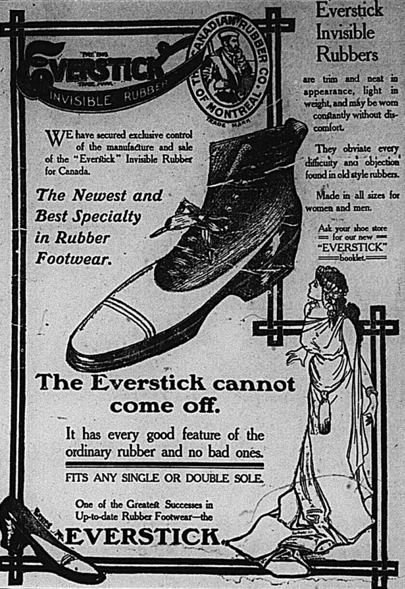
Natural Mineral Water
AT ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION.



WE have secured exclusive control of the manufacture and sale of the "Everstick" Invisible Rubber for Canada.

The Newest and Best Specialty in Rubber Footwear.

The Everstick cannot come off.

It has every good feature of the ordinary rubber and no bad ones.

FITS ANY SINGLE OR DOUBLE SOLE.

One of the Greatest Successes in Up-to-date Rubber Footwear—the

EVERSTICK.

Everstick Invisible Rubbers

are trim and neat in appearance, light in weight, and may be worn constantly without discomfort.

They obviate every difficulty and objection found in old style rubbers.

Made in all sizes for women and men.

Ask your shoe store for our new "EVERSTICK" booklet.

ENGINEER LYNCH KILLED.

Rear-End Collision at North Bay—Brakeman Stortz Injured.

North Bay, March 4.—A rear-end collision occurred on the C. P. R. east of here Thursday night, in which Engineer John Lynch of this place was killed, and Brakeman Stortz badly injured.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Closes Lower, and Chicago Higher—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Friday Evening, March 3.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ⅜d to ½d lower than yesterday and corn futures ⅛d to ⅜d higher.

At Chicago May wheat closed ⅝c higher than yesterday; May corn ⅛c higher and May oats ⅛c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, March 3.—Close—Wheat, number of cargoes waiting at outports, offered for sale, 3; on passage, quieter and hardly any demand. Corn, on passage, rather firmer.

London—Closing—Mark Lane Miller Market—Wheat, foreign dull; English, quiet. Corn, American, firm at an advance of 1½d; Danubian, nominally unchanged. Flour, American, firm; English, steady.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone quiet; March, 22f 5c; July and Aug., 24f 35c. Flour, tone quiet; March, 28f 35c; July and Aug., 30f 30c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	$1.14⅜	$1.02⅞
Detroit	1.20	1.02
St. Louis	1.12½	94¾
Duluth	1.11½	..
Minneapolis	1.13¾	1.10⅝

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, white, bush	$1 04	to $1 07
Wheat, red, bush	1 04	1 07
Wheat, spring, bush	1 02	....
Wheat, goose, bush	0 90	0 93
Barley, bush	0 52	....
Oats, bush	0 43	0 45½
Beans, bush	1 00	1 10
Rye, bush	0 75	....
Peas, bush	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 3.—Wheat, spot nominal; futures, easy; March, [illegible] 11⅛d; May, 6s 11d; July, 6s 11d. Corn, spot, steady; American mixed, new, 4s 2d; American mixed, old, 4s 11d; futures, steady; March, 4s 2⅞d; May, 4s 4d. Bacon, short ribs, quiet, 35s 6d; clear bellies, weak, 36s 6d; shoulders, square, quiet, 29s. Lard, American, refined, in pails, quiet, 34s 6d. Turpentine spirits steady, 38s 3d. Hops in London (Pacific coast), steady, £6 to £7 7s. Receipts of wheat during the past three days, 435,000 centals, including 33,000 American. Receipts of American corn during the past three days, 28,800 centals. Weather fine.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, March 3.—Butter, firm, unchanged; receipts, 5499.

Cheese—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 1719.

Eggs—Easy; receipts, 2290; state and Pennsylvania, and nearby fancy selected white, 36c; do choice, 35c; do., mixed fancy, 35c; western firsts, 33c; do., 2nds, 32c; southerns, 30c to 33c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Cattle Steady—Hogs Firmer in U. S. Markets.

London, March 3.—Live cattle are quoted at 10½c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¼c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the city market were 9 car loads, composed of 57 cattle, 110 hogs, 60 sheep and lambs, with 5 calves.

Very little business was being transacted, as has become usual on a Friday's market, after a heavy trade in the fore part of the week.

Prices in all the different classes were unchanged from Thursday's quotations in Friday's report.

TORONTO JUNCTION LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards on Thursday and Friday were 15 cars, composed of 92 cattle, 12 sheep, 331 hogs and 5 calves.

Total receipts for the week were 67 car loads, composed of 1073 cattle, 198 sheep, 971 hogs and 5 calves.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 3.—Cattle—Receipts 175 head; fairly active, steady; prime steers, $5.35 to $5.65; shipping, $4.60 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $5.35; heifers, $3.25 to $4.65; cows, $2.50 to $4.25; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.15.

Veals—Receipts, 300 head; active, 50c to 75c higher, $4.50 to $8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 5700 head; fairly active; pigs, 5 cents higher; others, steady; heavy and mixed, $5.25 to $5.30; yorkers, $5.15 to $5.30; pigs, $5.05 to $5.15; roughs, $4.50 to $4.75; stags, $3 to $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 14,000 head; western lambs, slow; others, steady; native lambs, $6.50 to $8.00; western lambs, $7.75 to $8.10; yearlings, $6.75 to $7; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $5.75 to $6; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $6.

Hershey's Milk Chocolate.

When you go down town to-day ask your grocer for Hershey's Milk Chocolate. It's delicious and besides so much for your money. Twice the ordinary size. Five and ten cent cakes.

John Sloan & Co., Wholesale Grocers, BELLEVILLE.
WHOLESALE AGENTS.

WHICH DO YOU PREFER—

Bag-kneed, lob-sided, ill-fitting trousers, or the kind that look as if they were made by a tailor who knew his business?

Our tailors know how, and they add common sense to their ability.

It is this combination that enables us to make the most perfect-fitting trousers. Men who wear ours always look dressed.

If your dealer does not keep them, send us a postal card and we will tell you where you can get them. They all have our name.

English Woolen Mills Co.
"TROUSER KINGS"
LONDON - - CANADA

PIES.

Fresh Pies out in time for your dinner, made on large 9 inch heavy paper plates, so there will be no charge for plates.

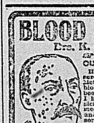
Lemon 20c, Mince 20c, Pumpkin 15c, Apple 15c, Meat Pies 5c each. ICE CREAM EVERY DAY.

Ed. F. Dickens.
—CATERER.

BLOOD DISEASES CURED

Drs. K. & K. Established 25 Years.

☞NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.



Before Treatment.

After Treatment.

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. H. S.

We treat Nervous Debility, Varicocele, Stricture, Vital Weakness, Blood and Skin diseases, Urinary, Bladder and Kidney complaints of men and women.

READER Are you a victim? Have you lost hope? Are you intending to marry? Has your blood been diseased? Have you any weakness? Our New Method Treatment will cure you. What it has done for others it will do for you. CONSULTATION FREE. No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Charges reasonable. BOOKS FREE—"The Golden Monitor" (illustrated), on Diseases of Men. Sealed Book on "Diseases of Women" Free.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. Everything confidential. Question list and cost of treatment FREE.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN
Cor. Michigan Ave. and Shelby St., Detroit, Mich.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK

Genuine Scranton COAL
The Standard Anthracite.
SOLD BY THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office Bridge St. Tel. 293 & 693

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL LEAVENS

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, MARCH 6, 1905. NO. 260

E. F. CLARKE'S FUNERAL.

Many Floral Offerings and Condolences From Public Men.

Toronto, March 6.—The widespread feeling of sorrow at the death of the late. E. F. Clarke, and the esteem in which his memory is held, was fully attested by the long line of citizens which, during Saturday and all Sunday filed past the plain black casket containing the remains.

The arrangements for the funeral have been completed. Owing to the insufficient seating capacity of the Reformed Episcopal Church, the public service will be held in Broadway Tabernacle at College Street and Spadina Avenue at 3 p. m. A private service for the immediate family will be held at 1 o'clock, after which the body will be removed and will lie in state from 2 to 3 o'clock at the Tabernacle.

The route of the procession will be along College to St. George Street, and out to Yonge Street by way of Bloor and to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The order of the procession will be as follows:

Mounted police, County Orange Lodge on foot, and other societies walking; clergy, honorary bearers, active bearers, carriages with flowers, hearse, representatives of the Governor-General, the Senate and House of Commons, the Lieutenant-Governor, and the Local Legislature, City Council, civic officials, Board of Education, officials of Christ Church, fraternal societies in carriages, citizens in carriages.

The floral offerings are very many, and some of them are exceedingly beautiful and emblematical tributes.

Many telegrams and personal letters of condolence from public men and other friends have been received from all parts of the Dominion.

Hoch Indicted for Murder.

Chicago, March 6.—Johann Hoch, the multi-bigamist, has been indicted by the grand jury for murder. The specific charge on which the indictment was found is that Huch murdered his wife, but one, Mrs. Marie Walcker-Hoch.

DON'T MISS THIS!
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

A Cordon of Men and Steel.

Oyama Tightening it and Choking the Russians.

Bloody Fighting and Heavy Losses, Which Will be Greatly Increased When the Masses of Infantry Meet—Jap General Reports that the Japs Are Driving the Russians Before Them—Enemy's Casualties.

Tokio, March 6.—Field Marshal Oyama is continuing his great drives around both flanks of the Russian army. His front is now a huge bow, the base on the Shakhe River, the right arm reaching a point east of Fushun, and the left arm extending to a point west of Mukden. He is steadily tightening the great cord of men and steel. Gen. Kuropatkin is striving desperately to check the Japanese advances, contesting the flank encroachments and hammering the Japanese centre. The Japanese are making heavy gains of ground west of the railway and have captured great quantities of stores and other spoils. There has already been bloody fighting and heavy losses, and this will be vastly increased when the masses of infantry meet.

Japs Drive Russians.

Reporting on March 4, Oyama says that the Japs are driving the Russians before them. He says the new line is fifteen miles southwest of Mukden. He continues: "During a previous engagement the enemy's casualties were heavy. The spoils captured were great. No time to investigate. We captured large quantities of provisions at Wanchangpae and captured a clothing depot at Tahantai."

Estimates of Gen. Kuropatkin's force between Shakhe and Tie Pass, prepared here, give a total of slightly more than 400,000, composed of 335,000 infantry, 33,000 cavalry and 35,000 artillery, with 1,504 guns. This estimate does not include troops at Vladivostock and other garrisons, railway guards and other employes. The grand total east of Lake Baikal is estimated at 700,000 men.

PARAPETS OF CORPSES.

Japs Fight Behind Bodies of Their Dead Comrades.

St. Petersburg, March 6.—Gen. Birjevia telegraphs from Mukden that a determined fight occurred seventeen versts (twelve miles) west of Mukden. He confirms the report that the Japanese have occupied Sinmintin, which is forty miles west of Mukden.

Gen. Kuropatkin reports that the Russians have been compelled to evacuate Gaotuling (Kaotai Pass, where Gen. Linevitch was in command). He says that the Japanese lost enormously in the fighting on the Russian left.

In another despatch, dated March 3, Gen. Kuropatkin says: "The Russians began an offensive movement against the enemy yesterday evening, occupying Salinpu and the neighboring villages to the south. This movement was continued this morning. At the same time reinforcements arrived from Mukden.

Japs Lost Heavily.

"Twenty Japanese battalions repeatedly attacked the flank this morning in the region of Jansintun and Kandolisan. All these attacks were repulsed, with great loss to the Japanese. The commander of the district, reports that there are masses of Japanese corpses in front of our positions.

"The enemy again attacked Gaotuling this morning, three times approaching within 200 paces. They were repulsed with numerous losses. The men in front of the attacking party were dressed in the uniform of the Russian Chambarski Regiment, which is posted in the Gaotuling position.

"The enemy made three attacks on the left flank. The last one was especially vigorous, bayonets being used. All these attacks were repulsed, with great loss to the Japanese. Lieut.-Col. Crost is wounded, but remains in the ranks.

"The losses of the enemy on our left flank are so great that the enemy is making parapets with the corpses of fallen comrades."

AT THE VERY GATES.

Russian Winter Headquarters Now Threatened by Japs.

Mukden, March 6.—The rumble of carts in the streets of Mukden is drowned by the roar of battle, which is raging northwest, west and southwest of the city between Gen. Nogi's Port Arthur veterans and the hastily-assembled army interposed by Gen. Kuropatkin to defend the city and railroads. The stroke came like lightning out of a clear sky.

It is reported that the situation has somewhat improved, but it still is extremely critical. It is reported that the Japanese have been thrown back in the district of Lunfanshan and are retiring along the Sinmintin Road, but heavy fighting is continuing there.

Six Miles From Mukden.

The Japanese vanguard posts are about six miles west of Mukden, where the bursting of shrapnel is plainly visible. A fight also is raging at Suchudsiapu and Lanschanpu, which on Saturday were captured by the Japanese after a terrific combat, the villages several times changing hands. The Japanese on Friday advanced on the Russian position at Shakhe Village, but were beaten off. Twice they attacked Poutiloff Hill, but on both attacks were repulsed.

At Ubentpusa a Japanese guard of over 20 battalions made thirteen attacks on the night of March 3, and the morning of March 5, storming the redoubts most furiously. All these attacks were repulsed with heavy loss. The ground in front of the redoubts was fairly strewn with heaps of Japanese corpses.

Heaviest Duel of the War.

The Japanese and Russian artillery are engaged in the heaviest duel of the war. Russian mortars are fired at the Shakhe Bridge, and Japanese 11-inch guns are in full play, but the Russian fortifications, on which they had been working all winter, offer a fairly secure protection for their defenders.

There is little news of Gen. Kuropatkin's operations on the extreme east of the line. The Russians are holding their ground, and even advancing, but it is reported that a Japanese cavalry division with 12 quick-fire guns, is sweeping far to the eastward on a rapid turning movement. The carnage at the centre and on both flanks has been enormous.

Fate of Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, March 6.—The fate of Gen. Kuropatkin and his army hangs in the balance to-day, depending on the result of the fighting almost in the outskirts of Mukden.

Sees Jap Squadron.

London, March 6.—The German steamer Nubia, according to the correspondent of The Daily Mail at Hong Kong, reports having sighted two Japanese squadrons on Saturday, 100 miles southeast of Hong Kong. The first squadron, comprising nine battleships and cruisers, were seen at 2 o'clock in the morning, going at full speed, with all lights out, and the second squadron of 13 warships, was sighted in the afternoon.

Ever Backward.

Tokio, March 6.—The Russians, driven from Chinhocheng, passed Tallien and have remained at Samlungku, four days, resisting the Japanese advance. The Russians there, although having received reinforcements of over 30,000 men, show signs of retreat. The Japanese are pressing them toward Makunlin. The Japanese have grimly established communication with Benshu and activity on a grand scale is expected.

British Steamer Seized.

Tokio, March 6.—The British steamer Easby Abbey, from Cardiff for Vladivostock, was seized by the Japanese guardships on Feb. 27.—The Swedish steamer Vegga was seized by a Japanese warship on March 2.

RUSSIAN BRUTALITY.

Worse Even Than Ever Before to Students and Women.

St. Petersburg, March 6.—Mail advices which have just arrived here give details of the student riots at Tamsk, Western Siberia, Feb. 28, preceding the closing of the university and technological institute. They represent it as a horrible affair, in which students were herded, shot and slashed by the infantry, Cossacks and police. Nine students were killed and 28 were seriously wounded. Over a hundred young men and women were taken to the police station, where they were stripped of their clothes and some of them were beaten into insensibility with sticks of wood. So shameful was the action of the police that the whole fifth division of police was bound over by the court on the charge of brutality.

Printers Go Out on Strike.

St. Petersburg, March 6.—The Russ and The Viedomosti did not appear yesterday, owing to the fact that the printers are on strike.

All Quiet in Warsaw.

Warsaw, March 6.—It is reported that since Thursday the police of this city have arrested hundreds of persons who were thought likely to participate in any disturbances. They will be released as soon as the situation justifies it. The city was quiet yesterday. Soldiers are still visible everywhere.

Not Very Promising.

Lodz, March 6.—This town is quiet. Strong military patrols guard the streets. There are 7,000 workmen from Poznanski Cotton Mills on strike. The outlook is not promising. The workmen are indignant because several millowners are remaining abroad.

—SINCLAIR'S—

Great Whitewear Sale

Will Continue For a Few Days Longer.

BEAUTIFUL WHITE GARMENTS

Daintiness, refinement, Ample Proportions, Good Materials Neat Sewing—all the merits of home-made clothing. These and many other charms you will at once recognize in the mountains of garments that have turned this into a—

Store of White

Yet not a single garment has been put into stock until we are sure it will add to the "Sinclair" prestige sure that if you buy it here you cannot buy a similar article elsewhere for less, so we've made our prices mean:—

EXTRA GOOD VALUES.

We Invite Inspection and Comparison.

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

Whitewear Sale

We have been particularly fortunate in securing EXTRA VALUES combined with DAINTIER STYLES and a larger price range than in any previous season.

Judging from the number of ladies who have visited our mantle department and the amount of goods sold we feel confident in stating that we have the finest and best showing of Whitewear ever seen in Belleville.

Come prepared to buy—you will want to when you seen the beautiful garments trimmed with all the newest laces, embroideries, insertions, fagoting, beading and baby ribbons.

These garments are marked at a price that is very moderate indeed for the values represented—an inspection will so convince you.

CHILDREN'S WHITEWEAR

—CHILDREN'S DRAWERS Fine Lonsdale Cambric—trimmed with 3 rows of tucks, well sewn. Sale price 20c
—CHILDREN'S DRAWERS Fine Lonsdale Cambric, finished with 3 rows of tucks, trimmed on the bottom with fine val lace. Sale price 50c
—CHILDREN'S UNDERSKIRTS Fine Lonsdale Cambric, trimmed with fine Swiss Embroidery. Sale price range from .... 60c Up
—CHILDREN'S DRESSES Balero Effect, finished in fine tucks, trimmed with fine Embroideries and Insertions. Sale price 90c
—CHILDREN'S DRESSES Fine Lonsdale Cambric, Yoke with Fine Swiss Insertion and Lace, trimmed throughout with fagoting, a very dainty little dress. Sale price $1.65

HAVE YOU SEEN "THE OUT OF SIGHT."

Ribbon Fastener

It's out of sight in every sense of the word—The neatest thing in the way of a Collar and Ribbon Fastener you ever saw.

You will have no use for pins hooks and eyes, stiff forms or tieing or untieing your ribbon neckwear after using one.

The demonstrator will be only too glad to show you how at our novelty counter and the price is just..... 25c

NOTE:—Latest Parisian and New York Bows tied free of charge—this week only.

White Wash Materials

We have just received a large shipment of Beautiful White Wash Goods for Waists.

The patterns are the most attractive and the values the best we have ever offered.

The fancy stripe and stop are among the favorite ones.

An early visit will well repay you.

—See these goods while the stock is complete. Prices range 18c, 25c, 30c, 35c and 38c per yard.

SKIRTS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Skirt with 9 inch flounce of Lonsdale Cambric trimmed with narrow tucks. Sale price 45c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with wide tucked Lawn Flounce, edged with 4 inch frill of fine Torchon Lace. Sale price 65c
—Fine Cambric Skirt with 18 inch Lawn, frill trimmed with 3 rows of wide Torchon Insertion, edged with 4 inch Lace Frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with 18 inch flounce of alternate rows of Lawn and Torchon Insertion, 2 inches wide—all edged with wide lace frill—Lawn dust frill. Sale price $1.75

NIGHT GOWNS

—Gown of good quality Cotton, trimmed round sleeves and neck with lawn frills. Sale price 39c
—Fine Lonsdale Gown with yoke of narrow hemstitched tucks, edged with embroidery—neck and sleeves trimmed with embroidery frill. Sale price 65c
—Lonsdale Cambric Gown with deep yoke of narrow tucks and wide embroidery frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Gown with narrow yoke of fagot stitching and lawn—half sleeves trimmed with fagotting, beading and baby ribbon—new and dainty. Sale price $1.25

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

New Prints

We are showing some very beautiful patterns in this season's New English Prints and Cambrics in Fancy and Plain Stripes and Figures for Shirt Waists, Dresses and Children's wear. We have handled this maker's goods for years and can absolutely guarantee every yard. Price (per yard.) 12 1-2c

Fancy Spot Piques	White Piques.
Fancy Vestings.	English Zephyrs.
White Blouse Linens	Dress Linens.
	Fancy Colored Linens

For Spring Sewing

Our values in Nainsooks, India Linens, Lawns, Dimities, English Long Cloths and Cambrics are all specially selected for fine sewing, being soft and free from dressings.

New Embroideries

Our New Embroideries never were prettier than they are this season. The selection comprises—Fine Swiss and Nainsook Edges, Cambric and Heavy Cotton Edgings, Skirtings, Allovers, Corset Cover Embroideries, Beadings and Medallions.

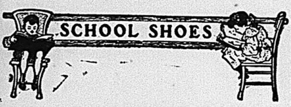
WE ARE BELLEVILLE AGENTS FOR "THE BUTTERICK PAPER PATTERNS" WHICH ARE ALWAYS RELIABLE.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION —Just step in—when passing— sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

THE GRIT SCANDAL IN MANITOBA.

R. E. A. Leech, the Government official, who has been "missing" for some time, has at last turned up and told his story about the mutilation of the electoral lists in Manitoba. A Winnipeg despatth reports:

"His evidence, given with a certain air of frankness, laid bare one of the most brazen and barefaced attempts to steal whole constituencies ever unearthed in Canada, and which, unfortunately, was partially successful.

"It appears from the evidence that as soon as the provincial revision of the lists was completed Leech, who swears he was the chief organizer of the Liberal party in Manitoba, though he refuses to state who paid his salary, or by whom he was employed, or from whom he received instructions, commenced operations by dividing up the various constituencies into polling sub-divisions, for lists were compiled and revised, and employed a staff of clerks to make up lists for these polling sub-divisions. These lists were compiled from official lists received from Ottawa, and Leech says his instructions to his staff of clerks were that voters' names should be placed in those divisions where, from the descriptions of residence in the voters' lists, they were entitled to vote, and where descriptions on lists were not clear, information was gathered from Liberal committees scattered throughout the various constituencies. This was all done before a writ of election was issued or returning officers appointed.

"Leech frankly swore his work was conducted secretly, and information on which he acted was received entirely from Liberal sources, and work he was doing was divulged only to Liberal workers, and Leech furnished books for Liberal canvassers to use, disclosing names of persons who were to be by his sole permission entitled to vote, and purposely these changes made by Leech in the voters' lists were concealed from Conservative candidates and from Conservative workers.

"Leech showed that the returning officers grossly violated their oaths in this respect by handing over this work to the Liberal organizer, which is practically the same as placing in the hands of the Liberal candidates the control of the making out of the voters' lists."

In face of this disclosure we do not see how the Grit candidates "elected" in Manitoba can continue to hold their seats. If they do, they put themselves on a par with the men who receive stolen goods.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Beautiful bright morning, this. The weather man knows how to make himself solid with the housewives. He lets the sun shine on washday.

• • •

Something should certainly be done with those dirty-looking snowbanks on Front St. Why don't the Street Surveyor level them off a bit?

• • •

Mr. R. F. Stupart, commonly known as "Old Probs," shatters another old tradition with the statement that the old saying that if March comes in like a lamb it will go out like a lion, is not borne out by the public records. During the sixty years in which the Observatory has kept records, in the great majority of cases, where March has come in lamblike it has also gone out in the same guise. As a rule it is unpleasant to have our old beliefs ruthlessly demolished, but this is one of the cases wherein there is room for joy for everyone except the coal man.

• • •

The Czar now wants his people to rally round the throne. A few weeks ago the people tried to rally round the Czar and were shot down by his troops Curious fellow, the Czar.

• • •

The City Council, when it opens its session to-night, will sing "We won't go home till morning," the reason being that there are no less than 20 by-laws to put through. The Ladies' Aid should surely be on hand with coffee and cake for the poor City Fathers about midnight this evening. Ald. Panter begs to move that the time be extended for four hours. (Enthusiastic applause from the newspaper men.)

A prominent citizen begs to offer a suggestion, through The Intelligencer, to the management of the Old Boys' Reunion. He thinks that the beautiful Bay of Quinte should be utilized as one of the chief attractions, when the old boys come, and that water fetes should take precedence over all others. The idea is strictly all right. Renewing old acquaintances is dry work, and the more water (there is connected) with it the better.

• • •

Speaking of the Autonomy Bill, the Presbyterian very pertinently and truthfully says:

"It may be argued that for the sake of peace and harmony conscientious scruples should be waived and that this attempt to saddle these new provinces with Separate schools should be allowed to pass without protest. But nothing is ever settled until it is settled right and the issue may as well be faced now and here. The system is one that keeps alive the old feuds that must be buried if we are to have a united Canadianism. It is contrary to the fundamental position of equal rights to all. Our public school system places all on an equal footing and robs no one of any rights that he may justly claim, and unless we are compelled by the constitution, we have no right to fasten for all time upon these new provinces a system which is contrary to provincial rights and directly inimical to united citizenship."

• • •

Sometimes poor downtrodden man gets even for all the things he is compelled to bear at the fair hands of the house-cleaners. The ladies, however, will have their opinion of the man in the following story, which is told by the San Antonio Express:

A young wife who has never cooked so much as a beefsteak in her life, all of a sudden bought a cook book, entered her kitchen and plunged into the construction of an elaborate and difficult veal pie.

The pie, a strange-looking object, was served to her husband, a caustic person, that night at dinner. He helped himself and tried a mouthful and then said:

"What's this?"

"A meat pie," said the wife. "I made it out of Harry Harker's cook book."

"Ah," said the man, "this leathery part is the binding, I suppose."

• • •

RED CROSS COMFORTS.

(Brockville Times.)

There are a few defects in the style of hockey-playing in Canada, but let us not despair. All will be well hereafter if the Riot Act is read before the game and the militia called out promptly. If the police would shoot into the crowd of spectators now and then it would have a calming effect, and a stout sewing-machine for sewing up cuts would also expedite the work of the attendant medical staff. Lack of attention to these details has done much to bring the game into disrepute.

• • •

The Khan, in the Hamilton Herald, pays this neat little tribute to the late "Ned" Clarke:

"Who keeps the gate? Hail the gate, a big man comes! The white-robed sentry looks curiously at the approaching form—the big fellow with the honest face and red hair.

"Halt! I am the White Sentry!"

"And I am the Orange Sentinel."

"Pass him in!" said a great voice.

• • •

It doesn't look as though we can expect a green St. Patrick's day this year.

• • •

Rumors of a church census are heard. The Fishery Inspector will not be in on this one.

• • •

Mr. J. M. Copeland, of Toronto, is a member of the Belleville Old Boys' Association of that city, and is very enthusiastic over the proposed reunion to be held in this city next summer. Mr. Copeland was in the city lately on business, and left today for his home. During his visit he interviewed many prominent Belleville people in regard to the coming reunion, and was extremely glad to see the interest which is being taken in the movement in this city. The Toronto Belleville Old Boys' Association, Mr. Copeland says, is growing in membership and interest all the time. The Toronto Association has already interviewed the railway people and has been given to understand that cheap rates will not be granted if the reunion takes place within a week or so of any Dominion holiday. The idea of the Toronto Association seems to be that August would be the best month in which to have the reunion, and it seems altogether likely that some day in that month will be chosen. The matter of date is, we are told, left entirely in the hands of the Toronto B. O. B. Association, and will probably be fixed at a general meeting of that body, to be held in Toronto this evening. The Queen City Association seems very enthusiastic over the matter, which is not, perhaps, to be wondered at. The dearest spot in all the world still continues to be "Home, Sweet Home."

It will be noted that the Russian generals never "regret to report." They just keep right on claiming victories, when the unbiased despatches show they are on the run, and have no more chance than a snowball in June.

• • •

It seems to be only a question of time when Kuropatkin will be smashed and his army scattered. The Russians have been outgeneraled and out-fought.

• • •

President Roosevelt is a man of peace—he says so himself. To most people "Teddy" appears to trot in the class of "Buck" Fanshaw, Mark Twain's hero, who "would have peace if he had to fight for it."

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCausland Bros.

Bakers and Confectioners.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

To-morrow The Intelligencer will begin the publication of a new serial story, "Linked By Fate," by Charles Garvice, who has written a number of very popular stories.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening.

Since Saturday a drunk and three tramps have been occupants of the cells.

Remember the evenings of March 29th and 30th, on which occasions there will be an entertainment given for the benefit of the Hospital.

In some of the churches yesterday the death of Mr. E. F. Clarke, M. P., of Centre Toronto, was referred to as a severe loss to the country.

The roof of a large shed in rear of the City Hotel collapsed this morning. Snow upon the roof was responsible for the trouble.

Monthly meeting Board of Trade Tuesday (to-morrow) evening. General business.

• • •

At a meeting of the local Commercial Travellers' Association, held on Saturday night, a motion was passed endorsing the coming Old Boys' Reunion, and pledging the Association to do all in its power to make the same a success.

A new serial story, "Linked By Fate," will begin to-morrow. It is said to be a most interesting story.

A Madoc correspondent writes: A year ago the Tories were in power in Madoc village. The assessor assessed a certain house at $1,000; it was formerly assessed at $700. Father and son, owners of the house, were so angry at the raise that they travelled from the north home to vote and help to turn the Tories out. Now the Grits have the say, and their assessors put the house up to $1,200! "Has a Daniel come to judgment?"

Austin Provins, Deseronto, met with a serious and painful accident at Dalton's factory. He had the fingers of the left hand lacerated by a saw. The middle finger was so badly injured that amputation was necessary.

Twenty per cent. Discount Sale at the Syndicate Store — one-fifth off all purchases, except grey cottons, steamlooms and spool cottons. This is a great opportunity for your spring goods. It lasts for 3 days' of this week, and the first 3 days of next week. Don't neglect this Sale. —The Paterson Syndicate Store, Front St., Belleville. m1,4,6

The funeral of the late Mr. N. B. Falkiner took place at 9.30 on Sunday morning and was attended by the relatives and invited friends.

T. Haslip, butcher, has just received a choice carload of Western cattle. m3-6t

See auction sale advertisement household goods, R. E. Clarke's, Victoria avenue and Charles street, Wednesday, March 8th. Sale commences 9.30 a.m., sharp. 4-2t

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont. f18.25,m4,11,18,25,a1

A gift in the hand is worth two on the tree.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"HEARTS OF OAK" TO-NIGHT.

There are millions of play-goers who have witnessed the remarkable scene in "Shore Acres" where the character of old "Uncle Nat" remains on the stage for seven to ten minutes locking the doors, fixing the fires, latching the windows and placing everything in order for the night, and yet not a word is spoken. But what a remarkable story is told by the old man's actions and expression of his face. To the spectator who witnesses this scene the effect is never forgotten. One reads by the old man's actions and his kindly face all that is passing in his mind. Simply by expression and stage business the sad story is told to the audience of the old man's self-sacrifice in giving up the woman he loves so that she might become the wife of his brother. This scene is so effective that men and women feel a choking sensation in the heart and unbidden tears well to the eyes. There are similar scenes to this in Herne's play of "Hearts of Oak," and this charming ideal story of New England life will be presented by a superb company surrounded by a wealth of realistic scenic effects at the Carman opera house to-night.

Three-ton Rhinoceros Is Served at Banquet

New York, March 4.—The Canadian Camp ate a rhinoceros dinner last night at the Hotel Astor.

The menu cards announced that the "filet of rhino" had been prepared from a rhinoceros presented to the camp by Prince Henry of Prussia. The rhino was served, hide, horns, hoofs and tail. It weighed a little less than three tons, and was hauled to the hotel in a four-horse truck.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST GERMS.

People With Weak Stomachs Most Liable to Catch Disease.

When the stomach and digestive organs are weak, the food does not digest, and there is a sour, slimy, fermenting mass, making it an ideal spot for the disease germs to multiply. The only way to protect yourself against disease germs is to strengthen the stomach and digestive organs, and Mi-o-na is the only agent, so far as is known, that will accomplish this.

The ordinary medicine that is taken for indigestion and stomach troubles is advertised to act upon the food alone, and hence can give no more than temporary relief. Mi-o-na is a certain cure in all cases of stomach troubles, excepting cancer, because it enables the stomach and digestive organs to act in the way Nature intended they should. Drugs cannot digest the food; they simply decompose it.

If you suffer with distress after eating, pains in the head, chest, sides and back, belching of gases and undigested food, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, or vertigo, heartburn, variable appetite, sick headaches, spots before the eyes, and have a general feeling of despondency, weakness, and debility you should at once strengthen the stomach and digestive system by the use of Mi-o-na. There is no liquid, no alcohol, no spoonful doses with Mi-o-na. Just one simple tablet out of a fifty cent box before eating, and your stomach will soon become so strong and healthy that you will be germ proof. Ask J. S. McKeown to show you the guarantee under which he sells Mi-o-na; costs nothing unless it cures.

In the Justice Shop.

DRUNK.

Joseph Le Brash, a Frenchman and a stranger, was charged with intoxication. He contributed $2 to the city treasury and was allowed to go.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure E. W. Grove's signature is on each box 25c

The real "stuff" in a man shows when he loses his job. One man is panic-stricken, and regales his friends with his misfortune. Another, through timely advertising, secures a better position before his last day in the old one comes around.

Doesn't it strike you that this winter is what might be described as just a trifle too wide open?

Gifts show which way the wind blows.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fine and cold to-day. Tuesday, easterly winds, stationary, and a little higher temperature.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m.	12
12 m.	24
2 p.m.	28
3 p.m.	28

BANANAS
PINEAPPLES
BITTER ORANGES
VALENCIA ORANGES
NAVEL ORANGES
MESSINA LEMONS

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee

'Phone 128.

The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

Coffee

Wallbridge & Clarke will demonstrate Coffee on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 6 to 10th inclusive at their Bridge St. Store. Drop in any time and have a cup of Coffee. Everybody invited—No obligation to buy.

Honey

DELICIOUS WHITE HONEY.

In the comb. In sections.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER. Belleville.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

—TO MAKE ROOM FOR—

SPRING - STOCK

We have reduced the prices on all odd lines of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, Trunks and Valises.

VERMILYEA & SON

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count 5 marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Installment Collector for merchandise accounts. Good salary and expenses. Address, Manufacturer, P. O. Box, 1027, Philadelphia, Pa.

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course—Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order.

STORIES FOR THE LADIES

NO MAN SHOULD FOOL WITH HIS WIFE'S EDUCATION.

"I see," said the Stenographer, that a Chicago woman is making for a divorce from her husband because he makes her memorize long poems and study the dictionary."

"If she wants revenge why doesn't she recite the poems to him?" asked the Bookkeeper. "Looks to me like a woman who had a Browning repertoire had the means of getting good and even with her husband in her hands. What's the mortification of being divorced compared to the agony of being elocuted to?"

"Nobody could blame her if she did," responded the Stenographer.

"He's trying to add an annex to wifie's education," returned the Stenographer. "It seems that her sentiments are all right but her spelling is rickety, and that when she quit murmuring 'Oo's ducky is oo,' and 'I se oo's, lovey dovey,' he discovered that she was short on grammar and shy on vocabulary. Hence it was the dictionary and the poem for hers.

"He's a fellow whose literary tastes are away up in G, and he's trying to drag her up to his altitude with a block and tackle, so to speak, and she isn't enjoying the elevating process. She says that it has given her nervous prostration trying to live up to him.'

"People ought to get somebody that trots in their own class when they tie up in double harness," remarked the Bookkeeper.

"They ought," agreed the Stenographer, "and I'm next to it that if men would find out what sort of wife they want before they marry her, instead of after the ceremony, they'd cut out a lot of misery for themselves and others. The trouble with a man is that he thinks a girl is nothing but a lump of dough that he can work over into any sort of a shape he pleases after he marries her, while the truth is she is just as set and immovable in her ways as the Rock of Ages."

"A man ought to be able to form his wife's character,' said the Bookkeeper.

"Form fiddlesticks," exclaimed the Stenographer. "A girl's character is formed eighteen or twenty years before a man ever meets her, and every year she is old just rubs it in.

"What business, anyway, has a man got to expect that a girl is going to be anything but what she is? He picks her out on her face value, and then when he gets her home he kicks because she isn't something else. Beastly and unjust and unreasonable, I call it.

"Here's this Chicago welcher, who deliberately marries a woman without education, and then he makes her life miserable because she isn't able to discuss Ibsen and have subtle views about Maeterlinck's philosophy. If he wanted a wife who is going to be an intellectual companion instead of a good looker why didn't he hunt up a bespectacled schoolma'am in the first place?"

"And he isn't the only one that expects a woman to do a lightning change act of her disposition and character and habits the minute she gets married. I know a hundred men who married girls because they were so pretty and dainty and delicate and ignorant, and who spend their time knocking them now because they are not sensible and practical and economical and domestic.

"If the men wanted kitchen utensils instead of parlor ornaments why didn't they marry them? The woods are full of all kinds of girls, and there isn't any reason for a man not getting the kind he wants to begin with, instead of trying to change what he does marry into a different variety."

"Men don't seem to meet with much luck in making over their wives' characters according to their tastes," admitted the Bookkeeper.

"No," said the Stenographer, "nobody but God himself can change a grub into a butterfly."

BELLE BLITZ.

DADDY OF THEM ALL

PIERRE FORGET, A MONTREAL CENTENARIAN, WILL DANCE ON HIS 80th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY, WHICH IS STILL THREE YEARS AWAY.

Montreal, March 4.—Mr. Pierre Forget, 100 years of age, and his wife, who is 96, celebrated to-day the 76th anniversary of their marriage, and their children down to the fifth generation joined with them in merry-making. The old gentleman is a little deaf, but, apart from that, he is remarkably young for his years. He takes a walk outside almost every day.

"It has often happened to me to say," he observed to-day, "my daughter go tell your daughter that her daughter's child is crying. My wife is 96 years of age, but if she takes after her mother she is good for several years yet, for her mother died at the age of 104. I have never worn glasses, and if God grants us life until we celebrate the 80th anniversary of our marriage you will hear of the celebration, I can assure you. I belong to a race of centenarians, and I am strong and fit to live for quite a number of years to come. My father died at the age of 100 and my mother at the age of 96. We have had thirteen children, the youngest of whom is now 46 years of age, and the eldest will celebrate her golden wedding in three years. My wife and I will be present to dance a step at the celebration."

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

Indigestion?

I OFFER ALL STOMACH SUFFERERS A FULL DOLLAR'S WORTH OF MY REMEDY FREE TO TRY.

I can afford to offer a full dollar's worth free because mine is no ordinary remedy. Ordinary remedies treat symptoms. My remedy treats the causes that produce the symptoms. Symptom treatment must be kept up forever—as long as the cause is there. My treatment may be stopped as soon as it has removed the cause, for that is always the end of trouble.

Stomach trouble is not really a sickness, but a symptom. It is a symptom that a certain set of nerves is ailing. Not the voluntary nerves that enable you to walk and talk and act—but the automatic stomach nerves over which your mind has no control.

I have not room here to explain how these tender, tiny nerves control and operate the stomach. How worry breaks them down and causes indigestion. How misuse wears them out and causes dyspepsia. How neglect may bring on kidney, heart and other troubles through sympathy. I have not room to explain how these nerves may be reached and strengthened and vitalized and made well by a remedy I spent thirty years in perfecting—now known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I have not room to explain how this remedy by removing the cause, puts a certain end to indigestion, belching, heartburn, insomnia, nervousness, dyspepsia. All of these things are fully explained in the book I will send you when you write.

In more than a million homes my remedy is known. It has cured stomach troubles, not once, but repeatedly—over and over again. Yet you may not have heard of it—or hearing, may have delayed or doubted. So I make this offer to you, a stranger, that every possible excuse for doubt may be removed. Send me no money—make me no promise—take no risk. Simply write and ask. If you have not tried my remedy, I will send you an order on your druggist for a full dollar bottle—not a sample, but the regular standard bottle he keeps constantly on his shelves. The druggist will require no conditions. He will accept my offer as cheerfully as though your dollar laid before him. He will send the bill to me.

Will you accept this opportunity to learn at my expense absolutely, how to be rid forever of all forms of stomach troubles—to be rid not only of the trouble, but of the very cause which produced it? Write to-day.

For a free order for a full dollar bottle you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 69 Racine, Wis. State which book you want.

Book 1 on Dyspepsia.
Book 2 on the Heart.
Book 3 on the Kidneys.
Book 4 for Women.
Book 5 for Men.
Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases are often cured by a single bottle. For sale at forty thousand drug stores.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

HAROLD.

Mrs. Scott has returned from Eldorado.

Miss Effie Kirk, of Chapman, is the guest of her sister in this village.

Miss Archer, of Marmora, is visiting her parents.

Our teacher, Mr. Fred A. Ashley, gave an up-to-date party to a number of his friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bailey on the evening of Wednesday, March 1st. At 8 o'clock sharp the usher appeared and each young man with his best girl were shown to the dining-room, where tea was served. After this part of the programme had been enjoyed all were as comfortably seated as possible in the parlor, and the rest of the evening was spent in music, singing and parlor games. The young people's smiling faces proved that they were being pleasantly entertained. During the evening there were two prizes given, Messrs. Fred Cook and Harry Heath being the lucky gentlemen. At a late hour the crowd left for their homes, feeling grateful towards Fred for the evening's entertainment, also thanking the kind friends of the home for their hospitality.

Mrs. Will Patterson and little son have returned home, after spending a few days with Mr. Robert Scott.

ELMWOOD.

Our roads at present are in a very bad condition.

We are much pleased to learn that Mrs. A. McDonald, who has been seriously ill, is recovering.

Dr. J. McDonald, of Pueblo, California, who was called home to his mother's bedside during her recent illness, has returned.

Miss May Collins, of Fuller, who has been visiting her cousin, Maggie McAvoy, has returned home.

Quite a number from around here attended the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, previous to their departure for the city. Games and dancing were indulged in until the wee sma' hours of the morning.

We all extend our congratulations to Miss Sarah Jordan and Mr. Andrew Reid, who were quietly married last week.

Miss Mary McAvoy, who has been visiting friends in Fuller, has returned home.

Mr. Henry Atkins lost a valuable cow last week.

There is quite an epidemic of la grippe in the neighborhood.

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

LAMB-LIKE, LION-LIKE.

SCIENCE REFUTES FAMILIAR MARCH PROVERB—OLD PROBS AS TO COLD FACTS.

March came in like a mild and merry lamb, and, according to the wise old weather saw, should therefore go out like a roaring lion. But according to the chief impressario of the weather in Canada, Mr. R. F. Stupart, director of the Meteorological Survey, Toronto, the aforesaid weather saw is not wise, but rather otherwise.

Science is no respecter of popular fallacies. The weather records of the Observatory officials establish the fact that a lamb-like entry of the windy month is more apt to be followed by a lamb-like departure than by a lion-like exit. It was so last year, and it has been so in most of the preceding 60 years during which the records have been taken at the Observatory.

The reason is natural enough. As spring advances the extremes of heat and cold naturally lessen, and hence there are fewer storms. The average daily temperature during March raises rapidly, and consequently lion-like days become more exceptional. The wise-acre who noted the bright sunshine and the suspicion of genial springtime in the air and who shook his head and said, "We'll pay up for this at the last of the month," may rest assured that science suggests a happier emendation of the old provero. If March comes in like a lamb, it will go out like a lamb, is the truer rendering. But even for this there is no scientific guarantee. The weather is as fickle as a woman's mind. The wind bloweth not only where, but when, it listeth, and "Old Probs" still declines to prophesy for more than 24 hours ahead, the almanacs and the weather proverbs to the contrary notwithstanding.

The only weather he is absolutely sure of is the weather of the past. And one of the past certainties is that the winter now closing has been an exceptionally cold one. The average temperature of the past three months has been some six degrees below the average of 60 years, and within two degrees of last year's exceptional winter record. The old inhabitant, who says the snowfall and the cold of these modern and softer times are not to be compared to the old-time winters, stands refuted by cold facts. Probably warmer houses and better plumbing now account for the popular belief that it used to be colder, and that there were bigger snowdrifts in the olden days. The weather does not change with the onward march of civilization.

The comparatively cold wave that came down from the north may have been an attempt on the part of March to hedge a little on the augury of the lamb-like entry theory. The lion and the lamb were, so to speak, trying to lie down together. However "Old Probs" says the cold wave will not last long and the mercury will continue, in a day or so, to record its daily increase of average temperature.

The snowfall this winter has been about the same as last winter in Ontario. In the Maritime provinces it has been exceptionally large, while in the west it has been below average. Manitoba and the Territories have enjoyed an unusually fine winter this year. At present the prairie lands of Alberta and Assiniboia are practically free of snow, and the people of Calgary and Medicine Hat are basking in a maximum temperature of 60 degrees above zero.

WHEN THE MAID LEAVES SUDDENLY

You will find Clark's Cooked Meats, in tins, nicer than the dinner she was going to prepare — good and wholesome.

Literary Notes.

FASHIONS IN NEW YORK.

Fashion is certainly exploiting the popular shirt-waist suit in every possible direction. Its simple and graceful lines are not only the correct thing for morning wear, but, with appropriate modifications, they form the basis of afternoon gowns also. Several of the new shirt-waist suits are cut on sailor lines.

The most prominent factor in the advancing styles is the decided difference shown in the treatment of morning and of afternoon gowns, despite the fact that both kinds are built upon shirt-waist lines. The morning gowns are of serge, linen, light-weight tweed, cotton or the new pongee. Softer goods are used for the afternoon gowns. Voile, taffeta silk, collenne, handkerchief linen, and all sheer materials are correct. The skirts of morning gowns extend to the instep; those for afternoon and carriage wear are round, resting two inches upon the floor, and show a rippling fulness about the feet. The plaited skirt is very appropriate for walking.

Linens, plain, embroidered, and inset with heavy lace, appear to cover every possible want. Used alike for automobile wraps and for gowns for morning and afternoon wear, the wardrobe that has no linen garment this year will be hopelessly out of date.

Lingerie frocks are always appropriate for little girls, and this year they are extremely smart in every detail. Their other gowns also, like those above described for their elders, show touches of lingerie, notably in the eyelet and swiss embroidery that launders so easily. Coats for cool days are important features in a little girl's wardrobe. The always stylish reefer is well-nigh indispensable.—From the Delineator for April.

There are times when the mysteries of life seem greater than the mystery of death.

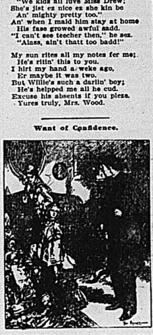
HIS MA'S OWN BOY.

Dere teecher, pleze excuse my sun
 Fer absents yisterday.
I hadd to have him home because
 My servint went away.
He washes dishes, swepes an' dusts
 As expert as cud be;
We're all soe proud of him at home,
 He's such a helpp to me.

"Say, mother," he sez yisterday,
 "We kids all luve Miss Drew;
She's jist ez nice ez she kin be
 An' mighty pretty too."
An' when I maid him stay at home
 His fase growed awful sadd.
"I can't see teecher then," he sez.
 "Alass, ain't thatt too badd!"

My sun rites all my notes fer me;
 He's ritin' this to you.
I hirt my hand a weke ago,
 Er maybe it was two.
But Willie's such a darlin' boy;
 He's helpped me all he cud.
Excuse his absents if you pleze.
 Yures truly, Mrs. Wood.

Want of Confidence.



Little Girl (to curate, who is waiting for his hostess)—Don't touch anything while I'm gone, will you, Mr. Jones?—Punch.

Alliterative Slang.

"Yes," said the student of slang in a modern educational institution, "I got it in the neck all right."

"Tut, tut!" exclaimed the professor of billingsgate who had overheard his remark. "I am astonished that an advanced student such as you would be so careless in his choice of terms for expressing such a splendid idea. You should have said, 'I've got it where Gertie got the goiter,' or employed some other strong alliterative term."

No Trouble About Prayers.

"Mother," cried six-year-old Frank eagerly, "I want Jack here to stay all night, so we can get our sleds out early."

"No, Frank. Nurse wouldn't stay if she had the trouble of taking care of another boy," replied the parent.

"I don't see what trouble Jack would be," grumbled Frank. "He washes and dresses himself, and he doesn't say any prayers."

The Human Mimosa.

"Closely is such a stingy chump. He goes around rattling the dollars in his pocket, but he never spends a cent."

"Yes, I have noticed that too. Do you know why he reminds me of a sensitive plant?"

"No; why?"

"Why, he wilts every time you touch him."

A Sort of Acquaintance.

Mrs. Grimes—Do you know Mrs. Sykes? She lives in the same hotel as you do.

Mrs. Joslyn—No, I can't say that I know her, but we are on pounding acquaintance with the Sykeses. They make so much noise we have to rap on the wall now and then to keep them quiet.

Down and Out.

He had loved and lost.

"Never again," he sighed. "I shall never love again."

"Oh, yes, you will," rejoined the heartless beauty.

"Never again," he repeated. "I'm going to turn over a new leaf and save money."

The Lecture In Mathematics.

Professor—Yes, sir, if you were thrown like a stone you would describe a parabola in returning to earth.

Student (wearily)—I think I'll go out and get thrown at once then, professor. That's about the only way I'll ever learn to describe one of 'em.

No Pleasure In It.

Mrs. Chase—Oh, I don't like to go to that store! It's so unsatisfactory to do our shopping there.

Mrs. Shoppen—Why, they have everything there.

Mrs. Chase—That's just it. No matter what you ask for, they can suit you right off.

Very Queer.

"Well, well, that's a funny thing."

"What is?"

"Miss Passay was an old maid before she married, and now that her husband is dead she has become a young widow."

As to Kit's Complexion.

Maud—Have you seen Kit Garlinghorn's sealskin? It's nothing but an imitation on the face of it.

Irene—Well, so's her own skin.

It Sometimes Fails.

"There's nothing like perseverance. It wins out in the long run."

"Not always. Did you ever see a hen on a porcelain egg?"—Brooklyn Life.

Might Help Some.

"Is Clarence Appleby the sort of person one would care to cultivate?"

"Well, a little cultivation wouldn't hurt him any."—Cleveland Leader.

My Own Four Walls.

The storm and night is on the waste,
 Wild through the wind the herdsman calls,
As fast on willing nag I haste
 Home to my own four walls.

Black, tossing clouds, with scarce a glimmer,
 Envelope earth like sevenfold palls;
But wifekin watches, coffee-pot doth simmer,
 Home in my own four walls.

A home and wife, I, too, have got,
 A hearth to blaze, whate'er befalls;
What needs a man that I have not
 Within my own four walls?

King George has palaces of pride,
 And armed grooms must ward those halls;
With one stout bolt I safe abide
 Within my own four walls.

Not all his men may sever this;
 It yields to friends' and monarchs' calls;
My whinstone house my castle is—
 I have my own four walls.

When fools or knaves do make a rout
 With gigmen, dinners, balls, cabals,
I turn my back and shut them out—
 These are my own four walls.

The moorland house, though rude it be,
 May stand the brunt when prouder falls;
'Twill screen my wife, my books and me,
 All in my own four walls.

—Thomas Carlyle.

SIDNEY COUNCIL.

Town Hall, Sidney, March 1, '05.

Special meeting called by the Reeve. Members present: S. T. Vandervoort, reeve; C. H. Ketcheson, M. F. Sullivan, J. M. Scott, J. H. Farrell, councillors.

Township Solicitor, Mr. McCamon, presented report re Morrow road lawsuit.

Moved by Ketcheson, seconded by Scott, that the report (re Marrow and Township of Sidney lawsuit) by our Township Solicitor, be accepted, and that he be instructed to pay the amount due the township and Township Treasurer, Mr. J. M. Farley. — Carried.

Moved by Ketcheson, seconded by Farrell, that Mr. Turner and Mr. Pond be heard re Electric Ry. Mr. Ketcheson introduced a by-law to provide for a loan of $15,000 to the Ontario Electric Railway. This by-law was given its second reading and will be submitted to ratepayers of 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th concessions of Township of Sidney, on Tuesday, April 11th, 1905.

Moved by Ketcheson, seconded by Scott, that $31 be paid for care of Mrs. Davey, to be placed in S. T. Vandervoort's hands; also that $10 be placed in hands of J. Donohue for care of J. J. Smith.—Carried.

Moved by Vandervoort, seconded by Ketcheson, that this Council request the Honorable body the Provincial Legislature of the Province of Ontario, to favorably consider the Township of Sidney when locating the proposed new Model Farm to be instituted in the said Province of Ontario.—Carried.

Moved by Ketcheson, seconded by Farrell, that Council now adjourn.—Carried.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,

STOCK BROKER,

Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.

Private N. Y. and Chicago wires. Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March 6

Stock.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	90	90½
do. pref	102½	102½
St. Paul	178⅛	178½
Mo. P	109½	109¾
Union Pac	131½	134½
C.P.R.	141¼	143
Sou Pac	70½	70½
R. I	35½	35⅛
Ills. C	159	158½
Sou. Ry	36½	36½
Texas	39⅞	39½
B. & O	109½	109⅞
N. Y. C.	157½	157
Penn	143	143⅜
Soo	115½	117
T. W	110	110
Erie	47⅞	47⅞
do. pref	82⅜	82⅞
Reading	96	96⅝
C. O.	50⅞	50⅞
O. & W	54⅞	54⅞
Manhattan	171½	170½
W.C	24½	24½
L. & N	143½	143
A.F	35⅞	35⅞
Nor	83½	83⅜
Wab	23	23⅛
do. pref	46⅞	47⅛
W. U.	93⅞	....
C. G. W	23	23
T. C. I.	89	90⅛
U.S. Stl	36½	36⅜
do. pref	96½	95⅛
Sugar	148⅜	147⅞
B. R. T	67	66½
P O.	110⅜	110⅛
A.C.P	78½	78½
Met	123⅞	123½
Alo	43⅞	43⅛
A. R.	92	91⅞

May wheat opened at $1.15½; closed at $1.15⅝
July wheat opened at 98⅞; closed at 98⅝
May corn opened at 31⅞; closed at 32
July corn opened at 31⅞; closed at 32
May pork opened at $12.61 closed at $12.80

Cured Cancer of the Stomach

A lady, very well known in the locality in which she lives, has sent us a letter telling how she was cured of Cancer of the Stomach through use of our Vegetable Cancer Cure. Send for particulars, also six cents for our booklet "Cancer, its Cause and Cure." Our constitutional remedy is safe, pleasant to take, and treatment can be carried on in the privacy of your home and without the knowledge even of your own family. Write to-day.

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of Robert Edward Clarke, grocer, Belleville, insolvent.

Notice is hereby given that the above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me, for the benefit of his creditors, under R.S.O. Ch. 124, and amending Acts.

The creditors are notified to meet at the law office of W. Jeffers Diamond, barrister, 338 Front street west, Belleville, on Monday the 13th day of March, 1905, at 2 p.m., for the purpose of receiving a statement of affairs and the appointment of inspectors, and to give directions for the disposal of the estate.

All persons claiming to rank upon the estate of the said Insolvent, must file their claims, proved by affidavit, with me on or before the day of said meeting, with full particulars of claim and the nature of security, if any, held; after which date I will proceed to distribute the assets of said estate, having regard only to those claims of which I have received notice.

SAMUEL MARLATT KENNEY,
by W. Jeffers Diamond, his Solicitor.
Belleville, March 4, 1905. 4,6

ATTENTION

to details has a lot to do with our success. We pay as much attention to the little things in this store as we do to the more important. We expect our

Pianos

to be perfect in every particular. Your trade is solicited on that basis. We do not ask you to accept anything less. Who can promise you anything more?

J. A. GOODSELL & CO.

436 Front St., Next to W. W. Chown Co.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free Prices 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation

Sign of Good Manners.

As the oldest of the family Anna felt keenly the necessity of keeping a close watch upon the manner of her two younger sisters lest disgrace be attached to the good name of the family. Her intentions, at all events, were beyond cavil, although as much could not always be said for her manner of carrying them out.

Certainly the provocation was great when Anna's younger sister deliberately put an entire hard boiled egg in her mouth in the crowded steam car on the way home from school. Only a few persons saw the dreadful deed, yet Anna straightway rose, crossed the aisle and administered to the offender a box on the ear which resounded from one end of the car to the other. Thereupon she resumed her seat in the proud consciousness of a duty well performed.

"Why, Anna, how could you do such a thing, and publicly, too?" said her mother later after hearing a tearful recital of the incident from the lips of her youngest daughter.

"Well, I just wanted to show the people," was the reply, "that even though Letty behaved so badly I at least had been taught to have good manners."—St. Louis Republic.

HOPE FOR EVERYBODY.

There Seems to be no Case so Bad that Anti-Pill Cannot Cure it. A Strong Claim, but well Supported.

Just recently a physician in Lincoln, Nebraska, has made a discovery which is exciting the interest and wonder of the medical profession all over the world.

Dr. Leonhardt began on the theory that the poisons sent through the system by the rotting and fermentation of undigested foods were the prime cause of nearly every disease.

He set to work to discover, if possible, a remedy that would stimulate and heal the mucous membrane lining of the stomach and bowels, till, by their normal, healthy action, perfect digestion would be restored.

He succeeded, and his prescription he called Anti-Pill. The proof that his work was well done is found in the long list of remarkable cures made by Anti-Pill.

Anti-Pill is 50c a bottle, at all druggists, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada. 112

Recommended and sold by J. S. McKeown.

March 1905

And it's March to the letter in our store . . . .

MAKE THIS YOUR SHOE STORE

YOU CAN'T DO BETTER. DON'T THINK YOU CAN DO AS WELL.

Bring in all the children, not forgetting baby, and we'll shoe the entire family in a manner that will please you, and at prices that will bring you here again.

New Spring Goods Arriving Daily

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

Hershey's Milk Chocolate.

When you go down town to-day ask your grocer for Hershey's Milk Chocolate. It's delicious and besides so much for your money. Twice the ordinary size. Five and ten cent cakes.

John Sloan & Co., Wholesale Grocers, BELLEVILLE.

WHOLESALE AGENTS.

Struck Ore

In our big Tunnel. Mining Experts say it will grow richer and better. Many large gold veins are just ahead and will be cut in rapid succession. We own the 200 acres.

WITHOUT DEBT.

AT GOLDFIELD

The camp of Quick Fortunes. We own 100 acres, with rich Gold Strikes all around. Gold Veins Discovered. JOIN NOW and

Help Us Dig

Every Share of Golden Sun Stock gives ownership in tne Goldfield 100 acres and Colorado 200—total 300 acres. Dividends declared on both would be

TWO DIVIDENDS FROM ONE INVESTMENT.

$15 Buys 1000 Shares

$45 buys 3,300 shares. $90 buys 6,600 shares.
Full paid, Non-assessable.

BUY BEFORE THE PRICE ADVANCES

500 - PER - CENT.

ORDER AT ONCE

the cheapest and best, with ore in the mines and cash in the treasury. If over-subscribed your money will be returned. Highest Commercial and Bank References.

MAKE ALL REMITTANCES PAYABLE TO

The Golden Sun Mining & Milling Co.

204 KITTREDGE BUILDING: DENVER, COLO.

PIES.

Fresh Pies out in time for your dinner, made on large 9 inch heavy paper plates, so there will be no charge for plates.

Lemon 20c, Mince 20c, Pumpkin 15c, Apple 15c, Meat Pies 5c each. ICE CREAM EVERY DAY.

Ed. F. Dickens.

—CATERER.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

A Los Angeles man has succeeded in growing a green carnation. He'd better keep his eye on it, or Doc Dolan will steal it to wear on St. Patrick's day.

• • •

Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the California State University says that bachelors are the bandits, guerrillas and outcasts of the present social organization. Now, you bachelors, will you be good.

• • •

There is a limit to human endurance. During the third encore of an illustrated song a young man shot himself in a Chicago theatre.

• • •

The Mad Mullah of Somali has more lives than a cat. No matter how often he dies he is sure to bob up serenely in a few months. He has just recovered from his recent death and gone on the warpath again.

• • •

Many curious reasons are given for absence from school. Here is one: "Dear Sir,—Samuel cannot come to school this afternoon, as he has glued his head to the dresser, and we have not been able to separate him yet."

• • •

A railroad station agent in New Jersey beat off two robbers with a stove poker. It would have been more in accordance with tradition to use a coupling-pin.

• • •

"A man may do all his whittling before he is 60," said Aunt Jerusha, when she had read Dr. Osler's rules, "but he must stay around afterwards and clear up the muss."

• • •

A Pittsburg man is suing for $5,000 for being put out of a theatre. Must have been a great show!

VERY FEW PEOPLE

ARE FREE FROM SOME FORM OF INDIGESTION.

Very few people are free from some form of indigestion, but scarcely two will have the same symptoms.

Some suffer most directly after eating, bloating from gas in stomach and bowels, others have heartburn or sour risings, still others have palpitation of heart, headaches, sleeplessness, pains in chest and under shoulder blades, some have extreme nervousness, as in nervous dyspepsia.

But whatever the symptoms may be, the cause in all cases of indigestion is the same, that is the stomach for some reason fails to properly and promptly digest what is eaten.

This is the whole story of stomach troubles in a nutshell. The stomach must have rest and assistance, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give it both by supplying those natural digestives which every weak stomach lacks, owing to the failure of the peptic glands in the stomach to secrete sufficient acid and pepsin to thoroughly digest and assimilate the food eaten.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other wholesome food, and this claim has been proven by actual experiment, which anyone can perform for himself in the following manner: Cut a hard boiled egg into very small pieces, as it would be if masticated; place the egg and two or three of the tablets in a bottle or jar containing warm water heated to 98 degrees (the temperature of the body) and keep it at this temperature for three and one-half hours, at the end of which time the egg will be as completely digested as it would have been in the healthy stomach of a hungry boy.

The point of this experiment is that what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do to the egg in the bottle they will do to the egg or meat in the stomach and nothing else will rest and invigorate the stomach so safely and effectually. Even a little child can take Stuart's Tablets with safety and benefit if its digestion is weak and the thousands of cures accomplished by their regular daily use are easily explained when it is understood that they are composed of vegetable essences, aseptic, pepsin, diastase and Golden Seal, which mingle with the food and digest it thoroughly, giving the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate.

Dieting never cures dyspepsia, neither do pills and cathartic medicines, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines.

When enough food is eaten and promptly digested there will be no constipation, nor in fact will there be disease of any kind, because good digestion means good health in every organ.

The merit and success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are world-wide and they are sold at the moderate price of 50 cents for full sized package in every drug store in the United States and Canada, as well as in Europe.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

Time changes all things—with the exception of comic opera jokes.

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Closed Lower, Chicago Higher on Saturday—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

Saturday Evening, March 4.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ¼d to ½d lower than yesterday, and corn futures ¼d to ½d higher.

At Chicago, May wheat closed ¼c higher than yesterday, May corn ⅛c higher, and May oats ⅜c higher.

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, white, bush.	$1 06	to $1 08
Wheat, red, bush.	1 06	1 06
Wheat, spring, bush.	1 02	....
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 90	0 92½
Barley, bush.	0 52	....
Oats, bush.	0 45	0 45½
Beans, bush.	1 00	1 10
Rye, bush.	0 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush.	0 54	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 4.—Closing—Wheat—Spot nominal. Futures quiet; March nominal, May 6s 10⅝d, July 6s 11d.

Corn—Spot firm; American mixed, new, 4s 2½d; American mixed, old, 4s 11½d. Futures quiet; March 4s 2½d, May 4s 4⅛d.

Peas—Canadian steady, 5s 10d.

Flour—St. Louis fancy winter steady, 9s 9d.

Hops—In London (Pacific Coast), steady, £6 to £7 7s.

Beef—Firm; extra India mess, 71s 8d.

Pork—Easy; prime mess, western, 61s 3d.

Hams—Short cut, 14 to 16 lbs., dull, 39s.

Bacon—Quiet; Cumberland cut, 26 to 20 lbs., 35s 6d; short ribs, 16 to 24 lbs., 35s 6d; long clear middles, light, 28 to 34 lbs., 36s 6d; long clear middles, heavy, 35 to 40 lbs., 36s; short clear backs, 16 to 20 lbs., 35s 6d; clear bellies, 14 to 16 lbs., 36s; shoulders, square, 11 to 13 lbs., quiet, 29s.

Lard—Quiet; prime western, in tierces, 35s; American refined, in pails, 34s 6d.

Butter—Nominal. Cheese—Quiet; American finest white, 52s 6d; American finest colored, 51s.

Tallow—Steady; prime city, 23s; Australian in London, 25s 6d.

Turpentine Spirits—Steady, 38s 6d.

Rosin—Common firm, 7s 6d.

Petroleum—Refined quiet, 6d.

Linseed Oil—Firm, 18s.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, March 4.—Butter—Quiet, unchanged; receipts, 3814.

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 1548.

Eggs—Unsettled; receipts, 3253; state, Pennsylvania and nearby, fancy, selected, white, 29c to 30c; do., choice, 28c; do., mixed, extra, 27c to 28c; western, firsts, 26c; do., seconds, 25c; southerns, 24c to 26c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs 5c Higher at Buffalo and Chicago.

London, March 4.—Live cattle are quoted at 10½c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¼c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 4.—Cattle—Receipts, 50 head; steady; prices unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 500 head; slow; 50c lower; $4.50 to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 4300 head; active; 5c higher; heavy and mixed, $5.30 to $5.35; yorkers, $5.20 to $5.35; pigs, $5.10 to $5.20; roughs, $4.50 to $4.75; stags, $3 to $3.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5000 head; steady, unchanged.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, March 4.—Beeves—Receipts, 45 head; direct; no trading to-day; dressed beef slow at 6½c to 9c, exports, 720 cattle and 6700 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 61; feeling steady; common to fair veals sold at 5c to 8c; city dressed veals in good demand at 7c to 13c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2168; trade slow; sheep steady; lambs barely steady; sheep sold at $5 to $6; wethers at $6.50; lambs, $8 to $8.50; dressed mutton in light supply and steady at 9c to 11c; dressed lambs, 12c to 13c.

Hogs—Receipts, 2942; feeling nominally higher.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, March 4.—Cattle—Receipts, 300; market steady; good to prime steers, $5.50 to $6.30; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.40 to $4.45; cows, $2.50 to $4.20; heifers, $2.40 to $4.75; canners, $1.25 to $2.75; bulls, $2.25 to $4; calves, $3 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,000; market 5c higher; mixed and butchers', $4.85 to $5.10; good to choice, heavy, $4.85 to $5.12½; rough, heavy, $4.80 to $5.05; light, $4.80 to $5; bulk of sales, $4.90 to $5.10.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2000; market steady; good to choice wethers, $5.25 to $6; fair to choice, mixed, $5.50 to $5.75; native lambs, $7 to $7.80.

MURDER AT FORT WILLIAM.

One Held Greek Workman While Companion Stabbed Him.

Winnipeg, March 6.—Nicholas Pothakos, a Greek workman, employed on the coal docks, was brutally murdered Saturday night on Christie Street, Fort William.

Pothakos was going home with his son, aged 10, and when in the rear of a Finnish boarding house, was grabbed by two men. One held Pothakos while the second plunged a knife deep into his breast. The murderer escaped, and Pothakos stumbled a few yards, then fell dead.

The boy gave the alarm, and yesterday morning identified a Finlander named Jacob Candova as the man who stabbed his father. The suspected man is 21 years of age and denies all knowledge of the crime. The Greek colony is greatly excited over the tragedy.

Lost a Pail of Blood.

St. Catharines, March 6.—Geovenno Palubleo, the Italian, who was attacked with a razor in his bunk at the Fair Grounds on Saturday morning by another Italian, Antonio Zazero, and his head cut open, is getting along nicely at the hospital here, and there is now no danger of his wounds proving fatal unless blood poisoning sets in. Zazero is still at large, but is believed to be hiding with countrymen at Niagara Falls. Palubleo lost fully a pail of blood, and had he been a white man he wouldn't have lived through the day.

Earl Cawdor Gets It.

London, March 6.—The Globe Saturday afternoon positively asserted that Earl Cawdor has been selected to succeed Lord Selborne as First Lord of the Admiralty, following the latter's appointment as High Commissioner in South Africa in succession to Lord Milner, who resigned some time ago. Earl Cawdor (Archibald Vaughan Campbell) was born in 1847, and is chairman of the Great Western Railroads.

Died in a Sleigh.

Arnprior, March 6.—Mrs. Peter McLachlin of this town, while driving home from the Methodist Church yesterday morning, was noticed by the driver to fall back in the sleigh, and when raised up was found to be dead. Heart disease is supposed to be the cause of her death.

Italian Cabinet Resigns.

Rome, March 6.—In the Chamber of Deputies the Minister of Justice, Scipione Ronchetti, announced that owing to the health of Premier Giolitti, the whole Cabinet has resigned.

Parents buy Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because they know it is a safe medicine for their children and an effectual expeller of worms.

Probably egg coal is so called because of its close resemblance in price to hen fruit.

Where can I get some of Holloway's Corn Cure? I was entirely cured of my corns by this remedy and I wish some more of it for my friends. So writes Mr. J. W. Brown, Chicago.

Kuropatkin would doubtless rather be recalled at this stage of the game than captured by the Japs later.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

However, no hard feelings will be occasioned if we fail to retain the low temperature prize.

Prevent Disorder.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventative of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

Gen. Stoessel explains that the Japs won because they drill better. The supposition was that they shoot better and more often.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

A man's capacity for work often depends upon whether he is working for himself or others.

A Wide Sphere of Usefulness.—The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market for over thirty-one years, its prosperity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.

No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.

No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.

No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.

No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.

No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mall	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From

Belleville

To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points.

Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

Daily except Sunday

L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.

A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.

G. .. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
General Insurance Agent,
Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

25c BIRD TONIC FREE

Sold at 25c. But this medicine free by sending us 2 bird keepers' addresses and 3 Bird Bread yellow wrappers. Bird Bread is 10c yellow pkts. (2 tins) of any grocer or druggist. If dealer has none send his address to us and cash or stamps for pkts. wanted.

BIRD BREAD (Avoid imitations) (Pats. 1891-'95-'96) cures birds' ills and makes them sing. Free tin in 1 lb. Cottam Bird Seed pkts., the standard bird food, sold everywhere. Expert help in bird troubles free for reply stamp. Address exactly

COTTAM BIRD SEED. 23 St. London, Ont.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.

Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.

Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.

m3-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL

Dentist, Belleville. Ont.

Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.

Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT J. FRANKLIN WILLS

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for City of Belleville.

Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 67.

E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.

Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor for Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.

Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security. Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire. Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.

THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.

Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.

Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.

Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.

R W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.

INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.

Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insur. Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.

Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co.
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.

Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.

Lloyd's Plate Glass.

Home Life Association, Toronto.

North British Mercantile.

Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

'Phone 162.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.

Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter, Joiner, Builder

Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave. (next McCrodan's grocery.)

Estimates furnished.

Work promptly and carefully } executed PRICES MODERATE

—SPECIALIST ON—

Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

Horse, Doctor And Girl

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1904, by Frank H. Sweet

There was a flash so blinding that Dr. Tom Howard closed his eyes and the horse threw up his head with a whinny of terror, then almost instantly came a crash as of a thousand cannon, which rolled across the mountains in a reverberation of receding echoes. After that all was as it had been before—inky black.

Dr. Tom bent his face to avoid the slant of rain, at the same time touching the horse's flank encouragingly with his hand. But they could go no faster, as he knew, for the horse was picking his way down the mountain side step by step, with nose forward as though smelling the way and with ears alert for sounds that might indicate their course.

Ahead were patients who might be needing him, to whom his coming might be the difference between life and death. Henceforth his life must be his work. His patients were not to be divided even with the girl he had hoped to make his wife. At first he had thought she would reconsider, relent, but her sudden departure, without note or explanation, had meant it was to be the end. He did not even know to what part of the world she had gone.

He had already been away from home twenty-four hours on a journey of forty miles into the mountains to save a man who had been accidentally shot, and now, against the advice of hardy mountaineers, was forcing his way back in the very teeth of one of the fierce hill storms.

From time to time his hand went back to pat the horse's flank encouragingly, and at every contact of the hand the horse started forward a little more briskly in an effort to please him, only to return almost instantly, however, to the slow, cautious gait, as if realizing that it was absolutely necessary to their safety. Soon there came another blinding flash even as the hand once more dropped upon the flank, and Dr. Tom's face blanched a little, for directly in front of them was a yawning fissure.

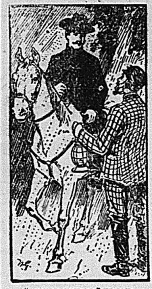
After that for a time he allowed the horse to choose the way, with the reins hanging loosely across his neck. The horse's nose and ears and instinct were safer than the man's impatience. More than once a lightning's flash revealed a black hole in front or to one side, with jagged, precipitous slopes rising or falling beyond, but always under the horse's careful feet was firm footing, sometimes a narrow shelf scarcely wider than was necessary for them to pass, sometimes a declivity so steep that the animal's haunches almost touched the rock as he picked his way down. But the progress was slow, slow—criminally slow it seemed to the impatient doctor, who wanted to be at his work.

Presently from brief glimpses obtained in the flashings he realized they were swerving far out of their course, and he caught up the reins with a quick, determined grasp.

Obediently the horse turned back toward the straight line, but a few minutes later, when another flash came, he was heading in the old direction. Again he was turned, sharply, and again he went on in a straight course for a few steps, only to swerve once more to his chosen way in the inky blackness which followed the flashings.

Again and again did Dr. Tom swing him to the direct line, with increasing impatience and harshness, and just as often did the horse swerve promptly to his own course. With the rain and wind beating in his face, stumbling over rough ground and sometimes among trees where the branches almost swept him from the saddle, Dr. Tom could only judge the course by the lightning. In the darkness the horse had his own way, and in the darkness the horse persisted in choosing the one which Dr. Tom believed to be wrong. But apparently there was no help for it, and at last, defeated, he allowed the reins once more to hang loosely upon the horse's neck.

Gradually above the roaring of the storm there had been rising another sound—peculiar, menacing in its persistency and suddenly intelligible. Dr. Tom drew a quick breath, and his hand went to the horse's neck in caressing apology. The branch which had been easily forded on the way up had become a raging torrent with the gathering of the heavy rainfall and was now tearing down the mountain, unloosening rocks and uprooting trees in its wild course. Had they stumbled into its mad waters in the darkness there would have been little chance of emerging alive. And the horse's altered course meant that he was picking his way toward the bridge at the ferry road, the only way to get beyond the branch and river and so home.



"I AM DR. HOWARD," HE SAID.

An hour went by, and the steeper slopes were left behind. They were coming to a more level country that could be crossed with greater speed. Dr. Tom was mentally counting up the miles and the hours it would take to traverse them when he saw a light twinkling just ahead. Apparently it was a man with a lantern going in the same direction and running as well as he was able to in the darkness. Dr. Tom urged his horse forward.

"Hello!" he shouted cheerily as he drew near. "What are you doing out in a night like this? Better go back to your bed!"

In the storm's roar the voice sounded hoarse and unnatural. The man put his hand to his ear inquiringly and waited for the horse to approach. Dr. Tom could see the figure dimly by the lantern's light, but was himself almost invisible.

"Goin'—for—a—doctor!" the man yelled as the horse came opposite. "My daughter's hurt an' must have help at once. Are you p'inted toward the ferry bridge?"

"Yes."

"Well," with what sounded like a great sob of thankfulness, "s'pose ye send a doctor up to my place quick—Bill Saybrook's, on the slope, a half mile from here. Ye can go a lot quicker'n I can. Send anybody. Mollie said Dr. Tom Howard. She wants him, but he ain't so handy 's Dr. Peters, an' we must have somebody at once."

Dr. Tom had caught his breath sharply and leaned forward. He placed a hand upon the man's shoulder.

"I am Dr. Howard," he said. "Is it Mollie Saybrook you mean, the one who taught school at the Corners?"

The man held up his lantern, and now the sob was unmistakable. Tears were streaming down his face.

"The Lord sent ye," he choked. "'Tain't no man's work in this. It's a miracle. I knowed in my heart I couldn't get no doctor here in time, but I would kill myself a-tryin'. Come."

He caught the bridle in his hand and struck directly into a thicker growth of trees straight toward his cabin, crying and laughing in the same breath and talking incoherently to himself and the doctor.

Mollie was sleeping peacefully, out of danger, when Dr. Tom left the cabin at daylight and turned his horse toward the bridge at the ferry. As he rode along at a brisk pace there was a rapt look on the young doctor's face.

"Perhaps it was the Lord," he said to the horse as his hand went softly to the animal's neck. "Who knows? But you were the messenger and forced me into my happiness."

"Kerchunk" Did It.

A train on a new railroad was running down a grade, says the Kansas City Star, when one of the side rods of the engine broke. The train stopped at the foot of the grade with the good cylinder "on center," and when the broken side had been uncoupled the engine could not be started.

The engineer, the conductor and the passengers took turns trying to devise a way to start it. At last a farmer's boy crawled through a barb wire fence and came over to make a suggestion.

"Why don't you let 'er go kerchunk?" he asked.

"What?" demanded the conductor, not grasping the idea.

"Why, let 'er go kerchunk. Unhitch the last car and shove 'er up the grade a ways. Then let 'er come down kerchunk against the train. That'll bump 'er along some."

The railroad men sniffed contemptuously, but the passengers sided with the boy, so at last it was decided to try his scheme. All hands turned to and pushed the car a little way up the hill. Then it was sent, with increasing speed, back against the train, which it struck with the foreseen "kerchunk." The "kerchunk" did the work. The engine was bumped off center, the engineer gave it enough steam to keep it slowly moving, the passengers scrambled aboard, and the one legged outfit limped away on its journey.

Squelched Him.

The Hon. Patrick A. Collins some years ago was presiding over a Democratic convention in Massachusetts, in which was an Irish delegate from his own end of Boston, the proprietor of half a dozen saloons and a thick, old fashioned brogue. He was very anxious, for some reason, to get the floor and jumped up every time he thought he saw a chance for it until he had become a nuisance to the whole convention. At last, just as a committee was about to report, he jumped up again right in front. "Mr. Presidint," he shouted, "Mr. Presidint." Collins rapped sternly with his gavel, but did not otherwise recognize him. "Mr. Presidint," he continued. "Mr. Presidint."

Again Collins rapped vigorously, this time turning his keen eyes upon the obstreperous delegate with a withering glance. But instead of withering it so exasperated the delegate that he shook his fist at the presiding officer and yelled, "You, Pat Collins, I want the flure!" Collins leaned right over the table at that, shook his gavel at the disturber and quietly but fiercely said, "Sit down, you terrier!" The "terrier" promptly took his seat, while the convention howled with delight.

Their Lot.

See Mr. Opossum and wife.
While envy around them is rife
They don't have to look
To get a new cook—
One serves them for all of their life.

POPULARITY OF ROYALTY.

Now, as Compared With Its Absence 70 Years Ago.

The following reference to the Royal Family of England is interesting, more especially as it is from the New York Sun, the principal tail-twister of the British Lion:

In England, at the time of Queen Victoria's accession, the monarchy was less popular than it had been at any time since the latter part of the seventeenth century. George IV. had thoroughly discredited kingship. Although his offences were condoned by the fashionable world of the metropolis, they were never really forgiven by the middle classes or by the masses, by whom, especially since Queen Caroline's trial, the King had been openly and bitterly disliked. How prevalent this feeling was and how little attempt was made to disguise it are shown by the outspoken comment of the London Times when George IV. died. Mr. Low recalls that, without making even a pretence of conventional eulogium, that newspaper said with a frankness which in these days would strike one as almost brutal: "The truth is—and it speaks volumes about the man—that there never was an individual less regretted by his fellow-creatures than this deceased King. What eye has wept for him? What breast has heaved one throb of sorrow? Was there at any time a gorgeous pageant on the stage more completely forgotten than he has been, even from the day on which the heralds proclaimed his successor? If George IV. ever had a friend—a devoted friend—in any rank of life, we protest that the name of him or her has not yet reached us." To William IV. the Times was a little kinder than it had been to his predecessor, but was openly contemptuous. "All is now over. The good old King of England is relieved from earthly trouble—from mental anxiety, domestic and political—from bodily sufferings such as it was terrible to witness. Death has done its worst on what was mortal in King William, and the memory of his inoffensive nature will protect that portion of him which bade defiance to death from the shafts of human envy, vengeance or malignity." In other words, the best that could be said of William IV. was that he had done little harm. This was not exactly the kind of sovereign to increase the prestige of the institution of royalty.

The truth is that when Queen Victoria came to the throne a large part of the English people were flagrantly anti-monarchical. Of the two great political parties, one was ostentatiously opposed to the court and what it considered the court faction. The Tories were especially disloyal: "They seem not to care one atom for the crown." Greville noted on September 5, 1839. Two years previously he had chronicled that the young Queen proceeded in state from Buckingham House to St. James' "without any cheering." Outside the Whigs and Tories, there was an immense body of unenfranchised, but not inarticulate, opinion in the country which was strongly inclined to Republicanism. By it the ancient constitutional monarchy of Great Britain was treated with unconcealed disrespect.

Origin of Phrases.

According to a writer in "T.A.T.," "Go to Bath!" dates back to the period when insane people used to be sent thither in order that they might benefit by its mineral waters. The reproof implied by the phrase, therefore, is that what you say is so silly you ought to "Go to Bath and get you head shaved."

The phrase, "Go to Jericho," is a euphemistic way of saying get out of my way and stay out, and is derived from the Biblical injunction given by King David to his disgraced envoys, "Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown."

There are two versions of the well-known "Sent to Coventry." One is that the town was a stronghold of the Parliamentary party in the civil wars, and that all troublesome and refractory Royalists were sent there for safe custody. Another is that the citizens of Coventry had at one time so great a dislike to soldiers that a girl seen speaking to one was instantly tabooed. No intercourse was ever allowed between the garrison and the town; hence, when a soldier was sent to Coventry, he was cut off from all social intercourse.

The phrase, "To ride to Putney on a pig," recalls the feat of a notorious lady of King Charles II.'s court, who actually performed the task for a wager. Later on, in 1770, Jane, Duchess of Gordon, emulated the performance—again for a wager—in Edinburgh, riding the animal the whole length of the High Street in broad daylight.

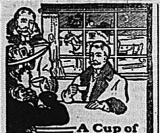
By "Bristol milk" is meant strong drink, forced hospitably on visitors by their hosts. In the old days of hard living it used to be a point of honor with the rich merchants of the city to send their guests to bed drunk.

Lord George Hamilton's Career.

Lord George Hamilton, who has announced his intention to retire from Parliamentary life at the next general election, has sat continuously in the House of Commons for 36 years, says M. A. P., and he has held office for 21 years. When he first entered Parliament as a very young man, Lord George was a junior ensign in the Guards. He has had a long and notable innings since, having held the post of First Lord of the Admiralty and Secretary of State for India for longer periods than any statesman during the last century. It is easy to understand that he has felt the wear and tear of Parliamentary work, but no doubt his retirement has been hastened by his resignation from Mr. Balfour's Cabinet. The effect of being out of office has in Lord George Hamilton's case been stimulating. His speeches have been prepared with greater care, and he has delivered them with such vigor and sincerity that friends and foes have been surprised. He has had to face hostile audiences whenever he has addressed his constituents, and this has, seemingly, braced him to spirited efforts, for he has displayed unsuspected powers of gentle irony, playful humor, forceful utterance, and clever marshalling of facts.

A Mistaken Intention.

He sent his photo to the maid—
It was a joke divine.
But that is why she threw him o'er—
She thought that he had meant it for
A comic valentine.



A Cup of Good Health

After sleighing, snow-shoeing or tobogganing, enjoy a cup of hot beef tea, made of

Armour's Extract of Beef

It's bracing, invigorating, stimulating. Relieves fatigue. Keeps up the glow of health. Just one quarter teaspoonful of Armour's Extract of Beef to a cup of hot water. It's economical.

At all grocers and druggists.

ARMOUR LIMITED, TORONTO
Sole Packers & Shippers for Canada.

Windsor Salt used in homes all over Canada where purity is appreciated. It will not cake.

9 PER CENT. DIVIDENDS

Paid for the Past SIX YEARS by the

EMPIRE LOAN CO.. (Incorporated 1897) HEAD OFFICE, WINNIPEG.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT THAT IS SAFE.

Since the Empire Loan Co. was incorporated it has made the most of the many opportunities afforded by the wonderful development of Western Canada.

But, while the Company's past experience has been entirely encouraging—as its dividends prove—there is unquestionably an infinitely greater prosperity assured for it in the future :—

Why ? Simply because the unlimited possibilities of the Vast West have, so far, scarcely even been tapped : What Western development we have seen is but a faint shadow of the Gigantic Transformation inevitable in the comparatively near future ; in fact, even now Western Canada is on the eve of one of those great movements which, in an incredibly short time built up great and prosperous cities and peopled the lone prairies of the Western States.

Management : Expert Management is the guarantee demanded by the experienced investor, because it is vitally essential to the stability and success of any financial institution : The Empire Loan Company is directed by prominent men of wide business and financial experience; and the success they have achieved for it is the strongest evidence of their ability, for the Company now stands in the front rank of Western financial concerns.

Investments : The Company's funds are entirely invested in the best of all securities—First Mortgages on Improved Real Estate.

Stock : The Company is essentially a Western one. Its shareholders may be found in almost any city, town or village in Western Canada; and its stock is confidently purchased by those seeking a Perfectly Safe Investment for their savings at a High Rate of Interest.

A limited amount of Permanent Stock is still available at the Par Value of $100 Per Share. Shares may be paid for in full, or in four equal quarterly instalments of $25 per share

Earnings : The Company earns from 8 to 10 per cent. per annum; dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. being paid Half-yearly. Profits in excess of this amount are credited to the shareholders at the Annual Meeting, the Actual Dividends Paid During the last Six Years being 9 Per Cent. Per Annum.

For particulars and copy of annual statement address

PARKER & CO., Stock and Share Brokers, 61 VICTORIA STREET, TORONTO

Children's Laxa...
There's nothing else just as good as Menthol Worm Remover
for constipated children. It makes the bowels move freely and regularly—corrects all disorders of the stomach—prevents diarrhoea—helps babies through teething.
25c. a box, at druggists.
The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Asthma
Abscess—Anemia
Bronchitis
Blood Poison
Bright's Disease
Bowel Troubles
Coughs—Colds
Consumption
Colic—Croup
Constipation
Catarrh—Cancer
Dysentery—Diarrhea
Dandruff—Dropsy
Dyspepsia
Eczema—Erysipelas
Hay Fever—Influenza
Kidney Diseases
La Grippe
Leucorrhea
Liver Troubles
Malaria—Neuralgia
Many Heart Troubles
Piles—Pneumonia
Pleurisy—Quinsy
Rheumatism
Scrofula—Syphilis
Skin Diseases
Stomach Troubles
Throat Troubles
Tuberculosis
Fevers—Gall Stones
Goitre—Gout
Gonorrhea—Gleet
Tumors—Ulcers
Varicocele
Women's Diseases

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on a local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please, accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

CUT OUT THIS COUPON

for this offer may not appear again. Fill out the blanks and mail it to The Liquozone Company, 558-564 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

My disease is..............................

I have never tried Liquozone, but if you will supply me a 50c. bottle free I will take it.

....
....
....

Give full address—write plainly.

Any physician or hospital not using Liquozone will be gladly supplied for a test.

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

MADAME

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer

One Year's Subscription Free of Cost

to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to March 1, 1906, or later.

MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.

Sign and Send This Coupon

TO-DAY

Daily By Mail . $3.00
Weekly By Mail . $1.00

To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited, Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $............

Name.............................. P. O..............................
Address..............................

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON.

Remember : Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to March 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME for Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.

SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

Puzzled by the Law.

The librarian of the Congressional library tells a story of a colored man who came into the library and asked one of the assistants for a "good law book." He explained that one of his neighbors intended to sue him and he wanted to get a book so he could find out the law.

The clerk gave him a copy of a book called "Every Man His Own Lawyer." The colored man sat down at one of the desks and turned the pages of the book for an hour. Then he came to the desk of the assistant and said:

"'Deed, boss, cain't you git me sumpin' easier? Dis yere is d' fifth edition. Cain't I have de fust edition? Mebbe I c'u'd understan' dat. I ain't bin gittin' on right smart with dis yere fifth one."

Cause and Effect.

Mifkins—Wasn't Benedict's death rather sudden and unexpected? Bifkins—Well, it was sudden, but not necessarily unexpected. His wife had just graduated from a cooking school

According to an old saying, the tobacco season begins at Augusta, Me., with the assembling of the legislators.

Russian Greetings.

At meeting, a Russian says, "Sdraffsvuitye" ("Good health"); on parting, "Do svidanya" (French, "Au revoir"); when separating for a lengthened period, "Proshtchaitye" ("Pardon"—i. e., for leaving you so soon).

PILL POINTS

Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills are a purely Vegetable Compound. A scientifically studied Formula. The after-effects of the medicine have been given as much consideration as the immediate results.

Not so with many of the Ancient Formulas—Painful Purgers and no healing powers. Think of these points.

If you must use medicine, look for the most pleasant, safest and surest to take. Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills are supreme in cases of Sick Headache, Bilousness, Sallow Skin, Constipation, etc. 40 doses, 10 cents; 100 doses, 25 cents. 62

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

A BOY'S CONFESSION.

Upon the river I can skate
The whole day with my brother,
But, oh, it wearies me to go
An errand for my mother.

My rabbit hutch I fix for hours,
With boards and some old tool;
But it just tires me most to death
To do my work at school.

I guess a riddle in a trice;
My sums seem very hazy;
My mother says I'm languid now,
My father says I'm lazy.

I like to dodge the kindling wood,
And knives and silly chores;
I'd rather help the grocer's man
Leave parcels at folks' doors.

I hate to shovel snow at home,
But like it when I'm hired;
Somehow the things I want to do
They never make me tired.

Didn't Care For Lectures.

"My wife has such a cold that she can't speak."

"I thought you looked uncommonly happy."

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels, free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEAWOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address:

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1

Name

Street No.

Town State

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2

Name

Street No.

Town State

Please also send Book No to

Name

Street No.

Town State

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number

(NOW READY)

Contains 20 Prominent Features A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is from the stand-point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

A typical Southerner writes this article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story

BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands 15 cents per copy.

YOUTH AND FRESHNESS

MAY BE RETAINED BY THE SPIRIT THOUGH BODY GROWS OLD.

HOW TO RENEW OUR DAYS

Daily Association With Young People, Especially With Children, Is Essential in Many Ways to a Man's Development—How It Keeps a Man's Heart Young and Teaches Him to Live the Loving Christ Life.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by Frederick Diver, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 5.—The secret so long sought by the ancient alchemists is the topic discussed by the preacher in this sermon, in which he shows how, though the body may grow old, the spirit may retain its youth and freshness. The text is Job xxix., 5, "When my childern were about me."

Misfortunes are generally gregarious. They are not recluses. They live not a hermit's existence. Like the beasts of the fields or the birds of the air or the fish of the sea, they browse in herds or fly in flocks or swim in schools. If one appears upon the edge of our horizon others often folow it with great rapidity, as do the April showers when "the clouds return after the rain." They pile themselves upon each other in great drifts; as do the snowflakes. They toll their death knells in chorus. As "nothing succeeds like success," so "nothing destroys like misfortune." Where there is one emissary of destruction roaming there are, as a rule, many emissaries treading closely upon its heels. Even when they are small and insignificant they cripple us by the persistency of their attack. Naturalists tell us that the small, insignificant humming bird sometimes alights upon the head of a and peckshrdlu (wHa mfwyp mfwyp mighty eagle. There he sits and pecks and pecks no matter how fast or how high his huge winged carrier may fly. There he sits and pecks and pecks until, after awhile he buries his small beak in the brain of his gigantic foe, who could crush him as easly as a hawk might kill a sporraw, if the eagle could only get at him. Trouble is like unto the humming bird. With its small bill it pecks and pecks at us. It drives in blow after blow until at last our strength succumbs under the continuous hammerings.

When trouble struck the grand old patriarch, Job, it hit him again and again. First came financial trouble, then domestic trouble, then physical trouble. It was pain in the head, pain in the heart, pain in the limbs, pain in the back and pain everywhere. Then what happened? Job tried to gain comfort from his reminiscences. Job looked back upon the scene of the happiest time of his life. He pictured himself when he was a young husband, planning and working for his future. He thought of himself when his young wife was by his side and his little boys and girls were playing around in his nursery. Then Job breaks forth in the lamentation of my text, which has come to most fathers and mothers after they have reached their twoscore years and ten: "Oh, that I were as in months past * * * when my childen were all about me!" It is a pathetic longing, not only that time be halted in its onward sweep, but be compelled to retrace the steps it has already taken.

Is Job's longing a sinful desire? Is it wrong for us to want to become young again or at least to stay young just as long as we can? I trow not. Therefore the purpose of this sermon is to show how we can turn back the shadow on the dial of Ahaz, not only ten, fifteen, but even twenty and thirty years for some of us. There is on old proverb which says, "A man is not as old as he looks, but as old as he feels." I am going to prove that a man can always feel about 30 or 25 years of age, even though his hair is white, his nose is bridged with a pair of glasses, and he has to walk with a staff.

How shall we renew the days of our strong, young manhood? First, by associating with young people, and especially with children; by making the intimate companions of our mature years and of our old age those who are on the threshold of life or playing in the nursery; by stealing or rather continually borrowing from our married children their babies; by making our grandchildren come home and live with us, or, if we have no married children of our own, by borrowing the children of some neighborly grandfather, and loving them as we would our own; by firmly and deliberately making a vow with ourselves and with Fod. "Though I may live to be sixty, seventy, eighty, ninety or a hundred years old, I will never allow myself to outgrow my fondness for little children,. and my sympathy for their joys and sorrows, and my unceasing desire for their daily companionship.

Daily association with young people, especially with children, is essential in many ways for a man's development. It keeps his heart young. Yes, it does more than that. It teaches him what should be his attitude toward Christ and toward his fellow-men. Some people cannot understand what this educating power of a child's life is upon a matured man. Why? Like some of us, they have not placed themselves under the tutelage of children. Some months ago I hired a big wagon. I put into his wagon not only my own children, but I went around and raided the neighbors' houses and piled in some of theirs. I was he only grown person among them. We took a long drive of about fiften miles. Then, at the head of my cohort of little ones, I proudly marched into a restaurant to give them ice cream before we started back. As we went in a gentleman standing upon the sidewalk, said: "My man, I pity you! What have you got there—an orphan asylum?" "No," I answered; "I have no asylum. I have a lot of teachers here who are making me love God and love mankind, and love life and love everything God has made upon His beautiful earth."

When we took that long ride I was the greatest winner. When those little folks began to sing I found myself singing in spite of myself. When they talked and asked questions, I found myself saying to myself: "Yes, just as as these little children are wondering about causes and effects which are so plain to me, I am wondering about troubles in this worud the causes of which are plain to God, and will yet be made plain to me. All that I must do is to wait, and God will explain all." When the children became hungry, I found myself becoming hungry. When they had their little differences in the wagon I found myself the peacemaker, which taught me a good lesson—how to be a peacemaker among the big boys and girls called grown-up men and women. And, my friend, if you ever want to have that old withered heart of yours beat and throb with happiness, this is what you need to do: Gather all the babies, the boys and the girls of your neighborhood, together, pile them into a wagon if you are out in the country, leave your wife and the nurse at home, or at least make them ride along in another vehicle, and then by the grace of God, you go forth and learn one of the mightiest lessons of life—how to keep young by bearin part of the joys and the sorrows of the young.

Do you know how Thomas Chalmers was able to accomplish his great work of life? He always kept his heart young and fresh and loving by associating with the young. His daughter, Helen Chalmers, told my father that during the darkest days of the Free Church controversy he would spend part of each day in playing with the children in the house or flying kites with the boys upon Edinburgh common. Do you know how Walter Scott kept his heart young? He always sought the companionship of the young. He continually had his children or other people's children about him. No more beautiful word picture was ever drawn by an author's pen than it description of that love by John Brown. In that essay the great author of "Kenilworth" is pictured going through the snow and the sleet to his neighbor's homes, and there bundling up Marjorie Fleming, a little girl of five or six summers. In her shawl or his cloak he carries her back to his study. There, while his pen runs rapidly over the pages of his immortal books, Marjorie chatters on. Study Eugene Field and his love for little children. Study the lives of our great authors like Longfellow and our preachers like Beecher and our merchants like Cooper and our electricans like Morse, and our editors like Greeley, and our Presidents like McKinley—you will find that, without exception, they kept young by keeping in touch with young people.

If I did not have any babies of my own I would adopt some. No man can defy the inroads of time unless he continually associates with the young folks. "What would an engine be in a ship if it were lying loose in the hull?" said Beecher. "It must be fastened to it with bolts and screws before it can propel the vessel. Now, a childless man is like a loose engine. A man must be bolted and screwed to the community before he can work well for its advancement, and there are no such screws and bolts as children." That is true. There is no screw or bolt that holds man to the duties of life firmer than the children. But I go even further than did Mr. Beecher. I hold that there are no influences more effectual to keep us young while we are performing those duties than these same little ones. The best way to see the sunbeams dance is to watch them through the dancing eyes of a little child. The best way to smooth out all the wrinkles of old age is to bury them in the dimpled cheek of a smiling baby girl. The best way to send the blood coursing through the withered arteries of threescore years is to play "blind man's buff" or "hide and seek" with the boys and girls after the supper table is cleared and the school lessons have been learned. The best way to grow young is to associate with the young. God pity you if you cannot find any enjoyment in making the snows of December melt before the life-giving rays of May or June.

This mental and physical depletion which comes from being satisfied with a past success cannot be better illustrated than by some of the faculties of our old colleges. Now, the college faculties of both the east and the west were originally made up of picked men. The presidents and triustees of those institutions in almost every case selected the very brightest and best students of their classes. They were the honor men of the colleges who were asked to fill the honored professorial chairs. But, marvelous to say, although the college faculties of the old institutions in my day had been recruited from the brightest men, yet almost without exception those faculties had a large percentage of men who seemed to be simple relics of the past. They seemed to be mummified men, entirely out of touch with present day events. They were walking "cube roots" or incarnated "dative cases" or petrified examples of Doric or Corinthian architecture. They seemed to be men who had learned one thing well, but as soon as they had mastered that one line of study all their mental faculties were then allowed to become dormant. Thus they withered up into fossilized and embalmed old age.

As a rule, the greatest thinkers and the hardest mental workers in the world have been among the longest-lived men. Study the long list of men old in years, but young in heart, branching out into new work when at 70 years or beyond. Marden, in his book, "Pushing to the Front," has a marvelous collection of illustrations in reference to this fact. Dandolo, the Doge of Venice, was a warrior who led his soldiers in battle at 94, and was offered a crown at 96. Titian at 99 was struck down with the cholera in Venice, when he was at work on one of his canvases. Pope Leo XIII., at 93, was the most powerful personality in all Europe on account of his Pontifical throne and his own powerful mental equipment. When an American bishop said to him: "Your Holiness, we hope God may let you live to become a centenarian," the Pope answered: "My friend, do not try to limit the power of God. I expect to be as hard at work after I am 100 years old as I am now." Dr. Samuel Johnson wrote his greatest book when nearly 80. James Watt learned German when he was 85. Isaac Newton and Benjamin Franklin were hard at work on scientific subjects when over 80. Lord Palmerston and William E. Gladstone were both Prime Ministers of England at fourscore years. "Robert Hall," says Marden, "learned Italian when past 60. Noah Webster mastered 17 languages after he was 50. And some of the best works of Longfellow, Whittier and Tennyson were written after they were 70."

Aged friend, the reason you are growing old and withering up is because you have stopped branching out. You have taken in sail and are drifting, simply drifting, towards the rocks of death, and drifting fast. Take a new lease of life by taking a new interest in things. Study, study, study. Work, work, work. Go and hear every fine singer and every good speaker and read every new book that you can. The most foolish law the United States Government ever made was when it established Old Soldiers' Homes, where the old veterans of the Civil War could go and live and do nothing. If an old soldier is physically helpless, then, of course, he should be cared for. But a well soldier in Danville, Ill., or Santa Monica, Cal., or Milwaukee, Wis., or the Old Soldiers' Home in Washington, should be encouraged to work if he is able to. Stagnation means premature death, mental and physical, as well as spiritual. "It is better to wear out than to rust out," is a poor maxim. We have no right to do either. But I would tell those who are coming on toward old age there is more danger for most of us of rusting out than of wearing out.

But lastly, I remark, the easiest of all ways to renew youth is to try to fit others to take your place after you are gone. Of course I take for granted that I am to-day talking to Christians. Now, as aged Christians, you are nearing the great dividing line which is going to bring you to your eternal reward. As you are nearing Heaven, shall you spend most of your time talking about Heaven and its eternal rewards? Oh, no. You must spend nearly all of your last days in fitting the young men and women by your side to take your place. You must be to your son and your daughter and your friends what Paul was to Timothy and Elijah was to Elisha, and Christ was to His disciples. In the anxiety to fit others to put on your own armor, you will find your own heart throbbing with the ambitions of youth. You will then find old age taking on the beauties of youth, even as in the Indian summer the flowers of the late autumn start to grow again after the forests have incarnadined the leaves with their life's blood.

Old age should pass its twilight hours as I would pass the few intervening days prior to making a long journey away from home. If I was to go to Africa or Europe or Asia as an American soldier, would I spend my last days here in weeping? Oh, no. I would spend the few days before I sailed in preparation. I would say to my wife: "My dear, you do this or that or the other thing after I am gone. I must put enough money in the bank in your name to meet your wants." If I was a merchant, I would say to my son: "Son, you are now to take charge of the store. I do not want you to run into debt. Keep the business going along on its old lines." If I had one boy who was a wayward son, I would talk to him about God and his future. I would try—oh so hard—to lead him to Christ. Each moment of my life would be spent in the best way I could for those I would leave behind. And in looking after their interests I would find my life growing in beauty and in joy.

When my father made his last visit to his old classmate, Dr. Suydam, he said: "Well, Suydam, we are coming near the end of our earthly journey. How do you feel about it?" Some of us are not as old as was my father when he asked that question at 70 years of age, but we are all heading toward old age. How will he feel about it when it comes? We shall feel about old age all right if we live according to the Christ law. We will feel about it all wrong if we do not do as Christ would have us do in fitting others for life's battles and fitting ourselves for Heaven. May God make the twilight of our earthly life the most beautiful and the happiest part of our day. May the twilight of our earthy life, sinking behind the western hillock of our grave, be colored with the same beauties as is the beautiful sunrise of Heaven, which even now we can see gleaming in the east over the Hill of Calvary and over the central cross, upon which once hung the dying body of Christ, who died that we might forever live in Him and through Him and with Him.

David Murray an Academician.

A general assembly of Academicians and Associates of the Royal Academy took place in Burlington House, says The London Star, at which Mr. David Murray was elected an Academician, while Mr. David Farquharson and Mr. Reginald Blomfield (architect) were chosen associates. Mr. Murray, a landscape painter, is 56 years of age, and was at first destined for a commercial career in Glasgow. His inclination towards art, however, led him to abandon the office to study nature, and the result is a series of pictures portraying well-known places in this country and abroad, which insured the honor which has now fallen to him. Mr. Farquharson is also a Scotsman, hailing from Perthshire. Educated in Edinburgh, he came to tempt fortune in London exactly 21 years ago. Much of his work is done at Sennen Cove, Land's End. He was elected an Associate of the Royal Scottish Academy in 1882. Mr. Blomfield, the other new Associate, is a grandson of a famous bishop of London, and examples of his architectural style are scattered all over the country. The late Sir Arthur Blomfield, the distinguished architect, who died in 1899, was his uncle. Mr. Reginald Blomfield's most important works hitherto have been country mansions. He is also an authority upon the laying out of gardens.

Guns Made of Paper.

The late Herr Krupp completed, a few months before his death, a number of paper field pieces. These unique guns, which were made to the order of the German Government, are intended for the exclusive use of the infantry. Their calibre is very small, being, indeed, less than two inches, and so light are they that a single soldier can unaided shoulder one with ease. Despite their small weight, however, the resistance is greater than that of a steel field piece of the same calibre.

A Jap World's Fair.

Japan thinks seriously of inviting all creation to come to a world's fair and incidentally look her over. With the energy and ingenuity of the Japs, it would seem feasible to cut the little island loose from its moorings and float it around the world for exhibition at enormously profitable rates.

Sunlight Soap is a well made Soap

The making of soap is no longer a chance mixture of miscellaneous fats. Expert chemists carefully watch and test every step in the making of

Sunlight Soap

The fats and oils must be perfectly pure and at every stage of the process the soap must come up to Sunlight standard. That is why it cleanses your clothes perfectly, makes your blankets soft and fluffy, does not destroy your most dainty linens or injure your hands.

Sunlight Soap washes equally well in hard or soft water. Your dealer is authorized to return the purchase money if you are not satisfied.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO 1002

The Sunlight Maids are through their washing by noon—that's the Sunlight way

The New Store.

Plenty of things around the store deserve special mention, the following will answer for now. You crn judge the trend of values by such items as these.

NEW DRESS GOODS

—Mohair Effects from 25 to 75c
—Voile Effects 30c to $1.00 yard
—Crepe-de-Chene 50c to $1.00 yd.
—Eoliennes .... 75c to $1.00
—Etamines .... 50c to 75c
—Crispine .... 50c to $1.00
—Cashmeres .... 25c to 75c
—Serges 25c, 50c, 75c
—Lustres .... 25c to 75c
—Venetians .... 75c to $1.50

New Silk Blouses from .... $2 75 to $6.00 each.

75 LADIES' RAIN COATS

Guaranteed Waterprof and as far as could be foreseen in sizes to suit any customer. Price .... $4.00 to $10.00 each.
The store is as bright as a May morning and every day adds to its prestige.

Wims & Co

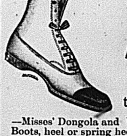
Don't Get Rusty

Keep posted in all that's new, up-to-date and the latest in Cooking Utensils, Crockery, Tea and Coffee and all the other useful things from the common dishes up to the finest silver plate—See the new Potato Ricers 40c each, Cereal Cookers $1.00, Egg Poachers 7c and Pie Funnels 8c.

STROUD'S 40c QUALITY OF TEA IS MAKING NEW FRIENDS. DAILY.

STROUD'S Tea and China Stores
Opp. Anglo-American
Front Street, Bellevil

| STROUD'S 'PHONE 301. |



Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00
—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11 , 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand."

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

We take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.
All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.
Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

THE NEW STORE.

Groceries
—AND—Provisions

FREDERICK'S OLD STAND,
FRONT ST.

Groceries All New

PROMPT DELIVERY.

New arrival of Fresh Dairy Butter at 22 cents
Fresh Eggs at 20 cents.

Special attention to telephone calls.

W. R. CARNRITE.

Telephone 312.

Glove Sale

Don't think for a moment that winter has deserted us—and Gloves are still as necessary as they are fashionable.

$1.50 Gloves for -	$1.15
1.25 Gloves for -	1.00
1.00 Gloves for -	.79
.75 Gloves for -	.59
.50 Gloves for -	.39

Chas. J. Symons,
successor to W. B. Deacon.
Shirts Made to Order. 208 Front St.

$1 Bottles for 50 cts

Orange Quinine Wine

Each wine glass contains ORANGE WINE and 2 gr. of the purest QUININE.
A splendid appetizer and tonic.

WATERS

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

The breath of suspicion is often flavored with cloves.

Cranberries are astringent and correct the liver when it is suffering from inaction caused by over-eating.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
J. B. Carman, Manager.

MONDAY, MARCH 6th

MR. WM. H. O'NEILL PRESENTS:

MR JAMES HERNE
—IN—
Hearts of Oak

By James A. Herne, Author of "Shore Acres," "Sag Harbor" and other Plays, Management of N. J. Lawler. Prices 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c. Plan open Saturday morning.

Auction Sale.

At the residence of R. E. Clarke, corner Victoria avenue and Charles street, General Household Effects, consisting of Heintzman piano, books, pictures, bedroom suites, carpets, curtains, stoves, dining-room furniture and kitchen utensils, a quantity of canned fruit, etc.; also 1 horse, 1 light wagon, 1 sleigh and harness. Horse and rigs will be sold at 3 p.m.

Sale Wednesday, March 8th, 1905, commencing at 9.30 a.m.

J. G. DAVISON,
4-3t Auctioneer.

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anlgo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.

For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.

As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.
Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

You must understand before you are understood.

Woman's love is a paradoxical compound of self-sacrifice and selfishness.

SLANDERING CANADA.

REYNOLDS' NEWSPAPER MAKES SOME CHARACTERISTIC STATEMENTS, WHICH SHOULD DECEIVE NO SENSIBLE PEOPLE.

London, March 5.—Reynolds' Newspaper, which always seems ready to publish anything detrimental to Canada and its people, publishes a letter from Ottawa, saying that this so-called glorious country is not for Britain's emigrants, but for foreigners. While 750 Russian Jews, deserters, are comfortably quartered in the immigration buildings at Montreal, Britishers do not get that privilege, but are told to go west.

Reynolds also publishes as exclusive information the following: "Acting for the Dominion Government, James M. Macoun left Ottawa on May 4, 1903, to report on the Peace River country, Athabasca. It is the intention of the Dominion Government to boom this country as a farming district. Macoun's report was so adverse that it was suppressed. In spite of these facts the Government is beginning to advertise 153,260,000 acres of fertile land at the disposal of settlers. Expert opinion is that it would be simply murder for men to go there."

The danger of such publications does not lie in the authority of the journal, but in the fact that its circulation is large amongst a class only too ready to believe anything in print. It must deter many would-be emigrants. It is worthy of note that when a party of English journalists visited Canada Reynolds had a representative, and so favorable were his impressions that only two of his six articles supplied were used.

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all druggists.

A Mark of Respect.

Mr. Fletcher Peterson, of Warkworth, representing the Methodist church of that village, was in attendance at the funeral of the late Rev. S. J. McCauley, which took place to-day. This was the last circuit which the deceased was identified with.

How is your Corn Crop

On your feet, we mean, of course. Nothing more unprofitable or uncomfortable. Carples Corn Cream will remove them all in three days. If your druggist does not keep it, send us his name and 15 cents and we will send you a full sized box and two corn cushions free.

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTES.

The Peterboro Review, which usually takes queer spells when Lent is close at hand, is responsible for the following:

Sympathy from Belleville.

They have some funny people down in Belleville, and now that the Peterborough hockey team is out of it, some representative of the town, signing himself "Belleville" lapses into a spasm of insanity during which he despatches the following telegram.

"Chris. Graham,
Peterborough, Ont.

Rejoice that your dubs were trimmed. Do you want to play our juniors?

"Belleville."

Poor old Belleville! Out of their graveyard of dead hopes there still comes a wail of remorse and the little bouquet which is sent by a well-wisher(?) not having sufficient courage of conviction to attach his name, would almost indicate that the "quiet home-like place" is still "hag-ridden by an old regret," at their inability to produce a team that ever amounted to much."

This will be an eventful week in hockey circles. On Tuesday the Senior O.H.A. championship will be decided at Peterboro between Smith's Falls and Marlboros. The Toronto team will be the same as has represented them all season, and should demonstrate their superiority on neutral ice. On Tuesday at Ottawa Rat Portage and the Ottawas will play the first of the Stanley Cup games. Berlin and Victoria Harbor will meet at the Harbor on Wednesday in the first home-and-home games for the intermediate O.H.A. championship. Thursday there will be another Stanley Cup game at Ottawa; on Friday Victoria Harbor plays the return game at Berlin, and on Saturday the third cup game, if necessary, will be played at Ottawa.

A return hockey match between the Officers of the Fifteenth Regiment and the Bankers will take place to-morrow evening.

Ottawa people are confident that their team will retain the Stanley Cup, but the old mug seems due for a change of base before long. The Rat Portage bunch is a swift aggregation, and the Ottawas are crippled.

It was unkind of that Belleville man to send Chris. Graham the "telegram of condolence" which appears elsewhere, especially when one remembers how nobly Peterboro "supported" Belleville last season. Why, they were even ready to take our place when the cruel O. H. A. executive turned us down.

That game at Peterboro to-morrow night, between the Marlboros and Smith's Falls, should be a warm one. The referee has a chance to immortalize himself.

The Montreal Victorias won the C. A. H. L. championship, and now want a chance for the Stanley Cup. But Rat Portage and the Nova Scotia champions are ahead of them. The Vics will have to wait till next season.

Globe: The Berlin team passed through Toronto on Saturday on their way home from Peterboro. They declared the game there was the roughest they had ever been in, and said that when Peterboro saw their chance of the game gone they turned to slashing, chopping and dirty play.

The former champion pacer Robert J., 2.01 1-2, is dead.

Jack McCormick, knocked out by old John L. Sullivan at Grand Rapids last week, was reported to be "unconscious" for ten minutes, but a St. Louis paper suggests that he was paid by the minute.

Ottawa, March 5 — The Rat Portage hockey team arrived to-day, and will play the first game with the champion Ottawas for the Stanley Cup on Tuesday night. The men are in fine fettle, and will have a work-out to-morrow. They are talking confidently, but local backing is with the home team. The referee has not yet been appointed.

Charged With False Pretences.

Sylvanus Burnham was on trial this afternoon before Judge Lazuer on the charge of obtaining $10 and an overcoat from Bigelow Bros., of Trenton, it is alleged, by false pretences. The trial was in progress when we went to press. Mr P. J. M. Anderson represented the Crown, and Mr. Wm. Carnew appeared on behalf of the accused.

THE HARDEST PAIN TO ENDURE

Is the pain of a tender corn, but experience proves that corns are cured quickest by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which acts in twenty-four hours. Putnam's never burns or causes sores. The only painless cure is Putnam's. Use no other.

THINK OF US.

We want you to think of us whenever you think of clothes. Our whole energy is concentrated on securing good things for you to wear. This is true of Clothing, Headwear and Furnishings. Our spring styles are now making a strong appeal to your eye, while our reasonable prices make an equally strong appeal to your purse.
—QUICK & ROBERTSON.

CHURCH CHIMES OF YESTERDAY

NOTES OF SERVICES IN BELLEVILLE'S DIFFERENT PLACES OF WORSHIP.

Emmanuel R. E. Church.

Good congregations were present at both services yesterday, which were conducted by the Rector, Rev. A. M. Hubly. At the evening service he gave an admirable talk from the words, "Tarry with us and rest awhile," showing that it is sweet for the Christian to lay aside the cares of this world and rest awhile with Jesus, whose service is not all rest, however, for sometimes he purposely leads his followers into places where contrary winds blow and thus prepares them for the enjoyment of His blessed rest when it does come. The sermon was intently listened to and favorably commented on.

Holloway Street.

"The Great Revival" was the subject discussed yesterday morning by the Pastor, Rev. R. H. Leitch. In the evening, owing to indisposition, the Pastor was unable to preach, and Mr. Buckingham, of Albert College, acceptably filled the pulpit. His text was from St. John, 21st chapter, 15th, 16th and 17th verses. The theme of his discourse was the query which the Saviour addressed to Peter three times; namely, "Lovest Thou Me." During the service a quartette composed of Misses M. Lawrence, B. McMurray and Messrs. D. A. Cameron and Berkley, sang "Watch and Pray." After the regular service an evangelistic meeting was held.

Bridge Street.

"Revival Needed and Near" was the subject which the Pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson discussed last evening before a large congregation. During the service Miss M. Vermilyea sang a solo entitled "I Will Lay Me Down in Peace," and the anthem by the choir was "The Lord is Exalted." An evangelistic service was held after the regular service.

St. Andrew's.

"The Storm and Calm of Life" was the subject discussed last evening by the Pastor, Rev. R. S. Laidlaw. His text was from St. Mark, 6th chapter and 47th verse:

> "And when even was come the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land."

During the service Mr. Joyce sang a solo entitled "Galilee."

Tabernacle.

Rev. G. A. Lowes, of Kingston, preached in the morning and his discourse, which was especially directed to the young people, was much appreciated. His text was from 1st Thessalonians, 5th chapter and 19th verse:

> "Quench not the spirit."

At the conclusion of the sermon, Mr. M. C. Gordon sang a solo entitled "Thy Will be Done."

Christ Church.

The Rector, Rev. W. B. Heeney, preached at both services to good congregations. In the evening his text was from Joel, 2nd chapter and 12th verse:

> "Therefore also now, saith the Lord, turn ye even to me with all your heart and with fasting and with weeping and with mourning."

During the service Mrs. A. G. Parker sang a solo. Mrs. (Col.) Campbell, the church's new organist, presided at the organ at both services.

AN ACTIVE SUMMER.

IS LOOKED FORWARD TO BY BUILDERS — MUCH WORK ALREADY IN SIGHT.

The prospects are that there will be considerable activity in the building line in this city during the coming season. St. Michael's church will be rebuilt, the new Armory will in all probability be commenced, if not completed; the Belleville Hardware Company will build an addition to their works, the old Severn brewery will be fitted up for a vinegar factory and several residences will also be constructed among them one on the Trent road and another on Catherine St. Judging by appearances, more building will go on in the city this summer than has been seen for many years.

A Quiet Wedding.

A quiet wedding took place at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bull, Moira street. The groom was Mr. Harry M. Bull and the bride Mrs. Addie M. Boyd, daughter of Mr. Peter Lowery, of Kingston. Rev. A. Martin performed the ceremony. The young couple were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Bull left to-day for the Limestone City, where they will reside.

SICK AT YOUR STOMACH.

Perhaps feeling as if the bottom had dropped out of your life. It's Nerviline you want. Nothing restores quiet and order to the stomach so quickly. All squeamishness and nausea goes away the minute you take Nerviline and an extra dose or two is always sufficient to set you up in first-class shape. Nerviline is an old tested remedy for stomach and bowel troubles and always can be relied on. Sold in large 25c. bottles.

THE BIG BATTLE IS STILL RAGING.

Russians Place Their Losses at 25,000, and Japs at 40,000 —Japs Exhausted

Tokio Despatch Says Russians Must Evacuate Mukden, as Guns Command it.

Oyama's Troops Are Making Further Inroads on the Russian Position

St. Petersburg, March 6. — General Kuropatkin has launched a blow at Field Marshal Oyama's left centre, just east of the railroad.

The fighting is desperate along the entire line.

Kuropatkin's losses in killed and wounded up to last night are placed at 25,000. Oyama is believed to have lost already nearly 40,000.

The Japanese army, according to the prisoners, is greatly exhausted. They repeat the statement that some of Gen. Nogi's men have not had any food for two days.

Tokio, March 6. — A report here states that the advance of the Japanese on the left has captured and holds a position of high ground four miles south of Mukden.

The Japanese officials here believe the capture of this position will make the evacuation of Mukden by the Russians necessary within a very short time, as the bombardment of the city with siege guns from the heights would be possible.

The fighting is reported as continuing to-day unabated, and the Japanese are declared to be making further inroads on the Russian position.

One report declares the Russians are showing a lack of co-ordination and co-operation in meeting the Japanese attacks.

St. Petersburg, March 6. — General Kuropatkin telegraphs that the various attacks of the Japanese have been repulsed.

Mention is made of the capture of two Japanese machine guns.

ALASKANS WOULD ANNEX TO CANADA.

DEMAND HAS BEEN FORWARDED TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Tacoma, Wash., March 5.—The citizens of Alaska are ablaze with indignation because the bill allowing a delegate in Congress for Alaska was killed last week in the Senate committee. A mass-meeting held at Valdez yesterday decided to send the following telegram to President Roosevelt: "On behalf of 60,000 American citizens in Alaska, who are denied the right of representation in any form, we demand, in mass-meeting assembled, that Alaska be annexed to Canada." All Alaskan communities have been watching the Delegate Bill more closely than any other legislative matter, hoping the bill would pass. When it was killed hope gave way to indignation, and mass-meetings are being held throughout Alaska to protest against what is termed the neglect of the general Government, for the welfare of one of its richest territories. It especially galls Alaskans to know that delegates are allowed from Hawaii, Porto Rico, and other territories, while Alaska, having special needs by reason of its vast size and varied resources, is compelled to continue unrepresented. President Roosevelt recommended a delegate for Alaska, and the Alaskans believe that in him they have one powerful friend in Washington.

"SWISS FOOD" THE REAL WHEAT.

Use "Swiss Food" and obtain the condensed nutrition of selected wheat. 15c packages at all grocers.

Old Lady Dead.

Mrs. Julia Tardy, wife of the late Mr. Edward H. Tardy, died this morning at the family residence, South John street. Deceased, who was 71 years of age, was born in Ireland, but had been a resident of this city for a number of years. Mrs. Tardy was a member of St. Michael's Church. The deceased had been ailing for some time. A number of children survive.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

That half their ills are due to impoverished blood, they would use Ferrozone and be saved lots of pain and suffering. Ferrozone is a perfect food for the blood, and supplies the strengthening elements needed to maintain health and vigor. Ferrozone is a splendid tonic for weak, nervous women and drives away those depressed feelings of dead weariness. You'll have strength—lots of it—your complexion will improve, you will feel ten years younger after a course of Ferrozone, which builds up the whole human organism; try it. Price 50c.

A new serial story, "Linked By Fate," will begin to-morrow. It is said to be a most interesting story.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mrs. Geo. McCarthy left for Perth to-day.

Dr. MacColl is confined to his room by grippe.

U. S. Consul Hendrick, of this city, is in New York.

Mr. J. Harris, Herchimer street, is a victim of la grippe.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. B. Heeney returned to the city to-day.

Mr. L. C. Pascoe is confined to the house through illness.

Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, of Madoc, was in the city to-day on business.

Mrs. R. Mathison has gone to spend a few weeks in Hamilton.

Mr. Oscar Deegan, of Winnipeg, is visiting relatives in the city.

Mr. M. B. Morrison, M.P.P., of Trenton, spent Sunday in the city.

Mrs. Frank Boulter, Picton, is in town visiting Mrs. S. S. Bongard.

Dr. and Mrs. P. D. Goldsmith spent Sunday in Peterboro with relatives.

Miss Nina Ostrander, of Stirling, spent Sunday in the city with her mother.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn spent Sunday in Madoc with his father, Mr. E. D. O'Flynn.

Mr. Haslip, of Lindsay, returned home to-day after a visit with friends in the city.

Mrs. Herchimer, of Harrowsmith, is the guest of her niece, Mrs. T. N. Way, Bridge St.

Mr. Cecil Armistead left to-day for Montreal where he has secured a lucrative position.

Mr. E. G. Porter, M.P., returned to Ottawa this morning, after spending Sunday in the city.

Mrs. T. N. Way, Bridge St., has returned from a visit with friends in Napanee and vicinity.

Master Colin McCuaig, who has been suffering from an attack of blood poisoning, is now out of danger.

Mrs. H. A. Kerr will be at home on Wednesday afternoon and evening at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Kerr, Coleman St.

At the Quinte: M. C. Ross, Guelph; R. P. Allen, Hamilton; C. Saunders, New York; F. Sloan, J. Foster, N. Cheadler, L. Spence, J. E. Lewis, J. Couch, Rev. Canon Baldwin, H. Rose, B. Long, J. Rogers, W. Craig, J. R. McRae, H. Gourlie, A. Parsons, Toronto; Mrs. Grier, Miss Conger, Picton; A. Lamb, London; J. Marley, C. B. Chandler, Montreal; G. Woodruff, Whitby; E. Schierholtz, Waterloo; W. J. Tow, Berlin; D. Briggs, Quebec.

GENERAL STORE IN ACTINOLITE BURNED

SECOND CONFLAGRATION OF THE KIND IN THE VILLAGE WITHIN TWO MONTHS.

A fire, which broke out at about 8 o'clock this morning, completely destroyed the general store owned by Mr. Robert Moore, in Actinolite. The loss to both building and contents is said to be covered by insurance. Mr. Moore and his family occupied part of the building as a residence. The cause of the fire in not known.

It will be remembered that some two months ago Mr. Roberts' store in Actinolite was also burned.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago, during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Bank Suspends Payment.

A bank manager of this city has received a telegram informing him that the Bank of Yarmouth, of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, has suspended payment.

TO KNOCK OUT COLDS

And cure them in an hour without resorting to nauseous drugs, just use fragrant, healing Catarrhozone—the most pleasant, prompt and certain cure for colds ever discovered. No medicine to take, you simply breathe the balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone. It never fails to root out the worst colds and is so simple and convenient to use that no one can afford to be without it. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you won't have colds. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c.

To-morrow The Intelligencer will begin the publication of a new serial story, "Linked By Fate," by Charles Garvice, who has written a number of very popular stories.

Daily Intelligencer.

SNAPPY GINGER SNAPS

Plenty of these Popular Snappy Snaps for Saturday.
10c a lb.

Chas. S. Clapp

Take the Elevator Please !

It is faster than walking up stairs.

McKeown's Calisaya Hypophosphites is an elevator from the basement of sickness to the top story of health.

Don't try the long way.

Do you want rosy cheeks? Do you want that reserved feeling of strength? Do you want to be vigerous as a young sapling?

Get this greatest of tonics.

It cures quickly.

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,
Sole Agent for Belleville.
Tel 38. Front St.

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

LOCK UP GAYNOR AND GREENE

They Will Come Up for a Hearing in Montreal.

Montreal, March 6.—The rearrest of Gaynor and Greene, the American fugitives, which took place Saturday at Quebec, caused a good deal of interest here. No legal proceedings were attempted at Quebec to prevent the departure of the men from the ancient capital, but their counsel, A. Taschereau, M. P. P., accompanied them to this city. The prisoners were driven to Judge Lafontaine's house, where His Honor committed them to appear Monday morning.

R. D. Greene. J. F. Gaynor.

Gaynor and Greene wanted to be allowed to spend Sunday at the Viger Hotel, but D. McMaster, K. C., objected, and the accused were placed under the care of Detective Carpenter at the Central Station. To-day, therefore, the great legal battle for extradition will be begun. The arrest was made on a special warrant containing the King's order that the two men be returned to the charge of Judge Lafontaine.

May Have Two Tunnels.

Detroit, March 6.—It is quite possible that the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific, Pere Marquette and probably the Wabash, will unite to build another tunnel or a bridge. It is definitely announced that the Michigan Central will build a tunnel, but, as a prominent railway man here expresses it, the tunnel should be an international project, so constructed that all roads would have the use of it.

Another Liberal Gain.

London, March 6.—The Liberals captured a seat as a result of the bye-election in Buteshire Saturday, when Norman Lamont secured a majority of 34 over the Unionist candidate, Edward T. Salvesen, the Solicitor-General for Scotland. The election was due to the elevation of Andrew Graham Murray to the peerage on his appointment to a judgeship.

Through Ontario Oil Fields.

Montreal, March 6.—It is possible that the Canadian Pacific Railway will, during the coming summer, proceed with the construction of a line from London to Sarnia, passing through the important oil-bearing fields surrounding Petrolea.

SMITH'S BUCHU LITHIA PILLS.

SICK KIDNEYS,

The Bladder, Rheumatism and the Blood—all these diseases yield at once and are quickly and fully cured. Price only 25 cents a box.

A CURE at the PEOPLE'S PRICE.

My Kidney book and a Sample Package sent Free to any address.

W. F. SMITH CO.
185 St. James St., Montreal

Rheumatism of Ten Years Cured.

Almost a Miracle!

"I have been a sufferer from rheumatism for ten years. Your Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills have worked almost a miracle in my case. I have had perfect health since I started to take them. Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills are just what you recommend them to be. I give you this testimony for the benefit of suffering humanity, hoping it will be the cause of many sufferers being cured."
—THOMAS WOODS,
No. 418 Somerville Ave.
Somerville, Mass.

To cure Constipation, Sick Headache and Biliousness in one night, use Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. Only 25 cents at dealers.

ALL GENUINE SIGNED W. F. Smith

VERY SOON

It won't be very long before some early spring wedding causes you to look around to see what you will get your friend.

We are showing some new and pretty pieces in Silverware at very reasonable prices consistent with high class goods.

A very handsome piece is a new cake dish with raised pierced border, silver or gilt centre at $2.50

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. JEWELLER OPTICIAN

POCKET BOOK AND HAND BAG SALE.

We have about 50C sample Purses, Pocket Books and Hand Sachels, Traveller's samples, bought at less than half the regular price. We will clear them out in three lots:

LOT 1 Will be - - - 10c
LOT 2 Will be - - 25c
LOT 3 Will be - - - 50c

We will also clear out four gross Dressing Combs, black rubber, the price was 20c, to clear at 10c

We have still a fine lot of the finest patterns of 12½c Print left, to clear at (per yd.) 10c

We are selling a 10c bar of sweet pink Toilet Soap this week, at 5c or six for 25c

McINTOSH BROS.

SPOKE PEACE MESSAGE

How President Roosevelt Utilized His Inauguration.

The United States Must Show by Deeds as Well as Words an Attitude of Friendship to the Weak and to the Strong Nations of the Earth Alike—Brilliant Spectacles—The Inauguration Ball a Notable Success.

Washington, March 6. — Theodore Roosevelt of New York and Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana were on Saturday inaugurated respectively President and Vice-President of the United States.

A few months ago they were elected with the greatest popular acclaim ever accorded candidates by the electorate of this Republic. Saturday the verdict of the American people, rendered on Nov. 8, was confirmed in the presence of such a throng as the national capital rarely has witnessed, and with a setting of brilliant pageantry. The inauguration of President Roosevelt was made a vestal ceremony in Washington. The city is a symphony in color. The decorations throughout the city are more elaborate and beautiful than on the occasion of any previous Presidential inauguration. Twice as many flags have ben used this year as ever were before, and the splendor of the scheme adopted for the city's adornment never has been surpassed.

At the Reviewing Stands.

The President's reviewing stand was directly in front of the White House. It was handsomely constructed and beautifully decorated with flags and laurel. That part of the stand occupied by President Roosevelt and his immediate party extended out over the sidewalk. The seats in the stand were occupied by the families and personal friends of the President and Vice-President, members of the Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps, members of the Senate and House of Representatives, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the United States Supreme Court, Governors of States, prominent officers of the army and navy, the chairman of the Republican National Committee, members of the Inaugural Committee, and the press.

Opposite the President's stand was one for the general public, seating more than 6,000 people. Stands also were erected along each side of the Court of History, the seats rising fully 30 feet above the level of the procession; in front the State, War, Navy and the Treasury Buildings, the latter being for the accommodation of the department employes. Through this great amphitheatre the inaugural parade moved to the music of a hundred bands.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Wire ropes were stretched on both sides of the avenue, the entire length of the route of the parade, and the side streets leading into it were crowded with humanity early in the day. The crowd overflowed into the terraced stands and balconies, filled every window and fringed the cornices of almost every building with eager faces.

Women Faint.

Hundreds of women fainted in the press, and ambulances and emergency hospital corps were kept busy answering calls. Whichever way one turned he ran into an obstruction in the shape of a compact mass of people. Washington, so far as the itinerary of the procession was concerned, was clogged, its flow of pedestrians absolutely choked and obstructed by living masses.

With all the crush, however, it was a good-natured throng. It laughed when its toes were trod on, and chortled when it was kicked in the shins. Fights were few, and the police had an easy time of it so far as suppresisng any outbursts of anger or displeasure was concerned. The bluecoats found their only labor in keeping the crowds back of the ropes.

At the Capitol.

The President and his escort started from the White House promptly at 10 o'clock and at 10.40 the President entered the capitol, where the 58th Congress was in the throes of dissolution and bills were awaiting his approval.

In the Senate, shortly before noon, the Diplomatic Corps, the Supreme Court and the members of the House of Representatives were announced. Then Vice-President-elect Fairbanks was announced. After him, President Roosevelt, the President-elect, was announced, after which the oath of office was administered to Vice-President Fairbanks by Senator Frye of Maine, President pro tempore. Then the new Vice-President administered the oath of office to the Senators-elect, and with a tap of his gavel the 58th Congress came to a close.

Meantime the people left the galleries and went in procession to the east front of the capital, where the inauguration of President Roosevelt took place. When he appeared on the stand a mighty cheer burst from the great concourse. The cheering ceased as Chief Justice Fuller, his silvered hair falling over his silk and ermine robe, stepped upon the dais holding in his hand a Bible. Mr. Roosevelt stood opposite him and solemnly repeated the oath after the Chief Justice and then stooped and kissed the book, after which he delivered his inaugural address.

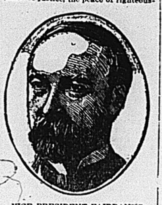
What the President Said.

President Roosevelt, in the course of his inaugural address, said:

"Much has been given to us and much will rightfully be expected from us. We have duties to others and duties to ourselves—and we can shirk neither. We have become a great nation, forced by the fact of its greatness into relations with the other nations of the earth, and we must behave as beseems a people with such responsibilities. Toward all other nations, large and small, our attitude must be one of cordial and sincere friendship. We must show not only in our words, but in our deeds, that we are earnestly desirous of securing their good-will by acting toward them in a spirit of just and generous recognition of all their rights.

But justice and generosity in a nation, as in an individual, count most when shown not by the weak but by the strong. While ever careful to refrain from wronging others, we must be no less insistent that we are not wronged ourselves.

"We wish peace, but we wish the peace of justice, the peace of righteousness. We wish it because we think it is right and not because we are afraid.



VICE-PRESIDENT FAIRBANKS.

"No weak nation that acts rightly and justly should ever have cause to fear us, and no strong power should ever be able to single us out as a subject for insolent aggression."

Bows His Acknowledgments.

In a little while President Roosevelt was again on the avenue returning to the White House. His carriage was surrounded by Rough Riders and his way was cleared by Squadron A. The President stood in the carriage much of the time, bowing right and left in acknowledgment of the gracious enthusiasm which his appearance aroused. He returned to the White House, and after a light luncheon, reviewed, surrounded by his family, his personal friends, his Cabinet and hundreds of distinguished visitors, the magnificent parade formed in his honor.

The Inaugural Ball.

Hardly had the brilliant pageant, participated in by 30,000 paraders, come to an end when preparations for the closing function, the inaugural ball, were actively begun.

The parade had ended but a short time when the movement upon the Pension Building began. The vanguard of the guests, of whom at least 12,000 were finally assembled, began arriving in every variety of vehicle and from every direction. The streets about the great building in which the ball was held were transformed into a babel of equipages, hurrying footmen, anxious attaches and gorgeously gowned women.

The day which was drawing to a close had been one of uninterrupted pleasure. The ceremonies were carried out with perfect precision and ease. The parade was the greatest spectacle Washington had seen since the grand review in 1865. It remained only for the inaugural ball to end a day of unbroken propitiousness, and the ball, which continued till midnight, was the most successful one ever held in the land.

Wore Lincoln's Ring.

On his right hand, during the inaugural ceremonies, President Roosevelt wore a plain gold ring with an opal setting. It is old and worn, but promises to remain priceless for centuries. It was the ring President Lincoln wore on the night he was shot, and was loaned the President by Secretary of State John Hay.

125 Houses Burned.

Columbia, S. C., March 6.—Fire in Brookland, a suburb of Columbia, across the Congaree River, Saturday night destroyed property to the extent of $50,000. The burned district is half a mile in length and several blocks wide. It is estimated that 125 houses have been burned.

Gopon Off for London.

Geneva, March 6.—Father Gopon, leader of the Russian workmen on Jan. 22, who has been here for the past two days, left yesterday for London by way of Paris.

Papered With Pawn Tickets.

A gentleman in a London suburb has covered the walls of one of his rooms with pawn tickets. It is a somewhat expensive hobby. Each ticket has been procured by the gentleman himself in a legitimate manner, but the articles pledged are, of course, only of small value.

The Peacock.

The peacock is found in a wild state in India, Ceylon, Madagascar and many other parts of Asia and Africa.

Apollinaris

"THE QUEEN OF TABLE WATERS."

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTIONS.

THREE CHILDREN BURN

One in Hamilton and Two in Niagara Falls, Ontario.

All Are Dead—Niagara Falls Victims Were Burned to a Crisp—In Both Cases Mothers Had Left Children for Other Duties—Father of Hamilton Child Had His Hands Terribly Burned.

Hamilton, March 6.—Lieta May, the infant daughter of George and Mrs. Gould, 428 West Main Street, was burned so badly yesterday morning that she died. Her mother left her alone in a room for about 5 minutes. In some way that will never be known the child's clothing caught fire. Her screams awakened her father, who was sleeping in an adjoining room, and he lost no time in coming to the rescue. He had his hands terribly burned in putting out the flames in the child's clothing. The mishap occurred about 8.30, and the little girl died at noon. The father works at the International Harvester Company's Works, and came to Hamilton only a few months ago from Walpole Township.

Two Children Cremated.

Niagara Falls, March 6.—About 8 o'clock Saturday evening two children, 8 and 5 years of age respectively, were cremated in a cottage on Ontario Street, occupied by Walter Phillips. The children were left in the house alone, the father not having returned from his work, while the mother had gone over to the American side on business. The bodies were burned to a crisp.

PART OF BRAIN GONE.

Strange Conditions Surround Man Hurt by Emery Wheel.

Joseph Adair, employed as a machinist in the G.T.R. shops, foot of Spadina Avenue, was badly injured Saturday afternoon. He was working at an emery wheel. His hand got caught in the machinery and the arm was drawn in over the elbow. The arm was broken and his head badly hurt by being drawn against the wooden framework. He was taken to the Emergency. His recovery is doubtful.

When Adair was taken to the Emergency Hospital, it was found that the brains of the motor area were literally dashed out and protruded from the circular hole in the head. Several bones were removed and the protruding portions of the brain cut away.

Adair has been unconscious ever since, and the doctors think that it is impossible for him to live. Strangely enough, the body muscles do not seem to be affected by the removal of the part of the brain that directs them.

Adair is a married man with three children and lives on Crawford Street.

Struck by a Train.

Kingsville, March 6.—A serious railway crossing accident happened about one mile west of here Saturday morning. As the 10.15 westbound Pere Marquette train reached the crossing a horse and covered buggy occupied by Mr. William Lockhart, Sr., an aged farmer of Gosfield South, and Miss Keys of Essex, attempted to cross, but in doing so they were struck by the train. The horse was killed outright and the buggy was smashed to pieces. Mr. Lockhart is unconscious and hurt internally, and Miss Keys has a leg, arm and some ribs broken. Little hopes of the recovery of either are entertained.

Killed in Last Hour's Work.

New York, March 6.—Valentine Graff, sixty-three, employed for thirty years in the Hecker-Jones-Jewell mill, was crushed to death there Saturday within an hour of the time he was to leave the mill for the last time. The mill was to have been closed for good Saturday afternoon, because it is in the way of the approach of the new Manhattan Bridge.

107 Drowned at Osaka.

Yokohama, Feb. 11.—(Via San Francisco, March 6.)—The Osaka Shoshen Kaisha steamer Natoriwa, while entering Osaka Harbor, ran on a part of the breakwater under construction, owing to a dense fog, and sank at once. Out of the 123 passengers and crew only 16 were saved.

BANQUET TO MR. BORDEN.

Conservative Leader Carefully Avoids Any Controversial Subject in Montreal—Joke on Sam Hughes.

Montreal, March 6.—R. L. Borden was banqueted at Club Lafontaine on Saturday evening under the presidency of Hon. L. O. Taillon, some 250 of the leading French Conservatives of the city and district being present. People supposed that the Conservative leader would refer to the school question, but Mr. Borden ignored the matter, and had it not been for Hon. A. R. Angers, no one would have ever supposed that there was a crisis on at the seat of Government over the matter. Mr. Borden's address ignored political questions generally, but he called upon the party generally to get together and organize, even if they supposed that the next contest was five years remote.

In referring to E. F. Clarke's death, Mr. Borden said that it would be a loss to the House of Commons, a loss to Ontario and a loss to the whole country.

Amusing Fake Telegram.

One of the exceedingly amusing features of the demonstration was the handing around of the following fake telegrams:

"Hon. L. O. Taillon, Chairman Borden banquet: Hear Sam Hughes is with you. Kill him.—Bruchesi."

Col. Hughes took the joke in splendid part, and got an ovation as he told how his grandmother was French and his daughters spoke the language well.

Rodolphe Forget, M. P. for Charlevoix, made his debut as a speaker.

Hon. A. R. Angers made his first speech since he retired from public life. He urged upon Mr. Borden the fact that the French-Canadians had rights in other Provinces as well as here in the Province of Quebec.

Sir William Hingston, Mr. Bergeron, M. P., Mr. Luke, M. P., Mr. Ames, M. P., and Mr. Marechal also spoke.

The unspoken word never does harm. —Kossuth.

GILLETT'S

HIGH GRADE

CREAM TARTAR

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

SOLD IN PACKAGES AND CANS.

Same Price as the cheap adulterated kinds.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Hang It

It's the better for it.

Our shelves are loaded with the finest selection of Wall Papers, domestic and imported, which would look much better on your walls than on our shelves.

No trouble to show them.
Prices right.
We do the hanging.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
Phone. 214. Grocers.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

The road to failure is the one that is full of ruts.

Even the hour of adversity only contains 60 minutes.

HOTEL TOURAINE
Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

It Will Pay

To look over our stock of furniture and note the values we offer this month.

Some are taking advantage and buying now.

UPHOLSTERING. — Mr. Sills is a practical upholsterer and gives personal attention to all work.

UNDERTAKING. — Mr. Sills having had 15 years experience in this branch of the business is thoroughly qualified to give personal service as undertaker and Funeral Director.

Store 'Phone 40.

Residence, cor. Queen and John Sts.

B. E. SILLS,
Successor to Reed & Sills.
Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

BANK OF MONTREAL
ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario
Incorporated by Act of Parliament.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Tucker Balm

Just received a big shipment of this old and tried household remedy.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.
PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand.
Market Square.

Arthur McGie
MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—
—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY
over Lewis' Hardware Store
Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.
Plating done at very low rates

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance
—AT—
COLLIP'S.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

The fool never puts off until tomorrow what he shouldn't do at all.

SECURITIES
Of the Highest Class Only
JOHN MACKAY & CO.
Canadian Bank of Commerce Building,
Toronto

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1905. NO. 261

Burn Our Coal.

You will burn no other.

DRY WOOD
ALL KINDS.

C.C. Leavens

THE VERY BEST
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL
LEAVENS
BELLEVILLE

When the little folks take colds and coughs, don't neglect them and let them strain the tender membranes of their lungs, Give them

Shiloh's Consumption Cure The Lung Tonic

It will cure them quickly and strengthen their lungs.
It is pleasant to take,
Prices, 25c., 50c., and $1.00. 308

True Bill for Murder.

Brantford, March 7.—The Grand Jury in the Spring Assizes yesterday afternoon brought in a true bill of murder against Joseph Kennedy. Judge Teetzel, in making his charge to the jury, said that the evidence in the case was almost altogether circumstantial. The trial will commence to-day.

Baron Lamberment Dead.

Brussels, March 7.—Baron Lambermont, Secretary-General of the Foreign office, died yesterday, following a stroke of paralysis on Saturday. Baron Lambermont's aged sister, who was living in the country, dropped dead when informed that her brother was dying.

Bank in Difficulties.

Halifax, N. S., March 7.—W. H. Redding & Co., general dealers, Yarmouth, N. S., have assigned, and the Bank of Yarmouth has been forced to suspend payment. The Bank of Yarmouth was about to be amalgamated with the Union Bank of Halifax.

Promised Consideration.

Ottawa, March 7.—A deputation of lumbermen waited upon the Minister of Finance yesterday morning and asked for the imposition of a duty of $2 a thousand upon rough lumber. Mr. Fielding promised consideration.

DON'T MISS THIS!

"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

The Battle's Rolling Tide.

Ebbs and Flows in the Immediate Vicinity of Mukden.

Awful Carnage in Greatest Battle of Modern Times—Kuropatkin's Losses Placed at 25,000, While Japs Are Said to Have Lost 40,000 Men—Japs Said to be Greatly Exhausted—Kuropatkin Launches Blow.

St. Petersburg, March 7.—According to correspondents with the Russian army, the tide of battle yesterday gradually was rolling back from the immediate vicinity of Mukden, operations up to noon having resulted in the capture of several villages west and southwest of Mukden, but late in the afternoon the Japanese inaugurated a series of desperate attacks, the outcome of which still is not chronicled. Gen. Kaulbars, who is considered to be the best of Gen. Kuropatkin's subordinates, has taken personal charge of the operations in this field. The Commander-in-Chief also is devoting his attention to the fighting in the same locality.

Nogi Has Cannon Now.

At latest reports the Japanese also had launched an attack against Poutiloff Hill and other points on the Russian front, presumably with the intention of regaining positions from which the Russians had ousted them during the night, and also to prevent Gen. Kuropatkin from despatching further reinforcements against Gen. Nogi's hard pressed veterans. The latter however, have got up heavy field artillery to their support, making a much more even fight against the Russians' cannon. Comparative inactivity is the rule on the extreme left. The Russians claim minor successes against Gen. Kuroki, who, presumably, having shot his bolt, and effected at least one of his objects, that of drawing Russian reinforcements, may have forwarded part of his army to reinforce the centre and west flank.

Kuropatkin Launches Blow.

General Kuropatkin has launched a blow at Field Marshal Oyama's left centre just west of the railroad.

The fighting is desperate along almost the entire line.

Kuropatkin's losses in killed and wounded up to last night are placed at 23,500.

Oyama is believed to have already lost fully 40,000 men.

The Japanese army, according to the prisoners, is greatly exhausted.

They repeat the statement that some of General Nogi's men have not had any food for two days.

Away From Mukden.

Sakhetun, March 7.—According to reports just received yesterday afternoon, the Japanese have advanced to attack along the whole line. Fighting has been in progress on the right flank of the Rusisan army near the Imperial tombs since Monday, but at this hour the slackened firing and the roar of the artillery indicate that the fighting gradually is sweeping further and further from Mukden. Several regiments stationed near Poutiloff and Novgorod Hills on Sunday night attacked and captured Japanese trenches, approaching under cover of darkness. The fighting was sharp and the Japanese used hand grenades, but finally were expelled at dawn.

Russians Lose 10,000.

Gen. Oku's Headquarters, March 7.—The Rusisans are retreating in great disorder. The escape of the main Russian forces seems impossible. It is already estimated that the Russians have lost 10,000 men. The Russians are throwing away their arms and clothing in order to facilitate their escape.

WOUNDED CRY NOT.

Road North of Mukden Crowded With Carts Filled With Men.

Headquarters of Gen. Rennenkampff, near Qubenapusa, March 4.—(8 a.m.)—(Via Mukden, March 7.)—The road northward is crowded so far as the eye can reach by a continuous file of two-wheeled Chinese carts, full of Russian wounded, the best testimony of the valor with which the army of the east, fighting continuously for a fortnight, has defended every inch of ground over which it has been compelled by superior numbers to retire. Each cart bears from three to five wounded men, whose exhaustion is almost too utter for them to feel pain.

Scarcely a groan or cry is heard, not even the moans of the dying, only the dismal creak of rude wheels and the thud of the ponies' hoofs are audible. Most of the wounded have their heads covered with Chinese blankets or dirty coats, stiff with coagulated blood, hiding wan and dirty faces, distorted with pain, sunken eyes and expanded nostrils. Here and there is seen a cart with two hundred men, between whom is a corpse, which with every jolt, pounds against the helpless living comrades of the man whose death has sealed the distortion of unbearable agony.

A Valley of Death.

The valley in front of the Russian position has become a valley of death, and corpses strew the debatable ground, from which neither side can remove its dead. Again and again the Japanese charged down the slope and up the hill. Again and again the Russians counter-attacked, trying to gain possession of the "hill with the tower." No quarter was asked or given by either side. The enemy ceased only in death—the wounded with breasts torn open by shrapnel or bayonet, assaying another shot with their last breath.

Here sits a Japanese upon a stone, a moment's pause for a rest having stretched him out into eternity. There lie two foes with their bayonets sheathed in each other's breasts. Everywhere corpses, corpses, corpses! For two days the Russians had been concentrating a heavy artillery fire on "The hill with the tower," stopping the Japanese sappers' work. At 2 o'clock in the morning yesterday the Russian skirmishers heard a noise at "The hill with the tower." Creeping forward, they discovered that the Japanese were heaping up corpses as defences. The Russian field batteries immediately opened fire and forced a cessation of the work.

Ends in Bayonet Fight.

At dawn yesterday the Japanese attacked the Russians near Gubenapusa. The attackers were scarcely recognizable as valiant Japanese, so mechanically did they move forward and withal with undying persistence attack and be thrown back. They repeated and at 10 in the morning, after a preparatory artillery bombardment, had reached the Russian trenches, where a bayonet fight ensued.

At the crucial moment, Gen. Alieff, commanding the vanguard, arrived on the scene with two companies, and turned the scale against the Japanese. Among the wounded was Lieut.-Col. H. Rostitsky of the general staff, who nevertheless remained at the front. Towards the evening the fight slackened.

The Japanese employed an ingenious scheme to deceive the Russian artillery, whose shells, though having the ranges, appeared to be exploding in the wrong direction. The officers were about to resort to experimental firing when skirmishers reported that the Japanese were exploding small mines and even throwing dirt in the air with spades to effect a deception.

FIGHT IN EVERY VILLAGE.

Dead Bodies Converted Into Breastworks by the Japs.

Mukden, March 7.—A correspondent has just returned from spending the entire day of March 4 with Russian vanguard on the right flank, where Gen. Nogi is attacking desperately, especially at Machiapu, where there is a crossing of the Hun River, four miles below the railroad. He says that all the Japanese attacks on the march were repulsed, but only through the most heroic fighting, which was renewed yesterday morning.

The vast plain of the Liao and Hun River Valleys presented a brilliant panoramic scene. The day being clear and sunny, the movements on both sides were distinctly visible, except when clouds of yellow dust, raised by the gusty west winds, swirled down and hid the shifting lines of infantry. Charge followed charge, attack, repulse and counter-attack. Russians and Japanese fighting viciously for every foot of the ground, and clinging like grim death itself to every Chinese cottage and mud wall, the only covers in the rich bottom lands.

Rivals La Haye Sainte.

Every village was the scene of struggles rivaling those of the famous La Haye Sainte at Waterloo. One regiment of Siberian sharpshooters was led to the attack by Col. Koukorin, who was wounded in the foot on Feb. 28, and directed the operations from a litter. The Villages of Sahoudyapu and Lanshanpu were taken and retaken several times, Lanshanpu finally passing into the hands of the Japanese March 4. The Japanese used hand grenades emitting a suffocating gas.

From the front and the left flank the reports are of an encouraging nature. A desperate attack of the Japanese on Poutiloff Hill is said to have resulted tragically, the Russian artillery turning lines of Japanese into heaps of bleeding bodies, which the survivors quickly converted into breastworks, from which they were driven by a bayonet charge and the murderous fire of the artillery.

The attack of the Japanese Imperial Guards divisions, according to reports from Gen. Sassalitch, crumbled before the brilliant defence of the Siberian sharpshooters. On the left Gen. Linevitch holds the hills stubbornly. It is even said that he has made a counter-

Continued on 4th Page.

READ THIS EXTRAORDINARY OFFER!

THE

New Idea Woman's Magazine

40c - One Year - 40c

In order to increase the circulation of the New Idea Woman's Magazine, we offer to the first hundred subscribers the

New Idea Woman's Magazine
One Year For 40c.

This is the best illustrated Magazine published, containing :—

Practical Styles. | Aids in Housekeeping.
Art Needlework. | Good Literature.
And Superb Color Plates.

READ THE NEW IDEA WOMAN'S MAGAZINE, FOR SALE AT :—

D.V. Sinclair & Co.

Whitewear Sale

We have been particularly fortunate in securing EXTRA VALUES combined with DAINTIER STYLES and a larger price range than in any previous season.

Judging from the number of ladies who have visited our mantle department and the amount of goods sold we feel confident in stating that we have the finest and best showing of Whitewear ever seen in Belleville.

Come prepared to buy—you will want to when you seen the beautiful garments trimmed with all the newest laces, embroideries, insertions, fagoting, beading and baby ribbons.

These garments are marked at a price that is very moderate indeed for the values represented—an inspection will so convince you.

CHILDREN'S WHITEWEAR

—CHILDREN'S DRAWERS Fine Lonsdale Cambric—trimmed with 3 rows of tucks, well sewn. Sale price 20c
—CHILDREN'S DRAWERS Fine Lonsdale Cambric, finished with 3 rows of tucks, trimmed on the bottom with fine val lace. Sale price 50c
—CHILDREN'S UNDERSKIRTS Fine Lonsdale Cambric, trimmed with fine Swiss Embroidery. Sale price range from .... 60c Up
—CHILDREN'S DRESSES Balero Effect, finished in fine tucks, trimmed with fine Embroideries and Insertions. Sale price 90c
—CHILDREN'S DRESSES Fine Lonsdale Cambric, Yoke with Fine Swiss Insertion and Lace, trimmed throughout with fagoting, a very dainty little dress. Sale price $1.65

HAVE YOU SEEN "THE OUT OF SIGHT."

Ribbon Fastener

It's out of sight in every sense of the word—The neatest thing in the way of a Collar and Ribbon Fastener you ever saw.

You will have no use for pins hooks and eyes, stiff forms or tieing or untieing your ribbon neckwear after using one.

The demonstrator will be only too glad to show you how at our novelty counter and the price is just..... 25c

NOTE:—Latest Parisian and New York Bows tied free of charge—this week only.

White Wash Materials

We have just received a large shipment of Beautiful White Wash Goods for Waists.

The patterns are the most attractive and the values the best we have ever offered.

The fancy stripe and stop are among the favorite ones.

An early visit will well repay you.

—See these goods while the stock is complete. Prices range 18c, 25c, 30c, 35c and 38c per yard.

SKIRTS

—Good quality Plain Cotton Skirt with 9 inch flounce of Lonsdale Cambric trimmed with narrow tucks. Sale price 45c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with wide tucked Lawn Flounce, edged with 4 inch frill of fine Torchon Lace. Sale price 65c
—Fine Cambric Skirt with 18 inch Lawn, frill trimmed with 3 rows of wide Torchon Insertion, edged with 4 inch Lace Frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Skirt with 18 inch flounce of alternate rows of Lawn and Torchon Insertion, 2 inches wide—all edged with wide lace frill—Lawn dust frill. Sale price $1.75

NIGHT GOWNS

—Gown of good quality Cotton, trimmed round sleeves and neck with lawn frills. Sale price 39c
—Fine Lonsdale Gown with yoke of narrow hemstitched tucks, edged with embroidery—neck and sleeves trimmed with embroidery frill. Sale price 68c
—Lonsdale Cambric Gown with deep yoke of narrow tucks and wide embroidery frill. Sale price 95c
—Fine Lonsdale Cambric Gown with narrow yoke of fagot stitching and lawn—half sleeves trimmed with fagotting, beading and baby ribbon—new and dainty. Sale price $1.25

The Ritchie Co'y.
Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

New Prints

We are showing some very beautiful patterns in this season's New English Prints and Cambrics in Fancy and Plain Stripes and Figures for Shirt Waists, Dresses and Children's wear. We have handled this maker's goods for years and can absolutely guarantee every yard. Price (per yard.) 12 1-2c

Fancy Spot Piques	White Piques.
Fancy Vestings.	English Zephyrs.
White Blouse Linens	Dress Linens.
	Fancy Colored Linens

For Spring Sewing

Our values in Nainsooks, India Linens, Lawns, Dimities, English Long Cloths and Cambrics are all specially selected for fine sewing, being soft and free from dressings.

New Embroideries

Our New Embroideries never were prettier than they are this season. The selection comprises—Fine Swiss and Nainsook Edges, Cambric and Heavy Cotton Edgings, Skirtings, Allovers, Corset Cover Embroideries, Beadings and Medallions.

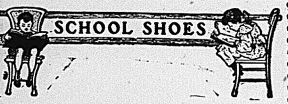
WE ARE BELLEVILLE AGENTS FOR "THE BUTTERICK PAPER PATTERNS" WHICH ARE ALWAYS RELIABLE.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION

—Just step in—when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND LEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

THE ELECTION FRAUDS IN MANITOBA.

The Winnipeg Free Press, discussing the recent election frauds in Manitoba, says that the rearrangement of the voters' lists was absolutely necessary. This cannot be denied. It is not, however, the necessity of rearranging the lists that has resulted in bringing a large number of election officials before the courts to answer serious charges, but the manner in which it was done. This the Laurier Government's Manitoba organ has not attempted to defend since the Liberal organizer for the province went into the witness box and told how it was done. Every election official is sworn to do his duty, "without partiality, fear, favor or affection. So help me God." He is an official charged by the law with any such rearrangement as may be necessary. He is bound by his oath to make that rearrangement "without partiality, fear, favor or affection." And how was this duty performed in a large number of the electoral divisions of Manitoba? The evidence of this man Leach, the provincial organizer of the Liberal party, who declined to tell by whom he was appointed, who declined to tell by whom he was paid, is that several of these men who had taken a solemn oath to perform their duties "without partiality, fear, favor or affection" brought the lists as they had received them from the King's Printer at Ottawa, to his office, the office of the provincial organizer of the Liberal party, and that the revision provided for by law, to be made "without partiality, fear, favor or affection," was actually made by the hirelings of the Liberal party, some of whom have since been rewarded by appointments to more or less lucrative offices controlled by the Laurier Government. And what was the basis upon which these hirelings of the Liberal party performed the work entrusted to the returning officer and which he had been sworn to do "without partiality, fear, favor or affection!" Nothing more or less than a careful canvass of the province made by the canvassers of the Liberal party. Does not this make it easy to understand how some men living within a few hundred yards of the polling place had their names erased from the voters' list, while their near-by neighbors remained upon the list? A more scandalous interference with the right of the people to register their will has never been attempted in Canada. The Lott and Shibley bogus ballot-box frauds were insignificant in comparison.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The City Council, we think, acted wisely in instructing its Clerk to write other towns and small cities and find out what aid they give to their hospitals. There is no doubt at all that the Belleville Hospital is an excellent institution, and the ladies who manage it are worthy of all praise for their assiduity and self-denial, but the increase asked for is a large one, and the Council may well collect a few statistics before committing itself to the matter. This promises to be a year of heavy expenditures. So far there has been an increased grant of $200 to the Public Library, $500 to the Old Boys' Reunion; $150 to the Assessor; the City Treasurer wants the Council to pay for his bond; the increased grant to the Hospital would bring the increases up to about $1600; not much for a large city, perhaps, but quite a sum for a little place like Belleville, with a robust debenture debt.

• • •

It will gratify many people to see that the Council has not forgotten the old complaint, that all doctors are not placed on an equal footing in regard to membership on the Medical Board of the Hospital. Assuredly, if the Council grants the increase asked for, it should see that all taxpayers in the city are given equal rights, the doctors among them.

• • •

The members of the Temiskaming Railway Commission have been asked for their resignations by the Whitney Government. It is altogether likely that they will comply without the unnecessary delay shown by Ross when Old Man Ontario gently suggested that he drop out.

• • •

The Russians think that Oyama has staked his all upon the battle at present going on. That may or may not be true, but, at all events, the Japs appear to be due to get about all the glory there is going.

• • •

Poor old Kingston! The street cars have stopped running, and the Whig tries to laugh its sorrows off in this way: "Ever since those four Belleville cars were purchased by the Kingston street railway company, there has been trouble on the local line. Those Intelligencerville cars brought with them the germs of dissolution. Now we've got to get a club and kill the germs."

• • •

In Nova Scotia the present winter has been the worst ever known. We knew those fellows would be punished for the way they went back on Borden.

• • •

A combination is to be started to prevent the adulteration of maple sugar. What! Is maple sugar ever adulterated?

• • •

"Ralph Connor" says he is surprised at Sir Wilfrid Laurier's action in regard to the Autonomy Bill. Why should anybody be surprised at anything Laurier says or does? He is, and always has been, an opportunist, pure and simple. See if he does not trim his sails to catch the strongest winds before the present agitation is over.

• • •

A gentleman tells us he has had a letter from his 13-months-old grandson, in Boston, and that the latter, through his mother, announces his intention of attending the Belleville Old Boys' Reunion. Young and old, great and small, they'll all be welcome.

• • •

FOR THROAT TROUBLE.
(Montreal Herald.)

A Montreal man who returned from the other side on the Hamburg-American liner "Pennsylvania," says that the chef gave him the following list of the amount of liquids on board:

"1,765 quarts of milk, 2,714 pounds of coffee, 155 pounds of tea, 7,800 quarts of beer, 3,900 bottles of wine, 1,452 bottles of brandy and whiskey, and 2,400 bottles of mineral water."

Which recalls: "And the people murmured and said, Wherefore is it that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt to kill us with thirst?"

• • •

The cedar mill in Deseronto started up again to-day, after being closed down since before Christmas. This caused many thankful hearts in Deseronto, so a resident of the town told us this morning.

• • •

A correspondent writes: "Dear Sir,—Hoping that the time is not far distant when women will take a more prominent part not only in municipal affairs, but politics as well, I enclose this article from the Montreal Star of Feb. 25th, asking you to kindly publish the same. The article follows:

"There is no field of labor more suited to women than that of education. Here in Montreal it would be an excellent thing if there were women on the School Board. Perhaps then there would be more attention paid to the practical side of education and the girls of our poorer classes would be taught a little less Latin and Greek and a little more about domestic problems.

"The whole question of education in Canada wants to be taken up and looked into. We are in a rut and likely to stay there unless some new blood is infused into our Boards. In London they have long recognized that women are peculiarly adapted to cope with educational questions and there are always women on the London School Board."

• • •

Scoffers and rude people might say that the average School Board has enough old ladies on it at present, but with remarks of that kind we have no sympathy. It would undoubtedly be a good thing for the educational interests of Belleville if women were given a place on the Board of Education, and The Intelligencer heartily endorses the sentiments contained in the quotation given above. Now, who will immortalize himself by moving in the matter?

• • •

Gen. Sherman's definition of war seems very much applicable to the great struggle now going on before Mukden. It seems hard to realize that, in this Twentieth century, such scenes can be permitted. "In His own likeness created He them," but surely never for such purposes as that.

• • •

Toronto fitly honored her favorite citizen, E. F. Clarke, yesterday, and in doing so honored herself.

Notice to Pile Sufferers.

We Don't Ask You to Take Anyone's Word For What Pyramid Pile Cure Will Do.

You Can Have a Trial Package Free By Mail.

We receive hundreds of letters like the following: "I have been feeling so good I could hardly believe it, after suffering with piles for a year, to find that I am once more feeling like myself. I wish you could have seen me before I started using Pyramid Pile Cure and look at me now, and you would say I am not the same man. I have gained 20 pounds, and all on account of Pyramid Pile Cure."—Walter Sharkley, 56 Park St., Springfield, Mass.

"I bought a fifty cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure and used as directed with the most unexpected results, a complete cure. I have been troubled with piles for thirty years and was in much distress and passed much blood, but at present am free from any kind of piles."—F. McKay, Weaverville, Cal.

"Pyramid Pile Cure has been worth thousands of dollars to me: it cured me after using numbers of other remedies and taking medicines from doctors. It also cured my son, although he could hardly walk, eat or sleep; he is now all right."—B. Stringfellow, Postmaster, Elko, S.C.

By the use of Pyramid Pile Cure you will avoid an unnecessary, trying and expensive examination by a physician and will rid yourself of your trouble in the privacy of your own home at trifling expense.

After using the free treatment, which we mail in a perfectly plain wrapper, you can secure regular full-size packages from druggists at 50 cents each, or we will mail direct in plain package upon receipt of price. Pyramid Drug Co., 2109 Main St., Marshall, Mich.

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCAUSLAND BROS.
Bakers and Confectioners.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. F. S. Pearce, of Marmora, is a visitor in the city.

Miss Marguerite Griffin is in Toronto for a few days.

Mrs. R. Large, of Deseronto, was a visitor in the city to-day.

Miss Clara V. Haynes, of this city, is absent from town this week.

Mrs. E. J. Mairdson has returned home after a six weeks visit to Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Buffalo.

Mr. Wm. Hitchon has returned to the Eastern Provinces, after spending two days with his parents here.

Miss May Matthews returned from Havelock yesterday, where she has been visiting friends for the past week.

Mr. Wesley McCreary returned to Toronto this morning, after spending a few days in the city with his parents.

At the Quinte: H. Douglas, W. McK Barlow, S. Johnson, H. Lake, A. A. Burbank, Montreal; F. Baker, Kingston; J. Horne, New York; D. L. Munro, Ormstown, Que.; M. O'Brien, Peterboro; J. Cooper, W. Russell, F. Armstrong, A. Pearce, J. Gleason, T. Comport, C. Hunter, J. McClure, W. Barrett, Toronto; A. Pratt, C. S. R. Stapleton, London; S. H. Stanton, Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Pearce, Marmora; Mrs. Hall, Cobourg.

Congratulations

To Messrs. D. V. Sinclair & Co., who to-day commence their eleventh year in business.

Cemetery Company Met.

An adjourned meeting of the Cemetery Company was held yesterday afternoon, but not much business was transacted. The auditor's report was received and, after some discussion, was adopted. A recommendation from the auditors to the effect that the directors should enforce payment of arrears was unanimously adopted.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

That half their ills are due to impoverished blood, they would use Ferrozone and be saved lots of pain and suffering. Ferrozone is a perfect food for the blood, and supplies the strengthening elements needed to maintain health and vigor. Ferrozone is a splendid tonic for weak, nervous women and drives away those depressed feelings of dead weariness. You'll have strength—lots of it—your complexion will improve, you will feel ten years younger after a course of Ferrozone, which builds up the whole human organism; try it. Price 50c.

A cough medicine over sixty years old

This must mean merit, solid, genuine merit. It certainly must be true that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, asthma. Ask your own doctor to explain why it strengthens weak throats and heals inflamed lungs. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER SEEKS PAPAL SANCTION.

SUBMITS DRAFT OF PROPOSED COMPROMISE TO APOSTOLIC DELEGATE, WHOSE APPROVAL HAS NOT YET BEEN GIVEN.

Ottawa, March 6. — Notwithstanding assurances in the Ministerial press that now everything is peace and harmony over the Autonomy Bill, it is well understood that such is anything but the case. Current rumor adds nothing to the prospect of an early settlement of the Cabinet trouble over the Separate school question. The attitude taken by the Quebec Liberals appears to have complicated the situation for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, inasmuch as it has rendered more difficult, if not impossible, the granting of such concessions as would make the measure acceptable to the Western members and to Mr. Fielding and his followers.

It is said that the Minister of Justice at Saturday's conference assured the Western group that the bill as drafted merely continued the Separate school provisions now in force in the Territories. The reply of Mr. Greenway to this was: "Then why not simply say so in a clause that everybody can understand?"

The draft of the compromise suggested to meet the views of Messrs. Fielding and Sifton has been submitted to Mgr. Sbarretti, the apostolic delegate, but has not yet been passed upon by that ecclesiastical authority.

The Liberals will hold a caucus tomorrow to discuss the situation. Reports of a settlement up to the present are entirely off color. Mr. Fitzpatrick and some of his friends are caucussing to-night to try and agree upon a clause for submission to the caucus, but it is doubtful whether they will succeed.

Hon. Clifford Sifton, seen to-day, stated that the only reason he had for resigning was his difference with the Premier over the educational clause of the school bill.

Chloroformed at Sixty.

The "Press" through the civilized world are now giving a good deal of attention to Dr. Osler's pleasantries, and some men over sixty years of age are highly indignant at the thought of being put out of the way. They need have no fears if they follow Mr. J. Morrison's advice. He writes from Roxboro, Ont.:

"I am 72 years of age, and for more than twenty years have been a martyr to dyspepsia. Oh! what I suffered no tongue can tell. Notwithstanding the money I paid in doctor's bills and medicines, I gradually grew worse, and finally gave up work on the farm. My son's wife persuaded me to try Dr. Pitt's Pearl Pills. When I think of the joy this advice brought me I can scarcely express myself in words, because in less than three months I have been absolutely cured; in fact, the very first dose gave me relief. To-day, notwithstanding my age, I am a better man than I was thirty years ago; can enjoy my meals and do as good a day's work as any of the boys. My blessing on Pearl Pills; they cured me. I recommend them to every person suffering as I did. This is all I can say."

These Pills are not made from ordinary drugs in the sense of patent medicines, but are a great medical discovery based on Nature's way of healing stomach and liver troubles.

At all dealers, 25c per box, or The Dr. Pitt Medicine Co., P.O. Box 2384, Montreal.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont.

f18.25,m4,11,18,25,a1

Time changes all things—with the exception of comic opera jokes.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Easterly winds, freezing in some localities during the night. Wednesday, cloudy, with sleet or rain.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m.	17
2 m.	30
2 p.m.	32
3 p.m.	32

BANANAS
PINEAPPLES
BITTER ORANGES
VALENCIA ORANGES
NAVEL ORANGES
MESSINA LEMONS

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of the Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee
'Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.
Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

Coffee

Wallbridge & Clarke will demonstrate Coffee on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 6 to 10th inclusive at their Bridge St. Store. Drop in any time and have a cup of Coffee. Everybody invited—No obligation to buy.

Honey

DELICIOUS WHITE HONEY.
In the comb. In sections.

DEATHS

GULLIVER. — At Belleville, on Tuesday, March 7th, 1905, Rufus B. Gulliver, aged 73 years.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. Gulliver, Front street, to-morrow (Wednesday), at 3.30 p.m. Services at the house at 3 o'clock.

You must understand before you are understood.

—TO MAKE ROOM FOR—

SPRING - STOCK

We have reduced the prices on all odd lines of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, Trunks and Valises.

VERMILYEA & SON

Always Remember the Full Name
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on every box. 25c

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Chamberlain for St. Agnes' School and cook for residence. Apply to Mrs. F. R. Lingham, after 6 o'clock. 7,8,11

Installment Collector for merchandise accounts. Good salary and expenses. Address, Manufacturer, P. O. Box, 1027, Philadelphia, Pa.

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

FOR SALE OR TO RENT,

A splendid brick house, eight rooms, good cellar, hard and soft water. Grier St., College Hill. Apply to J. T. Osborne, Moira St. Box 655. m2-6t

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course—Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

Weak Kidneys.

To any kidney sufferer who has not tried my remedy I offer a full dollar's worth free. Not a mere sample—but a regular dollar bottle — standard size and staple.

There is nothing to pay, either now or later. I ask no deposit—no promise. You take no risk. The dollar bottle is free—because mine is no ordinary remedy, and I feel so sure of its results that I can afford to make this offer.

In the first place, my remedy, does not treat the kidneys themselves. Such treatment is wrong. For the kidneys are not to blame for their weaknesses or irregularities. They have no power—no self-control. They are operated and actuated by a tiny shred of a nerve which alone is responsible for their condition. If the kidney nerve is strong and healthy the kidneys are strong and healthy. If the kidney nerve goes wrong you know it by the inevitable result—kidney trouble.

This tender nerve is only one of a great system of nerves; this system controls not only the kidneys, but the heart and the liver and the stomach. For simplicity's sake I have called this great nerve system the "Inside Nerves." They are not the nerves of feeling—not the nerves that enable you to walk, to talk, to act, to think. They are the master nerves and every vital organ is their slave. The common name for these nerves is the "sympathetic nerves"—because each set is in such close sympathy with the others, that weakness anywhere results in weakness everywhere.

This is why I treat not the kidney that is weak, but the ailing nerve that MAKES it weak. This is the secret of my success. This is why I can afford to do this unusual thing—to give away FREE the first dollar bottle, that ANY STRANGER may know how my remedy succeeds.

The offer is open to every one, everywhere, who has not tried my remedy. Those who have tried it do not need the evidence. So you must write ME for the free dollar bottle order. I will then send you an order on your druggist for a full dollar bottle, standard size and staple. He will pass it down to you from his stock as freely as though your dollar lay before him and will send the bill to me. Write for the order to-day.

For a free order for a full dollar bottle you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 69 Racine, Wis. State which book you want.	Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Kidneys. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases are often cured by a single bottle. For sale at forty thousand drug stores.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

FACTORY GIRLS MARRY RAPIDLY.

A HARD PROBLEM FOR THE PROPRIETORS OF FACTORIES TO KEEP GIRLS.

It will come as a surprise to many persons when they learn that the factory girls of Detroit marry at the rate of 150 to 200 a month, says the News. The resultant embarrassment to many factories during the busy seasons makes many a manager swear that in the future he will hire the unmarriageable only. There is in no sense a girl famine in Detroit. The offer of a position brings hundreds of applicants. But in this, as in other fields, quantity does not mean quality, and bright, quick, reliable girls are hard to find and every inducement is offered to them to stay when they are found. "But those are just the kind that go," said the foreman of an overall factory. "The young fellows have got the habit of choosing our best girls. It seems poor business, doesn't it, for a girl to be earning $12 a week and quit her job for a man who is earning only $10 or $15? But they will do it. Ordinarily they use good judgment, but when the love microbe gets into them you've got to chloroform them to keep them single."

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy.

The great success of this preparation in the relief and cure of bowel complaints has brought it into almost universal use. It never fails, and when reduced with water and sweetened is pleasant to take. It is equally valuable for children and adults. For sale by all druggists.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firmer—Cattle and Hogs Firmer in U. S. Markets.

London, March 6.—Live cattle are quoted at 10¾c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¼c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

TORONTO JUNCTION LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 51 carloads, composed of 1012 cattle, 28 sheep and 15 calves.

The quality of fat cattle generally was good, better than for some time past.

Trade was brisk, all offerings being sold by 11 a.m.

Owing to the fact that several of the dealers had space to fill, there was a better demand, but prices were about the same as a week ago. Prices ranged from $4.35 to $4.95, with one load at $5; the bulk sold at $4.50 to $4.80 per cwt.; bulls at $3.25 to $4 per cwt.

The quality of butchers' cattle was not as good as last week. Good butchers' were scarce and dearer, selling at $4.25 to $4.40 for loads; the bulk of offerings were of the fair to medium class, selling at $3.85 to $4.15 per cwt.; common, light butchers' sold at $3.25 to $3.40; cows at $3.25 to $3.50; rough and inferior at $2.25 to $2.75 per cwt.

Prices steady at $4.75 to $5 per cwt. for export ewes, and $3.75 to $4.25 per cwt.; for bucks; lambs at $6.50 to $7 per cwt.

Prices are a little easier at $5 to $5.50

ANIMALS' WANDERINGS.

Country Mouse and Town Mouse Fable Has Foundation In Fact.

The fable of the country mouse and the town mouse has a foundation in fact. Mice occasionally migrate in large numbers when food grows scarce and travel considerable distances to fresh houses. Farmers in a part of Perthshire had a good reason to become aware of this fact when a couple of years ago vast swarms of mice invaded their cornfields at harvest time.

But the mouse only travels when it has to. The rat, on the contrary, seems to take a yearly outing, in very much the same fashion as do human beings. Rats are the most migratory creatures in the world. Troops of rats leave the towns at the end of summer and spend a month or two in the country, apparently in order to enjoy the change of food which the country affords at that time of the year in the way of fresh fruit and grain. Before the cold weather sets in they are all back again in their old quarters.

Reindeer migrate with the same regularity as swallows. They move south when winter sets in, but as soon as ever the snow begins to melt they travel steadily north, sometimes for as much as a thousand miles.

To end a holiday by deliberate suicide is so strange a phenomenon that for a long time naturalists looked upon the stories of the migration of the lemmings as an improbable fiction. Yet the facts are beyond dispute. At irregular intervals these ratlike creatures start out from their homes in the fastnesses of northern Scandinavia in huge droves numbering tens of thousands and travel steadily southward. Death pursues them in a hundred forms. Hawks and other birds of prey hover above them. Thousands are drowned in rivers. Yet the rest struggle on until they reach the sea. They do not stop. They plunge in, swim out and struggle on until at last their strength fails and they drown. Not one ever returns from this journey of death.—London Answers.

COTTON IN A FABRIC.

How to Tell If Worsted or Woolen Cloths Are Adulterated.

Worsted cloths are less often adulterated than woolens and are more easily detected. A cotton worsted is a lie on the face of it, for the cotton stands out with prominence. But often a cotton thread is twisted with a worsted thread, and to determine its presence it is only necessary to take the twist out of the thread and then examine its component parts.

Cotton, having a long staple, can be carded and combed with wool to be spun into worsted yarn. This is done to cheapen the cost of production. Cotton is carded and spun with wool and shoddy, not so much to cheapen the yarn, for cotton is generally as expensive as some shoddies, but is introduced to give strength or spinning qualities to the stock. In many cases the shoddy is of such short staple that it would not stand the drawing in spinning, and, as it would make the cost of the yarn too high to put in enough wool to give that lacking strength, cotton is put in for this purpose.

The percentage of cotton in a fabric can be determined in this manner: Take a small piece of cloth and weigh it. Now boil it for five minutes in a 5 per cent solution of caustic soda. Take out what is left, and, if any, it is all cotton. The wool will all be dissolved. The percentage of shoddy cannot be determined except by experience.

A cloth or yarn with shoddy in it is easily detected by its feel. Cloth made of all new wool is softer feeling than one containing shoddy, for the latter has lost that new, soft, springy feel peculiar to wool.—American Wool and Cotton Reporter.

Success Prolongs Life.

It is now well known that increased complexity of life with increased expenditure distinctly aids longevity. Luxury, "the fertile parent of a whole family of diseases," modifies it greatly, of course, but this is a manageable factor, says the London Chronicle. We have only to recall personal experience to realize the force of intellectual stimulation. The interest of sport will sustain men without fatigue for distances they otherwise could not traverse. The excitement of strife will often mask the presence of wounds. Self forgetfulness in all the walks of life, under the stress of love, chivalry or accepted duty, doubles human endurance. Success gives new vitality, new powers, and this is another name for new life.

No Notion of Real Trouble.

"I bet I get into more trouble than any man in this state," volunteered the young fellow who had come in the clubhouse. "Nothing in the trouble line overlooks me. Why, I'd be afraid to marry"—

"What! Ain't you married?" ejaculated the red nosed elderly party who was hovering over the gratis lunch. "Boy, you don't know what trouble is."

Charity.

She—I'm glad we went. It was an excellent performance—and for such a charitable purpose. Her Husband—Yes, indeed! We all feel a thrill of satisfaction when we do something for charity and get the worth of our money at the same time.—London Tit-Bits.

Intended.

Bills—You made a funny break in congratulating the bride's father instead of the groom. Wills—No, I didn't. I've a daughter, too, and I know what they cost.

Just as you are pleased at finding faults you are displeased at finding perfection.—Lavater.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

An entertainment of special interest will be given in the Albert College Chapel on the evening of Friday, March 10th. Programme will consist of readings, dialogues, statue posing, physical culture exercises, vocal and instrumental music. Admission 15 cents. Proceeds in aid of athletics. 4,7,9

When travelling by land or sea buy your tickets from S. Burrows, C.P. R. and general ticket agent, Belleville.

T. Haslip, butcher, has just received a choice carload of Western cattle. m3-6t

The Intelligencer staff desire to thank Mr. A. Ward, of Chatterton, for the gift of a basket of apples, which were beauties of the Fall Water variety.

Police Magistrate Flint's court was a blank again to-day.

To-day's market was rather slimly attended. Prices remain about the same.

A meeting of the Historical Society will be held in the Officers' Quarters to-night at 7.30. All are welcome.

Mr. A. W. McCreary, of Toronto, spent the past two days in the city, and returned to Toronto this morning. Mr. McCreary was the fifth old Belleville boy to take out a membership card in the Belleville Old Boys' Association. He attended the meeting last Friday evening, and says it was the most pleasant evening he has spent this winter. There were about three hundred present.

TO KNOCK OUT COLDS

And cure them in an hour without resorting to nauseous drugs just use fragrant, healing Catarrhozone— the most pleasant, prompt and certain cure for colds ever discovered. No medicine to take, you simply breathe the balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone. It never fails to root out the worst colds and is so simple and convenient to use that no one can afford to be without it. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you won't have colds. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Closes Lower—Live Stock Markets— The Latest Quotations.

Monday Evening, March 6

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ⅜d to ¾d lower than Saturday, and corn futures ½d higher.

At Chicago, May wheat closed ⅛c lower than Saturday, May corn unchanged and May oats ¼c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, March 6.—Wheat—On passage heavy and depressed. English country markets of Saturday firm. Corn—On passage rather firm.

Closing—London—Mark Lane Miller Market—Wheat—Foreign quiet, with a small business. Wheat—English quiet, with a small business. Corn—American firm, with an advance of 3d. Danubian nominally unchanged. Flour—American quiet, but steady. English quiet, but steady.

THE VISIBLE SUPPLY.

	Mar.6,'05.	Mar.5,'04.
Wheat	35,565,000	34,658,000
Corn	9,169,000	9,177,000
Oats	15,873,600	10,253,000

Wheat decreased 963,000 bushels during the past week, corn increased 645,000 bushels, oats decreased 818,000 bushels.

The total amount of wheat visible and on passage, 79,825,000 bushels, against 77,088,000 bushels last week and 73,538,000 bushels last year.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	115	102⅜
Detroit	120	101½
St. Louis	...	108
Duluth	111⅞	111½
Toledo	115½	99½
Minneapolis	113⅝	110⅝

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, white, bush	$1 06 to	$1 08
Wheat, red, bush	1 06	1 06
Wheat, spring, bush	1 02	....
Wheat, goose, bush	0 90	0 92½
Barley, bush	0 52	....
Oats, bush	0 47	....
Beans, bush	1 00	1 10
Rye, bush	0 75	....
Peas, bush	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 6.—Wheat—Spot nominal. Futures quiet; March nominal, May 6s 10d, July 6s 10½d.

Corn—Spot firm; American mixed, new, 4s 3¼d; American mixed, old, 4s 11½d. Futures quiet; March 4s 2⅝d May 4s 4½d.

Bacon—Short ribs quiet, 36s.

Lard—Prime western, in tierces steady, 35s 6d; American refined, in pails, steady, 34s 9d.

Cheese—American finest white steady, 53s.

Hops—In London (Pacific coast) steady, £6 6s to £7 7s.

The imports of wheat into Liverpool last week were 24,800 quarters from Atlantic ports and 162,000 from other ports.

The imports of corn from Atlantic ports last week were 36,500 quarters.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, March 6.—Butter—Irregular; receipts, 4502. Street prices: Extra creamery, 31c to 31½c. Official prices: Creamery, common to extra, 25c to 31c; do., held, common to extra, 23c to 31c; state dairy, common to extra, 24c to 29c; renovated, common to extra, 20c to 26c; western factory, common to choice, 20c to 26c; western imitation creamery, common to extra, 24c to 29c.

Cheese—Firm; receipts, 1802; state, full cream, small, colored and white, fancy, 13¾c; do., fine, 13¼c; do., late made, colored and white, choice, 12¾c; do., do., fair to good, 11¾c to 12¼c; do., poor, 10¼c to 11¼c; do., large, colored and white, fancy, 13½c; do., fine, 12¾c to 13c; late made, colored and white, choice, 12½c; do., fair to good, 10¾c to 11¼c; do., poor, 9¾c to 10½c; skims, full to light, 4c to 10¼c.

Eggs—Steady; receipts, 6286; state, Pennsylvania and nearby, fancy, selected, white, 29c to 30c; do., choice, 28c; do., mixed, extra, 28c; western firsts, 26c; do., seconds, 25c to 26c; southerns, 25c to 26c.

The unspoken word never does harm. —Kossuth.

Marketing In Paris.

Almost every woman in France does her own marketing, and ladies take their maid or cook along to carry home their purchases.

I am speaking of the average household. Rich or very chic people leave the marketing to the cook, who deals in stores which have regular deliveries, while in very wealthy households that all important personage, the chef, would not hear of any one interfering with his prerogative of selecting and ordering everything, and this able creator of sauces, of things savory, steaming or jellied, may even have his own coupe to take him to the Halles, the huge market that each day provides the provisions for all of Paris and its suburbs.

Servants love to go to market, for it is a custom with almost every storekeeper to give them a cent on every franc spent, so you will find it next to an impossibility to make your cook deal where she does not receive her sou du franc, and in engaging a servant many will ask you, "Does madame do her own marketing?"—Good Housekeeping.

Milk and Apples.

Though no one would think so from looking at a fluid glass of milk and a solid apple, the percentage of solids and water in apples and in milk is almost the same, apples being 85 per cent water, and milk 86 per cent.

There is more sugar in apples and more acid in milk. A diet of both apples and milk is one of the most wholesome and well balanced. The potash contents of both are high. They are the best for brain, bone and muscle nourishment, and in their effect upon the nerves they are soothing.

In skimming milk the cream removed lessens the fat percentage, and for older people or fat children the skim milk is equally desirable, in some cases better. In eating apples the skin, too, should be eaten. Pared apples are not so nutritious, as the ash contents of the apple skin are valuable to the human system.

Odd Animal Laws.

When a dog was unlawfully killed in countries differing so widely as Germany and Arabia the owner of the animal used to be indemnified in the following manner: The dog was hung up by the tail, with the point of its muzzle touching the ground, and the man who had committed the offense was obliged to pour over it corn or flour until the carcass was completely hidden by the heap. This heap then became the property of the man who owned the dog.

In Syria there was a specially curious variation, for if it were a street dog that was killed the flour was made into bread and given to its fellows. No doubt this arose from the value attached in those old parts to street dogs as scavengers. By the old Welsh laws of Howel the damages for killing an animal belonging to another were assessed in the same odd manner.

Two Kinds of Reading.

If we make the pages of our books merely a sort of pleasant maze in which to set our minds to wandering during idle hours we in reading shall have acquired a pastime that is usually harmless. But there is a vast difference between such a way of spending our time and the reading that teaches us to think as the greatest and wisest men and women have thought. Words stand in our minds for certain ideas or images. From what we read we learn to make these plain or hazy, clearly drawn pictures or carelessly executed sketches, and thus our powers of thinking are directly trained by our method of reading.—St. Nicholas.

Magnet Power.

The lifting of massive iron and steel plates weighing four, six and twelve tons by magnetism is now done every workday in a number of large steel works. The magnets are suspended by chains from cranes and pick up the plates by simple contact and without the loss of time consequent to the adjustment of chain and hooks in the older method. It is also found that the metal plates can be lifted by the magnets while still so hot that it would be impossible for the men to handle them. A magnet weighing 300 pounds will lift nearly five tons.

Position In Sleep.

According to Dr. Fischer of Berlin, the most effective position of sleep for obtaining intellectual rest is to keep the head low and the feet slightly elevated. Failing this, the body should at any rate be horizontal, so as to irrigate the brain well. The habit of sleeping with head low and feet high is, according to the doctor, a remedy for brain troubles and some internal maladies. It can be adopted gradually.

Ill Luck Averted.

"My dear," said Mrs. Spenders by way of preliminary, "would you consider an opal unlucky?"

"I would if I got a bill for one and had to pay it," began her husband sternly.

"Oh," she interrupted, "I'm so glad I ordered a diamond instead!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Sarcastic.

Cholly—D'you know, I'm sometimes inclined to think— Clara (encouragingly)—Why don't you do it, Cholly? It's not such a difficult thing if you really try.

Limit to Rights.

Even the free citizen of a free country may not have in all cases the right to do what he pleases with his own property.

Not So Enjoyable.

Friend—Your wedding breakfast was a delightful affair. Mr. Honeymoon (with a sigh)—Yes, but we've had others since.

The New Store.

Plenty of things around the store deserve special mention, the following will answer for now. You can judge the trend of values by such items as these.

NEW DRESS GOODS

—Mohair Effects from	25 to 75c	—Crispine	50c to $1.00
—Voiles	30c to $1.00 yard	—Cashmeres	25c to 75c
—Crepe-de-Chene	50c to $1.00 yd.	—Serges	25c, 50c, 75c
—Eoliennes	75c to $1.00	—Lustres	25c to 75c
—Etamines	50c to 75c	—Venetians	75c to $1.50

New Silk Blouses from .... $2 75 to $6 00 each.

75 LADIES' RAIN COATS

Guaranteed Waterproof and as far as could be foreseen in sizes to suit any customer. Price .... $4.00 to $10.00 each.

The store is as bright as a May morning and every day adds to its prestige.

Wims & Co

AN INACTIVE LIVER
A CONSTIPATION HEADACHE soon set right by

BEECHAM'S PILLS

TO SET YOUR LIVER WORKING RIGHT is absolutely imperative if you are to get any comfort from life or nourishment from food. A torpid liver can be a very dangerous condition and should not be neglected. Few medicines act as thoroughly, promptly and safely as Beecham's Pills. They are vigorous but mild, and cause no inconvenience or nausea.

TO BE RID OF CONSTIPATION
There is no remedy quite as good as Beecham's Pills, not only to loosen the bowels but in the after effects. There is no binding up afterwards, as these Pills aid Nature in a natural way. Persons chronically constipated can become regular and be rid of the consequent discomforts formerly theirs by use of BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Sold by all Druggists in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes, 25 cents.

Are Your Trousers Stamped?

Very few wholesale tailoring houses are willing to put their names on the garments they manufacture—have no confidence in their own goods.

Every pair of trousers from our factory bears our trade mark on the curtain.

Thus, our reputation is at stake, and you know what that means—we've got to put our very best workmanship and intelligence into every pair.

If our name is on your trousers you can depend the quality and style are right.

If your dealer does not keep them send us a postal card and we will tell you where you can get them.

English Woolen Mills Company,
"TROUSER KINGS"
LONDON - - CANADA

Cracker Proof

Doubt all we've said about MOONEY'S PERFECTION CREAM SODAS. Doubt the crackers all you will. But the first one of them you eat, will prove that we are right and you are wrong. For you can't doubt the fresh, crisp deliciousness of

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

The proof of Mooney quality is in the crackers themselves.

Parliamentary Notice

Monday, the Third day of April next, will be the last day for the presenting of Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the Tenth day of April next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Monday, the Twenty-fourth day of April next, will be the last day for receiving Reports of Committee on Private Bills.

CHARLES CLARKE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 24th February, 1905.

ARE YOU STRUGGLING

with the light problem? Let us furnish you estimates on installing the handiest, cleanest and safest light on the market. Light your residence or shop with

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

A fine lot of new patterns in Shades just arrived.

Call and inspect them.

GREENLEAF & SON.

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S

Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

March 1905

And it's March to the letter in our store . . . .

MAKE THIS YOUR SHOE STORE
YOU CAN'T DO BETTER. DON'T THINK YOU CAN DO AS WELL.

Bring in all the children, not forgetting baby, and we'll shoe the entire family in a manner that will please you, and at prices that will bring you here again.

New Spring Goods Arriving Daily

The J. J. Haines
SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

PIES.

Fresh Pies out in time for your dinner, made on large 9 inch heavy paper plates, so there will be no charge for plates.

Lemon 20c, Mince 20c, Pumpkin 15c, Apple 15c, Meat Pies 5c each. ICE CREAM EVERY DAY.

Ed. F. Dickens.
—CATERER

Don't Get Rusty

Keep posted in all that's new, up-to-date and the latest in Cooking Utensils, Crockery, Tea and Coffee and all the other useful things from the common dishes up to the finest silver plate—See the new Potato Ricers 40c each, Cereal Cookers $1.00, Egg Poachers 7c and Pie Funnels 8c.

STROUD'S 40c QUALITY OF TEA IS MAKING NEW FRIENDS. DAILY

STROUD'S Tea and China Stores
Opp. Anglo-American
Front Street, Bellevil

| STROUD'S 'PHONE 301. |

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00

—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand."

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

It is hinted that the last has not yet been heard of that petition which certain pupils of the High School tried to put in circulation, asking for the deposing of Mr. E. F. Milburn, principal of the High School. The matter, we are told, is liable to come up before the Board of Education next Friday night, and several parents, as well as pupils, may be hauled over the coals.

• • •

They had an awful time in the Council last night. One of the longest sessions on record.

First the Mayor began to yawn,
Next it spread to Ald. Panter
"Hoot, mon! There's lots of gas the nicht,"
Said the chiel who wears the Tam o' Shanter.

Has anybody heard anything about the drill shed site lately? It's a long time between reports.

• • •

TIMELY RHYMES.

When thinking of this frigid clime,
this land of ice and snow,
Don't get too gay with epithets, my boy, because you know,
This winter will not always be—this is a changeful clime—
And you'll get nicely roasted in the good old summer time.

When out you go to scrape the slush from off your miles of walk
Don't try to melt the ice you find with your hot line of talk.
But just keep cool and work away, because you must allow
You won't have much to shovel in about six months from now.

When you are walking down the street and slip upon a chunk
Of ice or snow and sit you down most suddenly ker-plunk,
Control yourself and do not swear,
my dear young friend, for I Assure you you will wish for ice along in next July

• • •

The marriageable daughters of American millionaires have just been struck a violent blow in that most vulnerable spot, their self-esteem. A German count has eloped with a shop girl. Dunder und blitzen!

• • •

The West is said to be a unit behind Sifton. That's nothing. There's Hon. Bill Mulock, now. He's a cipher behind Laurier.

• • •

The Czar says the Russians will fight to the last ditch. (N.B.—In this case the last ditch will not be the Trent Valley canal.)

• • •

"It does not increase our confidence in professional guides to good health and longevity," remarks the Philadelphia Record, "to learn of the death of a person who has been bedridden for forty-nine years. What have fresh air and exercise to do with health when a person can live half a century stretched upon a bed?"

• • •

A SMALL GLOBE TROTTER.

(Brockville Recorder.)

Among the English emigrants passing over the C.P.R. last week, was a little tot of four years named Beatrice Hyde, who had come all alone from Liverpool. A relative in that city gave the purser of the C. P. R. boat a letter and enough money to pay for the child's food to her destination, a small town in British Columbia. The little one was absolutely alone, but was quite contended with her big doll as her companion. The money is passed on from conductor to conductor, and Beatrice never suffered for lack of attention. According to the letter, an aunt will meet her when she reaches her journey.

GRIP'S GREATEST FOE.

A Scientific Method of Mastering The Grip.

MAKE A MEMO.

Make a memo of the fact that there is only one safe and certain way to deal with Mr. Grip.

Soak him!

Do it with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

You say, "What has Catarrh to do with Grip?"

Why, Grip is Catarrh, nothing else.

Catarrh attacks in numberless different forms.

One of its worse forms is Grip.

Grip's greatest foe is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because Stuart's Catarrh Tablets can be relied upon to do Grip the greatest damage of any remedy or medicine you can take.

They are much superior to quinine or any of the old unscientific methods of dealing with the disease, because quinine is quackery, and Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are a pure and simple scientific combination of germicidal and tonic ingredients, which have a positive specific effect upon every form of Catarrhal inflammation in the body—including Grip.

Grip is a fearful disease.

Not so much in its own particular symptoms, though these are bad enough, but because of the fact that the after-effects are so lingering and dangerous.

Grip pulls you down, so you feel weak and miserable for months.

The only tonic that will built you up is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Grip weakens the heart, kidneys and lungs. Thousands of deaths from Heart Disease, Bright's Disease, Pneumonia, Consumption, are directly due to the weakening results of the Grip.

The only medicine that will prevent the Grip from developing into these direful diseases is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Better take them.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets succeed in curing, and in preventing the dangerous after-effects of the Grip, for one great and sufficient reason: They are not a general tonic remedy.

They are a scientific specific for just this one form of disease, Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membranes.

They are a curative, not a palliative.

Beware of the deadly grip of the Grip.

Fight it off with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Sold at all druggists at 50 cents a box.

BATTLE'S ROLLING TIBE

attack and retaken some redoubts, and has advanced a few miles.

Doomed to Be a Sedan.

Newchwang, March 7.—It is reported here that the scouts of Gen. Nogi's and General Kuroki's armies are already in touch behind Tie Pass. There is every indication that the great Japanese movement for the enveloping of Mukden has so far met with overwhelming success, and that that stronghold of the Russians will prove another Sedan.

Japs Left 2,000 Dead.

Mukden, March 7.—Yesterday's artillery duel lasted until sunset. The firing was fiercest at Fantziatun, which was set on fire by shells. Shrapnel was responsible for nearly all the wounded. Yesterday's fighting was probably only preliminary shelling. Night attacks on the centre and left flanks were repulsed. The Japanese left 2,000 dead in front of Gao Pass.

Russ Ship Patrols Red Sea.

Aden, Arabia, March 7.—A Russian warship is reported to be patrolling the centre of the Red Sea. She has been turning her searchlights on passing vessels

Another Assassination.

Bialystock, Russian Poland, March 7.—The Chief of the Police of Bialystock, 52 miles from Grodno, has been assassinated.

To Jail With Them.

Montreal, March 7.—Messrs. Gaynor and Greene, the American contractors, who are alleged to have cheated the Washington Government by over half a million, yesterday appeared before Judge Lafontaine and were remanded for eight days. He refused to grant bail, and sent the prisoners to the custody of the jailer.

WYNDHAM RESIGNS.

Redmond Says it Is Evidence in Favor of Home Rule—Balfour's Explanations

London, March 7.—Premier Balfour announced in the House of Commons yesterday that Mr. Wyndham, the Chief Secretary of Ireland, had resigned.

The Premier said he had been unable any longer to withstand the appeals of Mr. Wyndham to be allowed to resign. Mr. Wyndham did not believe that he would be able at the present time to support all the labors and anxieties of his great office, but his principal reason for resigning was the fact that the recent controversy inside and outside the House had greatly impaired, if not altogether destroyed, the value of the work he could perform as Chief Secretary for Ireland.

Mr. Balfour added that he did not propose to enter into the merits of the controversy, although there were features of it on which he had very strong opinions. Mr. Wyndham alone was the judge as to the effect it had on his usefulness. The Premier regretted that Mr. Wyndham was not present to explain his position personally, in accordance with custom, but Mr. Balfour hoped he might soon be in a position to do so.

Do Not Disguise Their Joy

The Ulster Unionists do not disguise their joy at the success of the manoeuvres to oust Mr. Wyndham, but their happiness they openly assert will not be complete unless Sir Anthony P. MacDonnell, Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, joins his late chief in retirement.

The defection of the Irish Unionists was undoubtedly the cause of Mr. Wyndham's resignation, and Mr. Balfour's acceptance thereof, the split in the Ministerial ranks being such as to threaten the extinction of the Government's majority at any moment. Walter Long, president of the Local Government Board, is regarded as the probable successor of Mr. Wyndham.

John Reamond's Opinion.

John Redmond, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, in an interview yesterday, said that Mr. Wyndham's resignation was another evidence in favor of home rule, and a distinct step in that direction. The Government has tried the best men in Ireland, he said: "If control of that country from Downing Street were possible, someone would have succeeded in adjusting affairs to the general satisfaction. Mr. Wyndham was one of the Government's star men, and he did his best, but finding that he could accomplish nothing towards reform of the present Irish administration, he began to favor home rule. This attitude met with the disapproval of the Ulster men. When taken to task in the House, Mr. Wyndham made the mistake of rounding on his "pal," which was unpardonable.

Charles Pettypiece Dead.

Forest, March 7.—Charles, eldest son of H. J. Pettypiece, ex-M. P. P., died yesterday afternoon, aged 20 years.

Among all forms of mistakes prophecy is the most gratuitous.—Eliot.

Parents buy Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because they know it is a safe medicine for their children and an effectual expeller of worms.

Probably egg coal is so called because of its close resemblance in price to hen fruit.

Where can I get some of Holloway's Corn Cure? I was entirely cured of my corns by this remedy and I wish some more of it for my friends. So writes Mr. J. W. Brown, Chicago.

Kuropatkin would doubtless rather be recalled at this stage of the game than captured by the Japs later.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

However, no hard feelings will be occasioned if we fail to retain the low temperature prize.

Prevent Disorder.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventative of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

Gen. Stoessel explains that the Japs won because they drill better. The supposition was that they shoot better and more often.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

A man's capacity for work often depends upon whether he is working for himself or others.

A Wide Sphere of Usefulness.—The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market for over thirty-one years, its prosperity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.
No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited. Daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mall	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mall	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From

Belleville

To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points.

Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

Daily except Sunday

L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)......	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C ...	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C. ...	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.

A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.

G. . GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
GENERAL INSURANCE AGENT,
Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.
Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.
m3-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL
Dentist, Belleville Ont.
Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT
J. FRANKLIN WILLS
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. (. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.
THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.
INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insur- Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies, and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter, Joiner. Builder
Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave.
(next McCrodan's grocery.)
Estimates furnished.
Work promptly and carefully } executed PRICES MODERATE
—SPECIALIST ON—
Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.
G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

Millions of People
Enjoy it daily. Are you on the list?
"SALADA"
BLACK, MIXED OR GREEN.
The World's Preference.

Linked by Fate

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Author of "The Verdict of the Heart," "A Heritage of Hate," "Nell of Shorne Mills," "Paid For," "A Modern Juliet," Etc.

CHAPTER I.

The moon shone in regal splendour on one of the most beautiful spots on this beautiful earth.

It was one of the islands which lie off the eastern shore of Australia. A gentle breeze stirred the foliage, the waves lapped in on the golden sands and broke gently on the rocks, making a music as soft and soothing as the breeze; the opalescent light lit up the scene and turned it into a dream of fairyland.

And a man stood on the beach, and looking round upon this fairyland, cursed it fluently under his breath.

He was young and well made; one of those good-looking young men which the public schools and the 'varsities turn out with machine-like regularity. He was an athlete and strong, but in the moonlight he looked wan and pale and infinitely weary, with the weariness of doubt, anxiety and sleepless nights.

His serge suit was tatterd and torn and shrunk by the water and the sun, and his shapely head was covered by a battered hat made of leaves.

As he stood looking moodily before him, there came from a rough hut, at a little distance from the beach, another young man. He was by no means an athlete, but small and thin and bent, and he wore the remains of a black serge suit of clerical cut; for he was a clergyman. He was even paler and more wan than the man on the sands, and he pressed his thin hand to his chest and coughed as he came along slowly and painfully.

The two men looked like characters in an old fashioned farce; but there was tragedy here. For these two men, with sundry other persons, were all that remained of the crew and passengers of the vessel Alpina, which eight days previously had been wrecked off the coast of this uninhabited island.

The Reverend Arthur Fleming crawled to his companion's side.

"You have seen nothing, Mannering?" he asked; not as one with hope of an answer in the affirmative, but as if the question were a formula which had grown into a habit.

Vane Mannering shook his head.

"No," he said, gravely; "and I am afraid we're not likely to. In my opinion, this beastly land is one of the numerous groups which is quite out of the line of shipping. The fact that the Alpina lost her course proves that, I think."

"You mean that there is little hope of rescue?" said Arthur Fleming in a low voice.

"Very little chance," assented Mannering. "Of course, I can't say for certain. If they had taught me geography at Eton or Oxford, instead of Latin and Greek, and several other still more useless things, I might give a guess as to where we are; but as it is I've no idea. If there had been any chance of our being picked up, we should have sighted a veesel before now. In all probability we shall be left to die of starvation—well, not of starvation, perhaps, say ennui—in this cursed island."

Fleming's lips opened to murmur, "Bless and curse not;" but he refrained. It was scarcely the moment for reproof; and, indeed, his gratitude to his companion helped to check him; for the party owed their lives to Vane Mannering, whose energy, alertness, coolness and presence of mind had brought them from the doomed ship.

"Have you seen the Doctor and Miss Nina?" asked Mannering, after a pause, filled up by Fleming's hollow cough.

"She is in their hut; I saw her go in half an hour ago. The Doctor is still wandering about the island. The way that girl bears up, Mannering, fills me with admiration and reverence. She is here all alone with us men; she has suffered all the privations, that terrible journey in the boat from the ship, all the dreadful uncertainties of our position with something more than heroism; for heroism always suggests to my mind a kind of blatancy and self assertion; but she has been not only fearless, but cheerful and self-reliant, and yet trustful. I tell you, Mannering, when I think of her my heart goes out in gratitude to God for His creation of sex. Who would have thought that such a slim bit of a girl, who seemed all gaiety and lightness of heart, would have proved such a noble character!"

Mannering nodded. "She is still keeping well? I was afraid she might get a touch of fever, such as the rest of us have had."

"She had a slight attack," said Fleming; "but she seemed to throw it off with a courage as great as her patience and self-denial. The Doctor is about the same; he is still very weak and his mind seems cloudy, but he insisted upon going out; and he has taken his hammer with him to knock off bits of rock, and so on."

"Let him," said Mannering, briefly; "it will amuse him and keep him from brooding on the situation. I wish I could go and knock off pieces of rock, instead of standing idly here!"

"How can you talk so, my dear Mannering?" he said. "You have been our leader, our sole support; you have worked indefatigably from morning to night. But for you we should all be lying at the bottom of the sea there; we owe our lives to your energy, your pluck, your wonderful power of endurance."

Mannering shook his head. "I have done little enough," he said, moodily. "You ought not to be out here, Fleming," he added, as Fleming's cough shook his frail figure.

"I'm all right. It's very warm in the hut; and I don't cough any more out here. We'll both turn in presently. Why, don't you smoke?"

"I gave my last pipe to the Doctor," Mannering replied, casually. "He wanted it worse than I do."

The strident sound of a concertina floated unmusically from one of the three huts, and was followed still more unmusically by loud voices and laughter.

"The men seem merry to-night," remarked Fleming with a sigh.

"Yes," said Mannering. "I gave out a tot of rum to each man this evening. I wish—" He hesitated, and Fleming looked up at him quietly. "I wish they weren't here," continued Mannering. "They are an element of danger, Fleming. Up to the present they have behaved fairly well, for it is only since the last day or two they have begun to grouse; but how long will they continue to behave well? For instance, how long will they be content to let me deal out the rum? They know where the keg is. I could not prevent their getting at it."

"They're—they're not all bad," suggested Fleming. "They have stood by us up to now."

Mannering nodded. "No, they are not all bad; but there are one or two black sheep amongst them. I mistrust that Lascar and the other stoker, Munson. He is always haranguing the rest. I saw him skulking round the Doctor's hut last night. If they were Englishmen one would not have any misgiving; but—!" He shrugged his shoulders. "We man our ships with the scum of the earth, Fleming, just as we fill the East End of London with aliens to take the bread out of the mouths of our own poor." The noise from the men's hut grew louder. "I think I'd better go and see what they are doing," he said.

He and Fleming approached the hut quiotly and looked in. Some of the six men were lying full length on the ground, others seated on stools roughly constructed of the limbs of the pine trees. In the centre of the hut stood the keg of rum, and Munson was drawing some of the red liquor into a can. They had all been drinking freely, and were flushed and excited.

Fleming groaned as he saw the keg, and Mannering's face grew stern; but he uttered no sound, and gripped Fleming's arm to warn him to silence, for the Lascar was speaking.

"Ve are what you calls 'pals,'" he was saying in his thick, sibilant voice, his black eyes rolling evilly on the faces of the listeners. "Ve are bein' played vith! It ish thish Mishter Mann'rin' that ish trickin' us; 'im and the Padre, ah, and the Medico, too! They hab the money. I who speak know it. I saw thish man pash the box to the Medico as he got into the boat."

"The box of medicine and instruments!" whispered Fleming.

Mannering nodded grimly. He was listening intently and scanning the faces of the men keenly.

"That's true; I saw 'em," said Munson. And some of the others muttered assentingly.

"The box wash full o' money, gold; jewels, too, perhaps. Thatsh so! You know ze laties do give their jewellery to ze purser to take care of. Eh, vhat! Thatsh box was full of dimints. An' it belongsh to us, eh, vhat you say?"

"To us; all of us, yes!" grunted Munson.

"To us who manned ze boat, who—vorked like slaves puttin' up zese houses; to us, ze laborers, ze brothers of toil, ze zalt of ze earth!"

"That's so," assented one of the men. "Pass round the rum again, Lasky."

The Lascar emptied the can at a draught, refilled it and passed it to the man next him; then he leant forward and whispered, huskily:

"It ish in the Medico's tent. It ish unter the bed of the girl; I saw Mishter Mann'rin' put it there. Ve will go, ve will all go and git it, and share it man to man!"

Some of the men sprang to their feet unsteadily; but one or two were not so prompt; and a voice said, lazily:

"There's no hurry; let's have our drink first."

Mannering cautiously drew Fleming away.

"There is no time to lose," he said, gravely, when they had got out of hearing.

"You will give them the box, show them that it does not contain any gold?" said Fleming, with the cough he had been repressing with difficulty.

"No," said Mannering quietly. "They would not be convinced; besides it would be a fatal weakness. Do you think"—he paused a moment and his lips tightened—"that they would be satisfied? Some of them might, but not the Lascar and Munson. They are brutes, beasts; and you know the effect of the first taste of blood on such wild beasts. They would want more—everything, perhaps." He paused and Fleming following Mannering's thought, pictured the young girl in the hands of these men and shuddered.

"What will you do?" he asked, as a man asks his leader and commander.

"Show fight," said Mannering as quietly as before. "We have the only firearms that were saved—a couple of revolvers and a gun."

"I can manage a revolver; but, oh, Mannering, if we could avoid bloodshed!" murmured Fleming.

"We'll try," said Mannering. "It rests with them. You agree with me it would be unwise, indeed, a criminal folly, to yield to them? They would not stop—There is Miss Nina."

Fleming nodded and bent his head. "You are right—as you have been all through, Mannering."

They had been approaching the hut which Mannering had, with his own hands, built for Doctor Vernon and his daughter, and he signed to Fleming to knock; but Fleming shook his head.

"No," he said; "you will do it better than I, Mannering. She looks up to you, relies on you. You will give her courage. I—I am not a coward, I hope and trust; but I should let her see the—the dread that makes me cold at this moment, and you will not. No; you!"

Mannering nodded and knocked at the rough door of the hut. It was opened by a young girl. She was very beautiful, with a beauty which is indicated by expression as much as regularity of feature. Her eyes were of the dark grey which at times become violet, her hair was of a soft black, and the gods had given her the mouth which, when it smiles, wins men's hearts. But she was not only young but innocent of vanity or self-consciousness, and her eyes lit up and her lips smiled with frank pleasure as she saw who it was.

"Oh, good evening, Mr. Mannering!" she said with quiet cheerfulness, and her voice rang like a low note of music in the pine-perfumed air. "Will you come in? My father is out; he went out for a stroll—Is anything the matter?"

She did not start or turn pale, but stood, in her stained and patched serge dress, calm and attentive.

Mannering knew enough of women to know that with this one, young as she was, the proper course was the direct one. His eyes rested reflectingly for a moment on her lovely face, on the small, shapely head with its soft, black hair resting on the forehead and wound into a knot at the back, then he said:

"I am afraid there is, Miss Nina." He had grown to call her by her Christian name; shipwrecked people are apt to be slack on extreme points of etiquette. "The men are getting—impatient. They entertain the absurd idea that we have smuggled the specie and valuables from the ship in your father's medicine chest—"

She glanced at the box under the rough bed.

—"And—and they are coming for it presently, I think."

"And you will not give it them?" she said, quietly, as if she had read his face upon which her beautiful eyes were fixed.

"No; they'd want more," he said. "And we must make a stand at the outset. There may be a little noise and—trouble, so I came to warn you. You will not be frightened? Mr. Fleming and I are armed; the men are not; and I have no doubt they will cool off when they find we are resolute."

"I see," she said. "No, I shall not be frightened; that is, not more than I can help."

Her smile, surely the sweetest ever smiled by woman, flickered across her lips and shone in her eyes.

"No," he said, "you have displayed such pluck, such—oh, I cannot express myself!" he broke off as if in despair.

"Oh, but you have!" she said, with the faintest blush. "I was just making some tea. Will you have a cup?"

Mannering glanced at the meat tin on the fire, and gauged its contents.

"Thanks, no. I have just had some." Generally, Mannering, with all his faults, was a truthful man. "But Mr. Flemming—he is outside."

He beckoned Fleming in, and Nina poured out a cup of tea for him gravely; of course she knew that Mannering had lied.

Fleming took it gratefully; it was to him as rum was to the men.

"Mr. Mannering has told you?" he said in a low voice.

Nina nodded. "Yes; I am sorry. But I hope it will all be over before father comes back. He is not well; he is feverish—and—he has been wandering a little in his mind. He has taken the gun— I am sorry!"

Mannering touched Fleming on the arm, and they went out and to their own hut, got and loaded their revolvers, and, returning to the beach, sat down as if for a quiet talk.

They had not to wait long.

"Take it coolly," murmured Mannering, as the six men came out of the hut. Some of them walked unsteadily, one of them was singing; but the Lascar and Munson were still sober, though evidently excited by the liquor.

Mannering rose and slowly went to meet them, walking in the direction that put him between them and the Vernons' hut.

"Good evening," he said; "want anything?"

"You ask ze polite question, sur, and ve giv you ze polite answer. It ish ze little box in ze hut zere," replied the Lascar with a mocking bow.

Mannering raised his brows with simulated surprise.

"Anybody ill? The box contains medicine and instruments of various kinds," he said, quietly.

The Lascar showed his gleaming teeth in a sardonic smile.

"Ish zat so?" he retorted, with an incredulous jerk of his hand. "Ve vill see—"

"I think not," said Mannering, so quietly that Fleming's heart throbbed with a tribute of admiration. "You will take my word for it. I see that you have got the keg of rum—you have broken your promise—"

"To ze devil wiz your promise!" the Lascar broke in. "Vy should you keep all ze best of ze swag ve bring away from ze ship? You keep ze rum, ze box of gold, ze girl!" he leered evilly, and moved forward as if to pass Mannering. Mannering drew his revolver.

"Stop where you are!" he said, grimly; there was a spot of red on his hollow cheeks, and a light in his eyes which spoke of the just rage which had sprung up in his heart like a flame.

Fleming stepped forward and held up his hand.

"Men, I want to speak to you!" he said, fighting with his cough. "You know what Mr. Mannering has done for us. But for him— But surely you don't want me to remind you! And surely you cannot suspect that he—we—have any idea of taking any advantage of you. The chest contains only medicine and instruments, as Mr. Mannering said. You were wrong, very wrong, to take the keg of rum; you would be acting wickedly if you were to follow the advice, the leadership, of this man, who is as much indebted as the rest of us to Mr. Mannering."

Some of the men exchanged glances, but the Lascar cut in with a short, sardonic laugh.

"Ze Padre speaks softly, as ze Padre always do. Vell, then, let one of us go into the Medico's hut—"

He moved forward, but Mannered covered him, saying:

"Not a step."

The Lascar pulled up and looked Mannering up and down.

"You speak bravely, Mishter Mann'rin'! You 'ave the gun!" He made an insolent gesture with his facile and eloquent hands. "If you had only ze little knife like zis, we would settle the matter, ah, so kervickly! You are ze one coward!"

Then Mannering did a foolish thing—the foolish thing which Englishmen individually and collectively so often do; he gave away his advantage. It was inexcusable; but, ah, well, let the man who has meekly borne the taunt of a Lascar and been called a coward pitch the first stone; I will not; and I have an idea that the reader will not.

Mannering looked into the rolling eyeballs for a moment or two; then he said:

"See her now, men. If it's a fair fight between us and I win, will you take my word and go back to your hut quietly, not only go back but leave that man's lead?"

The men looked at each other and whispered. They were more or less drunk and therefore impressionable and they were longing for the kind of fight Mannering indicated. Don't blame them. In the House of Commons a "personal" matter will fill the benches; and any sort of duel has a fascination for every man with red blood in his veins.

"Yes, fight it out; we'll see fair play!" shouted a man, thickly.

Mannering beckoned to Fleming.

"Take my revolver," he said, aloud, "and shoot the first man who attempts to interfere—"

"Mannering! Mannering! You will not do it! I implore, I beseech you!" cried Fleming with solemn earnestness.

Mannering quickly stripped off his coat and rolled up his sleeves.

"No use, Fleming; I must. Either that man or I must be master. They'll follow the victor like sheep, you'll see. It will end the trouble—"

"But, Mannering, these men, these Lascars, are adepts at the knife," urged Fleming almost frantically.

Mannering shrugged his shoulders. "I learnt a trick or two when I was in Malacca," he said, quickly. "Got a handkerchief?"

Fleming shook his head. The door of the Vernons' hut opened and Nina came quickly down to them. Her face was white as death, her eyes were like "the violets steeped in dew." Her lips, white as her face, were set tightly.

"Mr. Mannering, you must not!—you will not!" She looked into his eyes and saw that her appeal was hopeless. "Then—then—there is a handkerchief!"

He took it, bound his bowie knife to his wrist and held it out to Fleming. Fleming hesitated; the girl caught the wrist and tied the knot Mannering wanted.

"Thanks," he said, coolly. "Now go inside—and shut the door."

She obeyed; and, leaning against the wall as if to still her throbbing heart, looked between the logs.

Munson had bound the Lascar's knife to his wrist, and the two men confronted each other. The moon shone down on them in placid mockery of such poor stuff as human emotions; the soft breeze wafted the perfume of the pines across the men's heated breath; the sea sang to the golden beach; the delicious night was full of beauty. To poor Fleming, even in that intense moment as he stood revolver in each hand, there flashed the lines:

"Where every prospect pleases and only man is vile."

(To be continued.)

9 PER CENT. DIVIDENDS
Paid for the Past SIX YEARS by the
EMPIRE LOAN CO.. (Incorporated 1897) HEAD OFFICE, WINNIPEG.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT THAT IS SAFE.

Since the Empire Loan Co. was incorporated it has made the most of the many opportunities afforded by the wonderful development of Western Canada.

But, while the Company's past experience has been entirely encouraging—as its dividends prove—there is unquestionably an infinitely greater prosperity assured for it in the future :—

Why ? Simply because the unlimited possibilities of the Vast West have, so far, scarcely even been tapped : What Western development we have seen is but a faint shadow of the Gigantic Transformation inevitable in the comparatively near future ; in fact, even now Western Canada is on the eve of one of those great movements which, in an incredibly short time built up great and prosperous cities and peopled the lone prairies of the Western States.

Management : Expert Management is the guarantee demanded by the experienced investor, because it is vitally essential to the stability and success of any financial institution : The Empire Loan Company is directed by prominent men of wide business and financial experience; and the success they have achieved for it is the strongest evidence of their ability, for the Company now stands in the front rank of Western financial concerns.

Investments : The Company's funds are entirely invested in the best of all securities—First Mortgages on Improved Real Estate.

Stock : The Company is essentially a Western one. Its shareholders may be found in almost any city, town or village in Western Canada; and its stock is confidently purchased by those seeking a Perfectly Safe Investment for their savings at a High Rate of Interest.

A limited amount of Permanent Stock is still available at the Par Value of $100 Per Share. Shares may be paid for in full, or in four equal quarterly instalments of $25 per share.

Earnings : The Company earns from 8 to 10 per cent. per annum; dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. being paid Half-yearly. Profits in excess of this amount are credited to the shareholders at the Annual Meeting, the Actual Dividends Paid During the last Six Years being 9 Per Cent. Per Annum.

For particulars and copy of annual statement address

PARKER & CO., Stock and Share Brokers, 61 VICTORIA STREET, TORONTO

Just Fruit.

There's no "medicine" in "Fruit-a-tives,"—no drugs—no poisons "Fruit-a-tives" are the curative principles of fruit juices, compressed into tablets. It's the secret process of preparing them, that makes "Fruit-a-tives" so much more effective than the fresh fruit.

Fruit-a-tives
or Fruit Liver Tablets
cure Constipation, Biliousness, Torpid Liver, Bilious Headaches, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Bladder and Kidney Troubles, just as nature intended them to be cured—with fruit. Cure yourself with Nature's cure that never fails.

At your druggist's. 50c. a box.
FRUITATIVES, Limited, OTTAWA.

You Owe it to Your Feet to give them proper treatment. Foot Elm in your shoes rests aching feet and cures chillblains. It prevents chafing or blistering from new shoes. Odorless and antiseptic, soothing and healing. Nothing 'just as good as'

FOOT ELM.

REASON № 18
WHY YOU SHOULD USE
Red Rose Tea

Because it is tested by skilled tea tasters.

Tea tasting can well be called one of the fine arts. A man who can taste several hundred cups of tea a day, and, by his keen senses, detect the slightest difference between them, and who, blindfolded, can tell where each and every tea was grown, not only the country, but the particular district, and often the very plantation—such a man is the professional tea taster.

The head man in my tea room, Mr. W. R. Miles, is a master in his profession. He learned the business in London, Eng., and is a tea taster by right of birth, as both his Father and Grandfather were tea tasters. It came natural to him and he is recognized as one of the best judges of tea in America.

He and his assistants do nothing but taste the teas, and superintend the blending.

RED ROSE TEA is the result.

T. H. ESTABROOKS, St. John, N.B.
BRANCHES: TORONTO, WINNIPEG.

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer — MADAME — Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer

One Year's Subscription Free of Cost

to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to April 1, 1906, or later.

MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.

Sign and Send This Coupon
TO-DAY
Daily By Mail $3.00
Weekly By Mail . $1.00

To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited, Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $..........

Name.................................... P. O.......................
Address..

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON

Remember : Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to April 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME for Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.

SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels, free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEAWOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address:

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1

Name

Street No.

Town State

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2

Name

Street No.

Town State

Please also send Book No to

Name

Street No.

Town State

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number

(NOW READY)

Contains 20 Prominent Features A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

from the stand point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

A typical Southerner writes this article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands 15 cents per copy.

FARM AND FIRESIDE.

Timely Hints Which Will be Appreciated by the Progressive Farmer and His Housekeeper

AGRICULTURAL.

Farm Hints for March.

This is a month in which there should be a large addition to the number of cows giving milk, and the work at the barn will increase in proportion.

Some care will be necessary in feeding the cows giving milk just enough fodder and grain to produce best results. A good appetite should be maintained, and while they should have all the feed they can make the best use of, they should by no means be overfed

There is a prospect for good prices for butter during most or all of March and it will pay to take the best possible care of the cows. They should not be allowed to shrink in milk if good feed and care will prevent.

Raising Spring Calves.

Where the cows come fresh in milk largely during the spring months, then there should be the usual attention given to raising calves.

On large farms with an abundance of milk calves are raised to quite an extent for the butcher. For this purpose the calves from the largest cows are preferable.

Maple Sugar Making.

In some parts of Canada this is quite an important industry, and often adds largely to the receipts from the farm. Some time during this month we may look for and expect the season to commence. Once in a while, but not often, most of the sugar has been made in March and then again in April.

The idea is to be ready to secure the first and best runs of sap. After such a long winter it would not be strange if the sugar season should begin early. At any rate the season should be made the most of, as there there will probably be a good demand for sugar and syrup of fine quality, and this is the kind that every farmer should endeavor to produce.

In the best up-to-date sugar orchards only the most suitable utensils and apparatus are employed, all being of tin, galvanized iron, or iron, no wood being used.

The Farming Tools and Machinery.

If there are any new purchases to be made this should not be delayed, and if repairs are necessary they should be attended to in season.

With the great scarcity of help for the farm that now prevails and the still greater wages demanded, there is a necessity for doing all possible work by the aid of horses and the best of implements for the purpose. And it is possible to do most of this work with these and in a most satisfactory manner. Seeding machines for the smaller grains and grass seeds that do the sowing and covering successfully at one operation, and corn planters that will drop fertilizers and plant the seed at the same time, doing it better than it can be done by hand.

Where potatoes are raised on a large scale there are machines and implements for this particular purpose that will perform the work rapidly and well.

Seeds for Farm and Garden.

It will pay you to give the best of attention to selection of all seeds for the farm and garden. It certainly does not pay to do otherwise, for just as sure as "like produces like," so true will it be that "as we sow so also shall we reap." With the soil put in good condition for profitable production there should be sown or planted seed that is pure and true to name, so far as this is possible.

The best quality is none too good—the cost may be a little more than for the ordinary, but that will be of small account in the end. There are different varieties of the same seed grains, but some are found to be better than others. Get the best. Thus it may be said of corn. Get the kinds best adapted to the climate and soil where they are to be planted. Seek for earliness first and then size and productiveness to correspond with local conditions.

Potatoes can be improved by selecting the best at digging time, and if this plan is followed up from year to year they will improve rather than deteriorate, as they otherwise would. Good varieties of corn can be improved by yearly selecting the best specimens as grown on the farm. Wheat, oats and barley can be much improved by running through a good fanning and grading mill.

In this process the inferior grains will be removed as also the seeds of weeds. There is usually more difficulty in getting clean, pure grass seeds than those of grain, but something can be done in this line of careful inspection and a knowledge of where they are grown.

DAIRY DEPARTMENT.

Cost of Producing Jersey Mulk.

Does Jersey milk cost too much in feed? This is a pertinent question for the dairyman, and especially for the milk farmer. Some would probably answer, Yes, offhand; but the question will bear a little closer examination. It is a common and somewhat plausible assertion that the breeds of cattle giving milk low in percentage of fat, such as the Holstein and Dutch Belted, although admittedly not comparable as economical butter producers with the Jersey and Guernsey; still, their milk being large in volume and containing a good percentage of solids other than fat, is therefore produced cheaper than the richer milk of the butter breeds. But is not this conclusion precluded by the fact that milk which is rich in fat is also rich in casein, as shown by the analyses of thousands of samples of milk? It is the solid matter, not the water, that gives value to milk and quantity only, without regard to quality, cannot properly be taken in examining this question.

Let us see what light the results of the St. Louis Demonstration will shed on this matter. The milk of the Jersey herd was produced at a cost in feed of 53 cents per hundred pounds, and that of the Holstein herd was produced at a cost of 53 3-5 cents per hundred pounds, so that the Jersey milk cost 4 2-5 cents more per hundred pounds than the Holstein milk. But this statement does not conclude the matter, for the Jersey milk contained 4.7 per cent. fat, to have been worth, say, $1.18 per hundred pounds, then the Holstein milk, containing 3.4 per cent. fat, would be worth, at same rate, but eighty-five cents per hundred pounds. So that, while the Jersey milk cost 4 2-5 cents more per hundred pounds to produce than the Holstein milk did, it was worth, at same ratio of value, thirty-three cents more per hundred pounds.

The Jersey milk contained 8.8 per cent. solids not fat, against 7.9 per cent. solids not fat in the Holstein milk. The Jersey herd produced total solids at a cost in feed of 4 3-10 cents per pound, and the Holstein herd produced total solids at a cost of 4 7-10 cents per pound. In Test B—"for the economic production of milk for all purposes related to dairying"—the Jerseys, with a production of milk averaging 41.5 pounds per cow per day, returned a net profit of 45 cents per cow per day. The Holsteins, with a production of milk averaging 53.4 pounds per cow per day, returned a net profit of but 39 cents per day. To say that the Holstein herd produced their milk cheaper than did the Jersey herd, is to say that milk containing 11.3 per cent. total solids is just as valuable as milk containing 13.5 per cent. total solids, which is absurd.

ENQUIRIES AND ANSWERS.

Sheep and Cows. — Which are the most profitable, sheep or cows? Which is the best breed of sheep as an all-round sheep for producing lambs, mutton and wool? K. (Shropshires are the greatest favorites in the U. S., though we should not like to pronounce them or any other kind unqualifiedly the best. As to the "most profitable" breed of cows, it can only be answered that no such breed exists.)

Substitute for Lime. — Please inform me if there are any fertilizers that will act on soil the same as lime. If so, where can they be gotten? I have tried lime with good results; it seems to be what my soil needs, but it is so expensive by the time I get it delivered that it takes the profits. I have tried a good many fertilizers that would give a fair result for the first crop and then leave the land poorer than before used. (Naturally there is no fertilizer that acts on land exactly as lime does except lime itself. Lime corrects the acidity of old, long-used soils; it flocculates clay that tends to be too plastic; it sets free certain plant foods; it is itself a plant food; it is an essential for the growth of the bacteria that convert decaying organic materials into forms available to growing crops, and finally it is also essential for the well-being of the bacteria in the nodules on the roots of legumes, and to aid in making the results of their work valuable to those legumes and to other plants. Unfortunately, also, the continued use of lime without due regard to other elements of fertility will do exactly what you say, make the land poorer. It aids in the rapid destruction of the humus, that part of the soil which, though not itself a plant food, is of the most notable importance in that it increases the water-holding capacity of the soil and makes it able to withstand droughts. We recommend the use of commercial fertilizers as supplements to barnyard manure, rather than as substitutes for it. We question whether, for general farm crops, they can be wisely used alone year after year without grave danger to the permanent fertility of the land. The proper answer to this enquiry in not therefore easy to find. Moreover, lime is about the cheapest of fertilizers as far as the price per ton is concerned. Other fertilizers, which do not act as lime does, however, will give greater returns probably, but it would take an especially study of the soil of your farm to determine which fertilizers you should buy.)

Poultry manure and Ashes. — Will you please tell a city ignoramus why wood ashes should not be mixed with hen manure? The former contains potash, the latter has none. What happens when they are mixed? In one article you have advised a subscriber to apply them to the land separately—why? (The chief fertilizing element in poultry manure is nitrogen in the form of ammonium compounds. If wood ashes or lime or any alkaline compound is mixed with the poultry manure, the nitrogen passes off into the air in the form of ammonia. Chemically stated, the transformation is something like this: The ammonium nitrate of the manure uniting with the caustic potash of the wood ashes is resolved into potassium nitrate, water and free ammonia. Now soil of gypsum mixed with the hen manure has just the opposite effect, because these materials mechanically absorb and conserve the volatile ammonium compounds.)

A Hen's Ration.—Can you advise me what the feed should be per day or week for 150 laying hens? We have been feeding per week as follows:—Two bushels of corn, one bushel buckwheat and one and a half pecks of wheat. Our chickens also have all the cabbage they choose to consume. W. (About four ounces a day per head is the average grain ration for a hen; some will eat more, some less. This would be about 260 pounds per week for 150 hens; you are feeding about 200 pounds, not enough, and your ration is bad—too much corn. Mix 100 pounds wheat, 75 pounds oats and barley (about one-half of each), 25 pounds buckwheat and 60 pounds cracked corn. This will be a better ration for the hens. The cabbage is good for them in addition to the grain. This grain ration should be fed in a litter of straw, so that they will dig and scratch for it.)

Making a Record.—I wish to bring a 3-year-old Holstein heifer up to one of the standard records. She is due in March. What should I feed her? What would making a record make her worth?—T.G. (In regard to the development of your Holstein heifer, if she is in good flesh now, plenty of coarse food in the form of good hay or bright corn fodder, with three to five pounds of wheat bran, will be all that she will need until the calf is dropped. After she drops the calf, as soon as her udder gets in good shape, she should have about all the grain that she will eat, say somewhere between 12 and 20 pounds per day. This should be a mixture of concentrated, easily digestible grain. A good mixture would be equal parts, by weight, of distillers' dried grains, buckwheat middlings, gluten feed and corn meal. To make advanced registry, a heifer that drops her calf at three years old must make 10.4 pounds of fat in seven days. What she will be worth after that will depend on various circumstances. A cow with a record is worth anywhere from $25 to $100 more than an equally good animal without a record, depending of course upon the size of the record.)

MARCH NOTES—GETTING READY FOR SPRING.

The stormy blasts of March are not more attractive to the hens than they are to ourselves. A little extra care bestowed on the fowls at this time will be amply repaid during April.

Naturally we look for a late spring this year, following a long, cold winter. It is not pleasant to anticipate a continuance of discomfitures that keep company with cold, damp, unseasonable weather.

So far, reports show that poultry have done remarkably well the past winter. This may be the outcome of better housing and care. We trust that this is true, for those who strive to guide toward better methods may then feel that they have their reward.

Look sharply for damp interiors of your poultry houses this month. This should be avoided at all times, but when the breaking-up of winter is at hand, dampness is most prevalent, and likewise colds, catarrh and roup. All of these may be avoided if the fowls can be housed where they are reasonably free from damp, cold and drafts. Easter comes late this year. So much cold and snow may have side-tracked the moon, which does not become full after March 20 until April 19. Late Easters usually occur in late springs.

Now is the time to have the incubators, brooders, nest boxes and hen coops put into thorough condition. Do not overlook this, for the time is at hand to begin poultry hatching for this year. Do not let the spring work catch you napping. Push it along so as to have it ahead of you, not trailing behind. It is a pleasure to see everything in the best of order ahead of time, and not after it is rather late for best results. If success is to be gained, it must be planned for and worked for, as well as hoped for—in no other way will it come.

We trust that the new, strong blood for our turkey crop has not been forgotten. If needed, it should be on hand not later than March 10. In some localities this may be rather late, especially in a warmer climate. If too late to buy the turkeys, look about for some eggs that have been or will be laid by turkeys remarkably strong in constitutional vigor. Get the eggs as soon as the turkey hens show an inclination to sit. Let the turkeys hatch and care for their own poults; they can do it better than will the common hens. If no turkeys are available use large hens, Brahmas, for instance.

Make up your mind soon should you contemplate raising some geese or ducks this year. "Make hay while the sun shines" is all right for hay, but for all kinds of poultry we must plan ahead to succeed; wet or dry, hot or cold, wind or rain or snow makes no difference except to increase the care that must be given in unfavorable weather. A few geese and ducks add to the fall and winter food supply in the way of delicate, toothsome roasts. Quite a number of persons have a few waterfowl at this time who formerly never thought of keeping them. They are quite easily managed, and grow with little care and attention. A few of these may be successfully kept almost anywhere, providing there is room for them.

About now the fowls will have colds, and water may run from their eyes and nostrils. This is not roup, but it may lead to roup. A swollen head or eye is not roup, but such symptoms may develop into roup. Roup may be called a cousin to blood poison. The way to avoid this is to provide a reasonable warm place for the fowls to live in. Damp interiors, side walls or floors almost breed a pestilence. When cold drafts keep these company, there is trouble in plenty and to spare. If one hopes to keep the poultry healthy, try, above all things, to protect them from dampness.

We have yet to learn of a cure for roup; we scarcely think that a really true case of this can be thoroughly overcome. Many times a swollen head or eye is called "roup," but this is an error. A fowl that has roup is infected with a peculiar odor that cannot be mistaken for anything else—an offensive odor that almost makes one sick. When a fowl is badly affected with it, it is as far reaching as blood poison, and almost as bad to have about. It is quickly transmitted to other fowls, as the meat of the carcass of a fowl that has had roup has this odor about it. Fowls that are afflicted with a true case of roup should be killed and their bodies burned.

The carcass of a fowl that had roup is a dangerous thing to lie about after death. If eaten by dogs, hogs or other animals it causes sickness and oftentimes death. Limberneck is one of the results that come from eating putrid meat of any kind, whether of flesh or fowl. Small children may be poisoned by it, so may any one who gets it on their hands and then in the mouth or nostrils. Too much care cannot be given these matters. If one would avoid the ills arising from their presence, the carcasses of all animals that die should be either entirely consumed by fire or buried not less than four feet under ground. Less than this will not insure safety; and six feet is better than four.—"The Country Gentleman."

DOMESTIC ECONOMY — WAYS WITH PARSNIPS.

To insure best results in cooking parsnips, they should be fresh and crisp; the parsnip is welcomed by the cook, coming at a time when one is rather cloyed with the "every-day vegetables." For breakfast they may be baked, and served with butter, the same as sweet potatoes.

Stewed Parsnips.—Wash and scrape the parsnips—if of large size, halve or quarter them. Place two or three slices of fat salt pork in the bottom of a stew kettle. When these have become browned on one side, place the quartered parsnips on top, season to taste with salt and pepper; then add half a pint of water; cover closely, so as to confine all steam possible. If fresh parsnips are used, they will be done in fifteen minutes. Send to table as hot as possible.

Fried Parsnips.—Cut the prepared parsnips into thin slices lengthwise, roll in beaten egg, then in meal or graham flour; fry brown in butter.

Escalloped Parsnips.— Take boiled and mashed parsnips. Put a layer in a buttered pudding dish, then a layer of bread crumbs. Alternate these layers until the dish is full, bread crumbs being the top layer. Place a few small lumps of butter on top, add half a pint of cream or rich milk and bake half an hour.

Parsnip Fritters.—To half a dozen boiled and mashed parsnips add two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, and season to taste with pepper and salt. Form into small, flat cakes, and brown in butter.

Steamed Parsnips.—Place the prepared parsnips in a steamer, halving them if large, cover closely, and steam until tender and done; remove carefully to a baking dish, and brown slightly in a hot oven; season to taste, pour melted butter over, and send to table hot.

Parsnips with Dumplings.—Half a pound of salt pork, ten potatoes of good size, three large parsnips, three quarts of water, one tablespoonful of flour mixed with half a cupful of water; salt and pepper to taste. Cut the pork into thin strips, scrape and slice the parsnips; boil the pork and parsnips gently in the water one hour; add the thickening and salt and pepper, and the potatoes which have been pared and sliced. Boil half an hour, then add the dumplings, and boil ten minutes longer.

Creamed Parsnips.—Boil six medium-sized parsnips until soft, drain, cut each through the middle lengthwise; in a saucepan heat two tablespoonfuls of milk and one of cream; add seasoning to taste, also a small lump of sugar; wet a teaspoonful of cornstarch in a tablespoonful of milk, thicken the mixture with this, and pour it over the parsnips while hot.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE.

STOCK BROKER,

Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.

Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.

Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March. 7

Stock.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	90	90⅜
do. pref	102½	102½
St. Paul	177⅛	177⅜
Mo. P	109½	108¾
Union Pac	131	132⅛
C.P.R.	142½	142¼
Scu Pac	69¼	69
R. I.	34⅞	34⅜
Ills. C	158½	158½
Sou. Ry	35⅞	35¾
Texas	39⅜	38⅞
B. & O	109½	108⅞
N. Y. C.	156⅞	156
Penn	143	142⅜
Soo	117½	117½
T. W	110	109¼
Erie	47⅛	46⅜
do. pref	82¼	82
Reading	96½	96
C. O.	50⅛	50⅜
O. & W	54¼	53¾
Manhattan	170½	171½
L. & N	142½	141¼
A.F	35⅜	35⅞
Nor	8½	....
Wab	23	22¾
do. pref	47	46⅞
W. U.	94	94⅛
C. G. W	22⅞	22⅞
T. C. I.	88½	88⅜
U.S. Stl	35⅜	35⅜
do. pref	95½	95
Sugar	146⅞	146½
B. R. T	66	65⅞
P O.	110⅜	110
A.C.P	78	77⅞
Met	124½	122⅞
Alo	43	43
A. R.	91¾	92⅞

May wheat opened at $1.15½; closed at $1.14½

July wheat opened at 97⅞; closed at 96¾

May corn opened at 48⅜; closed at 47⅞

July corn opened at 48⅞; closed at 48½

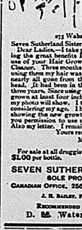
May pork opened at $12.85 closed at $12.72

GROWING UP

There's something the matter with the child that fails to grow up. A child that grows up too much, however, without proper filling out of flesh, is almost as badly off. Nothing will help these pale, thin "weedy" children like Scott's Emulsion. It supplies the rounding out of flesh and the rich inward nourishment of blood and vital organs which insures rapid growth a healthy and uniform development.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by all druggists.



ATTENTION

to details has a lot to do with our success. We pay as much attention to the little things in this store as we do to the more important. We expect our

Pianos

to be perfect in every particular. Your trade is solicited on that basis. We do not ask you to accept anything less. Who can promise you anything more?

J. A. GOODSELL & CO.

436 Front St., Next to W W Chown Co.

Seven Sutherland Sisters'

Hair Grower

GREW THIS HAIR

275 Wabash Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Seven Sutherland Sisters:

Dear Ladies,—I take pleasure in acknowledging the great benefits I have derived from the use of your Hair Grower and Hair and Scalp Cleaner. Three months ago when I commenced using them my hair was very thin and short and nearly all gone from the top and sides of my head. It had been in that condition for nearly three years. Since using your preparations it has grown at least four inches and is very heavy as my photo will show. I think it very remarkable considering my age. I have had my photo taken showing the new growth of hair which I give you permission to use in any way you desire. Also my letter. I remain,

Yours respectfully,

MRS. WOODWORTH.

For sale at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS

SOLE PROPRIETORS

CANADIAN OFFICE, 258 YONGE ST., TORONTO

J. H. BAILEY, Foreign Manager. 19

RECOMMENDED AND SOLD BY

D. M. Waters, Belleville.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Of- a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

President Roosevelt is down on "race suicide," though there are people who think that he doesn't mind a little race annihilation.

Celebration is the thief of time.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

SPICE
SOUP
FLOUR
TEA
EGGS
$

ONE DOLLAR

buys more Groceries at our store than anywhere else in town. Special prices in Canned Goods, crisp Crackers in packages or by the pound, fine Flour and Granulated Sugar.

THE EXTRA GOOD QUALITY

of everything we sell makes these special prices a matter of importance to every careful buyer.

W. R. CARNRITE.

New arrival of fresh Dairy Butter at 25c lb.

Glove Sale

Don't think for a moment that winter has deserted us—and Gloves are still as necessary as they are fashionable.

$1.50 Gloves for	-	$1.15
1.25 Gloves for	-	1.00
1.00 Gloves for	-	.79
.75 Gloves for	-	.59
.50 Gloves for	-	.39

Chas. J. Symons,

successor to W. B. Deacon.

Shirts Made to Order. 298 Front St.

Youth and Freshness

Is the feeling one has after taking a box or two of

WATERS' RED IRON BLOOD PILLS.

None better as a TONIC and BUILDER.

25c box—5 boxes $1.00.

WATERS

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

The breath of suspicion is often flavored with cloves.

Cranberries are astringent and correct the liver when it is suffering from inaction caused by over-eating.

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anlgo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.

For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.

As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.

Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

Auction Sale.

At the residence of R. E. Clarke, corner Victoria avenue and Charles street, —General Household Effects, consisting of Heintzman piano, books, pictures, bedroom suites, carpets, curtains, stoves, dining-room furniture and kitchen utensils, a quantity of canned fruit, etc.; also 1 horse, 1 light wagon, 1 sleigh and harness. Horse and rigs will be sold at 3 p.m.

Sale Wednesday, March 8th, 1905, commencing at 9.30 a.m.

J. G. DAVISON,
Auctioneer.

4.2t

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

SMALL CROWD: POOR SHOW.

A small audience was present at the Carman last night to witness the production of "Hearts of Oak," and those who stayed away are to be congratulated. The show all through was very "punk," with a capital P. The storm scene in the first act was about the best thing in the performance, and people have, perhaps, had too many storms lately to properly appreciate one on the stage. The leading characters in "Hearts of Oak," namely, "Terry Dennison," by James Horne and "Crystal," by Miss Sadie Daily, were not so badly played as they might have been. The singing by the trio was the best feature in a poor show.

The laughable comedy, "His Excellency the Governor," will be produced in the city after Lent. The play in question, put on by clever amateurs, was tremendously successful in Ottawa recently. There is every reason to believe that the same success will attend its production in Belleville.

THINK OF US.

We want you to think of us whenever you think of clothes. Our whole energy is concentrated on securing good things for you to wear. This is true of Clothing, Headwear and Furnishings. Our spring styles are now making a strong appeal to your eye, while our reasonable prices make an equally strong appeal to your purse. —QUICK & ROBERTSON.

What West Will Accept

(Globe Special.)

Ottawa, March 5. — The clauses drawn up by the Northwest members to be substituted for those in the Autonomy Bills which deal with the system of education in the Northwest were considered by the Government at the Cabinet Council yesterday, and while no definite decision was reached it is believed the new provisions will ultimately be adopted. If they are inserted in the Act they will have the support of Mr. Sifton and every Northwest member on the Liberal side, although not the solution they would have preferred. The new provisions are such that no other follower of the Government could have any serious ground of objection to them. The Northwest men think that the clauses which have been drafted in substitution best meet the necessities of the case. The language is clear and unmistakable, and the points at issue are unclouded by any legal phraseology. That the Western men will accept any other solution of the difficulty is open to grave doubt. The clauses proposed in substitution are as follows:

In and for the Province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the following provisions:

1—Nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to Separate Schools which any class of persons have at the date of the passing of this Act, under the terms of chapters 29, 30 and 31 of the ordinances of the Northwest Territories passed in the year 1901.

2—An appeal shall lie to the Governor-General in Council from any Act or decision of any Provincial authority affecting any right or privilege of the Protestant or Roman Catholic minority of the King's subjects in relation thereto.

3—In case any such Provincial law, as from time to time seems to the Governor-General in Council requisite for the due execution of the provisions of this section is not made, or in case any decision of the Governor-General in Council on any appeal under this section is not duly executed by the proper Provincial authority in that behalf, then and in every such case, and as far only as the circumstances of each case require, the Parliament of Canada may make remedial laws for the due execution of the provisions of this section and of any decision of the Governor-General in Council under this section.

The first of the clauses given above is the distinctive and significant one. The others are the remedial clauses from the Constitution.

THE HARDEST PAIN TO ENDURE

Is the pain of a tender corn, but experience proves that corns are cured quickest by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which acts in twenty-four hours. Putnam's never burns or causes sores. The only painless cure is Putnam's. Use no other.

Want $700 More Per Year Or Will Give Up Hospital

Deputation from Committee of Management so Informed Council Last Night—City Fathers Will Deliberate on the Matter—Long Session of Council Last Night—Nineteen By laws Introduced and Passed—Dog Tax By-law Again Goes Over—Increase in Salary for City Assessor—Old Boys' Reunion Grant Was Made

As was anticipated, the session of the Council held last night was one of considerable importance, and it was a late hour when the City Fathers had completed the business which was brought before them. A number of timely matters were brought up and a deputation from the Hospital Board was heard in reference to an increased annual grant to the Hospital. This matter will be considered later.

Ald. Cooper and Green were absent.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Laura Secord National Memorial Association, in reference to assisting in the erection of the memorial.—Referred to the Executive Committee.

From the City Treasurer, asking the Council to pay his bond.—Referred to Executive Committee.

From the majority of the ratepayers on the west side of William St., asking that a granolithic walk be laid on that side of the street between Queen street and Victoria Avenue.—Referred to the Public Works Committee.

The reports of the various committees, as already published, were read.

On motion the Council went into committee of the whole on reports, Ald. Paterson in the chair.

The various items of expenditure recommended to be paid were passed without discussion.

A recommendation prevailed that $180 be paid to Mr. W. P. Hudson for insurance upon the gas works.

THE LOT CASE.

The recommendation of the Executive Committee re suit of Phillips vs. Caldwell et al. was considered. It was in reference to referring the matter to a special committee to see if a settlement could be effected.

Ald. Panter said this was a very important matter, and he did not think it should be referred to a small committee, but to the whole Council.

The matter was left in abeyance, to be considered later by the Council.

THE HOSPITAL.

At this stage of the proceedings a deputation representing the Hospital Board invaded the Council Chamber. It consisted of Mrs. R. J. Bell, Mrs. A. Rathbun, Mrs. E. G. Sills, Messrs. T. Ritchie, E. G. Sills, R. J. Graham, C. P. Holton, J. W. Johnson, J. J. B. Flint and R. Tannahill.

Mrs. Bell said the Hospital Board were running behind and more money from the Council was needed to carry on the work, hence their presence to ask the Council to make an extra grant.

Mrs. Rathbun said the finances of the Hospital were in such a state that more money was necessary in order to run the institution.

Ex-Mayor Graham stated that the income for the maintenance of the Hospital was so small that the ladies could not manage the institution and make ends meet. The increase in expenditure was caused by the increased price of produce. The Government grant was also less. It has been a burden upon the ladies to maintain the Hospital, and they felt that they could not go on any farther in the matter unless the Council gave an additional grant. He thought that, instead of an annual grant from the city of $300, it should be made $1000. The citizens, he thought, would endorse the action of the Council if they made the increased grant asked.

Ald. Panter—"The ladies, then, desire an extra grant of $700 per annum from the Council."

Ex-Mayor Graham—"Yes."

Ex-Mayor Johnson stated that the ladies come before the Council out of dire necessity. The ladies would have to abandon their work in regard to managing the Hospital and the poor fund of the city if they were not successful in their mission of securing an extra grant. The expenses were increased greatly, whilst the Government grant was decreasing. What the ladies ask now is an additional $700 per annum, which will mean an increase of 19 cents per annum on each $1000 of taxation. He thought the Council should accede to the request made.

In response to an enquiry, Mrs. Bell said the County Council did not give an annual grant, but on several occasions had given a grant.

Ald. Marsh—"Why is the Government grant reduced?"

Mr. Graham—"I think it is because hospitals are increasing in number, also patients, and the Government grants a certain sum and this is apportioned amongst the institutions."

The Mayor asked if the ladies would continue the work of managing the Hospital if an additional grant is made. He heard that the ladies intended to give up the work this fall.

Mrs. Rathbun said the ladies would no doubt continue to do the work if they were encouraged by receiving an additional grant.

Mayor Sulman said all citizens recognized the ladies had done noble work, and he hoped they would continue to manage the Hospital and Home.

Mr. Flint spoke in support of an extra grant being made by the Council. He knew the difficulties the ladies had in managing the Hospital. The necessity did exist for an extra grant, and it was not fair to the ladies to have these financial burdens resting upon them. They have carried on the affairs of the Hospital and Home in an admirable manner and should be encouraged.

Mr. Ritchie said he had watched carefully what the ladies had done in managing the indigent fund, and they had saved the city thousands of dollars. They were, in his opinion, modest in their demand for an extra grant of only $700. The Council should feel that an institution like the hospital must be maintained in a creditable manner, and the ladies were doing this. The hospital had claims upon the city and it stands first in the city's interests. The ladies were economical and painstaking in their efforts. He hoped the Council would grant the extra amount asked for.

Mrs. Bell stated that last year, after the grants from the city and Government had been expended upon the city poor, there was a deficiency of $518.15.

Ald. Gordon asked whether, if the extra grant was made, all the medical practitioners in the city would be upon the Board.

Mrs. Rathbun said if this was done the hospital would have to be enlarged. It was possible for all the doctors to be on the Board one year or another, as the Board is selected yearly, and all were eligible to be elected.

Mayor Sulman said there were in the city some physicians who thought they were not properly treated in regard to being placed upon the Board.

Mr. Tannahill said that any patient in the hospital who pays $2.90 per week has the privilege of having any physician he or she desires.

Ald Panter asked: "Was there a deficit last year?"

Mrs. Bell—"Nothing to speak of. But we are running behind every month this year."

Ald. Panter said that when the estimates are considered, which will be shortly, this matter would be carefully considered and no doubt an increased grant would be made, but how much he could not say.

Ald. Sinclair stated that he regarded the hospital as a necessity in the city. When we know the facts we must give the ladies a grant to carry on the work of managing the hospital.

Mayor Sulman said the councillors had a warm spot in their hearts for the hospital, and every effort would be made to accede to the request made.

The deputation withdrew, after thanking the Council for the courtesy extended to them.

The Committee of the Whole resumed.

$500 FOR OLD BOYS' REUNION.

A grant of $500 was voted for the purpose of advertising the city and receiving distinguished guests during the summer.

The City Hall was granted free of charge to the Woman's Christian Association for the holding of an entertainment for the benefit of the hospital, also free of charge for the holding of a meeting to discuss the matter of taking a religious census of the city.

An account of the Bell Telephone Company for 15 cents, and The Intelligencer account of $79 were passed.

INTRODUCTION OF BY-LAWS.

When this order of proceedings was reached, Ald. Panter introduced 19 by-laws in reference to the issuing of debentures for the building of granolithic walks in various parts of the city

An extension of the time for two hours was carried.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on By-laws, Ald. Marsh in the chair.

The by-laws were passed through their various stages and numbered from 1196 to 1215.

THE ASSESSOR'S SALARY.

Ald. Gordon moved, seconded by Ald. McCrodan, that assessor W. F. Reeves be reappointed assessor for the year 1905 at a salary of $750 per annum, his duties to include that of preparing estimates in reference to building of granolithic walks.

Ald. Marsh thought that the proposed increase to Mr. Reeves was considerable, namely $150. We are paying him for extra work and that should be specified.

Ald. Gordon said that Mr. Reeves expected to provide an additional $1000 for the City Treasury during the year. He (the speaker) felt confident that Mr. Reeves was an efficient official and was increasing the assessment of the city. He would have extra expenses and would also have to pay for help.

Ald. Marsh thought the assessor could increase the assessment of this city and thus increase the revenue. Another official of the city who might increase the revenue to the city was the Police Magistrate, in the enforcement of fines.

The motion was adopted.

LOOKING FOR INFORMATION.

Ald. Marsh moved, seconded by Ald. Paterson:

That the Clerk write to the City Clerks of Woodstock, Stratford, Peterboro, Brockville, St. Catharines, St. Thomas, Brantford, Guelph and Galt to ascertain the amount of their Councils' respective grants to their poor, their Home of Friendless and their hospitals.

The motion prevailed.

THE DOG BY-LAW.

At this stage of the proceeding Ald. Knox, who held in his hand a formidable-looking document, asked if the Council was going to do anything in reference to the Dog By-law. The by-law was prepared and had been hanging fire for some time.

As the hour was late the members did not like the idea of referring back to the order of business in reference to By-laws, and Ald. Knox gave notice that he would introduce the by-law at the next meeting of the Council.

This completed the business and the Council adjourned.

LENTEN REGULATIONS.

THOSE ISSUED BY ARCHBISHOP OF KINGSTON.

The following Lenten regulations were read in all the churches of the Roman Catholic diocese of Kingston as issued by Archbishop Gauthier:

Every day in Lent, Sunday excepted, is a fast day.

By a special indult of the Sovereign Pontiff (A.D., 1884), the use of flesh meat is allowed at every meal on Sundays, and at one principal meal on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, except on the Saturday of Quartertense and on Holy Saturday.

It is not permitted to use fish with meat at any meal in Lenten time, even on Sundays; but fish and other fasting fare may be prepared with lard, when butter may not be easily procured on all days in Lent, except on Good Friday.

Eggs, butter, cheese and milk are allowed in this province not only at the principal meal, but also at the evening collation.

The following are exempted from the Lenten fast Persons under twenty-one years of age or over sixty, the sick woman bearing or nursing infants, and those who are engaged in hard labor. Children under seven years of age are not bound either to fast or abstain.

MR. GULLIVER DEAD.

PARALYTIC STROKE THE CAUSE OF DEATH — HAD LIVED IN BELLEVILLE FOR 40 YEARS.

Mr. Rufus H. Gulliver, who resided on Front street, died this morning. Although the deceased had been a cripple for years the immediate cause of death was a stroke which befel him a few days ago. Mr. Gulliver was born in New York 73 years ago. He came to this country when a young man and for over 40 years had been a resident of this city, where he was known to many. Deceased was a member of the Methodist Church, and in politics was a Conservative. A widow, two sons and one daughter survive. The sons are George, a G. T.R. engineer, of this city, and Rufus, of Halifax, N.S. The daughter is Mrs. A. Bates, of Toronto.

THE LAST RITES.

FUNERAL OF REV. MR. McCAULEY, YESTERDAY, WAS LARGELY ATTENDED.

The funeral of the late Rev. Samuel J. McCauley took place yesterday afternoon, and many of the ministers of the Methodist Church from the city and vicinity were present to pay the last tribute of respect to a departed fellow-worker. The services at Bridge Street Church were conducted by the Rev. J. P. Wilson, B. A., President of the Conference, who was assisted by the Revs. Wm. Johnson, of Campbellford; D. Balfour, R. H. Leitch, G. H. Copeland, W. H. Peake, C. L. Thompson, Geo. Brown, J. C. Bell and R. M. Pope. Other ministers present were Revs. T. J. Edmison, ex-President of the Bay of Quinte Conference; R. N. Adams, J. Barnes, A. Campbell, R. Bodle, A. Martin, A. C. Maybee, T. Meyers, D. Williams, J. W. Sifer and C. W. Barrett.

The services were impressive, and during them Miss M. Vermilyea sang solo entitled, "Rest, Sweet Rest."

The bearers were six ministers, namely, Revs. D. Balfour, R. H. Leitch, G. H. Copeland, C. L. Thompson, Geo. Brown and J. C. Bell.

SICK AT YOUR STOMACH.

Perhaps feeling as if the bottom had dropped out of your life. It's Nerviline you want. Nothing restores quiet and order to the stomach so quickly. All squeamishness and nausea goes away the minute you take Nerviline and an extra dose or two is always sufficient to set you up in first-class shape. Nerviline is an old tested remedy for stomach and bowel troubles and always can be relied on. Sold in large 25c. bottles.

Hope is Vanishing In St. Petersburg.

RUSSIAN WAR OFFICE HEARS THAT JAP SIEGE GUNS FROM PORT ARTHUR ARE CAUSING TERRIBLE HAVOC — LIBERALS ARE NOT FRETTING.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

St. Petersburg, March 7, 1.55.—All hope that Gen. Kuropatkin will be able to turn defeat into victory is rapidly vanishing.

At the War Office it is said that the Japanese siege guns from Port Arthur, with a range of eight miles are causing terrible punishment.

The battle was resumed at daylight this morning at Tatchekiso.

If the Japanese crush General Kaulbars to-day, the Russian retreat will be cut off and Kuropatkin's army will be almost surrounded.

The Liberals look forward to the complete defeat of Kuropatkin's army with equanimity, on the theory, that a Russian victory would stiffen the backbone of the reactionaries.

BURNHAM HAD A BAD POLICE RECORD.

DETECTIVE ROGERS SWORE THAT HE HAD BEEN CONVICTED OF FORGERY — CONVICTED OF FALSE PRETENCES.

Sylvanus Burnham was yesterday afternoon convicted of the charge of obtaining $10 and an overcoat from Bigelow Bros., of Trenton, under false pretences. It appears that the prisoner represented that he was another Burnham, who was known to some member of the firm. The convicted man is 65 years of age and from appearances would not be taken for a criminal, but it is evident that he is such. Provincial Detective Rogers gave evidence in the case and swore positively that Burnham had been convicted of forgery and received a sentence of five years in the penitentiary and was released after serving two years. In 1891 he was convicted at Stratford of fraud and served two years for that offence. Although closely cross-examined by Mr. Carnew on behalf of the accused the detective swore positively that he had no doubt whatever that Burnham was the man, and he had occasion to remember him as he (the detective) allowed him some latitude and he escaped from him but was subsequently recaptured.

Judge Lazier intended to send Burnham to the Central Prison, but he is over the age limit. Sentence was deferred until Thursday.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTES.

The senior championship of the Ontario Hockey Association will be decided by to-night's game between Marlboros and Smith's Falls, on Peterboro ice. There will be a record attendance. In addition to the crowd from Peterboro and all the nearby points, excursion trains will carry big delegations from Toronto and Smith's Falls. Mr. James Fraser, of Galt, will be the referee, and the game will be a clean one. Players who can't keep within the rules will go to the bench or to the dressing-room. Neither rough work not "faking" will be permitted.

The first game between Ottawa and Rat Portage, for the Stanley Cup, will be played to-night. The Westerners are confident, and at this distance look like good things. But the Ottawas are a hard team to defeat on their own ice, and the "Rats" will know they have been in a hockey match by the time to-night's match is over. The following players will represent Rat Portage:

E. Giroux, goal; weight, 130.
Matt. Brown, point; weight, 140.
Theophile Bellefeuille, cover point; weight, 150.
Wm. McGimsie, center; weight, 140.
Silas Griffis, rover; weight, 185.
Tom Hooper, right wing; weight, 165.
Tom Phillips, left wing; weight 150.
R. Beaudro, spare man; weight, 150.

Since they were old enough to hold a hockey stick the Rat Portage Thistles have played in each other's company, first as a junior club, then representing the Rat Portage High School, and later representing the seniors. They form the first and only senior hockey team which has even been in Rat Portage.

Fifteen thousand dozen or 180,000 sticks represent the total output in Canada this season of the principal necessity of a hockey match. At wholesale prices these sticks would have cost about $35,000, which, of course, includes prices ranging from those of culls to the best finished article. In some cases sticks made to order cost about 75 cents each.

The Bankers and Fifteenth Officers will clash in the local rink tonight. The Ambulance Corps should be ready for a hurry call.

A "SWISS FOOD,' LOOM.

Get the rosy cheeks of perfect health by breakfasting on "SWISS FOOD" — the best breakfast cereal. 15c packages.

A gift in the hand is worth two on the tree.

Daily Intelligencer.

Tobler's Swiss Milk Chocolate

In 5c packages.
In 10c packages.
In 15c packages.
In 20c packages.
Just in.

Chas. S. Clapp

Take the Elevator Please!

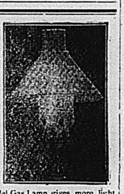
It is faster than walking up stairs.

McKeown's Calisaya Hypophosphites is an elevator from the basement of sickness to the top story of health.

Don't try the long way. Do you want rosy cheeks? Do you want that reserved feeling of strength? Do you want to be vigorous as a young sapling? Get this greatest of tonics.

It cures quickly.

McKeown's Drug Store



Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,

Sole Agent for Belleville.

1. 38. Front St.

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

Royal Baking Powder

45 CENTS a pound can AT ALL GROCERS
25 cents a half pound can

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar; is absolutely pure; has received the highest praise from all authorities on food at home and abroad; is used daily in millions of homes throughout the world.

Royal Baking Powder is the most economical thing in the kitchen.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, March 6.—The receipts of live stock were 800 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 200 calves, 1000 hogs. The tone of cattle advices from Liverpool, London and Glasgow was firmer and noted an advance in prices of ½c per lb, choice American cattle selling at 11½c to 12½c, and Canadians at 11c. The shipments from Portland and St John last week were 6788 cattle, 1035 sheep. To-day a fair trade was done in all lines, and, notwithstanding the near approach of Lent, the market was moderately active. The demand for hogs was good and prices were steady at $6 to $6.10 for select and $5.75 for mixed lots. A fair trade was done in cattle and prices ruled steady; choice, sold at 4½c to 4¾c; good, 4c to 4¼c; fair, 3½c to 3¾c; common, 2½c to 3c; inferior, 1½c to 2½c. Sheep were quiet and firm, selling at 4c to 4½c, and spring lambs, $5 to $8 each. Calves brought $3 to $12.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 4500 head; fairly active, steady; prime steers, $5.25 to $5.65; shipping, $4.65 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $4.90; heifers, $3.25 to $4.75; cows, $2.75 to $4.15; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25; stock heifers, $2 to $2.75; fresh cows and springers steady; good to choice, $48 to $55; medium to good, $32 to $45; common, $23 to $30.

Veals—Receipts, 1100 head; steady; $4.50 to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,500 head; active; 5c to 10c higher; pigs, 25c to 30c higher; heavy, mixed, yorkers and pigs, $5.40 to $5.45; roughs, $4.60 to $4.80; stags, $3 to $3.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 18,000 head; active on good grades; slow on medium and common; native lambs, $6.50 to $8.00; western lambs, $7.75 to $8.20; yearlings, $6.75 to $7; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $5.75 to $6; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $6.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, March 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 27,000; market higher; good to prime steers, $5.25 to $6.15; poor to medium, $3.75 to $4.75; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.70.

Hogs—Receipts, 42,000; mixed and butchers', $4.85 to $5.15; good to choice heavy, $5.05 to $5.17½; rough heavy, $4.90 to $5; light, $4.80 to $5.06; bulk of sales, $4.95 to $5.10.

Sheep—Receipts, 28,000; lambs, 10c to 15c lower; good to choice wethers, $5.65 to $6.25; fair to choice mixed, $5 to $5.50; native lambs, $6 to $7.75.

NATURE REVOLTS

Because the Kidneys were overworked and weakened and could not do their whole duty. South American Kidney Cure cleared away the impurities—healed the diseased parts—made a sick-to-death man well.

One of the happiest men in the County of Huron to-day, is Mr. James McBrine, of Jamestown. He was suddenly attacked with most severe Kidney disease which culminated in a complication of bladder troubles. He tried the best physicians in the County without avail. Attracted by testimony of most marvellous cures by South American Kidney Cure he procured it, and before he had used one bottle was completely cured. 62

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

VERY SOON

It won't be very long before some early spring wedding causes you to look around to see what you will get your friend.

We are showing some new and pretty pieces in Silverware at very reasonable prices consistent with high class goods.

A very handsome piece is a new cake dish with raised pierced border, silver or gilt centre at $2.50

PHONE. 309 T. BLACKBURN. JEWELLER OPTICIAN

POCKET BOOK AND HAND BAG SALE.

We have about 500 sample Purses, Pocket Books and Hand Sachels, Traveller's samples, bought at less than half the regular price. We will clear them out in three lots:

LOT 1 Will be - - - 10c
LOT 2 Will be - - 25c
LOT 3 Will be - - - 50c

We will also clear out four gross Dressing Combs, black rubber, the price was 20c, to clear at 10c

We have still a fine lot of the finest patterns of 12½c Print eft, to clear at (per yd.) 10c

We are selling a 10c bar of sweet pink Toilet Soap this week, at 5c or six for 25c

McINTOSH BROS.

MRS. BURGESS KILLED

Wife of School Inspector of North Grey Thrown From Cutter.

Drawbar of Shaft Gave Way and the Unfortunate Lady Was Flung Upon an Iron Lamp Post, Fracturing Her Skull—Death Was Instantaneous—Her Son, Who Was With Her, Escaped Unhurt.

Owen Sound, March 7.—Mrs. H. H. Burgess, wife of the Public School Inspector for North Grey, was thrown from a cutter and instantly killed last night. She was driving with her son Fred along Division Street, when the draw-bar connecting the shafts with the cutter gave way, and the horse soon became uncontrollable.

At a point only a few feet from the main corner of the town, the cutter slewed, and Mrs. Burgess was thrown out, striking her head on an iron lamp-post, fracturing her forehead just above the left eye. She was killed instantly.

The body was carried into a drug store by Bernie Doyle and S. W. Watt of Meaford, who had endeavored to stop the runaway. The boy escaped unhurt. The saddest feature of the affair is the fact that Mr. Burgess was in Markdale. He was notified by telephone and arrived on the 10.40 train.

Besides her son, deceased leaves three daughters, Misses Maggie and Nellie at home, and Miss Lyle, who is attending Normal School in Hamilton. When the accident took place the streets were crowded with people.

PIPE IGNITES POWDER.

Thomas Hamilton of Briston's Corners Has Narrow Escape.

Brockville, March 7.—From Briston's Corners comes a remarkable story of an escape from death on the part of Thos. Hamilton, general storekeeper. He was engaged removing a keg containing about 15 pounds of gunpowder and carrying it under his arm, when a spark from his pipe dropped into the powder, producing an explosion which blew out the walls, caused the roof to fall in and otherwise make a wreck of the building and its contents.

Mr. Hamilton was dashed across the room and his hands, face and body so terribly burned as to render him almost unrecognizable. A man who came to the rescue succeeded in pulling Hamilton, who was unconscious, through the window. His hands were so badly burned that the flesh peeled off to the bone and hung in shreds.

The blazing clothing was extinguished by pushing him into a snowbank.

The villagers succeded in suppressing the fire in the store before it got under headway. Hamilton is still in a precarious condition, but may recover.

Log Breaks His Leg.

Cornwall, March 7.—Dan Wood, son of Stephen Wood, South Branch, met with a painful accident on Saturday. A load of sawlogs on which he was riding upset, and one log broke his leg in two places. He also sustained internal injuries, but managed to crawl into a nearby barn, where he was found by a passerby. He will recover.

Dead Now Number 106.

Birmingham, Ala., March 7.—One more body was recovered from the Virginia Mine yesterday, which makes the total number of victims counted at present 106.

Sifton Paid the Fine.

Ottawa, March 7.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, who is just now strongly in the calcium light of publicity, gained new notoriety yesterday by figuring in the Police Court as defendant in a charge of letting his dog run at large. The police are prosecuting a vigorous campaign against dogs running the streets, and Mr. Sifton pleaded guilty through his attorney and paid a fine of $3 and $2 costs.

Anarchists in Old Madrid.

Madrid, March 7.—Revolvers were fired and stones were thrown during a demonstration of the unemployed at Barcelona yesterday. A number of arrests, including well-known Anarchists, were made. A bomb was discovered yesterday in front of the palace of the Marquis de Puebla here. It was removed in time to prevent an explosion.

Mrs. Chadwick Collapses.

Cleveland, March 7.—A complete nervous collapse by Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick brought the first day of her trial to an abrupt close at 3.45 p. m. yesterday, and Judge Taylor adjourned court until to-day.

PETITIONS PRESENTED

Many Against Separate Schools Handed in to the House.

Protests of Constituents of Liberal and Conservative Members Against Education Clauses of the Autonomy Bills—Sir William Mulock Promices Report of Investigation of the United States Rural Mail Delivery.

Ottawa, March 7.—A score of members were ready with petitions against the Separate Schools proposal of the autonomy bills when the House opened yesterday. Mr. Haggart was first with petitions from Lanark, and he was followed by Henderson of Halton. Then came Liberal members with similar petitions to present, Mr. Dyment of Algoma, Walter Scott and Mr. Belcourt, Mr. Bole, Mr. Clarke of Essex Mr. McKenzie of Bruce, Mr. Martin of Wellington. Messrs. Lancaster, Northrup, Schaffner, Blain, Dr. Roche and others of the oposition also presented petitions against the Separate School clause. R. L. Borden presented the petitions of his constituents of Carlton.

Put it Off Till Second Reading.

The leader of the opposition then alluded to the practice recently followed by the Government of precipitating the debate of an important measure upon its first reading, when the House is without a printed copy of the bill. This was done in the case of the autonomy bills. He believed it had been intended that he should receive an advance copy of the bill, but even if this intention could have been carried out, said Mr. Borden, it would have been no advantage to the House, generally. He suggested that the practice be returned to, of having the debate upon a measure postponed until the second reading, when the printed bill would be in the hands of every member of the House.

Changes in the Bill.

Mr. Borden also suggested that it would be in the interests of members and of the country as a whole if the Prime Minister would acquaint the House of changes which were to be made in the bill, a reasonable time before the second reading.

The leader of the opposition alluded, further, to certain untrue comments upon his recent absence from the House. The Montreal Herald, referring to it as "tactful." Mr. Borden explained that up to 4 o'clock on the afternoon of last Wednesday week he had no intention of leaving Ottawa, but at that hour he received a telegram announcing the very sudden death of a near and dear relative under distressing circumstances. He referred to the delay caused by the great snow blockade, which accounted for his prolonged absence. Mr. Borden asked that certain returns bearing upon the autonomy bill be brought down before the debate.

Victims of the Press.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier reminded the leader of the opposition that, "We are all victims of the press," but the newspapers had pretty generally printed the facts about his absence so that everybody knew it was the result of domestic affliction.

He defended the policy of making a full statement upon a measure at its introduction as being according to British practice. As to changes in the bill, if any were made, they would be communicated to the House in good time.

Telephone Discussion.

There was a long discussion in committee over the bill to incorporate the Northwest Telephone Company. When the first clause was read Mr. Bole of Winnipeg moved that the bill be referred back to the Railway Committee. Mr. Bole said it was time for the Government to announce a policy looking towards the taking over of the telephones by the Dominion.

Mr. Foster did not agree that independent telephone companies fared so badly. He said they had risen from zero ten years ago to an importance very closely approaching that of the Bell Telephone Company.

Mr. Turiff, the mover of the bill, pointed out that all the municipalities affected by the Northwest Telephone Company had been consulted, so that municipal rights would be fully protected.

The clause giving the Governor-in-Council control over rates, etc., was criticized by Mr. Borden, who argued that such control should be vested in the Railway Commission.

Mr. Hyman replied that while there was a good deal to be said in support of this argument it should be given effect in a general act, and not in a private bill.

The committee rose and reported progress, Mr. Hyman desiring that the Minister of Justice should examine the wording of certain clauses.

Rural Mail Delivery.

Mr. Lennox moved for copies of the Postoffice Department, in reference to the question of establishing rural mail delivery in Canada, the probable cost, including any information in the possession of the department as to the working of the United States system, or such a service or system elsewhere, and the annual expense and other particulars.

Sir William Mulock said that when the rural delivery service was established first in the United States the revenue of the Postoffice Department about balanced the expenditure. Then the deficit began to increase, and in four years it grew from $2,900,000 to $14,000,000. Sir William promised, however, that he would send an officer to Washington to get a report on the whole subject.

The motion for the return then carried.

Mr. German moved for a return showing the lease of water power on the Welland Canal, the names of the lessees and other information.

Provincial Subsidies.

Mr. Carvelle moved for copies of papers submitted to the Government of Canada in behalf of the several Provinces of Canada, urging a readjustment of the Provincial subsidies.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, stated that he did not approve of the principle adopted at Confederation, that of granting subsidies to the Provinces by the Dominion. It must be followed, of course, but he thought it might be made more elastic. Discussing further the relation between the Dominion and the Provinces, Sir Wilfrid referred to the differences on the fisheries question. The public interests, he thought, would be better served if the fisheries were vested entirely in the Dominion. At no distant day he thought the Dominion and the Provinces should hold a conference and consider the questions at issue.

The motion carried and the House adjourned at 10 o'clock.

DEAF?

And have Catarrh? Japanese Catarrh Cure will Cure you of both.

Japanese Catarrh Cure has cured more cases of deafness than all the "cures for deafness" in existence. Simply because 99 cases out of 100 come from catarrh. The tubes, leading from the back of the throat to the ears, become inflammed by catarrh. The ulceration prevents sound from reaching the drums, causing buzzing, roaring and finally deafness. Japanese Catarrh Cure kills the catarrh germs, clears away the offensive discharges, and heals the membranes.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Limited
Toronto, Canada.

HONORED IN DEATH.

Funeral of the Late E. F. Clarke, M. P., the Largest Ever Seen in the City of Toronto.

Toronto, March 7.—Toronto has witnessed few larger or more impressive funerals than that which took place yesterday afternoon when all that was mortal of the late E. F. Clarke, M. P., was conveyed to Mount Pleasant Cemetery and lovingly placed in the tomb. Representatives of every class and creed turned out to pay final honors to the noble citizen who had been called away to join that great company of immortals, "Who had done their work, and held their peace and had no fear to die."

Remains Lay in State.

At Broadway Tabernacle the remains lay in state for over an hour, during which time thousands of men and women looked their last upon the friend of years, many weeping unrestrainedly. There were present Senators, Members of the Dominion Parliament, the Premier, Cabinet Ministers and Members of the Legislature of Ontario, the Mayor and City Council, representatives from the educational bodies, the Industrial Exhibition, Masonic and Orange and other societies, reverend gentlemen and citizens in all walks of life. The funeral is placed as having been the largest attended ever seen in the city.

After the devotional exercises Rev. Dr. Potts delivered a short eulogy on the life of the deceased.

Cortege Mile and a Half Long.

There was a seemingly interminable delay after the conclusion of the service, and it was almost 5 o'clock before the procession moved. The Toronto Typographical Union led the way, about 400 strong, after a detachment of mounted police, and walked out to the C. P. R. tracks. Following them were the members of the County Orange Lodge and McKinley Lodge, of which Mr. Clarke was a member, preceded the hearse, about 200 strong. After that came several carriages with the floral tributes. The carriages with the mourners, pall-bearers, Members of Parliament, Council and the various societies followed, forming a cortege about a mile and a half in length.

The route was along College Street to St. George Street, along Bloor Street to Yonge Street, and to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The streets were deeply lined almost to the city limits with citizens, many of them ladies, who had stood long in the biting cold to pay their last respects.

At the Grave.

The service at the grave was short, the usual prayers being recited by Rev. Mr. Orman and Rev. William Walsh of Orangeville, Grand Chaplain of the Orange Order, after which McKinley Lodge assumed charge, and the forms prescribed by the order were read by Worshipful Master Gilday and Deputy Master David Gould, the members making the responses, and then dropping on the casket the emblems from their lapels. There was a large gathering at the grave, the Premier of Ontario and a number of the members of his Cabinet being among them.

ROOSEVELT'S CABINET.

George B. Cortelyou Succeeds Postmaster-General Wynne.

Washington, March 7.—The President sent a large number of nominations to the Senate yesterday, including all of the members of the present Cabinet, except Postmaster-General Wynne. George B. Cortelyou was named for that office. Secretary of the Treasury Shaw will retire from the Cabinet in February, 1906.

The list of Ambassadors Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary follows: Whitelaw Reid, New York, to Great Britain; Robert S. McCormick, Illinois, to France; George V. L. Meyers, Massachusetts, to Russia; Edwin H. Conger, Comma, to Mexico; Henry White, Rhode Island, to Italy.

The Senate confirmed all appointments.

Tomato Growers Co-Operate.

St. Catharines, March 7.—The tomato growers of Niagara District have practically won in their fight for higher prices with the Amalgamated Canners' Company, which owns most of the canning factories in the country. The refusal of Amalgamated to make contracts with the growers at 30 cents a bushel instead of 25 cents, as hitherto, has had the effect of causing many private canning companies to be formed and new canning factories are to be built in all parts of the district this coming season. These factories will pay 30 cents a bushel for tomatoes and will look after the entire output of the peninsula. "The combine will probably not be able to get tomatoes at any price now," said a prominent grower yesterday.

Last of Confederates.

Houston, Texas, March 7.—Judge John H. Reagan, sole surviving member of the Confederate Cabinet, died yesterday at Palestine, Texas, of pneumonia. Judge Reagan was 86 years old.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

MOST PERFECT MADE.

SOLD AND USED EVERYWHERE.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Hang It

It's the better for it.

Our shelves are loaded with the finest selection of Wall Papers, domestic and imported, which would look much better on your walls than on our shelves.

No trouble to show them.
Prices right.
We do the hanging.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. - SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
Phone. 214. Grocers.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

The road to failure is the one that is full of ruts.

Even the hour of adversity only contains 60 minutes.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

It Will Pay

To look over our stock of furniture and note the values we offer this month.

Some are taking advantage and buying now.

UPHOLSTERING. — Mr. Sills is a practical upholsterer and gives personal attention to all work.

UNDERTAKING. — Mr. Sills having had 15 years experience in this branch of the business is thoroughly qualified to give personal service as undertaker and Funeral Director.

Store 'Phone 48.

Residence, cor. Queen and John Sts.

B. E. SILLS,

Successor to Reed & Sills.

Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Cleanliness is Next to Godliness.

AND GOOD SOAP is one of the greatest adjuncts to the bath. Just look into our window, ask us the prices, and after a trial you will be surprised at results.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.

PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand.

Market Square.

Arthur McGie
MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—

—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store

Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance

—AT—

COLLIP'S.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

The fool never puts off until to-morrow what he shouldn't do at all.

Genuine Scranton
COAL
The Standard Anthracite.
SOLD BY THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office Bridge St. Tel. 293 & 693

The Daily Intelligencer.

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens
THE VERY BEST
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL
LEAVENS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8, 1905. NO. 262

CLARKE TESTIMONIAL FUND.

Committee Formed, With E. B. Osler Chairman, to Receive Contributions.

Toronto, March 8.—Edward F. Clarke, having been laid amidst the general sorrow in his grave, of honor, it has been suggested that the gratitude of the community should be shown in some tangible form, not only for his services, but for the sacrifices which his devotion, always disinterested, to public duty entailed.

This it is proposed to do by forming a fund for the benefit of those whom he has left behind him. For this purpose the undermentioned have consented to act as a committee:

E. B. Osler, M. P.
Hon. George E. Foster.
A. E. Kemp, M. P.
A. Claude MacDonell, M. P.
Hon. Dr. Pyne.
Hon. J. J. Foy.
Thomas Crawford, M. P. P.
Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, M. P. P.
Dr. T. Sproule.

Subscriptions may be sent to E. B. Osler, M. P., chairman.

DISCUSS SCHOOL CLAUSES.

Ontario Liberal Members Consider the Situation.

Ottawa, March 8.—(Globe Special.)—The Ontario Liberal members had a caucus yesterday morning and discussed the school question in all its bearings. All the Ministers from the Province, with the exception of Sir Richard Cartwright, were present. The opinion of the majority seemed to be in favor of the school clauses suggested by the western members. Archie Campbell presided over the meeting.

A. M. Palmer Dies.

New York, N. Y., March 8.—A. M. Palmer, the theatrical manager, who was stricken with apoplexy Monday, died yesterday in a hospital. Mr. Palmer was for years the most prominent theatrical manager in America. He was 67 years old.

DON'T MISS THIS!
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

Broke Through Russian Centre.

Japs Capture 18 Siege Guns—Kuropatkin Retreating.

Russian Commander Now Fighting a Rear-Guard Action to Cover His Retreat—Will Require All His Ability to Extricate His Army From Its Present Predicament—Casualties Exceed Those of Battle of Liaoyang.

London, March 8.—For ten days the Japanese and Russian armies in Manchuria have been engaged in a mighty conflict, the issue of which has not yet been reached. Although the most of the news from the scene of the battle comes through Russian sources, and consequently may be supposed to present the facts in as favorable a light as possible for the Russian arms, it is evident that the Japanese made some gains yesterday.

St. Petersburg has an unofficial report that Gen. Kuropatkin's centre has been broken, and that thirteen siege guns have fallen into the hands of the Japanese. These guns, which are of six and eight-inch calibre, were given permanent emplacements on the line of the railroad north of Shakhe Station, the fact evidencing the confidence of the Russians that the Japanese could not penetrate thither.

Covering His Retreat.

In St. Petersburg it is generally believed that Gen. Kuropatkin was yesterday fighting a rear-guard action to cover his retreat, and that the night will have witnessed a large withdrawal of troops toward Tie Pass. All of the commander-in-chief's ability it is considered, will be required to extricate his army from its present predicament.

The issue, it is expected, will be decided to-day, and much unquestionably depends upon the comparative ability of the opposing armies to resist the effects of hunger and fatigue, the limit of human endurance having been nearly reached on both sides. Beyond the statement that the casualties exceed those of the battle of Liaoyang there is little known as to the number killed or wounded.

STIMULI FOR JAPS.

Condensed Life in Pills to Incite Them to the Attack.

Mukden, March 8.—It is reported that the Japanese are giving their men stimulating drugs to incite them to the attack, pills of which were found in the pockets of prisoners.

Both Sides Desperate.

Mukden, March 8.—Fighting of the fiercest nature, which is likely to decide the fate of the battle which has been in progress for ten days, began at dawn yesterday, and has continued uninterruptedly up to the present time, on a front 14 miles long, west of the railroad and on a line with the Shakhe River. The Japanese also have made a desperate attack on Bentsiaputze, and reports are arriving here that fighting was renewed yesterday morning on the extreme left of the Russian army. Both sides are fighting with desperation to the westward, though the troops were well-nigh exhausted.

The issue of the battle may depend largely on the relative physical condition of the rank and file. In its main features the combat is like that at Liaoyang, and if the Rusisans should be able to crush the flanking force victory may be regarded as won. The losses in the ten days of battle on both sides are already for greater than were the casualties in the battle of Liaoyang, and are likely to increase as the days pass, before the issue is fully decided.

50,000 Japs in Attack.

Beginning at 2 a. m., the Japanese made a succession of desperate attacks on Gen. Tserpitsky's division on the west front south of Mukden, repeating the assault at intervals of two hours, with constant reinforcements. About 50,000 Japanese with 200 pieces of artillery, participated. All the attacks were repulsed, there being enormous losses on both sides. One extremely important position changed hands several times. Finally Gen. Tserpitsky, on horseback, placing himself at the head of his troops, led his regiments to the attack with colors flying and music playing. The attack was successful. After it was over the victorious soldiers crowded around Gen. Tserpitsky, shouting his praises and even kissing his hands and feet. The Russians captured several quick-fire guns and many Japanese prisoners, including officers.

ANOTHER DEFEAT.

Russian Army Is Now in a Very Desperate Way.

St. Petersburg, March 8.—That the battle of Mukden will go down in history with Liaoyang in the long list of Russian defeats, is the almost universal belief here. The War Office does not admit that the issue of the great battle, which already exceeds in magnitude of operations and losses that of Shakhe, has been decided.

Despatches dated at 8 o'clock last night indicate that the position of the Russian army, after a day of furious fighting, is desperate. Everything probably now depends on Gen. Kuropatkin's reserve. While the Japanese hurled themselves forward at every point yesterday, their main energies were behind the west and southwest in an attempt to envelope the Rusisan right and drive a wedge through the line at Madyapa; but Gen. Kuropatkin seems to have been able successfully to change front on his shattered right, aligning from northwest to southeast, to protect the railroad to Mukden; and at nightfall it was reported, he practically was holding all his positions. At the same time he was drawing in and shortening his line to the southeast.

All the concentrated attacks of the Japanese to the westward failed and the efforts of Gens. Nogi and Oku to push the encircling movement north and eastward across Gen. Kuropatkin's line of communications was blocked. One correspondent telegraphs of hearing firing to the northward, towards Tie Pass, which may be between Cossacks and a flying column of Japanese.

Must Evacuate Mukden.

St. Petersburg, March 8.—Kuropatkin has advised the Czar that the general situation of the Manchurian army is such as to make it imperative that Mukden be evacuated at once. The Czar, it is reported, has ordered the Rusisan commander to hold the city as long as possible.

SIXTH DAY OF BATTLE.

Raged With Undiminished Vigor From Dawn Till Dark.

Mukden, March 6.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The sixth day of the battle of the Russian right flank raged with undiminished vigor from dawn till dark. The Japanese made good their position at Tachab and pushed the contest north to Sinmintin, the same as on Sunday, four miles from the main battle line, though apparently no nearer. As was the case in the battle of Liaoyang, the semi-circular positions where the battle is progressing now are so near that the whole of them are accessible from Mukden in a day's tour.

The losses already exceed those in the battle of Liaoyang on the Russian side, and the Japanese are supposed to have suffered much more, though this does not seem to shake the Japanese tenacity, for at noon to-day they attacked Yenhsitun, advancing their infantry and provoking a counter-attack, which was first reported to have resulted in Russian infantry occupying Yenhsitun about 2 p.m., when the artillery battle increased furiously, shells setting fire to many buildings, the smoke from which, joining a dust storm, shrouded the vast plain in clouds, in which the battle roared and the sun sank.

Seven Days Without Rest.

Graves are increasing in number, while dead animals strew the ground. The troops have been seven days without rest and their powers of resistance are declining. They plainly show the strain of the terrible week. The ground is deeply frozen. The Japanese continue to flank the Russian position. One Japanese division is known to have extended to Beling.

The Japanese maintained a frontal attack Sunday night, having attacked Shakhe, Erdagou and Huantai and the extreme east, where they are again advancing. The centre remains Russian, but on the southwest the Russians are falling back on their second positions. The army on the right wing is now thrown back on the Russian settlement, converting it into a great metropolis. At night long trains of lighted cars are to be seen extending in all directions on improvised railways to camps where, three days ago, there was nothing but bare fields. In magnitude the present battle promises to about equal the battle of the Shakhe River.

VLADIMIR A MARKED MAN.

Terrorists Seek the Grand Duke's Life—Another Attempt.

St.Petersburg, March 8.—Grand Duke Vladimir, it is reported, has again been picked for assassination, in spite of the promises contained in the recent Imperial rescript.

On account of the receipt lately of several warnings and terrorist notifications, the sentries about the Grand Duke's palace have been doubled and ordered to exercise special watchfulness.

According to a current report, a terrorist, disguised in the uniform of a general, attempted to gain access to

Continued on 4th Page.

READ THIS EXTRAORDINARY OFFER!

—THE—

New Idea Woman's Magazine

40c - One Year - 40c

In order to increase the circulation of the New Idea Woman's Magazine, we offer to the first hundred subscribers the

New Idea Woman's Magazine
One Year For 40c.

This is the best illustrated Magazine published, containing :—

Practical Styles.
Art Needlework.
Aids in Housekeeping.
Good Literature.
And Superb Color Plates.

READ THE NEW IDEA WOMAN'S MAGAZINE, FOR SALE AT :—

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

65 Ladies' and Misses' Jackets Worth $6.00 to $9.00 for $2.95.

We have gone through our stock and selected 65 Ladies' and Misses' Black and Colored Cloth Jackets that were $6.00 to $9.00 and will offer them for a few days at .... $2.95 EACH

These are in medium and light weights suitable for spring wear and are in the new styles, mostly close fitting and the Leg of Mutton Sleeves. This is a splendid opportunity to secure a comfortable and fashionable Spring Jacket at less than half value. Come at once and secure first choice out of this lot at this price, they will be picked up very quickly.

WHITEWEAR SALE.

The continuation of the fine spring weather combined with the extra values we are offering, has made our Whitewear Sale a grand success.

Everyday our mantle department has been filled with ladies anxious to see and purchase the beautiful garments which we have been so fortunate in gathering together.

We have already received our second shipment of these goods—an early visit will be sure to convince you that our values are the best ever offered in Belleville.

These garments are all marked at a price that is very moderate for the values represented. We cheerfully invite you to come in and inspect them.

IDEAL CORSET WAISTS.

We have just received a large shipment of American Ideal Corset Waists for Ladies and Children. These goods have been in great demand of late as they give good satisfaction.

IDEAL CORSET WAISTS MADE OF GOOD COUTIL. PRICES 50c, 75c and $1.35

HAVE YOU SEEN "THE OUT OF SIGHT."
Ribbon Fastener

It's out of sight in every sense of the word—The neatest thing in the way of a Collar and Ribbon Fastener you ever saw.

You will have no use for pins hooks and eyes, stiff forms or tieing or untieing your ribbon neckwear after using one.

The demonstrator will be only too glad to show you how at our novelty counter and the price is just..... 25c

NOTE:—Latest Parisian and New York Bows tied free of charge—this week only.

White Wash Materials

We have just received a large shipment of Beautiful White Wash Goods for Waists.

The patterns are the most attractive and the values the best we have ever offered.

The fancy stripe and stop are among the favorite ones.

An early visit will well repay you.

—See these goods while the stock is complete. Prices range 18c, 25c, 30c, 35c and 38c per yard.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Spring Clothing.

—o—

We wish everyman in the district could see our new spring and summer Suits, Hats and Haberdashery.

Never have we been in better shape to meet the demands of our trade than we are to-day. Suits of every right style, every right material—Fabrics you would scarcely expect to see in Ready-to-Wear Suits.

—Nobby Cheviots and Tweeds in all the new effects—Browns, Greys and Blue Mixtures, Worsteds, Fancy and Plain, a stylish assortment at ...... $10, $12, $15, $17 PER SUIT.

The single breasted and the swellest of double breasted styles, elegantly made and the best fitting, ready-to-wear suits money can buy.

Every garment has the Ritchie Co.'s label, which is a guarantee of satisfaction in every respect.

Come in and inspect these new garments while the stock is complete.

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

New Prints

We are showing some very beautiful patterns in this season's New English Prints and Cambrics in Fancy and Plain Stripes and Figures for Shirt Waists, Dresses and Children's wear. We have handled this maker's goods for years and can absolutely guarantee every yard. Price (per yard.) 12 1-2c

Fancy Spot Piques	White Piques.
Fancy Vestings.	English Zephyrs.
White Blouse Linens	Dress Linens.
	Fancy Colored Linens

For Spring Sewing

Our values in Nainsooks, India Linens, Lawns, Dimities, English Long Cloths and Cambrics are all specially selected for fine sewing, being soft and free from dressings.

New Embroideries

Our New Embroideries never were prettier than they are this season. The selection comprises—Fine Swiss and Nainsook Edges, Cambric and Heavy Cotton Edgings, Skirtings, Allovers, Corset Cover Embroideries, Beadings and Medallions.

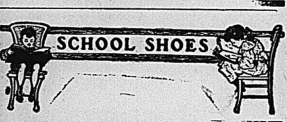
WE ARE BELLEVILLE AGENTS FOR "THE BUTTERICK PAPER PATTERNS" WHICH ARE ALWAYS RELIABLE.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION —Just step in—when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Looks as though the annual spring thaw had arrived.

• • •

If Jack Frost would kindly walk along Front St. and step on one of those iron door mantraps, there is every reason to believe that the backbone of winter would soon be broken.

• • •

By the way, isn't it possible to cover up those iron doors with boards in the slippery weather? They are a menace to the wicked and righteous alike.

• • •

One of Belleville's society leaders called The Intelligencer up on the 'phone last night and complimented us on our remarks re local doctors and the Hospital. There is no doubt at all that unprejudiced people, one and all, are of the opinion that all local doctors, in good standing, should be treated alike so far as the privileges of the Hospital are concerned. As to the additional grant asked, most people with whom we have talked think the Council would be justified in making a moderate extra donation to the Hospital, the size of the same, of course, depending on circumstances with which the Executive Committee are more in touch than the rest of us ordinary mortals.

• • •

The Board of Trade certainly struck a popular chord last night when they committed themselves to the proposition of a free bay bridge. People who have given this matter careful thought for years are convinced that the abolition of the bridge toll would mean an increase of 25 per cent. in the trade of local merchants. Think of what that would mean to our city!

• • •

There is no need to tell anybody that the backbone of Belleville is the trade done on Front St. Whatever benefits that trade benefits our people as a whole; whatever hurts the merchants hurts everybody, and hurts them bad.

• • •

Belleville has the best market in the Midland district, and has stores which will compare more than favorably with any in Canada outside the big cities. The fact that farmers are sidestepping that market and those stores shows that there is something radically wrong, and the cause of it all is not hard to see — other places are making extra efforts and offering extra inducements to secure the trade which, in the interests of the outside purchasers and the local merchants, should come to Belleville.

• • •

There is only one way to meet this, and that is, half-way. If Belleville merchants want that trade, they must go after it, and must be in a position to say: "Here, it will cost you no more to come to our big market and superior stores than it will to go to small markets and inferior stores in other places." And the wideawake farmers, who can see as far through a stone wall an anybody, and who have, as we all know, a remarkably keen eye for the main chance, will see the point in a fraction less than no time.

• • •

Here is a matter which calls for immediate action. The Board of Trade has placed itself on record, and it is now up to the Council. If Mayor Sulman and the Council of 1905 want to immortalize themselves and do a splendid piece of business for the old city they will look into this matter at once, and, if possible, take such action as will make the bay bridge absolutely free. This is not a visionary idea. It is founded on the carefully arrived at deductions of solid men who have studied the matter for years. We hope, before long, to see the matter approached in a business-like way, and the present, in many cases, prohibitive tolls abolished.

• • •

A GRAPHIC PICTURE.

(Toronto Telegram.)

The horns of the Japanese half moon have been forced in from positions analogous to Whitby on the east and Brampton to the west. Today Kuropatkin is in the position of a general being bombarded by siege guns and forced out of his centre at Toronto. This centre is being steadily weakened by the withdrawal of forces to defend the railway, Kuropatkin's only line of retreat. Yonge street will suggest this line, and the difficulties of Kuropatkin are indicated by the analogy which represents Nogi hammering him out of Toronto while Kuroki and Oku are trying to join the tips of the Japanese half moon at Thornhill, thus establishing the divisions on Yonge street, and barring Kuropatkin's road to the north. Kuroki and Oyama have only a short distance to go, and Oyama will have Kuropatkin and his main army in a ring of fire. Kuropatkin is no longer fighting for victory or Mukden. Victory is impossible, Mukden is lost. Russia's army is virtually in flight. The retreat cannot stop at Tie Pass. Harbin will be the objective of the greatest backward movement the world has witnessed since the first Napoleon's retreat from Moscow. Kuropatkin will be fortunate even if he finds the way open for a retreat. He is threatened by the danger that will make him the central figure of a surrender even greater than the world witnessed when the power of another Napoleon crumbled at Sedan.

• • •

Bombs are being smuggled into Russia as oranges. They'll be smuggling hockey pucks in next.

• • •

Some men of this city will be interested in this pronouncement of a London physician: "What is called laziness," he says, "is often a mild melancholia, accompanied by a disclination to put forth exertion." Most of us feel a little bit melancholy in the gentle springtime.

• • •

Who would have supposed, when the Laurier Government went into power a few months ago with such a tremendous majority, that they would have reached the tottery stage by this time? It is an undoubted fact that Sir Wilfrid is now a thoroughly discredited man. No matter what action he takes he cannot save his reputation. Modifying his bill will not do it, for the fact remains that, if the principles of the bill are wrong, Sir Wilfrid should not have introduced it: if they are right, he should have stood to his guns. Men of principle do not modify their convictions; they stand to them fairly and conscientiously, let the consequences be what they may.

• • •

'Tis sweet to think that those who raise
The price of fuel so high
Just when poor people need it so,
Won't need much by-and-by.

• • •

The Czar said the Russians would fight to "the bitter end." The end, at present in Kuropatkin's sight doesn't seem particularly sweet.

• • •

People in Kingston must be of an enquiring frame of mind. The News and Times says: "Some citizens are enquiring how it is that when the Liberals came into power in 1896, Conservatives who were engaged in work on public buildings were ordered to quit, and now when the Conservatives are in power in Ontario, Liberals are allowed to continue working at provincial institutions."

• • •

HIGH AND LOW.

Irving Grinnell, treasurer of the Church Temperance Society of New York, was talking about the difference between High and Low Church among Episcopalians.

"I heard two boys a talking on the street the other day," he said. "The first said in a boasting way:

"'Our church is awful high. We have matins.'

"'That's nothing,' said the other boy. 'We have carpets.'"

• • •

Laurier and Kuropatkin can mingle their tears. They both appear to be up against it good and stout.

• • •

After losing those thirteen siege guns the Russians will be more than ever convinced that thirteen is an unlucky number.

• • •

General Oyama has broken the back of the Russian army, and old General Spring will soon break the backbone of winter.

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCAUSLAND BROS.
Bakers and Confectioners.

SCHOOL SUITS.

Spring is tip-toeing along and the boys are beginning to appear at school in their new clothes. Your boy is wondering when it will be his turn. Quick & Robertson are ready to rig him out from head to foot. Smart looking, wear resisting suits $2, $3, $4, up to $7. There are many handsome new styles out for Spring wear.

Lieut.-Gen. Linevitch Is Again Giving Way.

AND GEN. KUROKI IS MAKING PROGRESS — THAT IS THE LATEST NEWS WHICH HAS REACHED ST. PETERSBURG.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

St. Petersburg, March 8. — Tokio despatches announcing that General Kuroki is making progress and had already reached a point 14 miles south of Fushun yesterday, showing that Lieut.-Gen. Linevitch, commander of the First Manchurian army, is again giving way, is the latest and worst word which reached St. Petersburg this morning regarding the situation at the front.

RUSSIAN ARMY IS IN FULL RETREAT.

Gen. Kuroki's Headquarters in the field, via Fusan, March 8.—The Russians last night, under cover of darkness, evacuated the whole line along the Shakhe River and are now in full retreat northward. The Japanese infantry is pressing them closely.

Before retreating the Russians set fire to great heaps of supplies, which burned throughout the night.

The fall of Mukden appears imminent. The Japanese are pushing the Russians hard on the east.

Hungerford Township Has Big Sensation.

INVESTIGATION BEING HELD INTO CAUSE OF DEATH OF MRS. ADAM LLOYD, WHO WAS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN THE VICTIM OF AN ACCIDENT ON JAN. 30TH.

A matter that is causing considerable excitement in a certain portion of Hungerford Township is being investigated to-day.

On Monday, January 30th, Mrs. Adam Lloyd, an elderly lady, who, with her husband, resided at Moneymore, was at the time alleged to have met her death by being burned.

It appears that on the day in question the husband went to the barn to perform the usual chores and when he returned to the house found Mrs. Lloyd sitting in a chair in the dining-room, with her clothes on fire. The unfortunate woman was considerably burned about the body and was, it was said, dead when found. On the Wednesday following the remains were placed in the vault at the Vantassel burying grounds, after services had been held.

Shortly after this stories of a conflicting nature as to the real cause of Mrs. Lloyd's death became freely circulated, and these were brought to the notice of the authorities, with the result that an inquest was deemed necessary. A jury was empanelled, the body was exhumed, and, after they had viewed the body, two physicians were instructed to make a post mortem. Their report was presented at the inquest which was held at the village of Plainfield this afternoon.

A number of witnesses were summoned to attend the inquest which was conducted by Dr. Yeomans, coroner, of this city. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson, County Attorney, was in attendance on behalf of the Crown.

The outcome of the investigation is being looked forward to with great interest by many parties.

THE BAY BRIDGE.

ALD. W. H. GORDON SUBMITS A PROPOSAL FOR CONSIDERATION.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer:

Sir,—I desire to submit the following proposal for the consideration of your readers in re the Bay Bridge:

That the city merchants unite and if possible make an agreement with the bridge owner or lessee, whereby in consideration of the payment of a certain definite sum, say quarterly, any person or number of persons coming to the city from Prince Edward County over the bridge, with single or double rigs or otherwise, shall, on application to the toll clerk on any Tuesday, Thursday, or Saturday morning before 11 o'clock receive free a return ticket good for the day of issue only.

That this be thoroughly advertised where necessary in Prince Edward by posters giving the names of the merchants so uniting and full details of free tickets.

That the funds necessary be raised by a levy on the basis of our present assessment.

Yours truly,
W. H. GORDON.

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all druggists.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

Sir Wilfrid Cannot Heal the Breach.

THE PREMIER'S RESIGNATION IS THOUGHT TO BE NEAR — GOVERNMENT HOPELESSLY DIVIDED OVER SCHOOL CLAUSE — CONFERENCE ENDS IN FAILURE.

Ottawa, March 7.—If any Liberal member of the House of Commons is trying to delude himself into the belief that all is peace and harmony in Ministerial circles on the school question he is woefully at sea. The Ontario Liberals were in caucus for hours this morning, but it cannot be said that any substantial gain has been made by the gathering in bringing order out of chaos. In addition to the gentlemen especially invited, that is the Ontario contingent, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fitzpatrick were also present. Mr. Paterson, Sir William Mulock and Mr. Hyman were the Ontario Ministers on hand, and for two solid hours these gentlemen had to listen to strong denunciations of the proposal to fasten Roman Catholic Separate schools upon the two new provinces of the Northwest. Member after member showed how he had been deluged with petitions and letters against Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy. While it was officially announced that the result of the gathering was satisfactory, it is significant that a proposed amendment submitted by the Minister of Justice, to take the place of the clause which has created so much friction, was rejected, and it was decided to hold a subsequent meeting, at which another draft amendment prepared by the Minister of Justice will be considered. Hundreds of additional petitions against the school clause were presented in the House of Commons to-day.

It is said to be the intention of the Government to divide the work of the Minister of the Interior by creating the separate portfolio of Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs, who will also look after the Geological Survey Department.

The various attempts of the subcommittee to draft a school clause which will be acceptable to everybody having ignominiously failed, Ministers who have been charged, or rather who charged themselves with this question in the first place, are almost in despair. In all the years that have elapsed since Confederation such a situation as exists to-day has never previously been known. A strong Ministry comes into power with a majority of 70. It enters upon the work of the session in the full strength of it's majority, imbued with hope and confidence, and then in a day, as it were, it is almost rent in twain by internal dissensions. Strive as Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Fitzpatrick may to heal the breach, their efforts are apparently unavailing, and once more it is reported to-night that the resignation of Sir Wilfrid is quite within the bounds of possibility in the next few days.

It is said that the Western Liberal members are divided into distinctly hostile camps on the school question. Mr. Sifton has been credited with drafting a compromise clause, which was supposed to be acceptable to all the Western men, but this is absolutely untrue. Mr. Sifton, it is positively stated, is absolutely opposed to anything but home rule for the new provinces on the educational issue, and is without question the leader of the Western contingent on this issue. Curiously enough the gentleman who is gingerly talking compromise is Mr. Greenway, evidently with a view to succeeding to the position just vacated by Mr. Sifton.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure E. W. Grove's signature is on each box 25c

PERSONAL ....AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Miss Edith Phippen left to-day for Frederickton, N.B., to visit her sister, Mrs. W. J. Osburne.

Miss Rupert returned to Toronto to-day, to resume a course of study at the Bible Training School.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Cloudy; light snow falls and flurries.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m. 32
12 m. 38
2 p.m. 38
3 p.m 38

Another

Fresh supply of:
PINEAPPLES
BANANAS
GRAPE FRUIT.
ETC, ETC., ETC.

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee
'Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.
Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

Coffee

Wallbridge & Clarke will demonstrate Coffee on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 6 to 10th inclusive at their Bridge St. Store. Drop in any time and have a cup of Coffee. Every body invited—No obligation to buy.

Honey

DELICIOUS WHITE HONEY.
In the comb. In sections.

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the bes values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

—TO MAKE ROOM FOR—

SPRING - STOCK

We have reduced the prices on all odd lines of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, Trunks and Valises.

VERMILYEA & SON

Don't let the children get the Calomel and "Liver pill" habit. Give them the natural laxative that is gentle and effective, pleasant to take, never gripes, and CURES constipation—

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

AT ALL DRUGGISTS, 25C AND 60C A BOTTLE

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year: Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

Intelligencer WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

WANTED.

Chambermaid for St. Agnes' School and cook for residence. Apply to Mrs. P. R. Lingham, after 6 o'clock. 7,8,11

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, Sweden. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

BELLEVIEW.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Fisk, of Burnby, are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Vandervoort, of Manitoba, returned home last week after a month's stay with friends and relatives in this locality.

About 150 of the young people of this vicinity spent a very enjoyable evening in the country last week.

On Tuesday evening last a number of Mr. Geo. McComb's friends assembled at this place and presented him with a beautiful writing desk. Mr. and Mrs. McComb leave shortly for their new home in the vicinity of Brighton.

Mr. Wm. Brown, M.D., of Frankford, spent Sunday with his parents here.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW.

That half their ills are due to impoverished blood, they would use Ferrozone and be saved lots of pain and suffering. Ferrozone is a perfect food for the blood, and supplies the strengthening elements needed to maintain health and vigor. Ferrozone is a splendid tonic for weak, nervous women and drives away those depressed feelings of dead weariness. You'll have strength—lots of it—your complexion will improve, you will feel ten years younger after a course of Ferrozone, which builds up the whole human organism; try it. Price 50c.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont. f18,25,m4,11,18,25,a1

Muscles In Tension.

The Revue Scientifique has been asking what muscles tire soonest, with the conclusion that it is not the muscles in use, but those under tension, although doing no work. The writer urges us to use the arms and legs less and the back and neck more, for on them comes the greatest strain. He has been asking men of all occupations the same questions:

When you have worked much, where do you feel tired?

Before you were trained did fatigue show itself in the same regions?

All the answers point to the same conclusions. The baker who kneads dough all night complains of fatigue in his legs.

The blacksmith is tired, not in his arms and shoulders, but in his back and loins.

The young soldier, after a march, is especially tired in the back of the neck, even if he has carried no knapsack.

The oarsman who is in perfect training after prolonged exercise gets tired in his calves and insteps.

These facts point to the conclusion that in any continued effort we should try to alter the habit of contraction. That is to say, the body, like the mind, needs change of work.

A Nightmareless Rarebit.

A bachelor whose skill at getting up dainty supper dishes assures him plenty of company in the evenings is responsible for a substitute for the Welsh rabbit that is free from nightmare. He covers lightly toasted bread with finely grated cheese and instead of slipping it in the oven places it beneath the flame of the gas broiler until the cheese has been toasted a light brown.

If a good cream cheese is used there is not the slightest suggestion of sogginess or greasiness, and even those to whom a rabbit means a night of troubled dreams may indulge in this with no fear of evil consequences.

The trick lies in the grating of the cheese. Broken into bits, it would melt into a pasty mass. Finely divided, each particle should be individually toasted before it has a chance to melt down, and in that state it is readily assimilated.

The Choice of a Wife.

A German professor selects a woman who can merely stew prunes not because stewing prunes and reading Proclus make a delightful harmony, but because he wants his prunes stewed for him and chooses to read Proclus by himself. A fullness of sympathy, a sharing of life one with another, is scarcely ever looked for except in a narrow, conventional sense. Men like to come home and find a blazing fire and a smiling face and an hour of relaxation. Their serious thoughts and earnest aims in life they keep on one side. And this is the carrying out of love and marriage almost everywhere in the world, and this the degrading of women by both.—From One of Mrs. Browning's Letters, 1846.

The Value of New Ideas.

The recognition of the value of a new idea in regard to a business point is leading employers to encourage criticisms and suggestions from employees in respect to the details of the business, thus utilizing their microscopic view rather than depending solely on the birdseye view which is taken by the manager. A friendly feeling results from this attitude, and the employee takes a deeper interest in his work, developing his own capacity and helping the business. To see his idea carried out by his superiors puts new life into him and adds new enthusiasm to his efforts.—Success.

The Wedding Ring Finger.

The wedding ring was placed on the left hand as nearest the heart and on the fourth finger because that finger was supposed to have its own "private wire" (in the shape of a delicate nerve) to the heart. That finger, too, was called the medicine finger, and the belief was that by virtue of the little nerve it could detect a dangerous poison if simply inserted in the liquid. From that belief the idea that wedding rings—the rings worn on that finger—had special curative qualities had its rise. To this day wedding rings are rubbed over an obstinate sty on an eyelid.

The Chance He Lost.

"Why are you so sad, Alice?" her mother asked.

"I've decided not to keep company with Mr. Jonesby any more."

"Dear me! Have you heard anything about him?"

"No. But last night when I said I wished that I was a man he merely asked me why, instead of getting excited and saying that life would be hateful to him if I had not been born a girl."

Cynical.

"Which do you think counts for the most in life, money or brains?"

"Well," answered Miss Cayenne, "I see so many people who manage to get on with so little of either that I am beginning to lose my respect for both."

His Compliment.

Fond Young Mother (with firstborn)—Now, which of us do you think he is like? Friend (judicially)—Well, of course, intelligence has not really dawned in his countenance yet, but he's wonderfully like both of you.—Punch.

The Best Kind of Charity.

The best kind of charity is not that which makes a man easy in destitution, but uneasy in it—uneasy enough to struggle out of it by the aid of a friendly hand

If a man's fortune does not fit him, it is like the shoe in the story—if too large, it trips him up; if too small, it pinches him.—Horace.

A Dollar's Worth Free To Any Rheumatic Sufferer.

I ask no deposit—no reference—no security. There is nothing to risk—nothing to promise—nothing to pay, either now or later. Any rheumatic sufferer who does not know my remedy may have a full dollar's worth free to try.

I willingly make this liberal offer because I know that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic remedy may be relied upon ALWAYS to bring the utmost relief that medicine can. Years before I discovered this remedy, I studied the nature of Rheumatism. For rheumatism is really CRYSTALIZED POISON.

Your blood is always full of poison—the poison you eat and drink and breathe into your system. It is the purpose of the blood to absorb and carry off this very poison. And the kidneys, which are the blood filters, are expected to cleanse the blood and send it back through the system clean, to gather more poison which, they, in turn, will eliminate.

But sometimes the kidneys fail. And sometimes, from some other cause, the blood gets so full of poison that they cannot absorb it all. This is the start of Rheumatism. The poison accumulates and crystallizes. The crystals look like little grains of sugar or of fine white sand. The blood carries them and they increase in size. Then, when it can carry them no longer, it deposits them in a joint—on a bone—anywhere.

The twinge in your leg—the dull ache in your arm on a rainy day—these are the outward signs of the unseen crystals. And the twisted limbs and unspeakable anguish of the sufferer who has allowed his symptoms to go unheeded and unattended for years—these are the evidences of what Rheumatism, neglected, can do.

Rheumatism includes lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, gout—for all these are the results of rheumatism poison in the blood.

Plainly, the first thing to do is to remove the poison. But this is not enough. The "formation" of the poison must be stopped, so that nature may have a chance to dissolve and eliminate the crystals which have already formed. Unless this is done there can be no cure—no permanent relief.

I searched the whole earth for a specific for Rheumatism—something that I or any physician could feel safe in prescribing—something that we could count on not only occasionally, but "always." For the ravages of Rheumatism are everywhere and genuine relief is rare.

I spent twenty years in experimenting before I felt satisfied that I had a certain remedy for this dread disease—a remedy which would not only clean out the poison, but one which would stop its formation.

CERTAIN RELIEF.

The secret lays in a wonderful chemical I found in Germany. When I found this chemical, I knew that I could make a Rheumatic cure that would be practically certain. But even then, before I made an announcement—before I was willing to put my name on it—I made more than 2,000 tests! And my failures were but 2 per cent.

This German chemical is not the only ingredient I use in Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure—but it made the remedy possible—made possible an achievement which, I doubt not, could have been made in no other way.

This chemical was very expensive. The duty, too, was high. In all, it cost me $4.90 per pound. But what is $4.90 per pound for a "real" remedy for the world's most painful disease?—for a "real" relief from the greatest torture human beings know?

I don't mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again—that is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swellling, and then that is the end of the pain and swelling—the end of the suffering—the end of Rheumatism. That is why I can afford to make this liberal offer—that is why I can afford to spend the FIRST dollar that Rheumatic sufferers, the world over, may learn of my remedy.

SIMPLY WRITE ME.

The offer is open to everyone, everywhere, who has not tried my remedy. But you must write ME for the free dollar package order. I will send you an order on your druggist, which he will accept as gladly as he would accept a dollar. He will hand you from his shelves a standard sized package and he will send the bill to me. There are no conditions—no requirements. All that I ask you to do is to write—write to-day. I will send you my book on Rheumatism besides. It is free. It will help you to understand your case. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 69, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases are sometimes cured by a single package. On sale at forty thousand drug stores.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy.

TABERNACLE.

Mr. Fred Terry is moving this week to his new home near Frankford.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. Clinton Powell is continually growing weaker. He was a favorite among young and old in this vicinity, and all regret to hear of his lingering illness.

Mrs. J. C. Chambers' sister, of North Hastings, is visiting here this week.

Death has again come among us and taken away Mrs. D. Roberts on Saturday, March 4th. Mrs. Roberts has been ill for some time and no hope was held out for her recovery. The funeral service was conducted in Stockdale church on Monday by Rev. Mr. Cragg. We extend our warmest sympathy to the family in their sad bereavement.

A very pleasant evening was spent on Monday at the late home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Phillips, Tabernacle, when the choir and a few friends met to bid them adieu before moving to their new home in Belleville. After partaking of a very luxurious luncheon provided by the ladies, they were presented with a handsome music cabinet as a token of the love and esteem in which they were held in this neighborhood.

Mr. Reid, of North Hastings, who has purchased Mr. E. Thompson's farm, has moved among us.

Mr. Henry Curry and family intend moving to Trenton this week. They will reside in Mr. Morrison's house on Division St.

Mr. Baker will move this week on the farm lately occupied by Mr. W. H. Phillips.

On Thursday evening a surprise party came to Mr. E. Plumton's ~~home~~. Mr. Plumton moves to Belleville this week.

WHY! "SWISS FOOD" WHY!

Because "Swiss Food" is the most nutritious and best breakfast cereal. 15c packages at all grocers.

TUFTSVILLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eggleton, of Ridge Road, and Mrs. John Eggleton, of Foxboro, spent Sunday in the village.

Mr. Howard McConnell spent Sunday with his parents in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Clarke were the guests of Mr. E. Bennett on Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Cooke is slowly improving.

Miss Blanche Seeley is the guest of Miss Pearl Bennett.

Miss Beatrice Ross is visiting Miss Sarah Eggleton.

Messrs. Chas. and Will Eggleton returned on Tuesday to Manitoba, after spending six weeks with their friends and relatives.

Miss Ethel Stapley is in Crowley visiting her sister, Mrs. Wesley Dodds.

THE HARDEST PAIN TO ENDURE

Is the pain of a tender corn, but experience proves that corns are cured quickest by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which acts in twenty-four hours. Putnam's never burns or causes sores. The only painless cure is Putnam's. Use no other.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,

STOCK BROKER,

Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.

Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.

Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March 8

Stock.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	90¾	92
do. pref	102½	103¼
St. Paul	177¼	178½
Mo. P	105⅜	108⅜
Union Pac	132½	133
C.P.R	142½	141¼
Sou Pac	68⅛	69¼
R. I.	34⅜	34⅛
Ills. C	158	158⅜
Sou. Ry	35¼	35⅝
Texas	38¼	39
B. & O	109	109⅜
N. Y. C.	155½	157
Penn	142⅛	142⅜
Soo	117¼	118¼
T. W	109	109
Erie	46½	47½
do. pref	82⅜	82½
Reading	96	98⅞
C. O.	49⅞	50⅞
O. & W	53⅜	54⅞
Manhattan	171⅜	171
W.C	24⅜	23¾
L. & N	141½	142
A.F	35	35¾
Nor	83½	84¾
Wab	22⅞	23⅜
do. pref	46⅜	46⅞
C. G. W	22½	22¾
T. C. I.	87¼	87½
U.S. Stl	35⅜	36½
do. pref	95¼	95⅞
Sugar	146½	14[illegible]
B. R. T	65⅞	65⅞
P O.	109⅞	110
A.C.P	77¼	78½
Met.	123	123
Alo	42½	43⅛
A. R.	93⅛	94⅜
Lead	36⅛	36½

May wheat opened at $1.14½, closed at $1.13¼

July wheat opened at 96⅞; closed at 93⅞

May corn opened at 47⅛; closed at 48

July corn opened at 48⅜; closed at 48½

May pork opened at $12 70 closed at $12 67

HAVE YOU PILES?

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is an internal remedy that entirely removes the cause of piles, and cures to stay cured any case no matter how long standing.

If you have piles and Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid will not cure you, you get your money back.

A thousand dollar guarantee goes with every bottle of Hem-Roid sold.

If you want a perfect and permanent cure, ask for Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, the guaranteed remedy.

All druggists, $1.00, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. 10

Recommended and sold by J. S. McKeown.

Education gives a woman more words to talk with.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

One good gift deserves another.

A fair exchange is no certainty.

Ancient Eggs in China.

A German epicure comes to the rescue of the Chinese in regard to their alleged habit of eating rotten eggs. The eggs, he says, are simply preserved in lime until they get a consistency like that of hard butter and they taste somewhat like lobster. He declares them one of the choicest delicacies he has ever eaten. He thinks there are no better cooks in the world than the Chinese. When he went to live among them his friends predicted he would starve, but he had a good time and gained weight—more than he wanted to.

Balky Steam Boilers.

According to an engineer, though there may be every reason present why a steam boiler should steam there are occasions when it simply will not. It refuses duty and sulks without any cause that can be detected. On such occasions every one takes a hand at the fires, but the result is the same—no steam or only enough to keep three-quarters speed. Marine and stationary boilers are both thus afflicted. There are "good days" and "bad days" in the performance of each.

Get Busy.

The successful man is usually busy, and the busy man is usually successful. The young man, whatever his vocation, who has not learned to economize his time and keep busy has not got the lesson most essential to a prosperous, useful and happy life.

A Great Combination.

"You and your husband have lived together twenty-five years and never had a quarrel? What's the secret?"

"No secret at all. I'm too good natured to quarrel, and he's too indolent."—Exchange.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free Prices 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation

French Smokers.

In France there are 6,000,000 smokers, and of every fifteen there are eight who smoke a pipe, five who smoke cigars and only two who use cigarettes. Still, the French consume more than 800,000,000 cigarettes a year, or enough to go around the world 500 times if they were placed end to end in a line.

Garter Museum.

A museum founded at Berlin by William I. is intended solely for the reception of royal garters. Garters from the limbs of all the princesses that have been married in Europe since 1817 may be found in this unique collection.

Sprains and Bruises can't resist the powers of Griffiths' Menthol Liniment.

It penetrates every part of the inflammation—soothes and heals—reduces the swelling. Cures any pain, of any kind. Indispensable in every home. Costs only 25c. a bottle. At all druggists.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

T. Haslip, butcher, has just received a choice carload of Western cattle. m3-6t

Snake's Big Meal.

A number of coolies working in the Gaya district, India, saw a huge snake fourteen feet long come out of a thicket, seize a sheep out of a flock which was grazing and devour it.

The unspoken word never does harm.—Kossuth.

ONE-WAY RATES.

Every day from March 1 to May 15, 1905, the Union Pacific will sell One-way Colonist tickets at the following rates, from Missouri River terminals. Council Bluffs to Kansas City, inclusive:

$20.00 to Ogden and Salt Lake City.

$20.00 to Butte, Anaconda and Helena.

$22.50 to Spokane and Wenatchee, Wash.

$25.00 to Everett, Fairhaven, Whatcom, Vancouver and Victoria, via Huntington and Spokane.

$25.00 to Portland and Astoria; or to Tacoma and Seattle, via Huntington and Portland or via Huntington and Spokane.

$25.00 to Ashland, Roseburg, Eugene, Albany and Salem via Portland.

$25.00 to San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and many other California points.

Correspondingly low rates to many other California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Utah and Idaho points.

From Chicago and St. Louis proportionately low rates are in effect by lines connecting with the Union Pacific to all above points.

For full information call on or address:

J. O. Goodsell, T.P.A., 14 Janes Building, Toronto, Canada.

F. B. Choate, G.A., 126 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. m8,22&a5

Sunlight Soap freshens and preserves Linoleums and Oilcloths.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

If you wash linoleums and oilcloths with ordinary soap you will find the colors will fade. You can preserve their colors and make them last a long time if you wash them with Sunlight Soap. When dirty, wash with warm water and Sunlight Soap, rinse with clean water and wipe completely dry with a soft cloth. Use Sunlight Soap throughout the house. It makes homes bright and hearts light. It contains no impurities or free alkalis to injure the most delicate fabric.

ASK FOR THE OCTAGON BAR.

Sunlight Soap washes the clothes white and won't injure the hands.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO. 7a

The New Store.

Plenty of things around the store deserve special mention, the following will answer for now. You can judge the trend of values by such items as these.

NEW DRESS GOODS

—Mohair Effects from 25 to 75c
—Voiles........30c to $1.00 yard
—Crepe-de-Chene 50c to $1.00 yd.
—Eoliennes........75c to $1.00
—Etamines........50c to 75c
—Crispine........50c to $1.00
—Cashmeres........25c to 75c
—Serges........25c, 50c, 75c
—Lustres........25c to 75c
—Venetians........75c to $1.50

New Silk Blouses from .... $2 75 to $6.00 each.

75 LADIES' RAIN COATS

Guaranteed Waterprof and as far as could be foreseen in sizes to suit any customer. Price........ $4.00 to $10.00 each.

The store is as bright as a May morning and every day adds to its prestige.

Wims & Co

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course—Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

ATTENTION

to details has a lot to do with our success. We pay as much attention to the little things in this store as we do to the more important. We expect our

Pianos

to be perfect in every particular. Your trade is solicited on that basis. We do not ask you to accept anything less. Who can promise you anything more?

J. A. GOODSELL & CO.
436 Front St., Next to W. W. Chown Co.

Steer a Safe Course

The safest course for delicate skins is to use BABY'S OWN SOAP.

No Other Soap is as Good. 038

ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. Montreal.

25c. BIRD BOOK FREE

Thousands sold. But this book free by sending us 3 bird keepers' addresses and 3 Bird Bread yellow wrappers. Bird Bread is 10c yellow pkts. [2 tins] of any grocer or druggist. If dealer has none send his address to us and cash or stamps for pkts. wanted.

BIRD "BREAD [Avoid imitations] Pats. 1891-'95-96 cures birds' ills and makes them sing. Free tin in 1 lb. Cottam Bird Seed pkts., the standard bird food, sold everywhere. Expert help in bird troubles free for reply stamp. Address exactly

COTTAM BIRD SEED, 23 St. London, Ont.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

March 1905

And it's March to the letter in our store . . . .

MAKE THIS YOUR SHOE STORE
YOU CAN'T DO BETTER. DON'T THINK YOU CAN DO AS WELL.

Bring in all the children, not forgetting baby, and we'll shoe the entire family in a manner that will please you, and at prices that will bring you here again.

New Spring Goods Arriving Daily

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

PIES.

Fresh Pies out in time for your dinner, made on large 9 inch heavy paper plates, so there will be no charge for plates.

Lemon 20c, Mince 20c, Pumpkin 15c, Apple 15c, Meat Pies 5c each. ICE CREAM EVERY DAY.

Ed. F. Dickens.
—CATERER

Don't Get Rusty

Keep posted in all that's new, up-to-date and the latest in Cooking Utensils, Crockery, Tea and Coffee and all the other useful things from the common dishes up to the finest silver plate—See the new Potato Ricers 40c each, Cereal Cookers $1.00, Egg Poachers 7c and Pie Funnels 8c.

STROUD'S 40c QUALITY OF TEA IS MAKING NEW FRIENDS. DAILY.

STROUD'S Tea and China Stores Opp. Anglo-American Front Street, Bellevil

| STROUD'S 'PHONE 30f. |

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00
—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand."

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Mail and Empire: It is interesting to note, and perhaps typical of the city's culture, that a considerable number of those who consider themselves the musical and artistic hierophants of Toronto overlooked von Vecsey to go to "The Cingalee' last night.

It is gratifying to note that there are musical heretics in other places as well as Belleville. The day seems to be far off when the majority of people will choose artistic instruction instead of amusement.

• • •

You can't borrow my snow shovel any more It's Lent. (Did you ever hear that before?)

• • •

Goodness me! Only nine days to St. Patrick's day. And snowbanks five feet high still in sight.

• • •

A local weather prophet foretells fine weather for the 21st. He's the kind of a prophet I like.

• • •

Only about three weeks more, and we'll be able to tell whether the water main will be broken again this spring or not. The betting, I think, should be about even.

• • •

People who keep Lent can console themselves. They don't have to give up so much as Gen. Kuropatkin, anyhow.

• • •

Spring lamb sells in Ottawa at $1.50 per pound. Only rich people like Sifton can afford it.

• • •

Ald. Paterson's anxious days are close at hand Anchor ice is liable to choke off the light at any minute, now.

• • •

It might be a good plan for some of us to imitate the boys and practice walking on stilts. I think we'll need 'em when the spring floods come.

• • •

Isn't it about time we heard a crash from the direction of Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet? He and Togo must be near each other.

• • •

Dr. Guthrie was forty-nine years old when he discovered chloroform, or nine years after the time, according to Osler, that men are capable of showing any initiative.

• • •

It is said that prospects are looking bright for the reopening and operation of the rolling mills, and some people say they will be disappointed if the mills are not in operation when the Old Boys' reunion takes place. Here's hoping they are It will please many people besides the old boys.

• • •

The Warsaw grave diggers are the last to go on strike. Just when their services are in the greatest demand, too.

AN EASY WAY

TO KEEP WELL.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man at my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

My physician first advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion, and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars' worth of good.

BROKE RUSSIAN CENTRE

the Grand Duke on Saturday. On being searched, the man was found to be armed with a loaded revolver.

COMMISSION IS DISSOLVED.

Russian Workmen Refuse to Elect Representatives.

St. Petersburg, March 8.—The Shidlovsky Commission, appointed to ascertain the causes of discontent among the working people of St. Petersburg, has been dissolved by order of the Emperor. An official communication explains that this action is due to the impossibility of proceeding with the proposed plan in consequence of the refusal of the workmen to elect representatives to the Commission.

The Minister of Ways and Communications has directed the employes in the workshops of the State railways to elect representatives to present their needs to the managers of the shops.

Police Whipped Servant Girls.

Warsaw, March 8.—The strike of the house servants here suddenly collapsed yesterday. This is attributed to the action of the police, who have severely whipped domestics, and the others, fearing similar treatment, gave up the struggle.

No Newspapers in Vilna.

Vilna, March 8.—A general strike has been inaugurated here. No newspapers appeared yesterday. All shops have been closed. Troops are patrolling the streets.

Stirred Up Agitation.

Lodz, March 8.—The police have arrested a dozen prominent lawyers and doctors on the charge that they had been stirring up the Polish language agitation in the Siels.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Allan Loney of Maxville for Killing Alcide Laurin.

Cornwall, March 8.—Allan Loney of Maxville was yesterday committed to stand his trial for the killing of Alcide Laurin in the course of a hockey match at Maxville on the 24th ult. The enquiry took place before John A. McDougald, J. P., in the Court House, Cornwall, which was crowded with citizens of the town and surrounding country.

The county's attorney, James Dingwall, called six witnesses. While their evidence differed slightly in a few minor details, they were unanimous in saying that Loney struck Laurin on the side of the head with a hockey stick.

Some of them saw Laurin after his stick had been broken by Loney's hard checking, put up his fist in front of Loney's face, but did not strike. One or two did not see this part of the affair. All denied seeing Laurin strike Loney with his stick or fist, and O'Connor, the referee, and D. J. McDonald were positive that nothing of the kind occurred, as they were in a position to see if it happened.

Loney's trial will take place at the spring Assizes here before Justice Teetzel, on Monday, March 27.

Adjutant of Bisley Team.

Ottawa, March 8.—The choice of Adjutant of the Bisley team lies between Paymaster John Crowe, 30th Wellington Rifles, Guelph; Paymaster W. D. King, 46th Durham Regiment, Bowmanville, and Major W. H. Davidson, 8th Royal Rifles, Quebec. All three are good shots.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firm—U.S. Markets Are Generally Steady.

London, March 7.—Live cattle are quoted at 10½c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¼c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the G.T.R. and C.P.R., since Friday last, were 73 carloads, composed of 1170 cattle, 794 hogs, 345 sheep, 100 calves and 2 horses.

About four straight loads of exporters were offered, but there were many small lots picked out of mixed loads. Owing to slightly improved conditions on the British markets, trade in shipping cattle was inclined to be, if anything, a little firmer. Messrs. McIntosh, Dean and Hunnisett got the bulk of the offerings, as will be seen by our report of sales below. Prices ranged from $4.25 to $4.85, the bulk going at $4.50 to $4.70. Export bulls sold at from $3.25 to $4 per cwt., the latter price being rarely paid.

Trade was slow in all classes of butchers' cattle, but especially so for the common to medium classes, of which the bulk of offerings was composed. Many of the dealers, being fairly well supplied, were not anxious to purchase unless they got them at less prices than they have been paying. Drovers one and all were complaining of the dulness of the trade, and many of them of having lost money. At the close of the market there were some few lots still unsold. Picked lots sold at $4.20 to $4.30, and one or two lots reached $4.40 and $4.50, but these were bought for export purposes. Loads of good sold at $3.75 to $4; medium, $3.50 to $3.75; common at $3 to $3.25; inferior, $2.25 to $2.75, and canners at $1 to $2 per cwt.

There was a limited number of feeders and stockers, of which the quality was generally not as good as was desired by the many farmers who were on the market to buy. Several loads of short-keep feeders, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, sold at $4.25 to $4.35, and one choice load, good enough to export, at $4.55; feeders, 1000 to 1100 lbs. each, sold at $3.85 to $4 per cwt.; feeders and stockers, 700 to 900 lbs., sold at $3.25 to $3.60 per cwt.; common stockers sold at $2.50 to $3.

Deliveries of milch cows and springers were the largest in many months, over 100 being offered on Monday and Tuesday. The bulk of the offerings were of common to medium quality, few good and none of choice quality. Prices declined fully $5 per head, ranging all the way from $25 to $50 each.

The high prices prevailing for some time past have had the effect of causing the drovers to bring in a lot of calves that were not fit for any market. In fact, there was not one real choice, well-bred, well-fed calf on the market. Prices were quoted lower, and no wonder. Had there been some of good to choice quality they would have sold readily at as high a figure as has been paid. Those offered sold at $3.50 per cwt. for the inferior (and the bulk were of that class), to $5.50 and $6 per cwt.

Offerings were light, and prices were firm. Export ewes sold at $4.50 to $5.25 per cwt.; bucks at $3.50 to $4.25; grain-fed lambs sold at $6.50 to $7 per cwt.; barnyard lambs, $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt.

The run was light—800—all of which were bought by Mr. Harris at $5.75 per cwt. for selects and $5.25 for lights. There was a large number of the light, unfinished class, which has caused a drop in the price for them, as they are not wanted.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 7.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; steady; prime steers, $5.25 to $5.65; shipping, $4.65 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $4.90; heifers, $3.25 to $4.75; cows, $2.75 to $4.15; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to [illegible]

Parents buy Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because they know it is a safe medicine for their children and an effectual expeller of worms.

Probably egg coal is so called because of its close resemblance in price to hen fruit.

Where can I get some of Holloway's Corn Cure? I was entirely cured of my corns by this remedy and I wish some more of it for my friends. So writes Mr. J. W. Brown, Chicago.

Kuropatkin would doubtless rather be recalled at this stage of the game than captured by the Japs later.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

However, no hard feelings will be occasioned if we fail to retain the low temperature prize.

Prevent Disorder.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventative of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

Gen. Stoessel explains that the Japs won because they drill better. The supposition was that they shoot better and more often.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

A man's capacity for work often depends upon whether he is working for himself or others.

A Wide Sphere of Usefulness.—The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has been on the market for over thirty-one years, its prosperity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.
No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mall	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mall	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	...... $42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	.... $42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	...... $45.05
San Francisco Cal.	.. $46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points. Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

Daily except Sunday

L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)......	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C. ...	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.
G. .. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
GENERAL INSURANCE AGENT,
Opposite Post Office. Belleville.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R C.S., England.
Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.
Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.
m3-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL
Dentist, Belleville Ont.
Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT
J. FRANKLIN WILLS
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Fron St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. .. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loa Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security. Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.
THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.
INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insurance Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter, Joiner, Builder
Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave. (next McCrodan's grocery.)
Estimates furnished.
Work promptly and carefully } executed PRICES MODERATE
—SPECIALIST ON—
Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabine Work and Furniture Repairs.
G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

Linked by Fate

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Author of "The Verdict of the Heart," "A Heritage of Hate," "Nell of Shorne Mills," "Paid For," "A Modern Juliet," Etc.

CHAPTER I.

The moon shone in regal splendour on one of the most beautiful spots on this beautiful earth.

It was one of the islands which lie off the eastern shore of Australia. A gentle breeze stirred the foliage, the waves lapped in on the golden sands and broke gently on the rocks, making a music as soft and soothing as the breeze; the opalescent light lit up the scene and turned it into a dream of fairyland.

And a man stood on the beach, and looking round upon this fairyland, cursed it fluently under his breath.

He was young and well made; one of those good-looking young men which the public schools and the 'varsities turn out with machine-like regularity. He was an athlete and strong, but in the moonlight he looked wan and pale and infinitely weary, with the weariness of doubt, anxiety and sleepless nights.

His serge suit was tatterd and torn and shrunk by the water and the sun, and his shapely head was covered by a battered hat made of leaves.

As he stood looking moodily before him, there came from a rough hut, at a little distance from the beach, another young man. He was by no means an athlete, but small and thin and bent, and he wore the remains of a black serge suit of clerical cut; for he was a clergyman. He was even paler and more wan than the man on the sands, and he pressed his thin hand to his chest and coughed as he came along slowly and painfully.

The two men looked like characters in an old fashioned farce; but there was tragedy here. For these two men, with sundry other persons, were all that remained of the crew and passengers of the vessel Alpina, which eight days previously had been wrecked off the coast of this uninhabited island.

The Reverend Arthur Fleming crawled to his companion's side.

"You have seen nothing, Mannering?" he asked; not as one with hope of an answer in the affirmative, but as if the question were a formula which had grown into a habit.

Vane Mannering shook his head.

"No," he said, gravely; "and I am afraid we're not likely to. In my opinion, this beastly land is one of the numerous groups which is quite out of the line of shipping. The fact that the Alpina lost her course proves that, I think."

"You mean that there is little hope of rescue?" said Arthur Fleming in a low voice.

"Very little chance," assented Mannering. "Of course, I can't say for certain. If they had taught me geography at Eton or Oxford, instead of Latin and Greek, and several other still more useless things, I might give a guess as to where we are; but as it is I've no idea. If there had been any chance of our being picked up, we should have sighted a vessel before now. In all probability we shall be left to die of starvation—well, not of starvation, perhaps, say ennui—in this cursed island."

Fleming's lips opened to murmur, "Bless and curse not;" but he refrained. It was scarcely the moment for reproof; and, indeed, his gratitude to his companion helped to check him; for the party owed their lives to Vane Mannering, whose energy, alertness, coolness and presence of mind had brought them from the doomed ship.

"Have you seen the Doctor and Miss Nina?" asked Mannering, after a pause, filled up by Fleming's hollow cough.

"She is in their hut; I saw her go in half an hour ago. The Doctor is still wandering about the island. The way that girl bears up, Mannering, fills me with admiration and reverence. She is here all alone with us men; she has suffered all the privations, that terrible journey in the boat from the ship, all the dreadful uncertainties of our position with something more than heroism; for heroism always suggests to my mind a kind of blatancy and self assertion; but she has been not only fearless, but cheerful and self-reliant, and yet trustful. I tell you, Mannering, when I think of her my heart goes out in gratitude to God for His creation of sex. Who would have thought that such a slim bit of a girl, who seemed all gaiety and lightness of heart, would have proved such a noble character!"

Mannering nodded. "She is still keeping well? I was afraid she might get a touch of fever, such as the rest of us have had."

"She had a slight attack," said Fleming; "but she seemed to throw it off with a courage as great as her patience and self-denial. The Doctor is about the same; he is still very weak and his mind seems cloudy, but he insisted upon going out; and he has taken his hammer with him to knock off bits of rock, and so on."

"Let him," said Mannering, briefly; "it will amuse him and keep him from brooding on the situation. I wish I could go and knock off pieces of rock, instead of standing idly here!"

"How can you talk so, my dear Mannering?" he said. "You have been our leader, our sole support; you have worked indefatigably from morning to night. But for you we should all be lying at the bottom of the sea there; we owe our lives to your energy, your pluck, your wonderful power of endurance."

Ask your Grocer for Windsor Salt
Its Pure—That's Sure.

Mannering shook his head. "I have done little enough," he said, moodily. "You ought not to be out here, Fleming," he added, as Fleming's cough shook his frail figure.

"I'm all right. It's very warm in the hut; and I don't cough any more out here. We'll both turn in presently. "Why, don't you smoke?"

"I gave my last pipe to the Doctor," Mannering replied, casually. "He wanted it worse than I do."

The strident sound of a concertina floated unmusically from one of the three huts, and was followed still more unmusically by loud voices and laughter.

"The men seem merry to-night," remarked Fleming with a sigh.

"Yes," said Mannering. "I gave out a tot of rum to each man this evening. I wish—" He hesitated, and Fleming looked up at him quietly. "I wish they weren't here," continued Mannering. "They are an element of danger, Fleming. Up to the present they have behaved fairly well, for it is only since the last day or two they have begun to grouse; but how long will they continue to behave well? For instance, how long will they be content to let me deal out the rum? They know where the keg is. I could not prevent their getting at it."

"They're—they're not all bad," suggested Fleming. "They have stood by us up to now."

Mannering nodded. "No, they are not all bad; but there are one or two black sheep amongst them. I mistrust that Lascar and the other stoker, Munson. He is always haranguing the rest. I saw him skulking round the Doctor's hut last night. If they were Englishmen one would not have any misgiving; but—!" He shrugged his shoulders. "We man our ships with the scum of the earth, Fleming, just as we fill the East End of London with aliens to take the bread out of the mouths of our own poor." The noise from the men's hut grew louder. "I think I'd better go and see what they are doing," he said.

He and Fleming approached the hut quietly and looked in. Some of the six men were lying full length on the ground, others seated on stools roughly constructed of the limbs of the pine trees. In the centre of the hut stood the keg of rum, and Munson was drawing some of the red liquor into a can. They had all been drinking freely, and were flushed and excited.

Fleming groaned as he saw the keg, and Mannering's face grew stern; but he uttered no sound, and gripped Fleming's arm to warn him to silence, for the Lascar was speaking.

"Ve are what you calls 'pals,'" he was saying in his thick, sibilant voice, his black eyes rolling evilly on the faces of the listeners. "Ve are bein' played vith! It ish thish Mishter Mann'rin' that ish trickin' us; 'im and the Padre, ah, and the Medico, too! They hab the money. I who speak know it. I saw thish man pash the box to the Medico as he got into the boat."

"The box of medicine and instruments!" whispered Fleming.

Mannering nodded grimly. He was listening intently and scanning the faces of the men keenly.

"That's true; I saw 'em," said Munson. And some of the others muttered assentingly.

"The box wash full o' money, gold; jewels, too, perhaps. Thatsh so! You know ze laties do give their jewellery to ze purser to take care of. Eh, vhat! Thatsh box was full of dimints. An' it belongsh to us, eh, vhat you say?"

"To us; all of us, yes!" grunted Munson.

"To us who manned ze boat, who vorked like slaves puttin' up zese houses; to us, ze laborers, ze brothers of toil, ze zalt of ze earth!"

"That's so," assented one of the men. "Pass round the rum again, Lasky."

The Lascar emptied the can at a draught, refilled it and passed it to the man next him; then he leant forward and whispered, huskily:

"It ish in the Medico's tent. It ish unter the bed of the girl; I saw Mishter Mann'rin' put it there. Ve will go, ve will all go and git it, and share it man to man!"

Some of the men sprang to their feet unsteadily; but one or two were not so prompt; and a voice said, lazily:

"There's no hurry; let's have our drink first."

Mannering cautiously drew Fleming away.

"There is no time to lose," he said, gravely, when they had got out of hearing.

"You will give them the box, show them that it does not contain any gold?" said Fleming, with the cough he had been repressing with difficulty.

"No," said Mannering quietly. "They would not be convinced; besides it would be a fatal weakness. Do you think"—he paused a moment and his lips tightened—"that they would be satisfied? Some of them might, but not the Lascar and Munson. They are brutes, beasts; and you know the effect of the first taste of blood on such wild beasts. They would want more—everything, perhaps." He paused and Fleming following Mannering's thought, pictured the young girl in the hands of these men and shuddered.

"What will you do?" he asked, as a man asks his leader and commander.

"Show fight," said Mannering as quietly as before. "We have the only firearms that were saved—a couple of revolvers and a gun."

"I can manage a revolver; but, oh, Mannering, if we could avoid bloodshed!" murmured Fleming.

"We'll try," said Mannering. "It rests with them. You agree with me it would be unwise, indeed, a criminal folly, to yield to them? They would not stop—There is Miss Nina."

Fleming nodded and bent his head. "You are right—as you have been all through, Mannering."

They had been approaching the hut which Mannering had, with his own hands, built for Doctor Vernon and his daughter, and he signed to Fleming to knock; but Fleming shook his head.

"No," he said; "you will do it better than I, Mannering. She looks up to you, relies on you. You will give her courage. I—I am not a coward, I hope and trust; but I should let her see the—the dread that makes me cold at this moment, and you will not. No; you!"

Mannering nodded and knocked at the rough door of the hut. It was opened by a young girl. She was very beautiful, with a beauty which is indicated by expression as much as regularity of feature. Her eyes were of the dark grey which at times become violet, her hair was of a soft black, and the gods had given her the mouth which, when it smiles, wins men's hearts. But she was not only young but innocent of vanity or self-consciousness, and her eyes lit up and her lips smiled with frank pleasure as she saw who it was.

"Oh, good evening, Mr. Mannering!" she said with quiet cheerfulness, and her voice rang like a low note of music in the pine-perfumed air. "Will you come in? My father is out; he went out for a stroll—Is anything the matter?"

She did not start or turn pale, but stood, in her stained and patched serge dress, calm and attentive.

Mannering knew enough of women to know that with this one, young as she was, the proper course was the direct one. His eyes rested reflectingly for a moment on her lovely face, on the small, shapely head with its soft, black hair resting on the forehead and wound into a knot at the back, then he said:

"I am afraid there is, Miss Nina." He had grown to call her by her Christian name; shipwrecked people are apt to be slack on extreme points of etiquette. "The men are getting—impatient. They entertain the absurd idea that we have smuggled the specie and valuables from the ship in your father's medicine chest—"

She glanced at the box under the rough bed.

—"And—and they are coming for it presently, I think."

"And you will not give it them?" she said, quietly, as if she had read his face upon which her beautiful eyes were fixed.

"No; they'd want more," he said. "And we must make a stand at the outset. There may be a little noise and—trouble, so I came to warn you. You will not be frightened? Mr. Fleming and I are armed; the men are not; and I have no doubt they will cool off when they find we are resolute."

"I see," she said. "No, I shall not be frightened; that is, not more than I can help."

Her smile, surely the sweetest ever smiled by woman, flickered across her lips and shone in her eyes.

"No," he said, "you have displayed such pluck, such—oh, I cannot express myself!" he broke off as if in despair.

"Oh, but you have!" she said, with the faintest blush. "I was just making some tea. Will you have a cup?"

Mannering glanced at the meat tin on the fire, and gauged its contents.

"Thanks, no. I have just had some." Generally, Mannering, with all his faults, was a truthful man. "But Mr. Flemming—he is outside."

He beckoned Fleming in, and Nina poured out a cup of tea for him gravely; of course she knew that Mannering had lied.

Fleming took it gratefully; it was to him as rum was to the men.

"Mr. Mannering has told you?" he said in a low voice.

Nina nodded. "Yes; I am sorry. But I hope it will all be over before father comes back. He is not well; he is feverish—and—he has been wandering a little in his mind. He has taken the gun— I am sorry!"

Mannering touched Fleming on the arm, and they went out and to their own hut, got and loaded their revolvers, and, returning to the beach, sat down as if for a quiet talk.

They had not to wait long.

"Take it coolly," murmured Mannering, as the six men came out of the hut. Some of them walked unsteadily, one of them was singing; but the Lascar and Munson were still sober, though evidently excited by the liquor.

Mannering rose and slowly went to meet them, walking in the direction that put him between them and the Vernons' hut.

"Good evening," he said; "want anything?"

"You ask ze polite question, sur, and ve giv you ze polite answer. It ish ze little box in ze hut zere," replied the Lascar with a mocking bow.

Mannering raised his brows with simulated surprise.

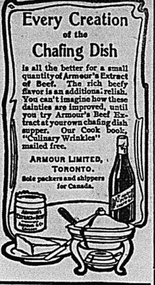
"Anybody ill? The box contains medicine and instruments of various kinds," he said, quietly.

The Lascar showed his gleaming teeth in a sardonic smile.

"Ish zat so?" he retorted, with an incredulous jerk of his hand. "Ve vill see—"

"I think not," said Mannering, so quietly that Fleming's heart throbbed with a tribute of admiration. "You will take my word for it. I see that you have got the keg of rum—you have broken your promise—"

"To ze devil wiz your promise!" the Lascar broke in. "Vy should you keep all ze best of ze swag ve bring away from ze ship? You keep ze rum, ze box of gold, ze girl!" he leered evilly, and moved forward as if to pass Mannering. Mannering drew his revolver.



Every Creation of the Chafing Dish is all the better for a small quantity of Armour's Extract of Beef. The rich beefy flavor is an additional relish. You can't imagine how these dainties are improved, until you try Armour's Beef Extract at your own chafing dish supper. Our Cook book, "Culinary Wrinkles" mailed free.

ARMOUR LIMITED, TORONTO.
Sole packers and shippers for Canada.

"Stop where you are!" he said, grimly; there was a spot of red on his hollow cheeks, and a light in his eyes which spoke of the just rage which had sprung up in his heart like a flame.

Fleming stepped forward and held up his hand.

"Men, I want to speak to you!" he said, fighting with his cough. "You know what Mr. Mannering has done for us. But for him— But surely you don't want me to remind you! And surely you cannot suspect that he—we—have any idea of taking any advantage of you. The chest contains only medicine and instruments, as Mr. Mannering said. You were wrong, very wrong, to take the keg of rum; you would be acting wickedly if you were to follow the advice, the leadership, of this man, who is as much indebted as the rest of us to Mr. Mannering."

Some of the men exchanged glances, but the Lascar cut in with a short, sardonic laugh.

"Ze Padre speaks softly, as ze Padre always do. Vell, then, let one of us go into the Medico's hut—"

He moved forward, but Mannered covered him, saying:

"Not a step."

The Lascar pulled up and looked Mannering up and down.

"You speak bravely, Mishter Mann'rin'! You 'ave the gun!" He made an insolent gesture with his facile and eloquent hands. "If you had only ze little knife like zis, we would settle the matter, ah, so kervickly! You are ze one coward!"

Then Mannering did a foolish thing—the foolish thing which Englishmen individually and collectively so often do; he gave away his advantage It was inexcusable; but, ah, well, let the man who has meekly borne the taunt of a Lascar and been called a coward pitch the first stone; I will not; and I have an idea that the reader will not.

Mannering looked into the rolling eyeballs for a moment or two; then he said:

"See her now, men. If it's a fair fight between us and I win, will you take my word and go back to your hut quietly, not only go back but leave that man's lead?"

The men looked at each other and whispered. They were more or less drunk and therefore impressionable, and they were longing for the kind of fight Mannering indicated. Don't blame them. In the House of Commons a "personal" matter will fill the benches; and any sort of duel has a fascination for every man with red blood in his veins.

"Yes, fight it out; we'll see fair play!" shouted a man, thickly.

Mannering beckoned to Fleming.

"Take my revolver," he said, aloud, "and shoot the first man who attempts to interfere—"

"Mannering! Mannering! You will not do it! I implore, I beseech you!" cried Fleming with solemn earnestness.

Mannering quickly stripped off his coat and rolled up his sleeves.

"No use, Fleming; I must. Either that man or I must be master. They'll follow the victor like sheep, you'll see. It will end the trouble—"

"But, Mannering, these men, these Lascars, are adepts at the knife," urged Fleming almost frantically.

Mannering shrugged his shoulders. "I learnt a trick or two when I was in Malacca," he said, quickly. "Got a handkerchief?"

Fleming shook his head. The door of the Vernons' hut opened and Nina came quickly down to them. Her face was white as death, her eyes were like "the violets steeped in ..." her lips, white as her face, were set tightly.

"Mr. Mannering, you must not!—you will not!" She looked into his eyes and saw that her appeal was hopeless. "Then—then—there is a handkerchief!"

He took it, bound his bowie knife to his wrist and held it out to Fleming. Fleming hesitated; the girl caught the wrist and tied the knot Mannering wanted.

"Thanks," he said, coolly. "Now go inside—and shut the door."

She obeyed; and, leaning against the wall as if to still her throbbing heart, looked between the logs.

Munson had bound the Lascar's knife to his wrist, and the two men confronted each other. The moon shone down on them in placid mockery of such poor stuff as human emotions; the soft breeze wafted the perfume of the pines across the men's heated breath; the sea sang to the golden beach; the delicious night was full of beauty. To poor Fleming, even in that intense moment as he stood revolver in each hand, there flashed the lines:

"Where every prospect pleases and only man is vile."

The Lascar's face seemed to glow as if with the reflection of fire; the Englishman's was white and set with the calm of courage and resolution.

"Come on," said Mannering; and, as he spoke, the Lascar sprang at him.

If there is anything more exciting than a "knife fight," I do not know it. It is cat-like in the rapidity of its movements; it is soul-thrilling in its moments of doubt and uncertainty; it is awe-inspiring in its pauses, rushes, wrestlings. The two men crouched, sprang, caught at the wrists of the hands that held the knives, struck, parried and avoided the gleaming blades by swift, almost imperceptible swaying and glidings of the bodies.

The Lascar was as agile as a snake and bent, dipped and attacked with sinuous force; but Mannering, though lacking this facility of movement, possessed the qualities of strength, endurance and the cool eye, and by the exercise of these he parried the terrible attack.

The men, sobered now by the intense excitement, looked on in breathless excitement. Fleming, forgetting them and clean forgotten by them, suffered the revolvers to droop in his shaking hands.

And the girl for whom this awful fight was being fought—what a presumptuous idiot I should be if I attempted to set down her emotions!

Suddenly a short cry, a gasp, rose from the men and was echoed by Fleming; the Lascar's knife had cut a gash in Mannering's shoulder.

"Oh, stop! stop! For God's sake, stop, Mannering!" cried Fleming.

But neither the combatants nor the other spectators heeded—they probably did not hear him.

Mannering felt the cut of the sharp knife, felt the blood running down his shoulder and side; but he set his teeth and forced himself to remain calm; everything depended, he knew, upon his keeping his head; not his life only, but the girl—the sweet, innocent girl. Ah, now he must not lose his head!

He drew back a moment, and the Lascar, with a hideous smile, pressed on to him. It was what Mannering wanted. With a sudden swerve, a movement of the leg and the strong, steel-like left arm, he threw his opponent to the ground, and in an instant was on top of him with a knee like iron pressing into his chest. He raised his arm, the reflected knife gleamed in the moonlight, the Lascar's wavering life hung in the balances. A shudder ran through the spectators, a cry arose from Nina—she had come to the door. While one could count ten the knife poised above the Lascar's heart. Then, before the other men could interfere, Mannering had wrenched the knife from the Lascar's grasp and flung it behind him; then he tore the bandage from his own arm and sent his knife flying with the other.

"Get up!" he said, removing his knee.

The Lascar sprang to his feet, dazed, uncertain. Mannering waited a second or two, then he said:

"Now we'll fight it out English fashion."

The Lascar was no mean boxer—he had picked it up from his English messmates—and with a flickering smile he threw himself into position.

This second fight shall not be described. Suffice it that the Lascar was as a child in the hands of the man who had carried all before him with the gloves at Christchurch. Again and again and Lascar came on—let us give him his due—to receive the terrible punishment, but at last a well-aimed blow from Mannering—who was now enjoying himself amazingly—sent the Lascar to earth with the sickening thud some of us know so well.

Mannering, panting and wiping the sweat—it had flowed like water—from his swollen face, stood over him for a moment in silence; then he beckoned to the men.

"Take him to the hut," he said.

Then, as they picked up the unconscious man, Mannering added, quite quietly:

"I think that settles it. If not, if any of you would like to try your hand—"

The polite and liberal offer was declined with thanks.

"That's all right, sir," said one man, the best of the bad lot. "It was a square and fair fight, and bli' me if he ain't got what he deserves."

"Well, then," said Mannering. "You understand that I'm master here—someone has to be, you know,—and that if I find any man pass the line of that tree"—he pointed to one a hundred yards from the Vernons' hut—"well!"

They went off, bearing the Lascar, and Mannering turned to Fleming, who was clinging to his arm.

"Mannering! Mannering! You are hurt! You are bleeding! Oh, Mannering, how—how nobly you fought! It was wicked, very wicked, but—oh, how—how I admire you for it! God forgive me!"

CHAPTER II.

Nina came from the hht, not running, but with a graceful swiftness. Her face was still paler, but her eyes were glowing under their dark lashes.

"Are you—are you hurt?" she asked in a low voice, which she was, womanfully, trying to keep steady.

"Thanks, not at all, or very little," said Mannering, going for his coat.

"Oh, Mannering, how can you say so!" exclaimed Fleming, reproachfully. "He is badly cut. Look at the blood! It is of no use putting your coat on, Mannering; you must have that dreadful wound dressed."

"It is too slight to be called a wound," said Mannering, casually.

"Come to the hut," said Nina in the tone a woman uses to a man when she means to be obeyed.

They went to the Vernon's hut, and she poured some water into a tin and examined the knife slash.

"It is an awful cut," she said between her white, even teeth. "I—I don't know what to do."

"Oh, we'll just wash it," said Mannering, lightly. "It will be all right; it is nothing."

She shuddered slightly as she bathed the flowing blood from the wound, but her hand was quite steady, and it was only her beautiful lips that quivered.

"I—I am glad you did not kill him, though—though at one moment I almost wished— How strong you must be!" she said in a low voice.

"I did not know you were looking," said Mannering, reluctantly. "I told you to shut the door."

"I did—oh, I did!—but I looked between the logs," she said, with sudden meekness.

A shadow fell across the threshold and the Doctor entered. He was an old man, bent and feeble, but at that moment in a state of suppressed excitement which lent him fictitious strength and vigor.

"Nina, where is Mr. Mannering? Oh, there you are!" he said, peering at them under his white and shaggy brows. "I've got news, great news, for you Mannering. What are you doing? What is the matter?" he broke off to enquire.

Nina lifted her eyes from her work.

"Mr. Mannering has been hurt—the men, father. They wanted to steal the chest, and—and Mr. Mannering—"

"Eh? What? No matter!" he interrupted, impatiently. "Some quarrel, I suppose. Let me see."

He put the girl aside gently and looked at the cut.

"Knife, eh? Flesh wound only. Give me a piece of linen. Tear it off the sleeve of the shirt. Why did you quarrel? ..t such a moment, when you need all your strength and coolness. Mannering, Fleming," he continued, as he deftly staunched and bandaged the wound, "I have made the most extraordinary discovery. A pin, Nina. Tut, tut, haven't you a safety pin?" She found one and gave it to him. "Pin it here."

Her cool, soft fingers touched Mannering's arm gently, pityingly, tenderly.

"That's right. You will do very well. Next case. Eh? What? Thought I was in the ward. How did you get the hurt? No matter! Mannering, see here!"

He turned to the empty box which served as a table and turned out the contents of his pocket upon it.

"Look at those!" he exclaimed in a tone of suppressed excitement. "Look at them! Do you know what they are? Wait! Shut the door!"

Nina closed the door and came back to the group; but though the casual observer would have said that she was looking at the apparently extremely commonplace stones on the table, she was really looking, sideways, at Mannering.

"See what they are!" said the Doctor, in a thick, tremulous whisper. "Take up one of them; examine it!"

Mannering mechanically took up one of the stones. He was thinking of the men, wondering how long they would remain quiescent, amenable.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

MADAME

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer

One Year's Subscription Free of Cost

to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to April 1, 1906, or later.

MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.

Sign and Send This Coupon

TO-DAY

Daily By Mail - $3.00
Weekly By Mail - $1.00

To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited, Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $.

Name.. P. O. ....
Address...

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON.

Remember : Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to April 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME for Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.

SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels, free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEAWOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address.

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1
Name
Street No.
Town State

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2
Name
Street No.
Town State
Please also send Book No to
Name
Street No.
Town State

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number
(NOW READY.)

Contains 20 Prominent Features A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

from the stand point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

A typical Southerner writes the article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands 15 cents per copy.

GIRLS' OCCUPATIONS.

Uses to Which Radcliffe Graduates Put Their Education.

Light is thrown on the way girls put a college education to use nowadays by an examination recently made of the records of graduates of Radcliffe college, the women's institution affiliated with Harvard. Naturally it would be expected that young women trained as they are at Radcliffe, where the courses, teachers, examinations and general requirements for degrees are exactly similar to those of the men's big universities, would go into teaching or other professional work almost exclusively.

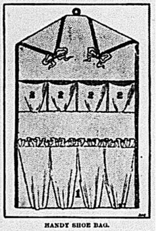
While it is true that a large proportion of the graduates still do this, there is nevertheless a considerable number who take up occupations of a very different sort. Most prominent of these perhaps, are the former Radcliffe girls, who carry on a good share of the charitable work of great cities. The successor of Mrs. Rebecca Foster, for many years the "Tombs angel" in New York, is Miss Ada Eliot, not long ago a student at the women's college at Cambridge. One graduate of Radcliffe is head worker at Hartley House, in New York city; another holds a similar position in the Neighborhood settlement carried on by students and teachers of Pratt institute, in Brooklyn; a third, who was graduated in 1895, is assistant secretary of the State Charitable Aid Association of New York, which has a kind of advisory oversight of all charitable and penal institutions on the continent; still another is at the head of the Friendly Aid House maintained by All Souls' church in the metropolis.

There are also a few trained nurses among Radcliffe graduates, and some of the girls who have taken up secretarial work have shown marked ability. As a rule, commercial life does not seem to make a strong appeal to these college graduates. In fact, only one downright business undertaking appears in the records. That is a partnership between a former Radcliffe student and a girl friend from the same town in the south who started in Boston a laboratory kitchen where, as a beginning, scientific baking was done. This start has now developed into two very successful restaurants in the New England capital.

SHOE BAG.

Footwear Receptacle to Hang Inside the Closet Door.

To make a pretty shoe bag take one yard of wide red and cream bedticking. Cut from one side enough to leave the piece twenty-two inches in width. Face this on the back with turkey red calico. A pocket (1) for hose is made of turkey red box plaited to the bottom of the larger piece. Stitch this to the foundation, gathering the extra fullness at the top of the pocket.



HANDY SHOE BAG.

Take the ticking which was cut from the side and bind it with black velvet (that from an old hat answers nicely), then fold it into four parts. Box plait the bottom and stitch to the foundation. This makes four (2) pockets for shoes. Turn over each of the top corners and fasten with a bow of red ribbon. A brass ring is secured at the top to hang the bag by. Fasten it to the inside of clothespress door. The illustration will make the idea clear.

A Swarm of Household B's.

Be careful. Care prevents many dropped stitches and bad breaks. Be careful.

Be prompt. Slackness makes slovenly homes and weary world wanderers. Be prompt.

Be faithful. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." Be faithful.

Be cheerful. Cheerfulness tends to length of days and to days that are worth the lengthening. Be cheerful.

Be thoughtful. Thoughtfulness is too tender a plant of blessed fragrance and beauty to be "born unseen," etc. Be thoughtful.

Be good humored. Good humor is better than medicine, no matter how well the ill natured pill be sugar coated. Be good humored.

A Jar Holder.

When the mater on her silver wedding anniversary received among other pretty things a silver marmalade jar, we all admired it and all asked, "But what is the hole in the bottom for?" No one could tell us, so we placed the jar (?) on the sideboard, not daring to use it, for we did not know what to do about "the hole in the bottom," and we did not find out until several months had passed, when the cousin from Boston came to visit us and told us it was not really a jar, but a holder into which we slipped the glass of jelly or marmalade which, when emptied, was easily removed by pressing upward through "the hole in the bottom" until the glass was raised above the top of the holder

AN INFANT'S BATH.

The Way the Baby Should Be Carefully Cleansed Every Day.

An infant should be bathed once a day all over, and the groins and buttocks should be sponged as often as is necessary.

The temperature of an infant's bath should invariably be tested with a bath thermometer. The hand is never a safe judge. One hundred degrees F. is the proper temperature for a tiny baby's bath. When three months old a temperature of 95 degrees is preferable. A bath should never be too hot. The temperature of the room in which baby is to be bathed should be about 70 degrees F., and there should be no drafts. The infant should be undressed quickly and laid on nurse's or mother's lap on a double bath blanket and soaped all over with a piece of flannel, special care being exercised to get between the folds of skin where secretions are apt to accumulate. After soaping the infant is placed in the bath and the soap quickly washed off. This should not require more than one or two minutes, though the time may be lengthened for the baby to remain in the water as it grows older. After bathing the baby should be dried with a soft towel and quickly and comfortably dressed. After this operation the baby is usually ready for breakfast and then a nap. Infants should be kept out of doors as much as possible in the daytime, and if they are properly clothed there will be less possibility of their taking cold than if they are kept indoors, coddled and raised as hothouse plants.

THE GIRL THAT LAUGHS.

Not the Giggler, but the Girl That Laughs and Means It.

Girls spend considerable time trying to find out how to be popular. It is natural that a girl should seek approval and admiration. Her popularity means a good time, boxes of candy, theaters, dances, flowers—everything that the hearts of the young delight in.

The girl that is popular is the girl who laughs—not the girl that simpers and puckers or giggles, but the girl that laughs and means it. The girl that laughs can have candy and flowers and theaters every day in the week.

Men flock about her. They adore her. She laughs herself straight into the hearts of beaus and admirers and straight into all the good times that a girl can dream of.

She laughs, but she is careful when she laughs. She laughs with her beaus, but never at them. She laughs at what they say when they say it, but never afterward. She laughs at their jokes, but never about them. She never laughs at any one's blunders or misfortunes.

Women forget to worry when they hear the cheerful girl's laugh. Old men are warmed at the sound of it. Young men listen and follow it, pay court to it, marry it, for it is the laugh that keeps the heart young, the laugh that keeps the face bright.—Kansas City World.

HOW SHE KEEPS YOUNG.

She eats three warm meals at regular hours.

She never rides when she can walk the distance comfortably.

She takes fifteen quiet minutes in a darkened room after luncheon.

She doesn't waste her vitality in superfluous and energetic talking.

She is careful to spend at least a half hour every day in the open air.

She begins each day with a cold bath, followed by a glass of cold or hot water.

She sleeps eight hours, and as often as possible two of them before midnight.

She is neither self centered nor family centered, but has a few fresh outside interests to keep her live and thoughtful.

She never lets herself moan over the past nor worry about the future, but makes the best of the present and keeps sweet and cheerful.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Managing Servants.

In the first place, don't find fault—that is, do not complain or whine or nag. Do not say: "Mary, I don't see why you can't remember. I am sure I get tired of telling you again and again. Now, if I were in your place," etc., whereupon Mary replies saucily, and there is a scene from which you depart incensed, yet humbly, lest Mary leave then and there. Guard your tone. Be firm and businesslike, but cheerful. Impart an air of finality to your remarks. "It would please me to have you do so and so" or "I think it would be better that this be done in this way." If it is said kindly, but firmly, it usually commands respect and, moreover, gives little occasion for reply. Finally, don't always enter the kitchen with a complaint. It creates an unpleasant relation between employed and employer.—Boston Cooking Magazine.

Treatment of Burns.

In a serious burn as soon as the fire is extinguished the clothes must be removed. If not already thoroughly wet, the injured part should be drenched with water and the clothes cut away. Everything must be sacrificed to getting them off without pulling, as the slightest dragging may bring the skin off too. If patches of the clothing adhere and will not drop off, they must be allowed to remain. Dip cloths in a thick solution of common washing soda in water and lay them over the burned surface, bandaging lightly to keep them in place. As soon as a dry spot appears on this dressing, wet it with the soda and water by squeezing some on it. There will be no smarting while it is saturated and excludes the air.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

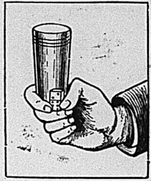
A BIT OF JUGGLING.

Clever Trick With the Backgammon Board, Dice and Cup.

Take from the backgammon board the two dice and the dice cup or shaker. Hold the cup in your right hand by putting your thumb and second finger around the bottom of it, at the same time holding one of the dice with the tips of the same finger and thumb. Next put the other die on top of the one you are holding. You will of course need the aid of your left hand in arranging the dice and cup in your right.

Now by a quick upward movement of your right hand send the top die flying up into the air and as it comes down catch it in the cup.

Now comes the real trick—to get the other die in the cup also. If you try to do this by throwing the die upward as you threw the first one you may catch it in the cup all right, but at the same time you will be pretty sure to throw the first one out of the cup. As for catching both together as they come down, you will find that almost impossible. The proper way to get the second die into the cup without losing the one that is already there is to let your hand drop suddenly, at the same time letting go the die which you have been holding.



HOW TO HOLD THE DICE.

The die will drop, too, but not as rapidly as your hand, so that you will have no difficulty in getting the cup under it and catching it.

ANIMAL WONDERS.

The Way Some Wild Creatures Hide From Their Enemies.

Nature has strange and wonderful ways of helping her wild creatures to protect themselves from their enemies. She teaches them how to hide so that hardly the sharpest eye can discover their whereabouts, even though they are not covered up at all. There is a bird—its name is ptarmigan—which in the winter time wears pure white plumage, so that when the snow is on the ground the bird can hardly be distinguished from it. In summer time the ptarmigan grows a new set of feathers which exactly match the dull mosses and weeds where it is usually to be found. There are birds' nests which are so like the tree limbs that hold them as to deceive the keenest eye, and other nests closely resemble the mosses or the ground upon which they rest. Insects there are, too, no end of them, which are to be found, if one has the skill to see them, upon foliage or branches having exactly the same coloring as themselves. One of the most curious of these creatures which are so well protected by their coloring from discovery is a butterfly discovered by a naturalist in the jungles of Borneo. When flying it shows the most brilliant hues upon its wings, but when it settles upon a bush it can scarcely be distinguished from the leaves about it.

Game of Duplicate Letters.

Here is a game that can be started at a moment's notice anywhere and that will make fun for many a quarter of an hour that otherwise would lag.

One girl propounds a question such as:

"If I were a lamp post, what would you do with me?"

The girl whose turn is next must answer with a sentence that shall have at least three words in it that begin with the same letter as the noun "lamp post." For instance, she might reply:

"I would leap loyally to light you."

The next girl may ask:

"Will you lend me a dollar?"

The reply may be:

"I dare say I would donate it if I were not so dolefully poor."

The answers that are made on the spur of the moment are often so ludicrous that they would make an owl laugh.

Fish and the Sixth Sense.

It is stated that there are some indications that fishes possess a sixth sense, the organs of which are the pores of the head and of the latteral band. This band is a row of little canals connected with the external world by holes through the scales. In these cavities, under which runs a large nerve, are found nerve heads or terminations like those of other sense organs. The use of this apparatus is unknown.

A Thrilling Fact.

"Suppose," said the wise orator—"though
'tis a thought stupendous—
Suppose a baby one year old with arms of the tremendous
Length of ninety-three odd million miles
Should, in a freak of fun,
Reach up and touch the sun!
That child would be
Two hundred and fifty-three Years old,
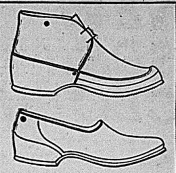
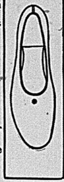
I'm told,
Before it learned
Its hand was burned!" —St. Nicholas.

FOR THE
PROTECTION OF THE PUBLIC

PUNCHED

RUBBERS





A hole PUNCHED in a Rubber indicates that it is a Factory Imperfect or Out of Style or in some way inferior and liable to prove unsatisfactory.

In order that these may be distinguished from perfect goods they are PUNCHED as indicated in illustration shown herewith.

Purchasers of Rubber Footwear should see that goods represented to them as perfect, and up-to-date, are Not Punched.

PUNCHED RUBBERS

9 PER CENT. DIVIDENDS
Paid for the Past SIX YEARS by the
EMPIRE LOAN CO., (Incorporated 1897) HEAD OFFICE, WINNIPEG.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT THAT IS SAFE.

Since the Empire Loan Co. was incorporated it has made the most of the many opportunities afforded by the wonderful development of Western Canada.

But, while the Company's past experience has been entirely encouraging—as its dividends prove—there is unquestionably an infinitely greater prosperity assured for it in the future:—

Why? Simply because the unlimited possibilities of the Vast West have, so far, scarcely even been tapped: What Western development we have seen is but a faint shadow of the Gigantic Transformation inevitable in the comparatively near future; in fact, even now Western Canada is on the eve of one of those great movements which, in an incredibly short time built up great and prosperous cities and peopled the lone prairies of the Western States.

Management: Expert Management is the guarantee demanded by the experienced investor, because it is vitally essential to the stability and success of any financial institution: The Empire Loan Company is directed by prominent men of wide business and financial experience; and the success they have achieved for it is the strongest evidence of their ability, for the Company now stands in the front rank of Western financial concerns.

Investments: The Company's funds are entirely invested in the best of all securities—First Mortgages on Improved Real Estate.

Stock: The Company is essentially a Western one. Its shareholders may be found in almost any city, town or village in Western Canada; and its stock is confidently purchased by those seeking a Perfectly Safe Investment for their savings at a High Rate of Interest.

A limited amount of Permanent Stock is still available at the Par Value of $100 Per Share. Shares may be paid for in full, or in four equal quarterly instalments of $25 per share

Earnings: The Company earns from 8 to 10 per cent. per annum; dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. being paid Half-yearly. Profits in excess of this amount are credited to the shareholders at the Annual Meeting, the Actual Dividends Paid During the last Six Years being 9 Per Cent. Per Annum.

For particulars and copy of annual statement address

PARKER & CO., Stock and Share Brokers, 61 VICTORIA STREET, TORONTO

K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K

STRICTURE CURED
YOU CAN PAY WHEN CURED.
NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
STRICTURE AND KIDNEY DISEASE CURED.

G. E. WRIGHT.

"I had stricture for eleven years. It finally brought on Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I had an uncomfortable shooting pain in the groin and feeling as though something was in the urethra. My back was weak and I could scarcely stoop over. Urine was full of sediment. Had a desire to urinate frequently. Family doctors, so-called specialists, patent medicines, electric belts, all failed. I was discouraged. I had spent hundreds of dollars in vain. Finally I consulted Drs. Kennedy & Kergan as the last resort. I had heard a great deal about them and concluded from the fact that they had been established over 25 years that they understood their business. I am delighted with the results. In one week I felt better and in a few weeks was entirely cured. Have gained sixteen pounds in weight."
G. E. WRIGHT, Lansing.

ESTABLISHED 25 YEARS.
CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY.

HAS YOUR BLOOD BEEN DISEASED?

BLOOD POISONS are the most prevalent and most serious diseases. They sap the very life blood of the victim and unless entirely eradicated from the system will cause serious complications. Beware of Mercury. It only suppresses the symptoms—our NEW METHOD positively cures all blood diseases forever.

YOUNG OR MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—Imprudent acts or later excesses have broken down your system. You feel the symptoms stealing over you. Mentally, physically and sexually you are not the man you used to be or should be.

READER Are you a victim? Have you lost hope? Are you intending to marry? Has your blood been diseased? Have you any weakness? Our New Method Treatment will cure you. What it has done for others it will do for you. CONSULTATION FREE. No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Charges reasonable. BOOKS FREE—"The Golden Monitor" (illustrated), on Diseases of Men. Sealed Book on "Diseases of Women" Free

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. Everything Confidential. Question List for Home Treatment Free

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN
Cor. Michigan Ave. and Shelby St., Detroit, Mich.

K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K K&K

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to	$18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to	13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to	15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

SPICE
SOUP
FLOUR
TEA
EGGS

ONE DOLLAR

buys more Groceries at our store than anywhere else in town. Special prices in Canned Goods, crisp Crackers in packages or by the pound, fine Flour and Granulated Sugar.

THE EXTRA GOOD QUALITY

of everything we sell makes these special prices a matter of importance to every careful buyer.

W. R. CARNRITE.

New arrival of fresh Dairy Butter at 25c lb.

Glove Sale

Don't think for a moment that winter has deserted us—and Gloves are still as necessary as they are fashionable.

$1.50 Gloves for	-	$1.15
1.25 Gloves for	-	1.00
1.00 Gloves for	-	.79
.75 Gloves for	-	.59
.50 Gloves for	-	.39

Chas. J. Symons,

successor to W. B. Deacon.

Shirts Made to Order. 208 Front St.

Youth and Freshness

Is the feeling one has after taking a box or two of WATERS' RED IRON BLOOD PILLS.

None better as a TONIC and BUILDER.

25c box—5 boxes $1.00.

WATERS

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

The breath of suspicion is often flavored with cloves.

Cranberries are astringent and correct the liver when it is suffering from inaction caused by over-eating.

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anlgo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.

For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.

As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.

Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

Public Notice

Applications for license to sell liquor in the West Riding of Hastings during the license year 1905-06 must be lodged with the Inspector at his office on Front street, in the City of Belleville, on or before the first day of April.

Blank forms for application and all necessary information can be had at my office.

JAMES ST. CHARLES,
Inspector.

Belleville, March 8, 1905.

8-11-15

Died at Marchmont Home.

Lewis Lewis, a young man 21 years of age, died at the Marchmont Home this morning after a lingering illness from lung trouble. The deceased, who was born in England, was brought out to this country two years ago. He had been about the institution since his arrival.

Charged With Fraud.

A young man named Albert Wellman, of Huntingdon, who was arrested on a charge of fraud, will have a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Flint on Saturday. The accused is at present out on bail. It is charged that Wellman procured from Mr. W. R. Mitts a threshing machine engine and gave a note in payment for the same. It is now alleged that the note is of no use, as it was given by a minor, as Wellman is under 21 years of age. In addition to giving the note it is alleged that Wellman made false representations when he procured the engine.

TO KNOCK OUT COLDS

And cure them in an hour without resorting to nauseous drugs just use fragrant, healing Catarrhozone—the most pleasant, prompt and certain cure for colds ever discovered. No medicine to take, you simply breathe the balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone. It never fails to root out the worst colds and is so simple and convenient to use that no one can afford to be without it. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you won't have colds. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.

S. B. Carman, Manager.

TUESDAY, MAR. 14

E. H. SOTHERN'S greatest success, H. C. DeMille's and David Belasco's delightful comedy . . .

Lord Chumley

With Cecil DeMille supported by an exceptionally capable company.

340 Nights in New York, 250 Nights in Boston. 200 Nigts in Chicago.

—Management Mrs. H. C. DeMille.—

Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1 00

Plan Opens Saturday Morning.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

Thursday afternoon at 3, the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. will be held.

Friday night the Debating Club will meet and listen to a debate, Resolved "That a mechanical pursuit offers equal advantages with a mercantile pursuit of life." Affirmative, Messrs. Cook and Brooks; negative, Messrs. Waterson and Sprague.

On Sunday afternoon Rev. Mr. Laidlaw will start a series of talks to men. His subject for this week, "True Success," should interest every young man in the city.

At the gym. class on Tuesday night the new game ring hockey was tried with considerable success. There is just enough of the element of roughness combined with a chance for scientific play to win the hearts of the lovers of many sport. Carrom shots and quick passing, with very little body checking, make this game one of the most fascinating team games in the whole catalogue of sports. The class work on Saturday night will be followed by recreative games and basket-ball.

Surprise Party.

A number of friends from town drove to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Gilbert, second concession of Thurlow, last night, to bestow a surprise party on the host and hostess. And they did, at the same time receiving a cordial welcome. The party were dressed in old-time costumes, some of which were decidedly striking. Games, music and a bountiful supper helped to while away the hours and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all.

SICK AT YOUR STOMACH.

Perhaps feeling as if the bottom had dropped out of your life. It's Nerviline you want. Nothing restores quiet and order to the stomach so quickly. All squeamishness and nausea goes away the minute you take Nerviline and an extra dose or two is always sufficient to set you up in first-class shape. Nerviline is an old tested remedy for stomach and bowel troubles and always can be relied on. Sold in large 25c. bottles.

Think the Bay Bridge Should Be Made Free.

MEMBERS OF BOARD OF TRADE SO EXPRESS THEMSELVES LAST NIGHT — TRANSPORTATION MATTERS ON BAY OF QUINTE DISCUSSED — HOW TRADE HAS BEEN DIVERTED FROM THIS CITY TO OTHER BAY PORTS.

A regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening in the Police Court room, owing to the Council chamber being engaged. There were but few members present, and the meeting was not extended to an unseasonable hour. During the session some important matters were considered.

Those present were Messrs. C. M. Stork, President; J. P. Thomas, W. H. Gordon, C. M. Reid, W. Alford; D. Carlow, of Peterboro; Col. Ponton, C. J. Bowell, C. Clapp, T. J. Blackburn, A. E. Lewis and C. B. Scantlebury.

A communication was read from the Department of Railways and Canals at Ottawa, stating that the engineer's reports in reference to the contemplated routes of the Trent Valley Canal had not yet been made public.

A communication was read from the Montreal Board of Trade asking the moral support of the Belleville Board of Trade in reference to abolishing the Trading Stamp system.

As the Board had already written the Montreal Board and explained that the Trading Stamp system was not in vogue in this city, no further action was deemed necessary.

Col. Ponton reported in reference to the resolution of the Board of Trade re change of drill shed site. Matters were going on satisfactorily, and a change of site will probably be made with but little extra expense to the city.

The President read a letter from Mr. W. D. Robb in reference to the communication from the Board as to the establishment, if possible, of car works in this city. The letter in question had been forwarded to Mr. Morse, who was at present on the coast, and a reply had not yet been received from him.

Col. Ponton proposed, as a member of the Board, Mr. Frank Sloan, who was duly elected.

Mr. Carlow, of Peterboro, addressed the Board at considerable length, stating that he was endeavoring to form a joint stock company for the purpose of buying, fitting up and operating the Lingham grist mill. He had not been encouraged in the enterprise and thought the Board might take some action in the matter. He predicted it would be money well invested.

The President and Col. Ponton stated that the Board could not in any way take stock, but the individual members could do so if they desired. It might be a paying concern. The Colonel, in his remarks about industries generally, intimated that there were good prospects that the rolling mills would again be placed upon a sound financial basis and soon be running.

THE DIVERSION OF TRADE.

Mr. C. B. Scantlebury stated that at one time Belleville storekeepers enjoyed a business from farmers residing at Northport and Big Island, but this trade had now been diverted to Deseronto and Picton. The cause for this was the increase of from 35 cents to 50 cents charged by boats conveying passengers to the city and also the establishing of a ferry route on that part of the bay. Picton had given a bonus to those who were interested in the ferry business, in order to bring trade to that town. Owing to the increased boat rates we were losing trade which we formerly had. Belleville might, perhaps, do something to induce this trade to come here again. The cheese trade in the places named was also going to Picton. The toll upon the bay bridge had also much to do in keeping trade from the city, and he thought that something might be done towards making it a free bridge.

Mr. Stork was of the opinion that something at least might be done in the way of getting cheaper transportation to the city in the summer by the boat routes.

Mr. Lewis said that this was a very important matter, and especially to the business men of the city. He would be in favor of recouping the farmers from Prince Edward County who came to the city and had to pay toll. It would, however, be much better if the bridge could be secured and made free.

Mr. C. M. Reid said the toll on the bridge was keeping trade away from the city. An effort should be made to have that bridge under our control and make it a free bridge. It is a tax to the farmers who have to use the bridge during the summer season. The constituency was near us and its people were rich, but the trade is diverted from the city.

The President stated that the Government might be induced to take over the bridge and make it free. It was worth trying for.

Col. Ponton was in favor of some action being taken along this line. The City Council might also be asked to co-operate in this matter. Trade was not only being diverted from the city to the places named, but it was also going to Trenton, whereas it should come here.

Mr. Blackburn was heartily in favor of something being done in reference to this matter, which was of vital importance to the merchants of Belleville.

TWO IMPORTANT MOTIONS.

Moved by C. B. Scantlebury, seconded by Mr. A. E. Lewis, that the Council of this Board of Trade, after having received reports from the committee herein named, do with this committee wait upon the Belleville City Council at its next regular meeting, or as soon afterwards as is possible to obtain an audience with the said City Council, to bring before the said City Council the matter of water transportation up and down the Bay of Quinte, in connection with the bringing to our market patrons, in such a way as has been brought before the Board this night. The committee shall consist of Messrs. C. M. Reid, C. S. Clapp, Col. Ponton, the mover and seconder.—Carried.

Moved by C. B. Scantlebury, seconded by A. E. Lewis, that Mr. W. H. Gordon, Mr. C. S. Clapp, Col. Ponton and the mover and seconder be a committee to look into the possibilities in connection with the securing of the abolition of the toll on the bay bridge, or to see what arrangements could be made in any way with the proprietors to secure for the city this as a free bridge, either temporarily or otherwise, and that this committee report to the Belleville Board of Trade at their next regular meeting.—Carried.

This was all the business brought up and the Board adjourned.

A LOCAL WEATHER PROPHET.

CHALLENGES THE PREDICTIONS OF REV. IRL R. HICKS, AND DISPLAYS CONSIDERABLE LEARNING IN ASTRONOMICAL LORE.

Belleville, March 7th, 1905.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—Concerning the prognosticated "blizzard" on the 21st inst., I beg to observe that according to the rules of "weather judges" we may on the contrary anticipate fine weather. The rule affecting this is: "The nearer to midnight when the moon becomes full, the finer the weather, and the farther from midnight the worse." Now, the last full moon in February occurred near the middle of the day, on Sunday, the 19th ult., and you may remember the stormy time we had with our "Lady of the Snows." Again, the new moon in February was on Saturday, the 4th, and the old adage is:

"Saturday's new and Sunday's full Never brought fair weather and never will."

Now, for March the moon becomes full on the 20th inst., very near to midnight (within four minutes). So by the rule first quoted, if there is any truth in it, we ought to have very fair weather. We shall soon know whether the "blizzard" or the "balmy" appears about the 21st inst.

Yours, etc.,
W. R. BIGG,
Grove street.

In the Justice Shop.

THE SNOW BY-LAW.

A. Robinson was summoned for neglecting to clean snow from off the sidewalk in front of property owned by him on Commercial and Charlotte streets. As he promised to have the snow removed immediately the case was enlarged until Friday.

NO OTHER MAKER'S GOODS.

Clark's Delicious Pork and Beans, Potted meats and Corned Beef are the standard throughout Canada.

MR. PATRICK O'BRIEN HAS RESIGNED OFFICE.

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS AS CARETAKER OF THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS HE STEPS DOWN AND OUT.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Toronto, March 8—Patrick O'Brien, for eighteen years caretaker of the Ontario Parliament buildings, has sent in his resignation.

Hon. Dr. Reaume said this morning that nothing had been yet done to appoint his successor.

Mr. O'Brien came here from Belleville to take charge of the old Parliament Buildings. He is the best known figures around the Legislative pile in the Queen's Park. The salary has been $900 and perquisites, with apartments in the buildings included.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago, during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Time changes all things—with the exception of comic opera jokes.

The real "stuff" in a man shows when he loses his job. One man is panic-stricken, and regales his friends with his misfortune. Another, through timely advertising, secures a better position before his last day in the old one comes around.

Sports and Pastimes

HOCKEY.

Soldiers Were Trimmed.

The hockey match between teams representing the Fifteenth Regiment and the Banking institutions of the city was witnessed by a goodly number of spectators last night. It resulted in a victory for the Bankers, who scored 4 goals to their opponents' one. It was a pleasing match and free from roughness. Mr. W. S. Conger was referee and performed his duties to the satisfaction of both teams. The line-up was as follows:

Fifteenth.		Bankers.
	Goal
Walker		Williamson
	Point
Carman		Morton
	Cover
Allen		R. Hamilton
	Centre
McFee		White
	Rover
Burke		W. Hamilton
	Right Wing
Wallbridge		Tassie
	Left Wing
Fish		Allan

The Gentle Peterboros.

Berlin, March 7.—The management of the Berlin Hockey Club have read with surprise the article in the Toronto papers re the Berlin-Peterboro game at Peterboro on Friday night last, to which they only have this to say: Peterboro has the dirtiest hockey team in Canada, at least, the dirtiest their team has ever played against in all their experience of hockey playing.

At no stage of the game was Peterboro Berlin's equal as far as hockey went, but they did excel the Berlin team in one respect, which they did to perfection, and that was chopping and slashing Berlin players players over their hands, head and body, without fear of Referee Elliott, who claimed he was powerless, and was not going to take chances on his life.

The slashing over the hands, head and body with hockey sticks indulged in only by the Peterboro players was sickening to look at, and a disgrace to humanity, and not what the sport is intended for. As a Peterboro citizen remarked: "This is no hockey. Peterboro boys ought to be arrested and put out of the game for good." Also, Referee Elliott remarked when told not to allow such brutality; "What can I do? There are six men on that Peterboro team doing nothing but tripping and chopping, trying to see if they cannot put Berlin out of the business. The only thing I can do is to call the game off."

There was not a man on the Berlin team who was not bruised and marked all over his body when stripped after the game, from the effects of the hockey sticks in the hands of the Peterboro players.

The management of the Berlin Hockey Club have notified the O.H.A. that they will never again allow their team to play against the Peterboro team, and that in the interests of the game, the Peterboro hockey team ought to be put out of the game for good, as a few games like the one in Peterboro will kill the sport for all time to come.

Rat Portage All The Way.

Ottawa, March 7. — The champion Ottawa hockey team, holders of the Stanley Cup, were to-night decisively and disastrously beaten in the first match of the series for that historic trophy with the Thistles of Rat Portage. The westerners triumphed over the pride of the east by tripling the score, or, to be exact, 9 goals to 3, in a match which was fought out with a speed and determination seldom witnessed in the capital, the scene of many a hockey battle in recent history. During the early stages of the game there was little to choose between the gladiators, but towards the end of the first half the pace commenced to tell on the champions, and this period ended with the score 4 to 2 against them.

The first goal of the second half was long drawn out and stubbornly contested, and not until a quarter of an hour's play had gone by were the westerners successful in finding the net. From that to the end the Ottawa line was dead to the world, and gave the defence little or no assistance, while Rat Portage stayed with the pace until the last gasp. Ottawa's defeat is, in part at least, explained by the fact that McGee and Gilmour were not on the team, McGee through an injured wrist and Gilmour declining to go on. These men were replaced by two junior players, Shore and Gaul of the City League, and, while they did nobly, it was of no avail in such swift company. The weak spots threw an extra amount of work on the other forwards, and the result was that they were fagged out before their time.

McGee and Gilmour will, in all probability, be on the team on Thursday night, and, while it will undoubtedly make a vast difference in the Ottawa team, the general impression in the capital is that the champions cannot be strengthened sufficiently to withstand the challengers, and that the Stanley Cup will go westward.

Smith's Falls Had a Fall.

Peterboro, March 7. — By a score of 9 to 3 the Marlboros of Toronto won the senior championship of the O.H.A. to-night from Smith's Falls. The half-time score was 2 to 2. The result clearly demonstrated that the Toronto team was head and shoulders above the Easterners. They outplayed them at all stages and shot three to one. It was a gratifying score to the supporters of the Marlboros, and showed that if the rough play had been cut out in the second game at Smith's Falls, the Marlboros would have won. Last year's champions were without the services of Winchester, who could not play on account of parental objections. Andrews, of the Marlboros' intermediates, replaced Winchester, and the former Bank League player was a prominent factor in the victory.

No game has ever been played in Peterboro which has excited so much interest. At 7.30 tickets for the gallery were sold as high as $5 each. Hundreds were turned away, and only a bold rush carried the doors for the Toronto crowd of five hundred, which arrived at 8 o'clock. Four hundred from Smith's Falls, all Peterboro, and many outsiders were packed into the rink like sardines. The gate amounted to over $700 and each team will receive about $175. It was a fair, impartial crowd, with sympathies, if any, with the Marlboros. The local people got down hook, line, sinker and cork on the Toronto team at odds of 6 to 5, and cleaned up a goodly pile. Toronto bettors had little or no chance to place their money.

It was a good game on good ice. The better team won by better hockey. Referee Fraser, of Galt, had a difficult task. He was equal to it. His work was the best seen this year. He missed little in the way of offsides and loafing, and the "rough house artists" were benched without fear or favor.

SPORTING NOTES.

That much-coveted piece of silverware, the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the hockey championship of Canada, appears due for a change of residence. The Rat Portage Thistles last night showed their class by defeating the redoubtable Ottawas, on their own ice, by a score of 9 to 3, and in this case the unexpected did not happen. It seems to be the old story, "Youth will be served." The western lads are all young and lusty, and they play, with a vim and dash that the Ottawa veterans might, perhaps, have equalled once upon a time, but not now. It is possible, of course, that the Senators may turn the tables in to-morrow night's game, but the betting men are liable to give long odds on the "Rats," which will certainly be justified. Most people will hail the westerners' victory with pleasure. Not that the Ottawa men failed in any requisite of true sportsmanship, but the cup has been in the Capital long enough. It was time for a change, and the change is pretty nearly a foregone conclusion. Good luck to the boys from New Ontario, whose victory is all the more creditable inasmuch as six of their team have grown up in Rat Portage and cannot be called "birds of passage."

If the Thistles win the cup and take it home, the next challengers in line, the Ramblers, of Amherst, Nova Scotia, will have a merry little jaunt after the mug.

The hopes of Smith's Falls sustained a severe fall in Peterboro last night, when the Marlboros handed it to them to the tune of 9-3. Many of the wise ones went astray in their predictions, for somehow it was thought by a lot of prophets that Smith's Falls was going to win. The Marlboros finished much the strongest last night, thus helping to strengthen the claim that they were not "played out" in Smith's Falls, but simply hammered into subjection. Most Belleville people have little love for the Marlboros, but this, it would appear, is a victory for clean hockey over the "rough house" game, so here's a bunch of congratulations to little "Herby" Birmingham and his crowd of cripples. The Smith's Falls challenge for the Stanley Cup is unavoidably postponed.

Two juvenile teams, the Red Wings and the Beavers, played a tie game last night, 5 all.

Unbiased judges say that Ottawa was outclassed in the great game last night. The Rats have the Indian sign on the Senators.

The first game in the O.H.A. intermediate finals takes place in Victoria Harbor to-night. It should be easy for Berlin.

Science at Last Cures Cancer

Because operations and plasters have failed to cure Cancer, there is no reason that it should be called incurable. Our Vegetable Cancer Cure is a Constitutional Remedy that has cured innumerable cases of all kinds of Cancer. Pleasant to take, safe and sure. May be used in privacy of home without the knowledge even of one's own family. Send 6 cents for booklet "Cancer, its Cause and Cure."

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

FINE COMEDY COMING.

One of the New York newspapers recently said: "It is to be hoped for their own sake that lovers of comedy outside of the big eastern cities will avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing the greatest of all American comedies, "Lord Chumley," the play in which E. H. Sothern scored his first great success and which is to be revived by Cecil De Mille, youngest son of the late Henry C. De Mille, who in collaboration with David Belasco, wrote the play for Sothern." It is said that Mr. De Mille has surrounded himself with a very competent company, which will interpret the fine comedy here on Tuesday, March 14.

Daily Intelligencer.

Tobler's Swiss Milk Chocolate

In 5c packages.
In 10c packages.
In 15c packages.
In 20c packages.
Just in.

Chas. S. Clapp

Take the Elevator Please!

It is faster than walking up stairs.

McKeown's Calisaya Hypophosphites is an elevator from the basement of sickness to the top story of health.

Don't try the long way.

Do you want rosy cheeks? Do you want that reserved feeling of strength? Do you want to be vigorous as a young sapling?

Get this greatest of tonics.

It cures quickly.

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,

Sole Agent for Belleville. 338
Tel 39. Front St.

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

FRED MANN IS MISSING

He Is an Insurance Agent and Foul Play Is Feared.

District Agent of Equity Life Assurance Co. at Midland Has Not Been Seen Since 10.30 O'Clock on Friday Night—No Reason Known Why He Should Voluntarily Disappear—Optimistic and Doing Well.

Midland, March 8.—Fred Mann, the District Agent of the Equity Life Assurance Co., has not been seen since Friday night at 10.30, when he left the Y.M.C.A. to see a prospect at the Canada Iron Furnace Co., across the bay. He reached there, and fears are entertained that he has met with foul play, as air holes in the bay are fenced about.

Enquiry shows that there was no premeditation of anything rash, as Mann was of an optimistic disposition and was doing well. His family relations were most harmonious. He leaves a wife and two small children.

He was an active member of the Y. M. C. A. During last year he was a successful organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Any information throwing any light on his whereabouts will be gladly received by Secretary Hess of the Y.M.C.A.

SKULL BROKEN BY FALL.

Markham Girl Meets Sudden Death on Cellar Stairs.

Markham, Ont., March 8.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday morning at Mount Joy, a suburb of Markham. Miss Lizzie Thornton, daughter of the late John Thornton, living with her widowed mother, while coming from the cellar with eatables for the breakfast, and when nearly to the top of the stairs, was, it is supposed, seized with a fainting spell, to which she was subject, and fell backward to the cellar floor and broke her skull, and was dead when found.

Killed at Dauphin.

Winnipeg, Man., March 8.—A. Bennett, brakeman, aged 26, was killed at Dauphin yesterday morning. While making up a train his head was squeezed between the buffers. His parents reside at Stratford, Ont.

Falls Down a Shaft.

Toronto, March 8.—W. B. MacNabb of Los Angeles, Cal., whose father was Alex. MacNabb, Police Magistrate of Toronto for a number of years, fell 50 feet down a well shaft at Angeles Vista on Feb. 25th, and though a heavy platform on which he had been standing, and iron and earth descended upon him, he sustained only a broken arm.

Elevated Car Overturns.

Chicago, March 8.—Overturning high in the air, on the Lake Street Elevated Railroad yesterday, a passenger coach with 80 persons aboard escaped being dashed to the granite pavement below. One woman was pinioned on the tracks within a few inches of the dealy electric third rail, and though finally extricated alive, she is fatally injured. Forty other passengesr were injured, but not seriously.

FAIRLY GONE MAD!

is a modest way of telling of the torture that thousands of people have suffered from Skin Diseases—before they learned of that wonderful healer Dr. Agnews Ointment.

But "gone wild with joy" only faintly expresses the deep meaning in the thankful hearts that have been relieved from skin tortures by this greatest of skin healers. Have you Piles? Salt Rheum? Eczema? Ring-worm? Pimples? Has baby got Scald Head? Have you any eruption of the skin? One application of Dr. Agnew's Ointment will help—a few will cure—it never fails. 35 cts. 63

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

VERY SOON

It won't be very long before some early spring wedding causes you to look around to see what you will get your friend.

We are showing some new and pretty pieces in Silverware at very reasonable prices consistent with high class goods.

A very handsome piece is a new cake dish with raised pierced border, silver or gilt centre at $2.50

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. JEWELLER OPTICIAN

POCKET BOOK AND HAND BAG SALE.

We have about 500 sample Purses, Pocket Books and Hand Sachels, Traveller's samples, bought at less than half the regular price. We will clear them out in three lots:

LOT 1 Will be - - 10c
LOT 2 Will be - - 25c
LOT 3 Will be - - - 50c

We will also clear out four gross Dressing Combs, black rubber, the price was 20c, to clear at 10c

We have still a fine lot of the finest patterns of 12½c Print eft, to clear at (per yd.) 10c

We are selling a 10c bar of sweet pink Toilet Soap this week, at 5c or six for 25c

McINTOSH BROS.

A FREE PACKAGE

MUNYON'S PAW-PAW PILLS

I want every person who is bilious or has any stomach or liver ailment to send for a free package of my Paw-Paw Pills. I want to prove that they positively cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Belching, Wind, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, and are an infallible cure for Constipation. To do this I am willing to give millions of free packages. I take all the risk. Sold by druggists for 25 cents a vial. For free package address

MUNYON, Philadelphia

MURDERED IN THEIR BEDS.

Husband and Father of Victims Afraid Neighbors Would Accuse Him.

Danville, Ark., March 8.—A quadruple murder has been committed at Whitely, about 12 miles from Danville, the victims being the wife and three children of James Ince, a farmer in that locality. The dead bodies of the woman and children were found yesterday by neighbors. An axe had been used by the murderer, and the heads of the victims were split open and crushed. The four victims had been slain as they slept. The first news of the tragedy was brought here by Ince. He said his wife and three children had been murdered in their beds, and that he knew the neighbors would accuse him of the crime, and he was afraid he might be mobbed.

OUR PRODUCE IN BRITAIN.

Arrivals and Values of Imports in the Month of February.

London, March 8.—(C. A. P.)—Imports of Canadian produce in Britain during February were as follows:

	Amount.	Value.
Cattle	4,974	£ 87,504
Sheep	1,224	1,915
	Cwts.
Wheat	196,000	68,222
Wheat flour	101,100	51,632
Peas	5,220	1,741
Bacon	59,510	126,109
Hams	4,880	10,989
Butter	423	1,772
Cheese	46,755	121,112

300 Strikers Break Windows.

Chicago, Ill., March 8.—A strike of 300 laborers at the Republic Iron & Steel Works at East Chicago may be followed by a shutdown of the plant. The strikers demanded an increase of 15 cents a day which would make their wages $1.50. Every department of the steel plant was affected, and the first result was an attack on the works during which most of the windows were broken.

Underwriters Cut Expense.

Toronto, March 8.—The Dominion Fire Underwriters' Association has decided to abolish its local Ontario and Quebec branches. This step has been definitely determined upon to go immediately into effect, and is one of the most important measures in the history of fire insurance underwriting in Canada. It looks like a policy of retrenchment.

To Support Balfour.

London, March 8.—The Ulster Unionists last night decided in view of Mr. Wyndham's resignation of the Chief Secretaryship for Ireland and of the pending disappointment of his successor, to support the Government in divisions on the Irish question.

Carnegie Was in Court.

Cleveland, O., March 8.—Mrs. Chadwick came into court yesterday apparently none the worse for her illness, which caused an adjournment of court yesterday afternoon. Andrew Carnegie was in court.

Married Women Barred.

Toronto, March 8.—A married woman cannot sue on behalf of infants or next of kin. The only exception is in the case of a widow, who may sue on behalf of her children. This is the effect of a decision of the Master-in-Chambers yesterday.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Still Continues to Decline—Live Stock—The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, March 7.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d lower than yesterday, and corn futures ¼d to ¼d lower.

At Chicago, May wheat closed 1c lower than yesterday, May corn ⅝c lower, and May oats ⅝c lower.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	113⅞	100⅞
Detroit	118½	100
Toledo	114½	98
St. Louis	111⅝	92⅞
Minneapolis	111⅞	100⅞
Duluth	110¼	100⅞

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—
Wheat, white, bush.	$1 06	to $1 08
Wheat, red bush.	1 06	1 08
Wheat, spring, bush.	1 02	....
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 90	0 92
Barley, bush.	0 52	....
Oats, bush.	0 47	....
Beans, bush.	1 00	1 10
Rye, bush.	0 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush.	0 54	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 7.—Wheat—Spot nominal. Futures steady; March nominal, May 6s 9⅝d, July 6s 9⅝d.

Corn—Spot firm; American mixed, new, 4s 3¼d; American mixed, old, 4s 11½d. Futures steady; March 4s 2⅜d, May 4s 4¼d.

Bacon—Short ribs steady, 36s 6d.

Lard—Prime western, in tierces, firm, 36s; American refined, in pails, steady, 35s.

Cheese—American finest white, firm, 51s; American, finest colored, steady, 52s.

Turpentine Spirits—Steady, 38s 9d.

Receipts of wheat during the past three days, 425,000 centals, including 5000 American.

Receipts of American corn during the past three days, 97,400 centals. Weather dull.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, March 7.—Butter—Easy; receipts, 7624. Street prices: Extra creamery, 30c to 30½c. Official prices: Creamery, common to extra, 24c to 30c; do., held, common to extra, 24c to 29c; state dairy, common to extra, 23c to 28c; western imitation creamery, common to extra, 24c to [illegible].

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 1375.

Eggs—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 6716.

U. S. Treasurer Named.

Washington, March 8.—The President yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Charles H. Treat of New York as Treasurer of the United States.

ONLY TWO TO DATE.

There Are Thirty-Six Charges in the Port Arthur and Rainy River Protest.

Toronto, March 8.—Hugh William Kennedy, Liberal M. P. P.-elect for Port Arthur and Rainy River, to defend his seat to the left of the Speaker, will have to face thirty-six charges of political corruption. That is the number that appears in the petition of William A. Preston, the Fort William manufacturer, and defeated Conservative candidate in the last Provincial election. They include all the electoral sins known to candidates or counsel. Strictly speaking, there are no personal charges, although because of Mr. Kennedy's alleged personal knowledge of corrupt acts of his agents, the petitioner asks for his disqualification for the statutory term of eight years. The petition was received from Port Arthur by Clerk Grant of the Court of Appeal yesterday.

March 11 is said to be the last day for the filing of protests in the more local constituencies. The date will be, perhaps, a week later for the outlying ridings. The statute fixes forty days from the date of the election return to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

So far only the Port Arthur and the Kingston protests are in.

Will Go On With It.

Picton, March 8.—A large number of Conservatives met here on Saturday to consider the advisability of protesting the seat now held by Dr. M. Currie, M. P. P., for Prince Edward. The recount sustained Dr. Currie's majority by five majority, but it was finally decided to go on with the protest.

TEMISKAMING RAILWAY.

Only Question Discussed at Ontario Cabinet Meeting.

Toronto, March 8.—The Ontario Cabinet held a protracted session yesterday, when the main business discussed was the policy of the Government with regard to the Temiskaming Railway. Mr. Whitney announced at its close that he was not in a position to make any definite statement, but, he added, after to-day's session, "the mountain may bring forth a mouse."

Edward C. Gurney, one of the Commissioners, was closeted with the Premier an hour during the morning. If the Government decides to continue the Commission, it seems probable that Mr. Gurney will be chairman, and the other members will be men in sympathy with the Government.

W. H. Hoyle, M. P. P., headed a deputation from North Ontario, which saw the Premier yesterday to protest against any alteration of the route of the James Bay Railway.

Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, promised a deputation from the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario yesterday that the Government would increase its grant to the Association to enable it to do some additional instruction work.

The new Government proposes to enforce the rule requiring that private bills must be filed with the Law Clerk of the Legislature within two weeks of the publication of the notice in The Gazette.

No Special Privileges.

Representatives of the Keen Gun Club from the Peterboro District interviewed Hon. J. J. Foy and Hon. Dr. Reaume yesterday with regard to the Order-in-Council passed during the last moments of the late Government, granting special privileges to Col. Pellatt and others comprising Otonobee Fish and Game Club, to shoot in Rice Lake. The Order-in-Council gives them the exclusive privilege for 21 years for $100 a year over 6,000 acres of the lake, about one-quarter of the surface being included in this concession. The deputation strongly objected to special privileges being allowed to any favored class of the community, and insisting that privileges of shooting game should be extended to all. The Ministers gave a very attentive ear to the representatives of the Keen Gun Club, and it is believed that the Government will hesitate before issuing the lease promised by Premier Ross to his colleagues.

SOMETHING EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW.

Are You the One Woman Neglecting a Mother's or a Wife's Duty, or Are There Countless Thousands.

Many women formerly full of robust vigor, with clear complexions and bright, vivacious spirits find themselves slowly losing their good looks and strength, fading under the influence of an unknown cause, ignorant of their real condition. Just when a woman should be at her best she becomes depressed, fretful, nervous. And why? You ask. She has been so busy planning, has been so absorbed with her social duties, her work has been so continuous, that she scarcely allowed herself a moment's relaxation. She has neglected her health and, where her food formerly seemed to nourish, now she has but little appetite and even what she does eat does not seem to do any good. If you should ask her what the trouble is, she would say, "I am just tired out." But the real cause is constipation and its resulting condition—bad blood. Just think what habitual neglect of the bowels means, sickness instead of good health; nervousness instead of vigor; cheerfulness replaced by depression, happiness by misery. A week's use of Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills in these cases will work wonders. They will regulate the functions of the liver and bowels, immediately unload the congestion, cure the constipation and cleanse the blood of impurities. It is pitiable to see women with no color in their cheeks, without ambition, always tired, with the exuberance and vivacity of youth sapped as by some dreaded vampire, just because nature has been neglected, the bowels have become sluggish and poisonous elements have been absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels regular by using Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. Never allow constipation or a torpid liver to develop. A stitch in time will save mountains of misery, of bad feelings and depression. These little pills are wonderful health givers. They are Nature's true laxative and a positive cure for sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents at all dealers.

All genuine signed W. F. Smith.

SMITHS BUCHU LITHIA PILLS

A POSITIVE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM AND ALL FORMS OF KIDNEY AND BLADDER ILLS.
AT ALL DEALERS—25 CENTS.
A CURE AT THE PEOPLES PRICE.

RECEIVED IN SILENCE

Eloquent Tributes to E. F. Clarke in House of Commons.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. R. L. Borden, Mr. F. D. Monk, Mr. E. B. Osler and Dr. Sproule Speak of Their Late Colleague in Sympathetic Terms—Premier Declared the Late Member Was Strong, But Never Offensive.

Ottawa, March 8.—Eloquent tributes to the worth of the late E. F. Clarke were heard in the House yesterday. The speeches, five in number, were received in impressive silence.

Sir Wilfrid's Tribute.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: The attendance of the House yesterday, Mr. Speaker, was so small that, after conference with my Hon. friend, the leader of the opposition, we both agreed that the moment then would not be opportune to call the attention of the House to the fact that we have lost one of the most prominent members of the House in the person of the late Mr. E. F. Clarke, member for Centre Toronto. The House had been aware that for some weeks past Mr. Clarke had been suffering from an illness which his friends and admirers knew to be severe, but hoped would not be fatal. We all cherished the belief that his strong constitution would be stronger than the disease which was attacking him, but by a strange fatality it so happened that his death occurred on the evening of the very day when the press bulletins informed us he was out of danger, and when it was hoped and believed that within a very short time he would again occupy the seat in this House he held so long and well, but which is to be his no more. Such is the uncertainty of our lives. I am sure that when we parted last session no one would have believed that our late colleague, then so strong and hearty, then in the full flush of health and activity, would have been the first victim in this Parliament of death's relentless hand. This is but another illustration of the old truism that we can never be sure of to-morrow, and that the future is ever full of uncertainty. When Mr. Clarke came here in 1896 he had already achieved in another sphere a very high reputation for ability. He had been long connected with municipal affairs in his own City of Toronto. Of that city he had been several times elected Chief Magistrate, and he had also won for himself a prominent position in the Legislature of his Province. It was therefore no surprise to us, who had followed the politics of Ontario, to find that as soon as he came here he commanded at once a prominent position in this House.

Strong, But Never Offensive.

Those who had the pleasure of sitting with him in the last two Parliaments will bear testimony to my statement that he was one of the ablest debaters we have ever had in a Canadian Parliament; his speeches were always to the point, put in strong, but never offensive language. There is no record that an offensive word ever passed his lips. He had the faculty of making his points as strong as they possibly could be made, without at the same time attacking anybody personally. I well remember the speech he delivered on rather a ticklish, if I may use the expression, subject when resolutions were introduced some years ago in favor of home rule for Ireland. The speech he made on that occasion was to my mind a model in every respect. I did not agree with him in his views, but it would have been impossible to present his case in stronger and more manly language. I need hardly say that his loss is one not only to that side, but to both sides. In saying this I as sure I echo the voices from my side as much as I do those of the other side. We may, therefore, sadly, but in the most united assent, convey to the family of our late colleague the expression of the grief of his colleagues in this House—not only his colleagues of his own party, but also of the party opposed to him in politics—and upon this occasion pay this last tribute of our sincere admiration for his many great qualities and our deep sorrow at his loss.

The Conservative Leader.

Mr. R. L. Borden: O behalf, Mr. Speaker, of those on your left, I wish to thank my Right. Hon. friend, the Prime Minister, for his very feeling and eloquent references to our late colleague, Mr. E. F. Clarke. My Right Hon. friend has said not one word too much in his praise. The death of Mr. Clarke is not only a loss to his party in the House of Commons, but it is, as the Right Hon. gentleman has well said, a loss to the whole House, a loss to his native country, a loss to his Province, and above all a loss to Canada. Mr. Clarke was a man of very earnest and intense conviction, but at the same time he was a man of broad ideas, and had a great, generous heart. He was gifted with unusual powers of clear and vigorous expression, yet with all his intense convictions and earnestness no word of his, as my Right Hon. friend has well said, ever caused any sting of bitterness in the hearts of his political opponents. Those who sat with him in this House as his colleagues from 1896 until his death, especially those on this side of the House, look upon his loss as that of a dear brother. He has passed away in the fullness of his power and in the enjoyment of a love such as it has fallen to the lot of few men in any country to gain among their fellow-countrymen. More than that, he has left behind him a legacy of strong conviction, wise moderation, and above all of intense faith in the future greatness of his country which he loved so well.

Mr. E. B. Osler, Mr. F. D. Monk (Jacques Cartier), and Dr. Sproule also added loving tributes to Mr. Clarke's memory.

Proceedings.

The House yesterday also dealt with estimates for the Prince Edward Island Railway. The House will not sit to-day, as it is Ash Wednesday, and a church holiday in Quebec.

The following bills were introduced yesterday afternoon:

To incorporate the Title, Guarantee and Trust Company.—Mr. Campbell.

To incorporate the Guelph & Georgian Bay Railway Company.—Mr. Guthrie.

MAGIC SODA

OR SALERATUS IS THE BEST.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Hang It

It's the better for it.

Our shelves are loaded with the finest selection of Wall Papers, domestic and imported, which would look much better on your walls than on our shelves.

No trouble to show them.
Prices right.
We do the hanging.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
Phone. 214. Grocers.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

The road to failure is the one that is full of ruts.

Even the hour of adversity only contains 60 minutes.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

It Will Pay

To look over our stock of furniture and note the values we offer this month.

Some are taking advantage and buying now.

UPHOLSTERING. — Mr. Sills is a practical upholsterer and gives personal attention to all work.

UNDERTAKING. — Mr. Sills having had 15 years experience in this branch of the business is thoroughly qualified to give personal service as undertaker and Funeral Director

Store 'Phone 48.

Residence, cor. Queen and John Sts.

B. E. SILLS,
Successor to Reed & Sills.
Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Cleanliness is Next to Godliness.

AND GOOD SOAP is one of the greatest adjuncts to the bath. Just look into our window, ask us the prices, and after a trial you will be surprised at results.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.

PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand

Market Square.

Arthur McGie
MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—
—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store

Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance
—AT—
COLLIP'S.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

The fool never puts off until to-morrow what he shouldn't do at all.

SECURITIES
Of the Highest Class Only
JOHN MACKAY & CO.
Canadian Bank of Commerce Building,
Toronto

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1905. NO. 26.

Burn Our Coal
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens.
THE VERY BEST
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL
LEAVENS

Coughing is an outward sign of inward disease.
Cure the disease with Shiloh's Consumption Cure The Lung Tonic
and the cough will stop.
Try it to-night. If it doesn't benefit you, we'll give your money back.
Prices: 25c. 50c. $1 S. C. Wells & Co. 307 LeRoy, N.Y., Toronto, Can.

THE AUTONOMY BILLS.

Sub-Committee of Cabinet Appointed to Deal With Matter.

Ottawa, March 9.—(Globe Special.)—A sub-committee of the Cabinet has been appointed to deal with the subject of the educational clauses of the autonomy bills. It is expected that they will draft suitable provisions, upon which all parties can agree.

Hockeyist's Collar Bone Broken.

St. Catharines, March 9.—A hockey match was played at Ridley College Rink Wednesday night between teams of lawyers and doctors. The lawyers won by a score of 13 to 9. During the match one of the members of the law team, W. J. Johnston, had his collar bone broken by being knocked against the boards by a strenuous player on the other side.

Cable Breaks, Miners Die.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 9.—By the breaking of a cable in the Shrewsbury coal mine, near Charleston, yesterday, four miners were killed and ten others seriouly hurt. Four of the injured will probably die. Three cars were conveying the miners from work when the cable parted, and the cars were precipitated to the base of the mountain, 1600 feet, with lightning rapidity.

DON'T MISS THIS!
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

Troops Race To Tie Pass.

Oyama Wins Battle of Mukden—Kuropatkin on the Run.

Japanese Are North of Mukden and Russian General and His Army Are in Danger—Aims to Get to Tie Pass, Forty Miles Away, But Both Flanks Are Threatened by Japs—Houses Tremble at Mukden

London, March 9.—Kuropatkin is defeated and is giving ground before the armies of the Japanese. Yesterday he abandoned positions south and southwest of Mukden, burning such of his supplies as he could not carry with him.

The Japanese artillery is thundering at the gates of Mukden, which position the Russians still hold, but which admittedly they are prepared to evacuate, changing their base to Tie Pass, which is 40 miles north of Mukden.

So far as the retreat has progressed it has been orderly. What the Japanese have in store for the defeated army on ite retirement northward remains to be disclosed. There are reports that Gen. Rennenkampff, the foremost cavalry general of the Russian army in Manchuria, has been cut off on the east from the main force, and Japanese troops in increased numbers are said to be in the vicinity of Tie Pass.

The retirement unquestionably cost the Russians dear in the matter of supplies and heavy guns. Neither commanders nor correspondents have yet ventured to estimate the number of killed and wounded in the eleven days' fighting. The Russians' casualties in the fighting Tuesday on the left flank are said to have been fully 7,000.

Beaten in Bloodiest Battle.

Tokio, March 9.—Advices received here indicate that Gen. Kuropatkin is badly beaten in the bloodiest battle of the present war.

Houses Tremble.

Mukden, March 9.—A heavy cannonading is in progress northwest of this city, causing the walls of houses here to tremble. An engagement is in progress at the Imperial Tombs.

Japs North of Mukden.

Mukden, March 9.—A division of Japanese troops has appeared north of Mukden on the heights west of Hushatai Station. The terrific cannonading is in progress and the streets of Mukden rumble as with 10,000 drums.

Why Russians Withdrew.

Mukden, March 9.—The Russian army is leaving positions south and west of Mukden. The withdrawal was necessitated by a heavy concentration of Japanese west and northwest of Mukden.

Retreat Officially Announced.

Tokio, March 9.—It is officially announced that the Russians began retreating yesterday morning. The Japanese armies are pursuing them.

RACING FOR TIE PASS.

Kuropatkin and His Army in Flight, With Japs Following.

St. Petersburg, March 9.—The battle of Mukden has resulted in a Russian defeat. Field Marshal Oyama once more has proven himself one of the greatest masters of offensive strategy since Napoleon, while General Kuropatkin is now engaged in endeavoring to defend his title as a master of successful retreats and bring off his army, with its immense train, safely to Tie Pass, where a position long ago was prepared with this contingency in view.

Both Flanks Threatened.

The problem before the Russian Commander-in-Chief is much more difficult than the one he met successfully at Liaoyang, since now he is threatened on both flanks, his left wing being entangled in a mountainous region far from the railroad. Only to the initiated is the news of the reverse positively known at this time. Emperor Nicholas and high military officers of course were informed by General Kuropatkin's telegram of Tuesday, stating tersely that Mukden must be abandoned, and they received details of the beginning of the withdrawal as they appeared in excised portions of the official despatches given out yesterday.

Began to Run March 6.

From information it is known that Gen. Kuropatkin contemplated retirement before the beginning of the battle, and that he had hoped to accomplish it without a serious combat. The Japanese, however, forced him to accept battle. The double turning movement compelled hom to send the majority part of his reserves to the fighting line and rendered an effective counter stroke out of the question, and the decision to retire was immediately taken on March 6. Withdrawal was actually begun during that night.

The great question now is whether Field Marshal Oyama has entangled the Russians in his strategic net sufficiently to prevent a successful retreat to Tie Pass. Gen. Rennenkampff's force to the eastward admittedly is in great danger of being cut off, and considerable force of Japanese appears to be operating on the Russian right well toward Tie Pass.

Japs Utterly Reckless.

If the Japanese succeed in reaching the railroad and interrupting traffic, if only for a few hours, it may have the greatest consequences for General Kuropatkin, who is now engaged in a literal race with the Japanese to reach a naturally defensible position forty miles northward. All reports indicate that the Japanese were utterly reckless of sacrifices, making attack after attack, especially on the centre and westward against machine guns and infantry fire, which literally mowed down the advancing columns, making human flesh so cheap that the survivors could bastion themselves behind piles of corpses.

Kuropatkin's Head Will Fall.

After this defeat Gen. Kuropatkin's deposition may be regarded as certain. War Minister Sakharoff is picked as his probable successor, though Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaevich or a board of strategists may be entrusted with the direction of affairs. A high military official said last night that the Emperor had had enough of a general whose interpretation of victory was a successful retreat; that Fabian tactics are well enough in their way, but that Kuropatkin went beyond those of Fabius and neglected to take account of favorable opportunities for counterstrokes.

The Capture of Machuntan.

Tokio, March 9.—The following despatch has just been received from the headquarters of the Japanese army in Manchuria: "Our force, which has been engaging a superior force of the enemy in the neighborhood of Machuntun (southeast of Mukden), dislodged the enemy from his positions at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and is now pursuing him northward."

From Gen. Kuroki.

General Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field, via Fusan, March 9.—The Russians Wednesday night, under cover of darkness, evacuated the whole line along the Shakhe River, and are now in full retreat northward. The Japanese infantry is pressing them closely.

Before retreating, the Russians set fire to great heaps of supplies, which burned throughout the night.

The fall of Mukden appears imminent.

The Japanese are pushing the Russians hard on the east.

Back to Somaliland.

Paris, March 9.—A despatch to The Temps from Tananarivo (capital of the Island of Madagascar) says the entire Russian fleet has left the water of Madagascar on its return to Jibutil, French Somaliland.

Two British Steamers Captured.

Tokio, March 9.—The British steamers Venus and Aphrodite, from Cardiff for Vladivostock, have been captured by Japanese warships. Since the war began Japan has taken possession of 32 steamers carrying contraband of war.

M. WITTE RESIGNS.

Says Czar Evinced Lack of Confidence in Him—Russian Strike Spreads—Peasants Revolt.

Berlin, March 9.—The Lokal Anzeiger's St. Petersburg despatch says that M. Witte, President of the Committee of Ministers, has tendered his resignation to the Emperor on the plea that the latter has evinced a lack of confidence in him.

Russian Strike Spreads.

London, March 9.—The directorate of the St. Petersburg strikers, when it learned of the suppression of the Shidlovsky Commission, decided to call upon the Municipal and State Government workmen to join the strike. The directorate is now making no claims regarding working conditions. It is devoting itself solely to paralyzing the State authorities until the political demands of the workmen are granted. It is estimated that 120,000 men are idle in St. Petersburg.

To Avoid Disturbances.

Lodz, March 9.—In consequence of threats of anti-Semitic disturbances, the authorities have induced M. Poznanski, a Jew, to withdraw his orders shutting down his mill indefinitely ,and throwing 6,000 persons out of work. The mill was re-opened yesterday, and the men returned to work.

Russian Peasants Revolt.

London, March 9.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Kieff says that the peasants have risen near Prilepi, in the Government of Kursk. They have looted the estate of Baron Demeyendorf, commander of the Czar's bodyguard, removing 330 tons of grain.

READ THIS EXTRAORDINARY OFFER!

THE

New Idea Woman's Magazine

40c - One Year - 40c

In order to increase the circulation of the New Idea Woman's Magazine, we offer to the first hundred subscribers the

New Idea Woman's Magazine One Year For 40c.

This is the best illustrated Magazine published, containing:—

Practical Styles. Aids in Housekeeping.
Art Needlework. Good Literature.
And Superb Color Plates.

READ THE NEW IDEA WOMAN'S MAGAZINE, FOR SALE AT:—

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

65 Ladies' and Misses' Jackets Worth $6.00 to $9.00 for $2.95.

We have gone through our stock and selected 65 Ladies' and Misses' Black and Colored Cloth Jackets that were $6.00 to $9.00 and will offer them for a few days at .... $2.95 EACH

These are in medium and light weights suitable for spring wear and are in the new styles, mostly close fitting and the Leg of Mutton Sleeves. This is a splendid opportunity to secure a comfortable and fashionable Spring Jacket at less than half value. Come at once and secure first choice out of this lot at this price, they will be picked up very quickly.

WHITEWEAR SALE.

The continuation of the fine spring weather combined with the extra values we are offering, has made our Whitewear Sale a grand success.

Everyday our mantle department has been filled with ladies anxious to see and purchase the beautiful garments which we have been so fortunate in gathering together.

We have already received our second shipment of these goods—an early visit will be sure to convince you that our values are the best ever offered in Belleville.

These garments are all marked at a price that is very moderate for the values represented. We cheerfully invite you to come in and inspect them.

IDEAL CORSET WAISTS.

We have just received a large shipment of American Ideal Corset Waists for Ladies and Children. These goods have been in great demand of late as they give good satisfaction.

IDEAL CORSET WAISTS MADE OF GOOD COUTIL. PRICES 50c, 75c and $1.35

HAVE YOU SEEN "THE OUT OF SIGHT."
Ribbon Fastener

It's out of sight in every sense of the word—The neatest thing in the way of a Collar and Ribbon Fastener you ever saw.

You will have no use for pins hooks and eyes, stiff forms or tieing or untieing your ribbon neckwear after using one.

The demonstrator will be only too glad o show you how at our novelty counter and the price is just.... 25c

NOTE:—Latest Parisian and New York Bows tied free of charge—this week only.

White Wash Materials

We have just received a large shipment of Beautiful White Wash Goods for Waists.

The patterns are the most attractive and the values the best we have ever offered.

The fancy stripe and stop are among the favorite ones.

An early visit will well repay you.

—See these goods while the stock is complete. Prices range 18c, 25c, 30c, 35c and 38c per yard.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Spring Clothing.

—o—

We wish everyman in the district could see our new spring and summer Suits, Hats and Haberdashery.

Never have we been in better shape to meet the demands of our trade than we are to-day. Suits of every right style, every right material—Fabrics you would scarcely expect to see in Ready-to-Wear Suits.

—Nobby Cheviots and Tweeds in all the new effects—Browns, Greys and Blue Mixtures, Worsteds, Fancy and Plain, a stylish assortment at ...... $10, $12, $15, $17 PER SUIT.

The single breasted and the swellest of double breasted styles, elegantly made and the best fitting, ready-to-wear suits money can buy.

Every garment has the Ritchie Co.'s label, which is a guarantee of satisfaction in every respect.

Come in and inspect these new garments while the stock is complete.

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

New Prints

We are showing some very beautiful patterns in this season's New English Prints and Cambrics in Fancy and Plain Stripes and Figures for Shirt Waists, Dresses and Children's wear. We have handled this maker's goods for years and can absolutely guarantee every yard. Price (per yard.) 12 1-2c

Fancy Spot Piques
Fancy Vestings.
White Blouse Linens
White Piques.
English Zephyrs.
Dress Linens.
Fancy Colored Linens

For Spring Sewing

Our values in Nainsooks, India Linens, Lawns, Dimities, English Long Cloths and Cambrics are all specially selected for fine sewing, being soft and free from dressings.

New Embroideries

Our New Embroideries never were prettier than they are this season. The selection comprises—Fine Swiss and Nainsook Edges, Cambric and Heavy Cotton Edgings, Skirtings, Allovers, Corset Cover Embroideries, Beadings and Medallions.

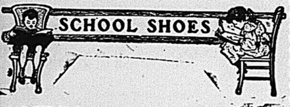
WE ARE BELLEVILLE AGENTS FOR "THE BUTTERICK PAPER PATTERNS" WHICH ARE ALWAYS RELIABLE.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION—Just step in—when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9 50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

TWO RASH ASSUMPTIONS.

The Winnipeg Telegram answers Sir Wilfrid Laurier's pretence and so-called argument that Parliament is constitutionally bound to provide for Separate Schools in the new Provinces, as follows:

"Still more direct evidence of the weakness of Sir Wilfrid's constitutional argument is the wording of the first sentence of the Educational clause itself:

"The provisions of Section 93 of the British North American Act, 1867 shall apply to the said Provinces as if, at the date upon which this Act comes into force, the territory comprised therein were already a Province, the expression 'the Union' in the said section being taken to mean the said date.

"'As if the territory comprised therein were already a Province'—but it is not a Province. 'The expression 'the Union' being taken to mean the said date'—but it does not mean that date, the Territories entered the Union in 1870. In order to bring the Territories within the scope of Section 93 of the B.N.A. Act there have, therefore, to be two arbitrary assumptions, first, that they are now a Province, which they are not, and second, that they enter the Union when the Autonomy Bill goes into force, which is not true. If Sir Wilfrid's constitutional argument were sound, there would be no need for these assumptions. The fact that he makes these arbitrary assumptions and embodies them in the Bill shows that he is unwilling to rely on the force of his own reasoning. One thing is certain, however, and that is, if Parliament has the power to enact the first sentence of the Educational clause, as quoted above, and does enact it, then the new Provinces will be bound by the conditions mentioned in Section 93 of the B. N. A. Act, and will be unable to pass any legislation which prejudicially affects the rights or privileges of any class with respect to denominational schools, which that class now possesses under the Ordinances at present in force in the Territories, and further that an appeal will lie to the Governor-in-Council for relief in case any rights or privileges hereafter granted are subsequently taken away.

"To sum up, there seems no reasonable ground for doubt that Sir Wilfrid's constitutional argument, on which he places his reliance, is unsound, and we have seen that he had to resort to arbitrary assumptions in order to effect the result he claimed was already secured by the principles of the constitution. It is claimed by the Globe and others that not only is this clause not required by the constitution, but that it is in spirit, if not in letter, opposed to the constitution, and there are other points, too, about which a question may be raised as to the competency of the Dominion Parliament to enact such legislation These points should be further examined."

These two violent assumptions contrary to the facts certainly show that, under the existing state of facts, the Dominion Government and Parliament are under no Constitutional obligation to tie up the new Provinces as Sir Wilfrid proposes, and these two violent assumptions also prove that Sir Wilfrid is conscious of the fact that there is no such obligation.

TIMELY TOPICS.

This winter has exceedingly poor terminal facilities.

• • •

However, we'll see the green grass again some day.

• • •

The Medicine Hat News shows that seeding took place in that district on February 23rd. Rather good for the place which was supposed at one time to be so cold that the mercury went on strike there and smashed the glass because there wasn't room for it to go any lower.

• • •

Bandmaster Robinson, of the Belleville Kilties' Band, is about to give up his position. A despatch from St. Catharines says: Bandmaster William Peel, of the Nineteenth St. Catharines Regiment, cabled this morning his acceptance of the offer to lead the Highlanders' Band, now touring in the Old Country. He will join the band at Glasgow on March 20th, and leaves here on Friday.

• • •

We look to see considerable spring ploughing done soon. Snow ploughing, perhaps.

• • •

Perhaps if we had a man like Marshal Oyama we might capture the bay bridge and make it free.

• • •

A correspondent writes: "Why are not those huge banks of snow on Front street removed? They are a disgrace to a town of Belleville's pretensions. Have we no corporation laborers' or teams to cart the surplus snow and ice away? Is it the fault of the Chairman of Public Works or the fault of our chief corporation laborer?"

• • •

The long distance 'phone from the West, informs Sir Wilfrid Laurier emphatically, that the new provinces must handle their own educational machinery.

• • •

What is Prince Edward County? An asset to Belleville business men, made practically useless by high and objectionable, and almost prohibitive bridge tolls.

• • •

Two victories were being talked of yesterday. The elders were talking of the great battle before Mukden, and the youngsters of the great Stanley Cup game at Ottawa.

• • •

The Russians say the Jap soldiers are stimulating themselves with drugs. The Czar should try to beg, borrow or steal the prescription.

• • •

There seems to be some peculiar features about that Hungerford sensation. Perhaps they may be straightened out some day.

• • •

In a sermon at St. Phillip's Church, Hamilton, Bishop DuMoulin spoke strongly against the raising of money for church work, by the holding of entertainments and bazaars. He did not think that much good was accomplished with money raised in that way. The good Bishop could find a whole lot of people to argue either with or against him.

• • •

A Japanese fleet, accompanied by a large number of colliers, is reported to have passed Hong Kong. The Japanese can hardly be blamed for impatience over the failure of that Baltic fleet to put in an appearance. There will be more Russian submarines pretty soon.

• • •

It is reported that Russia is preparing to send 400,000 more soldiers to the front. The story is a doubtful one, because it would be impossible for the trans-Siberian Railway to keep them supplied. There is a limit to the capacity of a single railway track, and in the case of the Siberian line it is a low one. Russia has the soldiers to send, but a soldier with an empty stomach and an empty cartridge belt is worse than useless.

• • •

Pretty soon the experts will say that Gen. Pat made a masterly retreat.

• • •

A Yankee physical culture expert thinks that anyone can get along in this country without an overcoat. Earl Grey's attache thought so, too, but he soon got a wooden one, poor chap.

• • •

They say "shot effect" silks will be much worn by ladies this spring. But the genuine, unadulterated half-shot effect may be seen on the man who settles the bill.

• • •

A gentleman, who leans towards physical culture, sleeps on the outskirts of the city and walks down town for breakfast every morning. This is what he calls taking a long walk after breakfast.

• • •

Oyama is said to be another Napoleon. Here's hoping he escapes Napoleon's end.

• • •

A prominent city merchant, in conversation this morning, recalled the time when, for a brief period, the city was running a barge back and forth to Prince Edward, transportation on the same being free. Our informant says he distinctly remembers that, while that free barge was running, his business was quite appreciably improved over normal conditions. There's a pretty good argument in favor of a free bridge.

• • •

It is safe to assume that, while racing for Tie Pass, neither Japs or Russians are waiting to count the ties.

• • •

Gen. Pat, it is said, will now lose his job. Well, whoever takes it, it won't be me.

• • •

Geo. W. Ross has been elected a directors of The Globe newspaper. What a team he and the reverend editor will make!

• • •

The end of the Irene Cole tragedy at Brantford comes with startling suddenness. Kennedy, the man charged with and found guilty of one of the foulest of crimes, was yesterday sentenced to imprisonment for life and last night hanged himself in his cell. Little Irene Cole is avenged at last.

• • •

Toronto is losing her foremost citizens fast these days. First "Ned" Clarke and now Oliver Howland. Both cut a wide swath in the affairs of the Queen City, and their places will be hard to fill.

• • •

PROTECT THE VETERANS.

(Mail and Empire.)

In the Townships of Taylor, Carr, Beatty, Hislop, and Bowman there is an area of 180 square miles. Under the Volunteers' Land Grant Act a veteran is entitled to 160 acres of land. Not more than one veteran's claim may be located in each square mile. There was lawful room, therefore, for the homesteads of 180 veterans in the five townships. That number of applications had been sent in to the Ross Government while the townships were yet open to settlement. Instead of granting the applications, the Ross Government suddenly withdrew the townships, and by a hole-and-corner agreement transferred the control of them to a corporation made up of Mr. H. H. Dewart and a number of Detroiters, to which company it gave two free locations to every square mile. The Whitney Government is asked to cancel this arrangement. It is hoped it will protect the veterans against any speculative gobble that may be contemplated.

TRY OUR Butter Scotch

McCAUSLAND BROS.
Bakers and Confectioners.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell arrived in the city at noon to-day.

Mr. Wm. Wood, of Toronto, is a visitor in the city. He is revisiting his native city before moving west, and is accompanied by his bride.

Mrs. James Fraser, formerly Miss Wilson, of San Diego, California, is the guest of Mrs. Geo. Brown, Albion St., after an absence of twenty-seven years from this city.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAGIN.

Defeat, complete and irretrievable, has befallen General Kuropatkin. His army is practically surrounded by the Japanese, all the Russian positions upon the Shakhe River have been abandoned, and the forces there are in full retreat. Has Kuropatkin himself been caught in Mukden and his line of retreat northward by the railway cut off? From the despatches received last night it looks very much like it. Kuropatkin has apparently held on too long, and may be forced to surrender at discretion to the Japanese. The only hope now held at St. Petersburg is that he may be able to extricate himself and the greater part of his army in some way or other and retreat northward to Tieling, a three days' march.

Yesterday a large Japanese force suddenly appeared north of Mukden, cutting off the retreat of General Kuropatkin in that direction. The latter promptly attacked in an effort to cut his way through, but the most recent despatches show that he has been unsuccessful; in fact, the Japanese forced the Russians to fall back a little towards Mukden. The battle there is in progress at the Imperial Tombs.

His retreat cut off to the northward by the railway, the only way of escape for Kuropatkin is to the east by Fushun, where there is no railway, and where he may be met by General Kuroki, who has been steadily forcing his way in that direction from Gaotou Pass. The latter was opposed by General Rennenkampff's corps, but he has succeeded in driving a wedge between General Linevitch's main army and General Rennenkampff's corps, and the latter is now himself in grave danger of being cut off and surrounded.

Should General Kuropatkin be forced to surrender it will be the greatest military disaster of the character since the Franco-German war, when in August, 1870, the successes of the German troops compelled Marshal Bazaine and the French army of the Rhine to seek shelter behind the fortifications of Metz. After an investment of ten weeks, during which not a single shot was fired at the town, Bazaine capitulated, surrendering to the victors an army of nearly 180,000 men, several hundred cannon and an immense quantity of military stores of all kinds. In the same war, at Sedan, in October, 1870, a French army, under command of Marshal MacMahon, was forced to capitulate to the Germans, and 39 Generals, 230 staff officers, 2,600 officers and 83,000 men surrendered.

While the Japanese will no doubt capture immense spoil, the Russians destroyed all they could before retiring, and the sky around Mukden is illuminated with the glare of burning warehouses, where tons of commissary supplies have been given to the flames.

There is a report from Tananarivo, capital of the Island of Madagascar, that the Russian fleet has left the waters of Madagascar on its way to Jibutil, French Somaliland. Jibutil is a port on the Gulf of Aden, near the entrance to the Red Sea, and the movement of Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet in that direction would seem to indicate that the Russian Admiral has given up his attempt to reach Vladivostok and is on his return home. Jibutil is two thousand miles from Nosse Be, the point at Madagascar at which Admiral Rojestvensky was last reported.—The Globe.

We hear that your hair is very sick

That's too bad! We had noticed it was looking pretty thin and faded of late, but naturally did not like to speak of it. By the way, Ayer's Hair Vigor is a regular hair grower, a perfect hair restorer. Sold, the world over, for 60 years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by al. druggists.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

Anyone having names and addresses of "old boys," relatives or friends who could supply the necessary addresses will kindly forward the same to Mr. Arthur McGinnis.

T. Haslip, butcher, has just received a choice carload of Western cattle. m3-6t

"Don't miss the entertainment at Albert College on Friday evening, March 10th. The pantomine, statue poses, and wand twists given by the class in Physical Culture will be of special interest." Admission, 15c.

An amalgamation has been arranged between the Belleville firms of Brock & Sine and Miss Yates. The new business will be known as the Belleville Corset Co., and will be carried on in the Asselstine Block on Victoria avenue, where the partners will be glad to see all their old customers. 9,11

Prof. Shortt at St. Agnes' School to-morrow evening.

A flock of crows passed over the city this morning. They had been to Kingston, but failed to wake up its drowsy burghers.

Prof. Adam Shortt, of Queen's University, will lecture at St. Agnes' School to-morrow evening on "Feature of Modern Society."

Six Months for Burnham.

The man Sylvanus Burnham was at noon to-day brought up before Judge Lazier for sentence. He was convicted of obtaining money and goods by false representations. Owing to his advanced years a sentence of six months in the County jail was imposed.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Unsettled, snow and sleet this evening and during the night. Friday, unsettled.

To-day's Temperature
8 a.m.	32
12 m.	38
2 p.m.	38
3 p.m.	38

Another

Fresh supply of:
PINEAPPLES
BANANAS
GRAPE FRUIT.
ETC, ETC., ETC.

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee

[illegible] 'Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

Coffee

Wallbridge & Clarke will demonstrate Coffee on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 6 to 10th inclusive at their Bridge St. Store. Drop in any time and have a cup of Coffee. Every body invited—No obligation to buy.

Honey

DELICIOUS WHITE HONEY.
In the comb. In sections.

Our best opportunities are of the home-made varieties.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

Always remember the Full Name
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on every box. 25c

New Spring Styles

....OF....

Queen Quality

Ladies are delighted with them. See the new choice colored Lace Boots and Low Shoes.

Queen Quality Leads the Fashion in Fine Footwear.

VERMILYEA & SON

HAVE SOLE RIGHT OF SALE.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c; 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

WANTED.

Chambermaid for St. Agnes' School and cook for residence. Apply to Mrs. F. R. Lingham, after 6 o'clock. 7,8,11

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

Six dwellings, all in good repair; 5 minutes walk of post office or market. For information apply to H. COOPER, West Bridge St. 9-2t

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

FOR SALE OR TO RENT,

A splendid brick house, eight rooms, good cellar, hard and soft water. Grier St., College Hill. Apply to J. T. Osborne, Moira St. Box 655. m2-6t

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course—Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

Nervousness

READ MY OFFER—A FULL DOLLAR'S WORTH OF MY REMEDY FREE TO TRY — WITHOUT DEPOSIT, OR RISK, OR PROMISE TO PAY.

Nervousness, fretfulness, restlessness, sleeplessness, irritability — all are the outward signs of inward nerve disturbance. The fault is not with the nerves which give you warning—not with the nerves which enable you to feel, to walk, to talk, to think, to see. But the "inside" nerves, the automatic power nerves—these are the nerves that work wears out, and worry breaks down.

I have not room here to explain how these tender, tiny nerves control and operate the stomach, the heart, the kidneys, the liver. How excesses and strains and overindulgence destroy their delicate fibres. How, through a bond of sympathy, weakness in one center is conveyed to each of the other centers. How this same bond of sympathy produces the outward signs of nervousness which should warn us of the trouble within. I have not room to explain how these nerves may be reached and strengthened and vitalized and made well by a remedy I spent thirty years in perfecting—now known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I have not room to explain how this remedy, by removing the cause, puts a certain end to all forms of nervousness, inward and outward, including fretfulness, restlessness, sleeplessness, irritability. All of these things are fully explained in the book I will send you when you write.

In more than a million homes my remedy is known and relied upon. Yet you may not have heard of it. So I make this offer to you, a stranger, that every possible excuse for doubt may be removed. Send no money—make no promise—take no risk. Simply write and ask. If you have never tried my remedy, I will send you an order on your druggist for a full dollar bottle—not a sample, but the regular standard bottle he keeps constantly on his shelves. The druggist will require no conditions. He will accept my order as cheerfully as though your dollar lay before him. He will send the bill to me.

Will you accept this opportunity to learn at "my expense absolutely" how to be rid forever of all forms of nervousness—to be rid not only of the trouble, but of the very cause which produced it? Write to-day.

For a free order for a full dollar bottle you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 69 Racine, Wis. State which book you want.	Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Kidneys. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases are often cured by a single bottle. For sale at forty thousand drug stores.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Result of the Census.

A clergyman well-known in this city, the Rev. Dr. Rose, of Hamilton, states that the result of the religious census taken recently in Hamilton, compelled him to give up for a time ordinary pastoral visitation to attend to the over three hundred names given to him of people who said their preference was for his church, but whose names he had not on his visiting list.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,

STOCK BROKER,

Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.

Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.

Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March. 9

STOCK.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	92¾	92¾
do. pref	103½	104
St. Paul	178½	179½
Mo. P	109¾	109
Union Pac	134	134
C.P.R	145	146⅜
Sou Pac	69⅞	70½
R. I.	34⅞	36
Ills. C	159	158½
Sou. Ry	35½	35⅝
Texas	39¼	39⅝
B. & O	110	110½
N. Y. C.	157⅞	158⅜
Penn	143⅛	143½
Soo	119	118
T. W	109	109
Erie	47½	47⅞
do. pref	82½	82⅛
Reading	99⅛	98½
C. O.	50⅞	50½
O. & W	55	55
Manhattan	171	171½
W.C	24	24⅛
L. & N	142½	142
A.F	35⅝	35⅝
Nor	84⅝	84⅝
Wab	23	23
do. pref	47	....
C. G. W	23	23
T. C. I.	88	89⅛
U.S. Stl	36½	36½
do. pref	95¾	96
Sugar	145⅜	143½
B. R. T	66½	66½
P. O.	110⅜	110½
A.C.P	78⅞	80⅛
Met	123¼	122¼
Alo	43⅛	43½
A. R.	91⅝	93⅞
Lead	36⅛	38

May wheat opened at $1.13½, closed at $1.14
July wheat opened at 94; closed at 94¼
May corn opened at 48⅛; closed at 48¼
July corn opened at 48⅞; closed at 48⅝
May pork opened at $12 70 closed at $12 65

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy.

The great success of this preparation in the relief and cure of bowel complaints has brought it into almost universal use. It never fails, and when reduced with water and sweetened is pleasant to take. It is equally valuable for children and adults. For sale by all druggists.

Sports and Pastimes

HOCKEY.

How the Big Cup Game Impressed An Expert—What the Toronto Telegram Man Thought.

Ottawa, March 8.—The hitherto invincible hockey team sustained a crushing defeat last night at the hands of the Rat Portage seven by a score of nine goals to three. The cup-holders were completely outplayed at all points and only the disinclination of their opponents to extend themselves when they had a commanding lead prevented a larger score. So decisive was the defeat that there are few spectators who do not think the Stanley Cup will go west with the challengers. McGee and Gilmour did not play. This weakened the Ottawa team. Had they played the defeat would not have been so decisive, but their presence would not have turned the tide.

For a fair-minded spectator must admit that the challengers were faster skaters, better stick-handlers, displayed superior judgment and were in better condition and in this whirlwind game condition is an important factor. To concede superiority on these points is to do a great deal, but it is only just.

No person can charge Hartland MacDougall with partiality, yet after the game, he said that Ottawa was completely outclassed; that with the other two men playing the score might have been closer, but the result would have been the same, and that the Rat Portage team was the best that had ever come east. Such an opinion should satisfy the most skeptical.

Anyone who has followed the O.H. A. hockey must admit that Phillips is the fastest man that ever played in western Ontario; but McGimsie and Bellefeuille are equally fast, the latter perhaps being a trifle faster. Griffis in point of speed is not much inferior to any of them, and as he weighs 35 pounds more than Phillips, one may judge of his effectiveness. Then Hooper weighs 165 pounds and is but slightly slower than the other forwards. A defence that can resist such an attack as this is not to be found in the east. Ottawa's defence has been aptly described as colossal, and so it is. Pulford and Moore have been considered almost unbeatable, and they really have been for three years. But the Rat Portage forwards, after they had found their bearings, went past these two stalwarts almost at will. The old game of Moore taking the man and Pulford the puck did not work. They were playing against men who had the necessary weight and grit to endure body checking. Moreover, Moore and Pulford were not fast enough to check their flying opponents. When they tried to give the body check the intended victims generally had flitted. In former Stanley Cup games the Ottawa defence has worn down opposing forwards by heavy checking, but they themselves were the first to succumb last night. Pulford was almost dead by the middle of the second half, while the Rat Portage players were quite fresh.

Ottawa forwards kept well down the ice. They intended only to score, the defence being considered strong enough to handle any forward line. The Rat Portage forwards fell back quickly to help the defence, thus the Ottawa forwards were always playing six or seven men. The Ottawa defence did considerable lifting. Their opponents raised the puck not more than six times during the game, and then it was a head high shot on goal. They kept possession of the puck and both point and cover-point relieved by rushing, at which Bellefeuille was a star. This rendered the Ottawa defence weak in offensive work. After observing the effectiveness of this style of game, one could hardly help concluding that the lifting game is out of date. As a rule Brown played far back on goal, and sometimes was almost a second goal-keeper, and guarded the nets with all possible care, and in a face off nearby, sometimes had three men in the goal mouth. In point of combination both teams were deficient, though Ottawa perhaps excelled in this particular. Rat Portage, which has been noted for its combined work, played only a two-man combination.

The great Tom Phillips checked the redoubtable Alf. Smith. The latter must have grated his teeth at the way Phillips made a monkey of him, for the ex-Marlboro player could give Smith yards and catch him, and the latter dared not retaliate, for the judge's eye was upon him. Smith tried very hard to keep up with the flying Tom, but by the middle of the second half gave up in despair. Such a game as Phillips played has probably never been equalled in Ottawa. Shore, recently promoted from junior ranks, was opposed to Hooper on the other wing. Hooper is not a brilliant player, but very consistent, and had no difficulty in handling Shore. Between McGimsie and Gaul at centre there was no comparison. The first named is lightning fast, and easily eluded Gaul. McGimsie got the puck four times out of five. He was not at home in the first half, but his playing in the second was remarkable. At rover Westwick and Griffis had a battle. Everybody knows that the "Rat" is one of the cleverest players in the game to-day. But while trickier than his check he had not the latter's strength or speed. The force of Griffis' attack was like the impact of a steam engine.

The goal-keepers deserve a special paragraph. They were both good. But Geroux was the better.

SPORTING NOTES.

Harry Brown, the star hockey player, who has been chasing the puck in Nova Scotia, arrived back in the city this morning.

Two junior teams, the Shamrocks and Vermonts, played a game of hockey last evening, the green fellows winning by 4 to 3.

The second of the Stanley Cup games takes place in Ottawa tonight. There may be some changes in the Ottawa line-up, but good judges think the Rat Portage team will win the match and series.

In the O.H.A. intermediate finals last night, Victoria Harbor beat Berlin by 7 to 4 in a very fast game.

Loney, of Maxville, who killed Laurin, of Alexandria by striking him on the head with a hockey stick, has been committed for trial on a charge of murder.

The O.H.A. championship season closes to-morrow night with the game between Berlin and Victoria Harbor.

Wedding Bells.

MAYNES—POUCHER.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. D. Poucher, of Poucher's Mills, on Wednesday evening, March 1st, when his third daughter, Miss Alma, was united in marriage to Mr. Edgar S. Maynes, of Thomasburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Buckler, of Plainfield, assisted by the Rev. Mr. McConnell, of Roslin. Mrs. H. B. Feir, of Belleville, sister of the bride, played the wedding march. The youthful bride was given away by her father and was attired in a lovely dress of white organdie and carried white carnations. Her sister, Miss Hattie, made a very dainty bridesmaid in a pretty dress of cream lustre, while Mr. J. Morton, of West Huntingdon, performed the duties of groomsman. After the usual congratulations, the happy party sat down to a bounteous wedding supper, after which the evening was pleasantly spent in music and social intercourse. The groom's present to his bride was a handsome gold brooch, to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet and to the groomsman gold cuff buttons set with pearls. The presents to the bride were numerous and handsome. After the first of April the happy young couple will be at home in Melrose.

HOW TO KEEP WELL.

Strengthen the Stomach With Mi-o-na and Get Perfect Health.

The source of health is the stomach and the digestive system. When acting as Nature designed they should, the organs of digestion do their work regularly and unconsciously, like a perfect machine.

Those who use Mi-o-na do not have a sallow complexion, sunken cheeks, nor flabby flesh. Their skin has a ruddy glow, the eyes are bright, the breath sweet and the step elastic. In short, the users of Mi-o-na have the maximum of good health and are plump, rosy and robust.

Nine-tenths of all sickness comes from a weak stomach, causing loss of flesh, shattered nerves, flatulency, heartburn, sick headaches, backaches, spots before the eyes, rheumatic troubles and general weakness and debility. Take a Mi-o-na tablet before each meal, and all irritation, congestion and inflammation in the stomach or bowels will be immediately soothed and relieved. In fact, the stomach will become well and strong and the whole system filled with strength and vitality.

Even if a weakened stomach has brought you to a chronic stage of ill health, where life is one long drawn out pain, do not despair. Mi-o-na will effect a cure if the simple directions in each 50c box are faithfully followed.

Read the guarantee given by J. S. McKeown with every package of Mi-o-na he sells. He pledges himself in this guarantee to refund the money, should Mi-o-na fail to help.

The Case of Lewis Lewis.

The young man, Lewis Lewis, who died at the Marchmont Home yesterday, came to Canada in April, 1895. From 1896 to his fatal illness, with the exception of two years, the deceased was employed with Mr. J. Wagar, of Tamworth. He came back to the home on the 1st of February of this year.

Address and Presentation.

On the evening of March 31st between fifty and sixty of the relatives, friends and schoolmates of Messrs. Chas. and Will Eggleton assembled at their home to spend a social evening before they returned to Killarney, Manitoba, where they presented Chas. with a beautiful clock and Will with a handsome cuff and collar box, also a set of cuff links. Mr. A. W. Andrews read an address. Both Chas. and Will replied briefly. After the presentation a very luxurious tea was provided by the ladies, and a very enjoyable evening was spent in singing, games, etc., and in the wee sma' hours they said farewell.

SICK AT YOUR STOMACH.

Perhaps feeling as if the bottom had dropped out of your life. It's Nerviline you want. Nothing restores quiet and order to the stomach so quickly. All squeamishness and nausea goes away the minute you take Nerviline and an extra dose or two is always sufficient to set you up in first-class shape. Nerviline is an old tested remedy for stomach and bowel troubles and always can be relied on. Sold in large 25c. bottles.

SHE MADE A CHANGE.

A Charleston Mother Did so With Advantage to Herself and Children.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children writes: "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough remedies, croup mixtures and throat medicines for my children, for somehow or other they never seem to be free from colds, coughs or sore throat.

This fall I made a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be used for catarrh, coughs and colds.

So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of chronic nasal and throat catarrh but they have saved me many an anxious night with my little ones. The children like the taste of them and it is really wonderful how quickly they break up a croupy cold or an obstinate, deep seated cough."

People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves or washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant, convenient, internal remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere admit that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets which sell for 50 cents full sized package, is the safest, most effective and popular of catarrh medicines.

WALLBRIDGE.

Mr. Tucker from Rawdon, who has purchased the farm of Mr. H. B. Chisholm, will move in soon. Mr. Chisholm will leave for his new home near Foxboro.

Despite bad roads, milk drawing is in order. Our factory is in full force making butter this week.

The meeting of the W.M.S. at the home of Mr. Miller, on Tuesday afternoon, was well attended. At the close Miss Miller entertained the ladies to a dainty five o'clock tea. Mrs. Coulson and Mrs. C. J. Massey were elected delegates to branch meeting to be held in Oshawa the last week in May.

Patrick Emmett, who has been employed by C. J. Massey for two years, has left to work the farm of Seldon Ketcheson.

On Sunday morning the Methodist pulpit was favored with the services of Messrs. Morton and Frost, students from Albert College.

THE HARDEST PAIN TO ENDURE

Is the pain of a tender corn, but experience proves that corns are cured quickest by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which acts in twenty-four hours. Putnam's never burns or causes sores. The only painless cure is Putnam's. Use no other.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont.

f18.25,m4,11,18,25,a1

HUTTON'S ONE RECIPE.

It Included a Paper Cutter, Ink Eraser and Rubber Bands.

Perhaps the most ingenious and the most original of all schemes for procuring autographs was from a lady in a western town. She was raising funds for the building and support of a public library, and she had conceived the idea of issuing a volume to be called "The Authors' Recipe Book." Authors from all over the country, the most distinguished of authors—always authors with a capital A—had been good enough to send her a list of the favorite dishes of their own construction, with their method of making them.

The cookbook was one of the many forms of literature to which the recipient had never turned his attention. He had no more idea of cooking than he had of milking a cow or of harnessing a horse or of setting a hen or of building a dynamo. He did not even care what was cooked for him so long as it contained none of the ingredients of tripe and none of the essence of tomato. But he was asked to contribute a paper, which she would have reproduced in facsimile, stating what he could prepare most to his liking upon a kitchen range or in a chafing dish, with his manner of procedure. This quite nonplused him until he bethought himself of one particular and peculiar delicacy in the evolution of which he could safely trust his reputation as an expert. In reply, for which he received no thanks, he said:

"Take a long paper cutter; attach to the same by means of rubber bands, and securely, an ink eraser; insert the ink eraser firmly into a marshmallow plug and hold the same over a student's lamp or study fire until the marshmallow begins to sizz, drops into the ashes, puts out the light or burns your hand. And eat while hot!"

He has never seen a copy of "The Authors' Recipe Book!"—Laurence Hutton in Critic.

A good 'leven raises much dough for its alma mater.

A penny saved by a miser means a dollar earned by his heirs later on.

The Man and the Hour

By KEITH GORDON

Copyright, 1904, by Frances Wilson

Elinor for the first time in her life was looking the future squarely in the eye. Hitherto she had been content to nibble at life, munching away contentedly enough, satisfied with the joy of the moment. And she might have gone on so for an indefinite time had it not been for the occurrence of the 3d of June.

New Year's day is significant only because then, by common consent, time moves up a number. This particular June 3 made an indelible impression on Elinor's mind because on that day she began to be thirty-two—began at the very beginning, of course, but still she began.

"I shall say I'm thirty-one all this year anyway," she announced defiantly to that other self that receives our dearest confidences. "It's such bad form to say you're thirty-one years and two months old, or whatever it may happen to be. And if I have to write it I'll make it thirty-one in round numbers—not even thirty-one plus." All of which, as the reader can see, was very unscrupulous.

However, as she found, by far the worst thing about beginning to be thirty-two was the fact that you couldn't forget it. The harder you tried the better you remembered it.

"Well, what if I am?"

This was the remark that our heroine slung into space when, after a week of torment, she sat down with her chin resting on her hands to have the thing out. "What if I am? So are plenty of other gir—women, I mean. Alice is thirty, Mary thirty-one, Mabel twenty-eight."

She paused in her enumeration, struck by the thought that all these friends were married. Matrimony was a subject to which she had given the minimum of thought. She supposed she'd come to it some time, but she was in no hurry to enter that narrow pasture so long as there was pleasant browsing to be had outside.

When she had thought of it at all it had seemed to mean chiefly a tiresome round of housekeeping that resulted in three perpendicular lines just over the nose, a memorandum of worry that she secretly determined to avoid as long as possible. But now that she was beginning to be thirty-two the thing was different.

Could it be, she asked herself, that she had made a mistake after all and that those three incisive lines were as much of an honor as an officer's bars? Could it be that there was a point when one began to be thirty-two—for instance, when becomingness demanded that one should lay aside "Miss" just as it required that one should stop wearing pink?

She faced her plight with a stiff upper lip, realizing that she had no one but herself to blame. There had been a number of men—the mischievous dimple at the corner of her mouth danced into sight for a second at the thought of how many—who had done their best to stop her in what she now recognized for the first time her mad career. She had declined their offers kindly, but with a certain royal carelessness that recked not of possible dark hours to come. When did any woman born to the belief in the divine right of queens ever foresee dethronement?

She had inadvertently "lived over," as she had once heard it quaintly phrased. There was no doubt about it, she was an old maid! She repeated it aloud in all its brutal truth, scorning such euphemisms as "spinster" and "bachelor woman."

"You're an old maid—just a plain old maid!" she said audibly. But it sounded like a joke—like one of those things too bad to be true. She would probably wake up after a bit to find that she had been married since her eighteenth year and had a son ready to enter college and a daughter about to make her debut.

No such happy awakening came, however, and with desperate philosophy she decided that since she was an old maid she would enter into the role for all it was worth. At least she would avoid the error of being kittenish.

Little by little her plainest gowns were brought into requisition. Certain little graces and frivolities of the toilet were one by one abandoned. She timidly asked Alice, her closest friend, to teach the children to call her "auntie," a thing which she had hitherto forbidden under the penalty of a sudden death to the cherub that should first be guilty of it.

"What is the matter with you?" gasped Alice, with a stare of amazement. "And what have you been doing with your hair, and why are you wearing that ugly old dress, with all the handsome things that you have?"

"I'm just wearing the things suitable to my age before the dear friends have a chance to point them out to me," was the answer, and that night her friend confided to her husband, with thoughtful regret, that Elinor was becoming a regular old maid.

Another of her friends and comrades, Max Anderson, also noticed the subtle change. Theirs had been a sort of brother and sister friendship of long standing. For years he had scolded and criticised and bullied her. The one thing that he hadn't done was to make love, and Elinor had long since given up trying to make him.

"Haven't you ever been in love, Max?" she had asked him once, with genuine curiosity in the gray eyes that had been more than one man's undoing. A dull flush came up into his face, and he looked at her strangely.

"Yes," he answered shortly, "I have."

"Beautiful night, isn't it?" he went on after a moment, and there was a touch of mockery in his voice that made the questioner wince. After that she asked him no more.

"What's up?" he demanded, surveying her cynically as she came down to receive him one evening, with renunciation speaking from every line of her plain gown and her smooth, parted hair. "Is it some sort of lay sackcloth and ashes? What particular sin are you mourning?"

"The great sin of omission!" she answered demurely as they sat down opposite each other. But he looked incredulous. He had not known her fifteen years for nothing.

"Commission, you mean," he said dryly, with an air of remembering things.

"No; omission! I'd tell you about it, only you're never any comfort to a person. You're just like a stone, Max. I don't know how I've endured you so long."

He turned his eyes lazily upon her with a look long, steady, inscrutable. Neither spoke, but after a moment Elinor, with a beautifully assumed air of perfect ease, sought refuge in a study of the pattern of the carpet.

"Possibly I may tell you some time," he said, with a nonchalant laugh, "but go on; let me hear what's the trouble. You always tell me eventually."

And so, in fact, she did. It was the beauty of Max that he made you like and hate him simultaneously. But no matter what you felt you wanted him, and you usually confided in him. That at least had been Elinor's experience, and it was being repeated for the hundredth time now. She wanted to tell him; she always wanted to tell him everything. She leaned forward suddenly, with a childish bid for sympathy in her eyes.

"You see, Max, I've omitted to get married. And now I'm thirty-one"—

"Plus," he corrected gravely.

"Thirty-one," she continued firmly, "and, though it's been great fun—well, all at once I realized that I'm an old maid. It's so unexpected. Why haven't I married? That's what I don't understand."

There was a pause in which it seemed to her that she suddenly heard the beating of her own heart. Before she fully realized what had happened her hands were held close and Max was saying:

"Look at me, Elinor, and see if you can't find out. I've waited years for you to finish sowing your wild oats."

Unnatural.

Small Nancy, aged four, had a doll to which she was devotedly attached. It could open and shut its eyes, and every night Nancy took it to bed with her, carefully closing its eyes before the light was turned out. One day the doll, as dolls from time immemorial have been known to do, met with an accident which placed the eye shutting mechanism out of business and left it with not only widely and permanently opened optics, but badly damaged ones as well. At intervals during the remainder of the day Nancy pleaded to have her dolly "cured," but nothing was successful. At bedtime when she had donned her nightdress and started for her little bed her mother saw she had forgotten her adored doll and reminded her of it, saying:

"But, Nannie, you've forgotten your baby. She won't be able to sleep unless you take her to bed with you, as usual."

To her mother's amused astonishment Nancy threw a half contemptuous look over her shoulder at the doll, recumbent on a chair, and said:

"Oh, what's the use? She can't sleep anyway. Who ever heard of anybody sleeping with their eyes wide open?"—New York Times.

Crushed by His Wife.

"My wife is not always as considerate of my feelings as she might be," says the man who invariably means well. "I went home the other night, and I could see that I was not more than deuce high with her on account of—well, no matter what. I was full up of a new theory a man had been imparting to me, and as I always believe in a man's regarding his wife as his intellectual equal I told her about it. The man told me that it is the brain that really nourishes the hair. He even went so far as to say that if you pull a hair out you pull out a bit of brain with it. It interested me exceedingly. My wife just sniffed.

"'That's not new,' she said. 'I found that out long ago. It doesn't matter either whether the hair is pulled out or falls out naturally.'

"That's what I get for trying to be good to that woman. Stung by my wife."

Here he raised his hat. He was as bald as a newly plucked egg.—Washington Post.

Timing Bananas.

It is generally known that bananas are shipped while yet green and unripe, but few persons are aware of the careful and elaborate time calculations required in setting out the plants and cutting off the fruit in order to insure the arrival of the bananas in proper condition at their destination. When a plantation is begun the young plants are set out at certain intervals, so that they will produce at regular prefixed times during the year. A certain number of days before the arrival of a steamer the green fruit is cut, and a close calculation of the time that will be consumed in the voyage must always be made, else the bananas will be spoiled. Fruit steamers carry steam heating apparatus to insure a uniform temperature throughout the voyage. The ripening is calculated to occur only after the fruit has reached the retail dealer.

March Shoe Sale.

We have just purchased a fine stock of Spring Footwear at a very Low Rate on the dollar, in Men's, Women's and Children's, and now offer you some great snaps.

OUR BARGAIN TABLES

are loaded. A splendid opportunity to save money.

Women's	$2.50 Shoes	$1.00
"	2.00 Shoes	1.00
Men's	4.00 Shoes	2.50
"	3.50 Shoes	2.00
Misses'	1.25 Shoes	1.00
"	1.00 Shoes	.75
Child's	1.00 Shoes	.75
"	.75 Shoes	.50

NOTICE OUR WINDOWS.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

Your Tongue has two missions—

TO TASTE AND TO TALK.

Let it taste one of our Fruit Scones before it talks—

What it says then will be our best advertisement.

Ed. F. Dickens.

—CATERER

"If You Get it at Stroud's it's Good."

ART VASES.

We are opening up a select lot of Fine Crystal and Colored Flower Vases, Tubes, Bowls, etc. Each one is different, exclusive and strictly correct—they are high priced goods of the finest quality. We want to sell them quickly and if you appreciate artistic flower recepticles—now is your opportunity.

Stroud's 40c teas are so Good They are a Treat and a Relish for Every Meal.

Tea and China Store. 'Phone. 301. STROUD'S Opp. Anglo-American, Front Street.

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00

—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price ... $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand."

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The figures in regard to different hospitals, which appear in another column, serve to show, more than anything else, the parsimony, not to say stinginess, of the County Council towards the Belleville Hospital. It is hard to believe, in fact, that the County Council, during the year for which the figures are quoted, gave only $69 to the worthy institution, but the Government report says so. And this, too, in face of the fact that large numbers of County patients were, and are still, treated there. The County Fathers should be asked to "loosen up" more freely.

• • •

Another thing visible to the naked eye is the fact that the Belleville Hospital has been very generously treated in the way of private donations, which is not to be wondered at when one remembers the kind hearts of our people and their readiness to respond to all calls of a benevolent nature.

• • •

The last thing which may be pointed out is the apparent fact that the Belleville General Hospital, in comparison with the number of patients treated, receives a smaller revenue in proportion than almost any other hospital which does not receive either a large municipal or county grant. There appears to be, in the case of the local institution, two courses open to the management — they should demand a larger grant from the county, or charge their patients more.

• • •

It is still raining shells in Manchuria. In this country we are satisfied with snow.

• • •

A New Jersey goose was buried in a snow pile for a month and then got out alive and happy. She's a bird!

• • •

The difference between the Japanese and Russian generals just now is that the former are driving blows home and the latter blows are driving home.

• • •

Illinois expects to send Hoch to the gallows for wife murder. If so, he will not likely have to face his wives on the bigamy charges. Johann! Johann! You're a lucky, lucky man.

Notice to Pile Sufferers.

We Don't Ask You to Take Anyone's Word For What Pyramid Pile Cure Will Do.

You Can Have a Trial Package Free By Mail.

We receive hundreds of letters like the following: "I have been feeling so good I could hardly believe it. after suffering with piles for a year, to find that I am once more feeling like myself. I wish you could have seen me before I started using Pyramid Pile Cure and look at me now, and you would say I am not the same man. I have gained 20 pounds, and all on account of Pyramid Pile Cure."—Walter Sharkley, 56 Park St., Springfield, Mass.

"I bought a fifty cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure and used as directed with the most unexpected results, a complete cure. I have been troubled with piles for thirty years and was in much distress and passed much blood, but at present am free from any kind of piles."—F. McKay, Weaverville, Cal.

"Pyramid Pile Cure has been worth thousands of dollars to me: it cured me after using numbers of other remedies and taking medicines from doctors. It also cured my son, although he could hardly walk, eat or sleep; he is now all right."—B. Stringfellow, Postmaster, Elko, S.C.

By the use of Pyramid Pile Cure you will avoid an unnecessary, trying and expensive examination by a physician and will rid yourself of your trouble in the privacy of your own home at trifling expense.

After using the free treatment, which we mail in a perfectly plain wrapper, you can secure regular full-size packages from druggists at 50 cents each, or we will mail direct in plain package upon receipt of price. Pyramid Drug Co., 2109 Main St., Marshall, Mich.

The Joy of Eating is common to all humanity until the organs go wrong—then joy is turned to sorrow and food does the body little or no good. If you would return to the ability to enjoy food use

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 25 cents.

ORANGEMEN MEET.

Grand Lodge of Ontario West in Session at Midland.

Midland, March 9.—The R. W. Provincial Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West met here yesterday afternoon.

The Grand Master's address dealt comprehensively with Grand Lodge topics. The Northwest autonomy bill is the subject of a prolonged passage, which closes as follows:

"We are all glad to observe the activity of our Grand Master and Sovereign, M. W. Bro. Dr. Sproule, M. P., in warning the brethren and public generally of the details of the measure."

The Grand Auditors' report shows a balance of $1,816.02. after deducting from receipts of $3,701.22 disbursements of $1,885.20. The income of the Grand Lodge shows a decrease in revenue of $477.15 for the past year. The expenditure for the past year has been $1,885.20, or $822.30 less than the preceding year, leaving a balance of $1,816, or $345.15 in excess of the balance of 1903.

The Grand Secretary's report is generally satisfactory, and mentions eleven new primary lodges established during the year and one resuscitated.

The references to the recent death of R. W. Bro. E. F. Clarke, Grand Treasurer, were frequent and touching.

Dr. Sproule Speaks.

The Opera House was crowded last night, the occasion being the public meeting in connection with the meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West. Lieut.-Col. Scott, the Grand Master, occupied the chair. Dr. F. S. Sproule, M. P., of Markdale, Master of British America, was present and received a rousing reception. He expressed the sorrow and loss sustained by the Orange Lodge by the death of the late E. F. Clarke, M. P. He then dealt with the autonomy bills, as did W. H. Bennett, M. P., for East Simcoe, and others.

Will Organize Campaign.

The Grand Black Chapter of Ontario West passed a resolution at their final session yesterday morning, opposing the establishment of Separate Schools in the new Provinces, and will, in conjunction with the Orange Lodge, organize a campaign against the measure.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Unchanged, Chicago Higher—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, March 8.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day unchanged from yesterday and corn futures ¼d lower.

At Chicago, May wheat closed 1⅛c lower than yesterday, May corn ⅛c higher, and May oats unchanged.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, March 8.—Close—Wheat—Spot quiet. Corn—Parcels mixed American, 21s. Flour—Spot quotations, Minneapolis patent, 31s.

London—Close—Mark Lane Miller Market—Wheat—Foreign quiet, but steady; English quiet, but steady. Corn—American firm, 1½d higher; Danubian nominally unchanged. Flour—American steadier; English steady.

Paris—Close—Wheat—Tone steady; Mar. 23f 5c, July and Aug. 23f 55c. Flour—Tone steady; March 29f, July and Aug. 30f 45c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	112⅝	98⅝
Detroit	117	98½
Toledo	112⅝	95¼
Duluth	108⅝	108⅝
St. Louis	100¾	90½
Minneapolis	110⅝	107⅝

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, white, bush	$1 06	to $1 08
Wheat, red, bush	1 06	1 08
Wheat, spring, bush	1 02	....
Wheat, goose, bush	0 90	0 92
Barley, bush	0 52	....
Oats, bush	0 47	....
Beans bush	0 60	0 10
Rye, bush	0 75	....
Peas, bush	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 8.—Wheat—Spot nominal. Futures quiet; March nominal, May 6s 9⅝d, July 6s 9⅝d.

Corn—Spot steady; American mixed new, 4s 2⅜d; American mixed, old, 4s 11d. Futures quiet; March 4s 2½d, May 4s 4½d.

Lard—American refined, in pails, steady, 34s 9d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, March 8.—Butter—Weak; receipts, 5248. Street prices: Extra creamery, 28 to 28½c. Official prices, creamery, common to extra, 22c to 28c; do., held, 22c to 27½c; state dairy, common to extra, 21c to 26c; renovated, common to extra, 19c to 25c; western factory, common to extra, 19c to 25c; western imitation creamery, common to extra, 22c to 26c.

Eggs—Firm; receipts, 8764; state, Pennsylvania and nearby, fancy, selected, white, 29c to 30c; do., choice, 28c; do., mixed, extra, 28c; western firsts, 26c; seconds, 25c to 26c; southerns, 25c to 26c.

Cheese—Firm; receipts, 3126; state, full cream, small, colored and white, fancy, 14c; do., fine, 13½c; do., late made, colored and white, choice, 13c; do., fair to good, 12c to 12½c; do., poor, 10½c to 11½c; do., large, colored and white, fancy, 13⅝c; do., fine, 13c to 13¼c; do., late made, colored and white, choice, 12⅝c; do., fair to good, 11c to 11½c; do., poor, 10c to 10⅝c; skims, full to light, 4c to 10½c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—U. S. Markets Steady to a Shade Lower.

London, March 8.—Live cattle are quoted at 10¾c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¼c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 8.—Cattle—Receipts, light; prime steers, $5.25 to $5.65; shipping, $4.65 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $4.90; heifers, $3.25 to $4.75; cows, $2.75 to $4.15; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25.

Veals—Receipts, 50 head; firm; $4.50 to $8.00.

Hogs—Receipts, 1700 head; active; heavy and mixed, $5.40 to $5.45; yorkers and pigs, $5.35 to $5.40; roughs, $4.60 to $4.75; stags, $3 to $3.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2000 head; firm; native lambs, $6.50 to $8.00; western lambs, $7.75 to $8.20; yearlings, $6.75 to $7; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $5.75 to $6; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $6.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, March 8.—Beeves—Receipts, 1197; good steers steady; medium grades 5c to 10c higher; bulls steady; thin cows, 10c lower; medium and good cows steady to strong; steers, $4.75 to $5.85; bulls, $3.35 to $4.40; cows, $1.70 to $3.90. Shipments to-day, 60 sheep and 2000 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 1050; market steady to shade lower; veals, $4 to $8.75; little calves, $3 to $3.50; no barnyard calves; dressed calves steady; city dressed veals, 7c to 13c per lb.; country dressed, 7c to 11½c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2842; sheep steady; lambs holding firm on Buffalo advices; slow trade; seven cars unsold. Sheep, $4.00 to $6; culls, $3 to $4; lambs, $7 to $8.40; culls, $5.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 4268; feeling about steady.

Chilian Ministry Resigns.

Santiago, Chile, March 9.—The tenth Ministry of the present administration has formally resigned owing to internal dissensions.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

What is that which is lengthened by being cut at both ends? Answer—A ditch.

A Liniment for the Logger.—Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparing timber for the drive and in river work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience Coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when applied to the injured or administered to the ailing, works wonders.

What black thing enlightens the world? Answer—Ink.

Signals of Danger.—Have you lost your appetite? Have you a coated tongue? Have you an unpleasant taste in the mouth? Does your head ache and have you dizziness? If so, your stomach is out of order and you need medicine. But you do not like medicine. He that prefers sickness to medicine must suffer, but under the circumstances the wise man would procure a box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills and speedily get himself in health, and strive to keep so.

Name something with two heads and one body. Answer—A barrel.

The Most Popular Pill.—The pill is the most popular of all forms of medicine, and of pills the most popular are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they do what it is asserted they can do, and are not put forward on any fictitious claims to excellence. They are compact and portable, and they are easily taken, they do not nauseate nor gripe, and they give relief in the most stubborn cases.

Why is bread like the sun? Answer—Because it rises from the yeast.

Many inherit weak lungs, and as disease usually assails the weakest point, these persons are continually exposed to attacks of cold and pulmonary disturbances. The speedy use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup will be found a preventive and a protection, strengthening the organs so that they are not so liable to derangement from exposure or abrupt atmospheric changes. Bickle's Syrup is cheap and good.

If you were to ride a donkey what fruit would you resemble? Answer—A pair.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take; sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

What coat is finished without buttons and put on wet? Answer—A coat of paint.

Why go limping and whining about your corns when a 25 cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial and you will not regret it.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.

No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.

No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.

No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.

No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.

No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	8.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points.

Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,

C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

Daily except Sunday

L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.

A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.

G. .. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,

General Insurance Agent,

Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.B C.S., England.

Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.

Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.

m8-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL

Dentist, Belleville. Ont.

Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public &c., Belleville.

Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT J. FRANKLIN WILLS

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for City of Belleville.

Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 67.

E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street, Belleville.

Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.

Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security.

Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.

THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.

Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.

Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co

Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.

R W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.

INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.

Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insur. Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.

Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.

Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.

Lloyd's Plate Glass.

Home Life Association, Toronto.

North British Mercantile.

Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, offies above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.

Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.

Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,

Carpenter, Joiner, Builder

Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave.
(next McCrodan's grocery.)

Estimates furnished.

Work promptly and carefully	executed	PRICES MODERATE

—SPECIALIST ON—

Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.

G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

Millions of People
Enjoy it daily. Are you on the list?
"SALADA"
BLACK, MIXED OR GREEN.
The World's Preference.

Linked by Fate

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Author of "The Verdict of the Heart," "A Heritage of Hate," "Nell of Shorne Mills," "Paid For," "A Modern Juliet," Etc.

"Well?" demanded the Doctor, impatiently. His face was flushed with excitement as well as fever, and the sweat stood in big drops on his wrinkled forehead.

Mannering raised his brows deprecatingly.

"They look like ordinary stones, Doctor," he said.

Doctor Vernon uttered a cry of impatient contempt.

"Tut, man, where were you educated?" he retorted, impatiently. "They are gold quartz. Gold, gold, I tell you! Hush!" He glanced anxiously towards the door. "It's gold. We are rich—beyond the dreams of avarice!"

He uttered the dear old hackneyed phrase hoarsely, unctuously.

"I found them in the valley between the ridge of hills, south by southwest. There is gold there. I tell you, gold in immense quantities! Gold!"

His bloodshot eyes peered from one to the other with feverish excitement, and his hanging under lip trembled as if he had been struck by palsy.

Fleming and Mannering looked at each other significantly. The glance said, "He is mad!"

"In immense quantities! It lies, most of it, on the surface, in what the miners call 'placers.' It is quite easy to get. It is, I verily believe, an island of gold. And it is ours, ours! Nina, Mannering, Fleming, we are rich, millionaires, multi-millionaires, as the phrase goes. It is incorrect, but no matter, the gold is there! How hot it is!" He drew his trembling hand across his wet brow and sank, almost collapsed, on to the table.

Nina went to him and laid a soothing hand on his shoulder.

"You are tired, father; you must rest, be quiet—"

"Rest! Nonsense! You—you talk like a child! You don't understand, Nina! I tell you it is gold! I cannot have made a mistake. We have been cast ashore on an Eldorado! Mr. Mannering, Fleming, you will share it with me! Indeed, it really belongs to you, Mannering, for but for you we should never have reached the island alive. Gold! Gold in practically unlimited quantities! Think of it! Nina, I—I am thirsty. I have been in the sun—water—water!"

He was gasping for breath, his face was livid and his features twitching.

Mannering ran out of the hut and brought some water, and a draught somewhat restored the old man.

"Go, now," said Nina in a low voice. "I will get him to lie down and sleep. He will be better in the morning."

She extended her hand to Mannering, and, as he took it, she murmured:

"Good night—and thank you!"

"That's all right, Miss Nina," he said, in true Englishman's fashion.

"Do you think there is anything in the Doctor's discovery?" asked Fleming, hesitatingly, as he and Mannering walked towards their hut.

Mannering shrugged his broad shoulders.

"I don't know. There may be. Gold is found in all sorts of places. But it would have been more to the point if the Doctor had discovered a banana tree, a boot tree or a coat tree. What is the use of gold to us? You can't make even a decent crock out of it.

Fleming coughed violently.

"That is true. Mannering, what a lesson to some of us who spend our lives amassing useless wealth! I wish that some of our millionaires could be here to learn that lesson!"

His pious reflection was broken by the cough which shook him from top to toe."

"Turn in and get some sleep," said Mannering.

"And you? You, too, will get some sleep to-night, Mannering?"

"Yes; oh, yes! But I'll look round first."

Fleming entered their hut and dropped into the rough bed, exhausted by the physical and mental strain; but Mannering, as soon as he had assured himself that Fleming was asleep, went up to the Vernons' hut and, revolver in hand, dropped down outside the door.

Though he had firmly resolved that he would not sleep, he must have fallen into a semi-doze, for he was startled, as one is startled out of sleep, by a cry in Nina's voice.

"Mr. Mannering—my father!"

He was on his feet in a moment and followed her into the hut.

But he could do nothing. The Doctor was dead. The excitement of his discovery, on the top of the fever, had proved fatal. The girl stood beside the lifeless form, her eyes dry, all her tears shut up in her bereaved heart. Mannering found himself bereft of speech, a dumb dog. With scarcely a glance at her, he went in search of Fleming.

He met him coming up from the beach, his frail figure bent, his arms hanging limply at his side, almost every step punctuated by his cough.

"Mannering," he said, in the tone of one who brings bad news, "they—they have gone!"

"Gone? Who?" asked Mannering, dully.

"The men—all of them. They have taken the boat and left us."

Mannering nodded grimly.

"It is like them. The boat gone! There goes our only hope of escape. I, too, have had bad news. Doctor Vernon is dead. Go up to the hut, Fleming. She wants you."

Fleming caught his breath, then, without a word, went up the beach.

Mannering stood on the edge of the sand and looked out seaward. With the boat had gone their last chance, hope, of escaping. He and Fleming and Nina were now left sole inhabitants of this lonely island. He stared out to sea, and the sea mocked him with its splendour and majesty. It seemed to him to say, "I am Master; you are my Slave. I laugh at you and all your efforts. I am supreme. My will is law. I have cast you here to live in a living death. There is no escape!"

How long he remained staring at the waves as they lapped on the sand he never knew. He was recalled to life and its exigencies by Fleming, who, crawling up weakly, said:

"Is there a spade, Mannering?"

Mannering made a mute assent, found the spade, and the two men dug the grave. They went up to the hut and carried the dead man down. Nina followed them, her head bowed almost to her bosom; and she stood motionless, tearless, while Fleming recited the Burial Service in gasps.

Then, still with bent head, she went back to the hut; a girl, an orphan, with these two men as sole companions.

Fleming, as a clergyman, had offered the usual condolences, and she had accepted them meekly, with the docile humility of her sex. It was evening before he left her and met Mannering at the entrance of their hut.

Fleming was wan and pale, and his cough was like a war cry.

"How is she?" asked Mannering.

Fleming made a gesture of despair.

"Who should say? Very bad. Poor girl! oh, poor girl! It's terrible, terrible! And—and Mannering, I've been thinking—I—I want to speak to you."

"Well, what is it?" asked Mannering, dully.

Fleming had sunk upon his bed and was gasping as if for breath.

"I—I must do my duty. I must face it, Mannering. The Doctor is dead."

"Well, I know. What then?" asked Mannering, doggedly.

"And—and I—I don't think I shall last long."

"Nonsense!" said Mannering, brusquely.

"I don't. I'm—I've never been strong, and this place, beautiful as it is, seems to—to sap all my remaining strength. Mannering, if—if I go, you two, you and Nina, will be alone!"

He paused and fought for breath, holding his weak chest, as if he would fain hold the strength in it.

"Well?" said Mannering.

Fleming looked at him with poignant anguish.

"Alone! You and she! Mannering, for her sake, for yours, you must be — Can you not guess? Oh, help me, Mannering! You must be married!"

Mannering stared at him, at first vaguely, then with an intense anxiety and gravity.

"Married!" broke from his parched lips.

"Yes, married!" breathed Fleming.

CHAPTER III.

Mannering sank on to the upturned box which served as a seat and stared over Fleming's head.

"You—you had never thought of it—never thought of the situation in which she would be placed if I were to die and you and she were left alone?" said Fleming, huskily.

Mannering shook his head. "No. You will think me selfish, inconsiderate, but—"

"No, no!" Fleming broke in eagerly. "You have had so much to think of, Mannering. The wonder is that you have not broken down under the long, the terrible strain. But I—well, the responsibility has not rested on my weak shoulders, and I have had time to think, and I"—meekly, modestly—"am a clergyman; it was my duty to think of you and for you both. It has been in my mind ceaselessly, ever since I began to fear that the Doctor might die, and I knew that I should."

"You will pull round," muttered Mannering, stubbornly; but Fleming shook his head.

"Don't let us waste time arguing it," he said, quietly. "My time is short—I feel it. And think how she will be placed, that helpless girl, Mannering! Let us consider it gravely—"

"A vessel might sight the signal, the beacon, any moment," put in Mannering under his breath.

"If it did so before I died all would be well; but it might not. And if one came afterwards, after I am gone, and found you two here, and took you off, what would be her position? You, a man of the world, know only too well, Mannering. She—oh, poor girl, poor girl!—would be compromised in the eyes of the world always so ready to be suspicious and censorious, always so merciless and pitiless to the woman in her position."

"I know," muttered Mannering.

"But if you were married all would be well. No one, not the most malignant or heartless, could cast a stone. You will not hesitate, Mannering? Why should you? She is young and beautiful and good—the sweetest, noblest girl—"

Mannering sprang up, then sank down again.

"She is!" he said, doggedly. "But what about me? You know nothing about me. You propose that this young and beautiful girl with all her sweetness and nobility should marry a man of whose past you know nothing. I am quite poor. I may be, probably am, worthless, a cumberer of the earth, a waste—"

Fleming shook his head, and, after a paroxysm of coughing, said, emphatically:

"Poor, yes, but not worthless, and not a cumberer of the earth. You forget that we were friends on the voyage, that I have lived with you here on the island, have had opportunities of reading your character—"

"The marriage would not be valid," said Mannering.

"Yes, I think so. I am not up in the marriage laws, as I should be, but I am almost sure it would be; and if you were not fully married in the civil sense, you would be in the spiritual, the solemn one. If you were rescued you could be married again at the first port, or on reaching England," said Fleming with grave earnestness. "I have thought of the case in all its bearings; I am not blind to its difficulties—"

"She may refuse to—to marry me," Mannering put in in a low voice and with his eyes fixed on the patch of sand and sky framed by the doorway of the hut.

"I do not think she will," returned Fleming in almost as low a tone. "You must ask her—put the case to her—"

"No, no!" Mannering exclaimed, springing to his feet and standing at the door, with his back to Fleming. "I can't! I—I should break down. I should so put it that she would have to refuse. What? Go and tell a girl—young, beautiful, noble—your words haunt me, Fleming—that I am going to take advantage of her position and chain her for life to a man who—of whom she knows nothing! I can't do it—and I won't!"

Fleming lay back on the rough pillow of sun-dried seaweed and covered his eyes with his hands.

"I see—I understand. I will tell her—ask her, Mannering. I will make it plain to her that she must—yes must—consent. I will go at once, while—while I am able. Will you give me a hand?" Mannering held him up and gave him some of the precious brandy which they had saved.

"Thanks. Half of that; only a drop or two. Thank you, thank you, Mannering! I was not wrong in my estimation of you. It is good of you to yield so soon. Some men—I fear most men—would have stood out or refused altogether. They would have thought of themselves and cared nothing for her—for her reputation, her future."

"Don't try to make me out an angel or a plaster saint, Fleming," Mannering said, curtly and huskily. "In fact, I've more than half a suspicion that you're wrong and that I'm a fool for yielding to you. But—we've been pals, and when you pull out the Conscience and Principle stops I'm done."

"No, I am right; and you are acting like a gentleman and an honest man," Fleming gasped.

"Well!" Mannering sighed; then he looked at him half angrily. "But doesn't it occur to you that your trust and confidence in me are rather too thick? How do you know that I am not already married?"

Fleming smiled wanly.

"You would have told me so the very first moment you heard of my proposal," he said, simply.

Mannering almost groaned.

"There is no baulking you. Well, go to her— Wait!" as Fleming got to his feet slowly and feebly. "Tell her—tell her—" Mannering stopped and swore under his breath; then he went on, hoarsely, "tell her that it is your idea not mine, mind! And that—that it is not to be a real marriage."

Fleming's blue eyes, set in their dark hollows, rested on his face patiently.

—"That we will go through the form to please you and save her from—from scandal and the rest of it; but that I—I do not intend to take advantage of it. No! I may be a bad lot, but I'm not so bad as to snare a young girl, Fleming, see that she understands that this marriage is to be one in name—form only. She—she will understand. Make her. Mind!"

A faint color flushed Fleming's death-like face.

"I will tell her," he said in a low voice. "Mannering, you are behaving nobly—"

"Oh, rot!" Mannering broke in, as if he could not restrain himself. "Did you think I was a cur, a mean hound? No one short of that would act differently. Oh, poor girl, poor girl! Here, I'll give you a hand part of the way. And if you're wrong in this business, may God forgive you, Fleming!"

"I echo your prayer, Mannering," he said, solemnly.

The two men went slowly towards the hut, Fleming leaning—one would write heavily but that the word is grotesquely inapplicable, for he was but a shadow of a man—on Mannering's arm; then Mannering stopped, and, without a word, turned, strode to the beach and stood staring out to sea.

Fleming knocked at the door of Nina's hut, though the door was open, and she called to him to come in. She was sitting on her bed mending a skirt, and she went on with her work—for there was much to do and time was valuable—as he entered. She was very pale, but with that ivory pallor which is not inconsistent with perfect health, and her eyes were dull and heavy with the tears that had weakened though they had relieved her. She signed to the rough chair which Mannering had made for her father, and Fleming sank into it.

"Are you—better?" he asked.

She knew that he meant was her grief less poignant, and answered "Yes," in a low voice and with a stifled sigh.

"Do you think you are strong enough to listen to something I want to say to you?" he asked. "Something very important, serious?"

"Oh, yes!" she replied; and she stopped in her work and let her hands lie motionless on it. "Yes; but you—you are not looking well, Mr. Fleming. Is your cough worse—are you feeling weaker?"

"Yes," replied Fleming, simply, "I am weaker. I am very ill. Please don't be sorry for me! I am obliged to tell you, because my condition is connected with what I have to say to you, Miss Nina. Have you thought of your position, situation, here if anything should happen to me—if, plainly, I were to die? And, I think—indeed I know—that I am dying! Ah, no," as a low cry of pity, of sorrow escaped her, "you will not grieve for me; you will be sorry; but you will remember that for me Death means a release and—a gain. But," he went on with a slight wave of his hand, "it was not of myself that I came to speak, but of you. Miss Nina, you and I have, I hope and trust, become something like brother and sister. Of my love and respect for you you will have no doubt."

She made a gesture of assent, and he went on in earnest tones, broken by fits of coughing and struggling for the painful breath:

"When I am gone you will be alone on this island with Mr. Mannering."

She raised her eyes for a moment to his saint-like face, then dropped them to her hands again.

"It may be that you are fated to remain here for the rest of your lives—"

Her hands shook and her lips quivered at the dreadful suggestion.

—"Or God may will that a passing vessel, one drifting out of her course, may see the signal on the cliff and come to your rescue."

He fought for breath, and she cast a look of pity and tender sympathy at him.

"In that case they will find you here with—with Mannering—will take you back to England and tell the story of your—your solitary companionship with him."

She raised her eyes, a look of comprehension, of a woman's apprehension in them.

"Ah, you understand!" he gasped. "The world would say— You know what it would say. Forgive me! You will forgive me for speaking so plainly. Alas! there is no help for it; I must speak plainly!"

"I understand," she said in a low voice.

"If—if you were man and wife—" he went on.

She looked at him with a vague doubt on her face.

"But we are not," she said.

"But there is no reason why you should not be," he said, slowly, and yet with a throbbing heart. "Indeed, Mr. Mannering has sent me to ask you—"

Her hand clutched at the skirt, but she said nothing.

—"To ask you to—marry him."

"To marry him!" Her lips formed the words but no sound came; but Fleming answered, as if he had heard her mute exclamation.

"Yes. He sees the necessity of defending you against the suspicion, the evil suspicion and calumny of the world— Wait, dear Miss Nina; do not speak until I have told you all. And I will conceal, keep back, nothing; for it is right that you should know the whole. It was I who pointed out to him how gravely you would suffer, how terribly your future would be imperilled—nay, wrecked—if—if you two were discovered here alone and were not married. That he should not have thought of it is a proof of his purity, high mindedness. But I am a clergyman, and it is my duty—"

"Oh, I cannot, cannot!" broke from her lips, which were white though the scarlet burnt in her cheeks.

"My dear, you must!" he said with gentle firmness.

"To marry me—out of pity!" she said, inaudibly, her eyes full of shame and womanly protest.

"No, no!" he panted, his hand pressing against his hollow chest. "You do not know him or you would not say that—put it that way. It is true he pities you—what man with a spark of manliness could do otherwise, my poor child?—but he sees, with me, that it is the right, the only course to pursue. Ah, no, no; you must not think that he regards you as an object of pity—that he takes a superior, a condescending view of his responsibility. On the contrary—oh, if you had heard him speak of his unworthiness, of his inferiority, of his presumption, in offering marriage to you, you would understand how he feels towards you!"

Nina, her protest uttered, sat silent, her hands tightly clenched, her eyes fixed on the ground.

"You are thinking, reflecting?" said Fleming, quietly. "I would that I could give you time—a week, a month—to consider; but there is no time; there may not be many hours. My child," his voice grew solemn and tender, "I have considered prayfully, and I take upon myself the great responsibility of advising you—if I dared say so, of exhorting you. Your future welfare is dear to me; I must, I must, guard it for you! There is no way of rendering that future, if you are restored to the world, safe and possible, than by marrying Mr. Mannering.

There was a pause; then she looked at him—a look which Fleming would have remembered if he had lived to be a hundred.

"If—if a vessel were to come—if we were to be rescued, I—I should be his wife, bound to him and he to me—a marriage without love! You, a clergyman, bid me—"

The color had left her face and she was now deathly pale.

Fleming met her eyes unflinchingly.

"There is still something to tell you," he said. "I bear a message from Mr. Mannering. He bids me say that the marriage shall be one in name—form only, that you will be

To be continued

ASTHMA
CLARKE'S KOLA COMPOUND Cures Cases of 15, 20 and 35 years standing
No matter how long you have suffered with asthma, Clarke's Kola Compound will cure you. No matter how many physicians have told you, you would never be free of your sufferings, Clarke's Kola Compound will transform you into a happy, healthy being. We have grateful testimonials from dozens of Canadians who were permanently cured by Clarke's Kola Compound after suffering for 12, 16, 20 and 35 years.
"For sixteen years, I was a constant martyr to Asthma. Many weeks I could not lie down. I spent many hundred dollars in search of a cure, and tried all doctors. My druggist recommended Clarke's Kola Compound about two years ago. I took this grand medicine during nine months. Each week I gradually improved, and am now completely cured. It is now over a year, and I have not had a single attack since."—ALLAN FAULKNER, Dufferin.
Write for free sample.
The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Limited, Toronto, Canada.

When do you Rest your Feet
Use Foot Elm and they rest themselves. Just put it in your shoes and you rest and relieve those tortured, aching members. Foot Elm will break in new shoes for you without your feeling the process. No chafing, blistering or chillblains. Odorless and antiseptic. Try it. FOOT ELM is 25 cents per box of eighteen powders at all druggists or direct postpaid
STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

Are Your Trousers Stamped?

Very few wholesale tailoring houses are willing to put their names on the garments they manufacture—have no confidence in their own goods.
Every pair of trousers from our factory bears our trade mark on the curtain.
Thus, our reputation is at stake, and you know what that means—we've got to put our very best workmanship and intelligence into every pair.
If our name is on your trousers you can depend the quality and style are right.
If your dealer does not keep them send us a postal card and we will tell you where you can get them.
English Woolen Mills Company,
"TROUSER KINGS"
LONDON - - CANADA

The New Store.
Plenty of things around the store deserve special mention, the following will answer for now. You can judge the trend of values by such items as these.
NEW DRESS GOODS
—Mohair Effects from 25 to 75c
—Voiles........30c to $1.00 yard
—Crépe-de-Chene 50c to $1.00 yd.
—Eoliennes........75c to $1.00
—Etamines........50c to 75c
—Crispine.........50c to $1.00
—Cashmeres........25c to 75c
—Serges.........25c, 50c, 75c
—Lustres..........25c to 75c
—Venetians.......75c to $1.50
New Silk Blouses from.... $2 75 to $6.00 each.
75 LADIES' RAIN COATS
Guaranteed Waterprof and as far as could be foreseen in sizes to suit any customer. Price.................................$4.00 to $10.00 each.
The store is as bright as a May morning and every day adds to its prestige.
Wims & Co

The Intelligencer Bindery
Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and Descriptions of Blank Account Books.

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer
MADAME
Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer
Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer
One Year's Subscription Free of Cost
to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to April 1, 1906, or later.
MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.
Sign and Send This Coupon
TO-DAY
Daily By Mail . $3.00
Weekly By Mail . $1.00
To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited, Belleville, Ont.
Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $...........
Name.. P. O.............................
Address..
CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON.
Remember: Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to April 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME for Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.
SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels, free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEA WOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address.

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1

Name

Street No.

Town State

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2

Name

Street No.

Town State

Please also send Book No to

Name

Street No.

Town State

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number

(NOW READY.)

Contains 20 Prominent Features A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

from the stand point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

A typical Southerner writes this article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands 15 cents per copy.

The Hunger of A Man's Soul

By CAMPBELL MACLEOD

It was after the play, and they were waiting in the quiet little cafe to be served. She leaned over to draw in the fragrance of the red roses and to avoid his eyes, which were persistent. He was thinking of how young and lovely she was. How could he expect her to love him? The mirror opposite reminded him of his years.

Yes, he would tell her—save her all painful explanations. A young fellow, would make her happier. Once in a burst of girlish confidence she had told him how she hated young men and new houses. It was childish of him, he told himself, to expect her to know her own mind.

"What can I eat?" she beamed at him with shining eyes. "Anything, from a nice young man to an oyster!" Here was the opening, sooner than he expected.

"Judith," he began gravely, "it is of the young man I wish to speak now. Did—did—they say it is young Travers? Shall I release you?" The last, to the ear of the girl, seemed an anxious, frenzied appeal for freedom. So this was what made him so gloomy, so unlike himself. He was tired of her. He wanted to be free. She was pulling a rose to pieces and fitting the petals over her finger tips. "Shall we ring the curtain down on our little comedy?" he asked in an "it's all for the best" tone. She nodded slowly. She was beginning to see more clearly every minute, just as one's eyes grow accustomed to darkness after the first bewilderment—he wanted to be free.

"Judith," he said, "I shall ask only one favor of you." He hesitated.

"It is granted," she returned coldly. "Perhaps I shall have the honor of congratulating you—also." The "also" was added as an afterthought.

"It is that you will tell it all to me." He hesitated through a sense of delicacy. "If you mind, dear," he added gently, "then don't!"

Did she mind? she asked herself. No; she gloried in the opportunity. If he sighed for his freedom, he should have it. She would make no effort to hold him, but he should understand before she let him go that other men thought her desirable. Then he could go with his freedom, and she would marry any one of the others. It made no difference—she would take the one who next asked her. She was eighteen and infinitely young. The middle aged man opposite felt that he would barter his immortal soul to be twenty-four—to be young with her.

"Shall I begin at the beginning?" she asked in weary tones. He winced.

"No," he replied. "That would include me. Spare me that." There was a long silence. "It is of young Travers, your engagement"—

"Until tonight," she reminded in a dull voice, "I was engaged to you. But"— Her voice stuck. He was waiting for her to begin.

"Mrs. Carr, from New Orleans, was at the Springs," she began. "She is one of my mother's oldest friends. Mr. Travers is her nephew. It was at one of her receptions that I met him first. Shall I tell you everything?" Her voice had a new ring. He thought it was from speaking of her lover.

"Your roses came just as I was starting," she continued. "I wore the blue dress, the one you used to like me in"—

"Child," he interrupted, "you do not understand"—

"Yes, but I do," gayly. "I remember it, every bit. You told me that first night I wore it—do you remember it?—what you whispered out here on the gallery about my 'milk white arms and shadowy hair?' It is a pretty dress. I wore your roses to the reception. They were glorious ones!" She was leaning on her elbows on the table, her big eyes full of mystery.

"When Mrs. Carr presented Mr. Travers," she proceeded, "he told me that he had been knowing me for a long, long time and waiting for me to come, because his hands were tied, as it were, and he couldn't come after me. Then I laughed, because it was such a good joke—really, Bob, he said it very much nicer than I can remember. Then he went on to tell me that it was before the war he had known me. He just graduated two years ago. I am afraid I rather encouraged him in the nonsense. It was such a relief from talking to the women, and I can't help being silly, you know, Bob." His heart felt old and musty and failed, and her every word was giving it a fresh blow. She had made a little pyramid of the rose petals and was nervously tearing it to pieces to reconstruct it.

"He was very nice," she continued. "We went back to sit on the stairs to listen to the music. That was the beginning. He came next day for me to drive with him and told me that he loved me."

"The impudent young"— He forgot that it was of her lover he was speaking.

"He said he couldn't help it," she apologized for him in world weary accents. "But they all say that." There was no trace of vanity in the remark. The red of the roses found brilliant rivals in her cheeks. "Then—then one night," she hesitated, "it was moonlight—down on the beach—he kissed me"—

"He kissed you?" the man exclaimed. "How dare he—how dare you?"

"Don't be too hard on him," she pleaded. "He said something about men not despising a thief if he steal to satisfy his soul when he is hungry."

Bob had risen angrily. A determined little hand pulled him back.

"Remember," a cold voice reminded, "you desired me to tell you."

"Judith!" he reproved sharply.

"And that wasn't all," and she flashed defiant eyes at him. She remembered how jealous he had been. Once she laughed and asked him if he thought the enamored air went sighing after her too. But that was when he had really cared for her. Now he was trying to get rid of her. "I had numerous other lovers at the Springs, Bob. It may be"—she tapped a gay little tune with her fan—"that you might find them diverting. There was Dave Cary"—she assigned her little finger to him—"and Fred Langles," the next finger to him, "both of whom proposed to me at the picnic on the fourth day of July. Then there was Mr. Greyner, who proposed to me at the dance at Judge Birrow's son's birthday—the son also proposed for that matter. Dr. Spaulding set my wrist when I sprained it, and when he dismissed me he asked me to be his wife. That's all the proposals I had at the springs. There were five more when I stopped to visit Lucy Kildare on my way home." The man made a gesture of entreaty. Truly, he had not dreamed of it being this bad. His heart felt like a church on a week day. How could he have ever been fool enough to expect Judith to love him against all these young men?

"If you marry Travers"— It was a cowardly subterfuge to get her away from the others. His voice stuck. She sat alert, with brilliant eyes.

"If I marry Travers, what?" she asked.

"I don't know," miserably.

"I haven't exactly decided which one I shall marry." She leaned back languidly. She was pushing her hair back and trying to pin it in place. "It's really very hard to make up one's mind, Bob. It's the number of them that confuses me." She laughed deliciously. His hand tightened around his glass.

"Bob," the girl suddenly demanded, "what's that you told me once about love lying deep?"

Could he release her? "The hunger of a man's soul" kept running through his head. Could he do it? Wasn't she in crying need of a protector to shield her from this very hunger?

"Bob"—she tossed him a rose—"have you forgotten the lines?"

"'Love lieth deep,'" he began. "'Love dwells not in lip depths. Love wraps his wings on either side the heart.'" There was a long silence. Somehow the silences of Bob were more eloquent than all the lip talk of the others. She was beginning to understand. She thought vaguely of ships cut loose from their moorings. She hated young men.

She remembered the first time she ever saw him. She was doing a skirt dance before the long gilt mirror in the back parlor. She turned to get a sidewise view of herself, and there in the door he was calmly watching her. The others were at the table. The occasion was a dinner party, and he had committed the unpardonable offense of being late. That was the beginning. He very much preferred staying with her, he declared, if she didn't mind. That was the night she started loving him. Hadn't he spent weary hours over the intricacies of toe dancing to coach her? Didn't Bob always understand? The thought that he was just across the table and not engaged to her any more almost suffocated her. She couldn't stand it.

"Bob," she said, with all that perilous youth shining in her eyes, "have you forgotten that toe dance you taught me years ago?" No, with weary resignation, he had not forgotten it.

"Bob," with cruel persistence, "when you told me that night that you had rather stay with me than to go with the old ladies, did you mean it, truly?"

Yes, he was sure he meant it truly. The cafe was deserted. Only Francois, the waiter, lurked in the background, and he couldn't speak English.

"Bob," moving nearer and laying a confiding hand on his arm; "Bob, does your love lie too deep for words?" There was a pleading quality in her tones not to be resisted.

"Child!" He was holding her chin in his most comforting hand and examining her eyes.

"Jack Travers didn't kiss me, truly," she comforted, patting Bob's old gray hairs tenderly. Francois had discreetly withdrawn, fully remunerated. "He said that before I told him about—about how I loved you—I—I told him all about us, Bob"— But she didn't finish. He understood. Bob always understood.

"Child," he whispered, with eyes in which youth had come home to live, "you must be the oldest person on earth. You are straight from the garden of Eden, with youth that is fresh and genuine and eternal. Yes, you are, child!"

Oysters With or Without.

"Sitting opposite me in a downtown oyster house the other day," said a clubman, "was one of those fastidious men who undertake to transmit instructions to the cook through the waiter. He wanted a twenty-five cent stew. As nearly as I can remember, these were his instructions:

"'Now, waiter, kindly tell the cook I don't want the oysters and milk merely mixed and heated. I want the milk carefully boiled first. The oysters should then be added without the liquor. The liquor should not be put in until the seasoning is added. Be very particular to get good rich milk and nothing but the best gilt edged butter. As for the oysters, I want Cape Cod salts. No ordinary stock oysters for me. Do you understand?'

"'I think so, sir,' replied the waiter. 'But do you wish the oysters with or without?'

"'With or without what?' asked the customer.

"'Pearls, sir.'"—New York Press.

THE MEXICAN LIZARD

DELICIOUS EATING, HIS FLESH LIKE THAT OF CHICKEN.

A Tale of the Curious Tail of the Iguana—The Way This Peculiar Creature Can Grow a New Appendage In Place of One Lost or Stolen.

My tale is of the tail of a lizard. We had steamed and railroaded many hundreds of miles and at the end of civilization had started over a steep and narrow trail with horses and pack mules, finally finding ourselves encamped in a deep canyon or barranca in west central Mexico.

Iguanas, great, black lizards, three feet or more in length, were abundant in the deep caves of the cliff, coming out early in the morning to sun themselves and bobbing up and down as an owl ducks his head to get a better look at us as our Mexican cook started the fire or stirred about the camp. We found them delicious eating. Though the Mexican demurred at first, prejudice was soon cast aside. Their limbs might be black skinned and scaly without, but within all was sweet, white meat, like that of chickens and frogs' legs.

The iguanas, which had their burrows in the ground, would climb up each morning, up, up to the topmost limbs of some trees, and there bask in the sun. They had a most startling way of descending, a headlong dive to the underbrush or into the water. As twilight fell the sight of these great black apparitions sprawling earthward was most remarkable. If one of them had ever struck us in its descent our interest in this strange habit would suddenly have become lessened.

Our usual method of procuring these giant lizards for our larder was to shoot them high above us, when they would tumble headlong to our feet. Sometimes we could approach close to one when it was fast asleep in the scorching heat of midday. Once I seized a big fellow by the tail. I was sorry a moment later, but as I did not want to be beaten by a lizard I held stoutly on. Never before had I taken hold of such a steel spring. The creature curled and twisted and snapped its body about, the sharp scales having anything but a pleasant feeling on the palm of my hand. Suddenly something gave way, and I fell on my back, while the iguana shot off in the opposite direction into a deep hollow among the rocks. When I regained my feet I found some nine inches of tail in my hand, almost one-third of the entire animal.

This is not an uncommon occurrence among lizards, and the ability to part with so considerable a portion of their anatomy insures many an escape from what would otherwise be inevitable death.

Almost all animals with backbones have a thick, pliable cushion of cartilage between each of the bones in their spinal column, which permits them to bend and twist it with much freedom. The backbone of the iguana is at first all cartilage, and when the hard cells of the bone begin to be deposited a deep, narrow wedge or crack is left in each tail bone. This is filled with soft cartilage, so these bones are greatly weakened near their centers. Instead of an accidental defect this is an all wise provision of nature, foreseeing that hawks, vagrant naturalists and other enemies may some day be too quick for the reptile and will seize its tail before it can escape.

When this happens, as in my case, the strain of the struggling creature's body is too great for the weak spots in its tail bones, and one of these gives way, with the result above narrated. The muscles, too, are arranged to aid this phenomenon. They are short and thick and conical instead of running the whole length of the tail, and, being only dovetailed together, they readily give way. Only a few drops of blood escape; then the stump heals over, and before long a new tail begins to shoot out.

This, of course, contains no bones, but instead a long, unjointed rod of cartilage exactly like the ancestral one which was present in the embryo iguana. Stranger still, the scales on this new tail are unlike those on the rest of the creature's body and actually may be like those of some bygone ancestor. In the smaller lizards, called geckos, this seems always to be the case.

When I closely examined the tail which the iguana had left in my hands I saw that it was one of these "fraud" tails and had long ago supplanted the original appendage, with which some other enemy, doubtless a feathered one, had absconded. Two new vertebrae or tail bones had come off with the base of my piece.

But the owner cares nothing for the number or character of his new tails. They serve him well, and he is content. It is a curious fact that the tail making machinery in his backbone is so active that sometimes a double or even a triple tail will push out at the stump, and when the original tail is even only slightly injured at one side a tiny tail will often sprout out where it has no right to be.—C. William Beebe in New York Tribune.

Managing a Husband.

Mrs. Brickrow—How do you manage to persuade your husband to buy such expensive bonnets? Mrs. Topflatte—I take him shopping with me, walk him around until he can't stand and then wind up in a bonnet store. He'll buy anything to get home.

His Gladness.

"What happened? Has somebody left you a fortune?"

"No. I've just been up to have the dentist pull a tooth, but a notice on the door says he's at home sick abed."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Why An Emulsion?

Because an emulsion (Scott's) of cod liver oil is agreeable to the taste, while the plain oil is repulsive. Because Scott's Emulsion is easily digested, while the plain oil is not. Because Scott's Emulsion enters the system quickly and without effort, while the plain oil is a burden and a tax on the stomach. Because Scott's Emulsion remains sweet after entering the system, while the plain oil is likely to ferment because of its slow action. Because contains not only the best of the pure oil but other valuable properties, while the plain oil offers nothing but the crude properties of the raw oil. Because Scott's Emulsion is always the same in purity, strength and composition, while the plain oil is apt to vary in all three of these particulars. Because Scott's Emulsion is a hundred times more beneficial and desirable than any plain oil could be.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

SCOTT & BOWNE, 122 Wellington St., West
TORONTO, ONT.

"Just the thing"

For a "bite at bed-time," what could be better than a glass of milk and

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

Canada's finest crackers, from Canada's finest bakery. Crisp, inviting, delicious. In the air-tight boxes, that keep them in faultless condition.

Your grocer has them.

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower

GREW THIS HAIR

Brock Ave., Toronto.

Seven Sutherland Sisters:—

Dear Ladies,—Having used your Hair Grower and Hair and Scalp Cleaner for the last two years with very satisfactory results, I can recommend the same to anyone desirous of growing and preserving a fine growth of hair. I find your Hair Grower stops the hair from falling and makes a rapid growth.

The Scalp Cleaner removes the dandruff and leaves the scalp clean and the hair soft and silken. My hair is now over four feet in length and very heavy as my photo will show. I give you the right to use my letter and photo for advertising in any way you desire.

Yours respectfully,
MAY WALLACE

For sale at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS
SOLE PROPRIETORS
CANADIAN OFFICE, 256 YONGE ST., TORONTO
J. H. BAILEY, Foreign Manager. 11
RECOMMENDED AND SOLD BY
D. M. Waters, Belleville.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

The real "stuff" in a man shows when he loses his job. One man is panic-stricken, and regales his friends with his misfortune. Another, through timely advertising, secures a better position before his last day in the old one comes around.

Youth and Freshness

Is the feeling one has after taking a box or two of

WATERS' RED IRON BLOOD PILLS.

None better as a TONIC and BUILDER.
25c box—5 boxes $1.00.

WATERS

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

A Distinctive Home!

Isn't that what you want ?

You can have it. No matter how much or how little you spend on its decorations. Come to us we will tell you how.

You will find our ideas practical as well as artistic.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

Chair Specials For Friday.

We have several half dozen lots of Chairs that we purpose clearing out at greatly reduced prices.

. . .

Good time now to have your upholstering and repairing done before the spring rush.

B. E. SILLS,
J. G. Frost's Old Stand.
Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

You must understand before you are understood.

Gifts show which way the wind blows.

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

Glove Sale

Don't think for a moment that winter has deserted us—and Gloves are still as necessary as they are fashionable.

$1.50 Gloves for	$1.15
1.25 Gloves for	1.00
1.00 Gloves for	.79
.75 Gloves for	.59
.50 Gloves for	.39

Chas. J. Symons,
successor to W. B. Deacon.
Shirts Made to Order. 298 Front St.

SPICE
SOUP
FLOUR
TEA
EGGS

ONE DOLLAR

buys more Groceries at our store than anywhere else in town. Special prices in Canned Goods, crisp Crackers in packages or by the pound, fine Flour and Granulated Sugar.

THE EXTRA GOOD QUALITY of everything we sell makes these special prices a matter of importance to every careful buyer.

W. R. CARNRITE.

New arrival of fresh Dairy Butter at 25c lb.

The Toggery Shop

We are now settled in our new furnishing parlors

"Next Door Anlgo-American,"

where we will welcome all our old customers.

For a few days we will close out at cost all Odds and Ends of winter stock.

As you are aware we have nothing but new goods.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.
Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

Success always stands for itself. Failure needs no explanation.

It is the part of wisdom to make as many friends as you can, and to ask them as few favors as you can.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
J. E. Carman, Manager.

TUESDAY. MAR. 14

E. H. SOTHERN'S greatest success, H. C. DeMille's and David Belasco's delightful comedy . . .

Lord Chumley

With Cecil DeMille supported by an exceptionally capable company.

340 Nights in New York, 250 Nights in Boston. 200 Nigts in Chicago.

—Management Mrs. H. C. DeMille.—

Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.00.
Plan Opens Saturday Morning

At Osgoode Hall.

Divisional Court — Before Falconbridge, C.J., Garrow, J.A., Street, J.

Ruttan vs. Tracey.—T. A. O'Rourke (Trenton), for defendants, a farmer and wife, sued as joint markers of four promissory notes, appealed from judgment of judge of County Court of Northumberland and Durham, dated 9th January, 1905, in favor of plaintiff for $200, the amount of two promissory notes dated 13th April, 1898, and dismissing actions on the other notes, on the ground that they were barred by Statute of Limitations. The defendants contended that these notes were signed by them upon a Sunday, and were therefore null and void, and also that they were given without consideration for accommodation. The plaintiff contended that, though signed on Sunday, the date was filled in later by himself, and that the notes represented indebtedness over and above amount of chattel mortgage under which he shortly subsequently took possession. The trial judge held that the Lord's Day Act does not prohibit the marking of promissory notes per se. A. Abbott (Trenton), for plaintiff, opposed appeal. Appeal dismissed with costs.

Caught a Monster.

Picton, March 7.—A sturgeon measuring seven feet three inches and weighing 247 lbs. is on exhibition at the Globe hotel here. It was caught on the south side of Waupoose Island by Messrs. Morcaunt and Bongard, who experienced considerable difficulty in landing the monster through the small hole in the ice.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

That half their ills are due to impoverished blood, they would use Ferrozone and be saved lots of pain and suffering. Ferrozone is a perfect food for the blood, and supplies the strengthening elements needed to maintain health and vigor. Ferrozone is a splendid tonic for weak, nervous women and drives away those depressed feelings of dead weariness. You'll have strength—lots of it—your complexion will improve, you will feel ten years younger after a course of Ferrozone, which builds up the whole human organism; try it. Price 50c.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES.

WHICH ARE VERY TIMELY JUST NOW—HOW BELLEVILLE HOSPITAL COMPARES WITH THOSE OF OTHER PLACES, ACCORDING TO THE GOVERNMENT REPORT.

The report of the Government Inspector of Hospitals, for the year ending September 30, 1905, which is, we believe, the last so far issued, gives the following figures, which are very timely just now:

Hospital.	Total Number of Patients	Amount Paid by Patients	Government Grant	Municipal Grant	County Grant	Private Donations
Belleville	411	$4024	$1039	$ 311	$ 69	$1129
Brantford	598	4190	1194	3000	1000	428
Brockville General	677	5822	1002	400	430	681
Brockville St. Vincent de Paul	922	5660	2300	400	300	1436
Chatham General	510	7025	1943	30	190	301
Chatham, St. Joseph's	520	5796	704	104	181	——
Guelph General	770	11027	2705	1000	1200	1942
Guelph, St. Joseph's	464	5860	1205	100	800	407
St. Catharines	364	4125	810	1000	600	840
St. Thomas	214	2558	592	2500	——	——
Stratford	259	4488	468	500	1000	781

John Blues' step was slow and weary,
And his cheeks were pale and thin,
But he got the "SWISS FOOD" habit,
It has made a man of him.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"LORD CHUMLEY."

The most successful of all the famous Belasco-De Mille plays, "Lord Chumley," with Cecil De Mille in the title role will be the attraction at the Carman next Tuesday. Mrs. De Mille, wife of the author and manager of the Belasco-De Mille plays, has chosen this delightful comedy for her son Cecil's first appearance as an independent star. It is said that the management has provided a very clever company; and the scenic effects are the same as used by E. H. Sothern in his run of over 300 nights.

JURY RETURNED AN OPEN VERDICT.

Plainfield Inquest Resulted in a Finding that Appears to Put Matters

Up to the Authorities—Old Mr. Lloyd Gave Testimony—Found His Wife Dead.

Queer Case of the Bread Knife—Doctors Find Cut on Left Temple.

The case of Mrs. Adam Lloyd, who was found dead in her chair on the morning of January 30th last, at her home in Moneymore, Hungerford Township, remains a mystery. Many things are yet unexplained, which may, perhaps, be explained later.

The inquest in the village of Plainfield yesterday resulted in practically an open verdict being returned. The jury were satisfied that the woman did not come to her death by natural causes and that she did not commit suicide. The post mortem divulged the fact that the unfortunate woman had a deep cut just above the left temple, which was evidently the result of a blow sufficient to cause insensibility.

The inquest was not over until a late hour last night, or rather this morning, to be more exact. Dr. Yeomans, of this city, coroner, presided, and the following gentlemen composed the jury: John Clapp, foreman; F. Pope, L. Moore, E. Outwater, W. H. Howe, W. Gould, R. Dellenback, J. A. Parks, E. Collins, J. Hudgins, S. Danning and J. Hamilton.

THE EVIDENCE.

What the Husband Said.

From the evidence of Adam Lloyd, the dead woman's husband, it would appear that he and Mrs. Lloyd were not living together last summer or a portion of this winter. She came to him after New Year's. She was living at Brickman's all summer. He visited Brickman's place frequently, but never was away from home all night. In answer to questions, he said: I live in Hungerford. No one lived with us. The property was originally in my wife's name, she owning it. She deeded the property back to her daughter and son-in-law. She and myself took a life lease and agreement from them. I was to be kept whilst I lived and when I died she was to be kept. After her death I had still the same rights as before. We had been married 25 years. There was no reason for her going to her son-in-law's to stay. She was 67 years of age. She was a smart, active woman and willing to work. It was daylight the morning she died when we got up. We had no words, and everything between us that morning was as pleasant as usual. I lit the fire that morning. I went to the barn and was absent from the house about 25 minutes. When leaving the barn I smelled a strong smell and ran to the house. On entering what was called the square room I found it filled with smoke, and I was frightened. Found my wife in a rocking chair. Her clothing was all burned off about the middle of the body. There was a little blaze about the shoulders. She was sitting in the chair with her hands folded on her lap in the way she ordinarily sat in the chair. She was dead when I picked her up and laid her down on the floor after putting out the fire on the clothing. She sat in the chair as naturally as if she were living. My hands were blistered after handling the body. Did not look for any marks or wounds upon the body, but am sure she was dead when I got to her. Her hands were not burned at all. I went after my nearest neighbor, Thomas Wright. Mrs. Wright came back with me to the house. She did nothing until other neighbors came in. Body was after taken to Mr. Brickman's house. I cannot account for her death. I gave no instructions to Brickman that there was or was not to be an inquest. Dr. Hudson, a coroner, was seen and he said an inquest was not necessary. The bread knife I kept in the cupboard. I had it on Saturday, before my wife died. When it was wanted at noon on Monday it could not be found. Was not found for a couple of weeks after, under some papers in the bottom of the cupboard. Don't know how it could have got there. I cannot account for my wife's death. I believe that she caught fire from the stove.

Caretaker Received no Certificate.

Samuel Ketcheson said he was caretaker of the vault in Vantassel's burying ground, and received the body of Mrs. Lloyd, but had no certificate to receive the body. No one saw the body until it was shown to the jury and afterwards delivered to the doctors for the post mortem.

The Post Mortem.

Drs. W. W. Boyce and W. M. Mather, of this city, presented their report of the post mortem examination of the body of Mrs. Lloyd. After describing the body, etc., the physicians say that at the outer angle of the left eyebrow they found a clean cut wound three-quarters of an inch long, with dark colored abrupt edges. Extending backward and upwards from this wound the outer skin was abrased and partially peeled off to the extent of one and a half by two inches of surface. On removing the scalp over this locality it was found reddened, contused and blood stained; also the periastium beneath in same condition. On a corresponding locality on the right side there were no visible external marks, but on turning back the scalp it was found here to be reddened, contused and blood stained over a smaller but irregular area about the size of a cent. Staining by blood in this locality was much less than on left side. Left eye showed signs of putrefaction; skin and parts beneath bloodless. The burned parts of the body were minutely described. On the right side, extending from aulla downwards over side of chest and on upwards to collar bone, was a deep black charred wound, destroying the skin and tissues beneath, irregular in form and six inches by four in extent. The internal organs were found to be in a healthy condition. The heart was normal. The brain was found healthy and normal. Covering of brain was red, congested and blood vessels disturbed.

Dr. Mather's Testimony.

Dr. Mather, on being sworn, said he was slightly acquainted with the deceased. She talked strangely at times. In answer to questions he said: I think the wound described on left side of head was inflicted during life, and I would think it was a short time before death; probably immediately before death. The skin of the neck was sufficiently destroyed by fire to have obliterated any signs of strangulation. From the condition of blood vessels in the brain I would think that death had been sudden. Cannot say that burns had been produced before or after death. Don't see how a person could be burned this way or fire start from sparks with the condition of the hands found. The wound on left side of face was from a fall or blow and was done during life. The blow or wound found could have been caused by a blunt instrument such as a stick.

Dr. Boyce's Testimony.

Dr. Boyce, sworn, said he agreed with the report of the post-mortem read by Dr. Mather. In reply to questions he said: I think the wound was ante-mortem. The presence of the blood showed this. From nature of wound, depth, extent, etc., I would think it was of moderate severity and might have been caused by a blunt instrument, such as a stick. The contusion found on right side might result from a fall or a blow, such as being knocked against the wall. The blow, I think, would have produced insensibility. The burning was so sharply defined and so well marked that I would conclude that the fire did not extend over a great area, and that there was great heat such as would have been produced by using some inflammable material to saturate the clothing. I do not think it would be possible for such burning to take place in so short a time from ordinary burning clothing. I think the woman was in an unconscious condition when the burning took place, and that the shock due to the intense and sudden heat was the cause of death. From the description of body and the condition of the hands I would not think the person could have burned herself up. It is an exceptionally rare thing for one to attempt suicide by burning. Do not think, even if insane, one could sit and burn in this way without using and burning hands. There was nothing that would indicate any agony on the face.

Adam Lloyd Again.

Adam Lloyd, recalled, said there was a gallon bottle of coal oil in the bed room. There were two coal oil spots on the floor. Some of the oil was gone out of the bottle. Did not find any smell of coal oil on clothes, but found a woollen cloth in the bed room, soaked with coal oil. Found the cloth on Monday after his wife was dead.

Mrs. Wright's Testimony.

Mrs. Isabella Wright, in her evidence, testified that she assisted in preparing the body for burial. There was much heat from the body, but the hands were cold. Saw the cut on the left forehead, but saw no blood. The expression on the face was peaceful. Mr. Lloyd told witness about the burning, and that night spoke about the coal oil. Witness said she could not throw any light upon the cause of death. Never knew Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd to quarrel, but knew that Mrs. Lloyd was away from her husband for some time.

Other Witnesses.

Lillie A. Bowers said she assisted in preparing the body for burial. Did not examine the head and saw no blood. The body was badly burned. The hands were not burned. Saw a wound over the left eye and the eye was somewhat red. Did not hear Mr. Lloyd make any statement. Did not hear anything about coal oil. The dead woman's features were natural and did not indicate any suffering.

Adelaide V. Burley corroborated the evidence of the preceding witness. Saw the wound, but did not examine it. Saw no blood. Do not know much about the family. Asked Lloyd how it occurred, and he said when he came back from the barn he found Mrs. Lloyd on fire.

Elizabeth A. Kincade corroborated the two previous witnesses as to the condition of the house when she went in. Mrs. Brickman asked witness if she could smell any coal oil. Witness said no. She said probably mother had made away with herself. She might have saturated herself with coal oil and set herself on fire. She said that last summer her mother had tried to do away with herself, that she found a file under her pillow and marks on her neck.

A Daughter's Testimony.

Helen Brickman, sworn, said she was a daughter of the deceased. Questioned, said: I got a deed of the property where mother lived. Have heard that she and her husband have had trouble about property, but was small at the time. Father was hot tempered, but did not hold spite. I tried to keep peace between them. Never knew that either struck a blow. I fully believe that at times mother was not in her right mind. Father told me she admitted having tried to take her life. When I saw the body the morning of the affair she looked peaceful and natural. Father told me how it happened.

An Explanation.

Wm. Ferguson, in his testimony, said he had asked Mr. Lloyd how the cut was made over Mrs. Lloyd's eye. He said that when he dragged her out of the chair she must have struck either the chair or floor and been cut. He did not say anything about coal oil.

A Brother's Evidence.

Thomas Smith said he was a brother of the deceased. Never knew she had any idea of taking her life. Mr. Lloyd spoke to him (the witness) about the farm, and said that place was his now, and he could do as he liked with it. Witness understood that Lloyd thought, as his wife was dead, he would have control of the place.

A Statement Denied.

Leslie Brickman, in his evidence, denied that Lloyd had showed him a woolen rag saturated with coal oil.

That concluded the evidence, and the jury, after deliberation, brought in the following verdict:

The Verdict

That the deceased, Hannah Lloyd did not come to her death through natural causes or by or through any suicidal acts or intention of her own. That death was due to the shock caused by the burning, aggravated by the wound on the side of the head. As to the direct cause of the fire or by what means she received the wound on the head we are unable to say from the evidence produced.

Crown Attorney is Non-Committal.

In conversation with Mr. Anderson, County Attorney, that gentleman informed The Intelligencer that nothing further had yet been done in the matter, and he could not at present state what action would be taken. The evidence and the jury's verdict would have to be carefully considered.

Old Boys' Reunion.

WILL LAST TWO DAYS — DATES NOT YET DECIDED ON, THOUGH THREE ARE SUGGESTED.

A meeting of the General Committee in connection with the Old Boys' Reunion was held in the Council Chamber yesterday afternoon.

The President, Mr. Wm. Johnson, was in the chair.

Whilst a number of matters were informally talked over, nothing definite can be accomplished until the dates are settled. It was anticipated that the dates would have been announced at yesterday's meeting, but the Toronto Association has not yet been heard from officially, and it is the desire of the Committee to have the reunion at a date which will be satisfactory to that Association. Three different dates were spoken about and these will be submitted to the Toronto Association for selection.

Those in attendance at the meeting were Messrs. Wm. Johnson, president, A. McGinnis, C. Bogart, C. C. Leavens, W. B. Deacon, T. Ritchie, A. McGie, J. J. [illegible], J. A. Tousaw, R. W. Adams, J. M. Hurley and J. W. Johnson.

Mr. Ritchie stated that a deputation had waited upon the City Council and that body had agreed to place $500 as a fund towards entertainments of guests, etc.

A communication was read from Dr. Yeomans, chairman of Entertainment Committee, stating that Messrs. W. B. Riggs, D. M. Waters, C. C. Leavens, A. E. Lewis, L. R. Terwilligar, J. H. Starling, H. P. Thomas, H. Fish, H. McGinnis, W. Carnew and Sheriff Hope had agreed to work upon that committee. He was also organizing a committee of ladies to act in conjunction with this committee and Mrs. (Col.) Campbell had agreed to act as convenor of the ladies.

After considerable discussion, Mr. Flint moved, seconded by Mr. McGie, that a two days' demonstration be held in connection with the reunion.

Considerable discussion took place as to the date of the reunion, the general impression being that such dates should be selected as would meet with the approval of the Toronto Association. The dates submitted as suitable were July 17th, 18th, July 24th and 25th, and August 7th and 8th.

Mr. C. Bogart moved, seconded by Mr. McGie, that an advertisement be placed in the city newspapers asking citizens to send in to the Secretary the names of absent relatives and friends. — Carried.

Col. Ponton reported, as chairman of the Reception Committee that he had been at work but his committee was not yet complete. Col. Buchan was in the city yesterday, and he (the speaker) was in conversation with him. The Colonel would do all he could to have the artillery here and give a musical ride, which would prove both interesting and pleasing. It would no doubt cost some money in the way of transportation.

A communication was read from Col. Halliwell stating that he was in hearty accord with the Old Boys' Reunion, and he would consult the officers of the Fiftieth Regiment as to taking part in the demonstration. He had no doubt that the Regiment would be ready when called upon.

A motion prevailed that the Secretary request the newspapers to publish the list of subscribers to the reunion fund

Col. Ponton stated that he had received correspondence from old Belleville boys in Montreal who were anxious to learn when the dates would be, and as soon as they were settled upon arrangements would be made for a contingent to come here from the Metropolis.

This was all the business transacted, and the meeting was adjourned for one week.

Latest War News.

JAPS HAVE CUT THE RAILWAY NORTH OF MUKDEN — CASUALTIES IN RECENT BATTLE WILL EXCEED 100,000 — AN AWFUL BUTCHER'S BILL.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Tokio, March 8, 4 p.m. — The Japanese have cut the railway north of Mukden.

More than 8,000 Russian dead lie before Gen. Oku's army alone, it is said, and it is expected the reports from the other armies will treble this number.

The casualties on both sides will probably exceed 100,000.

It is stated that Field Marshal Oyama has directed his army not to encamp in large bodies in the vicinity of Mukden, in order to appease the native residents and safeguard the historic cradle of the Manchu dynasty.

St. Petersburg, March 9, 3 p.m.—A veil is drawn over the progress of Gen. Kuropatkin's heroic effort to extricate his beaten army, but the general staff insists that while he has been defeated there has been no disaster.

The peril of the whole army, especially of the rear guard, is admitted and Mukden may have been evacuated last night. Yesterday Gen. Bilderling's army, which held the centre, fell back upon the Hun River, clinging all the day desperately to Madyapu, at the apex southwest of the city.

LITTLE IRENE COLE'S MURDERER HANGED HIMSELF LAST NIGHT.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Brantford, Ont., March 9.—Joseph Kennedy, who last night was found guilty of criminal assault on Irene Cole, and sentenced to life imprisonment with 75 lashes, committed suicide in the jail during the night by hanging himself with a sheet.

In the Justice Shop.

VAGRANCY.

Helen Ellis, aged 18 years, and a stranger here, was arrested at midnight whilst wandering about the street and was charged with vagrancy. She was allowed to go this morning, as a place of employment was found for her.

OF UNSOUND MIND.

An elderly man named Wm. Robinson was committed to jail as a person of unsound mind.

ALLEGED INCENDIARISM.

A girl named Margaret Hunter was charged with unlawfully setting fire to premises occupied by Mr. Geo. Clapper, on Pinnacle street. It appears that a few evenings ago the house in question was set fire to on the outside by some party, and suspicion rested upon the accused owing to some remarks she made last summer, that the place should be burned up. The evidence was purely circumstantial and the accused was acquitted. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown and Mr. Carnew the accused.

SCHOOL SUITS.

Spring is tip-toeing along and the boys are beginning to appear at school in their new clothes. Your boy is wondering when it will be his turn. Quick & Robertson are ready to rig him out from head to foot. Smart looking, wear resisting suits $2, $3, $4, up to $7. There are many handsome new styles out for Spring wear.

Quietly Wedded.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. T. M. Foley, Murney street, when Mr. R. G. Parks, of Richmond Township, and Miss Awilda Doolittle, of Hillier, were married. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. H. Leitch. The young couple were unattended.

TO KNOCK OUT COLDS

And cure them in an hour without resorting to nauseous drugs just use fragrant, healing Catarrhozone—the most pleasant, prompt and certain cure for colds ever discovered. No medicine to take, you simply breathe the balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone. It never fails to root out the worst colds and is so simple and convenient to use that no one can afford to be without it. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you won't have colds. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c.

Daily Intelligencer.

More of Those Chewing Chocolate Caramels...

JUST MADE, 25c LB.

Chas. S. Clapp

Take the Elevator Please!

It is faster than walking up stairs.

McKeown's Calisaya Hypophosphites is an elevator from the basement of sickness to the top story of health.

Don't try the long way.

Do you want rosy cheeks? Do you want that reserved feeling of strength? Do you want to be vigorous as a young sapling?

Get this greatest of tonics.

It cures quickly.

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,

Sole Agent for Belleville.

Tel 33. Front St.

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

Royal Baking Powder

45 CENTS a pound can AT ALL GROCERS

25 cents a half pound can

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is absolutely pure.

Royal Baking Powder assures wholesome food; it makes the best biscuits, cakes and all hot-breads; it protects the family from the danger of alum and other injurious substitutes.

Royal Baking Powder saves time, saves butter, flour and eggs; saves health.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, March 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 21,000; good to prime steers, $5 to $6.25; poor to medium, $3.75 to $4.75; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.60.

Hogs—Receipts, 33,000; mixed and butchers', $4.80 to $5.15; good to choice, heavy, $5 to $5.20; rough, heavy, $4.85 to $5.95; light, $4.75 to $5.05; bulk of sales, $4.95 to $5.05.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 22,000; good to choice wethers, $5.60 to $6; fair to choice, mixed, $5 to $5.50; native lambs, $5.75 to $7.75.

Trading Stamp Campaign.

Ottawa, March 9.—The Prime Minister will receive the deputation who desire the passage of legislation prohibiting the use of trading stamps.

His Injuries Were Fatal.

Toronto, March 9.—Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock as Arthur Armstrong, J. P., of Gilnockie, Lloydtown, was crossing King Street West, near the Massey-Harris Works, he was struck and knocked down and rendered senseless by a street car. He was ultimately removed to the General Hospital, where his death occurred about noon yesterday. The deceased was one of the best-known men in the Township of King. He was a Canadian, born here in 1835, being the eldest son of the late Captain Armstrong of Lloydtown, and was educated at Upper Canada College.

Look Before You Shoot.

The true sportsman may be defined as one who looks before he shoots.

The world's great men have not commonly been great scholars nor its great scholars great men.

A "SWEET" STOMACH

Is the key-note of a happy heart. Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets make and keep the stomach sweet, because they aid digestion and prevent ferment.

Stomach ferment induces Indigestion. Indigestion produces distress after eating, weight in the stomach, wind on the stomach, loss of appetite, dizziness, nausea, impoverished blood, catarrh of the stomach, sick headache and many other disorders—but Dr. Von Stan's pineapple tablets nip the trouble in the bud, and prevent the seating of diseases. Eminent physicians prescribe them. Sixty tablets, 35 cents. 64

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

VERY SOON

It won't be very long before some early spring wedding causes you to look around to see what you will get your friend.

We are showing some new and pretty pieces in Silverware at very reasonable prices consistent with high class goods.

A very handsome piece is a new cake dish with raised pierced border, silver or gilt centre at.................. $2.50

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. JEWELLER OPTICIAN

POCKET BOOK AND HAND BAG SALE.

We have about 500 sample Purses, Pocket Books and Hand Sachels, Traveller's samples, bought at less than half the regular price. We will clear them out in three lots:

LOT 1	Will be	10c
LOT 2	Will be	25c
LOT 3	Will be	50c

We will also clear out four gross Dressing Combs, black rubber, the price was 20c, to clear at.................. 10c

We have still a fine lot of the finest patterns of 12½c Print eft, to clear at (per yd.).................. 10c

We are selling a 10c bar of sweet pink Toilet Soap this week, at 5c or six for.................. 25c

McINTOSH BROS.

NOT SETTLED YET.

Cabinet Not Through With Temiskaming Railway Commission Question—First Big Civil Servant Change.

Toronto, March 9.—The Cabinet did not get through with the Temiskaming Railway question at yesterday's sitting. Up to last night the resignations of Robert Jaffray, E. C. Gurney and J. W. Leonard of London as members of the Temiskaming Commission had been received, leaving only B. E. Folger of Kingston and M. J. O'Brien of Renfrew to carry out the request of the Government that they resign.

Mr. Whitney was shown a despatch from Kingston that a close friend of one of the board had said the Commissioners would not resign, but would throw the onus of altering the personnel of the Commission on the Government. To this he replied that the three resignations already received showed that the story was quite unlikely.

Housekeeper O'Brien Resigns.

The resignation of Patrick O'Brien, housekeeper of the Parliament Buildings, was accepted at a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday afternoon. Premier Whitney said last night that Mr. O'Brien's successor may be appointed to-day. The job is worth $900 a year and a suite of rooms in the buildings. Other perquisites, such as the purchase of supplies, attach to the position. He has been 18 years in the position, and under the old administration, Mr. O'Brien had considerable power in relation to the control of the inferior servants of the House, but the new Government recently decided to transfer this authority to the Sergeant-at-Arms.

Lands of Veterans.

A large deputation of army veterans waited upon Hon. J. J. Foy at the Parliament Buildings yesterday afternoon in regard to the act providing for the appropriation of certain lands for the volunteers who served in South Africa and the volunteer militia who served on the frontier in 1866 or in 1870. John Jones introduced the deputation. Members of the Government present beside Hon. J. J. Foy were Hon. J. P. Whitney, Hon. Dr. Willoughby and Hon. J. Monteith and Hon. Col. Matheson.

David Creighton complained that the late Government had handed over to Americans who styled themselves "The Veterans' Land Company, Limited," the Townships of Taylor, Carr, Beatty, Hyslop and Bowman. J. K. Leslie spoke for the veterans of 1885.

Surgeon-Col. Ryerson of the Northwest Field Force Veterans of 1870 thought that that body should receive recognition.

Capt. Musson requested the issuing of patents at once.

Davis Had Juggled.

Major Robertson said that Hon. E. J. Davis had juggled at every point, had cancelled land that he had picked out and had inconvenienced him greatly. In reply, Hon. Mr. Foy said that, while the deputation had been successful in defending the country they had been unsuccessful in capturing their own lands. Their request would receive every consideration.

Hon. J. P. Whitney spoke as a veteran and as the Premier. As a veteran, he said the grant was so hedged around with conditions that he had not considered his location worth looking after. As a Minister of the Crown, he hoped the Government might see its way clear to grant their requests The Government could not forget the hundreds of acres that would be allotted, and the time it would take to survey the lands.

PROTEST IN THE SOO.

Two More Promised, Which Will Total Five Conservative Protests.

Toronto, March 9.—It was reported here that a protest was filed at the Soo yesterday against the election of Charles N. Smith.

This will make the third petition filed by Conservatives, the other two being Kingston and Port Arthur.

Two more Conservative protests are certain, one at Goderich against M. G. Cameron, the other at Picton against Dr. Currie—the two recount cases.

This will total five Conservative protests.

Where Will Liberals Protest?

There will of course be five Liberal protests to offset these, but no one outside of the party organizers will venture the constituencies. It is not improbable that Hamilton will supply one and perhaps two.

Kingston, March 9.—The Liberal Association has endorsed a counter-petition against Donald McIntyre, the defeated Conservative candidate, and his co-workers in the Kingston Provincial election. The solicitor said there was plenty of evidence of bribery and corruption against their opponents, who used unlimited money in the contest.

O. A. HOWLAND DEAD

Ex-Mayor of Toronto Passes After a Lingering Illness

Parliamentarian, Author and Courtly Figure in Civic Affairs—Inaugurated the Movement for a Union of Canadian Municipalities to Watch Their Rights and Influence Legislation in Their Behalf—As a Writer.

Toronto, March 9.—O. A. Howland, K.C., C. M. G., died shortly after 1 o'clock this morning at his residence, 35 Isabella Street. He had been sinking steadily for several days, and only his splendid physique sustained him through such a lengthened critical period. Mr. Howland was a sufferer from Bright's disease, to which was added an attack of heart trouble.

No funeral arrangements have been made, but it will likely take place to-morrow afternoon, and will be of a public or semi-public character.

Sketch of His Career.

Oliver Aiken Howland was descended from United Empire Loyalist stock, and belonged to a family that has been most prominent in the political and commercial history of Canada. It is almost three centuries since his American progenitor, John Howland, a Quaker, settled in New England. His father, Sir William Pearce Howland, who is now in his 94th year, was born in New York State, but in 1830 he removed to Canada and purchased the Lambton Mills in 1840, which he operated for some years with his brother, the late R. S. Howland. There the deceased author and legislator was born on April 18, 1847, having at his death almost completed his 58th year.

Mr. Howland received his primary education at Upper Canada College, afterwards attending the Toronto Model Grammar School, and being graduated from the University of Toronto. He then began the study of law in the office of the late Chief Justice Cameron, and was admitted to practice in 1875, since which time he has resided in Toronto. He was elected Vice-President of the Canadian Bar Association in 1896, and appointed one of Her Majesty's Counsel learned in the law by Sir Charles Tupper in the same year. He later appeared before the Privy Council on numerous occasions, achieving much fame through his connection with the case of Langtry vs. Du Moulin and other important actions.

In Politics.

In 1894 he entered political life, and was returned in the Conservative interest at the general election as member for South Toronto in the Provincial House by a majority of 2,070 over Hon. Charles Moss, now Chief Justice of Ontario. His taste, however, turned toward literature and scientific investigation, and of late years he devoted himself almost entirely to such work. He was long an active member of the Canadian Institute, being a member of the council in 1892, '93 and '94, and in the first year being chairman of the Memorial Publication Committee in connection with the Ontario Centenary. He was chairman of the historical section in 1895, and initiated the movement for the celebration in 1897 of the 400th anniversary of Cabot's landing in Nova Scotia by a Canadian Historical Exhibition.

In Civic Affairs.

His deep interest in municipal matters led to his selection as president of the International Deep Waterways Association in 1884, to which he was re-elected in Cleveland in the following year. In 1896 he was appointed Commissioner for Great Britain and Canada to report on the subject of deep waterways and lake levels. In 1901-2 he was elected Mayor of Toronto, being defeated in 1903 by the present incumbent. During his first term he inaugurated the movement for a union of Canadian municipalities, for the purpose of influencing legislation infringing upon or protecting their rights, and succeeded in forming the association, which is now generally recognized as a very potent force in Canadian politics. He served for two years as President, being re-elected in 1902 at the meeting in Montreal. During Mr. Howaldn's first term as Myaor, the Duke and Duchess of York made their tour of Canada, and he was honored by being created Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

As a Writer.

His earlier literary efforts were "The Irish Problem" (1887) and "The New Empire" (1891). He also became well known as a contributor to The Week, The Canadian Magazine and The Barrister, and as a reviewer of works on history and travel. In "The New Empire," in 1891, he first advocated an international court for the settlement of all questions that might arise between the people and Governments of the United States and the British Empire. His proposition was adopted as the basis of the treaty agreed upon in 1897 by Lord Salisbury and President Cleveland. Mr. Howland for the past few years has lived a rather retired life, devoting himself entirely to his literary work, and but rarely taking part in public affairs.

Mr. Howland was a member of the Church of England, having been for many years churchwarden of St. James' Cathedral. He never married. He was a member of the Toronto Club, National Club, Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Rideau Club and St. George's Club, London, England.

G. W. Ross, Globe Director.

Toronto, March 9.—George W. Ross, ex-Premier, was elected a director of The Globe at the annual meeting of the Company yesterday. Mr. Ross was a director of The Globe before becoming Premier.

FELIX DOYLE SANE.

So Says Dr. Richardson of the Hamilton Insane Asylum—To Be Tried for Matricide.

Brantford, March 9.—At the preliminary hearing in Burford yesterday afternoon, Felix Doyle was committed for trial charged with the murder of his mother. The hearing was before Squires Cox and Gray.

Doyle showed considerable nervousness all afternoon, remarking when the magistrates had given their decision, "No, I'm not guilty."

Dr. Richardson of the Hamilton Insane Asylum has made an examination of Doyle and found him perfectly sane.

Evidence was brought out at the hearing yesterday that Doyle had not called at the Elvidge horse early on the morning of the crime and had failed to awaken the people as he had claimed.

Mrs. Elvidge said she saw no footprints in the newly-fallen snow, and claimed she certainly would have noticed them.

Other witnesses swore that Felix had said: "What's the use making such a fuss about the old lady, there was a man killed in Brantford the other day, and nothing came of it."

Detective Greer was also on the stand and gave evidence showing how Felix had changed his story of the occurrence more than once.

Only ten witnesses were called all afternoon.

Doyle will come up for trial at the Fall Assizes in this city.

SEVENTY-FIVE LASHES.

And Imprisonment for Life for Joseph Kennedy.

Brantford, March 9.—After being acquitted a little over a year ago of the murder of Irene Cole, Joseph Kennedy was last night found guilty of carnally knowing the little nine-year-old victim of the crime. Mr. Justice Teetzel, who presided at the court, sentenced Kenned to life imprisonment, together with 75 lashes, which is the extreme penalty for the offence.

Asked if he had anything to say, the prisoner remarked: "I think I have been unfairly tried. There have been certain witnesses against me who have sworn to lies."

All the evidence in the case had been taken before 6 o'clock last evening. No new evidence of any importance had been adduced.

Mr. Justice Teetzel briefly reviewed the evidence, giving the jury the usual cautions. The jury came to a verdict in a little over half an hour. Kennedy walked to the prisoner's box with the same unconcern that has characterized all his actions. No one could tell that he was very much worked up about the case. He remained calm till after the sentence was pronounced, and he was taken back to his cell.

In pronouncing sentence, the justice remarked that he was thoroughly in accord with the verdict of the jury, and in his opinion the maximum penalty was none too strong for such an offence against society.

Shot Four Times.

Montreal, March 9.—A special from Three Rivers states that Percy H. Sclater, a farmer, 36 years of age, residing at Grande Anse, was found dead in his stable, having been shot in the head four times. Deceased was formerly in the employ of the Hudson Bay Co. A widow and two children survive. Murder was committed and it is said that several arrests will soon take place.

Murders Wife and Babes.

Danville, Ark., March 9.—James Ince, confronted with the dead bodies of his wife and three children, the latter ranging in age from 4 months to 4 years, broke down and confessed to their murder, saying that it seemed impossible to make a living for his family.

Cummings Goes for Trial.

Toronto, March 9.—James K. Cummings, formerly chief chemist of the Henry K. Wampole Co., was committed for trial by Magistrate Denison yesterday on a charge of stealing the formulae and some electro-plates belonging to the Wampole Co. The bail was reduced from $3,000 to $1,000 at the request of Mr. A. E. DuVernet, who appeared for the prisoner.

The Chadwick Case.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 9.—The case of the Government against Mrs. Chadwick was completed yesterday afternoon.

CANADA TAKES DOCKYARDS.

Fits Into Scheme for Establishment of Naval Militia.

Ottawa, March 9.—(Globe Special.)—From what can be learned, the Imperial Government is willing that Canada should take over the dockyards at Halifax as well as the fortifications. The dockyards will be useful in connection with the scheme for the establishment of a naval militia.

At some of the English naval centres, they have what are termed naval barracks. The same thing will be possible in Halifax when the Imperial authorities move out. There is accommodation at Halifax for 800 seamen, or just about the number to be enrolled under Mr. Prefontaine's naval militia bill.

In connection with the change of management of fortifications, it appears that Canada will provide the pay of those Imperial troops who have to remain until those trained Canadian soldiers are available to take their places.

Millbrook Station Burns.

Millbrook, March 9.—At about 10 o'clock Tuesday night fire was discovered in the ticket office of the G. T. R., and within a few minutes the whole station and the freight sheds were in flames. All the books and tickets were burned. But very little freight was in the sheds, most of it having been delivered during the day. The fire is supposed to have originated from the heating apparatus.

Apollinaris

"THE QUEEN OF TABLE WATERS."

Naturally effervescent and mildly alkaline, it greatly benefits the entire digestive tract.

The Secret of "Fruit-a-tives" lies in the secret process of making them. The fruit juices are changed, chemically and medicinally—their action on the human system is intensified—their effect on disease made infallible.

Fruit-a-tives

or Fruit Liver Tablets

are the juices of fresh, ripe apples, oranges, figs and prunes—prepared by our secret process, and compressed into tablets.

"Fruit-a-tives" have some wonderful cures to their credit in severe cases of Stomach, Liver and Kidney Troubles.

At all druggists. 50c. a box.

FRUITATIVES, Limited, OTTAWA.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

MAGIC BAKING POWDER
E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED

MAKES YOUR CAKES LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR BISCUITS LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR BUNS LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR LABOR LIGHT.
MAKES YOUR EXPENSES LIGHT.

Order from your Grocer.

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED

TORONTO, ONT.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

Phone. 214. Grocers.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

The road to failure is the one that is full of ruts.

The fool never puts off until to-morrow what he shouldn't do at all.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park

BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)

$24,000,000

(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,

Manager Belleville Branch.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL

$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,

Manager Belleville Branch

Cleanliness is Next to Godliness.

AND GOOD SOAP is one of the greatest adjuncts to the bath. Just look into our window, ask us the prices, and after a trial you will be surprised at results.

Don. G. Bleecker.

Phone 11.

WALTER ALFORD

ARCHITECT.

Contractor, &c.

PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand

Market Square.

Arthur McGie

MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—

—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.

300 Front Street.

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store

Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance

—AT—

COLLIP'S.

ATTENTION

to details has a lot to do with our success. We pay as much attention to the little things in this store as we do to the more important. We expect our

Pianos

to be perfect in every particular. Your trade is solicited on that basis. We do not ask you to accept anything less. Who can promise you anything more?

J. A. GOODSELL & CO.

436 Front St., Next to W. W. Chown Co.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Genuine Scranton COAL
The Standard Anthracite.
SOLD BY THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office Bridge St. Tel. 293 & b93

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL – LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL – CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY. MARCH 10, 1905. NO. 264

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens
THE VERY BEST GENUINE SCRANTON COAL LEAVENS

KING WILL BE HANGED.

Death Sentence for Trapper, Who Killed His Comrade.

Winnipeg, March 10.—At Edmonton, King, a trapper, who killed his companion and burned his remains in a camp fire in the Athabasca District, was sentenced to be hanged yesterday morning. The execution will take place at Fort Saskatchewan on May 10.

A remarkable thing in connection with the case was the claim of the murdered man's brother that he saw the crime committed in a dream one night at his home in England. Also that he saw the features of the murderer. He was present at the trial.

"Royal Gypsy" Acquitted.

Toronto, March 10.—Georgina Chilcott, the "Royal Gypsy," was again in good luck yesterday. She was before Judge Morgan on the charge of telling fortunes. On March 24, 1902, she was tried by Judge McDougall, on a similar charge, and was acquitted. Judge Morgan could not see his way clear to upset the judgment of his late colleague. If the Legislature wants to protect the people from fraud of this sort, it can easily do so by making a short drastic measure, said the Judge.

Seven Killed in Mine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 10.—While seven men were being hoisted in the carriage at the Clear Spring Colliery at West Pittston yesterday, the rope broke and the men were hurled to the bottom, a distance of 250 feet. All were killed. Their names were George Haas, Anthony and Michael Janosky, Anthony Gallos, Stanley Blandish, Xdam Kantesky and Anthony Josephus.

Killed by a Trolley.

Thorold, March 10.—James Blizzard, a farmer from Stamford Township, was killed here last night by a trolley car on the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway. He was driving home and his horses took to the railroad trestle near Portland Street. A special trolley car crashed into the rig, killing Blizzard and one of the horses.

DON'T MISS THIS!
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

Are on the Eve of Surrender.

Kuropatkin and His Army Hemmed in on All Sides.

Considerable Japanese Forces Are Well North of the City of Mukden—Railway Seriously Threatened, if, Indeed, it Has Not Been Cut—Have Japs Already Captured Tie Pass?—100,000 Men Slain.

London, March 10.—Mukden at noon to-day was still occupied by the Russians. It is quite possible that they do not intend to occupy it, but are pursuing Kuropatkin with all their forces. Fu Pass, 12 miles to the eastward and on the Hun River, a vital point for Gen. Kuropatkin in the retreat of his eastern wing, was bombarded by the Japanese for an hour early in the day, Russian artillery replying vigorously. The outcome at this point seems to be in doubt. A wind storm of hurricane fury was in progress during the day. No reports from the Commander-in-Chief later than Wednesday have been given out at St. Petersburg. Despatches from Mukden indicate that considerable Japanese forces are well north of the City of Mukden, and that the railroad upon which depends so much for the Russian army, is seriously threatened, if, indeed, it has not been cut. And it is believed in some quarters, backed by despatches from Newchwang, that the Japs have already captured Tie Pass and that Kuropatkin and his army are surrounded and doomed.

Army Almost Annihilated.

London, March 10.—The correspondent at Tokio of The Daily Telegraph says on official authority that fully 200,000 Russians are enveloped, and he hears that the central army is almost annihilated.

The Russians Cut Off.

St. Petersburg, March 10.—St. Petersburg yesterday knew nothing of the outcome of the battle of Mukden, or of the fate of Gen. Kuropatkin's beaten army. The most important news received from Russian sources is the information that the Japanese already have reached the Hun River. Fu Pass is 12 miles east of Mukden, and well westward of Gen. Linevitch's line of retreat. It is probable that unless the Russians are able to defend the crossing at Fu Pass, Gen. Rennenkampff's corps, and perhaps additional forces, will be cut off and have to shift for themselves in the mountainous region north of Fushan against expeditionary forces of Japanese, which are reported from Chinese sources to be racing toward Tie Pass.

100,000 Men Slain.

Tokio, March 10.—The continuous battle is already the bloodiest of the war. Upon the ground that Gen. Oku alone gained are eight thousand Russian dead. The reports from the other armies are expected to triple this figure. It is estimated that the Japanese have lost 50,000, making the joint slaughter far exceeded by one hundred thousand men. Details of the combat are lacking, but it is believed that the Japanese have cut the railway north of Mukden, leaving only the roadways and a light railway from Fushun to Tie Pass as avenues for the retreat of the Russians.

Japs Invest Tie Pass.

Newchwang, March 10.—It is reported that Tie Pass has been invested by the Japanese, and that Gen. Kuropatkin, having no alternative, will probably be forced to surrender within a week.

The Russians have not been reinforced from the direction of Harbin since March 1. Gen. Nogi's army made a forced march of 25 miles daily and acting in conjunction with Gen. Oku's army, surrounded 80,000 Russians in the direction of Tie Pass and cut off their supplies.

The hurrying Japanese armies passed a division of Russians without giving it any attention until the developing movement was completed, when they crushingly attacked the Russians on all sides.

Northwest of Mukden the whole front is said to be honeycombed with mines, and this fact is expected greatly to hasten the march of the Japanese. The Russians on the right attempted a counter-attack, but it was repulsed. The Japanese have a large force at Tawa on the main road, 15 miles north of Pingiupa, and another large force to the northwest on both sides of the railroad.

Early yesterday morning the Japanese captured Chinese couriers carrying rouble notes and beheaded them.

Japs Take No Time to Eat.

Mukden, March 10.—Midnight closed the tenth day of the Titanic struggle for the possession of Mukden and the mastery of a vast Empire, the tenth day of unceasing conflict. Grey-coated Russians, patient, uncomplaining, strong of soul, clung doggedly to positions against an enemy whose attacks go to the very point of insanity and desperation. For forty-eight hours the Japanese have not eaten. They are starving and exhausted, but Field Marshal Oyama has told them that the city will fall and the slaughter stop on Friday, and their confidence in their leader increased strength tenfold.

Encircling the City.

Stern Oyama drives his troops northward to encircle the city. With every fresh flanking movement the iron band closes nearer the railroad, and under this menace the first and third armies were forced last night to abandon the mighty fortifications on the Shakhe River, give up the impregnable Poutiloff Hill, and retire to the line of the Hun River.

To-day the Japanese are pushing their columns north and northeast, bombarding villages which are keys of the defence, and hurling men, some of them veterans of the year's campaign, and other middle-aged reserves fresh from Japan, against Russian positions. Often they are repulsed and sometimes they master the advanced line, but at enormous cost. There are many gallant dead.

Warsaw Rejoices at Defeat.

Warsaw, March 10.—A report which reached Warsaw yesterday that Mukden had fallen, was received with ill-concealed pleasure.

RUSSIA'S INTERNAL WAR.

Five Miners Killed in Conflict With Soldiers Near Bakhmut.

St. Petersburg, March 10.—A telegram from Ekaterinoslav says that five miners have been killed and fifteen wounded in a conflict between strikers of the Shoerbinoff mines and the Aurback quicksilver mines and soldiers in the District of Bakhmut. The strikers were looting and resisted the troops, firing revolvers and throwing stones at them. The soldiers fired a volley and order was restored.

Revolutionary disorders have broken out at Smolensk. Bands of demonstrators are marching through the streets carrying red flags.

Army of Peasants March.

London, March 10.—A message from Kieff to The Daily Mail says: An army of 3,000 peasants from the Orklova District is advancing southwesterly, burning and looting of estates is in progress. Eighteen estates have already been sacked. The Michailoffsky sugar refinery has been burned, and employes robbed of their belongings. It also is reported that the peasants have burned the Deruiginsky refinery, belonging to the Crown. A strong military force has been sent to suppress the rising."

AGAINST HOME RULE.

Lord Rosebery Places Himself—The Fiscal Controversy.

London, March 10.—The question of home rule for Ireland was the principal feature of the speech of Lord Rosebery before the City of London Liberal Club last night. His Lordship said that while the Liberal party sympathized with Ireland and was willing to proceed along the lines of administrative reform, "there is one thing to which no wise statesman ever will expose the country, namely, the curse of a dual Government. We have sufficient warning in the example of Norway and Sweden and Austria and Hungary to avoid the peril of having the vulture gnawing at our very vitals."

Lord Rosebery said that each speech Premier Balfour made on the fiscal question darkened the waters of controversy more than the previous one. With regard to Mr. Chamberlain he had no followers except one or two whole-hoggers, who had retired to their sty. Everybody nowadays was a free trader, though many were in sympathy with Mr. Chamberlain's Imperialistic aims.

Walter Long Accepts.

London, March 10.—Walter Hume Long, President of the Local Government Board, has accepted the office of Chief Secretary for Ireland. It is expected that Premier Balfour will formally announce the appointment to-day.

North Sea Claim Settled.

London, March 10.—Count Benkendorff, the Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, yesterday paid $325,000 to Foreign Secretary Lansdowne in settlement of the North Sea claims.

Farmer Killed on Track.

Essex, March 10.—James Handley, a farmer of Maidstone, was killed Wednesday night by a fast express on the Michigan Central Railroad tracks near Polton.

Spendthrift Marquis Dying.

New York, March 10.—The Marquis of Anglesey, according to an American despatch from Monte Carlo, is dying there from consumption.

SINCLAIR'S AD. SINCLAIR'S AD.

New Spring Goods.

The New Goods for early spring wear have arrived and in every department of our store we show Fashion's Newest Creations.

NEW SPRING COATS.
NEW DRESS SKIRTS.
NEW SHIRT WAISTS.
Showing In Our... Ready-to-Wear Department.

NEW WASH GOODS.

While we show everything that is new in Wash Goods, this week we place in stock nearly Four Thousand (4,000) yards of 36 inch French Printed Cambric, perfectly fast colors, in very dainty patterns, to sell for per yard 12½c

TWO SPECIAL SUITINGS.

For Ladies' Spring Costumes we show Harris' 54 inch Homespuns in all the Light Grey Shades at (per yard $1.00

Also a special line of Imported Flaked Tweeds, all new shades, to sell at per yard 50c

Kabo and B. & C. Corsets

Are shown in all the New Spring Corset Cuts, every pair guaranteed and the only Corsets made without brass eyelets. Prices .... 50c to $3.00

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Dainty Wash Materials

An inspection of our advance Wash Goods showing is like a foretaste of warm summer days. Only an inspection can give you an adequate idea of the comprehensiveness and beauty of our new assortment.

Linens from Ireland, Zephyrs from Scotland and a countless assortment of Fancy Materials from England—Shirt Waist Suitings—Waistings—Dress Materials an assortment too wide to make possible detail description.

The assortment is not only large, but conservative, as each pattern is exclusively ours and coming in short lengths of from one to two dresses will not be common.

Ideal buying conditions enable us to purchase our goods at better prices than is possible to those not enjoying such conditions, the advantage we offer you in our moderate prices.

If you have Wash Goods needs of any description we feel confident of our ability to give you as wide a selection at every price as is obtainable in this city or elsewhere.

Make your visit while the assortment is at its best—NOW.

—Fancy Knoppe Zephyrs and Linen Voiles in Greens, Blues, Navy, Grey, Pink, Plain and with Fancy Stripes and Spots—fast colors—ideal Shirt Waist Suit Materials. Per yard 15c

—A choice collection of Fancy Zephyrs, Knoppe Ginghams, Silk Chambrays, Embroidered Linen Voiles—Fancy Cotttn Voiles—White Waistings, Cotton Tweeds, an almost endless variety of styles and colors. Per yard .... 25c to 75c

Whitewear Sale

Only one week more of our annual Whitewear Sale.

The quantity of Whitewear that has left our mantle department the past week is of convincing evidence that our values and styles are the best obtainable.

INVESTIGATE:—Investigation is nearly always profitable.

It will be if you come here in search of choice and dainty Whitewear and moderate prices. We cheerfully invite you to come and see the choice collection we have on exhibition in our mantle room.

There is still a good assortment to choose from—We have just added a number of new garments which are dainty and moderate in price.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

SPRING - CLOTHING.

Allow us to show you the newest things in Suits—All the new styles are here—everything right up-to-date and at the most moderate prices.

No excuse for wearing ill-fitting or out of date Clothing, when you can get the kind of clothing we are selling for the prices at which we are selling it.

Our smart handsome Spring Suits are decidedly well bred—and you can call them "CLOTHES OF QUALITY." They certainly contain all the qualities desired by good dressers.

The newest Fabrics are here in single and double-breasted sacks. Prices range:—

$10, $12, $14, $15 and $17

We guaranteee prompt money refunded on garments not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

BORSALINO HAT.

Ask to see this famous Italian Hat noted for its style, light weight and wear, in two colors and black, wide rim and soft crown, extra fine quality. Price $3.50

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

FOR SATURDAY NIGHT !

A Special Waist Sale.

We are putting on Sale Saturday Night at a big Sacrifice Several Odd Lines of Ladies' Shirt Waists, in Fancy Figured Matting, Colored Mattings and Fancy Mattings, and Fancy Eider Flannels, in sizes 32 to 40. The prices range from $1.00 to $2.75 each. You can have your choice on Saturday Evening at 7 o'clock, at :—

49c each.

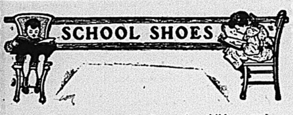
This price would not much more than buy the trimmings.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION —Just step in—when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS
—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

SIR WILFRID ANSWERED.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat takes exception to certain remarks made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in introducing the Autonomy Bill, and hits out at him in the following vigorous fashion:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, evidently has no doubts as to the wisdom of his views on the subject of religion in the public schools. In a recent statement to the Canadian Parliament, comparing the system in that country with the one that obtains in the United States, he declared that the one or the other must be right, and he had no hesitation in saying that he knew the Canuckian view was the correct one. In the course of this comparison, he alluded specially to the rarity of divorce, lynching and murder in Canada, and the number of these offences in the United States to sustain the proposition that children should be taught religion in the public schools.

"Since Premier Laurier is so dogmatic, we of this country would be justified in being equally so, by declaring that we also "know" our plan is best and letting the issue rest there; for we take it that the overwhelming sentiment in this country is clearly and wisely against him. But we are content to reason together on these matters and are not averse to prying somewhat into the logic of the Canadian mind. In the first place, we might say that the sole difference between us and our cousins to the north concerns the question of means Both, of course, believe religious training should be given children, but divide simply when it comes to the means and locus of instruction. We hold that the home and the church and the influences of religious associations are ample to instruct the child in morality, without mixing the political scheme of the republic, in which the item of public instruction is one of the most important, with the question of religion. As to the unwisdom of such a conjunction, we point with the utmost confidence to the general history of Europe; in proof of its wisdom, we rely with equal faith upon the history of our own country, where nothing but the severely guarded distinction between church and state has availed to produce the present harmony among the various churches and sects and thus make it a land of real religious and personal freedom. As for the larger per cent of murder, lynching and divorce in this country, all may be explained on other grounds than the lack of theological instruction in the public schools. We have more lynching because we, especially down south, regard criminal assault and attempt at criminal assault a little more seriously than they do in England and English colonies; in fact, in some States, a little more seriously than the laws of those States. The number of divorces is ascribable rather to lax laws in a few States of the Union than to the cause assigned by Sir Wilfrid Laurier; for it is plain that if the laws are stringent there will be few divorces no matter what else there may be It is hard to believe that even liberal doses of religious instruction during pupilage would make many people firmly resist the "baleful opportunity" of lax legislation. Here the first remedy is to reform the law; if more religious training be needed, then the home and church should begin at once to supply the need. While on this point, however, it is worth mentioning that our divorce percentage will always be high as long as infidelity is a ground and we have several million of negroes with us. As for the greater number of murders, that may be largely explained by the composite character of our population and the more lax enforcement of the law, which robs the crime of some of its judicial terrors. "Men will murder upon holy days" and men with holy instruction in their youth, whether in home or school or both, will murder. But a healthy public sentiment is moving in the direction of an improvement in crime conditions, and we have no doubt the respect for the law ourselves have made will in time almost win the approval of our Canadian Premier.

"Before concluding, we are minded to glance at another statement of Sir Wilfrid. "Either the American system is right or the Canadian system is right," he says; "they cannot both be right." Why not? Cannot one system be well for one country, with different traditions and a different present government, and not well for another? An established church is possible in England, but impossible in a republic. So, in Canada's case, with its close and loyal connection with England, with probably the bulk of its population, Protestant and Catholic, inheriting the direct tradition of an established church, it may be in accord with sentiment and wisdom to have religious instruction—which will always be sectarian instruction or nothing—in the public schools; but we inherit a different tradition, vital as a principle of government, equally vindicated, for us at least, by events, and to go counter to it would be to the last degree unwise. What is sauce for the Canuck goose might be a quite unsavory condiment for the American gander. But we venture the prediction that when Canada becomes a republic she will learn that the same variety of separate church and state sauce which we insist on in the United States is, after all, not a bad thing for it."

TIMELY TOPICS.

Have you got in your second crop of coal yet?

• • •

That church census seems to be a plan to find out how many heathen and religious dead beats there are in our city.

• • •

What class are you in? Do you manfully pay your share towards the upkeep of Christian institutions? If you don't you ought to.

Mr. Yellowlees, the church census man, has nothing yellow about him, and talks as though he came from the Green Isle.

• • •

Talking about the Green Isle reminds me that a week from to-day is St. Patrick's day, on which evening Rev. Father Twomey will give a little talk on St. Patrick. I've heard several lectures on the late lamented saint in my time, some good and some bad enough to make him turn over in his grave, wherever it is, but I'll be greatly disappointed if the Parish Priest of St. Michael's doesn't hand out something giltedged. Put that down for a prophecy.

• • •

A wireless message from Doc Dolan, dated Los Angeles, states that he has been there for several days now, and hasn't seen an angel yet. Perhaps the angels saw Doc first.

• • •

The School Boarders will meet to-night
Those men of gentle mien;
And if stories that I hear are true
There'll be wigs upon the green.

• • •

Two more working days, and we'll be up against the ballot-boxes again. Which reminds me that, in his haste, my friend Mr. McCamon must have forgotten that apology which it was said he threatened to make to Mr. Porter.

• • •

This matter is sub judissy, of course, but I can't help risking the remark that I hope our friend Rielly won't get too hard a Whalen from the Justice department. Of course when the blind goddess takes the Rattan to anybody she sometimes plays the old Harry (ett) with him, and with that bad joke I guess I'd better quit, or people may think I'm a bad Lott.

• • •

The French Conservative paper, Le Journal, has suspended publication. Things have looked Bleue for it for some time.

• • •

Another fall of snow would be welcome now. It would cover up those awful dirty-looking piles on Front St., anyhow.

• • •

The joys of Spring we now can see—
There's doings in the house next door;
And youngsters cute, with shouts of glee,
Can sail boats on the kitchen floor.

• • •

A Kingston man found a gold watch in his coal bin the other day. Probably a scheme to get boys to carry in the coal.

• • •

NOT RECEIVED FAVORABLY.

(Kingston Whig.)

The latest suggestion is that the city furnish free power to the street railway. This will likely be done in the good time coming when all the people receive electricity on the same terms.

• • •

His Honor Judge Morgan, in the Divisional Court at Toronto, took occasion to give the church bazaar a body blow yesterday. It appears that a gipsy woman was on trial for fortune-telling, and her lawyer, Mr. Du Vernet, pleaded that the common practice of telling fortunes by reading cups and palms was not a criminal one.

"Why," said the lawyer, "they do it at church socials, to make money for religious purposes."

The judge intimated that sometimes it was possible for the cloak of religion to be used to cover a multitude of sins.

"Of course, it is a common thing for it to be done in order to raise money for charitable purposes," said his Honor, "but we all know what it means then. Like the clergyman who told his congregation that, having used without success every honest means of raising money, they'd better hold a bazaar, which is a well-known method of robbing the public."

The defendant was discharged, which was more than Judge Morgan would be, if some good ladies we know of had a chance to try him.

• • •

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

(The Khan, in Hamilton Herald.)

We had a terrible fright last night, and my pretty little wife hasn't got over it yet.

The little girl—the girl that looks like her mother—got restless.

"Diphtheria is going around," whispered my wife—"What will we do?"

I pulled on my trousers and went for the doctor.

He came and looked our darling over.

"Chickenpox!"

My wife says it is my fault. I guess I'll have to stand for it!

• • •

In some places they have a good word for the dog. A London, Ontario, dog, because of a certain good deed, has been exempted by the city from taxation the remainder of his days. The dog is "Royal," the bulldog which saved the Tecumseh House from serious damage or possible destruction by fire the other night. Mr. Hook, who owns the dog, had asked that the city allow the name of the London Fire Department to be stamped on a gold medal, which is being made by a local jeweller, which will be attached to Royal's collar.

• • •

Mukden has fallen, and if Gen. Pat doesn't catch his second wind Oyama will catch him sure.

• • •

"Banzai!" as they are shouting in Tokio to-day.

• • •

A HOUSECLEANING IDYLL.

(Madame.)

When the soap is on the stairway
and the carpet's on the line,
Then I do not mope and long for any Home, Sweet Home in mine;
For I know the books are corded in the cellar by the coal,
And the pictures are reposing by the punch and salad bowl,
And the mops and rags and dusters in confusion intertwine
When the soap is on the stairway
and the carpet's on the line,

The piano's in the kitchen and the feather bed's are hung,
On the fence above the flowers where the bric-a-brac was flung;
There's a heap on the verandah—crockery and jardinieres—
And a sound of mighty whacking in the backyard strikes my ears;
So I slope away discreetly, for some other spot I pine
When the soap is on the stairway
and the carpet's on the line.

They would feed me on cold victuals,
I would sleep upon a cot,
They might even say "Get Busy!"— make me help them, like as not;
So I hover at a distance till I see them gather in
All the furniture and bedding, and complacently I grin,
That a fellow's mighty lucky if he knows the mystic sign,
When the soap is on the stairway
and the carpet's on the line.

• • •

THE CASE OF KENNEDY.

(Hamilton Times.)

Kennedy is said to have been a man of considerable intelligence, but degraded by drink, debauchery and laziness. He gave way to the encroachments of vice and bad habits, and he crushed out higher aspirations. A life that might have been useful to his fellows and won for him honor and respect became a curse to society and ended in dark disgrace.

Young man—you who are just looking out on life—are your ambitions of the sort that tend to develop your good qualities and elevate your moral level, or do they lead along the path Kennedy trod, and which ended in crime and its inevitable disgrace?

• • •

It is gratifying to note that the E. F. Clarke testimonial fund is rapidly growing, now reaching nearly $8,000. And assuredly money could be put to no better purpose than that of honoring the memory and benefiting the family of a man who gave the best years of his life and his best talents to his country's service.

• • •

A city merchant said this morning that he believed it would pay the city to spend two or three hundred dollars every spring in cleaning up Front St. The present condition of affairs is, in the opinion of everybody, simply awful.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free Prices 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation

Special For Saturday

On Saturday we will sell you one of those extra nice fresh Walnut Sponges for 8 cents.

McCAUSLAND BROS.
Bakers and Confectioners.

Mukden Has Fallen.

THOUSANDS OF PRISONERS AND ENORMOUS QUANTITIES OF STORES CAPTURED BY THE JAPANESE—HOSPITALS CROWDED—AWFUL CONDITIONS.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Tokio, March 10. — The Japanese troops occupied Mukden at 10 o'clock this, Friday, morning.

The Russians are panic stricken. Thousands of prisoners and enormous quantities of stores and guns have been captured.

London, March 10. — The correspondent at Tokio of the Daily Telegraph says on official authority that millions of dollars worth of stores at Mukden have been destroyed or abandoned in the last 48 hours, scores of the largest calibre guns have been spiked and left behind and thousands of wounded soldiers have been left to the mercy of the enemy.

The hospitals at Mukden were filled with wounded men before the last two days' of fighting, and now the Red Cross and army surgeons are utterly unable to care for the victims of shells and bullets.

BOGUS BALLOT-BOX TRIAL.

WHAT THE CROWN PROSECUTOR HAD TO SAY IN CONNECTION WITH IT.

Toronto, March 10.—Mr. J. F. Hellmuth, K.C., has been appointed Crown prosecutor for the Belleville Assizes, which begin on Tuesday next, with Mr. Justice MacMahon presiding. Mr. Hellmuth, acting for the Provincial Government, will prosecute the bogus ballot-box charges against Messrs. Reilly, Whalen, Ruttan, and Police Magistrate Barryett. The principal conspirators—Shibley and Lott—will, of course, not be present. It has been stated that possibly Shibley might be extradited on the charge of forgery in connection with the making of false ballots. Mr. Hellmuth has, however, heard nothing of any extradition proceedings. The evidence to be given at the trial, which will be before a jury, will, according to his brief, be practically the same as that given at the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Wood, at Belleville, last November. Mr. G. F. Shepley, K.C., will be present to represent the prosecution on behalf of the Dominion Government.

New License Commissioners.

License Inspector St. Charles has been officially notified that the new Board of License Commissioners for West Hastings has been gazetted. The members are: Hugh Walker, Belleville; Bruce Wilfred Power, Trenton; Tom Ketcheson, Sidney. There will be a meeting of the new Board to-morrow.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box 25c

Our best opportunities are of the home-made varieties.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Moderate to fresh north to northwest winds, fair and cold to-day and on Saturday.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m. 22
12 m. 30
2 p.m. 30
3 p.m. 30

Another
Fresh supply of:
PINEAPPLES
BANANAS
GRAPE FRUIT.
ETC., ETC., ETC.

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age
Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee
'Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.
Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

New Goods and Fresh Supplies Arriving Daily.

MacLaren's Imperial Cream Cheese
Canada Cream Cheese
Seville Oranges (bitter) for marmalade
Fresh—Grated Horseradish
Fresh Fancy Biscuits

—o—o—

Supplies of Fish

Fine French Sardines, Salmon, Lobsters, Shrimps, Clams, Herrings, Halibut Steak, Finnan Haddie, Tunny Fish, Scallops, Crabs, etc., in tins.

Clam Bouillon, Clam Chowder, etc.

Pure Boneless Codfish, Shredded Codfish, Finnan Haddies, etc. Reliable Brands

DELICIOUS TEAS
AND COFFEE . . .

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way, second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, East King St., Toronto, Ont.
f18.25,m4,11,18,25,a

New Spring Styles
....OF....

Queen Quality

Ladies are delighted with them. See the new choice colored Lace Boots and Low Shoes.

Queen Quality Leads the Fashion in Fine Footwear.

VERMILYEA & SON
HAVE SOLE RIGHT OF SALE.

Intelligencer WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

WANTED.

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

Six dwellings, all in good repair; 5 minutes walk of post office or market. For information apply to H. COOPER, West Bridge St. 9-2t

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course —Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403, Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

The juice of a lemon is excellent as a gargle for sore throat, but should not be swallowed.

What to Do for Heart Trouble.

I BACK UP MY ADVICE WITH THIS REMARKABLE OFFER:—A FULL DOLLAR'S WORTH OF MY REMEDY FREE TO PROVE THAT I AM RIGHT.

I ask no reference, no deposit, no security. There is nothing to promise, nothing to pay—either now or later. To any heart sufferer who has not tried my remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—I will gladly give, free, not a mere sample, but a full dollar bottle.

I am warranted in making this unusual offer because mine is no ordinary remedy. It does not vainly try to stimulate the heart. Such treatments are worse than useless. It goes straight to the cause of all heart trouble—the heart nerves—and strengthens them and vitalizes them and restores them. Then that is the end of heart diseases.

For the heart itself has no more self-control than a common sponge. It is made to beat by a tender nerve, so tiny that it is scarcely visible to the naked eye. Yet ten thousand times a day this delicate nerve must cause the heart to expand and contract.

The heart is about the size of your clenched fist. Open and close your fist a dozen times, even, and you will see the monstrous labor this little nerve must do.

The heart nerve is only one of the branches of the great sympathetic nervous system. Each branch of this system is so closely allied with the others that weakness or irregularity at any point is apt to spread. Heart trouble frequently arises from stomach trouble through sympathy, and kidney trouble may also follow. For each of these organs is operated by a branch of these same sympathetic nerves—the inside nerves.

The bond of sympathy between the nerves that operate the vital organs has a useful purpose, as well. For what will cure weakness in one branch will surely cure weakness in every branch—what will restore one center, will surely restore them all.

There is nothing new about this—nothing any physician would dispute. But it remained for Dr. Shoop to apply this knowledge—to put it to practical use. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the result of a quarter century of endeavor along this very line. It does not dose the organ or deaden the pain—but it does go at once to the nerve — the inside nerve — the power nerve—and builds it up, strengthens it and makes it well.

If you have heart trouble and have never tried my remedy, merely write and ask. I will send you an order on your druggist, which he will accept as gladly as he would accept a dollar. He will hand you from his shelves a standard sized bottle of my prescription, and he will send the bill to me. This offer is made only to strangers to my remedy. Those who have once used my Restorative do not need this evidence. There are no conditions—no requirements. It is open and frank and fair. It is the supreme test of my limitless belief. All that I ask you to do is to write —write to-day.

For a free order for a full dollar bottle you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 69 Racine, Wis. State which book you want.	Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Kidneys. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases are often cured by a single bottle. For sale at forty thousand drug stores.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Local Legal.

High Court of Justice, Chambers.— Before Cartwright, Master.

Re Marshall. — Judgment (L) on application by the executor of the will of J. A. Marshall, deceased, for an order determining who are the persons entitled to a sum of $2,000 payable under a beneficiary certificate of the Ancient Order of United Workmen issued to deceased. Order declaring that all the testator's children take the fund in equal shares. Costs of all parties out of the fund, those of the executor as between solicitor and client. W. S. Morden (Belleville) for executor. W. B. Northrup, K.C., for certain beneficiaries. E. D. Armour, K.C., for H. E. Marshall, a beneficiary. F. W. Harcourt for infants.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago, during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

SCHOOL SUITS.

Spring is tip-toeing along and the boys are beginning to appear at school in their new clothes. Your boy is wondering when it will be his turn. Quick & Robertson are ready to rig him out from head to foot. Smart looking, wear resisting suits $2, $3, $4, up to $7. There are many handsome new styles out for Spring wear.

Even the hour of adversity only contains 60 minutes.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

STORIES FOR THE LADIES

BABY OFTEN CAUSES DULNESS.

Married life is dull because there is too much nursery in it.

The French have a proverb that says in effect, that some women are all mothers, and other women are all wives.

The American woman is the most devoted mother and the least devoted wife in the world.

After the first baby comes the average woman never thinks of her husband as anything but a machine, thoughtfully provided by Providence for providing Baby with laces and frills and furbelows and for paying Baby's doctors' bills.

He has no claims on her that she recognizes, if they conflict with Baby's.

He has no rights in his own house that she respects, if they interfere with Baby's privileges.

He has no tastes that she thinks of gratifying, if they infringe on Baby's whims.

He is not only a dethroned monarch in her home and heart—he is exiled.

She used to dress up for him for an evening, because he admired her in pretty frocks. She gives it up because Baby pulls at her chiffons.

She used to try to entertain him and they spent cosey and chummy evenings together in the library. She gives that up to go and sit in the nursery to watch a lobster-colored infant sleep.

She used to go out with her husband to the theatre, but he gives up asking her because she interrupts the most thrilling scenes on the stage to wonder if Baby hasn't gotten uncovered.

She has but one subject of interest —and that is Baby. She has but one topic of conversation — and that is Baby. And she gets so dull and unattractive that it is no wonder her own husband tires of her.

For men do not take fatherhood as strenuously as women take motherhood.

No matter how proud a man is of his first born, or how devoted he is to it, he still maintains his sanity.

Notwithstanding the fact that he is a father, he still takes an interest in the every-day affairs of life. He still enjoys his old pleasures and his old amusements, and he would like the Baby to be an agreeable annex to life, instead of the whole of it.

But his wife won't let him. She establishes a sterilized, baby-food atmosphere in the home that is intolerable, irksome and wearisome to a man.

He can't smoke in his own home because tobacco smoke is bad for the Baby. He can't invite his friends in because they might wake up Baby. He has even no wife, because his wife is nothing but a nurse.

And because a man is going to find freedom and amusement and entertainment away from home if he doesn't find it in it, the husband begins going out of evenings for the first time since he was married.

Statistics show that the very first estrangement between husband and wife—the first drifting apart — almost invariably takes place during the first few months of motherhood, when a woman is so absorbed in her baby that she leaves a lonely husband to take care of himself.

Now, I am not saying one word against motherhood. The woman who raises up a fine family of children has done the greatest work on earth. Nor am I saying anything against a mother's devotion. It cannot be too strong, too wide or too deep; but it ought to be tempered with a little common sense.

A woman has no right to sacrifice a husband to her children.

She has no right to run a house to please a baby, instead of the man who furnishes the money to support it.

She has no right to let her love for her children swallow up her love for her husband.

Yet there are plenty of women who lavish all their tenderness, their sweet flatteries and their cajoleries upon their children, and save none for their husbands.

There are even homes in which no food is allowed upon the table but the cereal messes suitable for children to eat.

Is it any wonder that the men who live in such homes and have such wives find married life dull?

Whenever a man calls his wife "mother" it is an indictment of her, because it means that she has failed as a wife.

A great many beautiful and idiotic things have been said about a mother's devotion to her children, and inspiring pictures have been drawn of mothers sitting beside little cots holding little hands while children drifted off into dreamland.

But there is another side to the picture.

While a woman is holding the hand of a child while it goes to sleep—which it could do better without her —some other woman is generally holding her husband's hand.

DOROTHY DIX.

TO KNOCK OUT COLDS

And cure them in an hour without resorting to nauseous drugs just use fragrant, healing Catarrhozone— the most pleasant, prompt and certain cure for colds ever discovered. No medicine to take, you simply breathe the balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone. It never fails to root out the worst colds and is so simple and convenient to use that no one can afford to be without it. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you won't have colds. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c.

MANY CHANGES IN LADIES' HEADWEAR.

MILLINERY, IT IS SAID, WILL DIFFER WIDELY FROM THAT OF LAST SEASON.

It is seldom that the style of hats exhibited shows such a complete change from the previous season as is the case to-day, says the Monetary Times. This applies to almost every feature — shape, color, size and trimmings. There is a tendency to flat tops and small round crowns, while the massing of the trimming towards the back gives a sort of tilted appearance to many hats—not "tip-tilted," as the poet says, but back-tilted. All sorts of colors are shown, but there is a distinct moving away from black. Greens, particularly bronze and olive, are in particular favor. White, pink and blue are also the characteristic note in several color designs, but the most distinctive feature of all is the "astal," or delicate shading off from one color into another. This is to be seen at its best in some of the floral ornaments, which this season are particularly beautiful. Ribbons also partake quite largely of this characteristic, among those particularly noticeable being some in shot moire and metallic effects. Some ribbons we noted with wonder, (almost with emotion) were a blend of pale green toning down to tangerine, while others showed all the tints of an opal.

While other ornaments are not by any means to be neglected, this year is to be above all a flower and foliage season in millinery. Of this there can be no doubt in face of the extraordinary variety of these offered, and the eagerness with which milliners have been buying in those lines. Roses are among the most popular flowers. Clusters of all hues and sizes of roses, as well as set-pieces of small button flowers, a back-ground of glossy green leaves, especially quill-shaped, are particularly effective.

Another feature which draws attention is the amount of tulle, which is used in every conceivable way, often combined with crinoline braids. Much of it is in "burnt onion," which is prominent among the pastel shades this year. It is also to be noted that aigrettes are scarcely so largely shown as they were, perhaps due to the agitation against such ornaments in the United States and elsewhere. Laces are in about normal request, and some very distinguished looking models shown are almost entirely in that material.

IS VICIOUS AND UNJUST.

PRESBYTERIAN SAYS SEPARATE SCHOOL SYSTEM SHOULD BE BURIED OUT OF SIGHT.

The Presbyterian in yesterday's issue writes:

"Such a storm of indignant protest has been raised by the proposition to saddle two new provinces for all time with the incubus of Separate schools that those responsible for the introduction of the measure have been compelled to call a halt, or at least to move with greatly slackened speed. From all parts of the country expressions of opinion have come which cannot be mistaken and which no Government, however strongly entrenched behind the ramparts of a great majority, can afford to disregard.

"It is absurd to charge this general expression of public opinion to bigotry or the outbreak of denominational jealousy. With the great mass of those who have spoken the question of denominationalism has not played any part. They have regarded it as an unwarranted interference with provincial rights and in opposition to the spirit of the constitution. They have demanded that these provinces shall not be handicapped from their birth by any fatal inheritance from the past, but that they shall be left free to mould their own educational system.

"It is not in any spirit of narrow bigotry that the denominational papers oppose the proposed legislation. There are those who believe—and the Presbyterian is in this class —that the principle of Separate schools is essentially vicious and unjust and that it perpetuates the old sectarian and race hatreds that should be buried out of sight as soon as possible. The system of education that tends to divide rather than unite is fundamentally wrong. If the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta should, of their own emotion by the free voice of the people, declare in favor of such a system we would believe that they had made a mistake, but they must not be compelled to do this, and any compulsion at the instigation of a hierarchy that has never ceased to meddle with public affairs can only result in prolonged bitterness and heartburning and strife. If the battle for provincial rights and for equal denominational privileges is to be fought there is no more opportune time than the present, and any weak compromise will only help to keep this chronic source of irritation alive."

SICK AT YOUR STOMACH.

Perhaps feeling as if the bottom had dropped out of your life. It's Nerviline you want. Nothing restores quiet and order to the stomach so quickly. All squeamishness and nausea goes away the minute you take Nerviline and an extra dose or two is always sufficient to set you up in first-class shape. Nerviline is an old tested remedy for stomach and bowel troubles and always can be relied on. Sold in large 25c. bottles.

A PLEASANT INCIDENT.

PRESENTATION TO REV. WM. B. HEENEY LAST NIGHT.

A very pleasing event took place last evening at the residence of Miss Ockerman, Everett St., when the Ladies' Aid of Christ Church presented the Rector, Rev. Wm. B. Heeney, with the price of an excellent silk cassock. The presentation was made by the treasurer, Miss Azalia Mills, on behalf of the other members of the organization, many of whom were present. Rev. Mr. Heeney expressed his appreciation of the gift, not for its intrinsic value alone, but also because of the kindly feeling which it represented. He alluded to the fact that many of the ladies present had come a long way, though the walking was not good, in order to be present on that occasion. No words could express his feeling of appreciation.

SENATORS IN WASHINGTON.

MEMBERS OF CANADIAN SENATE WITNESSED THE INAUGURAL PROCEEDINGS OF ROOSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS.

The New York Tribune of March 7, in its Washington letter, has this to say of the visit of certain prominent Canadians to that city in connection with the Presidential inaugural ceremonies:

"In the afternoon the President shook hands with a party of sightseers from Canada, who were introduced by Senator Proctor, of Vermont. R. Dandurand, Speaker of the Canadian Senate, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Senator McSweeney, with their wives, comprised the little delegation from the Dominion."

"Mrs. Richard Butler, of New York, gave a small luncheon to-day in honor of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, of Canada, who came to Washington to attend the inauguration ceremonies. Sir Mackenzie is now the Conservative leader in the Senate at Ottawa, Canada."

LUNCHED WITH THE PRESIDENT

Montreal Gazette: Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who, with Senators Dandurand and McSweeney, took part in the Presidential inauguration proceedings at Washington, reached Montreal last evening. Sir Mackenzie, who was seen at the Windsor, appeared exceedingly well pleased at the cordial reception extended to the Canadian delegates by the Washington authorities. The Canadian Senators were invited to lunch with the President. The Speaker of the House of Representatives also extended the courtesies of that body.

The procession, Sir Mackenzie remarked, was one of the finest he had ever seen.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

That half their ills are due to impoverished blood, they would use Ferrozone and be saved lots of pain and suffering. Ferrozone is a perfect food for the blood, and supplies the strengthening elements needed to maintain health and vigor. Ferrozone is a splendid tonic for weak, nervous women and drives away those depressed feelings of dead weariness. You'll have strength—lots of it—your complexion will improve, you will feel ten years younger after a course of Ferrozone, which builds up the whole human organism; try it. Price 50c.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. W. C. Mikel is in Toronto on business.

Ex-Mayor Graham is in Toronto on business.

Dr. M. J. Clarke, accompanied by his little daughter, left to-day for Toronto.

Mr. J. Lloyst, of Wiarton, returned to that place to-day, after spending a few days in the city.

Miss D. Fisher, of Buffalo, who has been spending the past two months with her parents here, leaves this afternoon to resume her duties.

Dr. J. F. Dolan, of this city, now on the Pacific coast, is remembering his friends with pictorial postal cards, for one of which, depicting the famous Grand Canyon of Arizona, the editor is endebted.

At the Quinte: J. Young, Brockville; W. Hague, E. Richardson, T. Yellowlees, W. Lambert, J. Curtis, W. Black, E. Lodge, G. Read, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. A. Abbott, A. T. Hicks, Trenton; M. Thwaite, Oshawa; Mrs. A. Bradworth, Madoc; A. Kennedy, J. Alexander, F. Bryce, R. Murphy, Montreal; W. S. Howe, Walkerville; G. Little, W. R. Kelly, Lindsay; J. Baird, Winnipeg; J. C. Dickson, Bancroft; D. A. Weese, Kingston; C. Mason, Chicago; H. Cayhue, J. Pinne, Port Hope.

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all druggists.

A good 'leven raises much dough for its alma mater.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening.

Through the executor, Mr. F. B. Vanblaricom, the trustees of Bridge St. Church have received $100 as a donation provided in the will of the late Mrs. J. B. Ostrom, of Toronto.

Police Court business was a blank to-day.

Mrs. MacColl's Orchestra will play at the Graduates' Course Lecture by Prof. Shortt in St. Agnes' School this evening.

Harry Bryard, of Trenton, was yesterday tried before Magistrate O'Rourke, convicted of being the keeper of a disorderly house, and sentenced to two months in jail. Bryard was last evening brought to the jail here to serve out his sentence.

CLARK, A WELL KNOWN CANADIAN.

Puts on the market the finest Potted Meats, Corned Beef, Lunch Tongue, Pork and Beans, etc., ever known.

"Maddening Potted Phrases."

We have protested against the "faultless even dress" of the hurried descriptive writer, since evening dress is the only male attire that excludes the possibility of error. But a long list could be made of the phrases—tinned and stale—which all writers use who write like enterprising and hurried builders, building with ready made doors and window panes. For example, one never reads an account of a railway accident from the lips of the "badly shaken" passenger without finding that "all went well until"—the thing happened. But perhaps the most maddening of these potted phrases is "the rash act." You will read how Mr. Smith or Mr. Brown sat down and wrote several long letters to his relatives, how he had with great care arranged his affairs, how with the utmost deliberation he purchased poison, a revolver, a new razor and a ball of twine; how he sent his family away for a holiday, went to his room and conscientiously poisoned, strangled, sliced and shot himself. "No reason," runs the inevitable comment, "is assigned for the rash act," which was as deliberate as the movement of the Rhone glacier.—London Chronicle.

Turkish Attar of Roses.

Turkish attar of roses is mainly produced in Bulgaria and is carried on in the fertile valleys on the southern slopes of the Balkans. The rose harvest in Bulgaria begins about the third week in May and lasts about a month. The second great seat of rose farming in Europe is the space between the Maritime Alps and the Mediterranean, in the extreme southeast of France. This is, in fact, the great scent farming and perfumery making center of Europe, the town of Grasse being the emporium of the district. Of course attar of roses is also produced in India, Persia and Asiatic Turkey under the climatic conditions desired, but the great bulk of the supply is furnished by the European regions already noted. The roses employed for attar making in Europe are: In Bulgaria the red damask rose and in the south of France the Provence rose, a hybrid or variety of the hundred leaf rose, to which also belongs the well known cabbage rose.

A Dream With a Moral.

A rich lady dreamed that she went to heaven and there saw a mansion being built. "Whom is that for?" she asked of the guide.

"For your gardener."

"But he lives in the tiniest cottage on earth, with barely room for his family. He might live better if he did not give away so much to the miserably poor folks."

Farther on she saw a tiny cottage being built. "And whom is that for?" she asked.

"That is for you."

"But I have lived in a mansion on earth. I would not know how to live in a cottage."

The words she heard in reply were full of meaning. "The Master Builder is doing his best with the material that is being sent up."

Then she awoke, resolving to lay up treasure in heaven.

The Englishman's Morning Tub.

Until the beginning of the seventeenth century English princes and other babes were immersed three times in the font when christened. The last Prince of Wales who was submitted to this ordeal appears to have been Arthur, the son of Henry II., who died in 1502 at the age of sixteen. The abolition of the practice was strongly objected to upon sanitary grounds by Sir John Floyer, a celebrated physician, who died in 1734. "Immersion," he says, "would prevent many hereditary diseases," and "the English will return to it when physic has given them a clear proof that cold baths are both safe and useful." So our morning tub is the outcome of royal immersion.—London Mail.

False Teeth.

It has been found that false teeth were used by the people who lived in 1000 B. C. These teeth were made of ivory and fastened to an ivory plate by means of a fine gold wire.

A Distinctive Home!

Isn't that what you want?

You can have it. No matter how much or how little you spend on its decorations. Come to us we will tell you how.

You will find our ideas practical as well as artistic.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

Chair Specials For Friday.

We have several half dozen lots of Chairs that we purpose clearing out at greatly reduced prices.

• • •

Good time now to have your upholstering and repairing done before the spring rush.

B. E. SILLS,
J. G. Frost's Old Stand.
Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

Youth and Freshness

Is the feeling one has after taking a box or two of WATERS' RED IRON BLOOD PILLS.

None better as a TONIC and BUILDER.
25c box—5 boxes $1.00.

WATERS

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY
H. R. BEATTIE,
STOCK BROKER,
Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.
Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.
Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March. 10

STOCK.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	92⅞	92⅞
do. pref	104	103⅞
St. Paul	179⅞	181
Mo. P	109¼	109¼
Union Pac	134¾	135
C.P.R.	147½	148½
Scu Pac	70⅞	70⅞
R. I.	36½	35⅞
Ills. C	159½	160
Scu. Ry	35½	35⅝
Texas	39½	39⅜
B. & O	110⅞	111
N. Y. C.	159	159⅞
Penn	143⅞	145⅛
Soo	118½	118½
T. W	109½	109½
Erie	47⅞	48½
do. pref	82⅞	83½
Reading	99	98½
C. O.	51½	57½
O. & W	55⅞	56⅝
Manhattan	171⅞	171⅛
W.C	23⅝	24
L. & N	142½	142½
A.F	35⅜	35⅜
Nor	84⅝	85⅝
Wab	22⅜	....
do. pref	46½	46⅝
W. U.	94⅜	94⅝
C. G. W	22⅝	23
T. C. I.	90⅝	92⅜
U.S. Stl	36⅞	36⅞
do. pref	96½	96⅜
Sugar	144	144⅞
B. R. T	66½	66⅞
P O.	110⅞	111⅞
A.C.P	81⅛	81½
Met	123	123⅞
Alo	43⅝	43⅜
Ru,	42⅝	42⅜

May wheat opened at $1.14½, closed at $1.13⅞
July wheat opened at 94; closed at 92⅞
May corn opened at 48⅜; closed at 48
July corn opened at 48⅞; closed at 48½
May pork opened at $12.65 closed at $12.52

THE HARDEST PAIN TO ENDURE

Is the pain of a tender corn, but experience proves that corns are cured quickest by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which acts in twenty-four hours. Putnam's never burns or causes sores. The only painless cure is Putnam's. Use no other.

The real "stuff" in a man shows when he loses his job. One man is panic-stricken, and regales his friends with his misfortune. Another, through timely advertising, secures a better position before his last day in the old one comes around.

You must understand before you are understood.

March Shoe Sale.

We have just purchased a fine stock of Spring Footwear at a very Low Rate on the dollar, in Men's, Women's and Children's, and now offer you some great snaps.

OUR BARGAIN TABLES

are loaded. A splendid opportunity to save money.

Women's	$2.50 Shoes	$1.00
"	2.00 Shoes	1.00
Men's	4.00 Shoes	2.50
"	3.50 Shoes	2.00
Misses'	1.25 Shoes	1.00
"	1.00 Shoes	.75
Child's	1.00 Shoes	.75
"	.75 Shoes	.50

NOTICE OUR WINDOWS.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

Your Tongue has two missions—TO TASTE AND TO TALK,

Let it taste one of our Fruit Scones before it talks—

What it says then will be our best advertisement.

Ed. F. Dickens.
—CATERER

" If You Get it at Stroud's it's Good."

ART VASES.

We are opening up a select lot of Fine Crystal and Colored Flower Vases, Tubes, Bowls, etc. Each one is different, exclusive and strictly correct—they are high priced goods of the finest quality. We want to sell them quickly and if you appreciate artistic flower recepticles—now is your opportunity.

Stroud's 40c teas are so Good They are a Treat and a Relish for Every Meal.

Tea and China Store. 'Phone. 301. STROUD'S Opp. Anglo-American, Front Street.

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price.. $1.00

—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. " Alex Ray's Old Stand.'

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Peterboro people are thinking of asking Carnegie for money to build a library. Don't do it. Don't throw away your independence by begging from a galvinized Yankee who hates Britain and sneers at Canada.

• • •

Some of those dirty old snow piles on Front St. should be photographed. They'd make pretty pictures to show the old boys when they come home next summer.

• • •

It's some time now since we heard the explanation that Kuropatkin was "luring the Japs on," but he seems to be doing it to the King's taste.

• • •

It will be a few minutes yet before the snow has disappeared from most of our back yards, but this is none too early to remind our citizens that the gentle springtime is close at hand, and that as soon as possible householders should take the simple but effective sanitary precaution of cleaning up their yards and getting rid of whatever refuse the sun reveals. Old bones, vegetable remains and in fact any kind of animal or vegetable garbage, should be carefully collected and removed. It is decaying matter of this sort which breeds the germs of death. Furthermore, in addition to cleaning up the yard refuse, it is a wise precaution to expend a few cents in some cheap disinfectant with which to sprinkle the yard. Any druggist will supply such an article for a very small charge.

WANT A RAILWAY DEPARTMENT.

Assistance Asked From Minister of Railways for McGill University.

Ottawa, March 10.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Principal Peterson and Dean Bovey of Montreal were here yesterday seeing the Minister of Railways with a view of getting assistance to establish a railway department in connection with McGill University. The delegation asked the Railway Department, as owner of the Intercolonial, to assist, and not the Government, as a Government. The other principal railways of the Dominion have promised to contribute.

Son's Trouble Killed Him.

St. Thomas, March 10.—George Hill, the aged father of J. B. Hill, the insolvent merchant, and who is awaiting trial on criminal charges, died at his residence on East Street yesterday morning. Deceased was 71 years of age, and came to this city from Michigan. His death is supposed to have been caused from worry brought on by his son's trouble.

"Bobs" Is Coming.

London, March 10.—The Canadian Associated Press has been assured that Lord Roberts is contemplating visiting Canada next fall.

AN EASY WAY

TO KEEP WELL.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject; he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man at my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

My physician first advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion, and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars' worth of good.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Close Higher—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations

Thursday Evening, March 9.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ⅛d to ¼d higher than yesterday and corn futures ⅜d higher.

At Chicago May wheat closed ⅞c higher than yesterday; May corn ⅛c higher and May oats unchanged.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, March 9.—Wheat on passage—More inquiry. Corn on passage—Quiet but steady.

Paris—Close—Wheat—Tone easy; May, 25f 20c; July and August, 23f 65c. Flour—Tone easy; March, 29f 35c; July and August, 30f 75c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	113	98¼
Detroit	117¼	98¼
Toledo	113¼	95
Duluth	109¼	108⅝
Minneapolis	110½	107½

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—
Wheat, white, bush	$1 09 to	....
Wheat, red, bush	1 09	....
Wheat, spring, bush	1 02	....
Wheat, goose, bush	0 90	0 92
Barley, bush	0 50	....
Oats, bush	0 47	....
Beans, bush	0 09	0 10
Rye, bush	0 75	....
Peas, bush	0 70	....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 9.—Wheat—Spot nominal; futures steady; March nominal; May, 6s 9⅛d; July, 6s 9⅛d.

Corn—Steady; American mixed, new, 4s 2¾d; American mixed, old, 4s 11d; futures steady; March, 4s 2½d; May, 4s 4½d.

Hams—Short cut easy, 38s 6d.

Bacon—Cumberland cut dull, 35s; long clear middles, light quiet, 36s; long clear middles, heavy quiet, 35s 6d; short clear backs quiet, 35s.

Lard—Prime western in tierces steady, 35s; American refined in pails steady, 34s 6d.

Cheese—American finest white firm, 55s; American finest colored firm, 53s.

Turpentine—Spirits steady, 38s 6d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, Mar. 9.—Butter—Weak; receipts 6808; street price extra creamery, 25c to 25½c; official prices creamery, common to extra, 20c to 25c; do. held, common to extra, 20 to 25c; state dairy, common to extra, 19c to 23c; renovated, common to extra, 18c to 23c; western factory, common to extra, 18c to 22c; western imitation creamery, common to extra, 20c to 23c.

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts 4641.

Eggs—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 7409.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—U. S. Markets Are Only Steady.

London, March 9.—Live cattle are quoted at 10¾c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¼c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the city cattle market were 69 car loads since Tuesday, comprised of 831 cattle, 1886 hogs, 316 sheep and lambs, with about 100 calves. Besides the above there were 9 car loads of Chicago cattle, 150 in number, consigned to Lunness & Halligan, that were being fed and watered in transit.

Trade was good for any cattle that were at all fit to ship. Some of the dealers had space to fill, and as there were only about 5 loads, all told, the bulk of which were picked out of loads of butchers', this caused prices to be firm, altho there were few of good quality. Prices ranged from $4.50 to $4.90, the bulk going at $4.60 to $4.75 per cwt.; bulls sold at $3.25 to $3.75 per cwt.

There are altogether too many of the half fat class being marketed and not enough of the good to choice grades. Prices for picked lots were a little firmer, while the half fat class were lower in price than on Tuesday. The consequence was that many of the drovers lost money. Picked lots of choice cattle, equal in quality to best exporters, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, sold at $4.25 to $4.50; loads of good at $3.90 to $4.15; medium at $3.25 to $3.75; common mixed loads of cows, heifers and steers at $2.75 to $3.25; inferior, $2 to $2.50; canners, $1 to $1.75 per cwt.

There was a good demand for choice quality short-keep feeders, and there is not enough of this class coming forward. Short-keep feeders, 1100 to 1200, sold at $4.20 to $4.30 per cwt.; feeders, 900 to 1050 lbs. each, at $3.50 to $3.90; feeders, 800 to 900, at $3.25 to $3.50; stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $2.75 to $3.

There were not enough feeders to supply the demand, as there were many farmers and dealers that had to go without supply.

Dealers reported about 40 cows, all told, as being fresh arrivals on the market today. The quality was not good generally and prices were easy at $25 to $45 each, the bulk selling from $30 to $40 each.

About 100 calves, the bulk of which should not have been offered on any market, being of inferior quality. Prices ranged from $3.50 to $6 per cwt., or $2 to $10 each. Only 2 calves out of the 100 brought the $6 per cwt., and they were not what could be called choice.

The run of sheep and lambs was light, 346 being reported since Tuesday. Choice quality lambs are scarce and dearer.

Export ewes sold at $4.50 to $5.12½ per cwt.; bucks, $3.50 to $4.25 per cwt.; mixed lots of ewes and bucks of common quality, $3.50 to $4.50 per cwt. Grain-fed ewe and wether lambs sold at $6.50 to $7 per cwt.; barnyard lambs at $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt. Spring lambs sold at $4 to $8 each.

There was a fair delivery of hogs, 1886 of which Mr. Harris bought at Tuesday's quotations. Selects, $5.75; fats, $5.50; lights, of which there was a large number, at $5.25 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 9.—Cattle—Receipts light; prime steers, $5.25 to $5.85; shipping, $4.65 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $4.90; heifers, $3.25 to $4.75; cows, $2.75 to $4.15; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25.

Veals—Receipts, 50 head; active, $4.50 to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 1700 head; active, shade lower; heavy and mixed, $5.40 to $5.42½; Yorkers, $5.35 to $5.40; pigs, $5.35; roughs, $4.50 to $4.75; stags, $3 to $3.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2000 head; active; native lambs, $6.50 to $.860; western lambs, $8 to $8.30; yearlings, $7 to $7.25; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $5.75 to $6; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $6.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, March 9.—Beeves—Receipts, 870 head; 22 cars for sale, but all held for Friday's market; feeling weak; exports, 620 cattle.

Calves—Receipts, 357; about steady; very few prime veals here; veals, $5 to $8.50; tops, $8.75; fed calves, $4; no barnyard stock offered.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1332; dull but steady; sheep, $5 to $6.12½; lambs, $7 to $8.40.

Hogs—Receipts, 6119; steady; good to prime state hogs, $5 to $5.65; choice light pigs, outside trade, $6.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, March 9.—Cattle—Receipts, 8000; good to prime steers, $5.15 to $6.25; poor to medium $3.80 to $4.80; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.60.

Hogs—Receipts, 27,000; mixed and butchers', $4.80 to $5.10; good to choice, $5.50 to $5.70; rough heavy, $4.85 to $5.05; light, $4.70 to $5.05; bulk of sales, $4.95 to $5.

Sheep—Receipts, 18,000; good to choice wethers, $5.60 to $6.10; fair to choice mixed, $4.75 to $5.40; native lambs, $5 to $7.65.

Carnegie Won't Be Called.

Cleveland, O., March 10.—It was determined definitely yesterday that Andrew Carnegie will not be called to the witness' stand in the present trial of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick. United States Marshal Chandler yesterday made out a witness fee cheque for $64.40 to Mr. Carnegie's order.

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

What is that which is lengthened by being cut at both ends? Answer—A ditch.

A Liniment for the Logger.—Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparing timber for the drive and in river work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience Coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when applied to the injured or administered to the ailing, works wonders.

What black thing enlightens the world? Answer—Ink.

Signals of Danger.—Have you lost your appetite? Have you a coated tongue? Have you an unpleasant taste in the mouth? Does your head ache and have you dizziness? If so, your stomach is out of order and you need medicine. But you do not like medicine. He that prefers sickness to medicine must suffer, but under the circumstances the wise man would procure a box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills and speedily get himself in health, and strive to keep so.

Name something with two heads and one body. Answer—A barrel.

The Most Popular Pill.—The pill is the most popular of all forms of medicine, and of pills the most popular are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they do what it is asserted they can do, and are not put forward on any fictitious claims to excellence. They are compact and portable, and they are easily taken, they do not nauseate nor gripe, and they give relief in the most stubborn cases.

Why is bread like the sun? Answer—Because it rises from the yeast.

Many inherit weak lungs, and as disease usually assails the weakest point, these persons are continually exposed to attacks of cold and pulmonary disturbances. The speedy use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup will be found a preventive and a protection, strengthening the organs so that they are not so liable to derangement from exposure or abrupt atmospheric changes. Bickle's Syrup is cheap and good.

If you were to ride a donkey what fruit would you resemble? Answer—A pair.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take; sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

What coat is finished without buttons and put on wet? Answer—A coat of paint.

Why go limping and whining about your corns when a 25 cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial and you will not regret it.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.
No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.
No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.
No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've.	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	8.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45 05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points.

Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

Daily except Sunday

L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent, New York.
A. H. SMITH, General Manager, New York.
G. [illegible] GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent, Watertown, N.Y.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
GENERAL INSURANCE AGENT,
Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

When a man is weighed by others he is usually found wanting to dispute the figures.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R. C.S., England.
Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.
Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.
m3-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL
Dentist, Belleville, Ont.
Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT
J. FRANKLIN WILLS
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. [illegible] PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street Belleville.
Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent on easy terms upon good land security. Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.
THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.
INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE.
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insur. Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
[illegible] can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuations and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter, Joiner, Builder
Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave.
(next McCrodan's grocery.)
Estimates furnished.
Work promptly and carefully } executed PRICES MODERATE
—SPECIALIST ON—
Parquette and Hardwood Floors.
Grills and Fireplace Mantels.
Building and House Repairs & Alteration
Office and Store Fixtures, also Cabinet Work and Furniture Repairs.
G. A BENNETT—Office Victoria A

Linked by Fate

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Author of "The Verdict of the Heart," "A Heritage of Hate," "Nell of Shorne Mills," "Paid For," "A Modern Juliet," Etc.

as free as you are now; that you will be his wife in name only. Ah, do you understand? You do not doubt his word, his promise?"

Her eyes left his face and wandering to the open doorway. He knew, by the writhing of the white lips, the torture she was undergoing. The silence was so intense as to be an actual burden and pain. It was he who broke it.

"You decide?" he said, huskily.

"Why did he—send you? Why did he not come himself?" she asked almost inaudibly.

"Can you not understand and appreciate his feeling? He was desirous that you should be free to discuss it with me. He would not be the one to bias, persuade, you. His instinct was a right, a noble one. He is a gentleman, you know," he wound up, simply.

"Yes, he was right—I suppose," she admitted, but with the faintest qualification.

"And you will decide?" said Fleming.

She wrung her hands. "Oh, I cannot!" she answered. "Give me—give me a little time to think—only an hour or two. I have never thought—it is so sudden, so unexpected. I feel as if it were not real—as if it were a dream—a nightmare."

Fleming rose and laid his hand on her trembling ones.

"Do you think I do not know what you are suffering?" he said in a low voice. "Ah, believe me, I do! Yes; take one hour. I will come back to you."

As he crept out of the hut Mannering, who was still standing gazing at the sea, heard him, but would not turn his head.

"Well!" he said, hoarsely, his face still averted. Fleming took his arm and leaned on it.

"I have spoken to her. She is naturally much distressed—"

"I should think so!" commented Mannering, grimly.

—"But she is considering it. Poor girl, she saw, with the quickness of her sex, the necessity for the step. But I think she would have been better pleased, less distressed, if you had gone to her."

"Why?" demanded Mannering, shortly.

Fleming shook his head. "I do not know. She seemed to think that you were sacrificing yourself—at any rate as much as she was herself."

"Good Lord!" ejaculated Mannering. He drew his hand across his brow impatiently. "See here, Fleming, though I can see your side of the case—the gravity of the situation for her—I've still a feeling that this—this marriage must be averted. I've been thinking, and I've got a proposal. The weather is still fine. I could knock a raft together, and she and you could venture to sea on it. You could get out on the tide and might make one of the larger islands of the group—an inhabited one. What do you say?"

"How long would it take to make the raft?" asked Fleming.

"A couple of days. I could rig up a sail. It is a chance. Will you consent?"

"Yes," gasped Fleming, calmly. "The risk is terrible—for her; there is none for me. Death in any shape I do not fear, thank God!" he added, devoutly. "But for her—"

"She may prefer the risk, death itself, to—to your plan," said Mannering, brusquely. "She shall decide I'll ask her."

He strode away before Fleming could stay him, and, without pausing, as if he were afraid to hesitate, reached Nina's hut.

CHAPTER IV.

She heard the knock.

"So soon!" she said to herself with a start; for she thought the hour had passed and that it was Fleming returned for her answer, the decision which she had not yet arrived at. If she had been given a week, a month, would she have been able to decide?

She sprang to her feet as Mannering entered, then sank down again, her eyes fixed on his face with, as it seemed to him, physical fear; and at the thought he set his teeth and frowned; that a woman should be inspired by fear at the sight of him.

"I have just left Mr. Fleming," he said, and his voice, by reason of the emotions conflicting within him, sounded harsh and almost forbidding. "He has told you—what he came to tell you. I want you to know that it is his proposal, not mine, Miss Nina."

Her lips framed an assent, and he went on constrainedly.

"While he was with you I have been thinking, and I have got an idea—a proposal that may avert the—the sacrifice he wants you to make."

She looked up quickly and drew a breath of relief.

"It is this," he said, using almost the exact words he had used to Fleming. ';The weather is fine, the wind is set, and I think for some time, from the island. I can make a raft with a sail. It could be provisioned for some time, and you and he might escape—might reach one of the larger islands—an inhabited one. It is a risk, a great risk," but—but I fancy you would prefer it to—to his proposal."

Her eyes were fixed on him with breathless earnestness while he was speaking, then they dropped.

"Does—does Mr. Fleming consent?" she asked in a low voice. "The risk is his as well as mine. I have no right to let him take it!"

"He consents," he said.

She raised her eyes again.

"And you—you would be left here alone? Alone!" She tried to repress the shudder that shook her at the idea.

"That is all right," he responded.

"And the provisions—you would be left without sufficient food—"

"I shall not starve," he said, quietly. "There are plenty of birds, other things. I will keep the gun. There is the fishing— Oh, I shall do well enough!"

"You—you wish it?" she asked almost inaudibly, her eyes hidden from him by their long lashes.

"I don't know," he said almost roughly, for his nerves were on edge, his pity for her making a kind of madness in his brain. "I think anything would be better than—the thing he wishes you to do. Do you think I don't realize it? You know nothing of me. You would commit yourself to the keeping of a man who, for all you know, may be the greatest villain unhanged—would be the wife, on compulsion, against your desire and will, of one for whom you do not care. Oh, I know how it must seem to you—how you must think of it! My plan is full of risk and danger, but I fancy that you will consider it a better one than his."

For one moment she looked him full in the eyes. In hers was the question: But you, you, too, realize that you would be chained to one for whom you do not care—do you wish her, for your own sake, to go?

His eyes were averted and he did not see the interrogation in hers; his face was glowering, frowning with the strain on nerve and brain; and it is little wonder that she read an affirmative to her question.

"I will go," she said almost inaudibly.

Mannering made a slight gesture with his hands.

"I thought you would," he said in a voice almost as low as her own. "I think you are right."

He went to their hut, to which Fleming had crawled.

"She has decided," he said, curtly. "She will go."

Fleming had been sitting with his head bowed in his hands. He let them fall and looked steadily at Mannering.

"Very well," he said, resignedly. "But you must be quick, Mannering," he added, significantly.

Mannering nodded, took up an axe and went straight to the pine wood. He worked like a man possessed, and the trees fell before the strokes of his axe with a dull crash which reached Nina where she sat listening. He worked until nearly nightfall, then he remembered the sail wanted mending. He took it up over his shoulder and went to her. She was cooking the evening meal and scarcely turned her head when he stood at the door and said:

"Do you think you could mend the sail, Miss Nina? I could manage it, but I should be a long while about it, and time is short."

"Yes," she replied. "I have one of the ship's needles and can do it. Supper is nearly ready."

"All right," he said. "You and Fleming go on; don't wait. I want to work while there's light."

He went back to the wood, dragged one of the felled pines to the beach, and got the ends behind two rocks, then strung a rope round the middle of the log, and, using it as a winch, hauled down its fellows.

It was dark when he had got the last of that felling done, and he was so giddy with exhaustion that he had to sit down and rest. But Nina's sweet, clear voice called to him, and he got up, and assuming a cheerfulness—he even tried to hum—went towards the men's hut in which the three took their meals.

She had persuaded Fleming to take a little food, but she had not touched hers; and as she put Mannering's before him, she avoided looking at him and went to the sail.

He was almost too tired to eat, but he forced himself to do so, his eyes fixed on his plate. But presently he looked at her, rose and went out.

"Put this on your finger," he said, when he came back, dropping a sailmaker's thimble on her lap; "your hand will be rubbed. It is fortunate I remembered it."

"Thank you," she said, simply.

Fleming, from where he lay beside the fire which they made every night, watched them with sad intentness.

"You forget nothing," he said, after awhile. "At every turn I find some instance of your care and thoughtfulness. Is there nothing I can do?"

"Yes; go to bed," retorted Mannering, cheerfully. "It's time we all turned in. Miss Nina, you can't work by this light."

"I can see quite well," she said; "but if you wish it—good night!"

After she had gone the two men were silent for a few minutes, then Mannering said:

"Has she said anything? Is she frightened? On a raft in the open sea! It is enough to alarm the bravest!"

"No, she has said not one word," replied Fleming.

"I don't think she knows what fear means," said Mannering with something like a groan. "And yet she must realize the danger; she is so quick, so intelligent—"

"She is the most intelligent and acute girl I have ever known," said Fleming. "Will you give me your hand, Mannering?"

He was so weak that Mannering almost carried him to their hut. Mannering would have lain awake that night brooding over the situation, but the next day's Herculean toil loomed before him and he forced himself to sleep.

But Nina did not sleep. She went over Fleming's proposal, Mannering's words, in endless repetition; called up the expression of his face, his quick, short gestures. Rather than marry him she was going to leave him alone on this desolate island. She did not think of her own peril, on a raft on the open sea with a dying man, but of the terrible solitude of the man who had saved her life, who had worked like a slave for her comfort. Innumerable little acts, amongst the big ones, occurred to her, against which, small as they were, his fight with the Lascar was diminished.

My brothers, it is our little deeds, our small acts of consideration, which weigh with women. It is the wrapping of a cloak round them, the finding of a chair, the proffered hand in some small difficulty by the way, that counts with them. Heroic self-sacrifice is all very well, but, if you want to win a woman's heart, screen her from the sun, keep her feet dry, help her over the stile.

The girl lay and thought of the thousand and one little acts of kindness and consideration which Mannering had performed on her behalf, and she was so busy with the memory of them that she had not time left in which to think of her own coming peril.

And yet, how eager he must be to avoid marrying her, seeing that he was willing to let her run the risk of setting sail on a raft for an unknown destination!

The reflection stung her and made her face burn.

Mannering was up with the dawn—and really, it was almost worth being shipwrecked to see the dawn of day on that lovely island!—but early as it was, Nina had risen and was standing at the door of the men's hut.

"I have got your breakfast," she said, simply. "How is Mr. Fleming?"

The pearly light fell like a benediction on her lovely face and was reflected in the calm of her violet eyes, and something stirred in Mannering's bosom; perhaps the thought that very soon he would not see her in any light.

"He was asleep—at least, I think so; he is very weak," he said as he took the slice of bread and the tin of tea.

"I am afraid he is very ill," she said, sadly. "I will go to him. You are felling trees?"

"Yes," he said, trying to speak in a casual way. "I have nearly finished. I hope to have made the raft by to-night. Don't worry about the sail; I can finish it when I come in."

"It will be done before that," she said, very slowly and quietly.

He went off and resumed his work. The day grew hot and he was thirsty and was reluctantly thinking of going to the spring for a drink of water when Nina came towards him with a mug of lime-water. He straightened his back, and, with an unconscious admiration of her grace, watched her approach.

"Is there any need to work so hard?" she asked in a low voice, her eyes half raised with, on her side, the woman's instinctive appreciation and unconscious worship of his strength. "Have you cut down all these—in so short a time? It seems impossible."

"There is no time to lose," he said, as he set down the mug. "How is Mr. Fleming getting on? I have a hope that the voyage, the effort, will do him good."

She looked beyond him gravely as she answered: "He is much weaker I am afraid. I have been sitting with him mending the sail. It is finished. Is there anything else I can do?" She looked at the logs. "I am strong, very strong. It is strange, but I have grown stronger since we have been on the island. It is the air, I suppose."

Mannering nodded. "And the exercise. You are on the move from morning to night. I have watched you. And the simple food. We eat too much over there in England."

She looked round almost wistfully. "It is a very beautiful island. I have never seen anything half so beautiful. The colors are so lovely. If only there were more people!" she sighed and swept the dark hair from the sunburnt brow. "Can I not help you with these?"

"No," he said, almost curtly, "they are too heavy. But you can get the provisions together—the tinned meats and condensed milk we brought with us from the wreck—into a box, and strap up the rugs in a tarpaulin. And mind and put your spare clothes in the middle of the bundle, so that they can't get wet."

The small things, my brothers!

She glanced up at him, as he stood, his bare neck tanned by the sun, his brow knit with thought of her.

"Very well," she said, and, taking up the empty mug, left him.

By nightfall Mannering had got the last of the logs down to the beach at the edge of the high tide mark, and he worked on in the moonlight until he had joined the logs together and constructed his raft.

When he dragged himself up the beach, Nina was standing at the door of the men's hut.

"You are late," she said in a low voice. "Supper has been waiting a long time."

"I'm sorry," he said. "I wanted to finish the raft to-night, and I have done so. You will be able to start to-morrow. Where is Mr. Fleming?" he asked, as he entered and saw that Fleming was not there.

"He was too weak to leave his bed and come down here," she replied.

"I will go to him," he said.

"Not till you have had something to eat," she said with a touch of command in her low voice. "He has taken some milk. I have been sitting with him. Have your supper, please."

"Have you packed the box with the provisions?" he asked as he sank on to a seat.

"Yes," she replied, pouring out his coffee.

"All will be ready to-morrow," he said. "I have been studying the currents. You must steer south by southwest. I will show you on the compass. If I am right in my idea of the position of the main group, you will sail and drift for it without any difficulty, and should reach it in twenty, or say, thirty hours."

"We may find the men there," she said. "The boat may have taken them there."

He stopped the mug on its way to his mouth, then he shook his head.

"No, thank Heaven! The wind was in the other direction when they went. No, they drifted out to the open sea. If I were not sure of that I would not let you go. Better run the risk of—marrying me, than fall into their hands. But there is no chance of that; you need not be afraid. Aren't you going to eat something?"

She came to the rough table and poured out a cup of coffee. It was the first meal they had taken alone, and he watched her under his lowered lids for a time, then rose and went down to the beach and gazed at his raft with grim satisfaction.

At dawn the next morning he was awake, and stood over Fleming, who, Mannering thought, was asleep, but Fleming opened his eyes and smiled wanly.

"Nearly ready, Fleming," said Mannering. "How do you feel?"

Fleming smiled and moved his hand feebly, and Mannering went down to the raft. He fixed up a mast for the sail and rigged a rough, and he was going up to Nina's hut for the provisions when he met her coming swiftly down the beach.

"Everything is ready, I think—" he said, but she broke in upon him with an anxious cry.

"Oh, come at once! Mr. Fleming is ill—worse!"

He strode beside her, his brows knit, and they entered the hut. Fleming was lying on his back, his face white and pinched, his eyes closed.

"Is that you, Mannering?" he asked in so low a voice that Mannering could scarcely hear it.

"Yes, it's I. What's the matter, Fleming?" replied Mannering. "Are you ill—worse? The raft—everything is ready."

"Too late!" said Fleming, calmly. It is wonderful how calm your dying man can be. For him all earthly turmoil, all earthly struggles, doubts, difficulties, are over. "I cannot go. I am dying. I am sorry. Where—where is Miss Nina?"

She was beside him, her hand on his wrinkled brow, her pitying eyes full of tears.

"I'm sorry, Mannering. I would have done what you wished, but there was not time. You—you will have to do as I said. My—my Prayer Book! Quick! My voice—my breath—are going. Nina, my child, where are you?"

Nina sank on her knees beside the bed. Mannering had got the Prayer Book from underneath the pillow, and Fleming almost snatched at it and pressed it to his chest.

"It is too late," he gasped. "Heaven has decided. You—you cannot resist its decree. Kneel, Mannering."

Mannering, mechanically, sank onto his knees beside Nina, whose face was hidden in her hands.

"What are you going to do, Fleming? Make an effort! The raft is ready, but you need not sail to-day!"

"I am dying!" said Fleming, solemnly. "I felt that I could not wait—that it would be too late. Mannering, you remember our conversation? You know that I am right. You—you consent?"

"Yes, yes!" replied Mannering, scarcely conscious of what he said. "But, Miss Nina—"

"She must consent!" gasped Fleming. "She cannot refuse. There is no alternative! Take—take her hand. Have you—have you anything that will serve as a ring? Anything—"

Mannering, hypnotized by the solmn earnestness of the dying man, tore the signet ring from his finger.

"There, if you must!" he said, hoarsely.

Fleming had found the Service of Holy Matrimony and began to read it slowly, painfully, with pauses in which he struggled for breath.

As if in a dream Nina and Mannering, prompted by the dying man, made the proper response. Bravely, with faltering accents and heroic struggles with his death weakness, the Reverend Arthur Fleming read the Marriage Service.

At the proper moment Mannering took Nina's hand—it was limp and yielding to his touch—and placed the ring on her finger.

The solemn words of exhortation were gasped by the young priest, the Prayer Book dropped from his weak fingers, and he extended his hands above their heads and panted out the benediction. With a great effort he wrote some words on a sheet of paper and put it in Nina's hands, then, with a low cry, he fell back.

Mannering sprang to his feet and bent over him.

"He is—dead!" he cried, hoarsely, to Nina as she knelt, with her face covered by her trembling hands. "He is dead—and we are married!" he added, inaudibly.

CHAPTER V.

Mannering had read the Burial Service over Fleming, and Nina, who had stood beside the grave until the last spade full of earth had fallen, went slowly, and with bent head and tear-blinded eyes, to her hut.

When his task was finished, Mannering leant on his spade and gazed after her with a moody and perplexed brow. The girl and he was married; they were alone on this desolate island; but they were man and wife in name only; they were as far asunder as the poles.

What a situation! And how were they going to take it? Would she trust him, rely on his word, or would she be—afraid of him? The thought made his hands clench tightly on the spade and the blood rush to his face. Already a feeling of embarrassment, a tragic shyness and discomfort, had assailed him, and he knew that she must be feeling in exactly the same way, but worse. It was for him to help her; it was his duty to make life possible under the circumstances. He knew that it would be better to leave her alone for a while, and he got his fishing lines and went down to the rocks to catch fish and think over the situation.

Meanwhile, Nina closed the door of the hut, and put in its place the thick bolt of wood that Mannering had fixed for her. Then she sank into the chair and covered her face with her hands. Grief for the loss of the young clergyman whom she had loved as a brother mingled with the dismay and embarrassment of her own condition. Presently she took from her pocket the piece of paper which Fleming had pressed into her hand.

It was a certificate of marriage, and as she read the feebly written lines a burning blush rose to her cheeks and her lips quivered. She was married to a man of whom she knew nothing but his name. She was in his power—the power which a husband holds over his wife. He had said that the marriage should be one in name only. And, ah, yes, she could trust him! He had proved himself so brave, so unselfish, so self-sacrificing; he had even risked his life for hers. Yes, she told herself, striving to gain confidence from the reiteration of the assurance, that she could trust to his honor.

She sat for some time, the certificate in her hand, her brain half dazed with thought; then she remembered that she had work to do, and—blessed be drudgery!—she sprang to her feet with the sense of relief which comes at the mere thought of action, of something definite, something, however trifling, that must be accomplished.

And—and after all it was the duty of a wife—the name stung her!—to feed her husband.

She opened the door and looked out with shy embarrassment, but Mannering was out of sight on the rocks, and she went to the spring and filled the can and trussed the wild duck she was going to cook for dinner. She smiled as she performed the task. It was an extraordinary wedding, a singular honeymoon. Where were the bridesmaids, the breakfast, the wedding-guests in frock coats and gorgeous costumes, the monstrous and always hideous cake, to all of which she had looked forward, like all other properly brought up girls, as the fitting and only accompaniments of her marriage day!

Every now and then as she moved about, keeping as near the hut as possible, she glanced, expecting to see Mannering; but he did not make his appearance, and at the usual hour she carried the meal to the men's hut and waited.

Half an hour, three-quarters, passed, and he did not come. A grim suggestion flashed across her mind and sent the blood to her face; had he, in terror at what he had done, taken the raft and left her—fled from the woman he had been forced to marry?

The idea was a wild and foolish one, and she was suffering from the shame of it when she heard his step. She rose from her seat beside the fire, then dropped down again and bent over her pot.

Mannering had schooled himself—had, indeed, rehearsed his part—and he came in with a cheerful countenance as if no marriage had taken place—as if their position towards each other had suffered no alteration. Nothing—no word of his, no sign—he had sworn to himself, should remind her of the fact that she was tied to him.

"Dinner ready? I've had good luck to-day," he said, holding up the fish he had caught. "I mean to catch a lot of these fellows presently and salt them down for the winter."

She paused as she was lifting the pot from the fire, paused with dismay at the prospect, but he thought it was because the thing was too heavy, and he went to her and took it from her hand.

"Let me. It smells delicious! And I'm fearfully and wonderfully hungry."

He forced himself—he had been rehearsing his facial expressions as well as his words—to look steadily and frankly at her as he sat opposite her at the table, and she contrived to meet his gaze as openly and as unreservedly.

"You have proved yourself a remarkably good cook," he said, as he tasted the stewed duck. "You would be worth at least thirty pounds a year in England."

To be continued

Windsor Salt

the best salt that Canada's best salt works can produce, and that's the best anywhere

The New Store.

Plenty of things around the store deserve special mention, the following will answer for now. You can judge the trend of values by such items as these.

NEW DRESS GOODS

—Mohair Effects	from 25 to 75c	—Crispine	50c to $1.00
—Voiles	30c to $1.00 yard	—Cashmeres	25c to 75c
—Crepe-de-Chene	50c to $1.00 yd.	—Serges	25c, 50c, 75c
—Eoliennes	75c to $1.00	—Lustres	25c to 75c
—Etamines	50c to 75c	—Venetians	75c to $1.50

New Silk Blouses from .... $2 75 to $6.00 each.

75 LADIES' RAIN COATS

Guaranteed Waterprof and as far as could be foreseen in sizes to suit any customer. Price .... $4.00 to $10.00 each.

The store is as bright as a May morning and every day adds to its prestige.

Wims & Co

Wee Tablets for Wee Children.

Three months old babies may safely take

Menthol Worm Remover

They are purely vegetable—and harmless as water. The best laxative for children—a guaranteed cure for worms—and unequalled to relieve the troubles of teething.

25c a box—at all druggists.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

Cream for Corns

Carples Corn Cream is the very best corn remover on the market. Takes them out root and branch and without pain, inflamation or soreness. If your druggist does not keep it, send us 15 cents in stamps and we will send you a full sized box and two corn cushions free. Carples Corn Cream will remove your corns in three days or your money back. Mention this paper.

Stott & Jury, Bowmanville Ont.

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

MADAME

Free Offer TO READERS OF THE Intelligencer

Having contracted at considerable expense with the publishers of this high-grade magazine, we beg to offer

One Year's Subscription Free of Cost

to all and any readers of our paper who sign and send in the coupon below at once, accompanied by the price of one year's subscription to The Intelligencer in advance to April 1, 1906, or later.

MADAME brings a monthly message of culture to your home and contains all that is best in literature and art. It is endorsed by OVER THREE MILLION OF THE MOST CULTURED WOMEN OF AMERICA, being adopted by the National Council of Women of America as their official organ.

Sign and Send This Coupon

TO-DAY

Daily By Mail · $3.00
Weekly By Mail · $1.00

To The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, Limited, Belleville, Ont.

Gentlemen: I agree to subscribe to The Daily or Weekly Intelligencer for 12 months at the regular rates on condition that you send me Madame, post paid every month for one year. Enclosed is $...........

Name.............................. P. O...............................
Address.............................. ....

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY THIS COUPON.

Remember : Your Subscription to The Intelligencer Positively Paid in Advance to April 1, 1906, or Later, Entitles You to a Free Copy of MADAME or Twelve Months. Do not expect the Magazine at once. From two to six weeks must elapse, varying with the time of the month at which your subscription reaches this office.

SAMPLES TO BE SEEN AT THE INTELLIGENCER OFFICE.

FROM THE COVER DESIGN OF THE MARCH METROPOLITAN.

THE LATEST NOVELS, FREE

The METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE'S Great Special Offer to Readers of this Paper. A Rare Chance for Novel-Readers.

Everybody likes to read a good novel. Here is a chance for them to get the very latest, best, and most popular novels, free. They are all bound in cloth, and are the regular editions sold in the bookstores for $1.50 per copy.

By the actual reports of the booksellers throughout the country, the six best-selling books to-day are:—

1.—THE MASQUERADER, by Mrs. Thurston. This story has created more interest and more discussion than any other novel for a long while.

2.—THE PROSPECTOR, by Ralph Connor, the author of "The Man from Glengarry," "Black Rock," and "The Sky-Pilot."

3.—BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK by George B. McCutcheon, author of "Graustark." It is a fascinating story, full of incident and romantic interest.

4.—THE SEAWOLF, by Jack London. This is the powerful and original novel by the author of "The Call of the Wild."

5.—THE PRODIGAL SON, the newest and strongest of Hall Caine's novels. Author of "The Christian," etc.

6.—GOD'S GOOD MAN, by Marie Corelli. An absorbing novel in which Miss Corelli discusses some vital problems of the day.

Our SPECIAL OFFER Is As Follows:

To any person who will send us two yearly subscriptions for the Metropolitan Magazine, we will send, free of all charge, any one of the popular novels mentioned above.

Every reader ought to find in this list something to suit his taste.

The subscriptions must be accompanied by the regular subscription price of $1.80 each. Send us two subscriptions, your own subscription and that of a friend (or those of two friends), with $3.60 (the regular cost of the two subscriptions alone) and you will receive, free of all charges, one of the novels advertised above. The publishers' price on these books is $1.50 each.

Please note that our friends should be careful to request the books when ordering subscriptions.

Cut Out This Coupon in Ordering and send it to us with $3.60.

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE, 3 W. 29th St., New York City.

I accept your special offer and send you $3.60 herewith. Please send one subscription for 12 months, to the following address:

SUBSCRIPTION NO 1

Name
Street No.
Town State

SUBSCRIPTION NO 2

Name
Street No.
Town State

Please also send Book No to
Name
Street No.
Town State

Begin Your Subscription with the

Great March Number

(NOW READY.)

Contains 20 Prominent Features A cover designed by Edward Penfield, 100 illustrations (some of them in color), six short stories, and 128 pages. One of the features of the number is

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

from the stand point of a Southern Democrat, By THOMAS NELSON PAGE.

A typical Southerner writes this article about the President. It is a critical and dignified estimate of the President. The whole paper is very clarifying and admirably serves to call attention to the changing attitude of the South toward Mr. Roosevelt!

....OUR VITAL ARTICLES ARE....

(1) The Financial Centre of the World BY BURTON J. HENDRICK, ILLUSTRATED BY JULES GUERIN.

(2) Richard Wagner's Greatest Romance.

An account (illustrated in colors) of Wagner's love-story. The woman whom he really loved, and who inspired him to write his greatest music-drama. By James Huneker.

(3) A New "Uncle Remus" Story BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, ILLUSTRATED BY A. B. FROST.

AND SIXTEEN OTHER FEATURES.

At all News-stands, 15 cents per copy.

SELECTIONS

HIGH ALTITUDES.

Effect on People Who Are Used to the Sea Level.

"It is dangerous for me to go to bed."

That announcement by a stylishly dressed woman at the desk of the Albany hotel office startled William Maher, one of the proprietors, who was standing at the counter.

"What is the trouble?" asked Mr. Maher when he recovered his voice.

"The room is filled with electricity," replied the woman. "If I walk across the floor and touch my face with my hand there is a snap, and if I touch the iron bed I get a shock. Why, kind sir, it's awful! Everything I touch snaps! You might think I was some electrical freak and belonged with some show. But I am not. Honest, I never knew before that my system was electrified."

"Where is your home?" asked Mr. Maher.

"San Francisco," replied the woman.

"I thought you were from the sea level," said Mr. Maher. "You have nothing to fear. The room is not charged with electricity. There is nothing wrong with the telephone or electric light wires. You see, madam, that you are not acclimated in Denver. The air here is extremely dry and is therefore surcharged with electricity, so that you in touching iron feel a slight shock, and also a slight shock when you walk across the carpet and then touch anything with your hand or shake hands with anybody. You'll get over it in a few days."

The woman went away mystified, but satisfied, and Mr. Maher said:

"That's a common complaint in every hotel in town. Those of us who live here will now and then feel an electric shock by touching a conductor or when walking over a carpet if we touch our faces or shake hands, but we are not as subjective to electrical influences as those who come from sea level or from places where the air is moist. These people, of course, are shocked easily, and as it is a new experience for them they invariably believe that the telephone or electric light wires are crossed and that they are in danger of electrocution.

"We had a woman in the hotel last week who was startled because when she began to comb the hair of her French poodle electric currents ran up her arms. She thought that somebody had been playing a joke on her dog, and she was furious until I explained to her the cause."—Denver Republican.

A Blacksmith Wood Carver.

John McClellen of Mount Airy, Md., is not only a fine blacksmith, but he has shown himself to be an expert wood carver. With the long quiet evenings before him he conceived the idea of whittling a seven foot black walnut log with a penknife. Four years he spent at the amusement, often getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning to take his sharp knife and whittle at the log. He put a little time at meals and in the evening. Recently he went to Hagerstown and brought the result along in a glass case, and it is now on exhibition there. It is the running gear of a farm wagon complete in every detail, together with a chain and other fixings. It is perfect in every way, not a pin missing, not a part wanting and all in one piece, nothing added or pieced on in any way. It is a wonderful bit of patience and skill. Mr. McClellen used up over $25 worth of penknives at it and once bought a five dollar one with tempered blades and found it snapped up as easily as the others.—Blacksmith and Wheelwright.

A Great Cantalever Bridge.

A cantalever bridge under construction across the St. Lawrence at Quebec will contain a longer span than any bridge yet erected. The bridge consists of two approach spans of 210 feet each, two shore arms, each 500 feet in length, and a great central span 1,800 feet in length. The total length of the bridge is 4,220 feet, and although in extreme dimensions it does not compare with the Firth of Forth bridge, which is about one mile in total length, it has the distinction of having the longest span in the world by ninety feet, the two cantalevers of the Forth bridge being each 1,710 feet in length. The total width of the floor is 80 feet, and provision is made for a double track railway, two roadways for vehicles and two sidewalks. In a cantalever of this magnitude the individual members are necessarily of huge proportions, the main posts, for instance, being 325 feet in length and each weighing 750 tons.

The Life Line in Europe.

Of European nations the Norwegian and Swedish are the longest lived and the Spaniards the shortest. According to a foreign statistical return recently issued, the average duration of life is as follows: Sweden and Norway, 50 years; England, 45 years 3 months; Belgium, 44 years 11 months; Switzerland, 44 years 4 months; France, 43 years 6 months; Austria, 39 years 8 months; Prussia and Italy, 39 years; Bavaria, 36 years; Spain, 32 years 4 months.

New Kind of Water Pipes.

During the past year wooden pipes wound with wire have come into use by mill owners and mining engineers in western Canada. It is said that this form of pipe is superior to iron pipe since it weighs much less, costs only half as much and is less liable to burst in freezing weather. When used in place of flumes it saves water and needs little repairing.

JAPAN'S SPY SYSTEM.

Queer Story of Some St. Petersburg Tea Merchants.

A good deal has been heard from time to time of the extent to which the Japanese pushed their spy system, both in Manchuria and Russia, before the war. The accuracy of the following story is guaranteed by the Matin:

Toward the end of 1898 a Japanese from Kiusiu arrived in St. Petersburg and opened a tea warehouse on the Nevsky prospect. Shops of this kind simply swarm in the Russian capital, but all the same the Japanese prospered exceedingly.

In view of the big business he anticipated at the Easter festivities during the following spring the tea merchant got over five of his fellow countrymen as assistants. These were all extremely agreeable, tactful young fellows, who quickly ingratiated themselves with the aristocratic clientele of the shop.

But despite the prosperity of their business the Japanese did not seem happy. Their melancholy was noticed, and at last they confessed their secret. They did not in the least mind leaving Japan; they were delighted with Russia. What they did not like was to remain foreigners on the soil of their adopted country. Their dearest wish, they said, was to become naturalized Russians and to be admitted into the Orthodox church.

The idea appealed to the aristocratic customers of the tea shop, and in due course they were admitted into the Orthodox church and made Russian citizens.

Shortly after this the five new Russians wanted to get married and found families. Once more their customers interested themselves in their behalf. Brides were found in the shape of pretty young Russian work girls, dowries provided by subscription and the marriage ceremony duly performed. Time went on, children were born, and everything in the various menages seemed to be most satisfactory when suddenly the war broke out. Two days later the Russian-Japanese tea men had all disappeared, leaving their wives and families behind them in St. Petersburg. St. Petersburg society was flabbergasted. The confidences it had unfortunately imparted to the tea men went to Tokyo in the form of private reports to the Japanese general staff, while the heroes of the story, all captains or lieutenants in the Japanese army, went back to their respective regiments.—London News.

Pierre Loti's Oddities.

Pierre Loti, whose adaptation of "King Lear" is the latest dramatic novelty in Paris, is nothing if not versatile. Naval officer, novelist and academician, he is a man of many roles. Ordinarily he is the most unapproachable of men, speaks little, shuns society and generally plays the hermit. Then, after a long interval, once every ten years or so he suddenly announces a grand fete, and the residence of the recluse is invaded by hundreds of visitors. One of his most famous entertainments was that which he gave last year, when a wonderful Chinese pagoda which he had built was inaugurated by a grand party, which all the guests were requested to attend in Chinese costume. All the servants, host and hostess were likewise garbed in Chinese dress. Afterward followed supper, at which sharks' fins, swallows' nests and other Chinese delicacies were consumed.

Bog Slides in Ireland.

Compared with some of the bog slides which have taken place in Ireland the recent disaster in County Roscommon may be regarded as of trifling importance. In 1708 a slip of a mile long and a quarter of a mile broad occurred at Castlegarde and buried three houses containing twenty-one persons. A similar disaster took place at Addergoole, in Galway, thirty-five years later. Fresh in the public memory is the bog slide of eight years ago. Between 2 and 3 o'clock one bleak December morning the edge of the Knocknageeba bog, overlooking the Ownacree valley, near Killarney, gave way and liberated a vast flood of peat and water. The flood rushed along with startling rapidity, swept away the stone built house of Cornelius Donnelly, Lord Kenmare's quarry steward, and Donnelly, his wife and six children perished.—Westminster Gazette.

A Transformation.

An American man-of-war's man, ashore at Gravesend, near London, awoke the other morning to find himself attired in the uniform of a British soldier. No sooner had he wandered out into the street than a picket stopped him and told him to button up his tunic or he would be taken to barracks. He sought refuge in a police station, where it was discovered that a deserter had changed clothes with him while he slept.

His Own Voice at His Burial.

Herr Paul Turon of Teschen, in Austrian Silesia, sang a hymn at his own burial the other day. He had intoned the hymn into a phonograph shortly before his death and directed that it should be reproduced at his funeral service. This was carried out by his heirs, who under the terms of Herr Turon's will had to sacrifice $500 of his estate to a charity if they failed to comply with his wish.

Fifteen Million Candlepower.

St. Catherine's lighthouse, Isle of Wight, has just been fitted with a flashlight which is estimated to be equal to 15,000,000 candlepower, and on nights when the atmosphere is favorable its beam probably is visible from the French coast. The new light is immensely more powerful than the old one, which was of about 3,000,000 candlepower.—London Globe.

GREAT MEMORY FEATS

300,000,000 COMBINATIONS AS FIGURED BY CHESSMASTERS.

Expert Chess Players Do Not Require to See the Board—One Recently Engaged Seventy-Five Opponents at the Same Time—What Marshall Did in Chess and Pillsbury in Whist, Chess and Checkers.

Imagine being pitted against a mind that can visualize the portions of 30 pieces of ivory on as many squares, and every possible variation therefrom, and, building one picture upon another, can foretell not only the end of the game, but the exact number of moves required to bring it about, and, as Marshall did in London, proceed to accomplish it in spite of all an ordinary player and his pieces can do to prevent. Just what this means may be realized in view of the computation that there are 318,979,564,000 ways of playing the first four moves on each side of the board. Yet, during the Cambridge Springs tournament I saw Pillsbury take a hand in a game at whist, and at the same time play two games of chess and two games of checkers without looking at any one of the four boards. Mr. Pillsbury sat at the whist table, with his back to the chess and checker boards, and the moves of the players thereon were called out to him, and, without interrupting the whist game a moment, he would call back the name of his own piece, which he wished moved in reply, specifying on which of the 64 squares it was to be placed. In this way he won the chess and checker games, and helped to win the game of whist.

Pillsbury performs these blindfolded plays seemingly with comparative ease. He has played against as many as 22 different boards at one and the some time, without seeing a single board, and has won a large majority of the games. Seated with his back to the other players, and constantly smoking a big cigar, he is apparently able to visualize and to remember 22 different pictures, in each of which 32 chessmen are being changed about in an indefinite variety of combinations. At each of these boards sits an expert chess player with every faculty concentrated on his own game, caring nothing for his neighbors' difficulties, bent only on baffling the memory of the man at the end of the room, whose mind recurs to his particular game once only in 22 times. There is seldom any hesitation on Mr. Pillsbury's part in recalling the picture presented on any given board. The referee calls the number of the board and the move made by the player thereon, and instantly the reply comes back from the master with a request for the move on the next board. Before Pillsbury's time the record for blindfold play was 16 games, played in two days by Zukertort. In Chicago in 1900 Pillsbury played 16 simultaneously blindfolded games in 4 hours and 55 minutes, winning 12, drawing 3 and losing 1.

Of course, Mr. Pilsbury has a system for memorizing the various games. By courtesy, he is allowed the first move on each board. So he resolves the various boards into mental groups. In a 12-game circuit, he would probably group boards 1, 4, 7 and 10 together. Boards 2, 5, 8, and 11 would comprise the second group. Thus he would need but three styles of openings on the twelve boards. If the standard, or what are considered the best replies were made to those openings, he would probably make counter-replies that would carry him several moves into each game. After that he would probably begin to subdivide his groups, or, if a player tried a special variation, he would individualize that board and place it in a class by itself. Thus, eccentricity of play at any board presents no terrors for the blindfold master. Rather does he welcome it, since it gives that particular board a character of its own, causing it to stand out in his memory. After a while, each of the boards takes on a character of its own, and then he is compelled to depend upon memory pure and simple, but that is so marvelous that it seldom fails him. As an instance of its far-reaching power, if any portion of a pack of cards is called off to him he can successfully call the names of the remaining cards.

All of the masters indulge in blindfold play, but none has equalled the Pillsbury feats. What is known as simultaneous chess is, however, a very popular recreation of the masters. In this, as in blindfold chess, one man plays many games, but with all the boards in sight. O. S. Barnstein of Berlin recently engaged 75 boards at one and the same time. Pillsbury has engaged as high as 50. The strain on the mind is not so great as in blindfold chess, and the master, walking around and around the circle of boards, is able to engage them one after another, with comparative ease. Nevertheless, a highly specialized mind is necessary for a successful performance. Naturally, such a mind concentrated on one board, displays the most precise foresight, for not only does the master know fairly well in advance just the kind of moves he will make throughout a game, but his knowledge of its technique enables him to divine the kind of moves his opponent will make. It comes very near to mind reading.

Marshall's play has all the brilliance demanded by the one school and all the modern science which has been the mainstay of the other. And as he is but 27 years old, his vogue must strengthen rather than decline, that is, unless he inadvertently overtaxes his powers. That, by the way, seems to have been the ultimate fate of most of the great chess players of the past. The emoluments of the game are not so great that ease of living is always to be enjoyed, even by a champion, and this fact, with the inevitable mental strain, has been productive of a number of sad endings to the lives of the masters of days gone by.

Morphy early went insane, although his financial circumstances was easy. Kieseritzky and Neumann both died in the asylum. Goring committed suicide and Buckle tried to. Labourdonnais and Leonard died of starvation. Steinitz broke down in 1897, and his death followed soon after. Thousands of devotees play chess by correspondence, and there is a game now going on between a man in Canton, Ohio, and another in Warsaw, Russia, that will take several years to complete, each move being sent by postal card from one player to the other. Cable matches are of frequent occurrence, and many persons will remember the international game that took place some years ago between a team made up of members of Congress and one composed of members of the House of Commons. During that contest one move was cabled across the Atlantic and a reply received in 40 seconds. And now that wireless telegraphy has become a feature of ocean crossing, there are few days when some big liner is not exchanging a series of moves with a sister ship. So that it is to be doubted if the sad fate of some of the masters has been any detriment to the game of intellect.

THIS GIANT EATS WELL.

One Day's Meals Would Keep an Ordinary Family for a Week.

The London Daily Express publishes the following: Londoners will shortly be able to realize the feelings of the Lilliputians when Gulliver appeared among them, for a Brobdignagian person, before whose size all other known giants dwindle into insignificance, is to appear at the Hippodrome.

This modern Gulliver's name is Machnow, and he was born in Charkow, Russia, 23 years ago. His actual dimensions are nine feet two and one-half inches from head to foot. His weight is 27 stone.

Machnow wears the largest hats ever made for a human being. His frock coat cuts into sufficient material to clothe five average-sized men. His boots are so large that they cost eight guineas a pair, and three pairs of his socks, which have to be specially woven for him, would, if unseamed, make a coverlet for an average cot.

On the forefinger of his right hand Machnow wears a great gold ring, which weighs half a pound, and would make a respectable collar for a fox terrier.

The following is his food for one day:

Breakfast, 9 a.m.—One to two qts. of milk or tea, sixteen hard-boiled eggs, six to eight small loaves and butter.

Luncheon, 12 midday—Two to three pounds of meat, fowl, fish, vegetables, potatoes, three pounds of bread, one to two quarts of beer.

Supper, 9 p.m.—Ten to fifteen eggs, with bread and butter and one quart of tea.

Concentrating Britain's Naval Forces.

With Sir John Fisher at the Admiralty a new era in Great Britain's naval policy has begun, which is likely to be as far-reaching in its results as the military cancentration of Lord Cardwell a generation ago. The spirit is, however, entirely different, marking our progress towards the realization of our Imperial ideal. The disappearance of warships from Colonial waters will not move Colonials to agonized despair, as the disappearance of the redcoat did, because they know that it is a necessary measure; that it is in harmony with Nelson's main principle of naval defence; that it is carried out with due regard to the safety of the Empire as a whole. The first colony to experience the effect of the new policy is Canada, for already the North Atlantic Squadron has been reduced in strength. This was inevitable owing to the growth of the United States. With the increased mobility conferred on the navy by modern science, the defence of British interests in the western hemisphere is best attained, not by the maintenance of a relatively small force in the North Atlantic, but by powerful fleets within a week's steam. Not that the flag is to disappear from Colonial waters, for these will be visited by flying squadrons of battleships and cruisers. But, seeing that the centre of political gravity is in Europe, the policy of maintaining distant foreign stations is to be abandoned. That is to say, concentration, not dispersion, of our naval strength is to be the order of the day.—Broad Arrow.

Retirement of Sir Evelyn Wood.

The close of the year saw the retirement from the southern command of Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, V. C., says The London Star. Like Sir John French, Sir Evelyn Wood began his career in the navy, entering that service in 1852. While still a lad, he served in the Crimea, and at the unsuccessful assault on the Redan on June 18, 1855, while carrying one of the scaling ladders, he was severely wounded. He was mentioned with praise by Lord Raglan in his despatches, and was awarded the Crimean medal with two clasps, the fifth class of the Order of the Medjidieh and the Turkish medal, and was also made a Knight of the Legion of Honor. In 1855 Wood joined the army as a cornet in the 13th Light Dragoons, and six years later we find him promoted to be captain in the famous "Death or Glory Boys." In the Indian Mutiny campaign he was awarded the Victoria Cross for having, during the action at Sindwaho, attacked with much gallantry, and routed almost single-handed a body of rebels, and also for having subsequently, near Sindhora, gallantly rescued a Potail from a band of robbers, who were carrying him off to the jungle, where they intended to hang him.

A Strange Guide.

During the recent fog a military man, advanced in years, lost his way completely in the nocturnal vapor. Bumping against a stranger, he explained his misfortune and gave his address.

"I know it quite well," said the stranger, "and I will take you there."

It was some distance, but the guide never hesitated for a moment on the whole route.

"This is your door," he said at last, as a house loomed dimly before them.

"Bless my soul," said the old gentleman, "so it is. But how on earth have you been able to make your way through such a fog?"

"I know every stick and stone in this part of London," said the stranger, quietly, "for I am blind."—London Chronicle.

Thoughtful of Hubby All the While.

Mr. Newleetled: "What did you do with that thirty dollars I gave you yesterday?"

Mrs. Newleetled: "Why, I spent part of it for a birthday present for you, and the rest I put into this hat. Isn't it a beauty for only twenty-nine ninety-five, dear?"

NOBLE SIX HUNDRED.

Charge of the Light Brigade—Story of Survivor Who Is Still in Sound Health, But Short of Work.

Cannon to right of them,
Cannon to left of them,
Cannon behind them
Volleyed and thundered;
Stormed at with shot and shell,
While horse and hero fell,
They that had fought so well
Came through the jaws of death
Back from the mouth of hell,
All that was left of them,
Left of six hundred.

When can their glory fade?
O, the wild charge they made!
All the world wondered.
Honor the charge they made!
Honor the Light Brigade,
Noble six hundred!
—Tennyson.

Charge of the Light Brigade.

"Forget it?" said Veteran William McCormack, when asked by The Boston Herald the other day if the memory of the charge at Balaklava would ever grow dim—"Forget it?" he said, "why, the incidents of that 30 minutes' ride are engraved in my mind so deeply that they never will be effaced. I am getting to be a man old in years—I am now 68 years of age—but my memory is as clear as that of a man in his prime.

"Yes, I am poor, very poor indeed, but I am willing to work. It seems that I can't get any steady jobs now. I have done a little lecturing on army life and travels; I have been all over the world. I was in the service of the Queen for 21 years—the Crimea and India and a short while in the home service.

"No, I have no pension. It was 20 years ago that I sold back my pension —26 cents a day—to the home office in London. I wanted to come to this country, so I took four years in advance and signed off my rights under the Pension Act.

"Now my wife is gone, I am all alone, and I have no claim on the British treasury.

"I was born near Glasgow, and I was only a few months old when my folks came to this country. I went back to England at 17 years of age, and joined the 8th Royal Hussars—the light cavalry, you know. Then we were off for the Crimea—for Alma, Sebastopol and the Russians.

"I remember how we were watching the battle—disengaged, as it were, waiting for orders, about 600 of us. We could see the guns of the Russians about a mile and a half away.

"Lord Cardigan was in command of us, when Nolan came with the orders to charge the guns. 'There must be a mistake,' said Cardigan. 'A hundred thousand men couldn't go through that awful crossfire and get back alive.'

"And then he looked at us and passed the word to the bugler to blow the cavalry charge. I think he must have understood that it was a sacrifice. In big battles they sometimes sacrifice men —the way they lose a knight or a pawn at chess—and when Cardigan realized that his light horse were to be sent to certain death he took his fate like a man. He had lost a brother at Alma two months before. 'The last of the Cardigans,' said he, and we were charging down the valley.

"And now we knew it was all a bad mistake. But the man who brought the order was one of the first to receive a bullet, and his horse went galloping along with Nolan hanging by his stirrup straps—lifeless.

"My God! but it was awful! Six hundred men against 50,000, and not a tree nor a hill to shield us. There were a thousand shots fired to every man in the light cavalry. Things happened so fast that I couldn't keep track of them—shells were bursting in the air, on the ground in front and behind us.

"On we went. A man would be blown from his horse and the horse would plunge madly along; a horse would be blown into atoms and the rider would be thrown 50 feet away. Those in the rear would mangle the bodies of those who had fallen in the front, but the light horse cavalry kept on—and spiked the guns of the battery.

"Then came the order to retreat. Back through that awful crossfire from the hills—back through the most awful rain of bullets that ever fell on a battlefield. And we went back. The distance was only a mile and a half, and we had lost a man for every 15 feet of the way.

"Me? I have a piece of shell in my left leg, but it doesn't bother me very much. I think it is very strange, though, my boy, that the good Lord should let me live through the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava and his people should make it so very hard for me to find work now.

"What can I do? Why, I was a butler for 30 odd years. I have served the Duke of Cambridge and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, now the King, at Aldershot.

"I could care for horses, tend to furnaces, or do any general work. No, sir, I never touch a drop of liquor.

"I am not sure about it, but I think I am the only man is Boston who was in the light cavalry which made the charge at Balaklava.

"Some day I will tell you about the campaign in India," and William McCormack, soldier of the crown, said "good-bye" to the interviewer.

In addition to being a soldier, Veteran McCormack is a member of the Masonic Order, his admission to that body dating back over 40 years. He is equally proud of his Masonic pin, but is reluctant to speak of it except to say that he is one of the oldest Masons in Boston.

He has no home. He has no relatives. He has no steady employment. At the present time he lives at 6 Melrose Place, in the west end, and every day finds him earnestly looking for some work to eke out enough money to pay for his lodgings and meals. His heart is as young as ever, but his age prevents him from doing what his impulses prompt. As he puts it himself: "All I want is some steady work, and I shall be satisfied."

A modest request for a man who once obeyed a charge to ride into a valley in which every leap of his horse saw a comrade go into eternity.

Sold Again.

Josher: "I noticed you had on your three-ninety-eight raincoat in yesterday's storm. Do you still think it a great bargain?"

Buncode: "No, I got soaked."

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats — 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats — 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

Shirts-To-Order

New Spring Shirtings have just arrived and we can give you ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY of style and QUALITY GUARANTEED.

These Shirts are made to fit—wear and as well as the best shirt makers in Canada know how.

We always lead in High-Class Furnishings.

Chas. J Symons

successor to W. B. Deacon.

Shirts Made to Order. 2 8 Front St.

ONE DOLLAR

buys more Groceries at our store than anywhere else in town. Special prices in Canned Goods, crisp Crackers in packages or by the pound, fine Flour and Granulated Sugar.

THE EXTRA GOOD QUALITY

of everything we sell makes these special prices a matter of importance to every careful buyer.

W. R. CARNRITE.

New arrival of fresh Dairy Butter at 25c lb.

The Toggery Shop

SPRING NECKWEAR— We have just received a shipment of pretty Neckwear, consisting of Ascots, Puffs and 4-in-Hands.

You will find them very stylish and the quality is A1.

If you have a spare moment drop into the new shop and see them for yourself! See window display. Price 50c.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.

Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day. Success always stands for itself. Failure needs no explanation.

It is the part of wisdom to make as many friends as you can, and to ask them as few favors as you can.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
S. E. Carman, Manager.

TUESDAY. MAR. 14

E. H. SOTHERN'S greatest success, H. C. DeMille's and David Belasco's delightful comedy . . .

Lord Chumley

With Cecil DeMille supported by an exceptionally capable company.

340 Nights in New York, 250 Nights in Boston. 200 Nigts in Chicago.

—Management Mrs. H. C. DeMille.—

Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.00

Plan Opens Saturday Morning.

Parliamentary Notice

Monday, the Third day of April next, will be the last day for the presenting of Petitions for Private Bills.

Monday, the Tenth day of April next, will be the last day for introducing Private Bills.

Monday, the Twenty-fourth day of April next, will be the last day for receiving Reports of Committee on Private Bills.

CHARLES CLARKE,
Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
Toronto, 24th February, 1905.

SIDNEY POINTER.

Fees for the above great stallion will remain at $25 until May 1st, 1905, and after that will be $50.

Parties owning mares who desire the services of this great horse should avail themselves of this opportunity to secure the best blood at a very low price.

For particulars enquire of William Terwillegar, Sidney Township.

W. H. MOFFATT, Owner.

St. Michael's Church.

A meeting of the officials of St. Michael's Church was held last evening and tenders for the restoration of the church were considered. A number of tenders were submitted. The result was that Messrs. Quinlan & Robertson, of this city, were awarded the contract.

Lenten Addresses in Christ Church.

The following list of subjects will be discussed by the Rector on Sunday evenings during Lent: March 12 and 19, What was the Reformation?; 26th, The Church and Puritanism; April 2nd, The Evangelical Revival; 9th, The Oxford Movement.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

W. C. A. Notes.

W.C.A. met Tuesday, March 7th, 1905. Report of Hospital Board for February, 1905:

Received from paying patients	$156.50
Medicine and dressing	12.65
Massage	10.00
City patients	10.00
	$189.15
Feb. 9th. Received for city poor in Hospital	$300.00
Total for month	$489.15

Twenty-seven patients admitted to Hospital during month; seven under treatment at present.

GIFTS TO HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Corby, two blocks of ice cream; Mrs. E. G. Sills, one hundred ok flour; Mr. J. D. Collip, two flowering plants; Mrs. G. I. Lazier, four pairs of pillow slips and three night shirts.

GIFTS TO HOME.

Mrs. St. Charles, bed socks, cough mixture; St. Michael's Church, Ladies' Benevolent Society, boots, handkerchiefs, corsets; Mr. Geo. Hamilton, Mill St., large roast of beef; Mrs. F. Asseltine, Victoria Ave., one-half gallon strawberries; Miss B. Osborne, Dunbar St., lemon pie; Mrs. W. J. McCamon, jelly, papers, cough mixture, can of peaches, biscuits; Mrs. Geo. Denmark, gifts; Mr. D. Gallagher, wood; Mr. G. I. Thomas, roast of beef; some friends, two doz. rolls; Mr. A. R. Symons' dancing class, cake and sandwiches; Mr. D. Easterly, shank twice; Mr. W. B. Riggs gave a receipted bill for repairs to organ; Miss E. Vandervoort, apple and large meat pies; Mr. Don. Bleecker, beef; Miss Jean McIntosh, two cans of fruit, large pudding; Mrs. Curry, can of fruit; Mr. Holley, repairing two boots; Mr. Burton, onions, three livers and pruning trees; Dorcas, clothing.

H. A. MACKAY,
Cor. Sec. W.C.A.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"LORD CHUMLEY."

Cecil De Mille, who will star in "Lord Chumley" at the Carman next Tuesday night, made his first appearance in the all-star cast of "Hearts are Trumps," which was staged under the personal direction of the late Jos. Humphries, the general stage director of all the Frohman productions. On his last trip to Europe it was Mrs. De Mille's good fortune to have Mr. Humphries as a fellow-passenger. One can easily imagine how gratified she was when he one day remarked to her: "I predict great things for your boy Cecil. It's in him, and he's sure to rise quickly." To-day we see how well his prediction was fulfilled, for to be leading man to Virginia Harned at 23 years of age proved the veteran manager's estimate correct.

Sports and Pastimes

HOCKEY.

Wind Jammers Won.

An interesting hockey match was played last evening between the Greys and the Bugle Band teams. The result was a victory for the wind jammers, who scored 4 goals to their opponents' 2. At half-time the score was a tie, 2 each. In the second half the Greys made every effort to score, but were unable to do so, whilst the buglers found the net twice. A goodly number of spectators witnessed the game. Mr. S. Burrows was referee and whilst strict was impartial. A number of the players were penalized during the game. The line-up was as follows:

Bugle Band.		Greys.
Boyle	Goal	Dolan
Walker	Point	Donald
Brennan	Cover	Robb
Geen	Rover	Burke
Rathbun	Centre	Allen
Weller	Right Wing	O'Flynn
Thompson	Left Wing	Moore

Rough Tactics and Soft Ice Beat Rat Portage.

Ottawa, March 9.—With conditions all in favor of the cup defenders, the Thistles of Rat Portage to-night went down to defeat before the Ottawas, reinforced by "Billy" Gilmour and Frank McGee, in a fierce battle, by a score of 4 to 2. Ottawa played with a desperation born of knowledge that defeat meant the loss of the Stanley mug, and they simply wore the Thistles down. The ice was covered with water, the weather being mild and the ice having been flooded just previous to the game.

When the game started Dey's rink was crowded to its utmost capacity. Seats were all sold yesterday, and the speculators did a brisk business during the day, selling tickets as high as $3 a piece. The game was a remarkable contrast to the first match. Then Ottawa had no thought of losing, and played comparatively clean hockey for Ottawa. To-night they changed their tactics, and every little art and device known to the Capital's accomplished "rough-house" artists was utilized to destroy the usefulness of the opposition. The Thistles' wonderful speed was discounted on the watery surface and by jabbing, jollying, cross-checking methods of the Ottawas.

Referee Mike Grant, of Montreal, let pretty nearly everything go. He was bad on off-sides, but worse in watching the rough methods of the locals. He ruled off numerous players, but they graced the fence for only a couple of minutes at a time, and the lessons had little force in consequence. With good ice and impartial and strict referees, a large proportion of Ottawa's hockey enthusiasts are inclined to think that the Thistles would have beaten them, even with the strongest team on.

The game was full of delays. The Ottawas were not in the best of condition, and they stopped every few minutes to repair skates. The Thistles were wise, though, and on most occasions dropped a man and continued to play with even sides. Ottawa's defence won the game for their team. The Thistles were unable to make use of their speed, and the heavy Ottawa defence men found it an easy matter to body them. They never overlooked a chance to hand out jolts, and after the game the Thistles were all cut up and badly bruised. Every player on the team was hurt during the match, including Goal-keeper Geroux, who was cut on the face by McGee during a scuffle near the goal. McGimsie was so badly hurt that he had to retire in the second half. Beaudro replaced him, but he had no speed, and, even though he was fresh, he did not make any appreciable difference in the play. Up to his retirement, McGimsie was playing a star game.

Phillips, Griffis and Hooper were roughly used all through, but they took their medicine, and at the end were plugging away just as gamely as ever. In the early stage of the game, the Thistles had the better of the play. They scored the first goal after nearly seventeen minutes' strenuous work, during which there were many happenings, McGimsie doing the trick. Then Smith evened up for Ottawa by a long shot that Geroux never saw. The Thistles took the lead again, when Hooper scored a minute after, but it was their final score. Smith evened up for Ottawa shortly afterwards, and Gilmour put the home team in the lead a moment later by the prettiest piece of combination of the night with McGee. The half-time score was 3 to 2.

The second half saw the Thistles going at it with renewed ardor. The play was of the fastest description, and for nearly twenty minutes the goal-tenders repulsed all assaults on their citadels. Then Smith scored for Ottawa, and it was all off. The Thistles died game, though, and stuck to it to the finish, but they were very tired, and their efforts in the final stages consisted of one-man rushes that ended with Pulford.

Phillips, Griffis and McGimsie did great work for the Thistles. Pulford was in his glory and so was Moore. They waded into the Thistles in butcher fashion, and every forward who got near them was jolted good and plenty. Pulford played cover-point most of the night, and held the Thistles at a safe distance. The latter had no luck in their shooting, either. McGee and Smith were the best of the locals. McGee was dirty. He hooked and jolted with his stick, and several times deliberately hit Thistle players over the head. Gilmour used his stick just as freely as McGee, and between them they cut the Thistles up badly. Much money changed hands on the game. The Thistles were betting as good as 2 to 1 before the game, and there was all kinds of coin in sight.

The Toronto Marlboros have challenged for the Stanley Cup, but do not expect to play for it this year. They'll need a better team than they have at present.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Rat Portage lads were turned down in Ottawa last night, the soft ice having much to do with it. Ottawa's full team was on however, and that probably meant a great deal, but, according to the report which appears in another column, it was the soft ice and rough play of the cup-holders which defeated the Westerners. The Rat Portage men wanted two referees, the same as on the first night, one to watch the puck and the other to look out for rough play, but Ottawa would not agree. That looked as though they meant to go in for the manslaughter game while the referee wasn't looking. Each team has now won a game, and the final will be played to-morrow night. With hard ice and a referee to look out for assault and battery Rat Portage should gallop off with the cup, but, under the same conditions as prevailed last night, it looks as though the silverware will roost under the shadow of the Parliament Buildings for another year at least.

INFORMATION FOR SOME PETERBORO PEOPLE

CITY ASSESSOR REEVES ANSWERS A QUERY MADE RE THE NEW ASSESSMENT ACT.

Belleville, March 16, '05.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—In reply to the enquiry of Mr. T. B. McGrath, of Peterboro, regarding the Assessment Act, which appeared in the Intelligencer of a recent date, I beg to say that it is necessary to apportion the real property (both land and buildings) among each and every one of the tenants, the apportionment being arrived at from the relative rental power of the whole premises.

The following example will explain the above: In assessing a piece of property upon which a three-storey building is erected and the whole property valued at $6,000, the building being valued at $5,000.00 and the land $1,000.00 and producing a total rental of $600.00 per year, divided as follows, the tenant on the first floor paying $300.00 per year or one-half of the total rental, the tenant on the second floor paying $200.00 per year or one-third of the total rental, the tenant of the third floor paying $100.00 per year or one-sixth of the total rental, the assessment would be apportioned as follows:

	Value of Land.	Value of Building.	Total
Assessment of first floor ...	$500	2,500	3,000
Assessment of second floor	333.33	1,666.67	2,000
Assessment of third floor ...	16,667	833.33	1,000
	$1,000	$5,000	$6,000

Respectfully yours,
W. F. REEVES.

THE BELLEVILLE HOSPITAL.

MR. R. TANNAHILL CORRECTS AN INACCURACY WHICH APPEARS IN THE GOVERNMENT REPORT, PUBLISHED YESTERDAY IN THESE COLUMNS.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—It is only fair to the County Council that attention should be drawn to an inaccuracy which appears in the Government accounts for the year ending 30th Sept., 1903, with reference to the County's contributions to the Belleville General Hospital.

The County gift in 1903 was $200, which appears in the published report duly credited to the proper source, in the Building Fund account.

Probably the Provincial officer only took the figures for the institution's ordinary revenues and was misled by the total of payments received from several townships, whose Reeves saw to the payment of bills for poor patients admitted at their request, which amounted in all to $69 for that year.

Everyone will agree with The Intelligencer's view that an annual contribution of $1,000 would be more in keeping with the dignity of the important County of Hastings, and probably the Councillors will recognize this at the proper time.

Thanking you for your space.
I am,
Yours faithfully,
R. TANNAHILL.

ED. NOTE:—Mr. Tannahill's correction is timely and welcome. But he is slightly mistaken in his remark as to "The Intelligencer's view." The Intelligencer did not express the opinion that the County should grant $1,000 annually to the Hospital. But it did think, and thinks still, that the County Fathers should grant much more than $69, with which amount they were wrongfully credited.

A "SWISS FOOD" FACT.

Many people would as soon do without breakfast as take it without "SWISS FOOD." 15c packages.

Religious Census Will Be Taken.

REPRESENTATIVE MEETING IN CITY HALL LAST NIGHT ENDORSES THE PLAN PROPOSED BY MR. THOMAS YELLOWLEES, OF TORONTO.

"Shall there be a census of the religions of Belleville?"

This question was discussed and considered last evening and answered in the affirmative.

Mr. Thomas Yellowlees, of Toronto, Extension Secretary of the Sunday School Association, gave an address last evening in the City Hall relating to a proposed systematice house to house visitation conducted by members of the various religious denominations in the city. The attendance, whilst not large, was representative.

Mayor Sulman was chairman, and those with him on the platform were: Revs. J. P. Wilson, A. M. Hubly, G. Brown, Messrs. Wm. Johnson, H. C. Hunt, G. Woodley, and Ald. Gordon.

The meeting was opened by the Lord's prayer, repeated in unison, with Mr. Johnson leading.

His Worship in a few appropriate remarks spoke of the object of the meeting, which he endorsed, and introduced the speaker of the evening.

In his opening remarks Mr. Yellowlees explained the object of his visit to this city, namely, to discuss the question of house to house visitation, in order to ascertain those who are not church-goers. In Toronto, which was recognized as a Christian city, such a visitation showed that 15,000 persons were not attending any church and 11,000 young people were not attending any Sunday School. In the city of Hamilton the revelations made by a house to house visitation were simply wonderful. House visitation means that every house in the community should be visited, and even those who might live in hovels should be kindly spoken to. These people need the warm clasp of the hand and words of encouragement. The word spoken in tenderness will have its effect. There is a large element, in the large cities especially, who have no regard for the church and are outspoken against the church, but we should fulfil the Master's command, "Go ye out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in." Many have been lost sight of in the crowd and are waiting to be discovered by some warm-hearted soul. Christ cared for the outcast and He wants us to look after this class. House to house visitation will reach this class of the community. In Hamilton and Toronto the house visitation was successfully accomplished, and if it can be done in those cities it can be done in Belleville. This work will be of no avail unless it is done thoroughly by intelligent ladies and gentlemen. This work has large possibilities. Difficulties may be encountered, but there are so many possibilities. The speaker at this stage of his address read a number of letters from ministers and others in cities where house to house visitations had been carried out. These letters showed that excellent work had been accomplished and numbers were added to various churches. He believed that no mistake would be made if this work were taken up in Belleville, and carried out earnestly. He asked them in God's name to do what they could in this matter. The speaker then outlined the plan of the work. The matter is placed in charge of the officers of the City or County Sunday School Association, who shall appoint a committee consisting of representatives from every denomination within the territory to be visited. This committee divides and subdivides the territory so that the work may be easily directed, and all who assist in the visitation may know precisely their work. After many experiments it has been found that the best plan is to visit every home on one afternoon, and Saturday or some holiday is usually the best time. Volunteers to do the work are secured from the various churches, Sunday schools and Young People's societies represented in the community, secured by the pastor and Sunday school superintendent, none being taken who are under fifteen years of age. They are sent out in pairs, each pair if possible, representing two denominations A specific territory is assigned them. They are expected to do two things. First—To extend a cordial invitation to those not identified with Sunday school and church to become so, but in no case specify a particular church. Second—To gether on uniform blanks, such simple information concerning each home as will enable pastors and other church workers to intelligently follow up the visit. All direct personal work must be left for each church to carry forward in its own way after the preferences of those visited have been ascertained. The visitation is intended to be the beginning of a much larger work which it makes possible to be done by each local church along its own denominational lines.

Mr. H. C. Hunt said a business man, in order to be successful, must be methodical, and the work outlined by Mr. Yellowlees was methodical and would no doubt be the means of accomplishing much good. The speaker read a letter from Rev. W. B. Heeney, regretting his inability to be present, but he was in sympathy with the scheme. Two other city ministers who were out of the city at present, namely, Rev. R. S. Laidlaw and Rev. O. C. Elliott, were in hearty accord with the movement. Mr. Hunt moved, seconded by Rev. Mr. Hubly, the following resolution:

"That after hearing the lucid and interesting address of Mr. Thomas Yellowlees, of Toronto, this public meeting of the citizens favors the taking a census of the religions of the city, on the plans and for the reasons explained by Mr. Yellowlees, believing that it would be in the interest of each religious denomination.

"That a committee composed of the pastors of the city churches, superintendents, assistant superintendents, secretaries and treasurers of Sunday schools, presidents, secretaries and treasurers of Young People's Societies, and the president, secretary, and treasurer of the Young Men's Christian Association be a committee, with power to add to their numbers, to confer with Mr. Yellowlees at the close of this meeting, to arrange, if possible, for a date on which the census shall be taken and to perfect the plans for it."

Rev. G. R. Beamish said he had had some experience in a house to house visitation. During a canvass of the City of Kingston 10 years ago, by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, some 40 or 50 young men did the work, and it was ascertained that there were a number of citizens who called themselves Anglican, who were not known to any of the Rectors of the churches. In one district 50 families were found who were not identified with any church. This work will, no doubt, be the means of accomplishing good and adding to the church membership.

Rev. A. M. Hubly said he was pleased to be present and he was pleased that this was an inter-denominational work, in which all classes of church workers could work together. He had been associated for years in international Sunday School work, and was delighted with the work. In the City of St. John, N.B., the house to house visitation was taken up and it was a revelation to the ministers and those who were engaged in the work. He was in hearty accord with the resolution.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., stated that he was in hearty sympathy with the work. In the Town of Peterboro a house to house visitation was made, and it was astonishing to find how many there were in that town who were not identified with any church. There was a class in all cities who need to be looked after and this house to house visitation would reach them. He would support the resolution proposed by Mr. Hunt.

Mr. Johnson said that Rev. Father Twomey, of St. Michael's congregation, had been seen in reference to the matter and was in accord with it and intended to make such a canvass himself.

The resolution was submitted to the meeting and unanimously adopted.

The proceedings were then closed with the benediction, pronounced by the Rev. Geo. Brown.

After the general meeting a number of those present remained and consulted with Mr. Yellowlees in reference to prosecuting the work.

At the subsequent meeting the Mayor acted as chairman and Mr. J. A. Tousaw secretary.

Thursday, April 27, was selected as the date on which the census will be taken.

It was decided to ask the following gentlemen to act as a nominating committee, they to nominate officers and committees of the organization which will take the census: J. A. Consaul, Salvation Army; W. A. G. Hardy, Roman Catholics; Rev. W. B. Heeney, Church of England; H. C. Hunt, Presbyterians; Wm. Johnson, Methodists; W. B. Riggs, Baptists; E. T. Thompson, Reformed Episcopalians.

CROSSED THE DARK RIVER.

MRS. W. H. DAVIS.

Mrs. W. H. Davis, of Tweed, died this morning. Deceased was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. James Reid, Deputy Postmaster of Belleville, and a sister of Mr. C. M. Reid, of the Ritchie Company. Since being married Mrs. Davis had been a resident of Tweed, where she was well-known and deservedly popular. She was a member of the Methodist Church. A husband and a grown-up family, consisting of two sons and one daughter survive.

MRS. DESHANE.

Mrs. Ann Deshane, of Foxboro, died this morning, aged 75 years. Deceased had been a resident of the village for many years. She had been in failing health for some time and her demise was not unexpected.

DORA McDERMOTT.

Dora C. McDermott, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McDermott, residing on Bleecker Avenue, died this morning. The little one had been ill for several days.

MRS. WM. ASHLEY.

Mrs. Wm. Ashley, an elderly lady residing in the Village of Foxboro, died yesterday afternoon. Deceased last fall had the misfortune to fall and break her leg, and since that time had been confined to bed. Mrs. Ashley, whose maiden name was Miss Pamelia Lake, was born in the year 1818, being thus 87 years of age. The greater portion of her life was spent in Foxboro and Thurlow Townships. She had been for many years a member of the Methodist Church, and was a lady who was respected by all who knew her. Mr. Ashley preceded her to the tomb some years ago. The remaining members of the family are one son, Mr. Chas. Ashley, of Foxboro, and two married daughters, who reside in the western portion of the province.

A penny saved by a miser means a dollar earned by his heirs later on.

Daily Intelligencer.

More of Those Chewing Chocolate Caramels...

JUST MADE, 25c LB.

Chas. S. Clapp

Take the Elevator Please!

It is faster than walking up stairs.

McKeown's Calisaya Hypophosphites is an elevator from the basement of sickness to the top story of health.

Don't try the long way.

Do you want rosy cheeks? Do you want that reserved feeling of strength? Do you want to be vigorous as a young sapling?

Get this greatest of tonics.

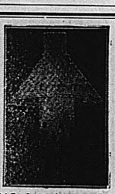
It cures quickly.

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

—

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.



The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,

Sole Agent for Belleville.

38. Front St.

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

CABLES KING FOR COMMUTATION.

Alex Martin's Father Makes Final Effort for Son's Life.

Toronto, March 10.—Yesterday Alex. Martin, Sr., through A. R. Hassard, who acted as counsel for the unfortunate man, who, if the law takes its course, was to be hanged at 8 o'clock this morning, made a final attempt to procure a commutation of the sentence which has been denied by the highest authorities at Ottawa.

At 4 p. m. he cabled His Majesty King Edward this pathetic appeal:

"My son sentenced to be hanged on Friday celebration Your Majesty's marriage. Please commute his sentence to life imprisonment."

His Majesty is at present at Buckingham Palace, in London, and it is expected the message would have been delivered about 11 o'clock last night. His Majesty was wedded March 10, 1863.

Mother Finds Son Dead.

Sunderland, March 10.—Early yesterday afternoon Mrs. James Marquis, a widow living about six miles southwest of this village, went to the barn to look for her son George, and was horrified to find the young man hanging to a trap door with a strap round his neck. The young man was only 26 years of age.

Falls Into Boiling Water.

[illegible], March 10.—The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Adamson [illegible] into a boiler of boiling water while left alone for a few minutes on Wednesday. He died this morning at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

FATAL DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

One Man Killed and Three Injured Working on James' Bay Railway.

Gravenhurst, March 10.—N. Beesu of Hollywood, Conception Bay, Newfoundland, a foreman employed by Giroux & Jamieson, contractors, working on the James Bay Railroad near Stoney Brae, Ontario, was instantly killed by an explosion of dynamite while at work yesterday morning.

It appears he was making preparations to do some blasting when one of the shots accidentally discharged, throwing him about 50 feet from the spot and killing him. John Hayton, an Englishman; Peter Eurekkia, a Finlander, and Antony Froe, an Italian, were seriously injured, but are being cared for by Dr. McCue, and are doing well.

On Party Lines.

Washington, March 10.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations yesterday agreed to report favorably the Santo Domingo treaty as amended. The vote was on party lines, every Republican voting for the treaty, and every Democrat voting against it.

Not Taking Chances.

Office Boy—Lady to see you, sir. Editor—Is she good looking? Boy—Yes, sir. Editor (returning)—Nice judge of beauty you'll make! Boy (in outer office to other boy)—Not takin' any chances. Thought she might be his wife.

Her Laudable Desire.

"Ah," said the earl, "I am afraid you are marrying me merely for my title?"

"Oh, dear, no!" replied the heiress. "It's merely because I want to see that dear old castle of yours repaired before it is an utter ruin."

You Can't Be Attractive

An Offensive Breath and Disgusting Discharges, Due to Catarrh, Blight Millions of Lives Yearly. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder Relieves in 10 Minutes.

Eminent nose and throat specialists in daily practice highly recommend Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder as safe, sure, permanent, painless and harmless, in all cases of Cold in the Head, Tonsilitis, Headache and Catarrh. It gives relief in 10 minutes and banishes the disease like magic. 65

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

VERY SOON

It won't be very long before some early spring wedding causes you to look around to see what you will get your friend.

We are showing some new and pretty pieces in Silverware at very reasonable prices consistent with high class goods.

A very handsome piece is a new cake dish with raised pierced border, silver or gilt centre at $2.50

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. JEWELLER OPTICIAN

POCKET BOOK AND HAND BAG SALE.

We have about 500 sample Purses, Pocket Books and Hand Sachels, Traveller's samples, bought at less than half the regular price. We will clear them out in three lots:

LOT 1 Will be - - 10c
LOT 2 Will be - - 25c
LOT 3 Will be - - - 50c

We will also clear out four gross Dressing Combs, black rubber, the price was 20c, to clear at 10c

We have still a fine lot of the finest patterns of 12½c Print left, to clear at (per yd.) 10c

We are selling a 10c bar of sweet pink Toilet Soap this week, at 5c or six for 25c

McINTOSH BROS.

MR. BORDEN SPEAKS OUT

Convicts Premier of Indifference to the Constitution.

Autonomy Measure Not Concurred in by His Cabinet Colleagues—House Not Treated With Proper Respect—Sir Wilfrid Won't Tell Secret—Borden Says He Will Not Retire Within Lines of Torres Vedras.

Ottawa, March 10.—About 100 petitions demanding freedom for the new western Provinces in educational matters were presented to the House yesterday.

Among the private bills introduced were: Respecting the Dominion Atlantic Railway (Mr. Black); respecting the Hudson Bay & Pacific Railway Co. (Mr. Calvert); respecting the Toronto and Hamilton Railway Co. (Mr. Calvert); respecting the Hamilton, Galt and Berlin Railway Company (Mr. German); respecting the Ontario Hudson Bay and Western Railway Co. (Mr. Parmalee); respecting the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway Co. (Mr Parmalee); respecting the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. (Mr. Galleher): respecting the Algoma Central Railway Co. and Algoma Commercial Co., Limited (Mr. Parmalee); respecting the Athabasca Railway and Oil Co. (Mr. Oliver); respecting the Alberta Central Railway Co. (Mr. Oliver).

Mr. Borden's Enquiries.

R. L. Borden commented on the method of introducing the autonomy bill, and referred to the difference of opinion which had been provoked in the Cabinet. The Prime Minister had introduced the legislation as a measure concurred in by all his colleagues, but it had been discovered afterward that this was not exactly the case.

"My Hon. friend," continued Mr. Borden, "has always vaunted himself a strict follower of constitutional usage, he has sometimes done more than that, because some ten years ago he claimed for himself the attributes of foresight and of courage when a somewhat similar question as that which arises to-day was to a certain extent agitating the people of the country. My Right Hon. friend then said, 'My courage is not to make hasty promises and then to ignominiously break them, my courage is to speak slowly, but once I have spoken I will stand or fall by my words.' I mention that because my Hon. friend, though he may have shown a great deal of courage in his action with regard to this measure, does not, at least, seem to have combined foresight with strict constitutional usage."

Why Was Sifton Ignored?

Mr. Borden quoted from Todd to show that the Cabinet should be united on a question of such importance as the autonomy bill, yet the fact was that the Minister of the Interior, representing the great west of Canada, had opposed the measure. The Minister of the Interior, representing more than any other member of the Cabinet of that portion of the country, which is being created into new Provinces, and being in a position to understand the needs and requirements of that country, had not been consulted in the preparation of the measure.

Why had Mr. Sifton not been consulted? It was not treating the House with proper respect to bring down a measure of this kind, as one supposed to be concurred in by every member of the administration, and afterwards to acquaint the House with the fact that certain members, at least, were not consulted. The House had a right to respectfully enquire whether there were any other members of the Cabinet, outside of the member for Brandon, and the Minister of Finance, who were not consulted with regard to the terms of the measure.

Mr. Borden also wanted to know if any conclusion had been reached with regard to filling the position vacated by Mr. Sifton, and whether any change in the bill creating the new Provinces was under the consideration of the Government. If such changes were contemplated, they should be announced at once to the House.

A Secret He Won't Tell.

Sir Wilfrid, in reply, said he was sorry he had so little to tell Mr. Borden, who, as an old Parliamentarian, must know that the deliberations of the Cabinet were secret; that solidarity exists among members until one of them disagrees with his colleagues and resigns, whereupon it becomes the duty of the Government to inform Parliament of the cause of the difference. It was not to be expected, he continued, that differences would not occasionally arise in a Cabinet composed of 13 or 14 members. When Mr. Sifton resigned the cause of the difference had been given to the House, but surely the leader of the opposition did not think that it was the Government's duty to give the House all the different conversations or deliberations which might have taken place in the council, everything which had passed, either verbally or in writing.

"As to whether it is the intention to fill the vacant portfolio of Interior no action has been taken, and it is not my intention now to taken any action in the way of filling that portfolio," said Sir Wilfrid.

Doesn't Knew About Changes.

As to the question whether any changes were contemplated, he thought Mr. Borden "very inquisitive." He could tell the Hon. gentleman he was not aware of any great measure in which there had not been changes, and it would be surprising if a bill of such importance would run the gauntlet of the House without fault being found with it, perhaps by Mr. Borden, by Mr. Foster, by Mr. Monk or Dr. Sproule. Therefore it was not possible for him to say anything about changes being contemplated. But Mr. Borden's desire for this information was doubtless due to the fact that he was preparing some batteries to attack this bill, and it was important for him to know at this time whether he would place his batteries on a certain hill or on another hill. But Sir Wilfrid was very sorry, he said, not to be able to give him the required information.

Borden Not a Retirerer.

"Whatever else I do, I shall not retire within the lines of Torres Vedras," Mr. Borden retorted, adding that Sir Wilfrid had not answered the question as to why he so far violated constitutional usages as to bring down a bill purporting to be the act of the administration when two Cabinet Ministers, on the eve of their return, had not been consulted in regard to it. "This," said Mr. Borden, "is the point, the chief point, of my remarks."

Representation for the West.

W. F. Maclean insisted that the Prime Minister had not answered the questions put to him. It had been stated that a successor to the Minister of the Interior would not be appointed for the present. One Minister had been got rid of, and it was now proposed to go on with the bill without appointing a new one. Surely the west should be consulted, as well as the other Provinces. The Premier should not have introduced this bill without having had the consent and advice of members from the Northwest.

Encourage Only Settlers.

Ralph Smith asked a lengthy question designed to clear the Government from the onus of having encouraged through immigration agents, the coming to Canada of mechanics and laborers. The reply brought out the fact that the operations of the "Associated British Canadians," of which one Graeme Hunter was president, were discountenanced by the Government, and efforts made, through the police of Glasgow to put a stop to them. The British Government found that there was not evidence enough to warrant criminal proceedings. The policy of the Department of the Interior, it was stated, is to encourage only the immigration of settlers.

Mr. Grant was informed that the James Bay Railway Company had filed in the Department of Railways a route map from Toronto to Parry Sound, the line running to the east of Lake Couchiching. The route had been finally approved. There were no plans for a deviation.

Against Trading Stamps.

Ottawa, March 10.—The Railway Committee room of the House of Commons was crowded yesterday with a delegation comprising about 500 persons, who came to Ottawa to ask the Dominion Government for legislation preventing the use of trading stamps. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, while impressed with their representations, said they must hear the other side before council could take the matter into consideration.

STRATHCONA'S OPINIONS.

West Will Never Stand for Premier's School Policy.

New York, March 10.—Among the arrivals on the Oceanic from Liverpool yesterday was Lord Strathcona, British High Commissioner for Canada.

"I am very glad, indeed, to get back," said Lord Strathcona last night. "Of course, I have kept well posted on Canadian affairs, and am especially interested in the fight Sir Wilfrid Laurier is making for state appropriations to Catholic schools. I feel confident that the Premier cannot win on the issue that he has made.

"I, myself, fought out the question of state money for sectarian schools years ago, and I believe I know what the temper of the Canadian public is on the matter.

"Of course, in a Province like Quebec, where the majority are Catholics and of French descent, there is a strong sentiment in favor of state support for parochial schools, but the great and rapidly developing Northwest, with which in the future will lie the balance of power in Canada, I am convinced will not submit to such a law."

Lord Strathcona will leave for Canada in a day or two.

THE ORANGEMEN.

Ontario West Grand Lodge Passes a Strong Resolution re. Autonomy Bill.

Midland, March 10.—The Special Committee of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West, which was appointed at Wednesday's session to deal with the question of Separate Schools for the new Provinces, brought in a strong report, which was unanimously adopted by the Grand Lodge yesterday afternoon.

Separate Church and State.

The report recited that "the complete separation of church and state is a principle for which our fathers contended many years ago, and which it was thought was finally settled with disposition of the conflict respecting the Clergy Reserves. The bills, now before Parliament, recognize in a most offensive way the claims of one church to state aid. Legislation of this kind is not only reactionary, but vicious, and is fraught with the gravest consequences for evil in a young and growing country."

M. P.'s Warned.

The report concluded as follows: "We, the members of the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of Ontario West, composed of men of various nationalities and different shades of political opinion, unanimously pledge ourselves to use every legitimate means to drive from public life any and every Member of Parliament who votes for these objectionable measures."

It also decided to send a copy to every member of the Dominion House of Commons.

Remember Widow and Fatherless.

A grant of $500 was made to the family of the late E. F. Clarke, and a similar amount was donated to the N. C. Wallace Memorial, to be given in three yearly instalments. An appeal will be made to the primary lodges for subscriptions, as it is the desire of the brethren to have the work commenced immediately after the meeting of the Supreme Grand Lodge in May.

Scott Re-Elected.

W. J. Parkhill, Past Grand Master of British America, conducted the election of officers, which resulted in Lieut.-Col. J. H. Scott of Kincardine being re-elected as Grand Master; E. T. Essery of London, Deputy Grand Master; Harry Lovelock of Toronto, Associate Deputy Grand Master; Rev. W. Lowe of Wingham, Grand Chaplain; William Lee of Toronto, Grand Secretary. John Hewitt of Toronto was elected Grand Treasurer, to succeed the late E. F. Clarke.

SMITH'S BUCHU LITHIA PILLS.

SICK KIDNEYS,

The Bladder, Rheumatism and the Blood—all these diseases yield at once and are quickly and fully cured. Price only 25 cents a box.

A CURE at the PEOPLE'S PRICE.

My Kidney book and a Sample Package sent Free to any address.

W. F. SMITH CO.
125 St. James St., Montreal

STOPPED THAT Throbbing Sensation.

"Having been troubled for over a year with my Kidneys, and also suffering from rheumatism, my daughter, seeing your Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills advertised, bought a box, and I used them to my entire satisfaction, as I have not that throbbing sensation in my back, from which I suffered so long. They are all that you advertised them to be. I have now started to use the second box, and would highly recommend them to any person troubled as I was. My age is 56 years old."
Mrs. Janet H. Supper,
23 Dartmouth St., Boston

To cure Constipation, Sick Headache and Biliousness in one night, use Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills. Only 25 cents at dealers.

ALL GENUINE SIGNED W. F. Smith

Canadians Shut Out.

Detroit, March 10.—Since the naval Recruiting Office opened here on Feb. 20, there have been many applications from Canadians who wished to enlist in the United States navy, not only from those residing in the border towns, but also from interior points. All have been informed, however, that their services cannot be accepted, as they are not citizens of the United States.

THE GRAY WOLF.

His Cunning Is Marvelous, and He Is Difficult to Catch.

The cunning of the gray wolf is marvelous, and it is most difficult to catch napping. He somehow seems to know that iron is associated with man. A piece of iron anywhere will keep him at a distance. If you shoot an antelope, for instance, and just put your spur on the carcass you may leave it as long as you like and no wolf will touch it. A pocket handkerchief will do as well.

Lobo, a great gray wolf who was the king of the pack at Currumpaw, a vast cattle range in New Mexico, was a thinker as well as a ruler. His pack ate nothing but what they had killed themselves, and thus poison was no good. At last a thousand dollars was set upon his head. This brought a noted wolf hunter from Texas, with his pack of great wolfhounds. But again there was failure. Then two other hunters came with subtly devised poisons to work his undoing. Then I came on the scene. First I tried poison, and there was no combination of strychnine, arsenic and prussic acid which I did not use. I put the poisons in cheese melted together with kidney fat, and during the whole process I wore gloves steeped in hot blood. And I scattered the bait all over the ranch. The next morning I went out and found Lobo's tracks, with the bait gone. I was delighted. I followed the track and found another bait gone and yet another. Then I found the three baits piled upon another one and covered with filth. Lobo had evidently carried the first three in his mouth and had taken this means of expressing his utter contempt for my devices.

But Lobo's downfall came about through a big white she wolf who was always with him. I managed to catch her in a trap. Then I knew we should soon have Lobo. Night after night he came around the homestead and mourned his mate in long, plaintive howls. I knew he would try to find her body. I set 130 strong steel wolf traps, and in one of these I caught him—a martyr to constancy. And that was the end of Lobo.—Interview With Ernest Thompson Seton.

He Wanted That Wine.

General Sir E. Hamley is cited as the authority for a good anecdote about Bismarck. Hamley was sitting close to the chancellor at luncheon, with the old Emperor William not far off.

Bismarck, talking rather loudly, described the old monarch as being generous, but very forgetful. Hamley got nervous, as he thought the emperor would hear. "For instance," continued Bismarck, "I pleased him the other day, and he asked me what he could do for me. I said, 'Give me a dozen of that Tokay you have in your cellars,' and he said he would. "But," added Bismarck, raising his voice still higher, "he hasn't done it." Here Hamley hastily broke in, "I beg your pardon, but I am really afraid the emperor will hear you." "I want him to hear me!" roared Bismarck. "That's just what I want." And a smile broke over the face of his imperial master.—"Fifty Years of Fleet Street."

Tiger Story From India.

A man living in a village near Lucknow is reported to have had an extraordinary adventure in the jungle. He had gone in search of two buffaloes that had gone astray when he was attacked by a tiger.

He was unarmed except for a heavy stick, with which he fought until overcome by loss of blood, when he sank unconscious. At this moment the two buffaloes appeared. One of them stood over the wounded man, while the other snorted and tossed his head.

The man recovered consciousness and staggered to his feet, when the tiger made another spring at him. The beast was, however, received on the horns of one of the buffaloes and was so badly wounded that it turned tail and slunk away.—London Express.

Liquid Metal Polish.

Take eight ounces of Spanish whiting, which must be perfectly free from grit, and put in one quart of gasoline. Shake up the whiting and gasoline thoroughly. You will notice the whiting settles immediately, leaving the liquid as clear as water. To remedy this and, further, to make it a better polishing agent, add to each quart of the mixture thirty-two drops of oleic acid—no more, no less. Shake again, and the whiting will not settle. Apply to gold, silver, nickel, brass, glass or any kind of metallic surface with a piece of cotton flannel, rubbing well. Polish with a piece of same cloth.—Blacksmith and Wheelwright.

GILLETT'S ABSOLUTELY PURE CREAM TARTAR.

Nearly all goods in this line at the present time are adulterated and in fact unfit to use.

GILLETT'S is used by the best bakers and caterers everywhere.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.

GILLETT'S costs no more than the inferior adulterated goods.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN,
BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

Phone. 214. Grocers.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkle's Candies

"All Their Own"

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

ATTENTION

to details has a lot to do with our success. We pay as much attention to the little things in this store as we do to the more important. We expect our

Pianos

to be perfect in every particular. Your trade is solicited on that basis. We do not ask you to accept anything less. Who can promise you anything more?

J. A. GOODSELL & CO.
436 Front St., Next to W. W. Chown Co.

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office—a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class.

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.
CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)
$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT,
Contractor, &c.

PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand

Market Square.

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance
—AT—
COLLIP'S.

Arthur McGie
MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—
—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

Cleanliness is Next to Godliness.

AND GOOD SOAP is one of the greatest adjuncts to the bath. Just look into our window, ask us the prices, and after a trial you will be surprised at results.

DON. G. BLEECKER.
Phone 11.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store

Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

The road to failure is the one that is full of ruts.

The fool never puts off until tomorrow what he shouldn't do at all.

SECURITIES
Of the Highest Class Only
JOHN MACKAY & CO.
Canadian Bank of Commerce Building,
Toronto

The Daily Intelligencer.

Burn Our Coal
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens

GENUINE
SCRANTON COAL
LEAVENS

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL – LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL – CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 11, 1905. NO. 265

Those whom neglected coughs have killed were once as healthy and robust as you. Don't follow in their paths of neglect. Take right now. It is guaranteed to cure. It has cured many thousands.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure The Lung Tonic

Prices: 25c. 50c. $1 S. C. WELLS & Co. 308 LeRoy, N.Y., Toronto, Can.

Suffocated to Death.

Regina, March 11.—Yesterday Robert C. Brown, aged 24, while working on a farm, met death. Brown was digging his way into a manure pile while companions were working on a pile above him. The covering gave way and Brown was suffocated. He came to the west from London, Eng.

Only One Left.

Toronto, March 11.—The resignation of M. J. O'Brien as a member of the Temiskaming Railway Commission was received yesterday, leaving B. W. Folger of Kingston alone on the board.

He may hold a meeting to-day to see what he will do, the Commission having been called some days ago to meet to-day.

Death Stops Wedding.

Halifax, March 11.—Death prevented a wedding which was announced to take place at Truro Thursday night. Miss Pearl Betts Betts was to have been married to Arthur Cooke of the Intercolonial Railway, but she became suddenly ill with spinal meningitis, which caused paralysis of the brain, and died.

Sold to the Yankees.

Brockville, March 11.—Little Galloup Island, in the St. Lawrence, has been sold to Watertown parties. It has long been known as one of the best bass fishing grounds. A club house will be erected upon it.

Catarrh is Curable with Japanese Catarrh Cure

We say it with all the force at our command—Japanese Catarrh Cure completely, permanently cures catarrh. We want you to have confidence in our word, and our well earned business reputation, to buy just one 50c. box of Japanese Catarrh Cure. We ask only a trial, for we know that when you have experienced the cleansing, healing, soothing powers of Japanese Catarrh Cure, you will realize that at last you have the one certain cure for Catarrh.

"I was troubled with catarrh and deafness for a number of years. I doctored with specialists and spent much money on advertised remedies, but became no better. About a year ago, I procured Japanese Catarrh Cure. Shortly, I found my hearing completely restored, and the catarrh does not trouble me now in the least. I can conscientiously recommend it to any person troubled with catarrh."

D. N. SPENCER, Toronto, Ont.

Your druggist will supply you, 50c. a bottle.

The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Limited, Toronto, Canada

DON'T MISS THIS!
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

Mukden Taken; Czar Asks Peace

Japs Rush North Means Slaughter For Russians.

If Kamamura Looms Up Russian Army is Encircled – Kuropatkin's Laconic Despatch of Retreat Throws St. Petersburg Into Gloom —Defeat, Surrender, Peace, Now Vocabulary of Russian Nation—Bloodiest Battle Now in Progress.

Tokio, March 11.—Field Marshal Oyama telegraphed as follows at 8 a.m., under yesterday's date:

"We occupied Mukden at 10 o'clock this morning.

"Our surrounding movement, in which we have been engaged for some days past, has now completely succeeded.

"The fiercest fighting continues at several places in the vicinity of Mukden.

"We captured a great number of pieces, enormous quantities of arms, ammunition, provisions, and other war supplies. There is at present no time to investigate the number of these."

Depends on Kamamura.

London, March 11.—The result of Oyama's great turning movement depends almost entirely upon Kamamura's army, which has not yet been definitely located, although supposed to be moving from the east toward Kuropatkin's line of retreat. Should he reach the military road which runs in an almost direct line from Fushun to Tie Pass, before the passage of the Russian army, the circle will be complete, as Nogi's guns already command the railway and should soon control the Mandarin Road, which is but a short distance east of the railway and runs parallel with it.

Fushun Is Also Captured.

Washington, March 11.—Fushun has been captured by the Japanese forces, according to the following cablegram received by the Japanese Legation from Tokio, under yesterday's date:

"Our detachments occupied Fushun on the night of March 9, and now are attacking the enemy, who is posted at the angle of the heights north of Fushun."

Thousands of Prisoners Taken.

Yinkow, March 11.—Mukden fell at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The Russians are panic-stricken. Thousands of prisoners and enormous quantities of stores and guns have been captured.

KUROPATKIN'S MESSAGE.

"All Our Armies Commenced to Retreat Last Night."

St. Petersburg, March 11.—"Last night all our armies commenced to retreat."—Kuropatkin.

Another despatch received from Gen. Kuropatkin under date of March 9 says:

"At 10 a.m. I received a report that the enemy, after a severe engagement, occupied Kiousan, about 16 miles east of Mukden.

"All the enemy's efforts are concentrated against our north front with the object of cutting the railroad.

"The Village of [illegible] is in the hands of the enemy.

"Fighting continues in the vicinity of Thenitoung. We have taken two quick-firing guns and a number of prisoners.

"The Japanese continue to move northward.

"Tasintoung has been occupied by the Japanese."

Russians Take to the Hills.

Tokio, March 11.—Our troops occupied Mukden at 10 a.m. Friday. Our enveloping movements, since some days, proved successful and the bloodiest battle is now proceeding in various places near Mukden.

Our detachments occupied Fushun on the night of March 9, and now are attacking the enemy, who is posted at the angle of the height north of Fushun.

The Russians, having been driven out of Mukden and Fushun, and with the railroad cut, are retreating in a demoralized condition to the hill country to the northeast.

DEFEAT, SURRENDER, PEACE.

How Kuropatkin's Laconic Message Is Received at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, March 11.—"Last night all our armies commenced to retreat."

The greatest defeat in the history of the Russo-Japanese war was published in St. Petersburg last night, but only in the paltry eight words from General Kuropatkin to Emperor Nicholas, which were flung about the streets in newspaper extras and passed from mouth to mouth. The thoughts formed instantly in the minds of everyone, and twowordswereonevery cmfwy mfwyppp two words were on every lip—surrender—peace—the former dreaded, the latter hoped for.

Gen. Kuropatkin is no maker of phrases; his words never are quoted like the famous "All is lost, save honor," but the laconic messages hide more than probably any other two sentences in the literature of war. St. Petersburg knows nothing of the extent of the disaster, not even the lines of Kuropatkin's retreat; whether the route to Tie Pass is still open; whether he is endeavoring to cut his way through to safety, or whether as many of the pessimistic believe, he has taken to the mountains. If it be the latter he will inevitably be hemmed in and starved into surrender, as Marshal Bazaine was at Metz.

All Discuss Peace.

Everyone is now discussing peace, which many of the staunchest advocates of the war, bureaucrats and officers, now declare to be inevitable. It can be stated, however, that no overtures for peace have yet been made, and none are likely to be made for a few days, or before the extent of the disaster has developed.

The spirit of unpatriotic exultation will do the Liberals no good this time, as the defeat, which one Russian correspondent describes as "Slaughter, not battle," entails the sacrifice of so many thousands of Russian lives, the people fear to count up their losses. It is realized in the fighting before Mukden was evacuated the death roll of the battle of Shakhe must have been far exceeded, and the streets of St. Petersburg, where now every third woman wears crepe, will present a sombre sight when the casualty lists arrive.

THURSDAY'S BATTLE.

Fought in the Darkness as Dust Obscured the Sun.

Tokio, March 11.—The following telegram, dated yesterday at 11 a.m., has been received from the Manchuria headquarters in the field:

"In the direction of Singching for some days our force has been attacking the enemy, who is making an obstinate resistance in strong positions. Finally, in the neighborhood of Tie Pass, our force at 3 o'clock Thursday morning completely dislodged the enemy.

"Our force in the vicinity of Machuntan continues in hot pursuit of the enemy toward Fushun.

"In the direction of the Sha and east and south of Mukden we entirely pressed back the enemy to the basin of the Hun River.

"We stopped on the left bank, attacking the enemy's strong fortifications west and north of Mukden.

"Our attack against the enemy, who is obstinately resisting, is being pushed vigorously.

"A heavy dust storm obscured the sun Thursday, and as a consequence the darkness precluded seeing any distance."

CZAR NEGOTIATES FOR PEACE.

Daily Graphic Says, With Britain as Mediator.

London, March 11.—The announcement of the fall of Mukden was discounted in London by the reports chronicling the progress of the great battle, but the actual occupation of the ancient capital of Manchuria by the Japanese is the subject of comment everywhere, especially in diplomatic circles.

This difficulty of predicting what line Emperor Nicholas will take is admitted on all sides; but there is still in some quarters an opinion that peace will ensue. According to The Daily Graphic, overtures have already commenced, the Emperor's readiness to negotiate having been intimated to the French Government and communications having passed between the British and French Governments with a view to Great Britain opening communications with Japan. It is impossible at present to confirm or verify the statement of The Daily Graphic, which declares that the decision is due, not only to the defeat of Kuropatkin, but also to the almost insurmountable difficulties Russia met in the last attempt to negotiate a loan in Paris.

Funeral of O. A. Howland.

Toronto, March 11.—The funeral of O. A. Howland will take place this afternoon to St. James' Cemetery. The Mayor and members of the City Council will attend in a body, as will the Army and Navy Veterans. At 2 o'clock a private service will be conducted by Rev. Canon Cody at the residence of Sir William P. Howland. A public service will be held at 3 p. m. in St. James' Cathedral. Canon Welch and Canon Cody will officiate and Dr. Ham, an old friend of Mr. Howland, will direct the musical service.

Sick Woman's Narrow Escape.

Cornwall, March 11.—The dwelling of Levi Gokey, near Dunbar, was burned to the ground with contents this week. Mr. Gokey had just arrived home with his wife, who is in a precarious state of health, having just returned from Cornwall Hospital, where she underwent an operation for cancer. While Mr. Gokey was putting his horse away the fire broke out. Neighbors saw the flames, and rushing to the house removed Mrs. Gokey before her husband had returned from the stable.

Result of a Hard Season.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—Some idea of the severity of the winter season just drawing to a close may be gathered from the fact that the Navy Department is now confronted with the necessity of seeking out and promptly destroying no less than twenty-seven ocean derelicts which are drifting about in the great ocean lanes from Santiago to Newfoundland and endangering shipping entering and departing from Atlantic ports.

Attempted Assassination.

St. Petersburg, March 11.—Col. Progoulbitsky, Governor of the Province of Kutais, has been the object of an attempted assassination by two men at Sukhumb. The would-be murderers fired six shots from revolvers at the Governor, but he was not struck.

One of the Assistant Commissioners of Police at Warsaw was fatally shot at 7 o'clock last evening by an unknown assailant, who escaped.

Finds Hay Fever Germ.

Berlin, March 11.—Prof. William Dunbar, Director of the Hamburg Hygienical Institute, has succeeded in finding the germ of hay fever in the pollen of rye, maize and certain grasses, and has treated horses with those germs and secured a serum called pollatin, which has been used with good effect, entirely curing many cases.

SINCLAIR'S AD. SINCLAIR'S AD.

New Spring Goods.

The New Goods for early spring wear have arrived and in every department of our store we show Fashion's Newest Creations.

NEW SPRING COATS.
NEW DRESS SKIRTS.
NEW SHIRT WAISTS.

Showing In Our... Ready-to-Wear Department.

NEW WASH GOODS.

While we show everything that is new in Wash Goods, this week we place in stock nearly Four Thousand (4,000) yards of 36 inch French Printed Cambric, perfectly fast colors, in very dainty patterns, to sell for per yard 12½c

TWO SPECIAL SUITINGS.

For Ladies' Spring Costumes we show Harris' 54 inch Homespuns in all the Light Grey Shades at (per yard..... $1.00

Also a special line of Imported Flaked Tweeds, all new shades, to sell at per yard 50c

Kabo and B. & C. Corsets

Are shown in all the New Spring Corset Cuts, every pair guaranteed and the only Corsets made with ut brass eyelets. Prices .... 50c to $3.00

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

The Ritchie Coy. Limited

Dainty Wash Materials

An inspection of our advance Wash Goods showing is like a foretaste of warm summer days. Only an inspection can give you an adequate idea of the comprehensiveness and beauty of our new assortment.

Linens from Ireland, Zephyrs from Scotland and a countless assortment of Fancy Materials from England—Shirt Waist Suitings—Waistings—Dress Materials an assortment too wide to make possible detail description.

The assortment is not only large, but conservative, as each pattern is exclusively ours and coming in short lengths of from one to two dresses will not be common.

Ideal buying conditions enable us to purchase our goods at better prices than is possible to those not enjoying such conditions the advantage we offer you in our moderate prices.

If you have Wash Goods needs of any description we feel confident of our ability to give you as wide a selection at every price as is obtainable in this city or elsewhere.

Make your visit while the assortment is at its best—NOW.

—Fancy Knoppe Zephyrs and Linen Voiles in Greens, Blues, Navy, Grey, Pink, Plain and with Fancy Stripes and Spots—fast colors—ideal Shirt Waist Suit Materials. Per yard 15c

—A choice collection of Fancy Zephyrs, Knoppe Ginghams, Silk Chambrays, Embroidered Linen Voiles—Fancy Cotttn Voiles—White Waistings, Cotton Tweeds, an almost endless variety of styles and colors. Per yard .... 25c to 75c

Whitewear Sale

Only one week more of our annual Whitewear Sale.

The quantity of Whitewear that has left our mantle department the past week is of convincing evidence that our values and styles are the best obtainable.

INVESTIGATE:—Investigation is nearly always profitable.

It will be if you come here in search of choice and dainty Whitewear and moderate prices. We cheerfully invite you to come and see the choice collection we have on exhibition in our mantle room.

There is still a good assortment to choose from—We have just added a number of new garments which are dainty and moderate in price.

The Ritchie Coy. Limited

SPRING - CLOTHING.

Allow us to show you the newest things in Suits—All the new styles are here—everything right up-to-date and at the most moderate prices.

No excuse for wearing ill-fitting or out of date Clothing, when you can get the kind of clothing we are selling for the prices at which we are selling it.

Our smart handsome Spring Suits are decidedly well bred—and you can call them "CLOTHES OF QUALITY." They certainly contain all the qualities desired by good dressers.

The newest Fabrics are here in single and double-breasted sacks. Prices range :—

$10, $12, $14, $15 and $17

We guarantee prompt money refunded on garments not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

BORSALINO HAT.

Ask to see this famous Italian Hat noted for its style, light weight and wear, in two colors and black, wide rim and soft crown, extra fine quality. Price $3.50

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

WHAT IS THERE IN IT?

Scott's Emulsion is a careful blend of the purest cod liver oil, hypophosphites of lime and soda, glycerine and a dash of flavoring. The combination of these valuable ingredients emulsified as in Scott's Emulsion represents the greatest remedy yet discovered for weak lungs, poor blood, low vitality, child weakness and all wasting diseases.

Chadwick Verdict.

Cleveland, O., March 11.—The Chadwick case will be given to the jury some time to-day. It has not been the custom of the Federal Court to hold regular sessions on Saturday, but Judge Taylor said yesterday afternoon that if the case was not finished yesterday he would hold court for it on Saturday.

Canadian Nominations Confirmed.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—The Senate in executive session confirmed a number of nominations, including: Robert S. Chilton, Jr., District of Columbia, to be Consul at Toronto, Ont., and Robert Brent Mosher, District of Columbia, Consul at Collingwood, Ont.

Kaiser's Son to Wed.

Berlin, March 11.—According to a semi-official statement given out at Schwerin, the marriage of Crown Prince Frederick William and Duchess Cellila will take place in Berlin on June, 6.

Record Prices for Stock.

Woodstock, March 11.—The high price for first-class live stock prevailing in Oxford County was well illustrated Thursday at a sale on the farm of James Martin in Blenheim. Four Durham cows were put under the hammer, and they brought $207, which is a record-breaking sale price. Eight sheep brought $11, and the sale netted $300 more than it was estimated the stock would bring.

Found Dead in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, March 11.—Walter McGreevy, civil engineer, formerly of Quebec, was found dead yesterday morning in the basement of the City Hotel. He was a son of Hon. Robert McGreevy.

Kaiser Lauds Japs.

Berlin, March 11.—Emperor William, addressing the naval recruits at Wilhelmshaven yesterday, held up the Japanese soldiers as a luminous example of patriotism and soldierly fidelity.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man, but for one man who can stand prosperity there are a hundred who will stand adversity.

Cancer of the Bowels

Cancer of the Bowels is one of the most frequent and fatal kinds of this disease. Operations can be of no benefit in cases of this kind, and if attempted, often prove fatal in themselves. Our Vegetable Cancer Cure on the other hand, has been eminently successful. Cancer of the Bowels however must be treated in the earliest stages. Often the disease has a stronghold before the patient, through ignorance of the symptoms, is aware of it. Send 6 cents for booklet "Cancer, its Cause and Cure." Mention this paper.

STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, ONT.

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON:

FOR SATURDAY NIGHT!

A Special Waist Sale.

We are putting on Sale Saturday Night at a big Sacrifice Several Odd Lines of Ladies' Shirt Waists, in Fancy Figured Matting, Colored Mattings and Fancy Mattings, and Fancy Eider Flannels, in sizes 32 to 40. The prices range from $1.00 to $2.75 each. You can have your choice on Saturday Evening at 7 o'clock, at :—

49c each.

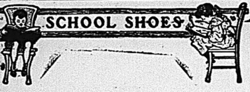
This price would not much more than buy the trimmings.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



The kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION —Just step in —when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

Literary Notes.

Canadians will find in the March Cosmopolitan a most interesting article giving a fund of information relative to the sister colony of New Zealand—"the World's most advanced Government," by the Earl of Ranfurly, a former Governor. New Zealand has grappled with many of the problems that have arisen in older countries and is peculiarly adapted for what may perhaps be termed experimental legislation. The table of contents presents a very inviting appearance.

SCHOOL SUITS.

Spring is tip-toeing along and the boys are beginning to appear at school in their new clothes. Your boy is wondering when it will be his turn. Quick & Robertson are ready to rig him out from head to foot. Smart looking, wear resisting suits $2, $3, $4, up to $7. There are many handsome new styles out for Spring wear.

A penny saved by a miser means a dollar earned by his heirs later on.

WESTERN AMELIASBURG.

Owing to the nice weather the roads are much better, and sleighing is being enjoyed by all.

Rev. Mr. Metzler of this circuit, is still confined to the house and it has been necessary to have a supply.

Mrs. J. L. Parliament is slowly recovering.

The Woman's Auxiliary held their monthly meeting at Mrs. Charles Adams' last week.

Mrs. E. Adams passed away on Thursday last, after a long illness. Another sad death occurred on Friday, in the person of Mr. Cyrus Carnrite, a young man who was a friend of all, and he will certainly be much missed by everyone in the community.

THE HARDEST PAIN TO ENDURE

Is the pain of a tender corn, but experience proves that corns are cured quickest by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which acts in twenty-four hours. Putnam's never burns or causes sores. The only painless cure is Putnam's. Use no other.

Daily Intelligencer.

BOUQUET FOR MR. SIFTON.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Star, a journal which is supposed to reflect the opinion of Sir William Mulock, makes light of Mr. Sifton's resignation, and at the time inserts a knife between the ribs of that Western leader of the Liberal party. After rehearsing some gossip the Star says:

> "Outside gossip altogether, it is well known that Mr. Sifton was anxious to leave the Cabinet two years ago. His reasons are now more cogent that ever. He has been successful in business. He has no need to depend on politics for a livelihood. His health is not robust. An opportunity arises for him to go out in a blaze of glory. He accepts it. All these circumstances take the edge off his resignation, and deprive his attitude on the Separate school question of its full influence."

Seeing that Mr. Sifton's only business in Ottawa was the management of the Department of the Interior at a salary of $7,000 a year, that his scale of living has been far beyond this income, and that he came to Ottawa in debt, the intimation that Mr. Sifton has been so "successful" that he may now retire and live on the interest of his money, is not excessively friendly. Nor is the statement that Mr. Sifton was in a position to quit politics two years ago and has waited for an opportunity to go out in a blaze of glory a very complimentary send-off.

MANITOBA DISSATISFIED

There is every indication that the people of Manitoba are intensely dissatisfied with the Laurier Bill which curtails the boundaries of the province. The Winnipeg Telegram of March 7 thus writes on the question: "What the business men of Manitoba irrespective of politics, think of the treatment of this Province with respect to its boundaries, was clearly shown at the meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade held yesterday afternoon. In a very comprehensive and forceful speech, Mr. Ashdown moved a resolution asking for justice. This resolution was seconded by Mr. Andrew Strang. As neither of these gentlemen can be suspected of any political motive in criticizing the action of the present Government, their words and thei resolutions carry additional weight. Mr. Ashdown, as one of the pioneers of business in this province who have successfully established its present prosperity spoke with special authority, and the stand he took must be regarded by the Government as thoroughly representative of the attitude of the citizens of this Province.

"The Legislature and the Government of Manitoba have formally presented its claims and it is now very important that the Government at Ottawa should realize how the citizens feel about the matter and how earnest and determined they are in backing up the representations already made.

"Not content with a mere resolution, the Board of Trade appointed Mr. Ashdown and Mr. Strang as delegates to go to Ottawa to press the matter on the attention of the Government, and invited similar action on the part of other representative bodies. It is to be hoped that this invitation will be very widely accepted. Manitoba has had to fight for all she has, and the time has come for a more united and vigorous fight than she has ever yet made, not only to secure what she is fairly entitled to, but to prevent her being reduced in the scale of the Provinces, a result from which her splendid record as the pioneer in the West should have preserved her."

TIMELY TOPICS.

The winter seems to have responded to an encore.

The Board of Education had quite a peaceful meeting last night. I thought it was going to be something like the Ottawa-Rat Portage hockey match.

* * *

Subpoenas are being served to witnesses for the ballot-box trial. Looks as though we may expect another strenuous time next week.

Dr. Harper, of Chicago University, who underwent an operation for cancer of the colon, is improving, but for some time it was thought there would be a period to his existence.

* * *

Chorus of merchants, as the Street Surveyor passes along our main aisle, "Take a little bit off the top."

* * *

The old d.s.b.g., in its worst days, was never a patch on Front St. at present. And the principal thoroughfare, of a city, too! What is the Street Surveyor thinking about?

* * *

One dollar apiece was asked for ducks on the market this morning. I'm glad I gave up poultry during Lent.

* * *

The farmers must think some of us well-to-do people are "easy."

* * *

Aesthetic persons who want to have their lawns in good shape for the Old Boys' Reunion should paste the following, from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in their hats: "As the snow drifts subside the careful gardener will notice that they will leave a thin, sticky coat of black soot on the grass plot. This must be removed at once, or it will destroy the turf. Every morning wash the lawn with castile soap, cleansing thoroughly. Do not shampoo the grass, as it will cause it to split at the ends and fall out. Dry carefully with a palm leaf fan. A good lawn is worth all the care you can bestow upon it."

* * *

AH! THERE! PETERBORO.

(Brockville Times.)

Peterboro Board of Trade held its annual meeting the other day. The president spoke of the continued business prosperity of the town and the members of the Board then decided to —what do you think they decided to do? To ask Andrew Carnegie for a Public Library! By the Colossal Nerve of Cassie Chadwick, Peterboro must have some high-spirited financiers on its Board of Trade when they can brag of their prosperity and in the same breath beg for a dole from Andrew Carnegie,—at 10 per cent. per annum.

* * *

Oyama told his men that Mukden would fall on Friday, and it fell. He is a prophet as well as a great tactician.

* * *

The Ladies' Aid of a Peterboro church managed a big "National" banquet, which was a great success, the speeches, made by men, being all over by half-past ten. The ladies evidently insist on brevity—except when they are talking themselves.

* * *

The general committee in connection with the Old Boys' Reunion are, it is said, in a quandary. Shall they fix an early date and invite Lord Strathcona, or set a late date and have Lord Roberts present. Why not have them both? Either one of 'em would surely stretch a point to come to "Beautiful Belleville" in the good old summer time.

* * *

Some esteemed contemporaries are advising their readers not to take off their heavy underclothes yet. Such advice would appear to be superfluous in this locality.

Smith's Falls News: "Belleville is to have an old boys' reunion, and it is to include the old girls as well. Well, the editor of this great family journal will (D.V.) be there to shout with the rest and also to renew flirtation with some of the old girls."

Better leave your wife at home then, old chap.

* * *

Excellent work was that done by the stalwart Virginian in New York, who, to avenge the wrongs of his mother, mulcted of large sums by a pretended medium, attended a seance, dragged the fat fraud from the cabinet wherein she was ensconced, turned on the lights after sending her husband and accomplice to the floor with a well-directed blow, and showed the miserable creature clad in a fantastic garb of muslin smeared with phosphorus. The expose will not cure all the fools, but it is bound to lessen their numbers.

* * *

A California man who bought a wedding gown for his sweetheart in San Francisco the other day forgot, in the excitement of buying a ticket, about his package and left it lying on a bench in the ferry house. Does a man who could lose a wedding gown deserve a wife?

* * *

A Philadelphia schoolhouse is so crowded that some of the children have to sit on the floor. Imagine the dust when the teacher has to administer punishment, if they do it that way in Philadelphia!

* * *

A young man has been found in London who is a clerk by day, a society man till midnight, a professional bicycle rider on evenings when he does not care to go into society, and a burglar after midnight. There's the strenuous life, for fair.

* * *

Two weeks from to-morrow, last year, and navigation opened — on Coleman St. We're hoping for better things this year, but it may be as well to have the rafts and boats handy, anyhow.

* * *

When is the date of the Old Boys' Reunion going to be announced? Time is hustling on. Fix your dates, gentlemen. Procrastination, you know, is the thief of time, as the copy books used to say.

* * *

I'm just lost in admiration for our strenuous Mayor these days. He's right in front, no matter what is going on. Concerts, public meetings, religious gatherings, anything at all, he's there to take the chair. We may expect to see him with a rubber suit on when the flood season starts, rescuing ladies and children.

* * *

Kuropatkin's last despatch to the Czar, "I am surrounded," will probably go a long way towards bringing the war to an end.

* * *

That must be "the bitter end" the Czar talked about some time ago.

Special For Saturday

On Saturday we will sell you one of those extra nice fresh Walnut Sponges for 8 cents.

McCau Bros.

Baker

CRISIS IN OTTAWA MORE ACUTE THAN EVER.

DISSOLUTION IS THOUGHT TO BE A POSSIBILITY IN VIEW OF INCREASING OF PREMIER'S TROUBLES — MR. FITZPATRICK MAY RESIGN IF COMPROMISE IS OFFERED.

Ottawa, March 10.—Reports were again current to-day, emanating from Ministerial sources, that a compromise had been reached in reference to the educational clauses of the Autonomy Bill. There is every reason to believe, however, that the trouble is far from a settlement. The majority of the Quebec Liberals are opposed to any compromise, and will vote against it in the House. They insist upon the most explicit declaration in the Act in favor of Separate schools. It is this feature of the situation than encourages the rumors which are afloat to-day of the possibility of a dissolution of Parliament. But, as against the probability of this course being adopted, is the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would scarcely be willing to bring on a campaign involving great efforts on his part, and the further fact that there is a wide difference between uncompromising speeches and the reality of a general election after but one session of Parliament, a sacrifice that the Quebec Liberal members are not likely to court. The indications are therefore that Sir Wilfrid will be able to hold his big majority from Quebec pretty solidly in favor of some sort of a compromise, should he decide upon such a course. The situation at present, however, is acute, the latest phase of it being the alleged possibility of Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick resigning if concessions are made such as will enhance the freedom of the new provinces to make their own educational laws.

MR SIFTON MAY PRACTISE LAW.

In some quarters the opinion has been expressed that when the present trouble has blown over Mr. Sifton will resume the Interior portfolio, but this is known to be incorrect. Several of the Ministers feel considerable resentment against their late colleague, and they freely charge him with fomenting discord at present rather than endeavoring to bring about conciliation in the interests of the party. They would bitterly resent his re-entry into the Cabinet, and matters would be worse than they are to-day. Mr. Sifton will therefore resume the practice of his profession at an early date. It is said that his intention is to open an office in Toronto or join one of the big firms there.

The Bourassa wing of the party has been very active this week preparing a counterblast to the petitions which have been pouring in against interference with the educational powers of the new provinces.

THE MUTUAL LIFE'S GOOD YEAR.

The thirty-fifth annual report of the Mutual Life Company of Canada appears in another column, and is the best in the history of the Company, having done over $5,000,000 of new business. Its income was over $1,700,000, being an increase of $164,000. Its expenses were one per cent. less than the previous year, being less than any other company in Canada. Its assets are now over eight and a quarter millions, being an increase of over $900,000 over the previous year. Its surplus increased over the former year over $179,000, after having distributed to its policy holders $83,000 in the shape of dividends. Its surplus over all liabilities amounts to over $1,000,000. The volume of new business exceeds that of any year in the Company's history, no less than 3,452 new policies having been issued. The large number of policy-holders in this Midland district will be delighted with the splendid showing made, much of the Company's success being due to the energy and business acumen of that popular Belleville citizen, Mr. S. Burrows, the general agent for the Company in this district. It is safe to say that the Mutual Life, in all its army of agents, has no one who will look after its interests and the interests of its clients, more sharply and successfully than Burrows of Belleville.

ESTIMABLE LADY DEAD

MISS MARY HUYCK, A VERY LOVABLE CHARACTER, DIED LAST NIGHT.

Miss Mary Huyck, daughter of the late Isaac Huyck, of Tweed, died last night at that village. She was 50 years of age, and a lady of a most charming personality. She died at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Shaw, after an illness which extended over some time. The deceased lady leaves two sisters and three brothers. The sisters are Mrs. George Phelps, of Thurlow, and Mrs. George Booth, of Trenton (who is now seriously ill); the brothers are E. R., W. R. and G. W. Huyck, all of Tweed.

LENTEN PREACHING.

Special Lenten Preaching will be given at St. Thomas' Church on Sundays at 11 and 7, and on Fridays at 8 throughout Lent. The subjects of the Sunday morning sermons will be the Epistles and of the evening sermons will be Christ, our Example, 1st in temptation, 2nd in work, 3rd in friendship, 4th in suffering, 5th in death.

Bancroft's New Magistrate.

Bancroft Times: We rise to congratulate our townsman, Mr. Geo. L. Jarman, on his appointment to the important office of Police Magistrate. Generally speaking the appointment is a popular one. Mr. Jarman has been a life-long Conservative, and has done splendid service for the party in this part of the riding, often at considerable loss to himself. We are sure that he will discharge the duties of his office in an impartial manner and to the very best of his knowledge and ability. The County, we understand, pays a salary of $400, and there are other perquisites. Mr. Jarman has not yet been sworn in.

A Year for Stealing Fish.

A middle-aged man named R. Wicks was yesterday convicted before Magistrate O'Rourke, of Trenton, on a charge of stealing fish from a store in that town. He was convicted and sentenced to one year in the Central Prison. The prisoner was brought to the County jail here last night.

ARMOUR'S EXTRACT OF BEEF

There's Strength and Vigor in

Armour's Extract of Beef

It contains all the muscle-building, nerve-feeding virtues of prime roast beef in a form that is readily digested. It keeps the whole system in perfect physical condition—is an ideal stimulant for athletes in training. Just what is needed to brace up tired muscles and relieve fatigue. Brain workers find a cup of Armour's beef tea tones and stimulates. No trouble to make, just one-quarter teaspoonful to cup of hot water. SOLD BY ALL GROCERS AND DRUGGISTS.

ARMOUR LIMITED,
SOLE PACKERS & SHIPPERS
FOR CANADA, TORONTO

ASPAROX.—Armour's Extract of Beef flavored with asparagus. Is a delightful seasoning for salad dressings.

HIGH PRICES TO-DAY.

BUTTER AND EGGS STILL UP IN PRICE ON THE MARKET —

Although to-day's market was fairly well attended prices for all produce offered for sale was rather high. The average price paid for butter was 25 cents per pound, and eggs sold at the same price per dozen. Dressed poultry also commanded a good price, as high as $2 per pair being asked for ducks, and $1.10 for chickens. They were, however, extra large and fine in quality.

There are no changes to note in the price of grain, and very little is being marketed.

Considerable dressed beef was offered for sale and sold at prices quoted below.

Our quotations are as follows:

Fall Wheat—95c
Spring Wheat—85c to 90c.
Barley—45c to 46c.
Oats—36 to 21c.
Rye—65c to 70c.
Buckwheat—45c.
Timothy—$1.50.
Clover—$6 to $7.
Alsike—$6 to $7.
Dressed Hogs—$7.00 to $7.50.
Eggs, fresh—21 to 25c.
Butter—23 to 25c.
Live Hogs—$5.50 to $6.00.
Dressed beef, fore—3c to 4c.
Dressed beef, hind—4 1-2c to 5 1-2c.
Chickens—65c to $1.00 pair.
Butchers' trimmed hides—7 to 7 1-2c
Rough Hides—6 1-2c to 7c.
Mutton—6 to 7c.
Horse Hides—$2 to $2.50.
Veal Hides—8c lb
Deakins—50c.
Pelts—80c to $1.00.
Tallow, rough—1 1-2c to 2c.
Tallow, rendered—3 1-2c.
Wool—15 to 17c.
Potatoes—60 to 70c per bag.
Apples—60 to 75c per bag.
Hay—$8 to $9 per ton.
Sheep Skins—75c.
Geese—$1 to $1.50.
Turkeys—15c to 16c per lb.
Ducks—$1 to $1.50.

Point Ann Notes.

The new whistle has been placed in position at the cement works. It is the largest whistle ever seen in these parts, 10 inches in diameter, and stands nearly the height of a man. The sound will be heard for many miles when they blow it.

Work is booming here. Men are working overtime, and everything is on the hustle to get the mill started as soon as possible. The Company received six cars of machinery this week.

Mr. Ferguson, of the Westinghouse Engine and Electrical Works, of Pittsburg, Penn., arrived to superintend the starting of the large steam turbine installed in the engine room of the cement works. The Cement Co. have the unlimited honor of using the first steam turbine and electric generator installed in the Dominion of Canada.

Messrs. Frank Brennan, Albert Huyck, Mike McNab and Will. Forbes attended the ball held in the Foresters' Hall, Belleville, on Monday evening.

Mr. C. Doran intends building a fine residence in the early spring.

Mr. Thos. Sager, of Belleville, intends building a large boarding house here as soon as the weather gets warm enough.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by all druggists.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fine to-day and on Sunday, not much change in temperature.

To-day's Temperature

6 a.m 10
2 m 27
3 p. 30
[illegible] 30

Another

Fresh supply of:

PINEAPPLES
BANANAS
GRAPE FRUIT.
ETC., ETC., ETC.

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee

'Phone 128.

The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

New Goods and Fresh Supplies Arriving Daily.

MacLaren's Imperial Cream Cheese
Canada Cream Cheese
Seville Oranges (bitter) for marmalade
Fresh—Grated Horseradish
Fresh Fancy Biscuits

—o—o—

Supplies of Fish

Fine French Sardines, Salmon, Lobsters, Shrimps, Clams, Herrings, Halibut Steak, Finnan Haddie, Tunny Fish, Scallops, Crabs, etc., in tins.

Clam Bouillon, Clam Chowder, etc.

Pure Boneless Codfish, Shredded Codfish, Finnan Haddies, etc. Reliable Brands

DELICIOUS TEAS AND COFFEE . . .

Many a woman, confronted with sudden reverses of fortune, has "baffled the wolf" by securing private pupils in music or drawing. Here again the "wolf" might have the best of it if it were not for the help of the want ads.

New Spring Styles

....OF....

Queen Quality

Ladies are delighted with them. See the new choice colored Lace Boots and L Shoes.

Queen Quality Leads the Fashion in Fine Footwear.

VERMILYEA & SON

HAVE SOLE RIGHT OF SALE.

Always remember the Full Name
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on every box 25c

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

FOR SATURDAY NIGHT !

A Special Waist Sale.

We are putting on Sale Saturday Night at a big Sacrifice Several Odd Lines of Ladies' Shirt Waists, in Fancy Figured Matting, Colored Mattings and Fancy Mattings, and Fancy Eider Flannels, in sizes 32 to 40. The prices range from $1.00 to $2.75 each. You can have your choice on Saturday Evening at 7 o'clock, at :—

49c each.

This price would not much more than buy the trimmings.

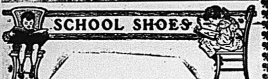
Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK

SCHOOL SHOES



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION —Just step in —when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

Literary Notes.

Canadians will find in the March Cosmopolitan a most interesting article giving a fund of information relative to the sister colony of New Zealand—"the World's most advanced Government," by the Earl of Ranfurly, a former Governor. New Zealand has grappled with many of the problems that have arisen in older countries and is peculiarly adapted for what may perhaps be termed experimental legislation. The table of contents presents a very inviting appearance.

SCHOOL SUITS.

Spring is tip-toeing along and the boys are beginning to appear at school in their new clothes. Your boy is wondering when it will be his turn. Quick & Robertson are ready to rig him out from head to foot. Smart looking, wear resisting suits $2, $3, $4, up to $7. There are many handsome new styles out for Spring wear.

A penny saved by a miser means a dollar earned by his heirs later on.

WESTERN AMELIASBURG.

Owing to the nice weather the roads are much better, and sleighing is being enjoyed by all.

Rev. Mr. Metzler of this circuit, is still confined to the house and it has been necessary to have a supply.

Mrs. J. L. Parliament is slowly recovering.

The Woman's Auxiliary held their monthly meeting at Mrs. Charles Adams' last week.

Mrs. E. Adams passed away on Thursday last, after a long illness. Another sad death occurred on Friday, in the person of Mr. Cyrus Carnrite, a young man who was a friend of all, and he will certainly be much missed by everyone in the community.

THE HARDEST PAIN TO ENDURE

Is the pain of a tender corn, but experience proves that corns are cured quickest by Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which acts in twenty-four hours. Putnam's never burns or causes sores. The only painless cure is Putnam's. Use no other.

Daily Intelligencer.

BOUQUET FOR MR. SIFTON.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Star, a journal which is supposed to reflect the opinion of Sir William Mulock, makes light of Mr. Sifton's resignation, and at the time inserts a knife between the ribs of that Western leader of the Liberal party. After rehearsing some gossip the Star says:

> "Outside gossip altogether, it is well known that Mr. Sifton was anxious to leave the Cabinet two years ago. His reasons are now more cogent that ever. He has been successful in business. He has no need to depend on politics for a livelihood. His health is not robust. An opportunity arises for him to go out in a blaze of glory. He accepts it. All these circumstances take the edge off his resignation, and deprive his attitude on the Separate school question of its full influence."

Seeing that Mr. Sifton's only business in Ottawa was the management of the Department of the Interior at a salary of $7,000 a year, that his scale of living has been far beyond this income, and that he came to Ottawa in debt, the intimation that Mr. Sifton has been so "successful" that he may now retire and live on the interest of his money, is not excessively friendly. Nor is the statement that Mr. Sifton was in a position to quit politics two years ago and has waited for an opportunity to go out in a blaze of glory a very complimentary send-off.

MANITOBA DISSATISFIED

There is every indication that the people of Manitoba are intensely dissatisfied with the Laurier Bill which curtails the boundaries of the province. The Winnipeg Telegram of March 7 thus writes on the question: "What the business men of Manitoba irrespective of politics, think of the treatment of this Province with respect to its boundaries, was clearly shown at the meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade held yesterday afternoon. In a very comprehensive, and forceful speech, Mr. Ashdown moved a resolution asking for justice. This resolution was seconded by Mr. Andrew Strang. As neither of these gentlemen can be suspected of any political motive in criticizing the action of the present Government, their words and thei resolutions carry additional weight. Mr. Ashdown, as one of the pioneers of business in this province who have successfully established its present prosperity spoke with special authority, and the stand he took must be regarded by the Government as thoroughly representative of the attitude of the citizens of this Province.

"The Legislature and the Government of Manitoba have formally presented its claims and it is now very important that the Government at Ottawa should realize how the citizens feel about the matter and how earnest and determined they are in backing up the representations already made.

"Not content with a mere resolution, the Board of Trade appointed Mr. Ashdown and Mr. Strang as delegates to go to Ottawa to press the matter on the attention of the Government, and invited similar action on the part of other representative bodies. It is to be hoped that this invitation will be very widely accepted. Manitoba has had to fight for all she has, and the time has come for a more united and vigorous fight than she has ever yet made, not only to secure what she is fairly entitled to, but to prevent her being reduced in the scale of the Provinces, a result from which her splendid record as the pioneer in the West should have preserved her."

TIMELY TOPICS.

The winter seems to have responded to an encore

The Board of Education had quite a peaceful meeting last night. I thought it was going to be something like the Ottawa-Rat Portage hockey match.

• • •

Subpoenas are being served to witnesses for the ballot-box trial. Looks as though we may expect another strenuous time next week.

• • •

Dr. Harper, of Chicago University, who underwent an operation for cancer of the colon, is improving, but for some time it was thought there would be a period to his existence.

• • •

Chorus of merchants, as the Street Surveyor passes along our main aisle, "Take a little bit off the top."

• • •

The old d.s.b.g., in its worst days, was never a patch on Front St. at present. And the principal thoroughfare of a city, too! What is the Street Surveyor thinking about?

• • •

One dollar apiece was asked for ducks on the market this morning. I'm glad I gave up poultry during Lent.

• • •

The farmers must think some of us well-to-do people are "easy."

• • •

Aesthetic persons who want to have their lawns in good shape for the Old Boys' Reunion should paste the following, from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in their hats: "As the snow drifts subside the careful gardener will notice that they will leave a thin, sticky coat of black soot on the grass plot. This must be removed at once, or it will destroy the turf. Every morning wash the lawn with castile soap, cleansing thoroughly. Do not shampoo the grass, as it will cause it to split at the ends and fall out. Dry carefully with a palm leaf fan. A good lawn is worth all the care you can bestow upon it."

• •

AH! THERE! PETERBORO.

(Brockville Times.)

Peterboro Board of Trade held its annual meeting the other day. The president spoke of the continued business prosperity of the town and the members of the Board then decided to —what do you think they decided to do? To ask Andrew Carnegie for a Public Library! By the Colossal Nerve of Cassie Chadwick, Peterboro must have some high-spirited financiers on its Board of Trade when they can brag of their prosperity and in the same breath beg for a dole from Andrew Carnegie,—at 10 per cent. per annum.

• • •

Oyama told his men that Mukden would fall on Friday, and it fell. He is a prophet as well as a great tactician.

• • •

The Ladies' Aid of a Peterboro church managed a big "National" banquet, which was a great success, the speeches, made by men, being all over by half-past ten. The ladies evidently insist on brevity—except when they are talking themselves.

• • •

The general committee in connection with the Old Boys' Reunion are, it is said, in a quandary. Shall they fix an early date and invite Lord Strathcona, or set a late date and have Lord Roberts present. Why not have them both? Either one of 'em would surely stretch a point to come to "Beautiful Belleville" in the good old summer time.

• • •

Some esteemed contemporaries are advising their readers not to take off their heavy underclothes yet. Such advice would appear to be superfluous in this locality.

• • •

Smith's Falls News: "Belleville is to have an old boys' reunion, and it is to include the old girls as well. Well, the editor of this great family journal will (D.V.) be there to shout with the rest and also to renew flirtation with some of the old girls."

Better leave your wife at home then, old chap.

• • •

Excellent work was that done by the stalwart Virginian in New York, who, to avenge the wrongs of his mother, mulcted of large sums by a pretended medium, attended a seance, dragged the fat fraud from the cabinet wherein she was ensconced, turned on the lights after sending her husband and accomplice to the floor with a well-directed blow, and showed the miserable creature clad in a fantastic garb of muslin smeared with phosphorus. The expose will not cure all the fools, but it is bound to lessen their numbers.

• • •

A California man who bought a wedding gown for his sweetheart in San Francisco the other day forgot, in the excitement of buying a ticket, about his package and left it lying on a bench in the ferry house. Does a man who could lose a wedding gown deserve a wife?

• • •

A Philadelphia schoolhouse is so crowded that some of the children have to sit on the floor. Imagine the dust when the teacher has to administer punishment, if they do it that way in Philadelphia!

• • •

A young man has been found in London who is a clerk by day, a society man till midnight, a professional bicycle rider on evenings when he does not care to go into society, and a burglar after midnight. There's the strenuous life, for fair.

• • •

Two weeks from to-morrow, last year, and navigation opened — on Coleman St. We're hoping for better things this year, but it may be as well to have the rafts and boats handy, anyhow

• • •

When is the date of the Old Boys' Reunion going to be announced? Time is hustling on. Fix your dates, gentlemen. Procrastination, you know, is the thief of time, as the copy books used to say.

• • •

I'm just lost in admiration for our strenuous Mayor these days. He's right in front, no matter what is going on. Concerts, public meetings, religious gatherings, anything at all, he's there to take the chair. We may expect to see him with a rubber suit on when the flood season starts, rescuing ladies and children.

• • •

Kuropatkin's last despatch to the Czar, "I am surrounded," will probably go a long way towards bringing the war to an end.

• • •

That must be "the bitter end" the Czar talked about some time ago.

Special For Saturday

On Saturday we will sell you one of those extra nice fresh Walnut Sponges for 8 cents.

McCausland Bros.
Bakers and Confectioners.

Always remember the Full Name
Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on every box. 25c

CRISIS IN OTTAWA MORE ACUTE THAN EVER.

DISSOLUTION IS THOUGHT TO BE A POSSIBILITY IN VIEW OF INCREASING OF PREMIER'S TROUBLES — MR. FITZPATRICK MAY RESIGN IF COMPROMISE IS OFFERED.

Ottawa, March 10.—Reports were again current to-day, emanating from Ministerial sources, that a compromise had been reached in reference to the educational clauses of the Autonomy Bill. There is every reason to believe, however, that the trouble is far from a settlement. The majority of the Quebec Liberals are opposed to any compromise, and will vote against it in the House. They insist upon the most explicit declaration in the Act in favor of Separate schools. It is this feature of the situation than encourages the rumors which are afloat to-day of the possibility of a dissolution of Parliament. But, as against the probability of this course being adopted, is the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would scarcely be willing to bring on a campaign involving great efforts on his part, and the further fact that there is a wide difference between uncompromising speeches and the reality of a general election after but one session of Parliament, a sacrifice that the Quebec Liberal members are not likely to court. The indications are therefore that Sir Wilfrid will be able to hold his big majority from Quebec pretty solidly in favor of some sort of a compromise, should he decide upon such a course. The situation at present, however, is acute, the latest phase of it being the alleged possibility of Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick resigning if concessions are made such as will enhance the freedom of the new provinces to make their own educational laws.

MR SIFTON MAY PRACTISE LAW.

In some quarters the opinion has been expressed that when the present trouble has blown over Mr. Sifton will resume the Interior portfolio, but this is known to be incorrect. Several of the Ministers feel considerable resentment against their late colleague, and they freely charge him with fomenting discord at present rather than endeavoring to bring about conciliation in the interests of the party. They would bitterly resent his re-entry into the Cabinet, and matters would be worse than they are to-day. Mr. Sifton will therefore resume the practice of his profession at an early date. It is said that his intention is to open an office in Toronto or join one of the big firms there.

The Bourassa wing of the party has been very active this week preparing a counterblast to the petitions which have been pouring in against interference with the educational powers of the new provinces.

THE MUTUAL LIFE'S GOOD YEAR.

The thirty-fifth annual report of the Mutual Life Company of Canada appears in another column, and is the best in the history of the Company, having done over $5,000,000 of new business. Its income was over $1,700,000, being an increase of $164,000. Its expenses were one per cent. less than the previous year, being less than any other company in Canada. Its assets are now over eight and a quarter millions, being an increase of over $900,000 over the previous year. Its surplus increased over the former year over $175,000, after having distributed to its policy holders $85,000 in the shape of dividends. Its surplus over all liabilities amounts to over $1,000,000. The volume of new business exceeds that of any year in the Company's history, no less than 3,452 new policies having been issued. The large number of policyholders in this Midland district will be delighted with the splendid showing made, much of the Company's success being due to the energy and business acumen of that popular Belleville citizen, Mr. S. Burrows, the general agent for the Company in this district. It is safe to say that the Mutual Life, in all its army of agents, has no one who will look after its interests and the interests of its clients, more sharply and successfully than Burrows of Belleville.

ESTIMABLE LADY DEAD

MISS MARY HUYCK, A VERY LOVABLE CHARACTER, DIED LAST NIGHT.

Miss Mary Huyck, daughter of the late Isaac Huyck, of Tweed, died last night at that village. She was 50 years of age, and a lady of a most charming personality. She died at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Shaw, after an illness which extended over some time. The deceased lady leaves two sisters and three brothers. The sisters are Mrs. George Phelps, of Thurlow, and Mrs. George Booth, of Trenton (who is now seriously ill); the brothers are E. R., W. B. and G. W. Huyck, all of Tweed.

LENTEN PREACHING.

Special Lenten Preaching will be given at St. Thomas' Church on Sundays at 11 and 7, and on Fridays at 8 throughout Lent. The subjects of the Sunday morning sermons will be the Epistles and of the evening sermons will be Christ, our Example, 1st in temptation, 2nd in work, 3rd in friendship, 4th in suffering, 5th in death.

Bancroft's New Magistrate.

Bancroft Times: We rise to congratulate our townsman, Mr. Geo. L. Jarman, on his appointment to the important office of Police Magistrate. Generally speaking the appointment is a popular one. Mr. Jarman has been a life-long Conservative, and has done splendid service for the party in this part of the riding, often at considerable loss to himself. We are sure that he will discharge the duties of his office in an impartial manner and to the very best of his knowledge and ability. The County, we understand, pays a salary of $400, and there are other perquisites. Mr. Jarman has not yet been sworn in.

A Year for Stealing Fish.

A middle-aged man named R. Wicks was yesterday convicted before Magistrate O'Rourke, of Trenton, on a charge of stealing fish from a store in that town. He was convicted and sentenced to one year in the Central Prison. The prisoner was brought to the County jail here last night.

ARMOUR'S EXTRACT OF BEEF

There's Strength and Vigor in

Armour's Extract of Beef

It contains all the muscle-building, nerve-feeding virtues of prime roast beef in a form that is readily digested. It keeps the whole system in perfect physical condition—is an ideal stimulant for athletes in training. Just what is needed to brace up tired muscles and relieve fatigue. Brain workers find a cup of Armour's beef tea tones and stimulates. No trouble to make, just one quarter teaspoonful to cup of hot water. SOLD BY ALL GROCERS AND DRUGGISTS.

ARMOUR LIMITED,
SOLE PACKERS & SHIPPERS
FOR CANADA, TORONTO

ASPAROX.—Armour's Extract of Beef flavored with asparagus. Is a delightful seasoning for salad dressings.

HIGH PRICES TO-DAY.

BUTTER AND EGGS STILL UP IN PRICE ON THE MARKET —

Although to-day's market was fairly well attended prices for all produce offered for sale was rather high. The average price paid for butter was 25 cents per pound, and eggs sold at the same price per dozen. Dressed poultry also commanded a good price, as high as $2 per pair being asked for ducks, and $1.10 for chickens. They were, however, extra large and fine in quality.

There are no changes to note in the price of grain, and very little is being marketed.

Considerable dressed beef was offered for sale, and sold at prices quoted below.

Our quotations are as follows:
Fall Wheat—95c
Spring Wheat—85c to 90c.
Barley—45c to 46c.
Oats—30 to 31c.
Rye—65c to 70c.
Buckwheat—45c.
Timothy—$1.50.
Clover—$6 to $7.
Alsike—$6 to $7.
Dressed Hogs—$7.00 to $7.50.
Eggs, fresh—23 to 25c.
Butter—23 to 25c.
Live Hogs—$5.50 to $6.00.
Dressed beef, fore—3c to 4c.
Dressed beef, hind—4 1-2c to 5 1-2c.
Chickens—65c to $1,00 pair.
Butchers' trimmed hides—7 to 7 1-2c
Rough Hides—6 1-2c to 7c.
Mutton—6 to 7c.
Horse Hides—$2 to $2.50.
Veal Hides—8c lb
Deakins—50c.
Pelts—80c to $1.00.
Tallow, rough—1 1-2c to 2c.
Tallow, rendered—3 1-2c.
Wool—15 to 17c.
Potatoes—60 to 70c per bag.
Apples—60 to 75c per bag.
Hay—$8 to $9 per ton.
Sheep Skins—75c.
Geese—$1 to $1.50.
Turkeys—15c to 16c per lb.
Ducks—$1 to $1.50.

Point Ann Notes.

The new whistle has been placed in position at the cement works. It is the largest whistle ever seen in these parts, 10 inches in diameter, and stands nearly the height of a man. The sound will be heard for many miles when they blow it.

Work is booming here. Men are working overtime, and everything is on the hustle to get the mill started as soon as possible. The Company received six cars of machinery this week.

Mr. Ferguson, of the Westinghouse Engine and Electrical Works, of Pittsburg, Penn., arrived to superintend the starting of the large steam turbine installed in the engine room of the cement works. The Cement Co. have the unlimited honor of using the first steam turbine and electric generator installed in the Dominion of Canada.

Messrs. Frank Brennan, Albert Huyck, Mike McNab and Will. Forbes attended the ball held in the Foresters' Hall, Belleville, on Monday evening.

Mr. C. Doran intends building a fine residence in the early spring.

Mr. Thos. Sager, of Belleville, intends building a large boarding house here as soon as the weather gets warm enough.

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by all druggists.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

(Fine to-day and on Sunday, not much change in temperature.

To-day's Temperature

6 a.m.	10
12 m.	27
3 p.m.	30
[illegible]	39

Another

Fresh supply of:
PINEAPPLES
BANANAS
GRAPE FRUIT.
ETC., ETC., ETC.

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee
'Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.
Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.

Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

New Goods and Fresh Supplies Arriving Daily.

MacLaren's Imperial Cream Cheese
Canada Cream Cheese
Seville Oranges (bitter) for marmalade
Fresh—Grated Horseradish
Fresh Fancy Biscuits

—o—o—

Supplies of Fish

Fine French Sardines, Salmon, Lobsters, Shrimps, Clams, Herrings, Halibut Steak, Finnan Haddie, Tunny Fish, Scallops, Crabs, etc., in tins.

Clam Bouillon, Clam Chowder, etc.

Pure Boneless Codfish, Shredded Codfish, Finnan Haddies, etc. Reliable Brands

DELICIOUS TEAS AND COFFEE ...

Many a woman, confronted with sudden reverses of fortune, has "baffled the wolf" by securing private pupils in music or drawing. Here again the "wolf" might have the best of it if it were not for the help of the want ads.

New Spring Styles

....OF....

Queen Quality

Ladies are delighted with them. See the new choice colored Lace Boots and Low Shoes.

Queen Quality Leads the Fashion in Fine Footwear.

VERMILYEA & SON

HAVE SOLE RIGHT OF SALE.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count $ marks and figures as one word each.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

WANTED.

Chambermaid for St. Agnes' School and cook for residence. Apply to Mrs. F. R. Lingham, after 6 o'clock. 7,8,11

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company, London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young man with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, Camden. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

Six dwellings, all in good repair; 5 minutes walk of post office or market. For information apply to H. COOPER, West Bridge St. 9.2t

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

FOR SALE OR TO RENT,

A splendid brick house, eight rooms, good cellar, hard and soft water. Grier St., College Hill. Apply to J. T. Osborne, Moira St. Box 655. m2-6t

Re-Picture Framing And Wall Paper.

Our picture framing sale has been a great success for our customers. We have framed hundreds of pictures which never would have been framed under ordinary circumstances.

We continue the framing sale for 15 more days to give all a chance.

We will not guarantee the work completed during the term of the sale, but if you get the order in during the sale time limit, we will complete the work in due course —Have added two workmen to this department to keep up with orders.

Our Wall Paper Sale, too, will be continued — all 1904 wall papers at half of the regular price.

New papers arriving almost daily — for we are preparing for a mammoth wall paper business this year.

We are making the same efforts in our painting, decorating and paper-hanging branches — with a large staff of competent workmen skilled in their various departments.

If you wish work promptly and properly executed, this is the place to order it; and remember always our prices are the lowest.

C. B. Scantlebury.

$2.50 CANARY FREE!

BIRD BREAD

COTTAM BIRD SEED ... London, Ont.

...surprised
...e Intellig...
...rprising ...
...e made ...CKE. ...hould ...Of-
...thoug... ...hese
...lled from ...they
...magaz... ...uch
...or rebou... ...ed a ...or
...reas... ...gen... ...in
...ks, such ...Ho... ...able
...books ...M. ...as
...ade to o... ...with
...first-cl... ...der.
...r cod

FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP

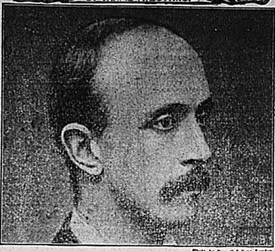

Photo. by Russell & Sons, London

EARL GREY

Canada's New Governor-General

Earl Grey, the brother of Lady Minto, does not come to Canada as a stranger, for he has been a frequent visitor at Ottawa during Lord Minto's régime. He was born in 1851 of an old Northumberland family living at Howick since the sixteenth century. His grandfather, the second Earl Grey, was the Whig Prime Minister who carried through the Reform Bill in 1831.

Alfred Henry George Grey, the new Governor-General, does not need to fall back upon a family tree for a record, as he has made his own name secure. He was educated at Harrow, Trinity College and Cambridge, taking high degrees in history and law, and at an early age entered politics, being for six years a member of Parliament. In 1894, while he was making an extensive tour of South Africa, word came to him of the death of his uncle, to whose title and estates he succeeded.

Earl Grey was a close friend of Cecil Rhodes, and was the one man who knew how to manage him; and on more than one occasion when the Colossus of South Africa threatened to cut loose from the mother country and make Rhodesia an independent republic, the gentle firmness and influence of Earl Grey made the threat fade into thin air. He is one of the executors of Rhodes' will, and has an influential voice in the Rhodes scholarships.

After the Jameson raid in 1896, he succeeded to the administration of Rhodesia, and here his strength of mind and purpose, his knowledge of men and methods, his tact, diplomacy and personal magnetism enabled him to ride bravely over many obstacles. He has the courage to take the initiative whenever it seems right to branch out into new lines of effort, and is a strong lover of humanity. On his large estates he has successfully carried out his ideas of coöperative partnership; he is the organizer of the Public House Trust Company, which takes over and manages the saloons of England in the public interest. At a labor meeting in Scotland a few years ago he stated his belief that the gigantic trusts of the United States could be checked only by a coöperative plan, limiting the interest to five per cent. and prohibiting the sale of shares in the open market.

Earl Grey has clear-cut features, dark eyes, a slight patch of hair, making an oasis in the desert of his baldness, a military bearing and a quick, energetic, decisive manner. His family consists of his wife, his son, Viscount Howick, and his three daughters, Lady Victoria Grenfell, Lady Sybil Grey and Lady Evelyn Alice Grey.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1904, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture.

A GIANT AMONG MEN.

BIGGEST MAN IN KNOWN WORLD ON VIEW IN LONDON — NEARLY TEN FEET HIGH.

Dressed as a Cossack, the twentieth century Gulliver arrived in London recently from Berlin, via Queensborough, and thence in a pantechnicon made his way to the Hippodrome, where he is demonstrating to London that he is the tallest man in the world.

His name is Ustus Machnow, and 24 years ago he was born at Charkoff, on the frontiers of Asiatic Russia and Persia. He is married, and he was accompanied by his wife and 3-months-old baby, both of whom are of normal size.

The scene at the station on his arrival in London was extraordinary. Thousands of people assembled to greet the giant. Policemen, porters, and even postmen endeavored to regulate the crowd, but to little purpose, for they had come there to witness the arrival from Flushing of the tallest man in the world, and when Machnow got out of his carriage the vast crowd was silenced by his extraordinary height.

Accompanied by his wife, and by about thirty admirers, he entered a pantechnicon drawn by four horses, which was in readiness for him, for so great was his height that it was found impossible for him to enter a cab.

When he got into the pantechnicon he lay down on a specially prepared bed, for though the roof of the van was about 8 feet in height, it was too low for him to stand up, and consequently he had to make his voyage through London in a reclining position.

The furniture van started off amid cheers and made its way to the Hippodrome by devious routes, stopping at Hyde Park corner, where the giant was photographed.

The obstruction meant the collection of quite 5,000 people, who gazed in wonder on this extraordinary freak of nature, who submitted himself to be photographed.

From Hyde Park corner the pantechnicon made its way to a tailor's shop in the Strand, where the giant was measured for a dress-suit.

Mounted on ladder, the tailor measured Machnow for his suit. His dimensions were as follows:

	Ft.	Ins.
Shoulder to waist	2	6
Coat tail	5	5
Shoulders (across)	2	7
Shoulder to elbow	2	7
Sleeve	4	5 1-2
Front chest	2	6
Round chest	5	0
Waist	4	7
Trousers, side seam	6	0
Leg inside	4	2
Thigh	3	4

After being measured he left the tailor's, and, accompanied by his wife and child in his van, made his way to the Hippodrome, where, owing to his great size, it has been found necessary to arrange a suite of rooms for his comfort. His bed consists of five ordinary beds placed side by side. A special mattress and bed linen have been manufactured for his use.

Machnow is 9 ft. 8 in. in height, 461 lbs. in weight, and a five-shilling piece can be passed through the ring which he wears on the small finger of his left hand. The circumference of his head is three-quarters of a yard, and he takes a collar of 23 in.

His appetite is enormous, and the following is the usual menu for the day:

Breakfast — 12 eggs, two quarter loaves, 2 quarts hot milk.

Lunch—3 lbs. of meat, bread and vegetables, 1 quart of beer.

Dinner—5 lbs. of semi-raw meat, 7 lbs. of potatoes and 1 cabbage, 2 quarts of beer.

Supper—15 eggs, 2 loaves, 1-4 lb. of butter, 2 quarts of hot milk.

The giant wears the largest boots in the world. His feet are 2 ft. 1 1-2 in. in size, and in consequence his boots measure 2 ft. 3 in.

On his arrival at the Hippodrome, he stated that he was very hungry, and immediately a luncheon was ordered for him.

His lunch consisted of six portions of the usual 1s 6d luncheon served in the hotel across the way. It was as follows:

Six breads.
Six tomato soups.
Six portions of fried smelt.
Six portions of jugged hare.
Two rice puddings.
Six bananas.
Half a pound of cheese.
One gallon of beer.

In an interview Machnow, whose language is dialect Persian, said:

"When I was 9 years old, I was 6 ft. 6 in. in height, and since then I have been growing steadily; in fact, during the last year I have grown half an inch.

"I am perfectly healthy and enjoy life to the full. I am a very happy married man, and the only thing that I regret is that I am so tall I attract so much attention on the streets, and in consequence cannot, like an ordinary man, walk about and enjoy myself, because wherever I go I attract a large crowd, which at times is curiously impertinent.

"I am the tallest man in the world, and the tallest man that has ever lived. I know Goliath was a dwarf compared to me."

OTHER GIANTS.

Among the giants whose records may be described as authentic, Machnow's claim to be the tallest is easily substantiated. The list of the greatest giants coming within this category is as follows:

John Middleton, 9 ft. 3 in.; born in Hale, Lancashire, 1578.

Patrick O'Brien, 8 ft. 7 in.; born in Kinsale, Ireland, 1761.

Loushkin, 8 ft. 5 in.; drum-major of the Russian Imperial Guards.

Charles Byrne O'Brien, 8 ft. 4 in; died in London, 1761.

Chang-Woo-Goo, 8 ft. 2 in.; Chinaman, exhibited in London in 1865-66 and in 1880.

Von Brusted, 8 ft.; Norwegian, exhibited in London in 1880.

William Evans, 8 ft.; porter to Charles I., died in 1632.

Maximillian Miller, 8 ft.; Saxon, exhibited in London 1674.

Cradle—Altar—Tomb

BIRTHS.

In Deseronto, Feb. 26th, to Mr. and Mrs. Hy. Thornburn, a daughter.

MARRIAGE.

In Brighton on March 4th, J. H. Tinney, to Hattie Ventress, both of Trenton.

In Trenton on March 7th, J. Ragan, of Murray, to Maggie Murphy, of Trenton.

In Trenton, March 5th, Richard Brooks to Leville Brooks, both of Trenton.

DEATHS.

In Tweed on March 3rd, Mrs. Simon Goulah, aged 50 years.

In Hungerford, on March 6th, Alma Luffman, aged 59 years.

In Marmora, on Feb. 28th, Mrs. R. Eastwood, aged 37 years.

In Marmora Township, on Feb. 28, William Huffman, aged 17 years.

In Madoc Township, on Feb. 28th, Mrs. Wm. Fraser, aged 78 years.

In Tweed, on Feb. 27th, Alice Way, aged 17 years.

In Deseronto, on Feb. 27th, Alfred A. Taylor, aged 72 years.

In Consecon, on March 3rd, S. Carnrite, aged 35 years.

In Deseronto, on March 2nd, Florence Stanhope, aged 12 years.

In Deseronto, on Feb. 24th, Letitia Aikins, aged 3 years.

In Deseronto, on Feb. 25th, Leah Barber, aged 16 years.

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

Fortune knocks once; then goes away. Adversity will pound all day.

Success always stands for itself. Failure needs no explanation.

MINERALS IN CANADA.

OUTPUT OF GOLD DECREASED MATERIALLY DURING THE YEAR 1904.

The Geological Department of the Dominion Government has issued a report on the mineral production of Canada in 1904. Some of the paragraphs will be of special interest to this locality because of the fact that the minerals mentioned are found in this country. It says referring to gold: "Practically every province in Canada shows a falling off in gold production, in 1904, as compared with 1903. Nova Scotia, which ordinarily has an output of about half a million dollars, shows a decrease of nearly half its production. Several reasons are given for this, among which may be mentioned (1) the extreme drought during the past season, (2) the closing down, owing to financial difficulties, of a number of the best producing mines, and (3) the cessation of production at the Richardson mine owing to the destruction of the shaft and workings by an extensive crush.

In Ontario, although a considerable amount of prospecting and development work has been done, most of the mines that were formerly important producers, were not operated during the year.

The paragraph of the report on cobalt will be of special interest, because of the fact that recently a deposit of this mineral was found not far from Hastings County.

The discovery of certain cobalt, nickel, arsenic and silver ores which was made public in November, 1903, promises to add in the near future largely to the production of these metals. The deposits were found during the building of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, the roadbed running almost over the top of the first outcrops discovered. The ores are contained in a series of almost vertical veins varying in width from eight inches up to six feet although the wider portions always contain more or less rocky matter. The veins intersect the conglomerate and slate usually classified as Huronian. All of the deposits thus far discovered possess certain features in common. The minerals represented are chiefly smaltite, nicolite and native silver, with smaller quantities of erythrite, dyscrasite, chloanthite and tetrahedrite. In some the native silver is very abundant and a sample which was fairly representative of one of the smaller veins showed an assay value of $5,237.60 per ton. Analysis of the ore from one of the veins composed mainly of smaltite, showed from 16 to 19 per cent. of cobalt, 4 to 7 per cent. of nickel, 60 to 66 per cent. of arsenic, and 3 to 7 per cent. of sulphur. The ores are thus so rich that comparatively small veins could be worked at a handsome profit.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

FEW PEOPLE KNOW HOW USEFUL IT IS IN PRESERVING HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefitted by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

It is the part of wisdom to make as many friends as you can, and to ask them as few favors as you can.

JOHN LEE'S FEAR

Was averted by the timely use of South American Nervine—Doctors did their best but were powerless.

Mr. John Lee, of Pembroke, says:—"I had Indigestion. I had lost my appetite. I was run down in flesh. I was so sick that I feared fatal results, and was almost in despair because my physician seemed powerless to cope with the disease. I was induced to try South American Nervine. I received so much benefit from one bottle that I persevered in the treatment, and to-day I am a new man and am cured completely. 66

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at The Intelligencer Office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. Celebration is the thief of time.

Parsnips possess the same virtues as sarsaparilla.

Woman's love is a paradoxical compound of self-sacrifice and selfishness.

Even the hour of adversity only contains 60 minutes.

The Woman who Would And The Grocer who wouldn't.

Every day from five to fifteen letters are received by The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. from women living in the smaller towns throughout Canada, saying they have asked their grocer for Royal Household Flour but can't get it. One writes—"I told my grocer, Mr.----, that I would buy 'Royal Household' regularly if he would always keep it on hand, but he said he wouldn't take on another brand of flour until he was obliged to." Another says—"My grocer is an 'old fogie' and never gets the newest or the best things until the year after." A third says—"We haven't an enterprising grocer in our town and are obliged to send to------for 'Royal Household' or take a poorer flour."

Write direct to Ogilvie's.

If you can't get "Royal Household" from your grocer, write to us direct—we will immediately give you the name of the nearest grocer who keeps "Royal Household" and send you also the "Royal Household" recipes. There is no good reason why your grocer should compel you to use inferior flour—no first class grocer will hesitate to order "Royal Household" for you, and even the smallest dealer will get it if you insist upon it.

THE OGILVIE FLOUR MILLS CO., LIMITED, MONTREAL.

New York Stock Quotations

FURNISHED BY

H. R. BEATTIE,
STOCK BROKER.
Phone 289. Belleville, Ont.
Private N. Y. and Chicago wires.
Send for Daily Market Letter.

New York, March. 11

STOCK.	Op'g	Close
Atchison	92⅞	92⅞
do. pref	103⅞	103⅝
St. Paul	181½	180⅞
Mo. P	109⅞	110½
Union Pac	134⅞	134⅞
C.P.R.	147⅞	147⅞
Sou Pac	70⅞	70⅞
R. I	35⅞	35⅞
Ills. C	160½	161⅞
Sou. Ry	35⅞	36½
Texas	39⅞	40
B. & O	111	111⅞
N. Y. C.	160⅞	161⅞
Penn	146⅞	146⅞
Soo	118	117
Erie	48⅞	48⅞
do. pref	83⅞	83⅞
Reading	98⅞	98⅞
C. O.	56⅞	56
O. & W	57⅞	57
Manhattan	171	170⅞
W.C	24¼	24½
L. & N	147½	147⅞
A.F	36	35⅞
Sor	86¼	88½
Wab	23	..
do. pref	47	47½
W. U.	94	...
C. G. W	23¼	23½
T. C. I.	93	92
U.S. Stl	36⅞	37
do. pref	96⅞	96¼
Suga	145	145
B. R. T	66⅞	66⅞
P O.	111⅞	111⅞
A.C.P	81⅞	80⅞
Met	123½	121⅞
Alo	44	43⅞
Ru.	42½	...
A. R.	09	93½

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. James White, of Madoc village, was in the city to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Bowler have returned from a trip west. Mr. Bowler looks happy in the possession of a new pair of artificial lower limbs.

At the Quinte: J. Mason, R. Bradley, J. McDermott, W. V. Kahl, G. Hodgins, H. E. Trent, W. A. Martin, R. E. Carter, Toronto; P. Zimm, Hanover; W. Walker, G. Fischel, A. Smith, S. Harris, G. H. Allen, Montreal; J. N. Ames, Hamilton; J. B. Muir and wife, Ingersoll; P. Perry, Brockport; J. G. Clarke, Buffalo; J. H. Elliott, Gravenhurst; D. Derbyshire, Brockville; J. A. Stewart, Menie; G. G. Publow, Kingston; C. B. Ayer, Walkerville; H. McDermott, S. R. Hewton, London; T. S. Holgate, Napanee; Miss Gorman, Richmond, Que.; G. D. Scott, Berlin.

Chloroformed at Sixty.

The "Press" through the civilized world are now giving a good deal of attention to Dr. Osler's pleasantries, and some men over sixty years of age are highly indignant at the thought of being put out of the way. They need have no fears if they follow Mr. J. Morrison's advice. He writes from Roxboro, Ont.:

"I am 72 years of age, and for more than twenty years have been a martyr to dyspepsia. Oh! what I suffered no tongue can tell. Notwithstanding the money I paid in doctor's bills and medicines, I gradually grew worse, and finally gave up work on the farm. My son's wife persuaded me to try Dr. Pitt's Pearl Pills. When I think of the joy this advice brought me I can scarcely express myself in words, because in less than three months I have been absolutely cured; in fact, the very first dose gave me relief. To-day, notwithstanding my age, I am a better man than I was thirty years ago; can enjoy my meals and do as good a day's work as any of the boys. My blessing on Pearl Pills; they cured me. I recommend them to every person suffering as I did. This is all I can say."

These Pills are not made from ordinary drugs in the sense of patent medicines, but are a great medical discovery based on Nature's way of healing stomach and liver troubles.

At all dealers, 25c per box, or The Dr. Pitt Medicine Co., P.O. Box 2384, Montreal.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

EMMANUEL CHURCH.

Victoria Avenue, between Church and Pinnacle Streets.

From Hermon to Calvary.

A series of sermons during Lent. The first of the series Sunday morning, March 12, Calvary seen from Mount Hermon.

Sunday School and Men's Bible Class at 3 p.m.

Evening prayer and sermon at 7 o'clock.

Monday evening at 8, meeting of Y.P.S.C.E.

Wednesday evening at 8, Litany and Bible talk.

REV. A. M. HUBLY, Rector.

All privileges free. Christian fellowship gratefully appreciated.

BRIDGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH.

11 a.m.—Sermon, Rev. Geo. Brown; anthem by large choir; solo, Miss Vermilyea; quartette, Miss Vermilyea, Miss Wilson, Mr. J. T. Burns, Mr. C. H. Vermilyea.

2.30 p.m.—Sunday School for people of all ages.

7 p.m.—Sermon by the Pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A.; duet, Miss Vermilyea and Miss E. Price; ladies' quartette, Miss Vermilyea, Misses Gertrude and Elsie Price, Miss Wilson.

Strangers in the city, students at colleges and all other visitors welcome at this church. Open every day in the week.

HOLLOWAY ST. METH. CHURCH.

Rev. R. H. Leitch, Pastor.

10 a.m.—Classes and Jr. League.

11 a.m.—The Pastor. Topic, "Human Responsibility."

2.30.—S. S. session of interest. Orchestra led by Prof. Denmark.

7 p.m.—Rev. Geo. Brown, Pastor of Tabernacle Church.

Congregational singing. Choral selections by large choir, Prof. Cameron, director.

A week of cottage meetings.

Welcome extended to visitors, students and strangers.

VICTORIA AVE. BAPTIST CHURCH,

Cor. Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St

Rev. O. C. Elliott, Pastor.

Prayer service at 10.30 a.m.

Public worship 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Sunday School, 3 o'clock.

Young People's Union Monday evening at 8.

Prayer meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Junior Union Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

All seats free. Strangers always welcome.

THE TABERNACLE METHODIST CHURCH.

Church St.

Rev. George Brown, Pastor.

Educational Sermons.

Morning service 11 a.m., conducted by the President of Conference, Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A.

Sabbath School, 2.30 p.m.

Evening service 7 p.m., conducted by Rev. R. H. Leitch.

Revival services will commence on Monday evening.

Rev. G. A. Lowes, of Kingston, will preach on Tuesday and following evenings.

The public cordially invited.

March 12, 1905.

JOHN ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Corner of Victoria Avenue and John Street.

REV. A. H. DRUMM, Pastor.

Residence 15 Alexander St.

Services 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, of St. Andrew's, will preach in the morning. At the evening service the Pastor will deal with the subject of "Heredity."

3 p.m.—Sunday School.

Pastor's Class for men, 3.15 p.m.

Y. P. Guild, Monday, 8 p.m.

Prayer meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m.

CHRIST CHURCH.

(Anglican.)

Rev. Wm. Bertal Heeney, B.A., Rector.

8 a.m.—Holy Communion.

11 a.m.—Morning prayer and sermon.

3 p.m.—Sunday School and Bible Class.

7 p.m.—Choral evensong and address. What was the Reformation? Seats free. All welcome.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Rev. R. S. Laidlaw,

Residence No. 239 John Street.

Rev. Mr. Drumm will preach in the morning and Rev. Mr. Laidlaw in the evening.

Sabbath School and Bible Class at 3 p.m.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Strangers are always welcome.

BETHEL HALL, Front St,

Over D. V. Sinclair & Co.'s.

Christians gather to the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

11 a.m.—Lord's supper.

3 p.m.—S. S. and Bible Class.

7 p.m.—Gospel preaching.

Subject Sunday evening—Lecture on prophecy. The things which are and the things which are to come, as revealed in Scripture.

Tuesday evening at 8, prayer and Bible study.

Why the Dog's Nose is Always Cold.

"What makes the dog's nose always cold?
I'll try to tell you, curls of gold,
If you will sit upon my knee,
And very good and quiet be;
Well, years, and years, and years ago
How many I don't really know—
There came a rain on sea and shore;
Its like was never seen before
Or since. It fell unceasing down
Till all the world began to drown;
But just before it down did pour,
An old, old man—his name was Noah
Built him an ark, that he might save
His family from a watery grave;
And in it also he designed
To shelter two of every kind
Of beast. Well, dear, when it was done,
And heavy clouds obscured the sun,
The Noah folks to it quickly ran,
And then the animals began
To gravely march along in pairs;
The leopards, tigers, wolves and bears,
The deer, the hippopotamuses,
The rabbits, squirrels, elks, walruses,
The camels, goats, and cats and donkeys,
The tall giraffes, the beavers, monkeys,
The rats, the big rhinoceroses,
The dromedaries, and the horses,
The sheep, the mice, the kangaroos,
Hyenas, elephants, hoodooes,
And many more—'twould take all day,
My dear, the names of all to say—
And at the very, very end
Of the procession, by his friend
And master, faithful dog was seen.
The livelong time he'd helping been
To drive the crowd of creatures in;
And now, with loud, exultant bark,
He gayly sprung aboard the ark.
Alas! so crowded was the space
He could not in it find a place;
So patiently he turned about—
Stood half way in and half way out.
And those extremely heavy showers
Descended through nine hundred hours
And more; and, darling, at their close,
Most frozen was his honest nose;
And never could it lose again
The dampness of that dreadful rain;
And that is what, my curls of gold,
Made all the doggies' noses cold.

—Margaret Eytinge.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

That half their ills are due to impoverished blood, they would use Ferrozone and be saved lots of pain and suffering. Ferrozone is a perfect food for the blood, and supplies the strengthening elements needed to maintain health and vigor. Ferrozone is a splendid tonic for weak, nervous women and drives away those depressed feelings of dead weariness. You'll have strength—lots of it—your complexion will improve, you will feel ten years younger after a course of Ferrozone, which builds up the whole human organism; try it. Price 50c.

An Odd Flag.

The strangest flag under which men ever fought is that of the Macedonian insurgents. It is red on one side and black on the other.

A Pugnacious Kangaroo.

While chasing a full grown male kangaroo at Reedy Creek, Victoria, a local resident was suddenly seized by the animal and ducked repeatedly in the water, being only saved from death by the courage of his dog, which finally put the kangaroo to flight.

A gift in the hand is worth two on the tree.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Household utensils can be made to look as good as new by washing in a sudsy solution of Sunlight Soap. They will shine and glitter thus helping to make the home bright and inviting.

Sunlight Soap means less than half the labor required in washing with common soap—and makes everything spotlessly clean.

Sunlight Soap is made of pure oils and fats, contains no ingredient injurious to the hands or clothing.

ASK FOR THE OCTAGON BAR

Sunlight Soap Washes the Clothes White and won't Injure the Hands

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO 8a

March Shoe Sale.

We have just purchased a fine stock of Spring Footwear at a very Low Rate on the dollar, in Men's, Women's and Children's, and now offer you some great snaps.

OUR BARGAIN TABLES

are loaded. A splendid opportunity to save money.

Women's	$2.50 Shoes	$1.00
"	2.00 Shoes	1.00
Men's	4.00 Shoes	2.50
"	3.50 Shoes	2.00
Misses'	1.25 Shoes	1.00
"	1.00 Shoes	.75
Child's	1.00 Shoes	.75
"	.75 Shoes	.50

NOTICE OUR WINDOWS.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES Belleville, Napanee and Trenton.

Girls' Boots

Paying for them is the easy part.

—Misses' Dongola and Box Calf Laced or Buttoned Boots, heel or spring heel, sizes 11, 11½, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.25 and $1.35 Sale price... $1.00

—Misses' Box Calf Laced Boots, spring heel, sizes 11, 11, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½, 2, regular price $1.75. Sale price ... $1.25

C. E. SMITH.

334 FRONT STREET. "Alex Ray's Old Stand.

Poultry Supplies

It pays to make the hens lay.—Assist them with

OYSTER SHELLS
GRIT
MEAT MEAL
GREEN BONE
MYER'S POULTRY SPICE
INTERNATIONAL SPICE
HERBAGEUM
WHEAT, CORN, BUCKWHEAT, &c.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

Phone 214. Grocers.

ARE YOU STRUGGLING with the light problem? Let us furnish you estimates on installing the handiest, cleanest and safest light on the market. Light your residence or shop with ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

A fine lot of new patterns in Shades just arrived. Call and inspect them.

GREENLEAF & SON.

Customs Blanks. — We have the new Customs Entry Form. Intelligencer Job Department. a29-1f

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

That new Board of License Commissioners look like a Powerful organization. At least it is just possible that some people, by jiggers, may find it so.

• • •

Judging by the despatches, Mukden must be an awful sight these days. I should think it would look nearly as tough as Front St.

• • •

Nobody can say that Prof. Shortt's lectures are too shortt, anyhow. He just talks long enough.

• • •

None of the men of my acquaintance seem to be suffering much so far, from what they have given up during Lent.

• • •

A brand of cheap cigars has been named after Dr. Osler. Anybody who smokes 'em won't need chloroform.

• • •

Marconi has added a new invention to his wireless telegraph, by which the receiving speed is increased from twenty-four to one hundred words a minute. It is said to be absolutely reliable.

• • •

The value of elastic articles produced in the United States last year was $52,000,000. Lots of rubber necks in the States

• • •

Just think! In six weeks or so we may expect to see those awful autos again. Winter is not such a bad time, after all.

• • •

A London judge has ruled that $1.87 is enough to buy a stunning hat for a woman. But he will not be surprised, probably, when his wife overrules this decision.

• • •

Japan has bought the ocean liner Majestic to add to her navy. This must indicate that the Japanese have given up all hope of meeting the Baltic fleet and capturing what vessels they need. They'll be after Mr. O'Flynn's battleship when the ice breaks up.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES.

FOR THE HUMAN BODY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health: sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

Overeducated Hindoos.

There exists among India's educated classes a mad desire for professional vocations. Take a walk in certain streets in India, and you will observe a perfect panorama of signboard depicting professional callings, and the business houses are principally conspicuous by their absence.—Times of India.

Time to Begin.

Are you doing as much to brighten this world as a single sunbeam does? Are you scattering as much fragrance in the lives about you as is shed by one little violet? Do you refresh tired hearts as a drop of rain refreshes a drooping plant? If not, it is time to begin.

His Economy.

Wyte—Browne is very economical, isn't he? Black—Browne? Well, I'll tell you. Browne is the sort of man who, when he wants an awl and hasn't any, instead of buying one will go to work to make one by straightening out a corkscrew.

Premier Indicates Future Course on Autonomy Bills.

Tries to Square Speeches Hon. Mr. Fielding Made in 1897 With What He Himself Says Now—Manitoba Had No Separate Schools When it Came Into Union and Was Not Bound to Continue Them.

Ottawa, March 11.—The Parliamentary week which has been one of intense interest in the autonomy bill, ended in a flash of autonomy talk in the House yesterday. R. L. Borden repeated some enquiries he had made earlier in the week. He wanted to know when a successor to Hon. Clifford Sifton would be appointed, and his curiosity led him further to ask who of the western people had been consulted in regard to the terms of the bill? Sir Wilfrid treated the enquiries lightly, almost insolently. He would not say, when he would adorn his Cabinet with a Minister of the Interior, nor would he divulge the secrets of the conferences held between the Dominion Government and Messrs. Haultain and Bulyea.

Indicates the Argument.

But the Premier did say something in a serious strain. He indicated the line of argument the Government would pursue to reconcile its position on the Manitoba School question, with its present attitude towards the Territories. R. L. Borden had effectively raised this point by reading from speeches delivered by Hon. W. S. Fielding in Nova Scotia in the campaign of 1898. In that fight Mr. Fielding spoke strongly against the interference with the Provinces in the conduct of their educational affairs, and stood firmly on the platform of Provincial rights.

Sir Wilfrid's answer to these quotations was a blunt assertion to the effect that the autonomy bill was no departure from his policy in 1896. In Manitoba, he pointed out, a Separate School system had been adopted and rejected. It had no system of Separate Schools when it came into the Union, and was therefore under no constitutional obligation to continue them.

Foster Hits Him.

Hon. George E. Foster answered the Prime Minister, paying particular attention to the differences in the Cabinet over the autonomy bill and the failure on the part of the Government to get an expression of opinion from the west before introducing the bill.

Dr. Sproule also attacked the Government's position and showed that it was following an unconstitutional course in connection with the autonomy bill.

STRIKING DAIRY TESTS.

Eighty-Nine Pounds of Milk in 48 Hours, With 4 Per Cent. Butter Fat.

Ottawa, March 11.—The 48-hour dairy test was the feature of the Live Stock Show Wednesday. The grade Ayrshire cow, which took first place with 110.7 points and gave 89 pounds of milk, testing over 4 per cent. of fat, was bought by her present owner, T. A. Spratt, Billings' Bridge, at auction last fall for $47. Under normal conditions she now gives 50 pounds of milk daily, which places her easily in the 10,000-pound class. The second prize winner, owned by Nell Sangster, Ormstown, Que., is a Holstein. During the test she gave 116 pounds of milk, testing 2.8 per cent. fat.

In the afternoon Prof. J. H. Grisdale discussed the practical topic of raising baby beef. He showed that the farmer who keeps his steers for three or four years loses money, while the feeder who finishes his cattle at two years of age secures the largest profit. It costs about 3c per pound of gain from birth to six months, 4c to 5c from six to twelve months, 5c to 6c from one to two years, while from three to four years of age it costs from 7c to 8c per pound of gain.

WILL BALFOUR ANSWER?

On What Ground Will Britain Meet Colonial Representatives?

London, March 11.—The Canadian Associated Press understands that during next week Premier Balfour is to be asked whether in the event of a conference taking place before the general election, the question of Imperial unity on the basis of preferential duties on colonial produce will be submitted to the conference, and whether the British representatives will have the power, subject to subsequent approval of the House of Commons, to negotiate a scheme of preferential trading with the colonies on the basis of the taxation of food and raw material.

Parent Asks Investigation.

Quebec, March 11.—The committee appointed by the Local House to investigate charges made against Premier Parent by Senators Legris and Choquet met again yesterday morning, when the Premier sprang a surprise. He filed a certified copy of the actions taken by him in the civil courts against Senators Legris and Choquet for damages, and said he was willing to forego the actions against these gentlemen in the courts if they would appear before the committee and make their charges. He did not intend to remain in office, nor yet did he intend to leave his department employes in the lurch under these circumstances aimed at them as well as himself. He insisted, therefore, upon an investigation.

Fruit Growers' Meetings.

Toronto, March 11.—Hon. Nelson Monteith has authorized the holding of meetings to discuss fruit questions, as follows: March 13, Stony Creek; 14, Grimsby; 15 Beamsville; 16 Jordan Station; 17, Queenston; 18, St. Catharines. The meetings will be addressed by Prof. Lochhead of the O. A. C. and Prof. Macoun of the Central Experimental Station. The subjects will relate to the San Jose scale and black rot in grapes. Representatives of the Department of Agriculture will be present to make arrangements for supplying spraying materials.

Coalition in Norway.

Copenhagen, March 11.—The Cabinet crisis in Norway has been settled by the selection of a coalition Ministry, of which M. Micholsen is the Premier.

TERRIBLY DISTRESSING.

Nothing can cause more pain and more distress than Piles.

No wonder many Pile sufferers say their lives are burdens to them.

Ointments and local treatments may relieve but cannot cure.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is guaranteed to cure any case of Piles.

If Hem-Roid doesn't cure you, you get your money back.

Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally, thus removing the cause.

$1,000.00 guarantee goes with every sale.

A month's treatment for $1.00, at all Druggists or The Wilson-Fyle Co. Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Recommended and sold by J. S. McKeown.

Change of copy for advertisements in The Weekly Intelligencer must be in this office on Friday morning to ensure their appearance in the issue of the following week.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

takes away the weight of years. It renews the youthful vigor of stomach, liver and bowels—gently stimulates these vital organs to normal, healthy action; cures constipation and biliousness.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS, 25c and 60c a bottle

An Irishman gave his wife away by talking in his sleep. That is nothing. Plenty of wives give their husbands away by talking while awake.

It is worse than madness to neglect a cough, or cold which is easily subdued if taken in time but becomes, when left to itself, the forerunner of consumption and premature death. Inflammation, when it attacks the delicate tissue of the lungs and bronchial tubes, travels with perilous rapidity; then do not delay, get a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that grasps this formidable foe of the human body, and drives it from the system. This medicine promotes a free and easy expectoration, subdues the cough, heals the diseased parts, and exerts a most wonderful influence in curing consumption, and other diseases of the throat and lungs. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

What is that which is lengthened by being cut at both ends? Answer—A ditch.

A Liniment for the Logger.—Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparing timber for the drive and in river work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience Coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when applied to the injured or administered to the ailing, works wonders.

What black thing enlightens the world? Answer—Ink.

Signals of Danger.—Have you lost your appetite? Have you a coated tongue? Have you an unpleasant taste in the mouth? Does your head ache and have you dizziness? If so, your stomach is out of order and you need medicine. But you do not like medicine. He that prefers sickness to medicine must suffer, but under the circumstances the wise man would procure a box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills and speedily get himself in health, and strive to keep so.

Name something with two heads and one body. Answer—A barrel.

The Most Popular Pill.—The pill is the most popular of all forms of medicine, and of pills the most popular are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they do what it is asserted they can do, and are not put forward on any fictitious claims to excellence. They are compact and portable, and they are easily taken, they do not nauseate nor gripe, and they give relief in the most stubborn cases.

Why is bread like the sun? Answer—Because it rises from the yeast.

Many inherit weak lungs, and as disease usually assails the weakest point, these persons are continually exposed to attacks of cold and pulmonary disturbances. The speedy use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup will be found a preventive and a protection, strengthening the organs so that they are not so liable to derangement from exposure or abrupt atmospheric changes. Bickle's Syrup is cheap and good.

If you were to ride a donkey what fruit would you resemble? Answer—A pair.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take; sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

What coat is finished without buttons and put on wet? Answer—A coat of paint.

Why go limping and whining about your corns when a 25 cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial and you will not regret it.

Extra fine Carnations and Violets in abundance
—AT—
COLLIP'S.

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower

GREW THIS HAIR

95 Blue Island Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Seven Sutherland Sisters:—

Ladies,—I have been greatly benefited by the use of your Hair Grower and Hair and Scalp Cleaner, and I feel it my duty to recommend same.

Eleven years ago my hair in length was just below my waist, and falling. I commenced using your remedies at that time and I have continued the use of same with satisfactory results, and have never used any other preparations. My hair is now seven feet in length, heavy, soft and a beautiful golden brown, as my photograph will show.

I give you permission to use my letter, also my photograph in advertising in any way you desire.

Yours respectfully,
MISS M. TAYLOR

For sale at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS
SOLE PROPRIETORS
CANADIAN OFFICE, 258 YONGE ST., TORONTO
J. H. BAILEY, Foreign Manager. 10

Recommended and sold by
D. M. Waters, Belleville.

Special One-Way Excursions From Belleville

To Billings, Mont.	$37.05
Colorado Springs, Denver, Helena, Butte, Ogden, Salt Lake City	$42.05
Nelson, Rossland, B.C., Spokane, Wash.	$42.55
Portland, Ore. Seattle, Wash. Vancouver, Victoria, B.C.	$45.05
San Francisco Cal.	$46.80

Proportionately low rates to other points. Tickets on sale from March 1st to May 15th, 1905.

SPECIAL SETTLERS' TRAINS TO NORTHWEST.

Special train with Colonist Sleeper will leave Toronto at 9.00 p.m. every Tuesday during March and April for Manitoba and Northwest. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the Pacific Express, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m.

For tickets and full information call on

H. C. Thompson, C. P. & T. A., or T. H. Coppin, Depot Ticket Agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Settlers' Trains

Will leave Toronto every Tuesday during March and April at 9.00 p.m. for

Manitoba and the North-West

and run via Grand Trunk, North Bay and Canadian Pacific. A Colonist Sleeper will be attached to each train. Passengers travelling without live stock should take the train leaving Toronto 1.45 p.m. Train leaving Toronto at 9.00 p.m. is for passengers travelling with stock.

Full particulars and copy of Settlers' Guide and "Western Canada," from S. Burrows, Canadian Pacific Agent, or C. B. Foster, D.P.A., Toronto.

S. BURROWS,
C. P. R. Agent, Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N. Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.

Daily except Sunday

L. Belleville (G.T.R.)	noon
Arr. Kingston, G.T.R.	1.25 p.m.
Lv. Kingston (steamer)	2.00 p.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (str.)	4.30 p.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent, N.Y.C.	4.50 p.m.
Arr. Watertown, N.Y.C.	5.50 p.m.
Arr. Oswego, N.Y.C.	9.05 p.m.
Arr. Syracuse, N.Y.C.	9.25 p.m.
Arr. Rochester, N.Y.C.	1.05 a.m.
Arr. Utica, N.Y.C.	9.45 p.m.
Arr. New York, N.Y.C.	7.25 a.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C.R.R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from H. S. Folger, N.Y.C. agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.

A. H. SMITH, General Manager,
New York.

G. . GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

NOTICE.

Take notice that I have taken over the Perth Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and Norwich Union Fire Insurance Co., formerly held by the late, James A. Chisholm.

CHANCEY ASHLEY,
GENERAL INSURANCE AGENT,
Opposite Post Office. - Belleville.

Send your name & address on a post card to the DUNLOP TIRE CO. Limited, TORONTO & and you will receive, free, the new which will be ready early in January. Although it costs you nothing this book is worth money to all who own horses. It treats of horse lameness & gives the coming-on signs of the different hoof troubles.

DUNLOP BOOK.

Dunlop "Ideal" & "Bar" pads put new legs on a horse.

This mark on every genuine pad.

⑰ Put on by all BLACKSMITHS.

Is there anything more ludicrous than a stout man in a tight uniform, trying not to stumble over his sword and make an impressive bow at the same time?

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

Education gives a woman more words to talk with.

MEDICAL

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R C.S., England.
Office and Residence—Corner of Bridge and George streets—three streets East of Post Office.

DR. R. M. BOYD.
Late Assistant Surgeon to the Canadian Copper Co., Copper Cliff. Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3.30 p.m., and 6.30 to 8 p.m. Office next Merchants' Bank, Pinnacle St.
m3-d&w1m

JOSEPH CALDWELL
Dentist, Belleville Ont.
Dental rooms Caldwell Block; residence Bridge St.; office hours 9 to 5.

LEGAL

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT
J. FRANKLIN WILLS
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for City of Belleville.
Office—City Hall.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices—Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 67.
E. . PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON.
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Offices, Bridge Street Belleville.
Money to Loan—Private Funds. Solicitor for Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent. on easy terms upon good land security. Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire, Life Accident & Plate Glass Insurance Agencies.
THE GUARDIAN,
INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,
QUEBEC AND METROPOLITAN FIRE CO'S.
Insures farm and city property at lowest rates.
Canadian Railway Accident Ins. Co.
Office Campbell St. Belleville, Ont.
R. W. ADAMS.

THOMAS STEWART.
INSURANCE & REAL ESTATE
Agent Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, Scottish Union & National Insur. Co., North British & Mercantile Ins. Co., London & Lancashire Ins. Co., Dominion of Canada Guarantee & Accident Co. Equitable Life of New York, New York Plate Glass Insurance Co.
Bridge St., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at a lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance as Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British Mercantile.
Farm and City property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle St., opposite Post Office and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 169.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the post office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Arthur McGie
MERCHANT TAILOR.

NEW Spring Goods now in stock—
—SUITINGS
—OVERCOATINGS,
—TROUSERINGS and
—SERGES.

Latest patterns and colorings.

ARTHUR McGIE, Merchant Tailor.
300 Front Street.

G. A. Bennett,
Carpenter, Joiner, Builder
Workshop and Office—Victoria Ave.
(next McCrodan's grocery.)
Estimates furnished.
Work promptly and carefully } executed
PRICES MODERATE
SPECIALIST ON—Parque
Grills a Buildin
Office a
Wor
G. A B n as perfect,

o-date, are
Punched.

Local twenty over tw word fir word tions, H

Millions of People

Enjoy it daily. Are you on the list?

"SALADA"

BLACK, MIXED OR GREEN.

The World's Preference.

ATTENTION

to details has a lot to do with our success. We pay as much attention to the little things in this store as we do to the more important. We expect our

Pianos

to be perfect in every particular. Your trade is solicited on that basis. We do not ask you to accept anything less. Who can promise you anything more?

J. A. GOODSELL & CO.

436 Front St., Next to W W Chown Co.

To Eat and Sleep

you must get your liver, stomach and bowels right. Beecham's Pills act like a charm in setting you right. The appetite of youth comes with all its old relish after using Beecham's Pills. Natural sleep is the result of a short course of this famous remedy.

To Work and Play

use Beecham's Pills. You will find a vigor and life which adds zest to both work and play after using Beecham's Pills. You will feel like a new person with a clear eye, sweet breath and a keen brain. To enjoy life take

BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Prepared only by Thomas Beecham, St. Helens, England.
Sold everywhere in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes, 25 cents.

VEGETABLE DISHES

We have just secured about 50 odd Vegetable Dishes, all printed and gilt twined; regular price $1.00 and $1.25; clearing at 50c each.

CUSHION TOPS

100 Japanese Cushion Tops clearing at 15c each.

CUSHION GIRDLES

200 Cushion Girdles, all shades and combinations of shades, with tassels, 25c each.

SOAPS. SOAPS.

Eclipse Soap, 6 bars for 25c; Chicago Hard Water, 7 bars for 25c; Virgin Castile, 5 cakes for 10c; Jack Canuck, Tar Soap, 5c., etc.

TEA AND COFFEE.

We ask you to give our Japan Tea at 25c, and our fresh ground Coffee at 30c lb., a trial; we claim they are the best value to be had in the district.

AT THE BEEHIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario

Incorporated by Act of Parliament.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL

$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE.—Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch

Cleanliness is Next to Godliness.

AND GOOD SOAP is one of the greatest adjuncts to the bath. Just look into our window, ask us the prices, and after a trial you will be surprised at e Intellig

rprising be made thoug lled from magazi or rebou reas ks, such r books ade to first-cl

CKER.

ed and gences
House
AMES eville vince
o. 403

The Way We Grow

There has never been a cracker made in Canada that won friends like

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

They have made the nation cracker hungry; made us double the size of our factory the first year, and made everybody think of MOONEY'S PERFECTION CREAM SODAS when they think of delicious crackers.

The Hawaiian Death Prayer.

Upon the minds of such a people as the Hawaiians were, while under their ancient form of religion, it was but natural that superstition should gain a rooted hold. The most curious and effective belief to which they were made subject was that a man can be prayed to death, a belief that survives among the natives to the present day. For the success of the tragical death prayer it was necessary to obtain some hair or a piece of finger nail of the intended victim. A priest was then employed to use incantation and prayer for his destruction. Always informed of the doom that the priest was invoking upon him, the victim generally pined away and died.

There is a story that an Englishman in the service of Kamehameha I. having incurred the displeasure of a priest, the latter proceeded to "remove" him by the death prayer process. The Anglo-Saxon, however, set up an opposition altar in derision and jokingly proclaimed that he intended to pray the priest to death. Alarmed at the threat and overwhelmed at the failure of his own incantations, the sorcerer died, proving by his death his faith in his religion.

The Social Capital.

We do not think that either Washington or New York or any other city will ever become the social capital of the United States as London is the social capital of Great Britain. Washington will come much nearer to it than it does at present, but the country is too big to have a social capital. Hordes of people will come to New York to make money, to amuse themselves, to study, to live their lives in the least restricted atmosphere that the country offers, but only very rich people will come here to find and occupy a place in organized society. Pleasant people will always find pleasant playmates here. There is no lack of good company for everybody that is companionable. But the charm of New York for people who still live elsewhere is not in its society, but in its shops and shows, its sunshine, its eating and its drinking. It is pleasant. It grows finer every day. When it is finished it will be a marvelous city, but hardly the social capital of the country.

A Finny Acrobat.

No two leaps of the tarpon are quite alike. As the tarpon comes out into day his jaws distend, his gills flap open, and the mullet bait flies out across the water for a hundred feet, while he retches at the hook, shaking his head angrily from side to side, like a horse that fights his bit. In midflight he will turn and cut into the stream with a head on dive that makes a perfect cleavage of the whitened water. His next emergence may be a back somersault and his third a long distance jump with no height to it, but a substantial gain in feet. With infinite spirit he will continue his play until absolutely worn out, when the spring and somersaulting lapse into a long, rolling stroke from side to side, showing the two foot dorsal filament, which waves and floats out behind, like some independent water creature.—Country Life In America.

The Knowledge That Pays.

If you glance round at the work of some of our big men you will be surprised to see how many have made their reputation by doing one small thing, but doing it well. If a man gets to the front in one narrow subject the world credits him with knowledge of all the rest. It is, however, even easier to acquire a large general knowledge than an advanced special knowledge of one narrow subject. The specialty must not be too narrow either. It is often said that the pursuit of knowledge has a nobility of its own. But what knowledge? No knowledge is worth obtaining for its own or any other sake unless it is or will probably be useful to man.—James Swinburne in Electrical Review.

Could Be Happy If We Wished.

If in a less fortunate time than ours, when the resources of mind and body were less varied and plentiful than they are now, men and women took delight in life, warmed both hands at its fire and filled their hearts with joy and gladness, may we not conclude that they were happy simply because they lived, as we might, in the right way, and put to their right uses that which was provided for them?

Linked by Fate

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Author of "The Verdict of the Heart," "A Heritage of Hate," "Nell of Shorne Mills," "Paid For," "A Modern Juliet," Etc.

She winced at the word which meant Home. Oh, how dear, how sacred, was the word to the girl cast on his desolate island! And full of remorse, he murmured, "Forgive me! I beg your pardon!"

But she ignored the slip and responded with a cheerfulness equal to his own.

"Should I, really? That's strange; for I know nothing whatever about cooking. My father"—she kept her voice steady—"and I lived alone. He had given up practice for some years and amused himself with scientific research. He used to write articles and things for the magazines and reviews, and I acted as his amanuensis; so that I had no time for what is called domestic duties. If I had only known that I should have needed a knowledge of cooking and, oh, so many other things that other women can do!"

"You have soon picked them up," he said, promptly. "It is wonderful how quickly you have learned to do things; by a kind of instinct. It's the intelligence of the culture mind. It's always easy for an educated person to learn the duties of a servant. That's why lady helps should be such a success."

"But are they usually?" she asked as she took her plate and cut him a slice of bread. "I've always been given to understand that the lady help does everything but help. She presides at the table, over an underdone or overdone joint and a watery pudding, and is much aggrieved if she is asked to do anything in the shape of work."

Mannering nodded and kept the ball rolling.

"Yes; something like the ordinary landlady. I used to live in lodgings, and the landlady—she was too liberal with her h's and said she was the daughter of a clergyman—left the cooking to an infant of sixteen whose notions of a meal would make a Red Indian quail. Until I was landed here I scarcely knew, away from home or at a restaurant, what a decent dinner meant. You make coffee splendidly. It is quite a surprise to find that it doesn't taste like baked horse beans."

"I am sorry to say that the coffee is giving out," she said, gravely.

"Oh, well," he responded, cheerfully, "we can manage without it—though I'm sorry for your sake. It's supposed to be bad for the nerves."

Nina smiled. "I've almost forgotten that I had any," she said.

"You have gone through so much," he commented, sagely. "There is nothing half so good for nerves as real down trouble and danger and right down hard work."

As he spoke he drew his chair to the fire and took out his old briar pipe, then remembered that he had nothing with which to fill it; and, after a loving look at it and a sigh, replaced it in his pocket. But Nina, upon whom no action or word of his was lost, took a packet from her pocket and held it out to him.

"You've no tobacco. I wonder—of course, it won't—but I wonder whether this would do? I found some leaves on the edge of the plantation, and they looked so like tobacco leaves that I dried them in the sun, just on the chance—"

He took the packet, smelt it, filled his pipe and lit it, and, after a draw or two, looked at her gratefully.

"It's first rate!" he said, with a profound sigh. "It was splendid of you to think of it. Intellect again."

She laughed, but as she cleared the things away her eyes went to him where he sat smoking enjoyably, and there was a strangely happy glance in them.

There was silence for a time; both were thinking of the dead; but Mannering would not refer to them—would not say a word to voice their sense of solitude.

"To-morrow I intend exploring the island as far as I can," he said with an assumed casualness. "I shall be away all day. You won't mind?"

"No," she said. "Why should I? There is no one here but ourselves."

It was out—had slipped out at last—and she went pale, then red; but she turned away swiftly, and he did not notice her embarrassment.

"I thought you might get lonely," he said, simply. "I have not been so far away before. Perhaps I ought to have made the exploration before this. I shall set up another signal on the north, though I am convinced that no ships pass that way. I remember—it's wonderful how things come into your memory when you think they have gone forever!—seeing these islands—or what I think were them—in a map at home."

"Yes," she said, mechanically; for she was wondering where his "home" was. Should she ask him? It was haunting and burdensome; this complete ignorance of his past history, his very identity. But before she could find courage to put her question he went on:

"I believe the mainland of Australia is behind us, so to speak, but I'm not sure." He sighed as if impatient of his ignorance. "It is just possible some traders may drop in on us; on the other hand we may be left—"

He had been communing with himself as much as talking to her; and as he suddenly realised that he was talking aloud, he glanced at her penitently. But there was no sign of grief or pain on the beautiful face, and she said, quite calmly:

"There is nothing for it but patience."

"Yes," he sighed.

She moved about in the quiet, soothing way some women—bless them!—possess naturally, then, presently, she looked round as if everything were done, and said, quietly:

"Is there anything else I can do—anything else you want? If not, I will go."

"No, thank you!" he replied as quietly. He rose and opened the door for her, as if they were parting for the night in a house in Mayfair, and, drawing her cloak round her, she passed him.

"Good night," she said, and "Good night," he responded.

He waited by the open door until he had seen her enter the hut, then he closed the door and lay down by the fire. He could not sleep that night in the hut he and Fleming had occupied; it was too full of memories of his fellow-castaway and friend.

When he rose next morning and went to the door he saw Nina running toward the men's hut. She stopped short at sight of him and seemed to hesitate; then, after a pause, she came on.

She was panting a little and the color was coming and going on her face, fresh as the morning itself and as beautiful.

"You gave me a fright!" she said, as if explaining. "I went to the hut to call you and could not make you hear—"

"I slept here," he said. "Why, where did you think I had gone?"

She dropped her eyes. "I didn't know. I thought you might be ill," she said, rather coldly. "Breakfast is ready. I'll bring it."

He had his morning swim in the sunlit bay, and returned to find the breakfast laid. But she did not sit down with him.

"I have had mine," she said, as she gave him some really well-cooked fish and the remains of the duck. "There is some lunch to take with you. Dinner at seven, I suppose?"

"Yes; I'll be back by then. You always remember to wind up your watch? That's right."

"I shall want some more birds to-day," she said.

"I'll get them before I go," he responded. "Is there anything else?"

"No, thanks. I'll leave you now. I am very busy turning out my hut."

After he had finished his breakfast—it was not so pleasant a meal as that of last night; he missed her—he took his gun and went down to the piece of marsh where he usually found the ducks. It went to his heart to shoot them, for, being unacquainted with the tender mercies of men, they were friendly and unafraid, and, being a sportsman, he had to frighten them on to the wind before he fired.

He got a couple of brace and went up to her hut with them. It was the first time he had approached her quarters since Fleming's death. She was standing outside in the midst of a fairly good imitation of a "spring clean," and she paused in her task and regarded his approach with a touch of color in her cheeks and a certain coldness in her eyes.

"Sorry to interrupt you," he said in a matter-of-fact way. "Here are the ducks."

"Thank you," she said. "Will you put them on the ground, please? Oh"—as he obeyed her and was walking away—"what shall I do with these?" pointing to a small heap of stones. "They are the stones father found."

Mannering nodded.

"Yes; they are gold," he said, regarding them with indifference. Then he smiled. "Gold! It's strange to think that if we were within reach of the world and civilization you would be rich—rich 'beyond the dreams of avarice.'"

"We, you mean," she corrected him, with a smile.

Then the blood burnt in her veins, for it flashed upon her that he would think she had remembered and referred to the fact that they were man and wife and held things in common.

But Mannering, with a man's dullness, took her literally.

"No," he said. "You forget that your father found it, and that you are his daughter and heiress."

"Oh—yes," she said, casually. "Well, what shall I do with them? They are in the way and make my room untidy."

"They are of no use, unless we should be found and rescued. Put them in a heap—oh, better bury them! I'll get the spade."

"Oh, don't trouble!" she said; "I'll put them somewhere."

"I wish they were coal," said Mannering, eyeing them thoughtfully and complainingly.

"Or potatoes or pots of marmalade or—oh, fifty other things I want!" she sighed.

"Never mind," he said, soothingly. "Perhaps I shall find some coal; the marmalade is hopeless, I'm afraid. Good morning. Can I help you move the heavy things?"

"Oh, no, no, thanks!" she returned quickly—it seemed to him nervously, as if she did not wish him to enter her hut—and, with another nod, he shouldered his gun and went off.

CHAPTER VI.

Nina finished her own "spring clean" and, the strain being relaxed, began to feel lonely.

It was perhaps for the best, in some respects, that he should go off for the day; it lessened the embarrassment of the situation; but she thought rather wistfully of the hours she must spend in solitude.

And to pass them she resolved to rearrange his own hut. Sleeping in the men's was not nearly so comfortable for him, and—and besides he was farther away from her than in the cabin he and Fleming had occupied; and though she was not nervous, she was conscious that she liked to have him within call.

She went down to the hut after awhile, and entered it shyly and hesitatingly. Her woman's sense of neatness and order was shocked by the untidiness of the place, and she set to work to clear and rearrange it. While she was folding and packing Fleming's few belonging and putting them in a box, she came across the kind of diary "log" he had kept on board the Alpina. She sat down and turned its pages and found several references to herself and Mannering. One of them caught her attention, and she pondered over it. It ran thus:

"The fellow-passengers I like best are a Miss Vernon—her Christian name may be Christina; she is called Nina by her father. She is a very lovely and lovable girl. Her father, a doctor, has come out for change and rest. He is a savant of the old school, a learned and an absent-minded man. She is, I am sure, as good as she is beautiful, and her light-heartedness and amiability have done much to make the voyage so far a delightful one. I walk and talk with her frequently. How happy will be the man who is fortunate enough to win her love!"

Nina blushed at this assertion, and looked up from the diary with a sigh. Then she read on:

"The other is a man named Vane Mannering. I have 'made friends' with him, though it was rather difficult to do so at first, for though he is by no means morose, he is somewhat taciturn and reserved. He is a gentleman and distinguished looking—which some gentlemen are not. In addition to great physical advantages, he has a remarkably pleasant voice, deep and musical. He does not 'mix' with the other passengers, and is given to walking and sitting by himself. I consider myself favored by his liking, if the word is not too strong; at any rate, he does not shun me, and is even willing to stroll about the deck and chat. If I were a novelist I would construct a romance round him; it seems to me that he is just the kind of man who may have had what the lady writers call 'a past.' I don't mean a guilty past; no, there is something about him which impresses me with a sense of his worthiness. I fancy—how one indulges idle fancies on board o' ship!—that he has had a recent trouble; may have lost the woman he loved—really, I must take to fiction—or, perhaps, lost a fortune. From a word or two he let slip, I gathered that he was poor and was going out to earn his living. The more I see of him the more I like Mannering. I have—I hope in an inoffensive way—endeavored to make him and Miss Nina friends, but he is shy in his grave way and he is disinclined for the society of ladies—anyway, he avoids all of them, which makes me think that his trouble may be connected with one of the gentler sex. Notwithstanding all the efforts of the women on board to 'draw him out of his shell,' he resists their blandishments."

Nina frowned thoughtfully over this. Yes, she remembered. Mannering had seemed to avoid her and the other ladies.

The journal was continued to the day of Fleming's death, and his anxiety on her account, his plan of a marriage with Mannering, even the reasons for it, were set down.

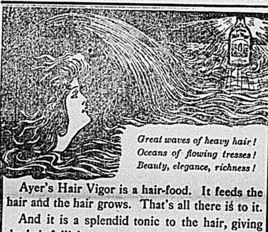
"I had hard work to induce him to take the course I myself pressed on him," Nina read; "and even after he had agreed to the marriage, and I had gained Miss Nina's consent, he partly executed an idea of escape for her and me in order to avoid the ceremony. I respect his scruples. Alas they will have to yield to inexorable Fate! I am dying! I must make them man and wife before I go. It must be so, for her sake, for the sake of her future. Heaven will, I feel, give me strength to perform the ceremony, though it may not vouchsafe me sufficient to set it down here. I hope I am acting for the best for both of them. If not, as Mannering said, may God forgive me!"

It was the last entry; he did not live to make another; and Nina's eyes, as she bent over the book, filled with tears. And her heart, too, was filled with bitterness. It tortured her pride to read, in black and white, Mannering's objection to, dislike of, the marriage.

But she put the book at the bottom of the box in which she had placed Fleming's things, and set to work vigorously. There were very few articles belonging to Mannering. He who had thought of so many necessary things for the rest had, apparently, ignored his own comfort. There were a few spare clothes which quickly, timidly, and, of course, without examination, she folded and laid aside, with a strange sense of shyness. It seemed to her as if he might resent her interference; but surely it was her duty to "tidy" the place and make it comfortable. It was the least she could do for him who did so much for her.

She did away with Fleming's "bed," and altered the arrangement of the rough furniture so as to give the room as different an aspect as possible, and she completed her work by putting on the table a bunch of gloriously-colored flowers in an empty bottle. While she was making up the posy her eyes caught the signet ring which Mannering had placed on her finger for a wedding ring. Be sure it was not the first time she had looked at it; indeed, it seemed to her that even in her sleep she had been conscious of its presence. But now, after reading the paragraph in Fleming's diary, she viewed it with a feeling of revolt against the Fate that had placed it there; and, obeying a sudden impulse, she took it off and slipped it in her pocket.

To be continued.



Great waves of heavy hair!
Oceans of flowing tresses!
Beauty, elegance, richness!

Ayer's Hair Vigor is a hair-food. It feeds the hair and the hair grows. That's all there is to it.

And it is a splendid tonic to the hair, giving the hair follicles tone and strength. This is why it checks falling hair so promptly.

As a dressing, it keeps the hair soft and smooth and prevents splitting at the ends.

Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.
Also manufacturers of
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL—For coughs. AYER'S PILLS—For constipation.
AYER'S SARSAPARILLA—For the blood. AYER'S AGUE CURE—For malaria and ague.

What Fruit-a-tives are

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They are the laxative, tonic and curative principles of fruit—combined into pleasant tasting pellets. They contain all the virtues of fruit—but by the secret process of making them, their action on the human system is many times intensified.

What "Fruit-a-tives" are for

FRUITATIVES
OR FRUIT LIVER TABLETS
Price 50c
FRUITATIVES LIMITED

"Fruit-a-tives" are the natural and logical cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Their action is that of fresh fruit, only very much surer and more effective. Then too, they are free of fruit acids, sugar and woody fibre which often prevent fresh fruit being beneficial.

Try "Fruit-a-tives" and see how quickly they cure you of Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bilious Headache, Loss of Appetite and Kidney troubles.

At all Druggists.
In 50c. boxes.

The New Store.

Plenty of things around the store deserve special mention, the following will answer for now. You can judge the trend of values by such items as these.

NEW DRESS GOODS

—Mohair Effects	from 25 to 75c	—Crispine	50c to $1.00
—Voiles	30c to $1.00 yard	—Cashmeres	25c to 75c
—Crepe-de-Chene	50c to $1.00 yd.	—Serges	25c, 50c, 75c
—Eoliennes	75c to $1.00	—Lustres	25c to 75c
—Etamines	50c to 75c	—Venetians	75c to $1.50

New Silk Blouses from .... $2 75 to $6.00 each.

75 LADIES' RAIN COATS

Guaranteed Waterproof and as far as could be foreseen in sizes to suit any customer. Price .... $4.00 to $10.00 each.
The store is as bright as a May morning and every day adds to its prestige.

Wims & Co

"If You Get it at Stroud's it's Good."

ART VASES.

We are opening up a select lot of Fine Crystal and Colored Flower Vases, Tubes, Bowls, etc. Each one is different, exclusive and strictly correct—they are high priced goods of the finest quality. We want to sell them quickly and if you appreciate artistic flower recepticles—now is your opportunity.

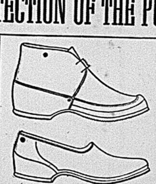
Stroud's 40c teas are so Good They are a Treat and a Relish for Every Meal.

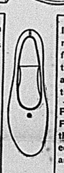
Tea and China Store, 'Phone, 301.
STROUD'S
Opp. Anglo-American, Front Street.

FOR THE

PROTECTION OF THE PUBLIC

PUNCHED RUBBERS





A hole PUNCHED in a Rubber Indicates that it is a Factory Imperfect or Out of Style or in some way inferior and liable to prove unsatisfactory.

In order that these may be distinguished from perfect goods they are PUNCHED as indicated in illustration shown herewith.

Purchasers of Rubber Footwear should see that goods represented to them as perfect, and up-to-date, are Not Punched.

PUNCHED RUBBERS

Try Gin Pills at our expense

We want every man and woman in Canada who suffers from Kidney and Bladder Troubles, to write us for a free sample of Gin Pills.

We want everyone who has sick friends to send us their names and addresses, that we may mail them, free of charge, a sample box of Gin Pills.

100,000 Sample Boxes Given Away.

There are hundreds who are martyrs to Kidney Trouble, having tried everything else without relief. There are dozens in every town who may have Kidney Trouble without knowing it. If you are pale—losing flesh—can't sleep—no appetite—if you constantly desire to urinate—if the urine is scanty, burning or highly colored—if the feet and hands are swollen—if the eyesight is dimmed—if there are frequent pains in the back, through the hips and legs—then you have the most positive symptoms of Kidney Trouble.

These are the people, we hope, who will send in their names that Gin Pills may cure them.

What They Are

Each Gin Pill contains the medicinal properties of one and one-half ounces of best Holland Gin. The harmful substances—and the alcohol—are left out. These medicinal principles are combined with several other remedies of exceptional value—and the whole made up in the form of a small, pleasant pill. These are the famous Gin Pills that have the largest sale—and the greatest number of cures to their credit—of any Kidney and Bladder remedy, ever introduced in Canada.

What They Do

Gin Pills cure "Cold on the Kidneys," Inflammation of the Kidneys, Uric Acid, causing Gout and Rheumatism, Ulceration and Inflammation of the Bladder, Painful and Suppressed Urine, constant desire to urinate, Gravel or Stone in the Bladder, and all other troubles, caused by sick Kidneys and Bladder. They never fail to relieve the sharp, shooting pain, make urination easy, natural and regular, strengthen the organs, and effect a speedy and permanent cure.

Won't you try Gin Pills at our expense? It costs nothing. Simply a post card. Ask us to send a sample box free—say in what paper you saw this advertisement—and sign your name and address. Do it to-day—NOW. BOLE DRUG CO., Dept. B, Winnipeg, Man.

The Intelligencer Bindery

Makes a specialty of Ledgers, Journals, Cash Books and all Descriptions of Blank Account Books

A Really Pretty Girl.

(Life.)

I have travelled alien countries
(through the medium of books)
I have seen (in photogravures)
Italy's sun-burnished skies;
I've had (stereoptic) visions of cliff-bounded mountain brooks,
And the camera has brought me where Killarney's splendor lies;
(In the biograph exhibits) I have trodden courts of kings, to the ends of earth (in lectures) I have let my visions whirl,
And it all one sage conclusion to my comprehension brings:
There is nothing half as splendid as a really pretty girl.

I have seen (in scenic albums) all the gardens of the East,
I have been (in dreams fantastic)
where the tropic breezes blow;
I have watched (in moving pictures)
where Niagara like yeast
Frothed above its splendid chasm and upon the rocks below;
By the banks of the Euphrates (done on canvas) I have strolled,
In the valley of Yosemite seen nature's glories whirl
In kaleidoscopic rapture, but when all the tale is told;
There is nothing half as splendid as a really pretty girl.

When Dame Nature did the firmament and splashed the sombre skies
With streakings of the dawning;
when she set the moon and star
As jewels in the crown of Night and with her gorgeous dyes
Made glorious the gardens where the nodding flowers are,
She had in mind a vision far beyond
the dreams of kings,
A tingling inspiration that set
every sense a-whirl,
And after she had practiced on these quite imperfect things,
She set to work and fashioned us
a really pretty girl.

—J. W. Foley.

THE MUTUAL LIFE

Assurance Company of Canada

35th Annual Report for the year 1904.

INCOME.
Premiums	$1,373,374.69
Interest and rents	351,914.21
	$1.725,308.90

DISBURSEMENTS.
Death Claims	$ 220,304.50
Matured Endowments	160 053 00
Purchased Policies	52,394 54
Surplus	83,183.40
Annuities	8,679.90
Expenses, Taxes, etc	300,807.00
Balance	899,886.56
	$1,725,308 90

ASSETS.
Mortgages	$3,760,617.53
Debentures and Bonds	2,897,496.42
Loans on Policies	888,492.41
Loans on Stocks	7,000.00
Liens on Policies	31,161.25
Real Estate	68,285.53
Cash in Banks	136,728.03
Cash at Head Office	4,317.18
Due and Deferred Premiums (net)	266,713.94
Interest due and accrued	159,718.16
	$8,220,530.45

LIABILITIES.
Reserve, 4, 3½ and 3 per cent	$7,355,172.24
Reserve on lapsed Policies liable to revive or surrender	1,967.10
Death Claims unadjusted	28,066.00
Present value of Death Claims payable in instalments	31,122.82
Premiums paid in advance	15,023 96
Amount due for medical fees	5,847.50
Credit Ledger Balances	11,257.96
Net surplus over all Liabilities on Company's Valuation Standard	772,072 87
	$8,220,530.45

Net Surplus Over All Liabilities on Government Standard of Valuation $1,049,400.71

AUDITED AND FOUND CORRECT.

J. M. SCULLY, F. C. A., Auditor. GEO. WEGENAST, Manager.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

Your Directors have pleasure in submitting their 35th Annual Report, showing the transactions for the year, and the Financial standing of the Company as at December 31st, 1904. The business of 1904 was most gratifying in all respects, large gains having been made in Income, Assets and Surplus.

INSURANCE ACCOUNT.—The volume of new business exceeds that of any former year, being 3,452 Policies for $5,048.168, all of which, except $30,000, was written within the Dominion. The total assurance now in force is $40,476,970.58 under 27,712 policies, the net addition for the year being $2,889.419. While many of our native Companies are seeking business abroad, some of them in distant parts of the world, it is thought by your Directors that good Canadian business is preferable to foreign business, which is secured with less certainty as to its quality, and excessive cost.

INCOME.—The total income was $1,725,308.90, being $1,373,364.69 for premiums, and $351,944 21 for interest. The gain over 1903 was $164,238 87.

DISBURSEMENTS.—The payment to Policyholders amounted to $524,615.34, and consisted of Death Claims, $220,304.50; Endowments, $160,053; Purchased Policies, $52,394.54; Surplus, $83,183 40, and Annuities, $8 679 90. The claims by death were exceptionally light, being $51,404 less than last year, and only 41 per cent. of the amount expected.

THE EXPENSES AND TAXES were $300,807, being 17.4 per cent. of total income, or about 1 per cent. less than in 1903.

ASSETS.—The cash assets are $7,794,098 35, and the total assets $8,220,530.45, showing gains of $905,450.05, and $937,372.05 respectively. The funds are being invested in the same classes of securities as heretofore, principally in Mortgage loans on farm and city properties, Bonds and Municipal Debentures. The latter are taken into account at their book value or cost, which is considerably below their market value. The demand for money was active during the year, at better rates than for some years past, resulting in a slight advance in the rate of interest earned, viz., 5.09 per cent. Payments on mortgages for interest and instalments of principal were well met. The interest and rents overdue at the close of the year were but a small portion of the receipts, being only $13,740.19, most of which has since been paid.

LIABILITIES.—The liabilities were again computed on the Combined Experienced Table with 4 per cent. interest for all business up to January 1st, 1900. From that date to January 1st, 1903, on the Institute of Actuaries' Table with 3½ per cent., and thereafter on the same Table with 3 per cent.

SURPLUS.—After making provision for all liabilities the surplus on our own standard is $772,072 87, being an increase of $160,920.20 over 1903, and this after distributing amongst Policyholders $83,183.40. On the Government standard of reserves, namely, 4½ per cent. for business to January 1st, 1900, and 3½ per cent. thereafter, our Surplus is $1,049,400.71. The earnings for the year were $254,103.60.

On behalf of the Board. ROBERT MELVIN, President.

The various reports having been adopted, the retiring directors, Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, A. Hoskin, Esq., K.C., Hon. Mr. Justice Garrow and E. P. Clement, Esq., K.C., were unanimously re-elected. After a number of able and thoughtful addresses had been made by members of the board, prominent Policyholders, the Manager, the agents and others, the meeting adjourned.

The directors met subsequently and re-elected Mr. Robert Melvin President; Mr. Alfred Hoskin, K.C., First Vice-President, and Hon. Mr. Justice Britton, Second Vice-President of the Company for the ensuing year.

(Booklets containing full report, comprising lists of death and endowment claims paid, of securities held, and other interesting and instructive particulars are being issued and will in due course be distributed among policyholders and intending insurants.)

Waterloo, March 2, 1905. W. H. RIDDELL, Secretary.

Burrows, of Belleville, General Agent for This District.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

Noonday Lenten addresses for men in Y.M.C.A. parlor, at 12 o'clock, sharp, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, for 15 minutes only:

March 13—Rev. A. H. Drumm, "Hunting for a Man."

March 15—Rev. Geo. Brown, "Sins of the Tongue."

March 17—Rev. Wm. B. Heeney, B.A., "Christ."

March 20.—Rev. O. C. Elliott, "Sin-bearing Christ."

March 22—Rev. Rural Dean Beamish, M.A., "Fasting."

March 24—Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., "Derived Power."

March 27—Rev. A. M. Hubly, "A Sympathetic Christ."

March 29—Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, B.A., "Christward Ho!"

March 31—Rev. R. H. Leitch, "A Manly Prayer."

April 3—Rev. Canon Bogert, M.A., "Baptism."

April 5 — Rev. O. C. Elliott, "Prayer."

April 7—Rev. Geo. Brown, "The Sabbath a Holy Day, not a Holiday."

April 10—Rev. Canon Bogert, M.A., "Confirmation."

April 12—Rev. Rural Dean Beamish, M.A., "Almsgiving."

April 14—Rev. A. M. Hubly, "The Manliness of Christ."

April 17—Rev. R. H. Leitch, "A Manly Life."

Sandy's Initiation.

A Scottish gillie was invited by the laird to take a pull at his flask after gaffing the first fish of the day.

"I canna trink oot a bottle," protested the gillie, with a frown of disapproval.

"Aweel, try, Sandy," said the laird encouragingly. And Sandy tried—tried so thoroughly that the laird gazed in mingled awe and admiration as the whisky gurgled and gurgled out of the flask down the swarthy throat until, with scarce a heel tap left in it, the "pocket pistol" was handed back to the owner.

"Hoot, Sandy, maybe ye were richt; maybe ye canna trink oot of a bottle," gasped the laird, with a mighty sigh, "but, eh, mon, ye'd soon learn!"—Baily's Magazine.

Benefits of Proper Breathing.

The habit of slow, measured, deep breathing that covers the entire lung surface is of more value and importance than you will ever believe until you have tried it, and when you have established the habit of breathing in this manner you will say some remarkable things in its favor. It will reach all points of your physical system. All the benefits that occur from a healthy condition of the blood will in a greater or less degree be yours, for the manner and completeness with which the inspired air comes in contact with the blood in the lungs are of the utmost importance to every vital process.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

Hissing In the Theater.

Formerly there was no hissing in the theater. The benevolent audience were content to yawn and fall asleep. The invention of hissing is no older than 1680 and took place at the first representation of "Aspar," a tragedy of Fontenelle, so we are told by the poet Roi in his "Brevet de la Calotte." A farce was produced in Bannister's time under the title of "Fire and Water." "I predict its fate," said Bannister. "What fate?" whispered the anxious author at his side. "What fate?" said Bannister. "Why, what can fire and water produce but a hiss?"

In Light Distress.

A new term was heard the other day. An old lady and her two daughters came into a millinery store. The young women wore mourning hats. The old woman said to the clerk: "I want a mourning hat, for I am in mourning. But my datter here," indicating, "is a widder of two years' standing, and she is in light distress. Give her a hat with blue feathers on it."

Schoolboy Humor.

Etc. is a sign used to make believe you know more than you do.

The equator is a menagerie lion running around the center of the earth.

The zebra is like a horse, only striped and used to illustrate the letter Z.

A vacuum is nothing shut up in a box. — Definitions by London School Children.

That Was Different.

Mrs. Tittle—What a beautiful world it must have been when there were only Adam and Eve in it! There was nobody to say nasty things about them. Mrs. Tattle—But, then, they had nobody to talk about. Mrs. Tittle—Well, I guess, after all, the world has improved since their time.

SICK AT YOUR STOMACH.

Perhaps feeling as if the bottom had dropped out of your life. It's Nerviline you want. Nothing restores quiet and order to the stomach so quickly. All squeamishness and nausea goes away the minute you take Nerviline and an extra dose or two is always sufficient to set you up in first-class shape. Nerviline is an old tested remedy for stomach and bowel troubles and always can be relied on. Sold in large 25c. bottles.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firmer—American Markets Are Only Steady.

London, March 10.—Live cattle are quoted at 10¾c to 12¼c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8c to 8¾c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market were next to nothing, only three carloads via C.P.R., composed of 5 cattle, 120 hogs, 4 sheep and 20 horses.

Prices were unchanged in all classes, with the exception of hogs, which were 10c per cwt. higher.

Mr. Harris reports the select hogs at $5.85; fats at $5.60, and lights $5.35 per cwt. The market is firm at these quotations.

Receipts of hogs have increased materially, more hogs having been received this week than in any other since the inception of the market.

Mr. Kennedy reports having paid $5.75 to $5.85 for selects and $5.50 for lights and fats, on Thursday and Friday.

TO KNOCK OUT COLDS

And cure them in an hour without resorting to nauseous drugs, just use fragrant, healing Catarrhozone—the most pleasant, prompt and certain cure for colds ever discovered. No medicine to take, you simply breathe the balsamic vapor of Catarrhozone. It never fails to root out the worst colds and is so simple and convenient to use that no one can afford to be without it. Carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you won't have colds. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c.

FREE TO CHURCH BAZAARS
AND ENTERTAINMENTS IN AID OF CHARITY INSTITUTIONS

A quantity of saleable sample packages of....

Red Rose Tea

will be sent by Express, charges prepaid, to any church or Society for sale at a Bazaar or Entertainment, to be held in aid of a Church or Charitable Institution.

The application must be sent in or endorsed by a Clergyman who will state what Church he is in charge of.

This offer is made for the purpose of introducing Red Rose Tea to people who are likely to appreciate its superior quality, and at the same time aid in a material way very worthy objects.

T. H. ESTABROOKS, St. John, N. B
BRANCHES: TORONTO, WINNIPEG.

BABY'S DEFENCE

For Soft, White, Fragrant Skin, Use BABY'S OWN SOAP

No other Soap is just as good.

ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. MONTREAL.

THE MASTER MECHANIC'S PURE TAR SOAP heals and softens the skin, while promptly cleansing it of grease, oil, rust, etc. Invaluable for mechanics, farmers, sportsmen. Free Sample on receipt of 2c for postage. Albert Toilet Soap Co., Mfrs. Montreal.

ROYAL PLATING AGENCY

over Lewis' Hardware Store

Bring us your Knives, Forks and Spoons.

Plating done at very low rates

Youth and Freshness

Is the feeling one has after taking a box or two of

WATERS'
RED IRON BLOOD
PILLS.

None better as a TONIC and BUILDER.
25c box—5 boxes $1.00.

WATERS

BANK OF MONTREAL

ESTABLISHED 1817.

CAPITAL AND REST (All Paid Up)

$24,000,000
(Twenty-four Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch.

A Distinctive Home!

Isn't that what you want?

You can have it. No matter how much or how little you spend on its decorations. Come to us we will tell you how.

You will find our ideas practical as well as artistic.

John Cornelius
Painting, Graining.
ART DECORATING.
397 Front St.

Ostermoor

$15.00 $15.00

We are headquarters for the celebrated Ostermoor Felt Mattress.

We carry a large stock of Mattresses, all our own make, and guaranteed to be the best on the market for the money. Give us a call.

B. E. SILLS,
J. G. Frost's Old Stand.
Furniture. UNDERTAKING.

A man's idea of a silly woman is one who laughs at some other fellow's jokes.

ONE YEAR AGO

We sold every roll of wall paper we had in stock to a firm in Guelph, having decided to give up this branch of the business. Since that time we have had so many enquiries for Paper it has encouraged us to take up the line again, and we now have a

BRAND NEW STOCK,

Every roll made for the spring of 1905. We have thousands of rolls of beautiful designs and colorings, and just a little the best values you have ever seen offered in Belleville. We will be pleased to show them to you at your convenience.

T. P. BROWN'S
Carpet, Curtain & Wall Paper Store.
Picture Framing done correctly.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

PURE AND WHOLESOME.
ONE POUND CAN 25c

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
TORONTO, ONT.

HOTEL TOURAINE

Delaware Ave. & Johnson Park
BUFFALO, N. Y.

A modern, high-class and convenient stopping place, offering every accommodation for the comfort and pleasure of transient guests. Moderate prices.

Harry C. Griswold, Proprietor.

WALTER ALFORD
ARCHITECT.
Contractor, &c.

PLANING MILL—Dressed and Matched Lumber on hand

Market Square.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No.—12.45 a.m., Mail train, daily except Sunday.

No. 2—1.39 a.m., Fast train (Flyer), daily.

No. 16.—Local for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.

No. 6.—11.29 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 4.—12.03 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 12.—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West,

No. 5.—2.47 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.

No. 3.—4.02 a.m., Limited Express, daily.

No. 9.—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 11.—11.13 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 1.—1.40 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 7.—5.02 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	3.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Ballev[illegible] Madoc

Mixed [illegible]

Mixed [illegible]

Mixed [illegible]

None o[illegible]

Sunday.

[illegible] had so many
[illegible]thers consult us
[illegible]ht who were not
[illegible] the sight of one
[illegible]ch worse than the [illegible]ases they had been studying and close
[illegible]eye. As such cases
[illegible] attention we would
[illegible]e who may have rea-
[illegible]hey have any trouble
[illegible]t to try reading with [illegible]ately, covering the [illegible]s and teachers might children. — Alex Ray, [illegible]list.
d&w

The ro[illegible] is full o[illegible]
The fo[illegible]
morrow

Preliminary Showing of

NEW SPRING CLOTHES

WE take pleasure in informing you that the advance guard of the Spring 1905 Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats for men and young men has arrived. A comprehensive gathering of the correct, up-to date fashions of W. R. Johnston & Co. and other reliable makes may be seen.

Men's and Young Men's Spring Suits	—$6.00 to $18
Men's and Young Men's Top Coats	— 6.50 to 13
Men's and Young Men's Raincoats	— 6.00 to 15

NEW SPRING HATS AND FURNISHINGS

Are also arriving and being shown daily. The new shapes in Soft and Stiff Hats, the new Spring Shirts and a full line of Neckwear and Hosiery in the latest effects are already to be seen.

All Winter Suits and Overcoats

For Men and Young Men are being closed out at a fraction of their worth.

All our finest Overcoats, all Storm Coats and Ulsters, all Fur and Fur-lined Overcoats at prices to make it worth while to buy for next winter.

Big price reductions on all that's left of our Men's Trousers, Gloves and Caps—Come and see.

Quick & Robertson

BELLEVILLE'S BEST CLOTHIERS AND HATTERS.

Shirts-To-Order

New Spring Shirtings have just arrived and we can give you ABSOLUTE RELIABILITY of style and QUALITY GUARANTEED.

These Shirts are made to fit—wear and as well as the best shirt makers in Canada know how.

We always lead in High-Class Furnishings.

Chas. J Symons

successor to W. B. Deacon.

Shirts Made to Order. 298 Front St.

SPICE
SOUP
TEA
FLOUR
$
EGGS

ONE DOLLAR

buys more Groceries at our store than anywhere else in town. Special prices in Canned Goods, crisp Crackers in packages or by the pound, fine Flour and Granulated Sugar.

THE EXTRA GOOD QUALITY of everything we sell makes these special prices a matter of importance to every careful buyer.

W. R. CARNRITE.

New arrival of fresh Dairy Butter at 25c lb.

The Toggery Shop

SPRING NECKWEAR— We have just received a shipment of pretty Neckwear, consisting of Ascots, Puffs and 4-in-Hands.

You will find them very stylish and the quality is A1.

If you have a spare moment drop into the new shop and see them for yourself! See window display. Price 50c.

J. J. McGUINNESS, Men's Furnisher.

Fine Neckwear a Specialty.

Public Notice

Applications for license to sell liquor in the West Riding of Hastings during the license year 1905-06 must be lodged with the Inspector at his office on Front street, in the City of Belleville, on or before the first day of April.

Blank forms for application and all necessary information can be had at my office.

JAMES ST. CHARLES,
Inspector.

Belleville, March 8, 1905.

8-11-15

BOO DING.

bookbinding should he Intelligencer Of- surprising how nice can be made of these ines, even though they somewhat soiled from much dling. Books, magazines or eriodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling. made to order. All work warranted first-class.

CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.
S. E. Carman, Manager.

TUESDAY, MAR. 14

E. H. SOTHERN'S greatest success, H. C. DeMille's and David Belasco's delightful comedy . . .

Lord Chumley

With Cecil DeMille supported by an exceptionally capable company.

340 Nights in New York, 250 Nights in Boston. 200 Nigts in Chicago.

—Management Mrs. H. C. DeMille.—

Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1 00

Plan Opens Saturday Morning.

THINKS TIME IS COMING.

WHEN COMMUNICATION WITH OTHER WORLD WILL BE EASY.

Chicago, March 16.—"As a Christian and a believer in the Bible, I must believe in communication between the two worlds—that in which we live and that to which our friends have gone."

Bishop Samuel Fallows, of the Reformed Episcopal diocese of Chicago, made this statement.

"But," he went on, "I have a profound distrust of the mediums who are pretending to be able to call up spirits at will.

"I believe in apparitions, however, and think it possible that there are persons possessed of a certain mysterious psychic power which enables them to make of their spirits a channel, as it were, through which the earth-bound spirit can communicate with the freed from the other side.

"We are still in a state of groping. I believe the time will come, with the further development of those psychic powers of which we are just beginning to get an inkling, when communication with the other world will be very easy."

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy.

The great success of this preparation in the relief and cure of bowel complaints has brought it into almost universal use. It never fails, and when reduced with water and sweetened is pleasant to take. It is equally valuable for children and adults. For sale by all druggists.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

A TALENTED FAMILY.

In "Lord Chumley," which will be presented by Mrs. H. C. De Mille at the Carman next Tuesday, we see the artistic temperament running through three members of one family. The play, which was the joint product of H. C. De Mille and David Belasco, is recognized throughout the English-speaking world as one of the happiest comedies ever written. What a combination! Author, the father; manager, the mother, with their son Cecil in the title role. 'Tis a pity the father could not have lived to see his son's triumph. The great comedy should attract a large audience in this city.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont.

f18,25,m4,11,18,25,a1

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

Prince Edward Council is to raise $16,000 for an industrial farm and a house of industry and refuge.

Sunday evening lectures on prophecy. The things which are and the things which are to come. The future of this world and coming judgments as revealed in Scripture, Bethel Hall, Sunday at 7. All invited.

The Government party which is surveying the route for the Trent Valley Canal between Rice Lake and Trenton arrived here on Monday. There are seven in the party and they will first sound Rice Lake to get the depths, after which they will come down as far as Hastings. Owing to the lake being frozen over at present the work will be easily accomplished. —Hastings Star.

An amalgamation has been arranged between the Belleville firms of Brock & Sine and Miss Yates. The new business will be known as the Belleville Corset Co., and will be carried on in the Asselstine Block on Victoria avenue, where the partners will be glad to see all their old customers. 9,11

The post office at Roblin's Mills has received a higher grading. It is now classed as a money order office. A new mail route is proposed and petitioned for, that is a daily mail from there to Melville and Allisonville.

Great preparations are being made for the grand concert to be held on St. Patrick's night in the opera house. In addition to an address by the Rev. Father Twomey, the very best talent has been secured.

Important. — Parties wishing to sell vacant lots — dwellings for removal — rent or sell residence,—or rent or purchase lot with cottage and barn, address at once — Rev. F. B. Stratton, 665 Princess St., Kingston. 11-2t

A serious accident befel James Francis, of Cherry Valley, while cutting down a tree in the woods. The tree went back across the stump and caught him, dragging him into the snow and ice, breaking the shin bone in two places also crushing the ankle joint.

Mr P. Kirkegaard returned on Friday from a trip to England on business in connection with Deloro and Belmont Mines, the reopening of which is expected in the near future.

Militia orders announce that the entire military force will be trained this year. The Kingston camp will open on June 27th.

When travelling by land or sea buy your tickets from S. Burrows, C.P.R. and general ticket agent, Belleville.

Rev. A. H. Drumm and Rev. R. S. Laidlaw will exchange pulpits on Sunday morning.

The Town of Napanee will submit a by-law to grant W. A. Carson, of Belleville, the sum of $75 a year for a period of ten years, to establish a canning factory in that town. The by-law will require a two-third vote of the ratepayers.

A present is not without honor save in your own family.

Gifts show which way the wind blows.

Board of Education.

BRIEF SESSION LAST NIGHT — GOOD REPORT RE HIGH SCHOOL.

A regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening, at which the following members were in attendance: Messrs. J. F. Wills, Chairman; J. H. Anderson, G. A. Bennett, W. A. Carson, W. Johnson, H. Naylor, F. E. O'Flynn, W. C. Reid, A. A. Roberts, W. Tennent, H. Walker, L. P. Hughes, H. Taylor and A. E. Lewis.

The session was brief, lasting less than half an hour.

Communications, Etc.

A report was read from Mr. Wm. McKeown, supernumerary teacher, showing the days he had taught for the month of February.

From Mr. W. C. Mikel, City Clerk, asking the Board to submit the estimates for the year to the Council as soon as possible, as they desired to prepare the estimates of the city at an early date.

A report was read from Mr. Hodgson, Inspector of Schools, detailing his inspection of the High School, which he made on the 15th and 16th of February. The report in substance was as follows: The Inspector says the school continues to be excellently administered, the system of regular reports to parents showing the relative standing and progress of the pupils, being worthy of special commendation. The school is as well organized as the congested attendance will permit. "In grading the character of the teaching," the Inspector says, "I have confined myself almost wholly to the skill of the teachers in presenting the various subjects. Had I taken into consideration the great size of most of the classes in the lower and middle school the grading in almost all departments would have been at least one degree below. An addition to the staff is imperatively needed, and when the proposed addition makes it possible the commercial side of the school course should be strengthened by the introduction of stenography. The school premises are in a good condition." The report shows the staff to be legally qualified, the discipline excellent, the attendance regular, the text books in accord with the regulations, and the registers properly kept. The character of the pupils' work in regard to bookkeeping sets was very good, work in art excellent, and note books in science satisfactory. In English history, classics, art, mathematics, French and German, reading, science and commercial bookkeeping the work was good.

Reports.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of the following accounts:

E. B. Rowe	$2.58
J. Caseley	7.00
C. Kiser	4.20
O. Kiser	1.80
P. Diery	1.80
W. A. Kemp	75
E. B. Rowe	4.20
J. Richards	6.00
Mail and Empire	1.82

On motion the Board went into committee of the whole on reports, Mr. Roberts in the chair.

The various items of expenditure recommended by the Finance Committee were passed without discussion.

Motions.

Mr. Bennett moved, seconded by Mr. Anderson, that the salary of the caretaker of Grier street school be increased by $1 per month, commencing at the 1st of March. The mover said that the increase would only bring the salary up to $7 per month.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Taylor moved, seconded by Mr. Roberts, that the salary of Mrs. Ruttan as caretaker of the Canifton road school be increased 50 cts. per month, making the salary $6 per month.—Carried.

Board adjourned.

A DELIGHTFUL CONCERT.

WAS THAT HELD AT ALBERT COLLEGE LAST NIGHT—WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

Last night a very pleasing concert was held in Albert College for the purpose of defraying the expenses in connection with the college skating rink. The elocution, musical and physical culture departments united in making it a success. The large number who attended is evidence of the public appreciation of Albert College entertainments. Rev. W. P. Dyer, M.A., D.D, occupied the chair and made an appropriate opening address.

The first number, a reading, "How Deacon Tubman and Parson Whitney kept Christmas," called forth much applause. Prof. D. A. Cameron sang two songs, (a) "Myself when Young," from "A Persian Garden," and (b) "King Charles," in his usual able manner. Messrs. Lovering and Buckingham gave a dramatic reading, "Quarrel Between Brutus and Cassius," with effect. The violin solo by Miss Carrie Elsmore was well received. Miss Alice Storry's rendering of the elocution selections, "The Dead Pussy Cat" and "The Skaters' Song," with musical accompaniment, carried the audience from the verge of tears to the mountain-top of rejoicing. The pantomime, composed of a song by Miss Deborah Caldwell, "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night," and posing by Misses Anderson, N. VanDewater, F. Webster, Ketcheson and Metzler was impressive and thoroughly enjoyed by the spectators. Miss Myra Brereton's reading, "The Pickwickians on Ice," was exceedingly well given. The Wand Twists by Misses S. Wiggins, Pettingill, Hunter, McQuay and Woods were skilfully executed. The scene, "The Silent System," by Miss Jennie Bonisteel and Mr. J. E. Lovering caused much merriment. The statue poses by Misses L. McConnell, Drinkwater and Brereton, were much amired. Mr. J. S. Dyer's rendering of the song, "The Palms," met with much applause. In the last number Miss Trotter, in her reading, "The Return of Imray," by Kipling, carried the audience in imagination to India and gave them a rare taste of Indian life and adventure. The programme concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

THE "SWISS FOOD" WAY.

The "Swiss Food" way of being strong and healthy is being successfully followed by thousands. Large packages 15c.

A good 'leven raises much dough for its alma mater.

Sports and Pastimes

CANADIAN HORSE SHOW.

A Gala Easter Week for Toronto's Great Event.

The prize list of the Canadian Horse Show has been increased every year until it now amounts close on to the sum of $7000 in cash and cups, which are distributed for the benefit of this most important agricultural industry. The 11th annual Canadian Horse Show will be held in Toronto on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th. This is Easter week, and Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Countess of Grey have selected this period for their first visit to Toronto, and will preside over the opening of the Horse Show. Reduced railway rates will be made, return tickets being sold at single fare on the opening day and a fare and a third on the other days, all tickets good to return until the Monday after the show. Entries close on April 12th with the Secretary, Henry Wade, Parliament Buildings. Information in regard to boxes, etc., can be obtained from the Manager, Stewart Houston, Toronto.

FOOTBALL.

George Ade Makes Some Suggestions Which Might Improve the Game.

George Ade has come to the assistance of the rules committee on Uncle Sam's college football with some suggestions that conform, in part, to the ideas of President Elliott. The ladylike code is as follows:

Selection of players. — The players shall be selected by the faculty and the student who has received the highest grade in Greek anathology shall be captain. No student shall be eligible unless he has an established reputation for piety.

Weather—In case of rain, snow, high wind or extreme heat, a contest may be postponed or transferred to a classroom.

Preliminaries — When a team appears on the field of contest it shall be greeted with the Chautauqua salute, which consists of waving the handkerchief. After this a few minutes of social intercourse shall follow, with friendly chats concerning books and writers.

The toss—Instead of tossing a coin to decide which team gets the ball, the two captains shall be called upon to extract the cube root of a number given by the professor of mathematics.

Advancing the ball—The ball having been put in the centre of the field, the umpire, who must be a professor of geology, exhibits to the team having the ball a specimen of a fossil. All members of the team who think they can name the geographical period to which it belongs hold up their hands. Any player may be chosen, and if he answers correctly his side gets two yards. If he also knows the scientific name of the fossil he can take five yards more.

Penalties—Any player who makes a grammatical error, mispronounces a word or seeks assistance from a fellow-player, shall be deemed guilty of an offside play, and his side shall be penalized five yards.

Resuming play—On resuming play after a touchdown, one of the players known as "it" is blindfolded, and the other players join hands and circle round him, singing:

London bridge is falling down,
Falling down, falling down,
London bridge is falling down,
So farewell, my ladies.

While the players are circling around the player known as "it" touches one of the players in a gentlemanly manner and asks him three questions, which must be answered. Then he tries to guess the names of the players. If he succeeds he advances the ball five yards.

Conduct—No pushing, scuffling or boisterous conversation will be permitted. Both players and spectators must maintain absolute silence during the mental tests.

HOCKEY.

Ottawa is Greatly Excited.

Ottawa, March 10.—All Ottawa is in a furore of excitement over the great game on Saturday night, to decide the ownership of the Stanley Cup, between the champion Ottawas and the challenging Rat Portage team. Each with a victory to its credit, everything depends on Saturday night, and the greatest hockey battle ever seen in Ottawa will be the result.

There is a great deal of contention on both sides over the question of supremacy. Ottawa claims that the presence of the full team in the second match—McGee and Gilmour were off in the first—was what defeated Rat Portage, and the result of Thursday night's game is conclusive proof that the champions are the better team. On the other hand, it is Rat Portage's contention that the soft ice lost the game for them, the team not being able to use its wonderful speed to any extent. The prospect is for much harder ice tomorrow night, so that there will not likely be any ground for complaint on this score. While the poor ice was undoubtedly a factor in preventing Rat Portage from showing up to the extent they should have in speed, it is also a fact that Ottawa suffered in the beautiful combination for which the line is noted through the slowness of the puck. It is therefore a toss-up as to which suffered the more from conditions.

In the first half to-morrow night the judge of the play will assist the referee, according to Western rule, and in the second half only the referee will have charge, the Eastern style.

Every seat for the rink was sold out at 9 o'clock this morning, and fully a thousand people were disappointed in not being able to secure accommodation.

SPORTING NOTES.

A sporting enthusiast of this city who saw the Stanley Cup game in Ottawa on Thursday night tells a vivid tale: "I thought our bunch here last winter could rough it up a bit once in a while," he said, "but say, I never dreamt of such doings as I saw in Ottawa. It's a wonder to me that some of the players were not killed." According to our informant, the gentle Ottawa men would swipe their opponents with their sticks every time they got near them, and every one of the Rats was bleeding from being jabbed in the face with the butt end of a stick. Little Geroux, the Portage goal tender, stood in front of the nets with blood streaming from his face for several minutes, but he would not give up. Griffis, of Rat Portage, was deliberately crosschecked across the face twice by a big Ottawa man, and his usefulness considerably curtailed, and, in short, the Ottawa players, according to our informant, lost no opportunity to jab, swipe and "sandwich" their opponents at every opportunity. And the Western men were game to the core. They wiped the blood from their faces and wired in as hard as ever, but the soft ice and their sharp skates beat them. The employees of the rink, it is alleged, flooded the ice about an hour before the game began. The weather was mild, and there was no chance for the water to freeze, the result being that the ice surface was a pond, the swift Western lads could not use their speed, and the Ottawas "got to them" in deadly shape with stick and body. Our local informant thinks that Rat Portage can play the best hockey on hard ice, but they were up against a desperate proposition on Thursday night. The sympathy of all fair-minded people appears to be with the game Western lads. The change in the weather last night was hailed with delight, for it showed that there was a probability of hard ice to-night. But it isn't safe to bet on such an eventuality. The same fellows who flooded the rink on Thursday night may build bonfires on the ice to-night. Here's luck to the "Rats," anyhow.

Amos Rusie, considered by some baseball sharps to be the best pitcher that ever stood before a batsman, is working in an Indianapolis lumber yard, loading planks on drays for $1.50 a day. Since his retirement from baseball several years ago Rusie has earned a living at digging ditches and driving trucks. He has lost all of the magnificent physique that made him a diamond hero years ago, and has given up all hope of bettering himself.

A syndicate in Ottawa has wagered $5000 that the Stanley Cup will go west after to-night's match.

Berlin and Victoria Harbor played a tie game last night, and the latter, having the advantage of three goals on the round, win the O.H.A. intermediate championship.

GEN. KUROPATKIN HAS LOST HIS NERVE

NINE HUNDRED RUSSIAN OFFICERS SIGN ROUND ROBIN DEMANDING THAT HOSTILITIES BE CONCLUDED.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

St. Petersburg, March 11. — Gen. Nadaroff has been nominated by the War Office as commander of the rear guard of the Manchurian army.

Every effort is being made by the officials to conceal the enormity of the Russian disaster from the people.

Bitter comments are passed on Kuropatkin's generalship.

The critics declare that he has lost his nerve entirely, and that if he remains in command of the army Russia cannot hope for anything more than a series of unsuccessful defensive operations.

Private advices received here from the front state that nine hundred officers of the Manchurian army have signed a round robin addressed to Gen. Kuropatkin, demanding the conclusion of hostilities owing to the menace of a famine.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

THOSE FOR EAST HASTINGS AND PRINCE EDWARD HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Toronto, March 11. — The Ontario Gazette to-day announces the appointment of License Commissioners, among others, as follows:

East Hastings — Samuel Moutt, Geo. Brown, William Clark.

Prince Edward — Robert Edward Wright, Benjamin Hazelton Palmater, William Henry Gough.

In the Justice Shop.

ALLEGED FRAUD.

A young man named Albert Wellman, of Huntingdon, was before the Magistrate this morning. The accused is charged with obtaining from Mr. W. R. Mitts a threshing machine engine under false misrepresentations, by giving a note in payment for same, and the note, it is alleged, cannot be collected upon, as Wellman is under age. It is also alleged that he made other misrepresentations.

The case was not concluded when we went to press. Mr. O'Flynn appeared for the private prosecutor and Mr. Carnew the accused.

A Month for Awilda.

Awilda Babcock, who, it will be remembered, was arrested here a few days ago and skipped out instead of appearing before the Magistrate, is again in trouble. She was arrested in Trenton and fined $10 or a month in jail on the charge of vagrancy. She is at present in jail.

A Treat for the Pupils

The High School pupils had a treat yesterday afternoon which they thoroughly enjoyed. Colonel Ponton gave a "chalk talk" on Latin, which will give them all a zest for that ancient language. The three'quarters of an hour did not seem more than a quarter, so interesting was the subject made. The so-called "dead" language proved a living one, so ably was it presented.

RUPTURE

Gentlemen :—

Hearing that you would like to know how I get on with the trust I got from you I would say it suits me in every respect, keeping the rupture in place at all times and in all positions. In my time I have tried many forms of trusses, but none equal yours. I am in my 84th year and been ruptured for over 40 years on the left side and about 10 years on the right side. I would strongly and heartily recommend your means of retaining rupture in preference to any I have ever seen or heard of.

Yours Respectfully,
(Sgd.) Barnard Smith,
Walter Falls, Ont.

AUTHORS & COX.
135 CHURCH ST., TORONTO.
Established 1860.
44 years Practical Experience.

COLD CURE

GET IT TO-DAY Price 25c Relieves the head, throat, and lungs almost immediately.

I WILL REFUND YOUR MONEY IF IT FAILS.
MUNYON, Philadelphia.

NINETY-SIX JURYMEN, ONE HUNDRED WITNESSES

COURT ROOM WILL BE PRETTY WELL FILLED WHEN BALLOT-BOX CASES OPEN.

The Spring Assizes will open here on Tuesday next and will no doubt prove to be the most interesting court ever held in this city. The bogus ballot-box cases will be tried, and several other matters of importance will be disposed of. Mr. Justice McMahon will preside and Mr. Hellmuth, K.C., of Toronto, will be the prosecuting attorney.

THE GRAND JURY.

The Grand Jury will be as follows:
W. G. Wright, Tyendinaga.
R. McTaggart, Tyendinaga.
A. Brennan, Tyendinaga.
J. G. Allison, Tyendinaga.
J. M. Bird, Stirling.
G. B. Hagerman, Rawdon.
S. Green, Rawdon.
F. G. B. Allen, Deseronto.
F. D. Alport, Frankford.
A. E. Lewis, Belleville.
W. A. Denyes, Thurlow.
T. Hurley, Thurlow.
P. Doran, Hungerford.

Owing to the right of those charged in the bogus ballot-box cases to challenge a number of jurymen, the Attorney-General has directed the Sheriff, through a precept, to empanel an extra number of jurymen, and 96 have been summoned to attend the court. Upwards of one hundred witnesses have also been subpoenaed, so that the court-room will be pretty well filled with witnesses and jurymen.

Outside of the ballot-box cases, the only criminal case at present known is that of Onslaw Wynn, who is charged with stabbing and threatening to kill.

A number of civil cases are also entered for trial.

PROF. SHORTT'S LECTURE.

"THE TEXTURE OF MODERN SOCIETY," A MOST ENTERTAINING SUBJECT

Professor Adam Shortt, of Queen's University, delivered a most thoughtful and philosophical lecture on the constituent elements of the various organizations which together form the life of the State, to a large and appreciative audience, in St. Agnes' School Hall last night. The learned lecturer lived up to his continental reputation in his clear and lucid exposition of what in other hands might have been a deep and dry subject. He showed how, as it were, Society was at the base of the human race, to whom alone was given speech and reasoning power. Social organization is absolutely essential to the individual. It is not a mere abstraction: it is a fact. In a democracy there is an infinite capacity for development, but the ultimate result of individual work depends to a great extent upon environment and surrounding influences. In our own Democracy we are ruled by a smaller number of men than in the case of countries where there is almost a despotism. We have our rights, and often, through possession, fail to recognize their value.

The speaker's remarks upon the party system of government, upon the real independents, and upon those others whose minds are so open to conviction upon public questions that it only requires a small payment to convict them, were full of knowledge of human nature, and of irony at the expense of an imaginary constituency "away down east."

The Legislatures now occupy themselves chiefly with bills which the public hand up to be passed. This is the era of great corporations and of great commercial societies. The politician does not so much lead as follow. He must keep his ear to the ground, to gauge the trend of public opinion. Law too is changed, and instead of dealing chiefly with assaults and batteries and wrongs, it now deals with test cases, equity, and constitutional questions. The lecturer urged all to use to the best advantage all the great potentialities of citizenship which we enjoy.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed on motion of Mr. Thomas Ritchie, and responded to by the lecturer. The Chairman, Colonel Ponton, as President of the Graduates' Club, on behalf of the audience, paid a graceful tribute to Mr. J. T. Luton, M.A., who for four years has been Secretary-Treasurer of the Graduates' Club, to which Mr. Luton felicitously responded, and incidentally said farewell. He leaves Belleville on March 17th.

Miss Mary Ackerill, delighted the audience with an Irish song, and Mrs. MacColl's orchestra opened and closed the evening with instrumental selections which added very much to the enjoyment of all present. Mrs. Mrs. MacColl and her able co-adjutors are doing a good public service, both in the line of musical education, and in their willingness to add to the pleasures of residential life in Belleville.

Mr. Thomas Ritchie entertained the lecturer and several other gentlemen informally, but most hospitably, and Professor Shortt spoke encouragingly of the formation of the Canadian Imperial Club.

TRY ONE AT A T

Of late we have had so many young people and others consult us about their eye sight who were not aware before that the sight of one eye was very much worse than the other. In many cases they had been doing all their studying and close work with one eye. As such cases need prompt attention we would suggest to those who may have reason to think they have any trouble with their sight to try reading with each eye separately, covering the other. Parents and teachers might try this with children. — Alex Ray, Optical Specialist.

d&w

Daily Intelligencer

More of Those Chewing Chocolate Caramels..

JUST MADE, 25c LB.

Chas. S. Clapp

Take the Elevator Please !

It is faster than walking up stairs.

McKeown's Calisaya Hypophosphites is an elevator from the basement of sickness to the top story of health.

Don't try the long way.

Do you want rosy checks? Do you want that reserved feeling of strength? Do you want to be vigorous as a young sapling?

Get this greatest of tonics.

It cures quickly.

McKeown's Drug Store

Burns 80% Air and 20% Gas.

Gives 300 Candle Power Light.

The Model Gas Lamp gives more light than any other 3 Lamps combined. Fills a large room with a pure white light making reading, writing and study a pleasure. Good for store, office or home. If not satisfactory after 24 hours trial, money refunded.

WM. McGIE,

Sole Agent for Belleville.

Tel 38. Front St.

Green, The Butcher,

has this day received a carload of Choice Heifers from the city of Toronto.

March 3, 1905.

There has always been something in Mr. Jakie Finkie's Candies

" All Their Own "

This peculiarity we still maintain.

The same material, the same method of manufacture, the same candy maker, they are just the same candies as of yore.

A delicious cream is that with fresh cut cocoanut in it. Try some.

The old time Boston Chewing Taffy is still here and all the other favorites you used to get.

Mrs. D. Bowler

SANTAL-MIDY

Standard remedy for Gleet, Gonorrhœa and Runnings IN 48 HOURS. Cures Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

MIDY

Royal Baking Powder

45 CENTS a pound can

AT ALL GROCERS

25 cents a half pound can

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar; is absolutely pure; has received the highest praise from all authorities on food at home and abroad; is used daily in millions of homes throughout the world.

Royal Baking Powder is the most economical thing in the kitchen.

Welland Man Killed.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 11.—Caught in the machinery of a steam shovel at Arcade, N. Y., late Thursday afternoon, John Tully, about 35 years old, of Welland, Ont., was fatally crushed. The unfortunate man died a few hours after the accident at Buffalo General Hospital. His right leg caught in the mechanism, and Tully was thrown violently to the floor. His body was slowly being dragged into the gearing, when workmen, attracted by the man's cries, shut off the power. It was some time before Tully was extricated. Then it was found that his leg had been horribly mangled.

Difficulty With Settlers.

Quebec, March 11.—The Canadian Forestry Association began its sixth annual convention here Thursday morning. Ontario was represented by Aubrey White, E. Stewart, Thomas Cowan, H. Wallis and Rev. Father Emery. Mr. White, who was in the chair, mentioned that the purpose of the Association was to preserve Canadian forests. He also alluded to the difficulty in keeping out pretending settlers from the swamp lands, which they wanted merely for the sake of the few hundred dollars the timber on them would bring.

Boer War Strain Over.

London, March 11.—The reduction of the bank rate to 2½ per cent., the lowest in seven years, is the subject of intense satisfaction, as expressed in most of the newspapers yesterday morning, as showing that the country at last is recovering from the strain imposed by the South African war. Such an indication of the soundness of the country's finances is expected to have a stimulating effect upon trade and investments.

Indians Are Wild Through Whiskey.

Vancouver, B. C., March 11.—Within the last few days whiskey in large quantities has been supplied to the Indians on the Naas River, Northern British Columbia, throwing them into a state of wild excitement, so that they have attempted the lives of some white people. It seems that the Indians have been supplied by means of the mail order system. They send for the liquor in the name of John Jones or James Smith.

FREE TRIAL BOTTLE.

To Prove what Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill will do—Your Name and Address on a Post Card will Bring it—Has Cured Thousands Already.

Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill has ushered in a new era in the treatment and cure of disease. Thousands who had given up hope have been restored to perfect health, and every cure seems to be perfect and permanent. Here is a case of dyspepsia:

"I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for many years. I have been treated by local doctors, and have taken nearly all the advertised remedies, with only temporary relief, but since using Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill I can eat anything the same as when a boy. My old-time vigor has returned, so that my spirits are buoyant and temper normal. I give all credit to Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill."—M. N. Dafoe, 29 Colborne Street, Toronto.

A month's treatment at your druggist's for 50c. A sample free by addressing The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada. 101

Recommended and sold by J. S. McKeown.

Two Cross-Petitions.

Toronto, March 11.—Hugh Kennedy, M. P. P. for Port Arthur and Rainy River, will enter a cross-petition against his opponent, Mr. W. A. Preston.

E. J. B. Pense, M. P. P. for Kingston, will also fight his election protest and will file a cross-petition against Mr. D. M. McIntyre.

Apoplexy Kills Farmer.

Brantford, March 11.—Charles Van-Horne, a farmer, residing in Burford Township, met a sudden death while driving home from this city yesterday afternoon. He was watering his horses at a hotel about three miles out in the country when he was stricken with apoplexy. Deceased was a widower, with a grown-up family.

Arrested for Murder.

Montreal, March 11.—At noon yesterday Detective Beaulieu, on the order of Detective McCaskill, arrested Wallace McRae on a charge of having murdered Percy Howard Sclater, for whom he was employed at Grande Anse. The arrest is the result of an interview Detective McCaskill had with Mrs. Sclater.

Lost One Arm.

Cornwall, March 11.—Peter Burnside of Matilda Township had his arm badly crushed the other day while felling a tree near his house. The arm had to be amputated.

Somalis Attack Town.

Mombasa, British East Africa, March 11.—It is reported that 9,000 Somalis have attacked the Town of Merka on the Benadir Coast, and have annihilated the inhabitants.

Three Killed by Explosion.

Johnstown, Pa., March 11.—As the result of a furnace explosion at the Cambria Steel Company's works yesterday, three men, foreigners, were killed.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Closes Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Friday Evening, March 10.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d higher than yesterday, and corn futures unchanged to ¼d higher.

At Chicago, May wheat closed ⅝c lower than yesterday, May corn ⅛c lower, and May oats unchanged.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London, March 10.—Closing—Wheat—On passage, buyers indifferent operators. Corn—On passage rather firmer. Flour—Spot quotations, Minneapolis patent, 31s.

London—Closing—Mark Lane Miller Market—Wheat—Foreign quiet, but steady; English quiet, but steady. Corn—American firm; Danubian nominally unchanged. Flour—American steady; English quiet.

Paris—Close—Wheat—Tone quiet; March 23f 20c, July and Aug. 23f 60c. Flour—Tone quiet; March 29f 25c, July and Aug. 30f 35c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

	May.	July.
New York	112⅝	97
Detroit	117	98½
Toledo	112½	97⅞
St. Louis	108⅝	87⅝
Duluth	109⅝	108
Minneapolis	110⅞	107⅝

TORONTO PRODUCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, white, bush	$1 00	to	....
Wheat, red, bush	1 00		....
Wheat, spring, bush	1 02		....
Wheat, goose, bush	0 90		0 92
Barley, bush	0 50		....
Oats, bush	0 48		....
Beans, bush	0 00		0 10
Rye, bush	0 75		....
Peas, bush	0 70		....
Buckwheat, bush	0 54		....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, March 10.—Wheat—Spot nominal. Futures steady; March nominal, May 6s 9⅝d, July 6s 10⅛d.

Corn—Spot steady; American mixed, new, 4s 3d; American mixed, old, 4s 11d. Futures quiet; March 4s 2⅝d, May 4s 4½d.

Bacon—Shoulders, square, easy, 28s 6d.

Hops—In London (Pacific coast), quiet, £6 to £6 15s.

Receipts of wheat during the past three days, 507,000 centals, including 19,000 American.

Receipts of American corn during the past three days, 175,400 centals. Weather fine.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, March 10.—Butter—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 4378.

Cheese—Strong, unchanged; receipts, 717.

Eggs—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 5000.

Why Smith's Triple Cure Cures Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

No treatment in the world cures dyspepsia and catarrh so thoroughly and completely as Smith's Triple Cure. The reason for such wonderful results is simple and obvious—because this grand triple cure system fully removes the usual cause of dyspepsia—the catarrh of the stomach. Smith's Triple Cure by its combined action on the blood, nerves and mucous membranes cures catarrh wherever located. It drives the poison out of the system and cleans the mucous membranes so completely that catarrh cannot exist or find lodgment.

Dyspepsia may start with a neglected cold in the head or a sore throat extending down into the stomach and setting up catarrh of the stomach. The catarrhal process may result from too rapid eating, overloading the stomach, using badly cooked food, and indulging too freely in ice drinks and stimulants. Smith's Triple Cure cures any case of this kind because it is a foe to catarrh. When you once recognize the fact that dyspepsia is usually caused by catarrh of the stomach, you can understand why Smith's Triple Cure is invariably successful in curing dyspepsia.

People who eat too fast, too much, and too often, who suffer with dyspepsia, heartburn, indigestion, palpitation and nervous weakness, should use Smith's Triple Cure which gives such sufferers quick and positive help—its use always leads to cures that are lasting. This grand treatment gives new vigor to the overworked and dyspeptic stomach. Begin its use at once. Ask your dealer for Smith's Triple Cure for Catarrh, Dyspepsia and the blood. A grand new system of four separate remedies, a full two weeks' treatment, curing catarrh in any part of the system, price only 50 cents, the greatest value for the money ever offered. If your druggist won't supply you send 25 two-cent stamps and we will send it postpaid and guarantee safe delivery. Address W. F. Smith Co., 185 St. James St., Montreal.

MAY CHARGE MURDER

John Adams and Stepdaughter Held on a Serious Charge.

Prisoners Are in Hamilton Jail—15-Year-Old Girl's Child Disappeared a Few Days After Its Birth—Police Uncovered the Body of a Child Friday Afternoon at Adam's Home—May Have Breathed.

Hamilton, March 11.—John Adams, a laborer, and Martha Adams, his 15-year-old step-daughter, were brought to the jail last night by Chief Twiss and Detective Miller on a very serious charge, which may be changed to murder.

Chief Twiss received information that the girl's child disappeared a few days after its birth. He asked Chief Smith for one of his best men, and Detective Miller was sent out to him yesterday morning.

Found Dead Child.

The two officers visited Adams' home yesterday afternoon, and after digging in the ground under the stable, uncovered the body of a child. The officers say they have information that the child breathed after it was born. The body was taken to a morgue, and an inquest will be held upon it this morning at Dundas.

The evidence brought out at the enquiry will determine the charge that will be laid against the two prisoners, who are now held on the charge of concealing the body. They were remanded for a week by the Magistrate in Dundas, and were brought to the jail here for safe-keeping.

MARTIN PAYS THE PENALTY.

Walks to Gallows and Makes an Assertion of Innocence—Previously Confessed Crime.

Toronto, March 11.—On August 3 last John Alexander Martin murdered a helpless nine-months-old babe. Yesterday he was hanged for the crime in Toronto Jail yard. Notwithstanding that only a few moments before the condemned man left his cell for the scaffold he confessed to the clergyman in attendance that he had drowned the infant, his last words on earth were: "Simply this, you are hanging an innocent man."

There were about twenty-five persons present. A few minutes after 8 the procession left the cell. Sheriff Mowat and Governor VanZant were followed by the Revs. Heathcote and Vipond, who recited passages from the Scriptures as they walked; then came Martin with his hands manacled behind him and a guard on either side. He walked firmly and gazed at the few spectators with somewhat of a defiant manner. After ascending the scaffold, two verses of a hymn were recited, and then commenced the Lord's Prayer, the clergymen turning their backs to the doomed man. In the meantime the executioner had strapped Martin's legs together and adjusted the black cap. Radcliffe was a bit nervous and rather slow in adjusting the noose. The clergymen were asked to stop the prayer. They began over again, and when the words "deliver us" were reached, Radcliffe pulled the lever. The rope twitched and vibrated for nearly a minute. Dr. Powell reported the man dead in nine minutes.

Martin was restless until 2 a.m., when he fell asleep. He was awakened at 6 and partook of a light breakfast. The clergymen arrived at 7 and held service in the cell. Martin was shaky, but a stimulant revived him.

Last Monday Martin wrote a letter to Mr. Hassard, his lawyer, confessing the crime, and giving his extreme poverty as the reason.

The execution was the twenty-fifth in the history of Toronto.

Drugged and Killed.

Fort Frances, March 11.—A lumberjack, by the name of John Frayland, was struck by the east train Thursday near Mine Centre and instantly killed. It is supposed that he had been drugged and robbed and left in the position in which the train struck him. He had been working for H. H. Wood and was a Swede by birth. It is likely that an inquest will be ordered, as the circumstances surrounding his death would indicate foul play.

PUNISHED ENOUGH ALREADY.

Hiram Beeman of Brockville Discharged on Suspended Sentence.

Brockville, March 11.—Last summer Hiram Beeman, a young farmer, was arrested, charged with the wholesale thieving of boat houses along the River St. Lawrence. During his confinement in jail awaiting his trial, he developed signs of insanity, which warranted his committal to the asylum. The treatment there proved so beneficial that he was discharged yesterday entirely recovered. Immediately afterwards he was brought before Judge McDonald and charged with the theft of goods from Mrs. A. R. Allan and John Taylor, Brockville, and S. H. Fleming, Ottawa. He pleaded guilty, and was discharged upon suspended sentence, his father entering into a recognizance of $200 for the appearance of his son to receive sentence.

SHOT FOR INSURANCE.

But Victim Lived Long Enough to Name His Murderer.

Cottage Grove, Oregon, March 11.—In the mail of the City Marshal of this place Thursday was a letter purporting to be written by John Fletcher, stating that the writer was tired of life and had decided to commit suicide, and telling the Marshal where to find the body. Fletcher was found as indicated, with a bullet wound in his head, but alive. Developments tend to show that he was shot by John Branton, who, it is said, wrote the letter, the crime being for the purpose, it is alleged, of getting life insurance of $3,000, payable to Branton at Fletcher's death.

Branton, while walking along the road, it is claimed, borrowed Fletcher's revolver on the pretext of wanting to kill a wild animal. He then, according to Fletcher's sworn statement, turned the weapon on the latter. After having shot Fletcher, Branton tried to induce the wounded man to say that he had shot himself. This Fletcher refused to do, and later swore to an affidavit charging Branton with the shooting.

Mrs. Stanford Poisoned.

Honolulu, March 11.—The coroner's jury Thursday night returned a verdict that Mrs. Jane L. Stanford died an unnatural death. The verdict says that death was due to strychnine poisoning, the poison having been introduced into a bottle of bicarbonate of soda with felonious intent by some person or persons to the jury unknown.

MANY MINERS KILLED.

Pit in Cardiff Colliery, Wales, Is Afire.

Cardiff, March 11.—A terrible explosion has occurred in the Cambrian Colliery at Clydach Vale, in the Rhondda Valley. It is feared that 20 or 30 miners have been killed. The pit is afire. Many of those rescued from the mine are badly burned.

EVERSTICK INVISIBLE RUBBER

THE CANADIAN RUBBER CO. OF MONTREAL TRADE MARK

WE have secured exclusive control of the manufacture and sale of the "Everstick" Invisible Rubber for Canada.

The Newest and Best Specialty in Rubber Footwear.

The Everstick cannot come off.

It has every good feature of the ordinary rubber and no bad ones.

FITS ANY SINGLE OR DOUBLE SOLE.

One of the Greatest Successes in Up-to-date Rubber Footwear—the

EVERSTICK.

Everstick Invisible Rubbers

are trim and neat in appearance, light in weight, and may be worn constantly without discomfort.

They obviate every difficulty and objection found in old style rubbers.

Made in all sizes for women and men.

Ask your shoe store for our new "EVERSTICK" booklet.

TORONTO JUNCTION LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards for Thursday and Friday were 27 carloads, composed of 161 cattle, 22 sheep, 1842 hogs and 5 calves.

The total receipts for the week were 78 carloads, composed of 1208 cattle, 50 sheep, 1843 hogs and 20 calves.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; slow; barely steady; prime steers, $5.25 to $5.65; shipping, $4.65 to $5.15; butchers', $4.35 to $4.80; heifers, $3.25 to $4.75; cows, $2.75 to $4.15; bulls, $2.75 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25.

Veals—Receipts, 650 head; active; 25c to 50c higher; $4.50 to $8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 4300 head; active; steady to strong; heavy and mixed, $4.45 to $5.50; yorkers, $5.25 to $5.45; pigs, $5.30 to $5.35; roughs, $4.50 to $4.80; stags, $3 to $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 3000 head; active and higher; native lambs $6.50 to $8.75; western lambs, $8.25 to $8.65; yearlings, $7 to $7.35; wethers, $6 to $6.25; ewes, $5.75 to $6; sheep, mixed, $2.50 to $6.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, March 10.—Beeves—Receipts, 3610; steers slow and 10c to 15c lower; bulls and cows 10c off; common to good steers, $4.15 to $5.55; oxen, $4 to $4.35; bulls, $3.10 to $4.10; cows, $1.70 to $3.75. Exports to-morrow, 1500 cattle and 4400 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 96 head; dull; veals, $4 to $8; little calves, $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 1079; almost no demand; holding full steady; few choice wethers sold at $6.50 to $6.62½; fairly good lambs at $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 4237; feeling easier; no sales reported.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, March 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 2000; good to prime steers, $5.15 to $6.25; poor to medium, $3.75 to $4.80; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.65.

Hogs—Receipts, 19,000; mixed and butchers', $4.85 to $5.10; good to choice, heavy, $5 to $5.17½; rough, heavy, $4.80 to $4.95; light, $4.70 to $5.07½; bulk of sales, $5 to $5.10.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 7000; good to choice wethers, $5.00 to $6.10; fair to choice, mixed, $4.75 to $5.40; native lambs, $5 to $7.00.

To Fight Expropriation.

Guelph, March 11.—The city has decided to oppose the application of the G. T. R. for the expropriation of Jubilee Park as a site for a new station, and City Solicitor Guthrie is preparing a statement to that effect to be submitted to the Railway Commission, who have the case under consideration. This practically means that the Commission will decide the issue. If they grant the application of the Company the city will appeal.

SHE MADE A CHANGE.

A Charleston Mother Did so With Advantage to Herself and Children.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children writes: "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough remedies, croup mixtures and throat medicines for my children, for somehow or other they never seem to be free from colds, coughs or sore throat.

This fall I made a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be used for catarrh, coughs and colds.

So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of chronic nasal and throat catarrh but they have saved me many an anxious night with my little ones. The children like the taste of them and it is really wonderful how quickly they break up a croupy cold or an obstinate, deep seated cough."

People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves or washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant, convenient, internal remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere admit that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets which sell for 50 cents full sized package, is the safest, most effective and popular of catarrh medicines.

Nervous, Diseased Men

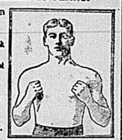
DRS. K. & K. ESTABLISHED 25 YEARS.

A NERVOUS WRECK

Consultation FREE.

Question Blank for Home Treatment sent FREE.

Prices Low No Cure No Pay.



ROBUST MANHOOD

We Guarantee to Cure Stricture, Varicocele, Nervous Debility, Blood Poisons, Vital Weaknesses, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and All Diseases Peculiar to Men and Women.

Don't waste your time and money on cheap, dangerous, experimental treatment. Don't increase at your own cost your sufferings by being experimented on with remedies which they claim to have just discovered. They give but temporary relief. But come to us in confidence. We will treat you conscientiously, honestly and skillfully, and restore you to health in the shortest possible time with the least medicine, discomfort and expense practicable. Each case is treated as the symptoms indicate. Our New Method is original and has stood the test for twenty-five years.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN

148 Shelby Street, - DETROIT. MICH.

Maple Syrup For Pancakes.

If you buy "Defiance" brand then you get a Syrup that is guaranteed. Be particular to get our goods. They are better.

John Sloan & Co., Wholesale Grocers, BELLEVILLE.

WHOLESALE AGENTS.

WHICH DO YOU PREFER—

Bag-kneed, lob-sided, ill-fitting trousers, or the kind that look as if they were made by a tailor who knew his business? Our tailors know how, and they add common sense to their ability.

It is this combination that enables us to make the most perfect-fitting trousers. Men who wear ours always look dressed.

If your dealer does not keep them, send us a postal card and we will tell you where you can get them. They all have our name.

English Woolen Mills Co.

"TROUSER KINGS"

LONDON - - CANADA

VERY SOON

It won't be very long before some early spring wedding causes you to look around to see what you will get your friend.

We are showing some new and pretty pieces in Silverware at very reasonable prices consistent with high class goods.

A very handsome piece is a new cake dish with raised pierced border, silver or gilt centre at $2.50

PHONE 309 T. BLACKBURN. JEWELLER OPTICIAN

POCKET BOOK AND HAND BAG SALE.

We have about 500 sample Purses, Pocket Books and Hand Sachels, Traveller's samples, bought at less than half the regular price. We will clear them out in three lots:

LOT 1 Will be - - 10c
LOT 2 Will be - - 25c
LOT 3 Will be - - 50c

We will also clear out four gross Dressing Combs, black rubber, the price was 20c, to clear at 10c

We have still a fine lot of the finest patterns of 12½c Print left, to clear at (per yd.) 10c

We are selling a 10c bar of sweet pink Toilet Soap this week, at 5c or six for 25c

McINTOSH BROS.

Your Tongue has two missions—

TO TASTE AND TO TALK.

Let it taste one of our Fruit Scon talks—

What it says then will be our best adve ment.

Ed. F. Dickens.

—CATERER

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK

Genuine Scranton
COAL
The Standard Anthracite.
SOLD BY THE SCHUSTER CO.
Office Bridge St. Tel. a93 & b93

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL — LIBER [illegible] HINGS NOT ESSENTIAL — CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 38. BELLEVILLE. ONTARIO, MONDAY. MARCH 13, 1905. NO. 266

Burn Our Coal.
You will burn no other.
DRY WOOD
ALL KINDS.
C.C. Leavens
GENUINE SCRANTON COAL LEAVENS

TEMISKAMING COMMISSION.

Appointment of Men Whe Will Finish Construction.

Toronto, March 13.—Saturday's issue of The Ontario Gazette announced the new Temiskaming Railway Board as follows:

Cecil B. Smith, engineer, Toronto.
Dennis Murphy, ex-M. P. P., Ottawa.
Jacob Englehart, Petrolea.

The old board consisted of five members—Robert Jaffray, Toronto; E. C. Gurney, Toronto; M. J. O'Brien, Renfrew; F. E. Leonard, London, and B. W. Folger, Kingston, all of whom, except Mr. Folger, have resigned at the request of the Government.

Cecil B. Smith, the new chairman, was formerly resident engineer of the Canadian Niagara Power Company at Niagara Falls until the completion of the construction work there in December last. He was selected primarily because of his professional knowledge. In addition to his work at Niagara Falls, he has occupied at various periods the post of roadways engineer under the Toronto City Engineer; he has had charge of large construction works for M. P. Davis of Ottawa, and has superintended the masonry construction of the new Quebec bridge.

Mr. Murphy is a man of large experience in railroad construction and transportation matters, in which he has made a fortune, and Mr. Englehart has also had considerable experience as a business man.

Six Protests in All In.

Toronto, March 13.—Saturday was the last day for filing protests against elected members of the Legislature, and three more were put in. Dr. Snider challenges the election of Col. Atkinson in North Norfolk, and W. A. Charlton will endeavor to show why C. A. Platt should not hold the seat he won in South Norfolk. Charles Calder, who defeated John Dryden in South Ontario, has a petition against his election also. These make six protests in all—Kingston, Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie, North Norfolk, South Norfolk and South Ontario.

DON'T MISS THIS!
"JAPANESE"
WRITING INK.
Solves the Ink Problem.
—SOLD BY—
C. B. Scantlebury—J.W. London

Aftermath of Mukden Fight.

Russ Casualties Are 156,500 While Japs Lost 41,222

Over 40,000 Prisoners Taken by Japs Up to Sunday Morning—26,500 Russian Corpses Left on the Field—Great Quantities of Ammunition and Stores Captured by the Japs— Japanese Continue Pursuit of Russians

Tokio, March 13.—The armies on the Shakhe quarter reported up to Sunday morning the following approximate figures, which are still increasing:

Prisoners, over 40,000, including Major-General Nachmoss.

Rusisan corpses on the field, 26,500.

Other Russian casualties, 90,000.

Trophies, two ensigns, 60 guns, 60,000 rifles, 150 ammunition wagons, 1,000 army wagons, 200,000 shells, 25,000,000 shots for rifles, 74,000 bushels of grain, materials for light railroad for 46 miles, 300 wagons for light road, 2,000 horses, 23 Chinese carts full of clothing, 1,000,000 portions of bread, 150,000,000 pounds of fuel, 223,000 bushels of horse allowances and 125,000 pounds of hay.

Our total casualties since the 26th of February to the morning of the 12th of March were 41,222. The Russian casualties are 156,500.

NEEDS MENTAL REST.

Kuropatkin Asks Permission to Hand Over His Commission.

London, March 13.—(C. A. P.)—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times says:

"Gen. Kuropatkin has asked the Emperor's gracious permission to hand over his command, alleging that he is in urgent need of physical and mental rest.

"I learn on the best authority that Japan twice has approached Russia through informal channels on the subject of peace negotiations, but that in each case the proposal failed because Japan demanded an indemnity and a pledge that Russia would not keep warships in the Pacific for 25 years.

"The Japanese insistence on indemnity convinces the Russian Government that her pecuniary resources are exhausted, and that by continuing the war only a few months longer, Russian will get better terms.

"When Kuropatkin heard of the capture of Kiousan, on March 10, and realized that he had delayed retreat too long, one desperate chance remained. It was to sacrifice his artillery by massing the batteries so as to paralyze the enemy. The Rusisan gunners did their duty and saved what is left of Kuropatkin's armies."

Kuropatkin's Manly Course.

St. Petersburg, March 13.—Gen. Kuropatkin has telegraphed to Emperor Nicholas, assuming himself all the responsibility for his defeat, making no excuses except that the strength of the Japanese was miscalculated, and refusing to place any of the blame upon the council of generals upon whose advice he determined to give battle. This manly course and the General's personal exertions in directing the retreat will, however, hardly save him. His reputation as an offensive strategist is gone, and though the Emperor's military advisers know not where to look for a better general, his resignation will be accepted. In losing General Kuropatkin the army will lose the idol of the private soldiers.

Against His Best Judgment.

Tie Pass, March 13.—The decision of Gen. Kuropatkin to offer battle on the Shakhe was taken against his own best judgment. He had been constantly blamed, both in army circles and at home, for operating without decision, and the demand that he take the initiative and abandon the policy of retirement was voiced on all sides. It appears that Gen. Kuropatkin yielded to this opinion, which was that of many of his principal generals, and decided to give battle, thereby losing the opportunity for a more successful retreat before the Japanese forces, which largely outnumbered the Russian army.

Japs Cease Pursuit.

The Japanese, it is reported, have ceased their pursuit, at least temporarily. Some of the Japanese are 25 miles below Tie Pass. A resumption of their advance is expected. Rumors are in circulation that the Japanese already are attempting another wire turning movement to drive the Russians from Tie Pass.

RUSSIA ANSWERS DEFEAT.

Will Send Another Army, and Hopes Japan's Financial Ruin.

St. Petersburg, March 12.—The immediate answer of the Russian Government to the defeat at Mukden is the announcement that a new army will be raised, and the forces in the far east reorganized; that Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky will be ordered to sail to try conclusions with Togo, and that the war will be prosecuted to the bitter end.

The Russian Government, with the full magnitude of the disaster at Mukden still undetermined, but with the 1905 campaign seemingly already hopelessly compromised, retreat to Harbin inevitable, and Vladivostock practically lost, declares that the time has not yet come when Russia can be forced to humble herself.

But, while this is the official attitude, nothing but peace talk is heard in St. Petersburg. The difficulties of another mobilization on a large scale will be enormous; in fact, it is stated in some quarters that it will be impossible. Nevertheless, it might be accomplished.

The real hope, however, for anything like a successful termination of the war is admitted to rest upon the prospects of the financial exhaustion of Japan.

Financial Minister Kokovsoff, at the conclusion of a conference on the national resources, a few days ago, is said to have tapped the table before him and exclaimed: "We can win the war at this desk."

PRISONERS NUMBER 75,000.

Stores Valued at Millions of Dollars Taken by Japs.

Tokio, March 13.—The Japanese pursuit of the Russian armies continues, and a resumption of heavy fighting in the vicinity of Tie Pass is anticipated. Tie Pass, which is natrally strong, has been extensively fortified, and it is thought the Russians will rally there in an endeavor to check the Japanese.

The rapidly advancing Japanese already afe in touch at Tie Pass. The Russians evidently are confused and exhausted and possibly are short of food and ammunition, and it is believed here they will be unable to resist a strong attack.

Casualties 40 Per Cent.

Succeeding field reports increase the extent of the Russian disaster. It will require months to re-supply and reorganize the Russian armies. Estimates of the casualties given by captives reach 40 per cent. The artillery losses are especially heavy. The captured guns have not yet been counted, but the numerous captured stores and munitions are valued at millions of dollars. This loss materially adds to the crippling of the Russian armies.

The Japanese press editorial articles, in discussing the possible effects of the victory upon peace, declare Japan will unremittedly continue the vigorous prosecution of the war, and has no suggestion to make to Rusisa, directly or indirectly.

Marched 40 Miles One Day.

During the recent operations against the Russians the left portion of the fifth army marched 40 miles in one day, greatly aiding in the achievement of the victory.

Captives taken in this last engagement make the total of prisoners now held by the Japanese 75,000. Their care is becoming a very expensive problem. The Government is formulating plans to remove all military prisoners to islands, probably in the inland sea, and it is possible that all the captives will be removed there.

RUSSIAN COLUMN CAUGHT.

Kuropatkin Admits that Japs Made a Capture.

St. Petersburg, March 13.—Gen. Kuropatkin has telegraphed to Emperor Nicholas as follows, under date of March 11, 10.40 p.m.

"To-day the enemy's attack was confined to the rearguard of three Siberian corps.

"The first army echeloned in front of the other armies, continues to retreat toward positions indicated for all the other armies.

"According to a report from the commander of the third army, received today, his rearguard occupied a position on the Mandarin Road, 16½ miles from Tie Pass. Only a small detachment of the Japanese, mainly cavalry, confronted this rearguard.

"On Feb. 28 to March 11, inclusive of 1,190 officers and 46,391 men are missing from roll call. The wounded have been sent north.

"The Japanese casualties have been estimated at 41,000.

"The Japanese captured a retreating Russian column at the Pu River."

JAPS STILL PURSUE.

Hotly After Enemy, Inflicting Considerable Damage Upon Him.

Washington, March 13.—Yesterday morning the Japanese Legation received the following cablegram from Tokio:

Continued on page 8.

SINCLAIR'S AD. SINCLAIR'S AD.

New Spring Goods.

The New Goods for early spring wear have arrived and in every department of our store we show Fashion's Newest Creations.

NEW SPRING COATS.
NEW DRESS SKIRTS.
NEW SHIRT WAISTS.
Showing In Our... Ready-to-Wear Department.

NEW WASH GOODS.

While we show everything that is new in Wash Goods, this week we place in stock nearly Four Thousand (4,000) yards of 36 inch French Printed Cambric, perfectly fast colors, in very dainty patterns, to sell for per yard 12½c

TWO SPECIAL SUITINGS.

For Ladies' Spring Costumes we show Harris' 54 inch Homespuns in all the Light Grey Shades at (per yard.... $1.00

Also a special line of Imported Flaked Tweeds, all new shades, to sell at per yard 50c

Kabo and B. & C. Corsets

Are shown in all the New Spring Corset Cuts, every pair guaranteed and the only Corsets made wit hut brass eyelets. Prices .... 50c to $3.00

D. V. Sinclair & Co.

The Ritchie Coy. Limited

Dainty Wash Materials

An inspection of our advance Wash Goods showing is like a foretaste of warm summer days. Only an inspection can give you an adequate idea of the comprehensiveness and beauty of our new assortment.

Linens from Ireland, Zephyrs from Scotland and a countless assortment of Fancy Materials from England—Shirt Waist Suitings—Waistings—Dress Materials an assortment too wide to make possible detail description.

The assortment is not only large, but conservative, as each pattern is exclusively ours and coming in short lengths of from one to two dresses will not be common.

Ideal buying conditions enable us to purchase our goods at better prices than is possible to those not enjoying such conditions, the advantage we offer you in our moderate prices.

If you have Wash Goods needs of any description we feel confident of our ability to give you as wide a selection at every price as is obtainable in this city or elsewhere.

Make your visit while the assortment is at its best—NOW.

—Fancy Knoppe Zephyrs and Linen Voiles in Greens, Blues, Navy, Grey, Pink, Plain and with Fancy Stripes and Spots—fast colors—ideal Shirt Waist Suit Materials. Per yard 15c

—A choice collection of Fancy Zephyrs, Knoppe Ginghams, Silk Chambrays, Embroidered Linen Voiles—Fancy Cotttn Voiles—White Waistings, Cotton Tweeds, and almost endless variety of styles and colors. Per yard .... 25c to 75c

Whitewear Sale

Only one week more of our annual Whitewear Sale.

The quantity of Whitewear that has left our mantle department the past week is of convincing evidence that our values and styles are the best obtainable.

INVESTIGATE:—Investigation is nearly always profitable.

It will be if you come here in search of choice and dainty Whitewear and moderate prices. We cheerfully invite you to come and see the choice collection we have on exhibition in our mantle room.

There is still a good assortment to choose from—We have just added a number of new garments which are dainty and moderate in price.

The Ritchie Coy. Limited

SPRING - CLOTHING.

Allow us to show you the newest things in Suits—All the new styles are here—everything right up-to-date and at the most moderate prices.

No excuse for wearing ill-fitting or out of date Clothing, when you can get the kind of clothing we are selling for the prices at which we are selling it.

Our smart handsome Spring Suits are decidedly well bred—and you can call them "CLOTHES OF QUALITY." They certainly contain all the qualities desired by good dressers.

The newest Fabrics are here in single and double-breasted sacks. Prices range:—

$10, $12, $14, $15 and $17

We guarantee prompt money refunded on garments not perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

BORSALINO HAT.

Ask to see this famous Italian Hat noted for its style, light weight and wear, in two colors and black, wide rim and soft crown, extra fine quality. Price $3.50

The Ritchie Co'y, Limited

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON.

New Spring Dress Goods.

We have just received into stock a big range of New Ready-to-Wear Dress Skirts in Fancy Tweeds and Homespuns for early spring wear. These goods have been made up for us within the past ten days and every style is absolutely correct and up-to-date.

FURTHER ARRIVALS IN NEW DRESS MATERIALS.

Within the past few days we have added a number of New Dress Goods Novelties in:—

Priestley's Fancy Shot Sicillians

Priestley's Fancy Stripe Mohairs

Priestley's Plain Mohairs

And Sicillians

The problem of Correct Dress may be easily solved by a look through our big display of New Spring Dress Materials.

CILKTAF

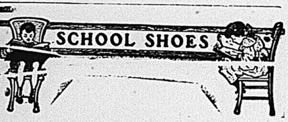
This it a New Dress Lining we are showing for spring in all shades. It is having a remarkable run in all the large American Cities. Is beautifully fine and soft. Has all the appearance and finish of a rich Taffetta Silk. Price .... 25c yd.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

Strictly Satisfactory Shoes.

Gorman's SHOE HOUSE.

NEXT DOOR TO DOMINION BANK



THE kind which will please the children and will also delight the parents.

MANY MOTHERS tell us that our School Boots for boys and girls give EXCELLENT SATISFACTION —Just step in—when passing — sometime and allow us to show these POPULAR BOOTS.

Several Styles at $1.00, $1.25, and $1.50.

CUTTERS. Cutters. CUTTERS.

We have the largest and most complete stock of

CUTTERS AND SLEIGHS

—IN THE CITY.—

QUALITY the highest. PRICES the lowest.

Bolster Springs, 4000 lbs. capacity, only $9.50.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY

The question of rural mail delivery as far as the present Government is concerned has been rather abruptly disposed of by the Postmaster-General. The service in the United States has proved immensely popular in the sections served, saving much labor and adding very materially to the comfort and pleasures of life. But the cost of the service is rather startling. According to Sir Wm. Mulock the first vote by Congress for rural mail delivery was $40,000. In 1904 it was almost $13,000,000, and in 1905, $20,816,000. For the coming year, $25,828,300 is asked Though the post office authorities are not in favor of such rapid extension, they are unable to prevent it, the influence of members of Congress being exerted to get routes established in their localities and their desires as a rule proving stronger than the business scruples of the department chiefs. The effect is seen, among other things in an increase in the annual deficit in the administration of the postal service. In 1902 this was only $2,937,649. It is now $14,000,000, and this in spite of an increase in the ordinary business of the post office.

The Weekly Sun is not impressed by Sir William Mulock's objections to the reform. His treatment of the question, it says, was hardly that of a statesman; it was more like the plea of an advocate on the other side who was determined to smash the case of an opponent. An answer based on this point of view, no matter how well prepared, would not be satisfactory in any event; the reply of the Postmaster-General becomes more unsatisfactory still when subjected to examination. The Sun proceeds: Sir William deals with the question solely from the standpoint of income and outgo by the Government. He wholly neglects to take into account the large saving that would be effected to the individual citizens by substituting a system of delivery by a single carrier for a personal call for mail by several score of busy men. He ignores, too, the increased value which would be given to farm property by this convenience. The cost to the Government, again, is based on the expense incurred in the United States; the fact is overlooked that carriers in the United States receive much larger pay than would be necessary here. It is a most unfortunate thing that a Government which has a sympathetic ear for seeking after iron bounties or railway subsidies is so completely deaf to all appeals for the organization of a service which would be of great benefit to the farmer of the country.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Looks as though the ice men will be able to harvest two crops this winter.

• • •

But cheer up. We'll be sure of six weeks summer, anyhow.

• • •

Some visitors in the city on Saturday were profoundly impressed with those big piles of dirty ice and snow on Front St. "Yes," said one gentleman, "I always heard that you prided yourselves on the beauty of your city."

• • •

A funny story is told about a certain party in this city, who belongs to that class which comes under the classification of "Retired farmers." It seems that when the party in question moved into Belleville he bought a house, the said house being furnished with gas and water fittings. It was noted that, for many nights after he took possession, the house was brilliantly illuminated, the gas being lit in every room. It really looked very pretty from the outside. At last one day a friend of the new owner of the house spoke to him and asked if he were not likely to find his liberal use of gas rather expensive. "Oh! no," was the reply; "when I bought this house I bought the gas, also." The friend was dubious, but said no more. Then the end of the month came, and shortly afterwards arrived a gas bill which would make the average man's hair stand on end. They say the air was blue when the genial retired farmer got that bill, and he displayed a gift of language surprising in one whose days had been, for the most part, spent in agricultural pursuits. But there was no help for it; the bill had to be paid. Paid it was, and then the Gas works employees got a hurry call to come to a certain house and take out the gas fittings, which was done. They burn coal oil there, now.

• • •

Prospects are bright, we are told, for an excellent band in the city next summer. Many young fellows some of them quite clever, have lately joined, and are coming on splendidly under the tuition of that fine all-round musician, Prof. Denmark. We are promised a band of 24 pieces when the old boys and girls come home next summer.

• • •

The Japs won the fight, but put your money on the Russians in the foot race.

• • •

Radium is recommended as a cure for snake bites, but it will be a long time in making itself as popular a remedy as whiskey.

• • •

In the case of the Russian soldiers, it is not the pace that kills, but the men who are forcing the pace.

• • •

New maple sugar, made last winter or the year before, can now be seen in many windows. It tastes sweet enough to the youngsters to bar them from making a kick.

• • •

Harrowing tales are coming from the East and West these days, but in our own West, thanks be, it is the farmers who are doing the harrowing.

• • •

The Russians are irrepressible. Now they say, with owlish seriousness, that the Russians are only falling back on Harbin, where the real struggle of the war will take place. Gen. Pat is still "luring them on."

• • •

That ancient bulwark of Anglo-Saxon justice, the grand jury, is to be abolished in Minnesota. A constitutional amendment for that purpose received 121,000 majority at the recent election. Minnesota is the first place in the Anglo-Saxon world to do away with the time-honored institution.

• • •

Anyhow, the Ottawa hockey players did not throw hand grenades at their Rat Portage antagonists, so why all the talk about rough play?

• • •

Wonder if His Etherial Majesty the Mikado would lend us Field Marshal Oyama for a while? The little Jap might be able to surround our Public Works department and compel 'em to remove those dirty old piles of ice and snow on Front street.

• • •

The Toronto Observatory man now says that the snowfall so far this year has been less than the average. For 64 years, he says, "the Observatory records up to March 1st average 53.5 inches. This year for the same period the fall is 47.9 inches, while last year it was 51.1 inches in Toronto. The heaviest fall occurred on January 7, when 6.6 inches was the record. Last year the heaviest fall was on February 29, with 9.4 inches." The above might be true of Toronto, but very few people will believe that it is true of this locality. The tall snowbanks still standing are monuments to the depth of the snow this year. It's hard to argue against ocular demonstration.

• • •

Of all sad words of tongue or pen
That man can say or poet sing
There's none that makes me feel so blue,
As, "This will be a backward Spring."

• • •

Talking of backward springs, how would you like to see the Street Surveyor turn a back somersault off one of those big piles of dirty snow on Front St.?

• • •

It saddens me to think of those hundred odd witnesses in the ballot-box trial, many of whom will be away from "Home, Sweet Home" on Patrick's Day.

• • •

A SWEET PICTURE.

(Toronto Telegram.)

It is a sweet and affecting picture that beams through the smiles and tears of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's career of a patriot as sketched by himself and organs.

Never has Sir Wilfrid Laurier gone to sleep without the battered red helmet on his pillow, the long rubber boots at the foot of his bed, and himself ready to spring at the first alarm of fire among the powder barrels of racial and religious ill-will.

If Sir Wilfrid Laurier understands himself aright his great aim in life has been put to put out fires.

If Sir Wilfrid Laurier is understood aright by other people his great aim in life has been to put out Tories.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the avenger of Riel, the ally of Honore Mercier, has kindled as many conflagrations as he ever extinguished.

• • •

The hotels are filling up rapidly, and the awful thought strikes us that some of the visiting newspaper men may have to apply for accommodation at the police station when they strike town in a day or two.

• • •

Mrs. Chadwick was seized with hysterics when found guilty. The stockholders of the bank she victimized haven't seized anything yet.

• • •

A very pleasing incident is that reported from Toronto, in connection with the E. F. Clarke testimonial fund. In a letter enclosing a subscription Rev. Father Lancelot Minehan, of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, writes: "Were my resources equal to my esteem for Mr. Clarke and sympathy for his family my contribution would be second to none. Removed as I was from him in politics and creed, I made it a point for years to extend to him New Year greetings, nor did I receive a friendlier hand grasp anywhere than that of E. F. Clarke. Canada owes a debt of gratitude to a man who could thus win the affection and admiration of every rank and condition. And if you think that the cause you have at heart will be furthered in any way by these few words you are at liberty to use them in any way you deem advisable." The Rev. Father's letter does credit to both his head and his heart.

Special For Saturday

On Saturday we will sell you one of those extra nice fresh Walnut Sponges for 8 cents.

McCausland Bros.
Bakers and Confectioners.

FITZPATRICK IN MOOD TO RESIGN

MINISTER OF JUSTICE PERTURBED OVER POLITICAL UPHEAVAL.

Ottawa, March 12.—Will Mr. Fitzpatrick resign is the question which is uppermost in political circles today. By some who claim to know the mind of the Minister of Justice, it is said to be only a question of a few days when he will surrender his portfolio. The Minister of Justice, it is well known, is very much perturbed over the storm which has been raised regarding the educational clauses of the Autonomy Bill. He has taken personal pride in this feature of the measure, and it is gall and wormwood to him to have to recede from the position which he first assumed. Mr. Fitzpatrick, it is said, has been desirous for some time to step out of political life. It has been a personal sacrifice for him to remain in the Ministry, and now that he is reported to have been turned down —although only in a minor degree it is true—he is going to use this fact, it is reported, as the reason for resigning his portfolio.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure E. W. Grove's signature is on each box 25c

Got Pat O'Brien's Job.

Mr. Frank Lloyd, of Toronto, has been appointed Housekeeper of the Legislative Buildings, Toronto, vice Mr. P. O'Brien, resigned. Mr. Lloyd has been for some time Customs officer at the Union Station, Toronto, but had to give up that position on account of his health failing. He is treasurer of the York County Orange lodge.

STILL ANOTHER CASE.

The New System Treatment, Anti-Pill, Continues to Work Wonderful Cures.

When Dr. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., gave Anti-Pill to the world he had unbounded faith in the treatment, but he did not foresee the world-wide and wonderful results it is now achieving in the cure of disease.

Here is the story of another Anti-Pill victory:

"For many months I have been troubled with dyspepsia, dizziness in my head, cold chills, and suffered most of the time from constipation, and was unable to do my housework. I tried every kind of pill and medicine that either the doctors or myself could think of, and finally tried Anti-Pill. This treatment has practically made a new woman of me. I am able to do all my own work. The dizziness has all gone, my stomach feels much better, and I am no longer troubled with constipation. I cannot praise Anti-Pill too highly."—Mrs. Thos. Tabb, 287 Emerald street, north, Hamilton, Ont.

Mrs. Tabb's letter is only one of many.

Anti-Pill is sold by all druggists at 50c, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada. 102

The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. 1

Recommended and sold by J. S. McKeown.

A SAD DEATH.

MISS "LILY" BURKE PASSED AWAY WHILE ON A VISIT TO HER BROTHER.

The Kingston News and Times has the following, which refers to the daughter of a gentleman once well-known in this city. There were, at one time, few men more popular here than "Dick" Burke:

"A telegram on Monday evening brought the sad news to relatives and many friends of the sudden death of a popular Kingston girl, Helen Margaret Burke, known among her intimate friends as "Lily." Last fall Miss Burke had gone south to visit her brother Avon, and it was at his home in Marion, Alabama, that she passed away after an illness that lasted only twenty-seven hours. The remains were interred the following day.

"The deceased was the youngest daughter of Richard Burke, of this city, and besides her father and brother Avon, three other brothers are left, William, John and Philip, all of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Kidd, also of Kingston. Miss Burke was for several years a member of All Saints' church. After her mother's death about five years ago, she had gone to Kee Mar College, Hagerstown, Maryland, from which she graduated. She land, from which she graduated. She was a musician of considerable ability. Her father has been in the General Hospital for several years seriously ill. A peculiarly sad feature is that all were looking forward to her return next week."

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

"LORD CHUMLEY."

Cecil De Mille is only twenty-five years old, but he has already made a place for himself on the stage that many an older man might envy. He is the youngest son of the late Henry C. De Mille, the co-author with David Belasco of "The Charity Ball," "The Wife," "Men and Women," and "Lord Chumley," so he inherits his talents honestly. After playing many important parts with well-known stars Mr. De Mille has chosen to revive the play "Lord Chumley" written for E. H. Sothern by his father, and in which Mr. Sothern made one of his greatest successes. The management has provided him with an exceptionally good company and the scenery is the same as was used in the New York run. "Lord Chumley" will be seen at the Carman to-morrow night.

PERSONAL ....AND.... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such a the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cockram, of Madoc village, were in the city to-day.

Mrs. J. R. Hancock, nee McFee, of South Woodslee, Ont., is in the city.

Detectives Parkinson and Chamberlain, of Ottawa, are at the Quinte.

Mr. Samuel Harryett, ex-police magistrate of Bancroft, is at the Quinte.

Mr. W. R. Aylsworth, County Clerk, was in Cobourg to-day attending the assizes.

Dr. McCauley, son of the late Rev. Samuel McCauley, has received the important appointment of Surgeon in the Copper Cliff Hospital. Dr. McCauley leaves the city to-morrow.

Miss Edith Phippen, Belleville, Ont., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. J. Osborne, of the Frederickton, N.B., Gleanor. Mrs. Osborne and Miss Phippen attended the opening of the Provincial Parliament on the afternoon of March 9th.

At the Quinte: Mr. and Mrs. Seath, T. Pearson, G. Boomer, H. Scott, J. Anderson, W. R. Carmichael, Montreal; P. Parkinson, R. G. Chamberlain, Ottawa; J. Williams, Chicago; F. Treblecock, E. J. Massie, Captain Holmes, W. Roe, J. Brodie, Toronto; J. Long, London; S. Harryett, Bancroft; J. Hamilton and wife, Guelph; J. B. Muir and wife, Ingersoll; W. S. Robbins, Brantford; G. J. McCaw, Tweed; A. Riddell, Trenton.

THE WEATHER.

TO-DAY'S PROBS.

Fine to-day and on Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

To-day's Temperature

8 a.m. 9
12 m. 22
2 p.m. 27
3 p.m. 27

Another

Fresh supply of:

PINEAPPLES
BANANAS
GRAPE FRUIT.
ETC., ETC.

Jas. Wallace & Co.

It's Not The Age Of The Person

But the condition of the eyes, which determines whether glasses are needed. Thousands of children wear glasses, because they need them. Thousands of older people don't wear them, because they don't need them.

Weak eyes should be assisted—made strong — relieved of strain. Glasses will do it if of the right kind.

A competent optician can select the right kind.

We have an expert Optician. He gives every case the utmost care and attention, and we invite you to consult him.

Angus McFee
'Phone 128.
The Store With the Big Clock.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's.
Bridge Street, 'Phone. 139.
Branch Store,
Front St., Phone 157.

New Goods and Fresh Supplies Arriving Daily.

MacLaren's Imperial Cream Cheese
Canada Cream Cheese
Seville Oranges (bitter) for marmalade
Fresh—Grated Horseradish
Fresh Fancy Biscuits

—o—o—

Supplies of Fish

Fine French Sardines, Salmon, Lobsters, Shrimps, Clams, Herrings, Halibut Steak, Finnan Haddie, Tunny Fish, Scallops, Crabs, etc., in tins.
Clam Bouillon, Clam Chowder, etc.
Pure Boneless Codfish, Shredded Codfish, Finnan Haddies, etc. Reliable Brands

DELICIOUS TEAS AND COFFEE . . .

Public Notice.

Applications for license to sell liquor in the East Riding of Hastings during the license year 1905-6 must be lodged with the Inspector at his office on Front street, in the City of Belleville, or Box 521, Belleville, on or before the first day of April; Blank forms for application and all necessary information can be had at my office.

M. LALLY,
Inspector.

Belleville, March 13, 1905.

13-2td&2w

New Spring Styles

....OF....

Queen Quality

Ladies are delighted with them. See the new choice colored Lace Boots and Low Shoes.

Queen Quality Leads the Fashion in Fine Footwear.

VERMILYEA & SON

HAVE SOLE RIGHT OF SALE.

Rub Your Chest with
Griffiths' Menthol Liniment
and see how the pain disappears—the cough loosens—and the cold breaks up. Nothing like it in relieving bronchitis, tonsilitis, quinsy and acute sore throat. Kills any pain—every time. 25c. a bottle—at druggists.
The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Ltd., Toronto, Can.

Intelligencer

WANT ADS.

ADVERTISEMENTS under this head, 25 words or less, 25 cents for one insertion, and one cent for each additional word; 4 insertions, 75c 6 insertions, $1.00, invariably in advance. This rate applies to all except advertisements for Auction Sales which will be published at two cents per word. Count 5 marks and figures as one word each.

Advertising Rates.

Measurement Nonpareil — 12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions 5c per line.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriage and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, $5c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found below.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of The Intelligencer.

Weekly Intelligencer $1.00 a year; Daily Intelligencer $3.00 a year; strictly cash in advance.

Canadians in London will find the Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s office 39 Fleet St., London, E. C.

WANTED.

Room for a few good machinists on heavy work. Canadian General Electric Co., Peterboro, Ont. m13-6td

A girl to do general housework in a small family. Apply to Miss Holden, 220 George St. 13-2t

A few men and women to work for us at home during spare time. Pleasant work. Liberal pay. No canvassing. Imperial Company. London, Ontario. f20-1md

A young men with ambition looking for an agency, with a chance of establishing himself in a permanent business of his own, will do well to send a p. c. to Cooper, Drawer 531, London. o31-6td

FOR SALE.

298 Foster avenue, 8-room house, summer kitchen, city water and fruit trees. Terms to suit purchaser. —S. M. Sprague. 1t

For sale cheap or to rent, fine stone house on Charlotte St. Modern improvements, one acre ground (fruit), good barn, &c. Apply on premises.—M. H. HERBERT. m3-d&w1m

Bigger,

Better,

Broader.

Those three words will in part form the meaning of our decorative painting — paperhanging and wall paper departments for the year 1905.

1904 was the largest trade in our history for any one year notwithstanding the several small stocks shown in opposition.

Ample evidence this that the purchasing public favor the large assortment from which to select.

This year already we have placed in stock nearly sixty thousand rolls of the newest and finest of wall papers possible to find and with twenty years of hunting we know where to find the game—.

For your convenience and our profit we have a staff of workmen engaged for 1905 numbering twenty. Expert workmen in their several branches—of Paperhanging — painting, decorating, graining, etc.

At the present time we have a number of our workmen executing decorative work in Toronto — we go anywhere for business — no city too large, no village too small

C. B. Scantlebury.

You must understand before you are understood.

Our best opportunities are of the home-made varieties.

My Offer to Kidney Sufferers.

I will give you a full dollar's worth of my remedy free to try without cost or deposit or promise to pay.

I could not make this offer — a full dollar's worth free — if mine were an ordinary kidney remedy. It is not. It treats not the kidneys themselves, but the nerves that control them. The cause of kidney trouble lies ALWAYS in those nerves. The only way to cure kidney trouble is in strengthening and vitalizing and restoring these kidney nerves. That is exactly what my remedy — Dr. Shoop's Restorative — does. Therefore I can make this offer with the certain knowledge that every kidney sufferer who make this trial will be helped.

When I say "nerves" I do not mean the ordinary nerves of feeling, thought, action. I mean the automatic nerves, which night and day, unguided and unseen, control and actuate and operate every vital process of life. These are the master nerves. The kidneys are their slaves. Your mind cannot control them. Your will cannot sway them. Yet when they are strong, you are well; when they are not, you weaken and die.

I have written a book on the Kidneys which will be sent when you write. This book explains fully and clearly how these tiny, tender "inside" nerves control not only the kidneys but each of the other vital organs.

I have made my offer that strangers to my remedy may know. It is not intended for or open to those who have used my remedy. They need no further evidence. But to those who have not heard, or hearing, may have delayed or doubted. I say "simply write and ask." I will hand you a full dollar bottle - and he will send the bill to me. There are no conditions — no requirement — simply write me to-day.

For a free order for a full dollar bottle you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 69 Racine, Wis. State which book you want.	Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Kidneys. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases are often cured by a single bottle. For sale at forty thousand drug stores.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

ONTARIO MOTOR LAW.

SOME REGULATIONS WHICH SHOULD BE READ AND REMEMBERED BY PEOPLE WHO DRIVE THE GAY AUTOS.

During the past year the Provincial Secretary's Department has issued in pamphlet form the legislation passed in respect to motor vehicles. The Act went into effect on Sept. 1, 1903, but the majority of owners and drivers of automobiles are not familiar with some of its features. Briefly, the Act is as follows:

The term motor vehicle includes automobiles, locomobiles and all other vehicles propelled otherwise than by muscular power, excepting the cars of electric and steam railways and other motor vehicles running only upon rails.

A registration fee shall be paid to the Provincial Secretary for each motor vehicle, and the secretary shall issue a permit, properly numbered, and the name of the owner shall be entered in a book.

Every motor vehicle shall carry the permit and also have attached to or exposed upon the back the number the figures to be not less than three inches in height.

Motor vehicles shall be equipped with a proper alarm bell, gong or horn, which shall be sounded whenever it shall be reasonably necessary, and shall carry a lighted lamp or lamps, such lamp to display the number of the permit used.

No motor vehicle shall be run at a greater speed than ten miles an hour within any city, town or village, or at a greater speed than 15 miles an hour outside of any city, town or village, provided that the Council of any city, township or village may by by-law set apart any public street or highway, or any part thereof, on which motor vehicles may be driven at any high rate of speed.

No person shall drive a motor vehicle upon any public street, highway, road, park, parkway or driveway in a race or on a bet.

Drivers are expected to use every precaution not to frighten horses and to stop on signal.

Upon approaching a crossing or in crossing a bridge the motor shall be run at a less speed than specified.

For a violation of this Act the penalty is not to exceed a fine of $25, and for the second or any subsequent offence a like penalty, or the driver may be imprisoned for a term not exceeding one month.

No provisions in any by-laws heretofore or hereafter passed under paragraph 7 of section 540 of Municipal Act inconsistent with the provisions of this Act shall apply to motor vehicles.

The Provincial license is $3. The license year is the calendar year.

AN EFFICIENT TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

(Will first destroy the germs that excite the disease. Then there are numberless sore spots in the mucous membrane to be healed. Every requirement of a perfect cure for catarrh is found in fragrant healing Catarrhozone, which not only instantly kills the germs, but restores the diseased membranes to a normal condition and prevents the relapse which is sure to follow the use of ordinary remedies. Catarrhozone is a scientific cure for catarrh that relieves quicker, is more pleasant, most certain to cure than any other known remedy. Failure is impossible, lasting cure is guaranteed. Use only Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size, 25c. Get it to-day.

APPENDICITIS.

THE MODERN TREATMENT OF THE DREADED DISEASE—TIMELY OPERATIONS.

Twenty years ago the sufferer from appendicitis died — by another name, preferably "inflammation of the bowels" or "peritonitis." To-day the death rate in the best equipped hospitals is not two per cent. For years after the ascription of the disease to the troublesome little sac, whose useful function has been entirely superseded in the processes of evolution, it was supposed that the cause of it all was some such foreign substance as a grape or lemon seed entering the vermiform appendix. Occasionally the explorer with the knife will find something in the appendix that doesn't belong there (a recent case produced a lump of solder from canned tomatoes), but this is a rare exception. Appendicitis is caused by the development of bacteria in the sac, usually associated with inactivity of the intestine. Theoretically, the operation is as simple as digging a pearl out of an oyster. An incision, a stroke of the knife, a careful sterilization, a suture to close the intestine, a dressing of the wound—and it's all over in twenty to thirty minutes. More than half the time it happens that way. About once out of five times the appendix, instead of being at the front of the intestines, and easily get-at-able, as it ought to be, is somewhere else. Then the practitioner begins his search. He may locate it two or three inches from the normal position, or he may find it far around behind, or he may discover it anywhere between; sometimes he misses it entirely. Or it may be so deeply involved that it cannot be safely cut out, but can only be relieved of its poisonous matter. Or it may have burst and scattered its contents through the abdominal cavity, in which case the method is to cleanse and disinfect the whole area, in the hope—not a very strong one—of warding off peritonitis. For it is these cases which form the death-rate and it is for this reason that timely operations for appendicitis are so important. A diseased appendix, diagnosed early, can be removed with practical assurance of complete success.—Samuel Hopkins, in March McClure.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago, during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found ~~the~~ next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

License Transferred.

The newly-appointed License Commissioners for West Hastings met for the first time on Saturday afternoon. Mr. T. Ketcheson, of Sidney, is Chairman of the Board. The only matter considered was an application for the transferring of the license of the International Hotel, held by T. Sager, to Wm. Fitzgerald. The Board decided to grant the transfer.

"SWISS FOOD" HEALTH.

You will be strong, healthy and generally fit for your day's work after a "SWISS FOOD" breakfast. 15c packages.

Cooper-Styles Nuptials

(Winnipeg Free Press: Dr. Nelson G. Cooper, of Winkler, Manitoba, was married on Wednesday, March 1st, at 7 a.m., at St. John's Cathedral, to Miss Matilda Stiles, graduate of the Winnipeg General Hospital. The ceremony was performed by His Grace the Archbishop of Rupert's Land, in the presence of the immediate friends of the bride and groom. Joseph Cooper, of the Manitoba Medical College, acted as best man to the groom and one of Miss Stiles' friends of the Winnipeg General Hospital staff, assisted the bride. The married couple drove from the Cathedral to the C.P.R. station, where they took the train for their future home in Winkler. Dr. and Mrs. Cooper have a wide circle of friends in the city who unite in wishing them all happiness in the future.

The bride was a former popular resident of this vicinity.

CALOMEL RUINS THE SYSTEM

And should only be used under a doctor's orders. For a mild physic take Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. No gripe, no pain, certain relief for headache, constipation and torpid liver. Use only Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Price 25c.

SETTLERS' LOW RATES WEST

via the Chicago and North-Western Ry. every day from March 1st to May 15th, 1905, settlers' one way second-class tickets at very low rates from Chicago to points in Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California; also to Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, Rossland and other points in the Kootenay District. Correspondingly low rates from all points in Canada. Write for full particulars and folders to B. H. Bennett, General Agent, 2 East King St., Toronto, Ont.

f18,25,m4,11,18,25,a1

MRS. CHADWICK GUILTY.

JURY CONVICTS ON SEVEN COUNTS OF THE INDICTMENT.

Cleveland, March 12. — The jury in the Cassie Chadwick case arrived at a verdict at 8.30 o'clock last night, finding the woman guilty on seven of the 16 counts of the indictment.

The maximum penalty is 11 years and $70,000 fine, either or both. It is believed that she will get pretty near the limit.

Mrs. Chadwick went into hysterics when the verdict was made known.

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST GERMS.

People With Weak Stomachs Most Liable to Catch Disease.

When the stomach and digestive organs are weak, the food does not digest, and there is a sour, slimy, fermenting mass, making it an ideal spot for the disease germs to multiply. The only way to protect yourself against disease germs is to strengthen the stomach and digestive organs, and Mi-o-na is the only agent, so far as is known, that will accomplish this.

The ordinary medicine that is taken for indigestion and stomach troubles is advertised to act upon the food alone, and hence can give no more than temporary relief. Mi-o-na is a certain cure in all cases of stomach troubles, excepting cancer, because it enables the stomach and digestive organs to act in the way Nature intended they should. Drugs cannot digest the food; they simply decompose it.

If you suffer with distress after eating, pains in the head, chest, sides and back, belching of gases and undigested food, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, or vertigo, heartburn, variable appetite, sick headaches, spots before the eyes, and have a general feeling of despondency, weakness, and debility you should at once strengthen the stomach and digestive system by the use of Mi-o-na. There is no liquid, no alcohol, no spoonful doses with Mi-o-na. Just one simple tablet out of a fifty cent box before eating, and your stomach will soon become so strong and healthy that you will be germ proof. Ask J. S. McKeown to show you the guarantee under which he sells Mi-o-na; costs nothing unless it cures.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions one cent a word. No local charged as less than twenty-five words.

The subscription price of THE DAILY INTELLIGENCER is $3.00 per annum, or 25 cents per month. Subscriptions must be paid strictly in advance.

Members of the Advertising Committee of the Old Boys' Reunion are requested to meet at Mr. Arthur McGie's store at 8 o'clock sharp tonight.

Important. — Parties wishing to sell vacant lots — dwellings for removal — rent or sell residence,—or rent or purchase lot with cottage and barn, address at once — Rev. F. B. Stratton, 668 Princess St., Kingston. 11-2t

Three tramps, all young men, were sheltered in the police station on Saturday night.

The police on Saturday night found two business places insecure.

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all druggists.

DEATHS

HAMILTON.—On Sunday, March 12, 1905, Mrs. Ann Hamilton, widow of the late John Hamilton, aged 83 years.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, March 14, from her late residence, Canifton Road, at 9.00 to St. Michael's Church, thence to the cemetery.

SCHOOL SUITS.

Spring is tip-toeing along and the boys are beginning to appear at school in their new clothes. Your boy is wondering when it will be his turn. Quick & Robertson are ready to rig him out from head to foot. Smart looking, wear resisting suits $2, $3, $4, up to $7. There are many handsome new styles out for Spring wear.

Many a man's character has sustained a severe fracture from a slip of the tongue.

Education gives a woman more words to talk with.

A hero is a man who can listen to an after-dinner speech without looking bored.

HERE'S A HEART POINTER

No beating about the bush for Aaron Nichols—he believes Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart cured his wife, and he says so straight.

"This is to certify that I bought two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the heart for my wife who has been for twenty years a great sufferer from Heart Disease. She had more benefit from it than from all the doctors that have attended her, and I am pleased to give this certificate of its wonderful curative powers."

Aaron Nichols, Peterboro P.O., Ont.

It relieves in thirty minutes. 67

Sold at Geen's drug store and by D. M. Waters.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Dramatic Climax to an Exciting Will Contest Case.

The conversation turned on the momentous effects of trifles at times when they were least expected to have any influence at all, and this reminded Mr. Thompson of an episode in his own practice as a lawyer.

"It was the most exciting legal battle of my life," he said, and every one present begged him to tell it.

"A fight was going on for the possession of a large fortune," continued he, while the others settled themselves for the story. "A wayward son was contesting the will of his father, and the case abounded in dramatic features. Charge and counter charge were frequent. The young man was explosive, hot tempered and without character. How much his family had suffered through him no one ever knew. The young rascal had hoped to get his father's vast fortune, and now he saw the case going against him and the money slipping through his fingers. The last link in the chain of evidence was all that was needed, and that would be supplied by the testimony of his sister. Her name was called, and as she stood up—she was a beautiful creature—there arose a buzz of admiration such as sometimes comes from an audience. She flustered at that and hesitated, then started for the witness stand. I got up as she was passing me, intending to reassure her, and accidentally stepped on her gown. Gowns had a slight train in those days. My awkwardness saved her life."

He paused for a moment to note the effect of his words. "The admiration of those in the courtroom was the final touch to that worthless brother. He sprang up and, drawing a revolver from his pocket, exclaimed, 'Well, if I don't get the money you never will,' and fired at her as she came toward him. My checking her by treading on her gown made her step backward, and the bullet missed her by an inch."—Lippincott's.

BITS FROM THE AUTHORS.

Men succeed quicker without women —especially literary men.—Frank Stanton.

Treachery kills a woman's love, while jealousy will keep it burning.—John Oliver Hobbes.

Each of us is born into a world full of duties and responsibilities which we can only discharge by the strenuous and unremitting use of every waking hour.—W. T. Stead.

The word "society" once meant the whole human family. Now it has come to signify merely those whose receptions and dinners are described in the daily papers.—James L. Ford.

Marriage is the finishing school of life. It puts the final touch to our education, rewards us with happiness if we learn its lessons, punishes us with misery if we fail to profit.—Sarah Grand.

In spite of all the romances, men and women are amazingly indiscriminate in their attachment. They select their wives and husbands far less carefully than they select their cashiers and cooks.—G. Bernard Shaw.

Not a Society Leader.

